Simultaneous with the seizure, the government acted to have its controversy with the company over noncompliance of War Labor Board directives settled in the courts.

Mr. Avery, whom President Roosevelt in a statement accompanying the seizure order termed guilty of "consistent and wilful defiance" of W.L.B. decisions, described Mr. Roosevelt's order in violation of the U.S. constitution and one which the company could not obey.

Mr. Avery, in a statement on the President's order, reiterated his previous stand when the Chicago properties were seized by the government last April — that the President had no authority to seize the "non-war business of Montgomery Ward."

Mr. Roosevelt, in his statement, said the government "can not and will not tolerate any interference with war production in this critical hour" and that Ward's would not be allowed to set aside government wartime policies "just because Mr. Sewell Avery does not approve of the government's procedure for handling Labor disputes."

THOMAS JOSEPH MAHONEY

A lifelong resident of Chandos township, and well known and highly respected in the community, Thomas Joseph Mahoney of Clydesdale, passed away Thursday in St. Joseph's Hospital in Peterborough, at the age of 67. He had been ill only a short time.

Mr. Mahoney was a member of St. Mary's Catholic church in Chandos, and a very devout Christian. Born in Clydesdale, the son of the late Patrick Mahoney and Catherine Twomey, he farmed for many years during his life.

Mr. Mahoney leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife, formerly Mary Hobbins, three sons, Gnr. Joseph R.C.A., Halifax; Michael, and Patrick at home and five daughters, Sister Mary Virginia, of Almonte, Ont., Mrs. Edmund Allen, (Cecilia), of Peterborough, Margaret, Elizabeth, at home, and Reta, of Peterborough. Also surviving are two brothers, Michael, of Idaho, and Edward, of San Francisco, and a sister, Mrs. Margaret Hobbins, of Garden City, Mich.

The funeral will be Tuesday, January 2, at 10 o'clock in the morning, from the family residence in Clydesdale. Rev. Father Masterson of St. Mary's church will conduct the service, and burial will take place in St. Mary's cemetery.

The remains are resting at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Edmund Allen, 245 Lake street, until further notice.

Proposals drafted by H. C. Emmerson, manpower chief at the Labor ministry, are understood to be under study by the cabinet and call-up papers likely will start coming before Jan. 15.

According to one report, 200,000 men will be drafted from industry and 50,000 transferred from other services, including civil defence.

Men aged 35 and over are not likely to be affected by the call-up but may be directed to war work or employment other than present jobs as part of the plan to release for the army men who now are deferred.

7,500 Greeks Are Captured

ATHENS, Dec. 29 — (AP). — British forces opened a three-pronged drive against E.L.A.S. units in the eastern suburbs of Athens today, jumping off after a prolonged artillery barrage in the second phase of operations designed to clear the embattled Greek capital.

Against slight opposition, the British forces advanced from the south through Zappion Park on Ardittos Hill, which changed hands in a mortar duel a week ago.

A Greek mountain brigade meanwhile advanced southward on the suburb of Kissariani — one of the largest E.L.A.S. strongholds in the Athens area.

After taking Addittos Hill, overlooking a former E.L.A.S. strongpoint in the Averoff Stadium, the British troops entered the Pankrati Cemetery, from which E.L.A.S. mortars have been firing into cleared sections across the Phaleron road below the Acropolis.

An E.L.A.S. raid last night on the Greek-held sector of the northwestern slopes of monastery-topped Likabettos was beaten off by British artillery.

An official announcement said 7,500 prisoners have been taken by the British and Greek forces.

A communique said Greek Rightist forces under Gen. Napoleon Zervas, attacked by E.L.A.S. groups last week in northwest Greece, were fighting a hard rearguard action while withdrawing on the Port of Preveza.

In all the cleared areas of the capital and Piraeus some 350,000 civilians received free meals from Allied relief stocks.

Six Americans Are Shot After Capture

SOMEWHERE IN BELGIUM, Dec. 28—(AP)—An army investigation has disclosed the second authenticated case of Germans shooting American prisoners, six being shot near Bastogne, it was announced today.

A survivor said that a lieutenant and five other men, captured in ambush, were lined up and shot after perfunctory questioning. The lieutenant, badly wounded, was kicked in the face while he lay on the ground, but played dead and after the Germans left got back to the American lines.

effort would be insufferable enough to a people struggling through their sixth winter of blackout and blockade and bombs—but when the criticism comes from a nation that was practising cash and carry during the Battle of Britain, whose consumption has risen through the war years, which is still without a national service act—then it is not to be borne.

"The latest turn the criticism has taken is that British policy in Greece and Poland has killed the Atlantic charter, from a country where both political parties were ready to promise, in the hope of securing the electoral vote of New York state, that they would force a wholly Jewish state on the Arab majority in Palestine."

Neither in Greece nor in Poland, the article declares, neither in India nor in Palestine, were the American pronouncements combined with any willingness to get down into the dust of the arena and attempt to work out a policy both right and feasible.

"With every outburst of righteous indignation in America, the ordinary Englishman gets one degree more cynical about America's real intentions of active collaboration, and one degree more ready to believe that the only reliable helping hand is in Soviet Russia," the Economist said.

Clean Up Navy Of Japanese In Another Year

PEARL HARBOR, Dec. 29—(AP)—A major turn in the Pacific war by next summer is foreseen by Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher who helped whip the Japanese decisively in two battles of the Philippines Sea and figures "in another year we should have their navy pretty well cleaned up."

"By next summer, they will be sitting on a decidedly uneasy seat," he told war correespondents yesterday.

On the side of current action, Admiral Nimitz reported the second enemy air raid in three days on the Saipan base of the Superfortresses, now blasting Japan. He also announced another American air blow at Iwo Jima, the volcano island from which the Japanese planes are flying to Saipan.

In the Philippines, Gen. MacArthur reported only mopping-up operations on the ground and the usual sweep of air forces over the archipelago and islands to the south; but a spokesman amplified the Japanese task force attack Tuesday on the United States air base at Mindoro, saying it had been determined the enemy made no attempt to land forces under cover of the shelling.

Mitscher, whose carrier forces crushed the enemy's naval attempt to interfere last June with the invasion of Saipan and helped thwart the Japanese naval effort to interfere in October with the invasion of Leyte, expects another such battle.

"They've reached the point where they'll throw everything in the fight," he said.

Canadian Corps

The Melfa River crossing west of Aquino and Pontecorvo led to the liberation of Ceprano, Frosinone, and Ferentino.

The battle-worn Canadians then went south to rest, regroup, and undergo more training.

However, the 1st Armored Brigade carried on with British 8th Army, slugging north toward Florence. Then following the battle in the Lake Trasimeno area 90 miles north of Rome on June 26, they advanced north to the enemy's Arezzo Line.

Canadian tanks were the first to cross the Arno river into Florence on August 21 after which they continued supporting the thrust by British troops through the strong Gothic-line defences in that sector.

The campaign to pierce the Gothic Line began with the crossing of the Matauro August 26 and within four days the Canadians faced the Foglia river, the Gothic's spine.

After fierce fighting for Montecchino, Polzo Alta and Monte Luro, the Gothic Line's immediate defences were smashed.

There still remained the defences in depth. For the next 20 miles northwest to Rimini the Canadians slugged in bitter ridge-to-ridge battles. The ridge-top town of Coriano was taken by an infantry brigade.

Forced Marano River

This enabled the Canadians to force the Marano River and the crossing was followed by bitter fighting for San Martino, San Lorenzo and the Rimini airport on the right flank.

Rimini itself fell Sept. 21 to Greek troops under Canadian command and the Canadian corps hit the Lombardy plains country the same day the autumn rains came.

Nevertheless the Canadians pushed on, crossed the Rubicon River, reaching first Saint Arcangelo and then Savignano, on the Rimini-Bologna lateral highway. From there it has been a succession of bridgeheads — over the Fiumicino, the Pisciatello, the Savio, the Ronco, and the Bevano, where the Canadians came out of the line for another rest — with the towns of Cesena and Forlimpopoli on the Rimini-Bologna highway to their credit. Cesena fell Oct. 20 and Forlimpopoli Oct. 25.

Returning to action Dec. 1, the Canadians again achieved striking successes. Within 72 hours of breaking out from the Montone river bridgehead, they had liberated the ancient city of Ravenna.

The Lamone was crossed in force against determined resistance Dec. 10. The Canadians also crossed the Vetero and Vecchio canals, reaching the Naviglio canal in their difficult westward push over the water-laced flatlands toward the Po delta.

A bridgehead was thrown over the Naviglio Dec. 12 and next day the Germans counter-attacked 13 times in nine hours. Gen. Sir Richard McCreery, 8th Army commander, congratulated the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment of Picton, Ont., and the Carleton and York regiment of St. Stephen, N. B., for stopping the enemy.

The corps burst out in a mighty effort Dec. 21 and in the subsequent intense battle the Germans cracked under terrific pressure withdrawing to the Senio River, quitting Bagnacavallo nine miles west of Ravenna, and leaving only pockets of resistance behind east of the Senio.

The corps fought under three commanders during the year, Lt. Gen. Crerar, who later became a full general commanding the 1st Canadian Army in Europe, Lt.-Gen. E. L. H. (Tommy) Burns of Westmount, Que., and Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes of London, Ont. Gen. Burns was transferred to the western front to be general officer commanding Canadian lines of communication.

the new offensive have been hard come by. Today we must seek to apply different standards.")

A critical battle was fought in the hamlet of Humain, four miles southwest of Harche and four miles north of Rochefort. The Germans were driven out of the village with planes, artillery, infantry, tank destroyers and finally flame-throwers, and the Americans were firmly in control of the town, including its old chateau where a cornered German group made its last stand.

Celles, where the enemy offensive was stopped, was one of the ghastliest carnage scenes of the war.

Here a German pocket was wiped out, 1,200 prisoners were taken, and 63 enemy tanks, 49 guns and 177 military vehicles littered the terrain.

Another small pocket of infantry and tanks was cleared up in the vicinity of Marche.

Enemy armored columns which fled Jamblinne, five miles west of Rochefort, were chased by American tank formations which claimed more than 1,000 prisoners.

Other columns in the southwestern tip of the salient were isolated near St. Hubert and were fighting a death struggle.

The long, thin corridor by which hard-driving U.S. 3rd Army forces reached the beleaguered 101st U.S. Air-borne Division and other troops in Bastogne, was broadened to six miles wide and six miles deep.

Nine more towns were captured as Lt.-Gen. Patton poured men in, building up this area to a wedge close to the heart of the German bulge, and expanded his grip on the north side of the Sure River to a width of 14 miles.

More Germans were thrown back into Germany in the Echternach area at the southeastern hinge of the Nazi rim.

That was the situation as of 36 hours ago.

16 Miles In Six Days

Given the task of caving in Von Rundsted's southern flank three days after the German offensive started Dec. 16, Gen. Patton had swung his divisions into the battle with a spectacular dash and had hurled the Germans back as much as 16 miles in six days.

The prisoner count in the first seven days of the Patton counter-offensive mounted to 5,351, and Von Rundsted's over-all tank losses from air and ground action mounted to 710—the equivalent of nearly four German armored divisions.

Of these burned-out and disemboweled tanks, 200 alone were counted in Bastogne, 63 more at Celles, and 10 near Hotton on the northwestern rim.

Allied air power had knocked out 3,355 trucks used in the German offensive and 755 planes.

But for the second straight day winter cracked a frozen whip over the front, spreading a fog over the German army's operations and interfering with Allied air attacks.

Patton's powerful armored formations repulsed fresh attacks on their corridor to Bastogne and chewed off the German strongpoints which hemmed in the corridor.

On the west side they reached Sibret, four miles southwest of Bastogne and mopped up Salvacourt and Hompre, three and four miles south of Bastogne.

On the east they captured Sainlex, Livarchamps, Surre, Boulaide, Baschleiden, Bavigne and Kaundorf, from 5½ to 10 miles southeast of Bastogne.

Kaundorf is but 3½ miles southwest of Wiltz in northern Luxembourg, and just to the east the 3rd Army made a new crossing of the Sure River at Esch, three miles south of Wiltz.

Still farther east on this southern flank the Americans reached the Sure on the German border at three more points, including Rosport, three miles east of Echternach.

Echternach itself was disclosed as another point of American resistance after armor again had forged into the town. A small infantry garrison, which had refused to leave the town with a relieving armored force, was not found. All around were stacks of German dead. But there were few khaki-clad dead. Presumably most of the garrison still lived in German prison camps.

According To Plan

The Germans said they had withdrawn "according to plan" in the face of American counter-attacks extending along virtually the entire perimeter of Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's salient, and for the second successive day made no claims of advances.

While Patton's assault appeared to have broken the back of the high-geared Von Rundstedt offensive, front dispatches cautioned that the enemy field marshal might yet lash out with vicious new attempts to extend the bulge or attack in entirely different sector.

The German commander already achieved one of his objectives, however, bringing Patton's Saar drive to a stop and obliging the American general to pull his tanks out of hard-won Dillingen.

Guy B. Peel Is Laid To Rest

Members of the Lakefield branch of the Canadian Legion formed a guard of honor for the funeral of Guy B. Peel at Lakefield on Tuesday. Mr. Peel was one of the first volunteers for service in the First Great War, and had been a resident of Lakefield for the past three years, moving there from Ottawa, and had been prominently connected with the Legion as chairman of the executive committee of Branch No. 77 Lakefield.

The funeral service was held in the Lakefield Baptist church and the Rev. W. S. Watson, pastor of the church, conducted the obsequies, assisted by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist church, Peterborough, a close friend of Mr. Peel.

The Legion, under the presidency of Ellis Simpson, was well represented. During the entire service Sergt. William Amos and Corp. Basil Young, both of 33 Prevost Corps, Ottawa, stood sentinel by the casket.

The pallbearers were Walter Walker and Alex. Nicholls, representing the church, and Reg. Murduff, T Chaplin, Walter Chappell and Hilliard McCracken from the Legion.

Interment was in the Lakefield cemetery with Bugler Gordon Wilson, R.C.A.M.C., from No. 32 Military Training Centre sounding the Last Post.

forced back from Barga had "died down."

The central sector of the 5th Army front south of Bologna also was quiet and the 8th Army front was described by the communique as witnessing only patrol action.

It was reported here however that 8th Army troops still were fanning out in the eastern Po valley. The Germans were reported driven out of Villa Quaglia, four miles northeast of Faenza.

South of the Bologna-Rimini road, the Germans attempted to infiltrate across the Senio but were repulsed.

From captured Faenza on the Bologna-Rimini highway to the Alfonsine area, 17½ miles northeast, Canadian and British forces were mopping up enemy strongpoints.

At the same time strong Allied air and ground forces were reported thrown into the Serchio valley fighting in an effort—now apparently successful—to halt Field Marshal Kesselring's advance near the Tyrrhenian coast.

After two days' fierce fighting U.S. units had been driven from the important road town of Barga.

The new four-day-old German drive south toward Lucca also had pushed Allied forces from the area of Galicano, 2½ miles from Barga on the west bank of the Serchio, before it was slowed.

A Fascist radio broadcast claimed the Germans seized the village of Fornaci, two miles south of Barga.

Headquarters said the area had become fairly quiet except for enemy artillery pounding and some patrol engagements. It was not stated whether this marked a definite end of the German drive along a six-mile front in the Serchio valley which the Fascist radio said had resulted in "heavy losses of men and material" to the 5th Army.

mon. A physician administered a sedative. Finally a wrecker moved the tender sufficiently to free the fireman, but he had died.

Trenton townspeople first on the scene after the wreck used shovels and broken pieces of rail for nearly an hour trying to dig their way under the overturned tender.

At 12:45 a.m., skilled workmen with torches arrived and began cutting away the sides of tender. At two o'clock they got their first sight of Harmon.

"I can't last much longer," he told rescuers, "please hurry."

Dr. W. C. Dudeck of Trenton crawled into the narrow opening to administer sedatives. Sparks from the torches flew about Harmon's head. He lost consciousness. Snow was thrown on his clothing to keep it from igniting. When Harmon regained consciousness liquor and hot coffee were given him through rubber tubing. At 5:30, just as the last piece of steel was cut away Harmon died.

TORONTO, Dec. 29 — (CP). — Stocks registered a stronger note this afternoon on Toronto Exchange. Gains predominated, especially in golds. Volume was 314,000 shares.

The market was strong for Yellowknife. Frobisher and Giant gained 20 cents and Conwest, Bear, Negus and Transcontinental resources all moved upward on good volume.

Lake Dufault, Nickel and Ventures were stronger base metals.

Steels, liquors and papers held a margin of gains over losses.

Cattle Market Fails To Hold Gains Of Week

TORONTO, Dec. 29 — (CP) — Cattle prices opened higher, but closed with all the early gain lost, in trade on the Livestock Market here this week. Calves, hogs and sheep were steady while lambs were 50 cents cwt. higher in spots.

Tuesday's cattle market was active on a moderate supply with the prices from 25 to 50 cents a cwt. higher on steers and heifers. The advance attracted too many cattle for Wednesday and the gain was unsold. Choice weighty steers reached $13.25 on Tuesday and closed at $12.75 to $13.

Other steers sold downward to $11. Butcher steers closed at $10 to $12, with heifers from $11.50 down. Butcher cows were $7 to $9.25, canners and cutters sold at $5.50 to $6.75. Bulls were $6.50 to $8.50, and fed yearlings $12 to $13.50. A few stockers and feeders sold at $8 to $9.75. Milker and springer sales were too few to establish prices. A few hundred head were unsold at the market close.

Calves were $16 to $16.50 for choice with common vealer downward to $9 and a few grassers at $6.50.

Lambs were strong on light supply at $13 to $13.50 for good ewes and wethers with bucks at $12 to $12.50 and culls from $6 to $9 cwt. Sheep were $2 to $5 cwt. A few choice Southdown lambs sold up to $15 cwt.

Hogs sold at $18.35 for Grade A dressed and $17.95 for Grade B. Sos were $13.25 dressed.

Former Port Hope Boy Killed In Action

PORT HOPE, Dec. 29. — Information was received on Tuesday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Fair, Brown Street, Bowmanville, that their son, Flying Officer William Reginald Fair, a native of Port Hope, had been killed in action.

His family believe the young man had been flying from an air field in Italy, but have no further information.

FO. Fair, who would have been 23 years old in February, spent his early life in Port Hope, later moving to Oshawa and then to Bowmanville where the family now resides. At the time of his enlistment 18 months ago, he was employed in the General Motors plant, Oshawa.

Besides his parents he has five sisters in Bowmanville, as well as a brother, Guardsman James Fair, now serving with the Canadian Grenadier Guards in Belgium.

His grandmother, Mrs. William Trenouth, resides in Port Hope, also two uncles, Albert and John Trenouth.

WHY NAZIS GAMBLE IN DRIVE — Military observers abroad are of the opinion that the explanation of the present German counter-offensive lies in the east. Russian railway construction and concentration of supplies have reached tremendous proportions now that the ground has hardened. Gen. Von Rundstedt, fearful of being caught between grand scale offensives on two fronts, appears to have started his present drive in the west to destroy the huge amount of Allied supplies there before the Soviet forces are able to attack him in the east. Achievement of this aim would give him time to swing his forces to the east while Allied armies would be stalled by heavy losses of men and equipment. Arrows show the direction of the Nazi attack and probable route of Red drives.

Seventy-Four Canadians Decorated For Outstanding Service In Italian Hostilities Theatre Of War

U.S. Believes Germans Will Make Another Effort

By ELTON C. FAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—(AP).—A belief the Germans will make at least one more major effort to break out of their salient before starting a general withdrawal in Belgium was expressed in more cautious military circles here today.

This idea was entertained despite late reports of German withdrawal of armor from the areas at the southwestern corner of the penetration and the successes of U.S. 3rd Army elements moving up from the south.

There is an inclination to keep a wary eye on enemy activities along the front north of the salient, where the 1st Canadian and British 2nd Armies are fighting. There German patrol and other activity has taken curious form within the last two days. This could indicate several things.

1. That the enemy is studying the Allied situation in that area with a possible view to throwing out an offensive operation. This might be aimed in a general southwestward direction toward Liege, with the intention of cutting back of the Allies' northern flank on the salient, thus endangering it and forcing a withdrawal.

2. That the enemy merely seeks to keep the Allies in uncertainty by threatening such a move with a demonstration of patrol activity.

3. That the enemy himself is seek-

Municipalities Prepare For Elections

Following the trend occasioned by the war, only three of the municipalities in Peterborough County are holding elections on New Year's Day. Ten others had their councils and reeves returned by acclamation at the nominations, December 24.

North Monaghan, Lakefield and Dummer expect spirited elections, and Cavan in Durham County and Hastings in Northumberland also have municipal contests screduled.

The annexation of a large part of North Monaghan by the city has meant quite a change in the electoral body and this year a reeve and four councillors will be voted on. Melville H. Johnston, the present reeve, and Alex Archibald, deputy reeve, are both running for the position of reeve.

There are eight contestants trying for four seats on the council; W. G. Waterman, Frank Millard, James S. Roberts, A. J. Arnott, Eric McKinstry, H. F. Doig, Archie Patterson and G. N. Moncrief.

Five candidates are entered on the slate for the four seats on the school board. They are: Walter Woods, Frank D. Dawson, Cyril E. Barnes, Ernest Horton and George M. Sage. Fred Stinson is the only old member of the board, and he has one year to serve.

Gordon Scriver and Charles Tanner of Lakefield are opponents for the reeveship of that village and five nominees are entered in the councillors field. They are George Charlton, George Graham, W. C. Grant, Reg Doubt and Fred Wicket.

In Dummer township, William Darling and Stewart Clysdale have been nominated for the office of reeve, and the following men are trying for positions on the council: Percy Ball, George Hamblin, Marmion Clements, Allen Oliver, Wesley Chamberlain and Walter Sloane.

Although Stanley Stevenson became reeve of Hastings by acclamation candidates for council have forced an election January 1. Those running are G. Walker, Iden Bonds, Sr., Ross Burnham, Arthur Orr, Jack Brinklow, Francis Kennedy and Walter Peck.

Reeve John Smith and Deputy Reeve Harold Cathcart of Cavan were returned to office by acclamation at the nominations a week ago. However there is an election for the councillors and those standing for election are: Joe Thorne, Richard Earle, Robert Armstrong, Delbert Olan, Norman Earle, and S. C. Boyle.

Germans Told Retreat Is Result Of Plan

By ROMNEY WHEELER.

LONDON, Dec. 29 — (AP). — Berlin radio said last night Field-Marshal von Rundstedt's spearheads had been withdrawn in both the west and south, "according to plan" under counter-attacks by the United States 1st and 3rd Armies.

As a result of heavy American reinforcements, Berlin said, "the battle yesterday became stationary on the whole front."

"Then," this account continued, "as Gen. Eisenhower was able to fling the weight of his air power into the fighting, the foremost of the German spearheads were taken back to the main fighting line—in the west and on the southern flank—according to plan.

"Thus, in addition to avoiding German losses, American counter-attacks could better be met with concentrated forces."

Home Front Gloomy.

The news for the German home front was the gloomiest since the surprise offensive broke 13 days ago.

For the second day in a row the German High Command had no gains to report. Berlin admitted that the American garrison at Bastogne had been relieved, and that ground was lost in Northern Luxembourg.

The enemy agency DNB also reported the loss of Echternach, a Luxembourg town at the German frontier, 17 miles north-east of the Duchy's capital, "after hard fighting, costly for both sides."

(The Allies never conceded the loss of Echternach, although German columns early in the offensive had it virtually encircled.)

In Luxembourg, DNB said, the Germans had fallen back on "screening tactics" in the face "of Allied attacks in very great strength, which were backed by the fighters, bombers and artillery."

Highlanders in Action.

German broadcasts said General Eisenhower had concentrated 24 tank divisions and "heavy offensive formations, with which he hopes to regain the initiative."

DNB said these included the famed British 51st (Highland) Division, which fought with valor in the first battle of France in 1940, helped chase Rommel across Tunisia, fought in Sicily, and went into Normandy shortly after D-Day.

(This gallant division, which fought almost to the last man at St. Valery, France, in 1940, and was reformed after Dunkirk, has not been mentioned by the Allies as being in action since it took part with the 1st Canadian Army troops in the assault and capture of Le Havre last September.)

Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, the German High Command spokesman, sought to reassure the home front by saying Von Rundstedt foresaw that the Allies "would exploit their superiority" in men, material and air power once "they had overcome the first shock of surprise."

Unable to report ground gains, DNB turned to recounting alleged American losses.

It claimed the United States 9th Armored Division and the 4th, 28th and 10th Infantry Divisions either were "wiped out or reduced to minimum strength."

A Transocean broadcast claimed the Americans "have lost half a tank division during the last 68 hours and the Germans are using special anti-tank trains which are equipped with famous rocket firing close-range weapons."

Enterprise...

AND THE CHALLENGE OF TOMORROW

CANADA'S pioneers, despite varying origins and backgrounds, had one thing in common—Enterprise—the greatest force for progress ever known.

Enterprise which discovered and explored Canada, developed and utilized her resources, built her cities and populated her domain.

Enterprise which enabled General Motors to become, in peace, producer of over a million civilian cars and trucks—in war, a mighty arsenal forging front-line weapons for a fighting people.

To meet the challenge of tomorrow, the enterprise and initiative of General Motors will create better, safer transportation, link communities more closely together, provide faster, easier distribution of goods, thus helping ensure this nation and her people of a rich and splendid future worthy of a rich and splendid heritage.

Service Newspaper Talks Out Of Turn

The United States Army and Navy Journal, in a recent editorial, accused Great Britain of "greater preoccupation with preserving Empire lifelines than with the defeat of Germany". Had such criticism been made by a civilian newspaper, it could be appraised at its true value as an expression of that newspaper's opinion. Coming from a service journal, however, there is the unfortunate but understandable tendency on the part of many readers to consider the criticism an authoritative reflection of opinion held by the United States military and naval high commands.

This tendency may be explained in part by the existence in other nations of service journals whose editorial opinion actually does represent the thinking of the high command of the service in question. This method of indirect expression of opinion, generally accepted and often proved, has induced forgetfulness of the fact that freedom of speech in a democracy extends even to service journals. The opinions these journals express are undoubtedly those of the editors, but they are by no means necessarily those of the heads of the service involved. Still less would they represent the consensus among those heads or the considered opinion of the government of the nation.

No great effort is necessary to prove this contention. On and off the record, the opinions of Generals George Catlett Marshal and Dwight Eisenhower about Britain and the British are well known. And those opinions are so flattering that the average Briton would hesitate to repeat them, even though they were originally uttered by men of another nation. The two ranking officers mentioned above speak primarily for the land services. In the air, Generals Arnold and Spaatz—again both off and on the record—have expressed warm admiration for Britain's contribution, and have admitted freely that their knowledge of aerial warfare has been both broadened and sharpened by their contact with the R.A.F.

As far as the naval arm of the United States is concerned, it seems determined to merit the "silent service" tag borne by the Royal Navy. Neither Admiral King nor his executive staff has expressed opinion one way or another in public. However, the presence of Admiral King at practically every conference where Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt met, and the high esteem in which the admiral is known to be held by Mr. Churchill, tell their own story. Apart from a natural desire to see his own navy finish the job against Japan, it may be taken for granted that Admiral King has no quarrel with the naval contribution of his country's British ally.

It all seems to boil down to the fact that the editors of a service journal said their piece and said it out of turn. We doubt very much if any great harm will result, particularly since the Stars and Stripes, an American active service newspaper, has unhesitatingly repudiated the stand taken by its contemporary and has published an appreciation of the British war effort remarkable for its honesty and deep sincerity. We would not for a moment advocate an imposition of censorship which would deprive any service newspaper in a democracy of any portion of its right to freedom of expression, but we feel quite free to deplore the exceptionally poor judgement and disregard of evidence shown by the editors of the Army and Navy Journal and to advise our readers not to interpret such expressions of opinion as in any way official.

Norwegian government is calling for an Allied invasion of that country. The Allies would doubtless be glad to be in a position to co-operate with that request immediately.

New House—Old Design

A committee of the British House of Commons has been busy making plans for the rebuilding of that great edifice. They have gone about their work in the spirit of Winston Churchill's dictum that "Logic is a poor guide compared to custom; we must beware of needless innovation, especially when guided by logic". It would have been logical to rebuild the Commons on a much larger scale, with a seat for every member, and perhaps with the semicircular form which has been so popular with other legislative bodies. But the British have decided to build their House, as before, with 370 seats to accommodate 615 members, with the old dimensions of 68 feet by 45½; and with the government and opposition facing each other, with Mr. Speaker in the middle. True, there will be some modern comforts; the heating and the ventilation will be vastly improved; there will be 161 seats in the press gallery, instead of 93 as before; there will be no grilled ladies' gallery, in which female visitors sit as though in purdah; there will be a special gallery for Princess Elizabeth who, as heir apparent, will have her seat directly opposite Mr. Speaker. And the Commons will be well lighted, and not dingy as before.

The British like 'atmosphere', and they think that they can get it better when they are at close quarters, and when two hundred members or so are crowded uncomfortably behind the Bar, instead of sitting in comfortable chairs. They like to debate in a conversational tone, and not in a shout, and so they have kept their Commons small. Anybody who pays a visit to our own Commons in Ottawa will see the wisdom of what they have done. Our House is rarely full, and not one member in fifty can be heard in its immensity; very often Mr. Speaker himself cannot hear what is being said. Rapid interchanges and intimate debate are impossible in such a hall. Perhaps it would have been unwise for us to copy the crowded quarters of the British House, but there is no doubt that we have more room in our own than we need.

The new House will cost five million dollars, and the architect is to be Sir Giles Scott, who has a good reputation as a designer of public buildings. Obviously the committee trust him to build a modern House of Commons without sacrificing the atmosphere without which that House cannot function in comfort.

A Greater Peterborough

On New Year's Day the suburban area of the township of North Monaghan will become a part of the city of Peterborough, thus culminating a project that has been under discussion in both municipalities for a number of years. Peterborough's present population, according to the latest assessment figures, is 28,031 and the annexed area has 4,348, making a city population after January 1 of 32,379.

The change in status will mean much to the new area; the city has services to offer which could not be provided by the township authorities. They will be assured of more adequate police protection, fire protection, garbage collection, better health service and fuller educational facilities which only cities can offer. These are some of the immediate benefits. Water and sewer services, better streets and lighting will come later.

There will be many immediate results but the others will require time to plan and put into effect especially when there is a shortage of labour and building materials are difficult to obtain.

Since September 1 the Peterborough Board of Education has been operating the two schools and many public school supporters have expressed approval of the services provided. But the schools are crowded both in the city and suburban area and many adjustments will necessary have to be made from time to time. This new area will have a voice on the 1945 Board of Education, with the chairman of the Township Schools Board becoming a member of the Peterborough Board.

The Examiner welcomes these residents from North Monaghan. We believed that annexation was the only solution of many of the difficulties which faced them and we feel sure that with all working together a much larger and better Peterborough will be the result.

Urge Completion Of Trent Canal

The Orillia Board of Trade has prepared for the Canadian Chamber of Commerce a memorandum urging building of the locks on the Severn as a post war measure in order that the Trent Waterway may be finally completed.

FORTUNATELY, there still remain considerations which justify both the capital and maintenance expenditures of the Trent Waterway. Aside altogether from the question of navigation, the water regulation on a system extending for hundreds of miles through Central Ontario is of the utmost importance, both from the standpoint of flooding and of providing electric energy for a score or more of towns and villages along the route. The floods that occur along the Grand River, the Thames and other rivers are indications of what would happen if the spring freshets on this much vaster water system were not controlled. This benefit is not confined to the Lake Ontario watershed. On one occasion, rival interests on Lake Simcoe and the Severn River met at Washago with dynamite and shotguns, one side prepared to blow out dams and the other determined to prevent them from doing so. A magistrate had to read the Riot Act, literally, and threaten violent measures to keep the peace. All this is a forgotten memory, except for a few old stagers, since the river was canalized and the lakes regulated. And today, Orillia, Peterborough, Midland, Barrie, Lindsay, Campbellford and other towns would frequently find themselves short of power for their industries if the surplus spring water was not stored and fed in a regulated flow. For this purpose, the dams along the canal are essential.

It is asking a good deal of a canal blocked at one end to show any considerable amount of traffic. Yet, prior to the war and depression, the Department's statistics showed a not inconsiderable use of the Waterway, even though there could be no commercial through traffic. At one time the lock at Port Severn had more lockages in a season than any other lock on the Canadian canals, and more passengers were reported as passing through the locks on the Trent Canal than through the St. Lawrence canals.

Even at the northern end, which is blocked for all but small craft, there is considerable traffic, as the subjoined figures show. It is, of course only fair to judge by the lockage prior to the outbreak of war, since gas and other restrictions have greatly cut down the operations of vessels of the dimensions and character that make use of the marine railways.

| | 1939 | 1940 | 1941 | 1942 | 1943 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Couchiching Lock | 645 | 513 | 454 | 256 | 298 |
| Swift Rapids Marine Railway | 929 | 817 | 750 | 594 | 613 |
| Big Chute Marine Railway | 964 | 851 | 875 | 597 | 565 |
| Port Severn Lock | 1626 | 1376 | 1237 | 775 | 849 |

That not all, nor even half, the traffic is pleasure craft is shown by the following figures:

| | Commercial Craft | Pleasure Craft |
|---|---|---|
| Couchiching Lock | 221 | 136 |
| Swift Rapids Marine Railway | 360 | 358 |
| Big Chute Marine Railway | 219 | 395 |
| Port Severn Lock | 590 | 372 |

That there should be so much commercial traffic over a section of the Waterway largely restricted to vessels that can make use of the marine railways is remarkable, and in itself indicates the potentialities of the route if it were opened to through traffic. The present business is chiefly for the settlements along the Severn River.

The commercial possibilities of the Waterway are further illustrated by the fact that it enabled Orillia to boast the chief shipbuilding plant in the Dominion of Canada for Great Lakes and ocean going pleasure vessels, where for years were built luxurious pleasure cruisers for Lake Ontario, the St. Lawrence and for Florida and other United States points. There have been as many as three of them on the stocks at once. Commercial craft were also built for the Atlantic Coast and for as far away as Vancouver. The depression put a stop to the pleasure craft type of shipbuilding for the time being, but the plant still did considerable business in small launches and in storing and overhauling numbers of motor boats from Lake Ontario points. Since the war came the same plant has built five Fairmiles, besides a number of smaller naval craft.

But it is as a tourist waterway that the route offers its greatest potentialities. Already in the 1920s it had attained considerable popularity. There have been in port at Orillia at one time as many as ten motor vessels, some of them quite large cruisers. One from as far as Bermuda, and others from American ports along the lower lakes. This trade would undoubtedly be vastly increased if the Waterway were open at its northern end. This would not only give access to the pleasure craft that swarm on the Upper Great Lakes. Many of the owners of visiting craft regretted that they had to turn back to Lake Ontario over the route by which they had come. Out for a summer's cruise, they would have preferred to have followed through to the Georgian Bay and thence home by way of the Welland Canal.

There is another possibility in connection with the development of the Waterway as an adjunct to the tourist trade, and that is the opening of a short subsidiary water route into the Muskoka Lakes. This would add immensely to the drawing power of the Waterway for tourists. A preliminary survey of this route, which would run through Morrison and Muldrew Lakes and tributary streams, to Gravenhurst, was made in 1917, but no further steps have been taken.

Twenty-five years ago, to suggest that the Trent Waterway should be completed and maintained as a tourist route would have been decried as absurd. But her tourist attractions are now recognized as one of Canada's chief natural resources, and the tourist trade as one of the main sources of national income. Plans for its development have an important place in postwar reconstruction. The most frequently heard reason for the scores of millions of dollars it is proposed to spend on motor highways is that they will attract and serve tourists.

The Trent Waterway has a unique attraction for that considerable and very desirable tourist class who prefer to enjoy their vacation in leisurely cruising on well appointed and comfortable motor craft, rather than in rushing along paved highways. From this point of view the Trent Waterway has no rival on the continent. Stretching for 240 miles across Central Ontario, the Waterway unfolds to the visitors an ever changing panorama of peaceful and alluring beauties. At intervals are towns and other points of interest (such as the lift-locks peculiar to this "canal") to add diversity and piquancy to the journey. Given adequate publicity (which it has never had), and with the route opened at its northern end, the Waterway would become a lucrative addition to Ontario's tourist attractions. And all for an added capital expenditure of $3,000,000, which would build scarcely 150 miles of highway. There need be no material addition to the present maintenance cost.

The tourist trade has become one of the chief sources of income for the territory through which the Waterway passes. Practically all the lakes along the route are now surrounded by cottages, and there are summer resorts at short intervals. This is paticularly the case at the northern end, now shut off from connection with the Georgian Bay. The country round Lake Simcoe, Lake Couchiching and Sparrow Lake is one vast summer resort district, from which the towns, villages and farming community on their shores draw a large share of their income. The lower Severn, which, when Mr. Emmerson made his trip by war canoe in 1906 was a wilderness between Sparrow Lake and Gloucester Pool, is now lined with cottages, to majority of which access is by water only. There is no doubt that, with locks on this river completed, many pleasure yachts would come up from the Georgian Bay to cruise on Lake Simcoe, second largest of old Ontario's interior lakes, with its hundreds of miles of beautiful shore line, even if they went no further. This trip would involve comparatively few lockages.

WHAT IS PROPOSED

What the Board of Trade suggests is that the two locks at the Big Chute should be built and the one at the Swift Rapids completed as part of the Dominion's post-war construction program. The work would provide a large amount of employment relative to the expenditure, estimated at $3,000,000. The question of whether the fourth lock, leading into Honey Harbour, should be constructed could be left for decision until it was seen whether the demand would justify the added expenditure. In the meantime the Port Severn lock would accommodate vessels up to 100 feet in length and 25 feet beam, as against 134 feet over all and 33 feet beam as the minimum on the remainder of the route.

Likewise, the Muskoka Lake branch would in time follow as a natural development if the hopes as to the effect in attracting cruising tourists should be realized.

In this statement of the case for completing the Trent Waterway by opening the northern outlet the Orillia Board of Trade has confined its argument largely to conditions on the northern watershed, with which we are familiar.

Throughout the years Peterborough has taken a foremost part in its advocacy of the Waterway, and we believe that city has benefited materially from its connection with Lake Ontario and is desirous of extending that connection to the Georgian Bay. For a statement of the case from their point of view we would suggest that you should communicate with the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

GREAT CHANGES ON THE FARM

Sir,—I notice an item in your Ottawa news, in which the Canadian Press looks ahead, along the farm front, and concludes along the following striking lines: "But down on the farm the changes will be without number. Authorities in all provinces agree that young people who have been in the forces and war industry will not be satisfied with shacks and oil lamps when they return to the farm. They will demand electricity, plumbing, good roads, and community centres where they can enjoy the amenities of life on a basis comparable to that of city residents".

I would like to say that I approve of those social aims, although I seldom see a farm or a farmer, because I have a keen appreciation of the position of this basic industry—normally employing every third worker in the Dominion—in Canadian economy, and its role in the attainment of the post-war objective of "full employment" for urban workers.

The situation will call for some high-class social engineering, if one may be guided by the immense productivity of the nation's farms during these war years, with an estimated 450,000 rural Canadians off the farms and "doing their bit" in the armed forces and the factories? These latter are, obviously, the pick of the crop, in terms of energy, intelligence, and rural training. They hold within their ranks the chief hope of bringing farm life into a fairer alignment with the conditions obtaining in town and city. For a variety of reasons, it seems to this reader, urban Canadians will be showing real wisdom by supporting the governments' plans to move so-called "surplus" food into the United Nations' fight against human hunger. Canada has, of course, an immense stake in getting the obstacles removed from the trading channels generally; but particularly in dredging the wheatstream between the world's ports? Our share of that vital tonnage (under the terms of the internaional wheat accord) has been set at 40 per cent. If 500 million bushels of "world wheat" move in a given year, Jack Canuck's share will be 200 million bushels. On the other hand, if we can get back to the 1,000-million-bushel level of 1928, 400 million bushels of our breadgrain will move. I see there, the difference between a depressed and prosperous Canada.

FREEDOM.

$14,000 NAIL

The hazards on the farm were again demonstrated by the death recently at Chicago of the famous Canadian Holstein bull, Montvic Renown, which sold for the Canadian record price of $14,000 two years ago at Brantford, Ont. ### CHRISTMAS TREE EXPORTS

About this time every year many carloads of Christmas trees move out of New Brunswick for Boston, New York, Philadelphia and other cities in the United States. Simultaneously, the old debate bursts forth: Should we, or should we not, ship small evergreens across the border as Christmas trees?

Dyed-in-the-wool conservationists say no—that the small trees should be left until they grow up, fill out, and become marketable timber. Those identified with the Christmas tree trade have a different story. They say spruce and fir symmetrical enough to be sold as Christmas trees can only be found in clearings, and that the trees have to be cut anyway to keep the clearings clear, so that the Christmas tree business has no bearing on our forest resources.

We asked a forestry expert whether the farmers wouldn't profit more by letting the trees mature. "That," he said, "can be argued either way—pro or con. A Christmas tree grows in ten years, where it takes 40 or 50 years to get a good-sized stick of pulpwood and lots longer to get a log. If you say Christmas trees shouldn't be cut, you might as well say a farmer shouldn't sell baby beets—that he should let them become big beets before he harvested them. And then there's the other side of the argument...."—Saint John Telegraph-Journal.

'A PAIN IN THE NECK'

(Letter in Minneapolis Star Journal)

Sir,—It seems to be open season on England. Lots of people are mad at her because she doesn't do everything the way we want it done. Dr. Goebbels wins again. He said he would split us eventually. Looks like he has.

I don't see why the British bother with us. Why don't they tie up with Russia, and let us go peddle our papers in self-righteous isolation? In that case, of course, we wouldn't have them to hold the fort for us in the next war while we get ready.

"Oh, yeah, look at all the lend-lease we gave them!"

Lend-lease my foot! While we gave them materials, they gave their lives—men, women and children. If we gave them lend-lease from now till doomsday, we could never repay them. If they hadn't stopped the Germans at the English Channel, we would be invaded right now, by Germany and Japan.

Our big trouble is that we haven't an ounce of gratitude. Personally, I think we are a pain in the neck.

DON CARSON.

Minneapolis.

A Bible Message

And it came to pass also on another sabbath, that he entered into the synagogue and taught: and there was a man whose right hand was withered. And the scribes and Pharisees watched him, whether he would heal on the sabbath day; that they might find an accusation against him. But he knew their thoughts, and said to the man which had the withered hand, Rise up, and stand forth in the midst. And he arose and stood forth.

Then said Jesus unto them, I will ask you one thing; Is it lawful on the sabbath day to do good, or to do evil! to save life, or to destroy it? And looking round about upon them all, he said unto the man, Stretch forth thy hand. And he did so: and his hand was restored whole as the other. And they were filled with madness; and communed one with another what they might do to Jesus. (Luke 6: 6-11.)

This is a "nut" story from America.

Two screwballs lived on a farm and one day, while he was passing a beehive, the smaller screwball was stung on the ear by a bee.

The unfortunate nut galloped into the house, swearing vigorously.

"Darn those bees!" he howled. "I was passing the beehive and one of the bees caught hold of my ear."

The second nut appeared interested.

"Is that so?" he cried curiously. "What did he have to say?"

So much litter disfigured the parade ground that the orderly officer put a squad on to tidy it up. They did their best, but the day was windy and the debris frolicsome.

"Finished?" asked the officer, when the corporal in charge reported to him. "Everything picked up?"

"Yes, sir," was the reply, "all except one dirty bit of paper which blew in at the window of the colonel's office, sir."

"Well, get it out, man!"

"I can't, sir—he's just signed it."

Two small boys—aged four and six—had been chastised and packed off to bed in a very sulky mood. Their mother, in the next room, could hear the voices of her offspring.

"Do you", asked the younger, "love our mother?"

There was a long silence, while mamma breathed heavily in suspense.

"Well", said the elder, very grudgingly, "I like her cooking!"

We Think We're Badly Off

"Nothing in the shops," people say. Well, perhaps not; but before we begin pitying ourselves, or thinking how badly off we are, let us try to consider the trials of other people. They are greater than ours. Before us as we write is a piece in the London Economist telling of conditions in London. One of the things it says is that out of more than 800,000 homes damaged by the robot bombs less than 180,000 will be repaired by Christmas, this meaning open windows and leaky roofs in the case of tens of thousands of them. To make matters worse, there is a shortage of coal; and the Economist says grimly that an extra eightpence worth of meat and extra supplies of margarine and sugar will hardly compensate for leaking roofs and empty cellars.

That is the British position, on the eve of this Christmas. Yet bad as it is, it is as nothing compared to that of millions all over Europe who on this Christmas Day will know or experience little other than hunger and cold and life as refugees on the roads, or perhaps death from war or pestilence.

Nothing in our shops! No silk stockings! A shortage of gifts! Thus we talk; with the very nature of our complaints telling how fortunate we are, and how remote in our thoughts from the real tragedies of this war.

Instead of complaining it is on our knees we should be in prayer for those who are truly suffering, and in gratitude for the things vouchsafed to us.—Ottawa Journal.

T.C.A. Preparing For Post-War Air Services

The outstanding trend in commercial air affairs during the past year has been the consideration given to post war civil aviation. The war has now advanced to a point where concrete planning and agreement on the future of post war commercial aviation can be undertaken realistically. Indeed such activity is a present necessity because the economic foundations of a peaceful world will undoubtedly find much of their strength or their weakness in the use to which mankind puts its skies, while international goodwill and the avoidance of future armed conflicts will likewise be dependent upon sane organization of the air.

At, Montreal a conference of the Commonwealth and Empire nations was held to deal with Commonwealth organization and communications and immediately thereafter at Chicago a World Conference, composed of representatives of 52 United Nations and Neutrals, sat for over six weeks. At these major conferences great work was done both on the organization and technical sides. A World Convention was signed giving birth to the International Civil Aviation Organization. While complete agreement on various phases was not reached, there was an international standardization of technical equipment and procedures, a meeting of minds on some of the broader problems of post war aviation and matters of difference were referred to an interim council for further study and report. The foundations have therefore been laid.

Both at the Commonwealth gathering and at the Chicago Conference Canada played a leading role out of proportion to its population but commensurate with its aviation experience and potentialities. Few nations are more aware of the transportation realities of tomorrow and none have devoted more thought and energy in its preparation.

Trans-Canada Air Lines, as the designated instrument of the Canadian Government in both international and main line domestic operations, is in the midst of this activity. Its role is not a passive one. Not only is the Company accumulating its seventh year of experience on a far-flung transcontinental route, but it has already become a veteran of wartime North Atlantic flying and many members of its staff have participated as experts in international discussions.

When the time comes for aviation's full peace-time fruition, T.C.A. hopes to be ready. Its record is indicative of the skills that have been acquired by the airline since its birth in the summer of 1937.

The Canadian Government Trans-Atlantic Air Service, a scheduled operation undertaken by T.C.A. quite apart from the domestice services, accelerated the carriage of passengers on urgent war business, of high priority freight and of mail bound to and from Canada's armed forces overseas. Although operating under great difficulties, the addition of more modified Lancaster-type aircraft, more flight crews and more trained maintenance personnel resulted in increased schedules. Individual mail loads of as much as three tons were commonplace. Existing non-stop flight records were battered on several occasions.

Traffic continued to mount as it has during each of T.C.A.'s seven years of life. — although not to the same extent as in the past due to near capacity utilization of available aircraft. Passengers numbered 157,800, an increase of 17,524. Mail weighed 3,818,700 pounds, an increase of 92,093. Express weighed 903,300 pounds, an increase of 81,694. (Figures for the last two months are estimated).

Prospects for 1945 are conditional upon the overall war picture. T.C.A. has very concrete ideas for peacetime international operations. Planned expansions and developments will be implemented as soon as conditions warrant. At home, a direct Winnipeg-Edmonton service will be begun immediately upon the completion of the required airport and navigational facilities along that route; other additional schedules are contemplated.

The whole T.C.A. organization is an alert one with a keen sense of its responsibilities. It will endeavour in the future as in the past to serve the Canadian people in ever greater measure and so desire continuation of the valued confidence of Canadians.

KING TALKS TO THE WORLD—In this Canadian Marconi picturegram the King is shown making his world broadcast on Christmas Day.

The Farmer "Down Under"

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

THE Canadian farmer is told by Mr. Coldwell that he should envy and then adopt the socialistic system already applied to the farmers of New Zealand. But the New Zealand farmer, according to Gordon Ross, M.P. for Moose Jaw, envies the Canadian farmer and is greatly dissatisfied with conditions at home.

Mr. Ross, a practical farmer, went to Australia and New Zealand this year with other Canadian parliamentarians to study the effect of socialistic remedies on agriculture. His report on the prices received by farmers in Australia and New Zealand and on the prices they must pay for machinery already has been summarized in these columns. It showed that the farmer "down under" receives far less for his products than the Canadian farmer and pays far more for his machinery.

The attitude of the farmer in New Zealand and Australia towards the present experiment in socialism (which Mr. Coldwell advocates here) is best expressed by his attitude towards the government.

"In both New Zealand and Australia," Mr. Ross reports in a pamphlet which he has prepared, "the opposition to the socialist governments is made up of farmers. The farmers are the people who are suffering. I was questioned by the heads of farm organizations in both countries and I told them the exact situation of the farmer in Canada and the prices he was getting. They all envied the position of Canadian farmers and they said they wished they could persuade their governments to give the farmers that kind of generous treatment."

"Australia, New Zealand and Canadian farm products are being sold on the same market. It costs a bit more to get the produce of Australia and New Zealand to Great Britain than it does Canadian goods, and Canada sells on the British market at the same price these other Dominions receive. The difference in conditions in these three countries is that the government of Canada is bonusing practically every farm product in Canada and the Canadian farmer thus is getting a higher price for his produce than the British market is paying, whereas in Australia and New Zealand the farmer gets the price for his product that is paid on the British market, less the handling costs and carrying charges to Great Britain.

"We have been told by people in Canada for the last two or three years that, under socialistic governments, the farmers are better off in New Zealand and Australia. I am sorry to have to report that this is not true. If Canadian farmers have been privileged to accompany me they would have found the evidence against this theory. We have been told, too, that if governments went into business and produced farm machinery we would get it much cheaper. The government of Australia is in the farm implement business, is producing farm implements in competition with two Canadian companies, but the prices in Australia and New Zealand are higher thas they are in Canada."

In New Zealand, Mr. Ross says all farm workers are unionized and there are minimum wages on the farm, set by the government. The minimum wage on New Zealand dairy farms is $55 a month in Canadian money, plus a month's holiday a year. The actual going wage is $60 a month or better. "With butter fat selling at 28½ cents per pound for a top," Mr. Ross adds, "this wage appeared to be too high for the farmer to pay, yet the farmer can hire only union workers."

"If the farmers of western Canada ever allow the closed shop and checkoff to be applied to agriculture," Mr. Ross warns, "they will begin to suffer in the same way as the Australian and New Zealand farmers are suffering today. The farmers of Canada should begin a study of these questions at once if they wish to avoid being subjected to the same conditions that prevail in the Antipodes."

Lost—One Hotel.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29—(AP).—Seaman Richard B. McNeal has lost a hotel. Registering late one night, he left his money with the clerk while he went out again. Returning, McNeal couldn't remember the hotel's name or where it was. He still has the claim cheque, the navy still is hunting, and the clerk still has the money.

Treatment Of Hess Worries Britons

LONDON, Dec. 29—(CP)—Britons are angered by the disclosure that Rudolf Hess, onetime No. 2 Nazi who fled here in 1941 with a purported peace bid from Hitler, has a guard of 30 officers and men, takes motor tours through the country and pounds on a table until he gets extra fish for breakfast.

"His sheltered life of motor rides, sunbathing and other rural pursuits is enough to tempt Hitler, Himmler, Goering and Goebbels to descend by parachute on a west country meadow — preferably near one of those quiet cathedral cities they found it fitting to blitz," the News Chronicle commented today.

The newspaper said Hess was not a convicted war criminal nor a guest of honor so "our method of treating him seems to lack all sense of proportion."

Oldest War Veteran Dies At Age Of 93

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 29 (CP)—Believed one of the oldest war veterans in Canada, John O'Sullivan died last night at the age of 93. He enlisted in the Imperial Army in Ireland when 17 years of age and enlisted in Canada at the start of the First Great War, when he cut 30 years off his age to get in.

Students Mexico-Bound

MONTREAL, Dec. 29 (CP)—An exchange of University students between Canada and Mexico will take place early next year, it was announced yesterday by Arturo Formenti, director of the Mexican Department of Social Affairs. # Bengough Calls For Pledge Of No Strike

OTTAWA, Dec. 28 (CP)—Percy R. Bengough, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, in a New Year's message today called on Canadian workers to adhere to the T.L.C. "no strike" pledge in an effort to speed victory.

There was a debt owing to those who had already given their lives in the war and heavy losses were still being suffered by the Allied nations.

He recalled that the 700 delegates to the congress convention in Toronto last October gave unanimous support to a policy of no strikes or stoppages in production in wartime.

"This resolution must become a determination and all Canadians—governments, employers and workers—must not falter in keeping this need continually in mind, Mr. Bengough said

"Differences and disputes arise but saving lives is more important now than saving faces. No one can think that stoppages of production can in any way advance our war effort. It is apparent to all that such action must hinder. To hinder is to delay and prolong the day of victory.

"Delays in production can be terribly costly both in increasing casualty lists of those fighting our battles and in giving more time to an ingenious and desperate enemy to devise and use more devlish war machines capable of inflicting greater death and destruction on those in the Allied war services and the civilian populations brought within their range.

"When peace comes we must be prepared to devote the same ingenuity for constructive purposes that we have been compelled to use for destructive purposes.

"We must plan, organize and work for the establishment of a lasting peace and for a democracy in which all people can live in a world rid of fear, a world in which all able to work can have full employment with a standard of living allowing comfortable homes and happy lives with efficient treatment for sickness and full protection for the aged.

"In this streamlined age and scientific world these things are possible and easy of accomplishment. Orangized labor's objective are early victory, world peace and full and complete lives for all people."

Following up its shutdown directive on horse racing, effective January 3, the United States Government last night warned that a further order would be forthcoming to prohibit the transportation of horses except to home stables. It was suggested at Washington that the order would prevent the shipment of thoroughbreds from southern tracks to tracks outside the country.

The office of defence transportation, Washington, expressed opposition to the Detroit move to re-open Devonshire track in Windsor, Ont., on the ground that racing there would impose an additional burden on transportation facilities in the Detroit area.

Larry Bolvin, New England featherweight, announced last night at his Providence, R.I., home he had withdrawn from a scheduled bout with Phil Terranova at Boston Jan. 4 and was retiring from the ring until spring because of a sinus ailment. Previously at Boston it had been stated Bolvin had decided not to fight because of statements of James F. Byrnes, war mobilization director, regarding the wartime activities of pro athletes, who should be physically fit for military service.

A crowd of only 6,363 at Tropical Park, Miami, yesterday bet $511,719 on nine races, the feature of which was the nose victory of Greentree Stable's Spangled Game over He Rolls in the Orlando purse in the record time of 1:40.4 for the mile and 70 yards. Ted Atkinson of Toronto was on the winning mount.

Five Football Games Set For New Year's

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 — (CP). — Five football "Bowl" games will highlight sport activities in the United States New Year's Day.

Top event of the afternoon will be the traditional Rose Bowl east-west clash in Pasadena, Calif., when the Tennessee Volunteers will attempt to overcome Southern California despite the fact the Pacific Coast conference team rules as a slight favorite.

At New Orleans the crimson tide of Alabama meets the Blue Devils of Duke in the Sugar Bowl. Experts call this one a toss-up with the 'Bamanas having a slight edge in the wagering.

Oklahoma Aggies enter the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Texas, to face the Horned Frogs of Texas Christian. T.C.U. are figures as 21-point underdogs.

An international flavor is added to proceedings in the Sun Bowl where the University of Mexico will square off against Southwestern of Texas at El Paso, Texas. Both teams play razzle-dazzle, hot-potato football, but the fact the boys from south of the border will be outweighed by 18 pounds a man makes the Texans hot favorites.

In Miami, Fla., the Orange Bowl will see Georgia Tech take on Tulsa. The Rambling Wrecks are 7-5 favorites over the Oklahomans.

Dies From Burns

TORONTO, Dec. 29 — (CP). — Miss Marjorie MacRae, 30, assistant librarian at Niagara Falls, Ont., has died in hospital from severe burns received in a fire at the home of her mother here November 30.

Vern Stephens Awarded R.B.I. Crown

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sport Writer.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29 — (AP). — Shortstop Vernon Stephens batted a modest .293 last season, but his "clutch" hitting which sparked St. Louis Browns to the American League pennant gave him the prized runs-batted-in championship with 109.

Official figures released to-day showed Stephens, who was runner-up in home runs with 20—two less than champion Nick Etten of New York Yankees—edged Boston's Bob Johnson by three in capturing the R.B.I. crown.

Despite Stephens' individual championship, the Browns were third in team runs-batted-in behind the Red Sox, who aggregated 691, and the Yankees, who had 631 but the pennant winners emerged with a new league record for hitting into the fewest double plays, 93. The former record of 94 was shared by three clubs.

Two other players attained the 100 mark in R.B.I.—Johnny Lindell of the Yankees with 103 and Stan Spence of Washington, with 100. In 1943, only York and Etten drove in 100 or more runs.

Home-run King Etten also drew the most walks, 97, topping Johnson by two and falling nine short of the 1943 winning total of Charley Keller of the Yankees. Jim Seerey of Cleveland won the undesirable distinction of striking out most, 99 times, followed by New York's George Stirnweiss with 87.

George Kell of Philadelphia set the pace in grounding into double plays with 28, while George McQuinn of the Browns thumped into only one twin killing in 146 games. Bob Ortiz of the Senators was the best pitchers' target. He was hit eight times by pitched balls.

OMHA To Operate Midget 'B' Series

TORONTO, Dec. 29. — The Ontario Minor Hockey Association announced yesterday it will operate a Midget B series this season. The new series is designed to build up the midget section of the association in towns which now are considered unable to compete fairly against larger cities. Previously the association had four series—Juvenile A, Juvenile B, Midget and Bantam.

Age limits are under 18 for the two juvenile series, under 16 for midget, and under 14 for bantam, all as of November 1.

The association now has more entries in its midget series than it had last season and that entries for all series number 105, compared with 75 at this time last year when it wound up with a record entry list.

Last Night's Stars

(By The Canadian Press)

Maurice Richard, Canadiens, who drove home five goals and assisted in three more as Detroit Red Wings suffered a 9-1 defeat at Montreal.

Syd Howe, Detroit, who scored the third-period goal that saved Red Wings from a shut-out.

Bill Cupolo, Boston, who made the tally that clinched Bruins' 2-1 victory over Chicago.

Boys' Parliament

HAMILTON, Dec. 29 — (CP).— The Ontario Older Boys Parliament meeting at McMaster University with about 85 delegates in attendance yesterday started discussion of the "Supply Bill" which contemplates raising $8,500 for boys' work next year.

Awarded "V.C."

ROME, Dec. 29—(CP)—An Indian rifleman, Sher Bahadur Thapa, has been posthumously awarded the Victoria Cross, it was announced last night. He won the award Sept. 19 during an attack near San Marino, when he charged and knocked out a German strong point, silenced several machine-guns, fired a Bren from an exposed position and brought back two wounded comrades before being killed.

SPORTS—Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Good progress was made toward completing the organization of the hockey league to be operated this season by the Peterborough Hockey Club at a meeting Thursday night at which representatives of local service clubs met the hockey executive and plans for the organization were discussed. El Jones was in the chair and Lloyd A. McClure and Shockey Mein were on hand to represent the Lions, Zimmel Levine, the B'Nai B'rith, Jack Fanning the Rotary Club and Harley Weir the Kinsmen. The support of those organizations in a financial way is assured as a result of last night's meeting which was attended as well by some of the hockey players who are to coach the various teams during the season. It was decided to proceed at once with ordering sweaters for the teams and to make other preparations for the season and also to hold a meeting next Tuesday night at which the rink schedule will be discussed with Ald. Floyd Curtis, chairman of the Parks committee. Members of the executive, all the coaches and representatives of the service clubs, if they care to sit in, are all invited to be on hand for this important gathering.

* * * * * *

As the setup is now the league will consist of four teams, each of which will be financed by one of the service clubs co-operating in the plan. The league will be open only to players who were under 16 years of age on November 1 and these players will only be allowed to play with the team representing the district in which they live. The city will be divided into four zones, as evenly matched in size as possible, and youngsters living in any particular zone will have to play with the club representing that section of the city. The executive of the Peterborough Hockey Club will operate the league and look after the business end of the enterprise while the task of managing and coaching the teams will be assumed by members of the former senior hockey club. In the south zone Honey Tompkins and Art Heal will be in charge. Johnny Godfrey and Bun Kingdon are co-operating in looking after the team from the west zone. Up in the north Ned Vitarelli and Drake Jopling will be the men behind the team from the section and across the river the Ashburnham kids will be under the control of Jim Ellis and Eddie Starr. There is keen rivalry among the coaches and there should be a lot of excitement when the teams swing into action.

Got Away With It

The fact that Tony Allan, new sports editor of the Winnipeg Tribune is trying to find out why the hockey rules set forth 53 inches as the maximum length for hockey sticks reminds this column of another now-it-can-be-told story. That is that Harold Snap Parker who starred on the defence of many Peterborough teams, including the outfit that won the senior honors in 1925 always used sticks that were inches longer than the legal maximum length. Parker as older fans will remember was a poke-checking wizard. He was left-handed, always carrying his stick with his port flipper and as he had an unusually long reach anyway and was assisted by a stick that was longer than the orthodox weapon he had the knack of nipping the disc off the sticks of attackers long before they thought they were in the danger zone. Time after time puck-carriers were disconcerted when Parker would reach out many feet with his stick in his left hand, take the rubber away from them and usually do it so effectively that he was off on an attack of his own before the opposition knew what was going on. That long poke check of his broke up rush after rush and was particularly successful against players who were up against the Peterborough defence star for the first time. They invariably carried the puck in too close before passing and fell a victim to "Snap's" tactics.

* * * * * *

Parker used those long sticks for years and they were never questioned by the opposition. At least there is no record of opposing teams asking for the sticks to be measured. The rule about the length of hockey weapons is like the regulation putting a limit on the width of goalies' pads. Nobody seems to bother. However this column can remember one occasion when the size of a goalers' pads was questioned. That was in a junior game in Lindsay a good many years ago when the Peterborough kids staged a rally and had Lindsay on the run when the wily Cap Simpson, Lindsay manager, suddenly complained to the referee that the pads used by Hubert Legros in the nets for the Petes were too wide. Simpson was not really concerned with the pads. All he wanted was to stop the play to allow the Lindsay youngsters a chance to pull themselves together and the strategy worked beautifully for by the time a tape measure had been sent for and the equipment measured 15 minutes had passed, the fire had gone out of the Petes' attack and the Lindsay crew rallied enough to protect their narrow margin which was exactly what the shrewd Lindsay pilot had been aiming at.

Stephens Leads

Latest batch of American League statistics released today show that Vern Stephens, sparkplug of the drive that gave the St. Louis Browns the first American League pennant in history captured the coveted runs-batted-in championship for 1944 by driving home 109 tallies. On top of this the Brownies' shortstop took runner-up honors in home runs with 20, two behind the leader Nick Etten of New York. Stephens knocked in nine fewer runs than Rudy York did a year ago when the Detroit star led in that department with a total of 118. Second place in the R.B.I. division this season went to Bob Johnston of Boston with 106 and two other players, Johnny Lindell of the Yanks with 103 and Stan Spence of Washington with an even 100 reached the 100 mark. Rudy York and Nick Etten were the only players who hit the 100 run class in the 1943 campaign. Nick Etten who led in home runs also led in walks, a somewhat usual occurrence for the long-ball hitter often draws a pass when he comes up with runners in scoring position. Etten drew 97 complimentaries, Bob Johnston of the Red Sox had 95 and Roy Cullenbine, Cleveland, 87. Incidentally the season before last Charlie Keller of the Yanks was walked 106 times. Jim Seerey of the Indians whiffed 99 times to lead in that department and George Stirnweiss of the Yanks was second with 87 whiffs. Bob Oritz of the Senators was hit by pitcher eight times, the high mark in that bracket and George Kell of the Athletics grounded into 28 double-plays, the champ in that doubtful field.

Detroit Red Wings, after last night's game at Montreal, are surely in the clear in regard to Tom Gorman's charge that N.H.L. clubs are trying to cut down Maurice Richard. Certainly the Red Wings did nothing to interfere with the Comet on this particular occasion for Richard ran wild with a scoring splurge that saw him rack up five goals and grab of three assists for eight points, a new record. The Canadiens knocked off Jack Adams second-placers 9 to 1 and tightened their hold on first place. The Richard-Lach-Blake line were in on eight of the nine goals scored by the winners. At Boston the Bruins' two recruits had a successful debut for Paul Bibeault played great hockey between the posts as Boston defeated the Chicago Black Hawks 2 to 1 and Rozzini, just up from the Boston Olympics figured in one of the two Bruins' goals. Bibeault had a shutout until Hawks finally scored with less than six minutes to go.

Big Holiday Program Planned At Dufferin

TORONTO, Dec. 29 — A big holiday race program has been arranged for Dufferin Park Saturday and Monday. Nine heats have been arranged for Saturday afternoon. On New Year's Day, in addition to the regular race card, a three-cornered match race is scheduled, the actors in the affair being Lorne Lee, Cyrus Martin and Rose Carlton. It is a coincident that all three horses have raced in practically the same notch over the west end oval and now are being brought together in one grand "sudden death" decision.

The race is for one heat at one mile for a sum of money posted by the management and $200 aside. The driver of the winner will also be given $25 by Fred S. Orpen. At present Chapman is leading the riders with 91 points. Pat Harvie is second with 61.

Chaplin Case Nearing Final Phase

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29 — (AP). — The Charlie Chaplin paternity case was reaching its final phase as attorneys prepared to complete presentation of evidence today.

Dr. V. L. Andrews was summoned to the stand as a defence witness to tell of the blood tests which he and two other physicians previously reported showed that Chaplin could not be the father of Joan Berry's 14-month-old daughter, Carol Ann.

Miss Berry, Chaplin's former protege, is seeking a court decree naming Chaplin the father.

Joseph Scott, Miss Berry's attorney, said he may question her briefly in rebuttal.

Attorneys indicated that arguments to the jury may be made next Tuesday, after the New Year's Day holiday.

Rickey Is Interested In Grid Franchise

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 — Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers and originator of "farm system" baseball, said he "definitely was interested in obtaining a professional football franchise, but not in 1945."

Rickey's statement was prompted by reports that he would refuse to allow the Brooklyn Tigers of the National Football League to use the facilities of Ebbets Field next year, giving rise to the belief that the Dodgers may operate their own entry in one of the newly formed leagues.

Rickey said he was "surprised that the Tigers were thinking of not using Ebbets Field next year and that such a thought had not occurred to him.

"It's no secret that I would like to obtain a professional football franchise," Rickey said. "I have been thinking of it for years, even when I was in St. Louis. But I certainly don't plan to have one next year."

Providence Reds Shut Out Capitals 6-0

By The Canadian Press.

Providence Reds scored their first shut-out of the season last night as they defeated Indianapolis Capitals 6-0 in an American Hockey League fixture at Providence. The win cut short the Capitals' seven-game undefeated streak but left the winning Providence team cellar-dwellers in the Eastern Division.

Jacques Lavoie opened the scoring in the initial period and was followed early in the second frame by Paul Courteau and Roland Forget. The fourth Providence goal was scored at 2:23 of the third period by Lavoie with Freeman Jack and Forget adding tallies several minutes later to bring the final score to 6-0.

Canadiens Stop Red Wings; Bruins Win 2-1

By FRED KERNER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The rushing Detroit Red Wings met a stone wall last night, and the stone wall was none other than the Montreal Canadiens—the team the Red Wings were rushing to overtake. Jack Adams' point-picking four-game win streak burst like a toy balloon to the tune of 9-1.

Dick Irvin's first line aggregation of Toe Blake, Maurice Richard and Elmer Lach, who individually and collectively hold a number of N.H.L. season and play-off records, were the driving punch in the Montreal game and between them they garnered 16 points. The Canadien comet—otherwise known as Maurice (Rocket) Richard — bounced the puck into Harry Lumley's net five times, and picked up three more points in the form of assists, which created a new National Hockey league mark.

Richard's eight points put him into a second-place tie on the individual scoring list with Boston Bill Cowley, while Blake grabbed three points to boost his total to 37—four ahead of the second-spot scorers. Grinning Elmer Lach was no slough on the job, scoring a brace of goals with three assists.

Hawks Held To One Goal

In Boston, former Canadien goalie Paul Bibeault gave his new mates on Art Ross' club a helping hand as they downed Chicago 2-1. Bibeault, in his first N.H.L. start of the season, held Hawks scoreless for 54 minutes and 29 seconds and was robbed of a shutout by Cully Dahlstrom.

Bill Durnan in Canadiens' net thwarted Detroit's scoring efforts for 53 minutes and 16 seconds, but Syd Howe finally broke the ice for Wings and prevented Irish Bill from his initial goose-egg of the season.

Richard's eight points in the contest was one better than the seven collected by Don (Detroit) Grosso on Feb. 3, 1944 against Rangers. Grosso scored one goal and was in on six other plays as the Manhattan squad was trounced 12-2.

Richard's five goals in one tilt is one shy of Syd Howe's N.H.L. record of six, scored in the selfsame game against Rangers. Buddy O'Connor accounted for the ninth Canadien goal.

The cellar-dwelling Hawks kept their lowly abode, though they waged a tough battle against the Rossmen. For two and one-third periods it was a scoreless struggle, but Rookie Gino (Rosie) Rozzini set up a neat pass in front of Paul Gladu who beat Mike Karakas. Four minutes later Bull Cupolo clinched the game for Bruins with a close-in shot.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SYD THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Dec. 29 — (CP). — We gather from the press reports that Neil Colville, former New York Rangers nifty, is still as smooth as ever on the blades. Colville played with the R.C.A.F. team that beat Navy 2-0 in Winnipeg the other night. Reports Tony (Winnipeg Tribune) Allan: "Colville's first goal was just about the prettiest seen here this season. Colville's second goal was the prettiest seen here this season." Nuff said.

Barrel bottoms:

The hockey scouts have left no stone unturned in their search for talent of any kind in the Montreal area. Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara reports that the ivory hunters are searching the provincial and Montreal loops, having exhausted all possibilities in the upper senior brackets. Soon, he surmuses, they will be lining the galleries at school games, since youth really is having its fling these days in the N.H.L.

Inflation, no less:

Some of the 'teen-age hockey youngsters have quite an inflated value of their worth now Jim (Toronto Globe and Mail) Coleman reports the case of a public-spirited minor hockey promoter who is baffled by it all. One of his 15-year-olds said he would play hockey for him, but wanted to know how much it would be worth to him Another wouldn't play unless he got a new suit. The promoter, reports Coleman, is thinking of quitting such a thankless racket and opening a "nice quiet little bucketshop where he can sell penny gold stock to the widows and orphans."

Sewed up:

One of the most stitched-over figures in hockey belongs to Helgy Bostrum, former Chicago Black Hawks performer, who revisited the ancestral acres in Winnipeg recently. Maurice Smith of the Winnipeg Free Press recalls the time Bostrum had his leg gashed to the tune of 142 stitches while playing against New York Rangers. That must be clearly an all-time high for a single bit of skate surgery.

Paris Bombing Scares Conn

PARIS, Dec. 29—(AP)—Cpl. Billy Conn, who was cool as an iceberg when he faced the fearsome fists of Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis, said today he had two close calls all in one day—a plane mishap and German bombing—which "scared me half to death."

Shortly after Cpl. Billy and his party of United States Army boxing mates, who are touring the European theatre, took off from a French airfield Tuesday, the pilot of their plane discovered his elevator controls were locked.

Circled Two Hours

"We circled over the field and sweated for two hours," Conn said, "while a mechanic chopped his way through part of the plane in an attempt to unlock the controls.

"But it was 'no soap,' and it looked like we'd all get killed.

"Finally the pilot figured out a plan. He had me and three others run up and down the plane so our weight would lower the tail, then the nose, so we could land.

"We hit the runway at 150 miles an hour, and made it okay, but it left me shaking for two days."

Billy and his entourage no sooner hit Paris that night than the Germans decided to bomb the city for the first time in four months. One bomb landed so close to Conn's hotel that the blast blew out the window panes.

Doesn't Like Bombs

"They left me nervous like buzz-bombs in London," Conn said, "I don't like them worth a damn."

It was back in June 18, 1941, that Conn met Louis in a world title heavyweight match in New York. The Pittsburgh flash, boxing like a master, had the champ outpointed for 12 rounds and apparently had the crown all wrapped up. Then he elected to slug it out with Louis and was kayoed in the 13th.

Sports Spice

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP).—The biggest reason why Herbert Bayard Swope resigned as chairman of the New York State Racing Commission probably was that he was the only real "racing man" on that body.... Brig.-Gen. John J. Phelan's term as chairman of the New York Athletic Commission is soon to expire and that means two big jobs will have to be filled....The New York Commissions are probably the most influential of all in their respective sports....Incidentally, the Racing Commission job is salaryless, although New York made more than $29,000,080 from racing in 1944....

One-minute sports page:

When Wilbert Robinson made seven hits in one game at Baltimore in 1892—the only time it ever has been done in major league baseball—not one Baltimore paper mentioned the feat....It didn't go into the record books until many years later, when Robbie casually referred to it while talking to Heywood Broun.... If Lightweight Willie Joyce repeats his victory over Ike Williams in Philadelphia January 8, Los Angeles promoters want him to come back and meet N.B.A. Champ Juan Zurita.

Bracken Lands In England To See Troops

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 29—(CP Cable)—John Bracken, National leader of the Progressive Conservative party, arrived in London Thursday by train from Scotland, hopeful that he will be able to see Canadian fighting men on all the European fronts before he returns to Canada, probably within a fortnight.

Delayed in flying to Britain by the death of his mother, the Progressive Conservative leader said his schedule here was indefinite and no detailed itinerary was available.

Accompanied by his secretary, Melville R. Jack, he was joined at a London hotel by R. K. Finlayson of Winnipeg, adviser to Mr. Bracken, and Col. Alfred Brooks, Progressive Conservative member of the Canadian House of Commons for Royal (N.B.), who flew to the United Kingdom a few days ago .

"I had three purposes in coming here," Mr. Bracken said in an interview.

"First, as a Canadian, I wanted to see our boys overseas in Britain and on various battlefronts — Belgium, Holland and Italy, if possible. As a public man, I am anxious to get a view of their conditions at first-hand.

"Second, as Canadians we naturally want to do whatever is possible to bring about an early and successful termination of the war and I expect to get information first-hand on what can be done.

"Third, I wish to discuss with British authorities what Canada and the United Kingdom can do to mutual advantage to meet the problems of post-war reconstruction."

Mr. Bracken said he was impressed by the possibilities of Trans-Atlantic flying. He told how he left Montreal buried in snow and 12 hours later was flying over the green fields of Ireland. Motoring to Glasgow from Prestwick, Scotland, he saw farmers plowing and cattle grazing.

BOMBS PLAY STRANGE TRICKS IN FRANCE—One of the freak effects sometimes achieved by high explosive bombs is seen in this photo of a town in France. The big building at the end of the street took a direct hit, was split down the centre. One half of the building disintegrated into rubble; the other remained standing firm.

Veterans Must Be Given Faith In Future Drew Urges

Canadians in uniform will face and surmount the difficulties of peace with the same determination and success as they surmounted the difficulties of war "so long as they are not discouraged and denied faith in their own future," Premier George Drew said last night in an address over an Ontario radio network.

"Over and over again in this war we have seen the practical results of faith," said Mr. Drew. "There was little more to sustain us back in 1940. The mounting strength of the United Nations as they have marched forward step by step to war victory is proof of the value of sensible confidence in ourselves. As we look to the year ahead and to the years beyond 1945, our thoughts naturally turn to the kind of life we will have after all the sacrifices and effort have brought us peace. ..othing should divert us from the desperate need for our utmost effort to support our fighting forces in these critical days, but it will help that effort if our young men and women have faith and confidence in their own country and in their own hope of success and security in thee years to come.

Answer in Future

"What are their prospects after victory?" asked the Premier. "That is something they are asking themselves. The answer to that question is the answer to the question all of us are asking in this New Year season. The answer is only to be found in the future of Canada itself. What is our future as a nation after this long struggle in which we have so greatly increased our productive capacity in making our national contribution to the common cause?

"There are those who paint a gloomy picture," continued Premier Drew. "They warn us of 10 years or more of extremely difficult readjustment. Now what are the facts? Of course there will be difficulties ahead. There always have been and there always will be.

"There were difficulties, terrible difficulties, facing our lads who landed in Sicily, in Italy and at the Normandy beaches. There were the grave difficulties facing our boys in the RCAF, year after year, as they took off on their deadly missions in every fighting zone. There were cruel difficulties facing our young men who have been at sea continuously in every kind of weather from the Arctic winter to the burning heat of the Equator. They have faced these difficulties and surmounted them in the years of war. They will face and surmount the difficulties of peace with equal success so long as they are not discouraged and denied faith in their own future.

"What we need at this particular New Year season is a good healthy dose of confidence in our own future, based upon a clear appreciation of our vast opportunities," declared Mr. Drew. "No other similar number of people in the whole world have the solid basis for expanding prosperity that we have. We have the soil, we have the forests, we have the mines, we have the power, we have the industrial capacity and skill for a very much greater population than we have today. This is still a land of broad horizons. The one thing above all else that we must not do, if we are to give our splendid youth the future they have earned, is to tie their hands by restrictions based upon a belief that we have come near the limit of our growth."

Candle Service Used By Mission Circle

MILLBROOK, Dec. 29—(ENS)—The Christmas meeting of the Golden Links Mission Circle was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Edmund Ball, with the president, Mrs. Cecil Paulson, in the chair, and Mrs. J. W. Thorndyke at the piano.

Carols were sung, and an impressive candle lighting service emphasized the advantages of living in a Christian land. Mrs. Paulson led and others taking part included: Jean Burnham, who lit the candle for the Jews through whose race the Saviour came; Mrs. W. H. Gray, who lit the candle for the French Canadians, who bring their gifts of adoration to the Christ Child on His birthday; Betty Lunn, whose candle represented the New Canadians who have come to this country from Europe; Mrs. D. L. Lunn, lighting a candle for those of British, Scandinavian and German birth whose descendants planted the cross in Canada; and Mrs. Edmund Ball, her candle representing the settlers from Africa and Asia who have made their contribution to Canadian national life.

The concluding ritual dealt with the theme, "Love came down at Christmas" and this with the poem "Words" closed the worship service, Rev. A. L. Sisco presided for the election of officers, the list for 1945 including: Hon. president, Miss E. L. Hetherington; advisory president, Mrs. Ball; president, Mrs. Paulson; vice-president, Mrs. J. W. Thorndyke; secretary, Betty Lunn; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. R. Howard; treasurer, Jean Burnham.

The January meeting will be at Mrs. Paulson's home, and the report of the treasurer showed a total raised, purely through voluntary giving, of $62.78, an increase over last year.

Lunch was served and a social hour enjoyed.

Officers Installed At Millbrook Lodge

MILLBROOK, Dec. 29—(ENS)—Following the annual observance of the feast of St. John the Evangelist, J. B. Hall Lodge, No. 145 A.F. & A.M. had its officers installed for the ensuing year, the ritual being carried through by Howard Lancashire. The list included:

W.M., J. R. Larmer; S.W., W. H. Swain; J.W., G. T. McPherson; chaplain, V.W.B. G. E. Burnham; treasurer, A. Jemison; secretary, Charles Thorndyke; S.D., C. G. Snider; J.D., Percy E. Hamilton; S.S., W. S Hall;; J.S., H. D. Bigelow; D. of C., P. I. Bentley; I.G., Bro. J. R. Earle; organist, H. Oullette.

Honor Dr. Wrong

TORONTO, Dec. 29—(CP)—Prof. George M. Wrong, 84, was pleasantly surprised last night to find he had been elected an honorary member of the American Historical Association. He taught history at University of Toronto until his sight began to fail two years ago.

HEADS PARLEY — R. H. M. Bailey, of Edmonton, Alta, president of the Dairy Farmers of Canada, who will preside over the annual meeting in Regina, Sask., Jan. 15, 16 and 17. He is the president of the Alberta Milk Producers Association, Edmonton.

VOTE FOR AND ELECT
WM. DARLING
Reeve of the Municipality of Dummer

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

Having been requested by a large number of influential ratepayers of the Township of Dummer to let my name stand for Reeve, and having always taken a keen interest in municipal affairs, being a member of the Council for a number of years, I have decided to do so.

I believe the time has come when township roads should be ploughed in the winter. We have a powerful grader, and if a plough were attached to it, the roads could be cleared at a small cost to the taxpayer, and those of us on the back concessions would receive the same privileges in the winter as those more fortunately situated. The majority of the other townships in the county plough the roads in the winter.

Being a large taxpayer in the township, I ask for your vote and influence, and if elected, it will be my aim at all times to run the affairs of the township as economically and efficiently as possible.

Wishing you one and all the compliments of the season,
I remain—
WM. DARLING.

English People Still Suffer From Bombing

HAVELOCK, Dec. 29—(ENS).—The nerve strain and hardships which are being bravely endured by the people of Britain, especially those in the direct path of German robot bombs, is revealed in a letter to Mrs. M. Wiggins from a friend, Miss Rose Simms of Gladstone Road, Farnborough, Kent, England.

"There is so much death and destruction around you," writes Miss Sims, "that I wonder who will live to see Christmas, and this year more than ever before there will be hundreds of unhappy people. You cannot say families or homes, for there are not many whole ones left."

There is no word in the English vocabulary to describe these weapons, she wrote. It is not warfare, but mass murder. Now as never before those who have faith in God can help other people.

Take a Chance.

"I am not brave, far from it, she said, but I say my prayers at night and go to bed, as the shelters are too cold and they will not save you from a rocket, although you would not have the debris on you. If the siren goes for the doodlebugs we go under the stairs. We get no warning for rockets, so I cuddle under the blankets and try to black out all noises....If I get hit, well I tried to live a good life and help others, and I am not afraid to die."

Victory is in sight, she continued, of that I am sure, and some must live to enjoy the New World we are fighting for, and why should it not be us?

Brothers Gone

At the beginning of the war one of Miss Sims' brothers was among the first fliers to be listed as missing. Just after that her younger brother was found dead on the train one morning on his way to work, and now her sister is very ill in hospital, her recovery being uncertain. Miss Sims lives with her mother and their home has been damaged several times by bombing. Although it received no direct hit, yet the ceilings were brought down and all the windows broken.

Miss Sims' letter was one of thanks to Mrs. Wiggins for the Christmas parcel she had sent to her. On the day of its arrival Miss Sims had come home from work, feeling tired and fed up with everything in general, and finding a parcel from Canada waiting for her, stated that in a flash life seemed to be bright again and she had had an exciting few minutes opening it, a portion of which she had taken to her sister in hospital.

W. Wight Heads Havelock Lodge

HAVELOCK, Dec. 29.—(ENS). — Havelock Lodge, A.F. & A.M. No. 435 held its December meeting on St. John's night Wednesday, when the following officers were installed for 1945, by V.W. Bro. Robert Andersoon, assisted by W. Bro. W. W. Hill, W. Bro. W. J. Nobes and W. Bro. E. D. Chiles:

W.M., William A. Wight; J.P.M., Ross A. Barrons; S.W., Hugh J. Buchanan; J.W., Arthur King; Chaplain, W. Bro. W. J. Nobes; Treasurer, V.W. Bro. Robert Anderson; Secretary, Wor. Bro. A. C. Denike; S.D., C. A. Steenburgh; J.D., Alex P. Buchanan; D. of C., W. Bro. E. D. Chiles; S.S., Donald D. Anderson; J.S., Arthur J. Anderson; I. Guard, Eric B. Anderson; Tyler, L. H. Rowat.

During the evening W. Bro. R. Barrons was presented with the Past Master's jewel.

Two Doctors Named

TORONTO, Dec. 29—(CP)—Dr. D. S. Puffer, on leave from duties as Medical Health Officer of Kingston, and Dr. R. G. Struthers, formerly a surgeon lieutenant in the Royal Canadian Navy, have been named to executive posts in the Ontario Health Department, it was announced yesterday.

Warsaw Board Hears Annual Reports

WARSAW, Dec. 29— (ENS). — The annual meeting of the Warsaw School Board met in the board room on Wednesday afternoon. On motion of M. Lonsberry and J. Tucker, William Edwards acted as chairman and Mrs. George Weller as secretary. The financial statement was read and accepted on a motion by J. Tucker and M Clements. The auditor's report was accepted on motion fo David Rose and M. Lonsberry, and Thomas Clements was appointed auditor for the section. The sanitary report by Dr. Monro stated that the school plant was in first-class condition; and a donation of $6.00 will be paid to the O.E.A. and the Ontario Ratepayers' Association.

The trustees were asked to investigate the cost of wiring the school and to call a special meeting of the ratepayers and to discuss the idea of using the class rooms for social gatherings.

On the motion of M. Lonsberry and D. Rose that insurance is to be paid, and it was moved by Clarence Watts and James Tucker that Reg. Bolton be appointed trustee for three years.

Financial statement is as follows: Balance from last year, $1,912.76; Provincial grants $818.85; County grants, $34.83; Township grants, $440; Section tax levy, $394.40; Interest, $10.39; total, $3,611.23. Expenses—Cost of instruction, $1,723.32. Cost of instructional supplies, $97.26; Cost of administration, $41.97; School plant operation, $247.97; Maintenance, $170.60; Auxiliary agencies, $8.23; Repayment of temporary loans, 370 total of $2,289.72, leaving a balance of $1,321.51.

Main Street Topics

A QUIET DAY.

This was a blank day in police court circles and Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., didn't have to make the trip in from Lakefield to occupy the bench. Police report no arrests during the chilly night and few complaints of any kind to investigate.

TAXI, TRUCK COLLIDE.

A Board of Works truck, driven by Mervin Williamson, 182 Rubidge street, and a taxi driven by R. V. Coop.r, 582 Park street, were damage' Thursday in a traffic accident at Simcoe and Queen streets. The truck was travelling south on Queen street and Williamson was making a left turn into Simcoe stree' when there was a collision with the taxi, which was moving north on Queen street.

NEW YEAR'S DAY AT POST OFFICE.

There will be no delivery by letter carrier or rural route courier on New Year's Day, Postmaster Charles Lacheur said today. The public lobby of the Post Office will be open from 6.30 a.m. to 6.00 p.m., and the general delivery, stamp and registration wickets, money order and savings bank wickets will be open from 8.00 a.m. to 12.00 noon for the transaction of all Post Office business. The regular evening collection will be made from the street letter boxes. Special delivery service will be as usual and all mail will be despatched as usual.

FUNERAL TODAY

The funeral of Madame Cordelia Masson, who died of a heart attack in Detroit Wednesday while on a Christmas visit to her daughter and sister, took place this morning from the Bert Duffus funeral home, George Street, to the Church of the Sacred Heart. Requiem Mass was celebrated by Monsignor O'Brien, assisted by Rev. Gilmore Kay and Rev. J. Coughlan. Pallbearers were: John McDonald, A. A. Letellier, W. J. Grady, Dr. R. A. Sheehy, Corporal De Sales Scully, R.C.A.F., and C. H. Giroux. Interment was at St. Peter's Cemetery where Father Coughlan read the prayers of burial.

SLIGHTLY WOUNDED.

Mrs. Marguerite Bennett, 33 Benson avenue, has received word that her husband, Pte. Jack Bennett, has been slightly wounded in Italy. He enlis..d in April, 1943, and was previously employed at Belleghem's and the London Life. Mrs. Bennett was formerly Marguerite Syvertson.

FOR GREEK RELIEF

"Although things are a bit mixed up over there we still have Peterborough friends of the Greek War Relief Fund," said Louis Yeotes today acknowledging receipt of two cheques during the holiday season, one from Miss Musa Cox, 550 Aylmer street, for five dollars, and the other for ten dolars from A. E. Thompson, 355 George street.

A MEAN THIEF

Edgar Millen, R.R. 2 Ennismore, has reported to the police department a case of sneak thieving that cost him a quantity of supplies. Millen had momentarily left a bag at the entrance to a Charlotte street restaurant and it was stolen during his brief absence. The bag contained among other things 10 loaves of bread, mincemeat, candies, three pairs of socks and two coats.

Police Promise To Watch Driver Closely

The advice of city police and provincial officers in this district to motorists who might be inclined to mix alcohol and gasoline during the New Year week-end is "Don't." Stressing the old slogan, "If you drink don't drive, and if you drive don't drink," both the city police department and the provincial force announce that there will be a special checkup of drivers during the next couple of days and motorists who are found under the influence of liquor will be compelled to face the consequences. "There will be no punches pulled," Chief Constable John W. Thompson warned this morning. "All members of the force will have special instructions to check upon drinking drivers and those who try to get away with it will find themselves in trouble."

Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure and Provincial Constable Price Morris have issued similar warnings, intimating that motorists who try to drive on the highways in the district when they are not in shape to do so safely will be dealt with.

Both city and provincial forces are determined to keep down the holiday accident list if vigilance on their part can accomplish that end so motorists are advised to play safe and keep alcohol out of their New Year driving.

Hitler Sleepless

London, Dec. 29 (CP)

SILENT and secluded, Hitler is having sleepless nights, goes around with his head bent from poring over maps, and is living a frugal existence in which he "shuns the daily joys of life and all its comforts," Propaganda Minister Goebbels reports in the publication Das Reich, the German D.N.B. agency said today.

Calling Hitler a "man the whole world would worship if it only knew what his message is," Goebbels described intimate details of Hitler's current daily program, and explained his five-months' silence this way:

"He can afford to remain silent for months even if his enemies wish him to speak, so that he would reveal his intentions."

Teachers Urge VD Testing Of All Students

TORONTO, Dec. 29. — Broad changes in school health services in Ontario, recommended by a special committee, were unanimously endorsed yesterday by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation at concluding sessions of its two-day 25th annual convention here. The recommendations included compulsory tuberculosis and venereal disease tests for all students; two complete medical examinations in elementary and secondary schools with provision for treatment and additional tests for all students participating; in athletics; annual dental examinations and provision for dental serices, free if necessary, and support of a national school lunch program, subsidized to assure low-cost lunches.

The convention also urged that Ontario health services be organized on a unit basis, to be responsible for school medical, dental and nursing services, and that a school board representative be appointed to boards of health. Mental hygiene courses for normal schools and teachers' training colleges also were advised as well as a higher standard in school construction.

Protest Extra Subjects

The federation will endeavor to place before the Royal Commission on Education a suggestion that high school equipment be utilized for adult education as in Great Britain. Its educational policies committee criticized the school curriculum as progressively overburdened in past years with such additional subjects as business practice, cadet training and religious instruction. It asked that work of secondary school inspectors be broken up so that the same inspector would not be reporting on work of teachers as well as condition and operation of school plant. Teachers too often regard inspectors as spies of the Board of Education instead of helpers and advisers. Frank Patten of Ottawa observed.

Reporting on school curricula, S. G. B. Robinson said satisfactory curricula "cannot be prefabricated by committees or commissions, and advised that teacher groups undertake study of curricular revision. Broadening of university entrance requirements also was urged, since present varying requirements "continue to fasten the traditional academic curriculum on all academic secondary schools, and options are possible in name only."

Deplore Recent Order

The delegates deplored the recent order of the Department of Education prohibiting distribution in schools of pamphlets unless first approved by the department, and termed its directive "an action which interferes with the right of teachers to receive and appraise printed information which does not contravene the laws of the Dominion of Canada." The executive was asked to discuss the matter with department officials.

Delivery Trucks Find Country Roads Bad

Stalled in a farmer's lane near Drummond's Station in Otonabee, Thursday, a Stock's bread delivery truck was helpless in the snow until it had to be virtually lifted out late in the afternoon. Farmers' teams and a big truck or two tugged away at the hapless bread dray, but some way or another the wind had fastened drifts around it and ordinary efforts of release failed.

Alderman Dutton relayed reports that the Bobcaygeon and Cresswell routes were cut off Thursday but would probably be open again this afternoon.

The Apsley highway was in "pretty good shape," and reports all season indicate that this stretch of road north from Peterborough is in good hands.

Deliveries were made throughout Smith Thursday against real difficulties. "I often wonder how the men manage to get through as they do," Alderman Dutton remarked. "I suppose the snow and the wind become a challenge to them, and they have enough pride in themselves and their abilities to struggle through if it is humanly possible."

City Bus Is Damaged Backing Down Hill

When a city bus failed to make the grade on Armour Road between James and Robinson streets Thursday and had to back down the hill there was an accident that resulted in damage to the bus itself and to a parked automobile.

The bus, in charge of H. P. Arnold, 574 Aylmer street, was travelling north on Armour Road and when it reached the hill it was unable to climb the slippery slope and the driver was forced to back his vehicle down the hill. As he did so the bus collided with a parked car owned by Mrs. Tippett, parked below James street, on the east side of Armour Road, facing south.

Both outfits were damaged to some extent but no one was hurt in the accident.

HEAVY STORM IN EAST

YARMOUTH, N.S., Dec. 29—(CP)—One of the heaviest storms of the season struck the south shore of Nova Scotia yesterday, destroying fishing equipment and a quantity of fish.

WARMING UP BEFORE BATTLE—Members of a British tank unit on the British Second Army front have a warm up beside their Buffalo tanks before moving off for the attack.

Bank Manager Dies Suddenly

BANCROFT, Dec. 29 (ENS) — Leo Doyle, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia Branch since 1937, died suddenly at his home early this morning as the result of a heart attack. He was 52 years old.

His wife and daughter had retired for the night, and Mr. Doyle was sitting in the living room when he became ill. His family heard an unusual noise and when they investigated, found Mr. Doyle had collapsed on the floor.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife Rubina, and daughter Doris.

Mr. Doyle, who arrived in Bancroft November 9, 1937, was in charge of a staff of five.

City To Need More Police

The territory to be covered by the Peterborough police department will be increased considerably Sunday night at midnight when a large portion of North Monaghan township becomes part of the city and its citizens will become entitled to police protection.

At the next meeting of the police commission it is expected that the appointment of two or three additional police constables will be authorized.

In the meanwhile Chief John W. Thompson and his men will have to carry on with the present force.

"We will patrol the North Monaghan annex with a police cruiser, covering all stores and similar establishments" Chief Constable Thompson announced this morning. "All complaints from the area will be investigated and the department will answer all calls for police assistance that come from the new part. These calls will of course be dealt with from the city police station."

All Main Highways Reported Clear

TORONTO, Dec. 29—(CP)—The Ontario Department of Highways today announced that with some minor exceptions all its main highways have been cleared for traffic following the Wednesday-Thursday snowstorm. Last night the department warned motorists to stay off the highways. Although the highways are open today, a spokesman said they all are narrow in places.

Most difficult section is in the Owen Sound - Collingwood - Brampton-Guelph-Kincardine area where the highways are "only passable."

Give Away Furlough

Philadelphia, Dec. 29 (AP)

SGT. Isadore Brodsky wants to give away a 10-day furlough. He's enjoying a regular 15-day leave now and has an extra 10 days coming as a reward for selling $50,000 worth of War Bonds. "I'm having my fun now," said Brodsky as he offered to pass the furlough on to "some soldier just returned from overseas."

War—4 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

DEC. 29, 1940—Waves of German raiders showered incendiaries and explosives on heart of London in an attempt to fire city; Guildhall and noted churches destroyed. Bardia shelled in preparation for attack. Italy set up a food dictatorship. President Roosevelt declared the U.S. the great arsenal of democracy.

Peter Campbell Dies In Toronto

Manager of the Bank of Toronto in Peterborough for 27 years, Peter Campbell, who retired when he left here in 1917, died in Toronto, Wednesday. He has been living there since his retirement.

The late Mr. Campbell who came to Peterborough from Petrolia in 1890, had been associated with the banking business for 38 years. Born in Toronto, the 93-year-old manager had been one-time manager of the Bank of London, Ont., which was merged into the Bank of Toronto. He was appointed manager of the Bank of Toronto in Petrolia during the oil boom and later came here. While in the city, he lived for many years at the corner of Hunter and Park streets.

During his 27 years here, Mr. Campbell was active in many organizations around the city and took a keen interest in the welfare of the municipality. He was a former president of the Peterborough Golf Club and the Peterborough Club and had been head of the Children's Aid. The late Mr. Campbell was also an active member of St. John's Anglican Church, where he held various offices.

His wife, Eleanor Louise Corey Campbell predeceased him in 1933. Surviving are two sons, Alan and Gordon (Pete) Campbell.

Three Minor Alarms Answered By Firemen

Three minor fires were taken care of by local firemen Thursday, but no damage was reported.

A chimney fire at the residence of C. Moore, 350 Bolivar street and overheated stove-pipes at the home of Alex Bulmer, 214 Dalhousie st., accounted for two of the alarms. The first call came at 11:25 o'clock in the morning, and the second came at 11:31, six minutes later.

Trouble emanating from a cracked pipe in an automobile heater brought firemen to the rear of 587 Sherbrooke street. The car was owned by A. Conlin, but firemen said there was no damage. It was reported at 5:56 oclock Thursday evening.

Firemen did not respond to a call coming from a residence on New Romaine street,: where a chimney fire was reported because the house was outside the city.

Veterans Donate $118

BANCROFT, Dec. 29 (ENS) — The War Veterans, who held a dance in the Community Hall, Wednesday night, turned the proceeds of $118.50 over to Provincial Officer S. W. Palmateer to be applied against the remaining deficit of the swimming pool. Lunch was served by the War Workers.

Garbage Pick-Up Tuesday For Monaghan

"I don't think the Monaghan folks expect us to begin collecting garbage on New Year's Day, but we're ready for them on Tuesday," Alderman Max Swanston, chairman of the property committee, commented to the Examiner this morning.

He was answering the question of what plans have been made to extend immediately the city services into the annexed areas.

"We've been getting ready for this work for some time, and we are in a position where we do not have to engage any more men or buy any equipment. The department knew this was coming and we tried to anticipate the needs. Garfield Torrance, the superintendent has laid out three routes and the details are in his hands. Care in the handling of garbage, in the way it is wrapped and put out for collection, will certainly be appreciated, and the people should have everything out in good time. We are hoping that everything will go all right in the district from the very start."

Street Department

Alderman Dutton, chairman of the Board of Works, said he had discussed with City Engineer Parsons arrangements for continuing the present street services in the suburbs.

"It was suggested that we take over the organization which North Monaghan council had engaged, that we do not disturb it in any way, but simply let their men carry on with the removal of snow from the sidewalks. We have to see whether the arrangements are sufficient for the districts. I have left it for Mr. Parsons to take in hand. In the meantime the Board of Works needs at least a dozen extra men. I don't know where we are going to get them, but we must have some additional help."

Mayor Hamilton said he understood the city was generally ready to assume the essential services in the new sections of the city. He said he had been assured by Alderman Swanston and Alderman Dutton that their departments were ready to absorb the areas. He had also spoken to Chief Gimblett, and expected that Chief Thompson was aware that the city police jurisdiction now extended to the boundaries of the annexable parts.

The Suburban Districts.

Mr. Torrance reported that notices are going out to the suburban residents informing them of the days of collection.

On Tuesdays and Fridays: east side of Park street, south side of Lansdowne street to the river.

Mondays and Thursdays: West side of Park street, south of Lansdowne street; both sides of St. James street; east side of Monaghan road, also (west of Monaghan road) both sides of Lansdowne street from Monaghan road to west of Western avenue and north to Chamberlain street.

Wednesdays and Saturdays: north of Chamberlain and Cottesmore streets; west to Monaghan road and north to the boundary of that area which is being annexed, including the Wartime Housing area on the Hatton property.

Lloyd George's Son May Succeed Him

CAERNARVON, Wales, Dec. 29.—(CP-Reuters). — A David Lloyd George may still represent this town in parliament after the next election, although Britain's 82-year-old prime minister leader of the First Great War is relinquishing the seat he occupied for 54 years.

His grandson, Lieut. David Lloyd George, elder son of Britain's Fuel and Power Minister, Major Gwilym Lloyd George, is being named as a possible candidate for the Caernarvon boroughs seat. Now aged 21, he is serving overseas with the army.

The local Liberal Party Association will make the final choice.

Service For Senator

To North Monaghan Electors

I respectfully solicit your support for election to the North Monaghan Area School Board.

Your Sincerely,

ERNEST HORTON.

MISSING AT SEA—Signalman Donald McDougall, whose wife lives in Lindsay, and a nephew of Mrs. G. J. Browne, 488 Murray street, Peterborough, is reported missing at sea. He joined the Navy in June, 1941, and was a member of the crew of HMCS Shawinigan.

Two Bald Eagles Remain At Island Nest

PICTON, Dec. 29.—Timber Island, lying about one mile out in Lake Ontario off Point Traverse, and long a haven for bald eagles, is harboring only one pair of the majestic birds at the present time, in the opinion of Willis Metcalfe, a resident of Point Traverse for 10 years, who has taken a keen interest in Canada's famed birds.

On the mainland in the township of South Marysburg, there are three nests, Mr. Metcalfe added, although they are not all in use, and the condition of one is believed to be poor.

For many years, bald eagles have wintered on Timber Island, and an early record of the sanctuary was made by Macoun, in 1909. Later, in June, 1917, the late E. Beaupre, of Kingston, visited the island and stated that, according to available information, the eagles were "believed to have occupied this lonely and uninhabited island for more than a century."

Mr. Metcalfe expressed interest in a letter published in a Toronto paper from Mrs. Minhinnick, who stated that a pair of these eagles cross over from the island to her home each November.

"This is something that I didn't know," he said, "as I presumed the eagles that were raised on the island never left their domain to winter on the mainland. I don't know why, unless there is a nest they return to every fall. I don't know of any eagles at South Bay now."

Photographs in Mr. Metcalfe's possession depict the enormous size and strength of an eagle's nest. One of the nests pictured by Mr. Metcalfe is atop a lofty elm, and sticks found inside it were four feet long and an inch in thickness.

Although the species is said to be increasing of late, Timber Island is reported to be the "last stand" of the bald eagle on the Canadian side of Lake Ontario.

Gifts From Afar Bring Presents For Good Cause

Christmas and Epiphanytide are inseparable, the fascinating story of the three wise men really serving to accentuate all that the remembrance of Christmas reveals to a world, that is in a similar chaotic condition, as when the events of the Nativity were first recorded.

In this course there was the central figure of the Christ Child, who embodied all the supreme in goodness to humanity, who was the magnet that drew the wise men to the manger where He lay, with their homage and gifts from afar, so symbolic of what has transpired ever since, with the spread of christianity to most of the inhabitable parts of the earth.

All good works have an attraction for well meaning people, their influence often spreading beyond the immediately interested carry the vision of the good thus consummated to others further afield, which then in turn acts as a magnet to draw their support as well.

From this city some men have carried the news of the good work being done through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, and this influence has reacted so as to draw gifts from afar off to participate in this humanitarian project.

At a recent meeting of the Canad'an Allied Textile Trades Association, two local members who were present carried this vision in such a manner, as to bring a very nice contribution of $75 to the fund, which is recorded in to-day's acknowledgements, this being the second time that assistance has come from the same group through the same influence.

Then from afar of St .John, N. B. comes another git of $30 which also came through the influence of a citizen travelling abroad demonstrating again the wide sphere to which one may at times carry and bring their own personality into play, in a cause that is really worth such widespread support.

Then to complete the story, a citizen who evidently was visiting at a considerable distance from the home town, remembered the good work being done at home in this same respect, and sent a personal gift to help by mail, intended to have a personal share in the donation raised for Christmas.

The fund now has $746.00 on hand about one-third towards raising another £500, a tribute to all who assisted, seeing that it is only a week since the Christmas donation of £2,000 was cabled to the Lord Mayor of London.

Pearson Family Reunion Is Attended by 59 Relatives

Fifty-nine people, representing four generations, were in attendance at the annual Christmas reunion of the family of John Pearson, at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Harold Junkin, and Mr. Junkin, R.R. 1, Lakefield, with Mrs. Junkin and Mrs. Wilbert Harrison, of Peterborough, another daughter, as hostesses.

After enjoying a joint dinner, served at 4.30, the group spent a pleasant evening in games and dancing, and in talking and renewing family ties. In addition to the family, three soldiers from the local Training Centret, Cpls. R. Pierios, F. Houlden and W. Aronec, were entertained.

Those present, the nine children of John Pearson and the late Mrs. Pearson, formerly Jane Blewitt, and their children and grandchildren, are as follows: Mrs. Frank Robinson, (Duella) and Mr. Robertson, and their children, Mr. and Mrs. Mostyn Lancaster (Leola), and Marguerite and Douglas Lancaster, of Orillia, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Robinson and daughter Lenora, of Peterborough, and Verda and Howard Robinson, at home, 429 Bellevue street; Mrs. Gordon Dunford (Cecel) and Mr. Dunford, of Port Reeve, Sask., and Dorothy, Cephas and Hazel Dunford, their children, who were present. Five other children, also living in the West, were not in attendance; Mrs. L. Swingler (Olive) and Mr. Swingler and children, Allan and Judith, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Dunford and son Clinton, and Violet, and Flora Dunford, the latter with the R.C.A.F. (Wd), and Pearson Dunford, overseas in Italy with the Canadian Army.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald McConkey (Ethel), R.R. 1, Lakefield, and their family were also there; Mrs. Harry McConkey and children Sandra and Keith, Mr. McConkey serving in Halifax with the Canadian Navy, Mr. and Mrs. Evy McConkey and children Ralph and Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Harrison (Nina), 415 Downie street, and their daughter Mrs. Clifford McIlmoyl (Jean) and Mr. McIlmoyl and daughters Gail and Linda were also in attendance, but another daughter, Mrs. L. DeCarlonis (Doris) and Mr. DeCarlonis and children Nina and Barbara, were unable to be present.

A son, Erie Pearson and Mrs. Pearson and family, Donald, Leitha, Shirley, Melva, Harold, John, Allan and Bobby of R.R. 1 Lakefield, were there, as were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Junkin (Theressa) and son Larry, of R.R. 1, Lakefield; Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Wilson, (Loreene) and family, Eileen, Roger and Patsy, 499 Donegal street; and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pearson and daughter Joyce, R.R. 1, Lakefield. Another daughter, Mrs. John Crapp (Ruby), and Mr. Crapp, of Montreal, were not able to be in attendance. Their son, Roy Crapp, is overseas, and his wife and daughter, Idelle, who also live in Montreal, were not present.

Men At Centre Enjoy Dance

General arrangements for the Thursday night dance at the Drill Hall of the local Training Centre, were in charge of Supervisor Ernest Irwin, in cooperation with the Citizens' Co-ordinating Committee, which sponsored the entertainment.

$15 A Couple Top Price For New Year's Fun Seekers

By The Canadian Press

Canadians who "step out" this New Year's eve are going to find it a costly proposition with prices at hotel ballrooms, cabarets and night clubs ranging up to $15 per couple cover charge. Despite these charges a survey shows that reservations generally are more numerous than last year and many entertainment spots are booked to capacity.

In Halifax where year-end celebrations are limited to hotel and dance hall parties since there are no night clubs, prices range up to $5 per couple and reservations have been closed for some time now. The same situation exists at Saint John with reserved bookings filled for more than a week.

Prices Board regulations prevent Montreal's many night clubs, hotel ballrooms and dance halls from raising their prices over last year's fees, and so the top varies from $10 to $15 a couple, including dinner and dancing—liquid refreshment extra at popular prices. But Quebec law prevents liquor from being sold after 9 p.m. on Sunday nights.

Clubs in Quebec city, Montreal and at Hull across the river from the Dominion capital have had no word whether the Sunday 9 p.m. limit will hold for New Year's eve, but patrons are already figuring on ordering "wet refreshment" early —just in case.

Can't Handle Business.

In Ottawa hundreds of reservations will go unfilled and prices range anywhere from $4 per couple to $12 and nothing but soft drinks sold. Prices range high in Toronto —up to $14 a couple—with supper served at 10 p.m. and no dancing until after midnight when Sunday leaves with the old year.

Record crowds will meet 1945 in Winnipeg and late-planners are out of luck. Top prices are $4 per person and go as low as $2 a couple. In Edmonton the minimum is $2.50 a couple and the high $8 with cabarets and dance halls booked to overflowing.

Reports from Calgary say that reservations in hotels and dance halls are all filled and prices high. On the west coast average cabaret charge is $12.00 per couple and though a heavy crowd is expected, reservations are still available.

Primary Pupils Given Party

Children of the Primary Department of St. Luke's Anglican Church Sunday school enjoyed a delightful holiday party in the Sunday school rooms Thursday evening. The evening was sponsored by the teachers of the department, who were in charge of all arrangements.

After supper, prepared and served by the teachers, assisted by Mrs. Roy Sanderson and Misses Jean Maniece and Norma Bond, the group adjourned to the upper Sunday school rooms, for an entertaining program. Following a series of moving pictures, shown by R. H. Parsons, Harold Howay and his clever dog "Pat" amazed the children with their repertoire of tricks. This was followed by a little impromptu program, where the children announced their own numbers.

The little guests were delighted when, to the singing of Jingle Bells, Santa Claus made a special after-Christmas visit, to distribute presents which had been arranged beneath the decorated Christmas tree.

In connection with the party, Rev. A. J. Arthur made the presentations of the annual attendance prizes. They were awarded as follows: The superintendent, Mrs. C. E. Maniece's class, Phyllis Story, first, and Peter Sanderson, Shirley Sylvester, Jackie Watson, Bobby Pearse and June Merritt, second; Miss Laura Storey's class, Ronald King and George Storey, first and Frank Kelly, Ralph Butcher and Helen Walker, second; Mrs. A. ## Josephine Julian Is Wed In Knox Manse

Rev. H. J. Mahoney officiated at the quiet ceremony in the manse of Knox United Church recently, when LAW. Josephine (Josie) Julian, R.C.A.F. (WD), became the bride of WO2 Roy Douglas Hadwyn, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hadwyn, of Lindsay. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Julian, 558 Chamberlain street.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was frocked in a sky blue wool suit, with matching shoulder-length veil caught with blue and white flowers. She wore matching accessories, and a corsage of American beauty roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Thelma Julian, in a pink wool suit and shoulder-length veil caught with pink flowers, matching accessories, and a corsage of Bettertime roses. WO Jean Hammond, R.C.A.F. (WO), her other attendant, wore her Airforce uniform. Maurice Ferguson was best man.

At the reception, held at the home of the bride's parents, the bride's mother received the guests, in a rose crepe suit, with black fur and felt hat, and a corsage of Talisman roses. The groom's mother, also receiving, wore a green wool suit, with black felt hat, and a corsage of white carnations.

For a wedding trip to Toronto, the bride chose a brown crepe suit, with black hat and matching accessories. On their return, they will make their home in Belleville.

Dr., Mrs. Semple Hold Reception For Congregation

A large nummber of guests from other churches throughout the city, as well as the congregation of George Street Church, were welcomed at the reception on Thursday afternoon and evening, given by Rev. Dr. James Semple and Mrs. Semple, at the parsonage.

The informal gathering enabled a great many Peterborough people to meet the new minister of George Street, and his charming wife, and in spite of the zero weather, many guests were welcomed in the evening, as well as the afternoon. Dr. and Mrs. Semple, with their daughters, Misses Margaret and Muriel Semple, received the visitors.

The dining room was attractively arranged with green and white candles, and similar tapers flanked the centrepiece of bronze 'mums on the tea table. The living room was bright with lighted candles, and with yellow 'mums, while the den was decorated with a bouquet of white 'mums.

Pouring tea during the afternoon were Mrs. J. R. R. Cooper, Mrs. James Brown, Mrs. J. H. Rowe and Mrs. W. G. McLaren. Mrs. W. K. McGee was in charge of replenishing the table, and Mrs. Max Kernaghan extended the invitations to the dining room. Miss Vera Squire and Mrs. A. Rose assisted in the kitchen, and those serving were Mrs. R. S. Spicer, Mrs. W. C. McBride, Mrs. M. A. Fitzgerald, Miss Lillian Morrow. Mrs. C. A. Bulloch was at the door and in charge of the register.

Mrs. Fred Horton was living room hostess, while in the evening Mrs. J. W. Kelly, Mrs. P. M. McCarrell, Mrs. D. Carlisle and Mrs. Arthur Burrows presided at the tea table. Mrs. G. Ham looked after the replenishing of the table, and Mrs. E. L. Sackville invited the guests to the dining room. Assisting in the kitchen was Miss N. Ketcheson of Belleville, and the servers were Mrs. H. Borland, Miss Doris Horton, Miss Mary Duncan, Miss Ruth Parnall and Miss Margaret Edmison.

SOME PREFER BIG MODELS—The cry for small handbags is loud in the land, but not everyone takes this new fashion to her wrist, as it were. It does seem rather foolish to have got the fashion in handbags to the point where they can swallow everything but a seven-course dinner . . . and then turn them back to midgets. The bag pictured here is a luxurious, capacious model in green suede, trimmed with a real jet ornament . . . and it is good and big, to boot.

Main Couple Wed 60 Years

Former residents of Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Main, of 225 Heath street, west, Toronto, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary with a reception at their home. Married in Toronto Mr. and Mrs. Main spent several years in Peterborough before returning to Toronto about 30 years ago. Mr. Main was connected with the Marine Department of the Provincial Government.

Pink candles and a wedding cake centred the attractively arranged tea table, with Mr. Morley Fletcher and Mrs. Charles Pye pouring tea, assisted by Mrs. Louie Trotter, Miss Grace Morgan, Mrs. Elliott Plewes and Mrs. Ross Eaton. Also assisting were Mrs. George E. Meredith and Mrs. R. E. Patterson, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Main, and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. John J. Main with her daughter, Nancy.

Would Draw No Distinction Between Germans And Nazis

MONTREAL, Dec. 29 — (CP). — America's Town Meeting of the Air, in its second broadcast from Canadian soil, last night presented a discussion of the punishment to be meted out to Germany for Nazi crimes before a capacity audience in his Majesty's Theatre here.

Speakers on the affirmative on the topic, "should all Germans be punished for Nazi crimes and atrocities?" were Major Erwin Lessner, New York, and Willson Woodside of Toronto. The negative was taken by American Columnist Dorothy Thompson, and M. J. Colwell, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation leader.

The German people were "all in it together" during the years of Nazi victories, and "now that they are losing, they are still in it together," Mr. Woodside said.

"There is no large body of Germans working for the defeat of Nazism, but a whole nation trying to stave off the defeat of Germany. They have stood together in this crime, and they must be punished together."

Mr. Coldwell said to attempt to prove all Germans equally good "would do violence to my intelligence and sense of justice."

Would Not Punish All

"The answer to the question 'should all Germans be punished?' is clearly no. Are we to punish the fearless Germans who languish today in the monster concentration camps? From the former - Labor

Greece Likely To Hold First Election

By CHARLES BRUCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 29.—(CP Cable.)—Greece, the most disturbed of liberated counties, may be the first to hold national elections. It is even possible—though not probable—that a vote will be held there before the final defeat of Germany.

This is possible because Greece is not actually an operational theatre of war and this fact sets out in sharp relief a further significant truth:

When Britain freed the country of German rule last October the action was taken simply to save one of her first Allies from starvation and bring internal order. There was no patricular military value in freeing Greece.

As for the choice of the Papandreou government as a body with which to deal, the fact is that regardless of its merits or demerits there was no other organization to work with. It was not until after the liberation that the Leftist E.A.M. withdrew from the administration.

In the words of the Times of London, however, it is unquestionable that the E.A.M. is entitled to consideration on its numbers and "its great share in the national resistance to the alien invader."

In Yugoslavia, when it became obvious that certain officers under Gen. Mikailovitch's command were "making accommodations" with the enemy while, in Prime Minister Churchill's words, a "new and far more formidable champion" had appeared in Marshal Tito, Britain had no hesitation in supporting Tito.

And by the middle of 1944 the forces of Tito and of the Royal Yugoslav government in Cairo—which had been levelling at each other complaints of a sharpness that can only be reached by bitter members of the same family—were working in unity. Tito and Premier Ivan Subasitch had agreed to forget matters like the monarchy until peace comes.

Yugoslavia is not yet liberated. It may be that when the enemy is cleared from its territory the family differences will break out again.

But on the surface at least the signs point the other way. Tito's committee of national liberation includes representatives of most of the Yugoslav racial groups whose tempers were uncertain before the war.

All Favor Tito.

Certainly Tito commands military forces and public opinion ranging from the extreme left to the right. Greece, on the other hand, could achieve only technical unity even while she still fought the Germans. The answer may be in the fact that she had no leader who could inspire the whole people—as Gen. De Gaulle did in France, Tito in Yugoslavia and Prime Minister Churchill in Britain.

It is far too early to attempt to say what will happen eventually in erstwhile enemy countries like Bulgaria and Romania, really forced to switch allegiances by the power of Russian arms. All that can be said of them is that they are stewing in their self-generated juice.

There is a pattern for treatment of enemy countries, however, in the case of Italy, where the practice is to turn over liberated areas to the civil government—always under the watchful eye of an Allied control commission, which in the final event has the final say.

There are certain homely words of Winston Churchill that illustrate the manner in which Allied countries have dealt with liberated lands. They are "When you have to hold a coffee pot it is better not to break the handle off until you are sure that you will get another serviceable handle, or at any rate until there is another cloth handy."

French Plan To Build 25,000 Civilian Cars

PARIS, Dec. 29 — (AP). — French automobile manufacturers, apparently acting on the theory that the next few months may see the end of the war in Europe, are going ahead with plans to produce 25,000 civilian cars for public sale in the last half of 1945.

Military needs will continue to take precedence in the first half of the year. The French army expects to take 50,000 trucks from French assembly lines before any materials or manpower are released for civilian production.

If European fighting is ended by July, the manufacturers will be free to start turning out civilian cars under government supervision.

More V-Bombs

LONDON, Dec. 29—(CP)—Breaking a one-night lull in their aerial assaults upon Britain, the Germans struck at Southern England with V-bombs again during the night. The government announced some damage but no casualties.

Air Chief Retires

TORONTO, Dec. 29—(CP)— The R.C.A.F. here announced last night retirement of Air Commodore C. N. Irwin, chief staff officer of No. 1 Training Command here, who was commander of the 110th (City of Toronto) Squadron of the R.C.A.F. early in the war.

Third Son Casualty

OWEN SOUND, Dec. 29—(CP).—Lieut. Philip Calder has been wounded in Italy, his parents, Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Calder, have been notified. He is their third son to become a casualty. FO. Jack Calder, formerly on the editorial staff of The Canadian Press, is missing after overseas air operations, and Pte. F. J. F. Calder was wounded in Italy.

LITTLE DUTCH BOY OF 1944—He was a baby when the Nazis came in 1940. He has known nothing but oppression since then—oppression and the war of liberation that has made a shambles of his country. Little boys like this should have a hand in making the peace; for it is they who will have to fight the next war if the peacemakers botch the job this time.

Three Courses Open To Premier In Canada's 1945 Political Field

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Dec. 29 (CP) — The big political decision of 1945 will be taken shortly if it has not already been taken. It will determine when a general election is to be held, and the man who must make it is Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

The German offensive makes the decision more difficult for him, but there is no indication yet it will alter the basis on which he has already indicated he will proceed.

Parliament stands adjourned until Jan. 31 and in political circles here opinion is about evenly divided as to whether it will ever assemble again.

The latest war developments make it clear there is little prospect of the European war being ended before the term of the present parliament expires in April.

Mr. King's position for more than a year, reiterated at the recent special meeting of parliament, has been that there should not be a general election while the European war is in progress and that the five-year constitutional term of parliament should not be extended.

If the war does not end before the term of parliament he is up against a choice between the two courses he wished to avoid — an election with the war in progress or extending the term of parliament.

Does Not Want to Extend Term

The Prime Minister has never said which of the two he regarded as the greater evil but his associates have always considered his objections to extending the term to be greater than his objections to an election while fighting is in progress. The circumstances of the time and the confidential reports the Prime Minister has at his disposal on the state of things at the front will influence his decision.

Mr. King's choices are three:

1. To dissolve parliament before Jan. 31 and have a general election, presumably in March or April;

2. To re-assemble parliament for part or all of its unexpended term with an election in mind for May or June;

3 To re-assemble parliament and ask for an extension of its life.

As between the first two choices some observers see no point in calling parliament for two months with an election assured at the end. All that could be done would be the passing of estimates and a budget and much of the speaking would be for election purposes.

Possibility of Mr. King taking the third course is not taken seriously except in the case of the war outlook taking a grave turn. Constitutionally it can be done, as it was during the First Great War.

If such an address were not passed unanimously the situation might be embarrassing and there is evidence it would meet with opposition.

Glamor Girls Take A Back Seat Rayon, Nylon Essential For Parachutes

OTTAWA, Dec. 29. — Not only glamor girls but also the everyday "little woman" is joining stampedes at the stocking counters as if her life depended on one more pair.

Life does depend on stockings—but it's Bill's or George's or Sam's life, in the services overseas.

The Prices Board announces in a statement that out where death rides the skies, or stalks the slit trenches, life depends on rayon and nylon, which isn't just looking pretty but is doing a real job for the boys.

For instance, tow ropes for gliders are made of nylon. The thread used in only one would make 10,000 pairs of stockings. Or a plane is shot down and something falls from it, a parachute bringing one more boy safely to earth. That was nylon saving a life.

The silk and nylon for 136 pairs of stockings are required for one umbrella and the shroud lines of a parachute.

Rayon is used in powder bags, too—gun powder bags. Ammunition dropped to lost battalions, surrounded by the enemy, not only saves one life, but scores of them. These supply parachutes are made of rayon.

"Foundation garments" for rubber tires are of woven fabric something like fine underwear and made of cotton and rayon thread. There are your stockings again and your two-way stretch rubber girdle.

Flare parachutes— which illuminate enemy territory for bombing planes — call for silk for canopies and hemp for the shroud lines. The weight of the flare itself is held by steel cables so they cannot catch fire. These chutes can be used only once.

Parachutes are produced right here in Canada. One type is used by the sky commandos whose job it is to disrupt enemy supply lines and sabotage his munition dumps. These must be strong enough not only to support a man, but also his equipment and weapons.

TO THE RATEPAYERS

That the Public may be better acquainted with the financial position of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough, your City Council beg to submit the following statement of some of the more salient facts relative thereto, with particular reference to operations during the fiscal year now ending:

TAX RATE—The tax rate for the year was 30 mills for Public School supporters and 33 mills for Separate School supporters, the same rate as in 1943, representing a substantial reduction since 1930 when the rate was 39.2 mills.

The reduction in taxation in Peterborough is indicated by a comparison of per capita taxation which in 1931 reached the peak of $40.59 and this year was $28.18.

CURRENT TAXES—Tax payments were on the whole met promptly. The improvement in tax payments is a reflection of the greatly increased industrial activity and better business conditions prevailing in the city. Vigorous efforts made in recent years to collect unpaid tax balances have resulted in very substantial reductions in arrears.

The following table shows the improvement in tax payments:

| | Total Amount on Roll | % of Current Roll Collected | Total Amount of Arrears | % of Arrears Collected |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1936 ...... | $925,026 | 87. | $284,037 | 49.1 |
| 1939 ...... | 859,393 | 90.8 | 192,379 | 52.7 |
| 1943 ...... | 787,953 | 96.5 | 70,677 | 53.3 |
| 1944 ...... | 794,045 | 96.74 | 54,987 | 64.3 |

ARREARS OF TAXES—Of the tax arrears of $54,987.57 which were brought forward on January 1st, 1944, it is gratifying to report 64·3 per cent were paid during the year. On January 1st, 1939, tax arrears were $192,379.36, showing arrears have been decreased approximately 90 per cent in five years.

Your Council during the difficult years had been setting up a reserve for loss of taxes. This reserve, after allowing for losses, now totals $40,233.00.

BANKING—At the beginning of the year the City's bank loans totalled $20,000.00, as compared with $93,900.00 at the start of 1940, and $203,805.41 in 1937. As tax payments are received these bank loans are gradually reduced and a credit balance was maintained during the most of the year. This has resulted in a marked reduction in interest charges from year to year.

Indicative of the improvement, it is gratifying to note that, whereas on December 31, 1934, bank loans totalled $261,091.41, all loans since have been retired in full, there being no outstanding loans at this time.

ASSESSED VALUATION—The annual assessment of real property made in 1944 showed a total of $22,910,397.00, exclusive of those portions of North Monaghan Township to be annexed as of January 1, 1945. This is an increase of $350,598.00 over the 1943 assessment.

To encourage the building of homes your council maintained the policy of selling city-owned lots at moderate prices, and in 1944 there were 494 building permits issued for a total valuation of $604,745.00. These were for industrial as well as residential purposes.

NET DEBENTURE DEBT—The gross debenture debt will be reduced $139,854.00 during the year, bonds to that amount being paid off. Since 1934 the gross debenture debt has been reduced $2,458,921.00 and now stands at $2,543,179.00. To meet this debt the City Trust has on hand sinking funds of $1,362,628.00 leaving a total net of $1,180,551. In the last seven years the total debt has been reduced $1,773,768.00.

During the nine-year period, 1935 to 1944, the annual levy for the debenture debt charges has been reduced from $244,000.00 to $105,951.00. The net debt per capita for 1944 is $42.11 as compared to $125.44 in 1934.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH—The City enjoyed on the whole a year of health, without the occurrence of any serious epidemic. All sanitary conditions were maintained in a satisfactory manner, and Dr. H. Worton was added to the sanitary staff.

Three Child Hygiene Clinics were held weekly with a total attendance of 2,401, which is a substantial increase. Twenty local industries participated in the Industrial Chest X-ray survey and a total of 7,504 employees received chest X-rays. Only 8 active cases of Tuberculosis were discovered.

A shortage existed in the Public Health Nursing staff, but services were maintained throughout. Two additional nurses have been engaged for next year.

EMERGENCY FUEL AND ICE—Before last winter set in, it was apparent that a critical fuel situation existed, and arrangements were made for the purchase of a quantity of fuel wood by the City Council. Altogether 1196 cords were delivered to the City homes this year and there are still 946 cords on hand.

Similarly a shortage of ice for domestic use developed and your Council, in order to protect the health of the community, found it necessary to harvest a supply of ice and store it. This ice was distributed and sold to citizens during the summer.

GARBAGE DEPARTMENT—The collection and removal of garbage and ashes was taken over by a new civic department on April 1st with most satisfactory results. The new Incinerator has been operating capably and a new Horse Barn for this Department was built. Altogether this important civic service has been greatly improved, with seven horse-drawn vehicles and two trucks in operation.

BOARD OF WORKS—The year 1944 was disappointing from the view point of accomplishments. Due to the shortage of labour it was impossible to do all the ordinary maintenance work usually done.

Concrete walks repairs suffered as only $406.99 was spent. Sewer connection servicing and sewer cleaning were maintained and $3,100.00 was spent on this work. Cleaning pavements and streets cost nearly $14,000.00. Pavement maintenance cost about $1,260.00. Cleaning catch basins was not done as thoroughly as usual; less than $1,000.00 being spent on this work. Practically no street oiling was done, only $400.00 expenditure. Sewage disposal operations cost $9,060.86.

Snow cleaning cost $10,035.93. This was low due to the small snowfall last winter.

Moving back the curb on the east side of Aylmer Street from Charlotte Street to Simcoe Street cost $1,743.49. This widening of Aylmer Street allows the fire apparatus to get away from the fire hall much more easily. Local improvement sidewalks were built on Stewart, Wolfe, Benson and Mark Streets at a cost of $1,314.32.

GENERAL—With revenues from the various sources in most cases substantially in excess of the budget estimates and expenditure of most of the departments well within their appropriations, it is anticipated that a substantial surplus will be shown on the year's operations.

Your Council desires to acknowledge the expressions of appreciation received from citizens generally, and bespeaks for their successors a continuation of civic interest and co-operation for 1945.

SEASON'S GREETINGS TO ALL.

Yours faithfully,
JAMES HAMILTON, Mayor.

OBITUARIES

WILLIAM WATT

An elder at Knox United church for a number of years, William Watt, 89 Aylmer street, died today at his residence, after a month's illness. He was in his 84th year.

Mr. Watt has lived in Peterborough for approximately 55 years, coming to this city from the Madoc district. He was born in Madoc, the son of the late Alexander and Jane Watt, and received his education at Public School and Albert College, in Belleville.

He leaves to mourn his loss four daughters, Mrs. H. L. McKenzie, Mrs. Y. Bradbury, June Elizabeth Watt, of Toronto, and Mrs. E. W. Bennett, of Timmins. Also surviving are two sons, William A., of Galt, and C. H. Watt, of Sumacher, Ontario.

The funeral will be Sunday, at two o'clock in the afternoon, from the Funeral Home of A. Comstock and Sons, 305 Water street. Rev. William A. MacDonald will officiate, and burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

JOHN LOCKE

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 29 (ENS) —The funeral was held today of the late John Locke, a life-long resident of Seymour township who died suddenly Wednesday evening. Rev. J. O. Ralston officiated.

Death has struck twice at this family recently as Mr. Locke has taken an active interest in Ayrshire cattle and the Seymour Agricultural Society during his lifetime.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Coon of Toronto, and three sons, Douglas and Ralph of Campbellford and Percy of Arnprior.

WILLIAM KENDRY.

A former resident of Peterborough, William Kendry, died recently in Worthington, Pennsylvania, at the age of 87 years. For several years, Mr. Kendry was employed at the old Auburn Woollen Company here and while living in this city, attended the Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Kendry leaves to mourn his loss his daughters, Miss Charlotte Kendry, of Youngstown, Ohio; Mrs. Charles Guisir, of Worthington, Pa.; a sister, Mrs. Annie Wilson, of North Adams, Mass., and a brother, Edward Kendry, of Peterborough.

The funeral will be Saturday, December 30, at Worthington, Pa.

WESLEY OLVER

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 29 — (ENS). — Wesley Olver, 70, collapsed and died suddenly in Frank Coyle's garage at noon today. He has been a resident of the village since moving from Smith township where he had been a farmer.

NOTICE

Application to Legislative Assembly

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Corporation of the City of Peterborough intends to apply to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at the next Session thereof for special legislation:

1. To approve, validate and confirm By-law Number 4401 of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough which By-law authorizes the issue of debentures for Seventy-five Thousand Dollars ($75,000.00) to provide aid in the construction of a Memorial Building as the first unit of the Peterborough Memorial Community Centre.

2. To approve, validate and confirm By-law Number 4399 authorizing an agreement between the Corporation of the City of Peterborough and the Peterborough Memorial Community Centre providing for the construction, general management, regulation, control, and financing of the said Memorial Building.

3. To authorize and empower the Corporation of the City of Peterborough to vest the general management, regulation and control of such Memorial Building in a Board of Trustees.

4. To authorize and empower the Corporation of the City of Peterborough to acquire any lands by expropriation (if necessary) which may be required in order to provide proper facilities for recreation and sports for the children, youth, industrial workers and the citizens generally of the City of Peterborough and a forum for public gatherings.

The existing Debenture debt exclusive of local Improvements and other indebtedness which by the provisions of certain Ontario Statutes is not to be reckoned in ascertaining whether or not the limit of the borrowing power of the Corporation has been reached is $2,376,520.70, and no part of the principal or interest thereof is in arrears.

The amount of the rateable property of the Municipality, according to the last Revised Assessment Roll of the Corporation, is $25,501,689.00.

DATED at Peterborough, this 11th Day of December 1944.

WILFRID F. HUYCKE, K.C.,
Solicitor for the Applicant.

Canadian Yards Built 152 War Vessels

OTTAWA, Dec. 29.—(CP).—Navy Minister Macdonald announced today that Canadian shipyards, keeping pace with the wartime growth of the Royal Canadian Navy, produced 152 vessels for it during 1944, ranging from the latest fighting frigates, corvettes and algerines to auxiliaries such as a wooden scow, and representing 19 types.

Not included in the total is an assortment of smaller craft built in Canada's east coast yards. The construction of merchant ships is another story of the Dominion's contribution to the battles of the sea lanes. The variety of craft produced indicates the many construction problems involved in maintaining the fighting ships at sea.

To mention a few auxiliary raft there are the 100-foot, 80-foot and 40-foot tugs, ammunition lighters, anti-submarine towing vessels, diving tenders, boom attendant vessels, derrick scows, water barges and wooden scows.

These vessels were produced in the three areas described as west coast, Great Lakes and St. Lawrence River. They were constructed in yards which have sprung up largely since war began, and were built mainly by wartime-trained workers who have helped create Canada's growing fame as a shipbuilding nation.

Among the many smaller types produced there is the derrick scow which will support a 25-ton crane and the harbor passenger craft which will accommodate 130 men. More than 100 cargo ships were built during the year.

Before any of the ships and smaller craft are accepted and commissioned by the R.C.N., each undergoes thorough trials supervised by highly-trained specialists.

Millbrook News

Mrs. S. E. and Miss Mary Eakins of Toronto spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Eakins.

Major W. R. Howard of Kingston was home for the holiday with his wife and family, leaving again on Wednesday.

Captain B. B. Dawson, who has been in western Canada for several months is now home, and on his way to another posting.

Mr. T. A. Campbell was in Port Hope, Tuesday, attending the marriage of his cousin, Dr. Arthur Walsh of Vancouver, B.C. The wedding took place in St. Mark's Anglican Church, the bride being Bernice Hesson, Reg. N. of Charleston, West Virginia. The reception was held at the home of the groom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Dawson, Dr. and Mrs. Walsh will reside for the present in New York, and left for that city later in the evening. The groom is the son of a former Millbrook boy, Dr. Charles Walsh, of Vancouver, his mother having been a Port Hope girl.

Friends of Miss Mae Mitchell of Oshawa and formerly of Millbrook will be sorry to learn of the death of her young brother, Morley Hugh, which occurred on the family homestead, 496 Lawrence avenue, Oshawa, on Christmas day. The funeral took place Thursday.

PRAISES BRITISH FILMS

LONDON — (CP). — Praise for Britain's documentary films came from Robert Riskin, chief of the motion picture bureau of the overseas branch of the United States Office of War Information. The British, he said during a visit here, "seem to know that type of film better than we do."

ANSWER—What is called plain speaking is merely the camouflage under which people seek to disguise boorishness and ill-nature. When you hear anyone say: "I am plain-spoken," you know that he or she has said something rude or disagreeable, because, strangely enough, the plain-spoken never seem called up to say anything that is pleasant.

Being plain-spoken is the outward and visible sign of envy and malice and all uncharitableness and lack of consideration for the feelings of others. No human being can have a more objectionable characteristic, and it is no wonder that those who have it are feared and dreaded and disliked, since none of us enjoy being gratuitously insulted, or hearing unpleasant truths about ourselves.

Mention Their Charms

So you are wise to try to correct this fault in yourself. I would suggest that you begin by trying to get the proper perspective on those you meet; that will show you that they have quite as many good qualities as bad and, this being true, why not mention the charms in your friends and acquaintances instead of their defects?

Try out every speech mentally on yourself and see how you would like somebody to say to you the thing that you are contemplating saying to him or her. When you learn to control your tongue and not to criticize people, you will have acquired great wisdom and be on the high road to popularity.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I have been working in the same position for more than ten years and, so far as I can see, there does not seem any prospect for advancement. The salary is not bad, but I am not learning anything. Do you think I should strike out for something else?

DISCOURAGED.

ANSWER—If you are sure that you are in a blind alley, I would advise you by all means to get out of it. Do not stay in any position that does not offer you a future. Nothing turns work into drudgery so quickly as the feeling that one has reached the limit of what one can do in that particular line and that every day's work will be just going round and round the same old treadmill without ever getting anywhere. Insensibly under such conditions our work slumps and our morale breaks. It takes ambition to put pep into our efforts.

Of course, it isn't well always to be changing positions, but it is equally foolish to stick to a poor job too long. Find out what you want to do and what you have a talent for doing. Learn how to do that thing well, so that you are thoroughly competent, and then hunt around until you find some position where good work will be appreciated and where the opportunities have no limit but the sky.

DEAR MISS DIX— Suppose you were a man and had been married for ten years to a faithful good woman, a good housekeeper and one who tried to make you happy. But suppose you had married too young, long before you were settled, and that your ideas and tastes had all changed, and the woman you once loved now bores you stiff, and your love is dead.

Suppose you had met the one woman who was everything you wanted in the world and your heart was breaking for her, and this love grew stronger and stronger with every year. And suppose you were so miserable that you thought of ending your life at times. What would you do?

DESPERATE.

ANSWER—Why, I think I would go and tell my wife just how I felt about it and ask her to set me free. Probably she would be glad to do so, for if you are that tired of her and that much in love with another woman, you can't be a very satisfactory husband.

But offer her a fair divide of your property, for, after all, it isn't her fault that your marriage is a failure.

ing information, possibly to find whether British 2nd Army and and American 9th Army forces have diverted any troops toward the salient or whether strength might be accumulating for an Allied offensive against the north end of the west wall.

The size of the German force already committed to the breakthrough venture and the careful planning that went into it indicates the enemy aimed at something other than a mere harassing operation, military men say.

With this extensive commitment of strength, it is reasonable to expect that Von Rundstedt may make another bid for his goal before attempting to fall back behind the Siegfried Line.

movement, the Catholic centre party, and Protestant confessional groups, they fought Hitlerism with everything they had and paid for their bravery in torture and blood."

He concluded, "punishment of all Germans is neither justice nor commonsense, but punishment of those responsible for Nazi crimes must be swift, effective and complete.

Austrian-born Major Lessner cited some personal experiences to back his contention that no distinction should be drawn between Germans and Nazis, and for further evidence pointed to history.

"Five times during the last 80 years the Germans have given murderous evidence of their aim of domination. Each time they have outdone their previous atrocities.... If we fail to punish all Germans this time, I can assure you they will not fail to give you even more drastic evidence of their madness. . . ."

Miss Thompson, quoting from a recent broadcast of President Roosevelt in which he affirmed his belief "that in all peoples, without a single exception, lives some instinct for truth, some attraction to justice, some passion for peace," added:

"I stand on these words of the President. And I also stand on civilized law. It has taken centuries to establish the concept of individual responsibility and trial by impartial courts. This concept of justice, in direct contrast to totalitarian justice, outlaws mass indictments and mass punishments. . . . The Allies have lists of 166,000 known Nazi criminals. I expect and hope they will be executed."

She said the highest vote the Nazi party ever got in a free election was 37 per cent. and called it "childish" to think that "if only we get rid of the Germans all will be well."

"The causes of this war lie deep in the social tensions and nationalist anarchy of our age. . . ."

For Saturday, December 30

THE sidereal operations for this day indicate a fairly routine or uneventful state of affairs, with the interests centered about the pursuit of fun, good times and pleasure generally, with the activities of youth and its objectives emphasized in the scene. All social, domestic and sentimental enjoyments move under high gear, with perhaps a trifling setback or mishap.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a fairly routine year, with all professional, intellectual, literary and other cultural forms making fair progress. All vocations and avocations of youth and its enjoyments are uppermost rather than any serious objectives by elders.

A child born on this day, while possessing all the normal leanings of youthful play, fun and pastimes, may find little encouragement from its elders.

The Tea Hour Gossip . . . .

Today our recipes are going to be for some good supper dishes. Anyone of these dishes, served with some fruit and cake, is all that is necessary for a noonday luncheon or an evening supper.

Cheese Rarebit With Milk.

1½ cups cheese, cubed or sliced, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon mustard, few grains paprika, 2 cups scalded milk, 2 tablespoons butter (this may be left out if desired), ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Mix ingredients in order given in a double boiler top. Add milk and stir over hot water until thick and smooth. Serve on toast or crisp crackers.

Potato Souffle.

2 cups well-seasoned fluffy mashed potatoes, 1 tablespoon butter, 3 eggs, 1 teaspoon powdered parsley. Melt the butter in baking dish. Beat together the egg yolks, potato and parsley. Then fold in the egg whites stiffly beaten. Brown in a quick oven. Half a cup of grated cheese may be added if desired.

Baked Crumb Omelet.

4 eggs, ½ cup coarse stale bread crumbs, 1 cup milk, 1¼ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon hot ham dripping or bacon fat. Let the crumbs stand in the milk until softened. Separate the eggs, beat the yolks until lemon colored and add the seasonings and crumb mixture. Beat the egg whites until stiff. Fold in the egg whites and bake in a well-buttered dish, until done.

Ham Loaf.

¼ lb. lean ham, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups milk, ¼ lb. grated cheese, 3 eggs, salt and pepper to taste. Cook ham and chop fine. Mix the flour with the milk and cook for a few minutes. Then add the ham, cheese, egg yolks slightly beaten and the stiffly beaten egg whites. Season with salt and pepper, pour into a mould, set the mould in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven (375 deg. F.) until firm, about 20 or 30 minutes. This may be served either with or without a thin white sauce.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

A JOKER IN THE GAME?

"PERFECT" bridge hands occur just about a million times as often as the mathematics of cards indicate they should. Even those cases of all four players holding complete 13-card suits are of terrific frequency compared to those which should be voucsafed to some player of a foursome. What upsets the mathematics so much? Is it merely that the imperfections of human shuffling and dealing can produce that many 13-card suits? Or is there usually a joker in the background when one develops?

(Dealer: Makes no difference. Vulnerability: Who cares?)

The bidding: 7-Spades, and nobody doubles; all pass.

There we have the deal reported by reliable news agencies as having been held by four players in the home of Mrs. John J. Hill, of Arlington, Mass., a suburb of Cambridge, which itself is a suburb of Boston. According to the newsmen, Mrs. Hill held the spades and bid 7-Spades, but the hands were thrown in when each other player found she held a perfect hand.

The odds are more than 100 billion to 1 against that happening on a deal. In fact, careful figuring indicates that, if the entire population of the United States played 24 hours every day, it should happen about once in 76 years in the whole nation. Yet such deals are reported every year.

Perhaps the best clue to the reason for this is the locale—Arlington. That was the residence of one of the finest men and most brilliant bridge students who ever lived, the late Walter F. Wyman. He wrote a piece about such a perfect hand and explained that, in the family where it was dealt, there was a high school boy. Just how the boy fixed up the deck for the deal, and got it slipped into the game, was not made clear.

But isn't it likely that most homes where such deals arise have in them a schoolboy who enjoys giving the grownups thrills, "just for fun?" And isn't that as good an explanation as any for the vagaries of the mathematics?

School Presents Yearly Concert

YOUNG'S POINT, Dec. 29 — (ENS). — The Senior Room of the Young's Point School was filled with an enthusiastic audience for the annual concert. Robert Northey acted as chairman for the evening, and the program opened with a recitation of welcome by Monica Young, duet by Margaret Dunford and John Darling, two well-acted dialogues by the Senior Room. The highlight of the program was the action song "My Rheumatiz" by pupils of the Senior Room. Pupils of the Junior Room presented an excellent musical drill and a play "The Princess Who Wanted to be a Fairy." These were interspersed by tap dancing by Shirley Shelton, piano solo by Faye Darling, and monologues by Everett Dunford, Sandy MacNaughton, and Margaret McIllmoyl. The closing item on the program was a song "Toy Maker's Dream" by all the pupils.

Treating Water To Save Teeth

OTTAWA, Dec. 29—(CP)—Reduction in the import duty on sodium fluoride when used to prevent dental cavities has been authorized by order-in-council to assist in experiments proposed at Brantford, Ont.

Brantford is planning experiments in the treatment of its water supply with the chemical to prevent dental cavities. About 80 per cent of the chemical brought into Canada is for disinfecting purposes and comes under a special tariff item in the United States trade agreement.

Exemption of the 10 per cent war exchange tax on sodium fluoride imported from the United States for purposes such as the Brantford experiment will bring the cost down to that of sodium chloride imported for disinfecting, the order says.

Submarine Lost

The 1,500-ton submersible was of a class which normally carries a complement of 62 men. No announcement was made of the number lost.

The Seawolf brought to 34 the total of United States submarines lost during the way and to 239 the number of naval vessels of all types.

Polish Flier Ace Fighter Lives To Kill Hated Nazis

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN—Associated Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Dec. 29—(AP).—The exploits of Maj. Mike Cladych, "The Flying Pole," are becoming legendary among Allied fighter pilots. Cladych has been serving with the U.S. 8th Air Force for more than a year now without any official status. The American pilots chip in each month to give him spending money, and meanwhile he goes on taking Thunderbolts over Germany to shoot up anything wearing the hated Swastika.

The story of this amazing airman has been pieced together bit by bit by other fliers. It forms one of the most fantastic tales to come out of the war.

Cladych, now 35, was a member of the Polish Air Force when the Nazis overran Poland, killing his parents, his sweetheart and many of his friends. He escaped by plane to France and joined the French Air Force. Shot down in a German-occupied area, he was hidden by a French doctor in an insane asylum while the Gestapo searched for him.

Clubbed By Gestapo.

Later he was waylaid in a Paris alley by the Gestapo, who left him for dead after beating him over the head with lead pipes, but the French doctor managed to get him back to the asylum and treated him there for months.

He did not fully recover until after all France had been occupied by the Nazis, and then was smuggled to Britain. He joined the R.A.F. and fought in the battle of Britain, later becoming a member of the Polish squadron formed by the British.

A year ago he was assigned to the 8th Air Force for detached duty.

Cladych will not talk of his exploits. Apparently all he wants to do is kill Nazis, but the men of the fighter group, intent upon keeping up their record of kills, have a hard time pumping from him the number of his victories.

"May be I get two planes," he says unconcernedly when asked to report on the outcome of a dogfight. "But I cannot count because I am too busy shooting what's ahead of me instead of looking back to see what I left behind me."

His wing cameras show he has shot down at least 11 enemy planes, but his comrades say he has accounted for at least 15 more.

Some say that during his service with four different Allied air forces he has downed at least 45 enemy planes.

Top ace among Allied fliers in western Europe whose record is fully authenticated is Wing Cmdr. J. E. (Johnny) Johnson whose total of kills currently stands at 38. The English-born pilot leads a Europe-based R.C.A.F. Spitfire wing.

DEFENDS SISTER—A closeup of pretty Mrs. Agnes Joan Hannah, 21, sister of Joan Berry and wife of a navy chief petty officer now at sea. Mrs. Hannah is a resident of New York and came to her sister's defence when interviewed by reporters. Mrs. Hannah believes Joan was honest in her love for Charlie Chaplin, adding "let him who is without sin, cast the first stone."

9,000 Sq. Miles Taken In Burma

KANDY, Ceylon, Dec. 29—(CP-Reuters)—After a swift 30-mile advance troops of the 15th Indian Corps occupied Foul Point on the Arakan coast, southeast Asia command headquarters announced today.

The occupation of this point at the extremity of the long strip between the sea and the Mayu River was described as a valuable strategic gain.

A second column advancing south through Arakan now is 22 miles southeast of the former Japanese stronghold of Buthidaung.

In the northern Burma fighting 9,000 square miles now have been recovered from the Japanese through the co-ordinated attacks of British and Chinese troops since the campaign opened in the middle of October.

Coins As Shrapnel

NIJMEGEN, Holland, Dec. 29—(CP-Aneta).—Men who take apart dud enemy shells picked up a bit of loose change near here. Instead of jagged pieces of shrapnel, they found that one unexploded shell contained silver and nickel Netherlands coins. The newspaper Nijmeegsch Dagblad, published here, said presumably metal supplies had run short at the factory that turned out the shell and requisitioned coins were used instead, without smelting them into the form of shrapnel.

Aviation Meeting

HAMILTON, Dec. 29 — (CP) — Stuart S. McNaughton, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Aviation Committee, to-day announced that 350 Ontario municipalities will be invited to send representatives to a conference here February 7 and 8 on post-war aviation. The conference was originally planned as a Southern Ontario affair, but has been expanded since then.

2 Die In Storm

TORONTO, Dec. 29 — (CP) — Two sudden deaths here Wednesday night were attributed to the 4.6-inch fall of snow which blanketed the city. Samuel J. Hogg, 48, died after shovelling snow, and James Black, 42, died after coming home through the storm. Sixty-three persons were injured, 50 of them suffering fractures in falls. Hospitals reported 175 fracture cases in the last five days.

1945 To Bring New Opportunities For Security And Well Being

OTTAWA, Dec. 29—(CP)—The year 1945 will bring new opportunities for the achievement of peace, security and well being, but failure to take advantage of them may bring disaster, A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said to-day in a New Year's message.

Mr. Mosher said the unprecedented growth of organized labor in Canada was particularly important at a time when every agency which could promote national unity and unanimity in national ideals and objectives could make a valuable contribution.

"What organized labor wants to do, in co-operation with all other forward-looking elements in the nation, is to make the economic system function in such a way as to provide employment and incomes for all, and the highest standard of living which can be obtained," Mr. Mosher continued.

"Whatever stands in the way of this is contrary to the national well-being and should be eliminated as quickly as possible."

While efforts toward adequate wages and improved working conditions would have to be continued the changes in Canada's economic structure would require labor to deal more extensively with governments.

"Instead of regarding labor as a threat to economic security the people of Canada may properly look to Labor to give leadership toward a social order under which it will be possible to obtain economic security," he said. "The danger is not that Labor will become too strong but that the reactionary forces of the nation will be able to maintain their dominance over both Government and industry."

"...The new year will bring fresh opportunities for progress toward the fulfillment of national ideals of peace, security and well-being. If the organizations and institutions representing varied interests in Canada are willing to get together in a spirit of co-operation and goodwill, and undertake to carry through a program of legislative and economic reconstruction, no objective is impossible of attainment.

"On the other hand, if each one struggles selfishly for its own interests, nothing can save the country from disaster.

"In some respects the Canadian people stand at the crossroads. They may have to decide in the coming year whether and to what extent they are prepared to chart a fresh pathway toward the solution of their economic and political problems.

"I believe that the Labor movement is ready to take that pathway and to help establish a way of life in both the national and international realms which will compensate to some extent for the sacrifices that have been made during the war."

Veterans Favor Fixed Gratuity

HAMILTON, Dec. 29 — (CP) — A basic gratuity for servicemen who give their lives—one not regulated by length of service—is under discussion by Veterans' groups here and recommendation may be forwarded soon to federal authorities, Alfred F. Smees, president of the United Council of Veterans' Associations, said Thursday.

Mr. Smees said veterans wanted the same amount paid bereaved dependents "whether the servicemen died on his first or twenty-first operation."

He added veterans have criticized the present gratuity plan based on length of service "in that a greater value is placed upon one life than upon another."

Chevalier Again

PARIS, Dec. 29 — (AP) — Maurice Chevalier and Mistinguette will return to the Casino De Paris in a new reveue about the end of January, Mistinguette said yesterday. She said she had refused to go unless Chevalier did too, and that he had given up his former decision to retire and was now rehearsing in southern France.

GERMAN CORRIDOR CUT TO 13 MILES

Leaflet Warfare Conducted Against Germany Most Effective

MOST SUCCESSFUL PROPAGANDA LEAFLET OF THE WAR HAS BEEN MESSAGE FOR FRONT-LINE TROOPS, SAYING "THE WAY HOME TO GERMANY LIES THROUGH CANADA"

By FRED BACKHOUSE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 30 — (CP Cable). — A blizzard of "psychological warfare" leaflets fluttered down from Allied bombers to enemy-occupied Europe during 1944 in a truth campaign which British intelligence officers said today is having a "termite" effect on German morale.

Growth of this paper offensive since the paper-chase trail of a few thousand leaflets in early war days was indicated by Air Ministry disclosure that more than 250,000,000 leaflets were scattered over 12 European countries this year by Italy-based RAF night bombers alone.

One of the most successful propaganda leaflets of the war, it now can be revealed, has been a message for German front-line troops telling them "The way home to Germany lies through Canada."

Under this heading, the leaflet contains a grisply-written account of the latest Allied successes with the implication that wise use of a safe-conduct pass leads to comfortable internment in Canada and eventually back to the Fatherland.

On the reverse side is a photographic reproduction of a bulletin board at a Canadian prison camp, with the tempting menu for the day, a message to newcomers by a German camp leader warmly describing the wonders of Canadian food and life and a notice of camp sporting and social activities.

The effect of this pamphlet on all but die-hard Nazis when first used during the slow-moving Italian campaign in 1943 was practically magical.

The Germans who had a leaflet with them when they deserted to Allied lines was discontented and brooding. His officers would taunt: "What's the matter with you? Got the 'Canada spirit'?"

German officers captured on the Italian front described the leaflets as a "most ungentlemanly" form of warfare.

While all occupied countries receive a regular leaflet service of straight news, other leaflets are specially prepared for specific areas. For France, before the invasion, there were messages of encouragement. The Balkans generally were exhorted to overthrow Quisling leaders.

Winter Offensive Recoils Driven Back 12 Miles; Allies Using 25 Divisions

Haze And Mist Conceals Troop Movements
No Immediate Indication That Von Rundstedt Is Pulling Armor Out

By JAMES M. LONG—Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Dec. 30—(AP).—The German winter lunge into Belgium recoiled bit by bit today under triphammer American blows which 48 hours ago had sliced the width of the enemy bulge to 13 miles, and flung its deepest wedges back 12 miles. The Allied security cloak concealed later developments, except for telling of additional strengthening and widening of the U.S. 3rd Army's corridor to Bastogne by Friday morning.

Meantime action flared on the British 2nd Army sector north-west of Geilenkirchen, in the region of Gangelt, when the Germans launched an infantry attack and gained "some initial success."

Lt.-Gen. Dempsey's Tommies hurled the enemy back, killing or wounding about 100 Germans and taking 70 prisoners, to-day's Allied communique reported.

Gangelt is on the frontier separating the Netherlands from Germany.

A front dispatch said German night patrols crossed the Maas (Meuse) River in Holland four miles south-west of Roermond, but were driven off while trying to sneak up the Wessem Canal in boats.

No action was reported from the 1st Canadian Army front to the north and west, where for the past several days Gen. Crerar's men have met intensified enemy patrol activity.

The 3rd Army had fought four miles north of Bastogne by Thursday, within 13 miles of U.S. 1st Army troops hitting Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's northern flank.

For close to three days, Von Rundstedt had been held without gain.

The most acute question today was whether the German commander was pulling his armor out.

Admittedly he still had enough armored power poised for another blow, and 48 hours of concealing haze and mist had given him opportunity to bring up supplies and regroup his forces.

Fell Short Of Purpose.

But there was no immediate indication that Von Rundstedt was prepared to risk his armies against the force Gen. Eisenhower had assembled.

(A Berlin broadcast said the Americans had thrown 25 divisions against the German drive.)

Von Rundstedt had fallen short of his probable purpose—decisive victory—but had succeeded in knocking the props from under the Allied winter offensive, and in creating a salient seriously threatening Allied plans.

At the same time, he had thrust his way into trouble. Either he must continue this offensive threat by smashing back the U.S. 3rd Army's flanking counter-attack on a 45-mile front, or get his armor out before the gap is pinched shut.

The gap between Von Rundstedt's narrowing flanks was thin enough to be raked by U.S. artillery.

Von Rundstedt's armor—two panzer armies — apparently was the heart of his mobile reserve.

Front dispatches reported indications skies were clearing this morning to give air power—a major factor in continuing the beat-off—a new opportunity after days of low-drifting fog.

The latest disclosed frontline positions up to Friday morning were:

At the western end, Americans had fought into the outskirts of Rochefort and opened a direct assault on bitterly-resisting Germans there. Infantry had surged 12 miles back from the Nazi penetration to

McNaughton Says Reserves Exceed Demand

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Dec. 30—(CP)—Defence Minister McNaughton said here today that overseas reinforcements "to an even greater scale than that demanded and promised are well assured."

He made the announcement in a New Year's address prepared for delivery from a local radio station. This is the county seat of Grey North riding, which Gen. McNaughton is contesting in a Feb. 5 by-election.

"I can report to you," he said, "that reinforcement for our forces in northwest Europe and in Italy, to an even greater scale than that demanded and promised are well assured. So much so that we now can proceed to enlarge our plans for bringing back to Canada the men of very long service overseas and replacing them with others who have not yet given their share of service."

He did not elaborate on this statement, which might mean that a re-mustering process and volunteering from the ranks of home defence draftees had given him a number of infantrymen in addition to the 16,000 conscripted for overseas service by the new government reinforcement policy.

In a previous speech at his nominating convention here, Gen. McNaughton had announced that while he had originally promised to have about 450 long service men home for Christmas, he then actually expected to have about 1,000 with their families by the new year.

He said the Canadian munitions

Quake Shakes North England

LONDON, Dec. 30—(CP Cable)—An earthquake termed by seismologists the worst to be felt in Britain "for some years" shook Northern England early today. There were no immediate reports of damage.

Buildings in Manchester were reported "violently shaken" and tremors were felt at West Bromwich, 80 miles distant, and at Leeds, 106 miles from Manchester. The tremors began at 1:36 a.m. (8:36 p.m. E.D.T. Friday.

Tremors began slowly and built up for 45 seconds, with vibrations continuing for two minutes. Shaw said preliminary indications were that the centre of the disturbance probably was somewhere between Manchester and Darlington.

The last extensive earthquake shock in Britain occurred before the first Great War when vibrations were felt between London and Aberdeen.

Greek King Approves Forming Regency Settlement Near

By STEPHEN BARBER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ATHENS, Dec. 30—(AP).—King George II of Greece was reported authoritatively today to have assented to the establishment of a regency in the country under Archbishop Damaskinos, and hopes of an early settlement of the civil war rose.

Reliable reports said ELAS leaders had sent Prime Minister Churchill a message offering to place the country's political squabbles in his hands for arbitration and had proposed an immediate truce to the British. Mr. Churchill had left the country, however, before the letter reached British headquarters and Lt.-Gen. R. M. Scobie, British commander in Greece, forwarded the letter to London. Its contents were not revealed here.

There were indications here that Premier George Papandreou had submitted his resignation and that the Right-wing Liberal leader, Themistokles Sophoulis, had been asked to form a new cabinet.

In northwestern Greece, meanwhile, the forces of Gen. Napoleon Zervas, hard-pressed by the ELAS, were reported evacuating to the Island of Corfu which is held by British troops and forces friendly to Zervas' faction.

Sources in Athens estimated the forces of Gen. Zervas had diminish-

Twin Raids Rip Rail Centres

LONDON, Dec. 30.—(CP).—Long-range bombers from Britain punched at Germany to-day for the eighth consecutive day after twin raids last night by R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. four-engined craft on the rail yards at Troisdorf and synthetic oil plants at Schloven-Buer in the Ruhr.

Two Canadian heavies are missing from the night's operations.

The U.S. strategic air forces announced at 1 p.m. that "United States' bombers are again over Germany." German radio warnings reported a fleet of heavy craft over the Ruhr and another heading for south-western Germany.

Approximately 10,000 tons of bombs are believed to have been dropped on German targets yesterday by Allied planes based in Britain, Western Europe and Italy.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Dec. 30—(AP).—A feminine officer of the civil air patrol called the Fort Francis E. Warren public relations office. "Madame," said the veteran private who answered the telephone, "it never existed as far as I am concerned."

One Torpedoing In St. Lawrence During Year 1944

QUEBEC, Dec. 30 (CP) — The Fort Thompson, 10,000-ton Vancouver-built ship part of whose crew believed she had been sunk after she was torpedoed in the St. Lawrence River Nov. 2, was towed here for repairs and since has resumed her journey, it was permitted to be disclosed today.

When two explosions first occurred on the ship, it was not known whether they resulted from enemy action or from boiler trouble, but shipping officials since have determined definitely that the vessel was damaged in the first known torpedo attack in the river since 1942.

The vessel suffered torpedo damage on the starboard side near the bow, but 45 officers and crew men who remained aboard, were able to keep her afloat until she could be towed up-river to Quebec.

No one was injured in the twin explosions which rocked the freighter. Seventeen members of the crew put off in one lifeboat and landed at Matane, Que., with word that their vessel had been sunk. They did not know what had happened to the other 45 persons aboard the ship.

Those on board said subsequently that the one lifeboat had been filled after the first explosion but that actual release of the boat was accidental resulting when somebody aboard pulled a slip knot in the rope by which the lifeboat was towed.

First reports of the "sinking" came from the group of 17 who landed at Matane early in the morning of Nov. 3 after a six-hour row across the St. Lawrence current. They said their ship had gone down as they pulled away from her, their belief evidently springing from the fact that the current swept them out of sight of the freighter in the darkness just as a second explosion was heard.

Their story, with its assumption that the ship was sunk, was passed for publication by the press censors.

A few hours later, it was learned that the freighter was in tow on her way to Quebec, 235 miles up the river from Matane, with the remainder of her crew uninjured and still aboard. Stories correcting the first report that she had sunk were

Canuck Guns Shelling Alfonsine

Bitter Fighting Rages On 5th Army Front

ROME, Dec. 30 — (CP). — The Allied Command to-day reported the increased enemy movement of troops and material in the Tyrrhenian coastal sector of Italy, while in the Serchio Valley the situation "remains fluid."

On the British 8th Army front north of Faenza the 1st Canadian Corps continued to reduce German positions east of the Senio River, a communique reported. Patrols were active elsewhere along the front.

Canadian artillery last night was reported shelling Alfonsine, nine miles north-west of Ravenna, on Lt.-Gen. Foulkes' right flank, and Cotignola, on his left flank, six miles north-east of Faenza.

British tanks and infantry had cleared the Germans from Lamoretta and Villa Quaglia, the latter a stoutly-held hamlet on the Naviglio Canal's east bank, four miles north-east of Faenza.

These operations were being carried out in canal-laced, semi-flooded territory southeast of where the Po River empties into the Adriatic.

Near Italys opposite coast, German attacks in the Serchio Valley appeared checked following four days' stiff fighting in which United States units of the Allied 5th Army had been forced back along a six-mile sector and driven from Gallicano, 16 miles north of Lucca and Barga, two miles to the north-east.

There was no official estimate of the total German gain, nor any indication of whether German operations in this area foreshadowed a major counter-offensive to retake Lucca and Livorno (Leghorn) or merely marked a large-scale diversionary manoeuvre to distract Allied attention from the Bologna and Po Valley fronts.

Possibility that the Germans were moving substantial forces down the west coast was seen in an Air Force announcement that hundreds of Allied medium and fighter bombers spent yesterday blasting bridges and other targets along the coastal road south of La Spezia.

Budapest Fall Likely On Weekend

Russians 64 Miles From Bratislava Slovakian Capital

LONDON, Dec. 30 — (CP). — Austria-bound Russian troops plunged forward to-day in new gains after forcing strong German defences north of the Danube and crossing the Hron River, while to the south bloody fighting in the streets of Budapest raged with increased fury.

In the Buda section of the tottering Hungarian capital Russian shock battalions were slaughtering the trapped Nazi garrison in hand-to-hand fighting. In Pest, on the east bank of the Danube, German and Hungarian defenders fought desperately to stave off powerful Russian armor that already had penetrated the first of three inner defence rings.

Still other Russian units tightened the death trap on German and Hungarian troops caught in the Pilis Hills north of the city, killing 2,500 of them yesterday after capturing 2,200 the previous day.

The Russians crossed the Hron River, one of the last water hurdles before the Bratislava Plains leading to Vienna, sped two miles beyond and captured Nana and Parkany near the Hron's confluence with the Daube.

Units of Marshal Feodor Tolbukhin's 3rd Ukrainian Army already have outflanked the point of confluence of the two rivers west of the big Danube Bend and were driving along the approaches to Komaron, situated 53 miles south-east of Bratislava and 81 miles from Vienna.

The crossing of the Hron put the Russians within 76 miles of Bratislava and 105 miles from Vienna. Other sections of the same army arrayed along the east bank of the Hron to the north were only 64 miles from Bratislava.

Canadian Christmas Grim Across Holland War Front

By DOUGLAS AMARON—Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN ARMY IN HOLLAND, Dec. 30—(CP).—The sign by the side of the road reads "Spend your holidays in the Nijmegen salient." It invites you into the area where Canadian soldiers are fighting along the Holland-Germany frontier and beyond. There are many features to this holiday area which you won't find in a winter resort at home. They are features worth remembering when you read that all was "quiet" on the 1st Canadian Army front, when you begin to believe Canadians are having it easy in this static period of their war.

The Nijmegen salient and the area west of it to the mouth of the turbulent Maas River offer shells and bombs, night patrols into a no man's land covered by German machine-guns, mortars, rifles and grenades.

They offer the bitter chill of winter winds and rain, mud and the overflow and seepage of swollen rivers and canals, spreading across the bleak flatness of this country.

Canadian soldiers and their allies in this Canadian army are digging in for the winter. They don't know when they may be called upon to fight another battle, but while they are waiting they are making the most of a climate and a terrain that discourage a war of movement.

Allies Often Underestimate the Huns

Belief That Germans Have No Stomach For Fighting Is Incorrect

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

War Secretary Stimson says it's "too early to pass judgment as to whether any persons or group of persons should be censured in connection with the German break-through on the western front."

Nobody is likely to challenge that, and in any event the fixing of blame—if any—is a matter for the military authorities and not for observers. Still we may be excused for puzzlement over the phenomenon of 250,000 German troops being thrown against the Allied line unexpectedly. Certainly we are left with the broad question of why it is that, quite apart from the break-through, we so often have underestimated the capabilities and initiative of the Germans.

If you check memory you will recall many instances of miscalculation. The Allies underestimated the Kaiser's striking power with his submarines, and German ruthlessness in waging unrestricted warfare, and he all but won the war with the U-boats. Again in the spring of fateful 1918 he nearly triumphed when his generals massed troops on the British 5th Army front—while 5th Army intelligence watched—and then broke through. General Sir Hubert Gough, commander of the 5th Army, later was replaced.

The whole world underestimated the ability of "shattered" Germany to recover quickly after the First Great War. The Anglo-French Allies guessed wrong again at the time of the Munich conference. When I returned to London after attending that historic parley, which lighted the fuse for the Second Great War, I tried to tell friends that Hitler was brewing catastrophe, and they said:

"Nonsense, my lad. He's just a one-armed paper-hanger."

So it goes. Despite many lessons, the present war has produced numerous examples. Along with these there has grown up the curious idea that when the Germans make a brave stand in battle it's "fanaticism" and that at heart they have no stomach for fighting and are likely to quit.

Misled By Tradition

What's the answer to all this? Have we been misled by the homely tradition that the German is an easy-going, placid individual of ample girth whose sole concerns are his job, his good-natured hausfrau and his children, and whose pleasure is a pipe and seidel of beer in a music hall?

Well, that's somewhat characteristic of part of the German population. Perhaps where we go wrong is in forgetting that all Germans, placid or otherwise, are particularly adaptable to regimentation, and that the mainspring of German militarism and barbarism is the powerful Prussian race of overlords. These Junkers of great wealth have for generations made war and leadership their sole business.

The Prussian represents close to the last word in military craftsmanship. He's a skillful leader. He's brave in battle. He's not to be taken lightly.

But that's not the whole story. It represents Germany up to the advent of Hitler. The Fuehrer has superimposed on this evil structure something infinitely worse. He has deprived German youth of their

Smokey Smith Gets Watch

V.C. Winner Left Many In Pawn Shops

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Dec. 30 — (CP). — Pte. Ernest Alvia (Smokey) Smith, V.C., is Canada's latest hero and the first private to bring home to the Dominion the Empire's highest award, but the stocky young soldier who stammered out a few laconic words at a public reception last night was the witty Smokey Smith known to everyone in the neighborhood.

"This one won't go into the hock shop," Smokey told the crowded arena as he accepted an engraved gold watch from his townsfolk. "I have most of my watches spread across Canada, but I'll hang onto this one."

The embarrassed hero with the crooked grin was escorted through the cheering stadium by two pipers from his Seaforth Highlanders regiment.

He opened his terse address with a muttered "this is going to be kind of fast."

The crowd howled when he referred to the timepieces he had left in pawn shops during his pre-war travels across the country in search of work.

Then the pause that followed, Smokey said seriously:

"Remember there are a lot of guys still over there. I would like to thank everybody very much and wish them a Happy New Year."

Ontario Cities Are Sound

Debt Lowest Since 1920 Substantial Cut

TORONTO, Dec. 30 — (CP). — The New Year will find Ontario municipal governments in good financial shape, the Globe and Mail said in a newspage story to-day. No matter what post-war problems present themselves, municipal governments in the province will be in a better position to tackle obstacles than they were in the early 1930's.

The peak debt year was in 1932 when it amounted to $504,756,000. This figure now stands at $281,437,441—lowest since 1920—and represents a 44.2 per cent decrease in the period 1932-43, and a 7.9 per cent decrease since 1943.

Population trend in the province displays a shift to larger centres due to increased industrial activity. The increased population of urban centres will create the greatest problem of the post-war period, when war plants close down.

At present there are about 15,000 unemployables in Ontario, while at the peak of the depression there were 385,000 jobless in the province. While none of the unemployed are receiving provincial aid, it is expected that a Dominion-Provincial conference will arrive at a uniform policy for the future, with unemployment insurance taking up some of the slack.

Fire Damages Home Of Overseas Man

Believed to have originated in the kitchen, fire on Friday afternoon caused more than $500 damage to the residence of Mrs. Harry Hele, 604 Young Street, although prompt and efficient work by the Fire Department under Chief Gimblet stemmed the blaze, and prevented more serious damage. Mrs. Hele's husband has been overseas since early in the war, one of the originals of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders in Peterborough.

The fire swept from the kitchen to the upstairs of the two-storey frame dwelling-place, through a partition, and up through the roof.

The kitchen was badly burned, and furniture in the front rooms of the house was blackened by the smoke, and the wallpaper peeled off the walls.

Two unidentified men gave the firemen valuable assitance during the blaze, helping with the pumps. Before firemen arrived, they had been throwing wet snow by shovelfuls into the fire in an attempt to hold it back as much as possible. One of the men is a milkman. They told firemen that when they went into the kitchen of the house they saw a mass of flames under or behind the stove. This led the firemen to believe a pile of clothes or paper near the stove might have been the origin of the blaze. The two men also helped by removing furniture.

Mrs. Hele and her child were out at the time of the fire. Neighbors sent the alarm in at 3:07 in the afternoon, and firemen had the blaze completely under control at 3:45. Firefighters described the blaze as being extremely hot and smokey. Some clothes inside a metal container were burned.

Booster pump, water pumps and water pumped from a well nearby were all used by the firemen. This section of the city has no water services, which made the circumstances difficult. A neighboring house was saved, although it was only a few feet away from the Hele residence.

Peterborough building permits at $613,075 for the year ending to-day amounted to more than double the $320,617 for 1943 as announced from the office of City Engineer Parsons this morning.

The summary of permits for this year is: 42 garages estimated at $12,859, 43 houses valued at $184,525, 420 miscellaneous $415,551 — total 503 permits at $612,935.

Comparative figures for last year were: 23 garages $2,883, 38 houses $150,755, 262 miscellanetous $166,979—total 323 permits for $320,617.

Permits for December represented $8,330, as compared with $317 for December last year, about the lowest month's property investment in a long stretch

The details: This month, 2 garages $.50, no dwellings, 7 miscellaneous $7,940—total $8,190.

December 1943: 2 miscellaneous permits $317, no garages and no dwellings.

A total of 14 heavy bombers and 26 fighters were lost by the U.S. 8th and 9th Air Forces, the R.A.F Bomber Command and the 2nd Tactical Air Force, which sent up 3,300 planes, many of them Canadian.

Down 32 Planes.

Thirty-two German planes were shot out of the air. In addition to the major strategical work raiders supporting Allied ground forces destroyed or damaged 66 locomotives, 319 freight cars, 63 tanks and 121 motor vehicles.

The U.S. 8th Air Force sent 800 Fortresses and Liberators with an escort of 700 fighters against behind-the-lines German communications. Ten bombers and three fighters were missing.

R.A.F. Halifaxes and Lancasters hit the congested rail yards at Coblenz on the Rhine, and other Lancasters dropped six-ton "earthquake" bombs on the U-boat pens still held by the Nazis at St. Nazaaire.

Meanwhile, a year-end roundup of R.A.F. operations for 1944 estimated that the incessant bombing of Berlin cost the German capital's 980,000 industrial workers a total of 19,600,000 working days.

Gay Parties Are Planned New Year's Eve

Peterborough revellers will celebrate the arrival of 1945 in dance halls, in theatres, and at dozens of house parties from one end of the city to the other.

Since New Year's Eve falls on a Sunday, all the usual unrestrained hilarity will not begin until a few moments after midnight. Then, the first kiss of the new year, "Auld Lang Syne" the tooting of whistles, the bells and noisemakers will combine to give a rousing welcome to a hopeful new year, while the past twelve months fade into nostalgic memory.

Plenty of Dancing

For those who annually dance the old year out and the new year in, terpsichorean activities will swing into action at five minutes after 12 o'clock midnight, at many of the city and district's dance floors.

The brand-new year will be greeted in smart style this year at the annual Firemen's Ball, at the Legion Hall. Favors and prizes will be featured, while Nick Hamlet and his Band of Kingston contribute music both sweet and hot until four a.m. Anne Wlasi is the vocalist. Admission to the Firemen's Ball is $2 a couple.

Both old time and modern music by Graydon Sheldon and his orchestra will be the feature at Rye's Pavilion, where dancing and fun get under way at 12.05. Admission to this midnight frolic is 50 cents a person.

The Summer Gardens this New Year's Eve offers dancing to the music of Hal MacFarlane and the Melody Men, at $1 a person. As at other fun centres, dancing will begin shortly after midnight, and continue throughout the night.

The Kawartha Golf and Country Club will play host to a gay crowd New Year's Eve, when members gather to celebrate at the annual Club dance, beginning at 12:05. Jack Marshall and his orchestra will provide music, and favors and prizes will be in plentiful supply. Admission to this fun-fest is $4 a couple.

Frank Moloney and his orchestra will make music for dancers at the Trocadero New Year's Eve!

If weather conditions are favorable, some Peterborough members of the 4th (R) Battalion, heavy anti-aircraft, will probably attend the big dance and New Year's celebration at the Lindsay Armouries, at $2.50 a couple. Games, novelties and other fun-makers will be featured, and the entire shindig is being held by the 45th and 56 Battery, R.C.A.

Midnight Shows

Old Man 1944 will be given a lusty kick in the pants and 1945 will be warmly welcomed at all of Peterborough's theatres New Year's Eve, when musicals and comedies will be shown after midnight.

At the Capitol, Manager Art Cauley has lined up a gay technicolor treat in "Greenwich Village," starring Don Ameche, Carmen Miranda, William Bendix, and introducing gorgeous Vivian Blaine, the "Cherry Blonde", to Peterborough audiences. Miss Blaine is Hollywoods' newest star discovery, and is as colorful and appealing as her first film.

Gordon Miller, manager of the Regent, is presenting a double bill made up of music and laughs, "Trocadero," and "Big Noise". The former stars Rosemary Lane and Johnny Downs, with four dance bands including Bob Chester. "Big Noise" is another side-splitting Laurel and Hardy riot.

Syd. Goldstone, manager of the Centre, has lined up a double bill also, "Oh, What A Night," and "The Minstrel Man", both showing for the first time in Peterborough. The former is a mystery thriller with laughs, and the latter is an entertaining musical, with Benny Fields and Gladys George.

For some reasons, house parties are being organized this year on a much larger scale than previously. Dancing will be a feature at these gatherings, both from phonograph records and all-night radio stations. American radio stations, easily picked up in Peterborough after midnight, will broadcast dance music from midnight until dawn.

Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve occurred on Sundays last, in 1939, the first year of the war.

Motion pictures will be shown to troops at the Training Centre, while other entertainment programs will be held at the Uptown Recreation Centre. At the recreation centre Saturday evening, a program and treats for all servicemen and women will be featured, while Sunday evening, hearty sing-songs will while away the hours until midnight. As at Christmas time, turkey dinners will be served to all troops passing through Peterborough New Year's Day.

religion and created in them the spirit of savagery that has resulted in some of the most horrible atrocities the world has known. He had much fertile soil for his seed, because the Prussian is by nature a wholly ruthless and conscienceless killer.

So we have no reason to regard German military skill, leadership, bravery, or utter brutality with any degree of complacence. There's never a moment when the German isn't dangerous. He will become more so as the Allies push farther onto his home soil.

On the whole Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's greater counter-blow may have a salutary effect on the Allies. We now know that the only beaten German is a dead one.

The British said large numbers of prisoners captured by the E.L.A.S. had been stripped of their clothing and had been forced to endure the bitter winter weather in only their underclothing. The E.L.A.S. also have refused to allow Red Cross parcels to be distributed to the prisoners reported to number 17,000 men, women and children. Most the British statement said, had been taken to the island of Thebes.

Accuse Police

The E.L.A.S. on the other hand charged Greek police with mistreating catpured E.L.A.S. men.

The British-Greek drive on the eastern suburbs of Athens which began at dawn yesterday was described by British headquarters as "highly successful".

The left-wing E.L.A.S. lost 300 dead and 700 prisoners. An additional 100 prisoners were taken by parachute troops clearing the Iroon district west of Omonia Square at the other end of the city.

More than half of Athens now is under British control with the E.L.A.S. cleared from the eastern suburbs and the southern section. Pireaus, the port of Athens, also was under British domination.

Gen. Scobie charged that E.L.A.S. forces in their mistreatment of prisoners were not abiding by the Geneva conventions.

industry was again working on vital needs "at full capacity and an ever-increasing supply goes forward to the battle fronts."

He spoke of the German counter-offensive in northwest Europe and declared: "As I speak great, and perhaps decisive battles are being fought and success hangs in the balance. I have faith and confidence this assault will be held but surely it is a lesson that we must not ever again lapse into complacent outlook. Nothing is so uncertain as the outcome in war. The whole future of Canada is at stake on the battlefields of Europe and we cannot afford to neglect any effort we can give or any sacrifice we can make."

Bright Future.

He felt Canadians could look forward "with reasoned confidence" on the outcome of the campaign, but "there are many obstacles to surmount and the fighting will be hard and very bitter."

He spoke of the wave of optimism that had spread through the nation when "self-appointed prophets" said the war would end by Christmas. This had been followed by the "rude shock" of the German counter offensive.

"Our first rude shock came when it became apparent our reserves of reinforcements for our forces overseas had become depleted and we were faced with the prospect that our units and formations might not be able to continue to play their full part of the maintenance and pressure against the German strongholds on the West Wall.

"We had an even ruder shock when the Allied generals made urgent pleas for increased supplies of ammunition for their guns and we found to our consternation that orders had been given to curtail production.

"Now with patience and immense endeavor these difficulties have been faced up to, corrective action has been instituted wherever required, and matters are again in forward train with ever increasing momentum."

cover. Behind the front lines many are billeted with Netherlands families or in houses which have been evacuated by Netherlanders who have gone farther to the rear. Many school-houses and some institutions have been requisitioned. Barracks the Germans used are serving the Canadians in some places.

It is only at the front that you find troops in dugouts which, with the approach of winter they deepened, lined and roofed in ingenious ways that were intended to keep out the wet and keep in the warmth. Brigades and battalions have been alternating positions so that no soldier spends much more than two weeks at a stretch in a forward position.

Life in this static period does not offer much variety but the soldiers are kept busy. When in the line they patrol or stand guard by night and sleep by day for in this open country movement is restricted to the hours of darkness.

Churches Plan Services New Year's Eve

Watch-Night services are being held in many of Peterborough's churches Sunday evening, while in others, there will be special music and appropriate sermons for the last day before a new year is born.

George Street United Church, of which Rev. James Semple is the minister, extends a warm welcome to everyone to attend the Watch-Night service being held at 11.30, until midnight. All Saints' Anglican Church will have a watch-Night service beginning at 11.15 Sunday evening, when special music will be under the direction of Mrs. W. A. Logan. Rev. W. A. Filer's sermon will be based on, "So He Made It Again".

At Trinity United Church, Rev. John L. Hodgson will preach the evening service at 9.30 o'clock, following which will be a social hour. Refreshments will be served in the church parlors, and the meeting will conclude with a Watch-Night service. Trinity United Church welcomes all visitors to this special service, especially members of the armed forces.

Park Street Baptist Church will also hold a Watch-Night service, which will be conducted by Rev. E. J. Whan.

A special New Year's service featuring music will be held at Mark Street United Church, of which Rev. E. W. Rowland is the minister.

At St. Andrew's United Church, Rev. E. W. Young's sermon will be the "Theology of Dickens' 'Christmas Carol'".

Here are other Peterborough churches which will observe New Year's Eve by holding special services: Elim Tabernacle, where Rev. F. C. Poole will conduct a Watch-Night service; The Full Gospel Pentecostal Church, where Rev. Hugh J. McAlister will conduct a Watch-Night service beginning at 10.30 o'clock Sunday evening; the Salvation Army will have a Watch-Night service beginning at 11 o'clock Sunday evening, and the Temple Band and the Songster Brigade will be in attendance to direct music.

At various other churches throughout the city, New Year's messages will be given.

At all of the above places of worship, Peterborough citizens are invited to spend New Year's Eve, to spend the last minutes of the year and the first minutes of the new year in prayer and worship. Time-honored and beautiful, Watch-Night services somehow make reverend the vows pledged, and the determinations that the coming year will be a year more usefully spent than the preceeding one. At them, one may watch the old year go out, and the new year come in, and pray that the new year may be a brave one, victorious, and good.

Winter Offensive

within three miles of the Meuse.

The northern flank continued quiet. In this sector where the Germans earlier had delivered their heaviest blows, Von Rundstedt's attacks dwindled down to two-company size. Americans made limited, position-restoring gains.

Third Army troops took at least four more towns in their broad attack from the south. They pushed into Moircy, five miles southeast of St. Hubert and 11 west of Bastogne. They drove the Germans from Remagne, Magerotte, and Morhet west of the Bastogne-Arlon road, and scored gains of a mile north of Sibret, northeast of Assenois and east of Hompre. Other units advanced around Villers-La-Bonne-Eau east of the Arlon-Bastogne road.

At the western end of the salient the Germans had been knocked back 12 miles from the point where their advance once had carried to within three miles of the Meuse River. This was accomplished by 1st Army units which gained 1½ miles, reaching the edge of Rochefort.

(The Brussels radio said today that the Americans had recaptured Rochefort and a violent tank battle was raging near the town).

Observers reported enemy troops were throwing up fortifications and planting mines for a defensive stand.

(Reuters war correspondent William Stern said last night that the German withdrawal from the salient "has developed into a rout at some points.")

The narrowing of the enemy salient to 13 miles was accomplished when the 3rd Army cemented positions four miles north of Bastogne while 1st Army troops were fighting ahead from the north.

Hit Escape Routes

Other 3rd Army units had pounded to the German border at three points in northeastern Luxembourg and placed a number of escape routes back into Germany under shellfire.

In a dispatch covering developments up to Thursday morning, Associated Press war correspondent Lewis Hawkins said the 3rd Army's corridor to Bastogne was strengthened against stout resistance from the west, but lesser opposition from the east. This corridor has been broadened to as much as six miles and is developing into an acute threat to the whole German position.

By Thursday morning at least 15 more towns had been overrun by the two American armies. Among these were Jodenville and Villeroux, five and three miles southwest of Bastogne, and Sainlex and Livarchamps, both five miles to the south.

East of Bastogne Patton's men were across the Sure River at numerous points and had sent vanguards to within three miles of the city of Wiltz, 25 miles north of the capital of Luxembourg.

At Rochefort

In a break across the Sure, which turning westward from the German border forms a river barrier in northern Luxembourg, 3rd Army troops overran Boulaide, Baschleiden, Bavigne, Mecherdunkrodt and Kaundorf, all 19 to 22 miles north of the city of Luxembourg. Kaundorf is but three miles south of Wiltz.

Operating 15 miles north and northeast of the city of Luxembourg mop-up forces seized Ettelbruck, three miles southwest of Diekirch and Eppeldorf, four miles southeast of Diekirch.

First army troops fought into the outskirts of Rochefort after driving the Germans from Verre, Jamblinne and Humain, seven, four and three miles from the picturesque resort town. Mopping-up operations extended all the way to Celles, near the thigh water mark of the German drive.

On the northern flank the Germans sent two battalions against American positions in the "hot corner" near Monschau under cover of a heavy artillery barrage, but they were thrown back without gaining ground.

To the west 160 Germans slipped past First Army lines in the neighborhood of the crossroads town of Grandmenil, but were surrounded and at last reports were being wiped out.

Pre-Election Campaign Minus Fireworks

TORONTO, Dec. 30 (CP)—Municipal voters in Toronto, Canada's second largest city, go to the polls Monday to choose a mayor, city council and board of control for 1945 after a quiet election campaign completely devoid of fireworks.

It is in sharp contrast to the last election when the debate between the rival candidates for mayor waxed bitter at times and the entry of 16 official C.C.F. candidates added zest to the debate from all sides in the week before balloting.

The mayoralty race this time is between Dr. Fred J. Conboy, seeking his fifth term, and Controller Robert H. Saunders, making a bid for the chief magistrate's chair after four years as a member of the board of control and four years as an alderman. Mayor Conboy's apponent in the last election was Lewis H. Duncan who is not a candidate for any office this time.

There has been no city-wide campaign in this election by the C.C.F although one party official told The Canadian Press that two candidates for aldermen and one for board of education in one ward have party support. Three other aldermanic and three other board of education candidates are either receiving support from their ward C.C.F organizations or were C.C.F. candidates a year ago.

The present mayoralty campaign has been vigorous but with a total absence of personal abuse. There has been jockeying over who should get credit for action to obtain snow-removal equipment to help remove the piles of snow left on the streets by the Dec. 12 snowstorm. Both candidates are claiming credit for the campaign to bring about a reduction in domestic Hydro rates.

Controller Saunders has a numerical edge in newspaper support with the city's only morning newspaper, the Globe and Mail, and one of the two evening papers, the Daily Star, advocating his election. Mayor Conboy has the support of the other evening paper, the Evening Telegram. However, none of the papers is entering into the campaign with the vigor which characterized their pre-war municipal election efforts.

8 For Board.

There are eight candidates for the four Board of Control seats. Two—David Balfour and William Wadsworth — are members of the 1944 board. Other candidates are E. C. Bogart, H. E. McCallum, Leslie H. Saunders, Dr. G. J. Millen, Stewart Smith and Harry Bradley. All but Mr. Bradley have had some civic experience. He has been an unsuccessful candidate for Controller for more than 10 years. Two of the candidates have the unanimous support of the three newspapers. They are Mr. Balfour and Mr. McCallum.

Mr. Smith, former alderman who is making his second bid for election as a controller, is an active member of the Labor-Progressive party but a party official said that he and other party members who are candidates are not receiving active, organized party support because "we don't believe in politics in civic elections." William Freed, elected by acclamation in Ward 4 as an alderman, is active in the party and Alderman Charles Sims, candidate for re-election in Ward 5, is another.

There are municipal elections in three other Ontario cities Monday—St. Catharines, Owen Sound and Sault Ste. Marie—as well as in a number of towns, villages and townships. The mayors have been elected by acclamation in St. Catharines and Owen Sound but there are aldermanic elections in both these cities. In Sault Ste. Marie there is a two-way race for mayor between Jack McMeeken, seeking re-election, and Fred Irwin, an alderman. Sault ratepayers are voting on a number of bylaws one of them calling for municipal financing of a community building and artificial ice arena at a cost of $400,000.

Court Fines Man $10 For Trouble In Cafe

As a sequel to a fight in the Louis Cafe, Charlotte street, that led to the arrest of three men and a woman, Herbert James Pluard, R.R. 6, Peterborough, pleaded guilty in police court this morning and thus became the last individual to be punished by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in 1944.

Magistrate Langley imposed a fine of $10 and $1.75 on the accused.

Chief Constable John Thompson told the court that there had been a fight in the restaurant and that tables and chairs were knocked over.

Three other persons involved in the affair are to be tried next week.

Pte. H. Simmonds Given Furlough

Pte. A. Henry Simmonds, son of Arthur Simmonds, 20 Lisburn street, has arrived in Peterborough after serving overseas for nearly two years. He was invalided home, but is not a battle casualty.

When he first enlisted, Pte. Simmonds was with the Royal Rifles of Canada, but after he went overseas in March 1943, he was transferred to the Irish Regiment of Canada and went with them to Italy, where he spent his 1943 Christmas. Prior to enlisting, he was employed at the Peterborough Canoe Company.

Sailor Brothers Meet After 16 Months

HAVELOCK, Dec. 30 (ENS) — A.B. Seaman Trevor Pollock and Seaman Claude Pollock, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pollock of Havelock, were re-united for the Christmas season after sixteen months service in the merchant marine.

The brothers joined the merchant service at the same time in July, 1943. A.B. Seaman Trevor Pollock is in his 20th year and is serving on a Norwegian boat, and was home on furlough, while Seaman Claude Pollock is spending the interval until his 18th birthday with his parents, when he intends to join the army.

He says that he has seen half of the world by water and he wants to see the other half by land. He served sixteen months on a Norwegian vessel too.

A third brother, F.O. Keith Pollock, RCAF, was reported missing early in the Mediterranean campaign.

SETS TO COST LESS

LONDON — (CP). — Television manufacturers estimate that sets will be available after the war for considerably less than the $125 pre-war minimum cost.

Faith Greatest Lesson In Courage For Future

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Dec. 31 is Matt. 16: 13-20, II Peter 3:14-18, I John 3:1-3, the Golden Text being I Cor. 15:58, "Wherefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labor is not vain in the Lord.")

"The basis of Courage for the Future" is the subject of our lesson today. Do we ever think of Jesus needing courage—even as you and I—to go on with His earthly life? He knew that two months from the time He was talking with His disciples in Caesarea Phillipi He would be crucified, and the certain knowledge that He would rise from the dead did not mitigate the knowledge that He would die as a human being a very painful death. We can picture Him with the men whom He knew best, and those—with one exception, Judas Iscariot — who loved Him best.

Caesarea Philippi was far to the north, at the foot of the Lebanon mountains, in Palestine, in a place noted for its adolastrous worship, and must be distinguished from Caesarea which was on the Mediterranean coast. Here Jesus and His disciples talked together. Jesus had been preaching, performing miracles and living with the people of Palestine for over two years; what did they think of Him? Whom did they think He was?

Jesus put the question to His disciples, and they answered, "Some say John the Baptist; some, Elijah, and other Jeremiah, or one of the prophets."

Asks His Disciples

Then He said, "But whom say ye that I am?" And Peter, always the spokesman for the 12, answered, "Thou are the Christ, the Son of the Living God."

For the first time in the Scripture record, Jesus called an individual blessed. "Blessed are thou, Simon Bar-jonah; for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but My Father which is in heaven.

"And I say also unto thee. That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build My church, and the gates of Hades shall not prevail against it.

"And I will give thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven, and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven."

One commentator states that it would almost seem as if Jesus had "asked the question with some anxiety, as if Peter's immediate and decisive reply was a joy that contained in it something of relief. The Lord emphatically declared that this confession of faith in His Messiahship is not the outcome of human instruction, but must be a revelation from God Himself."

Faith Comes First

The first great lesson of courage for the future is faith. Faith in God the Father and His Son whose guidance we must seek in the grave solutions of peace that face the world after all the unspeakable cruelty and suffering. After nearly two thousand years, the church of which Christ speaks is still giving people hope and courage and providing inspiration for them to try to live the Christlike life. Hades has not indeed prevailed against it.

While we confidently expect peace and happiness to come to the Christian world, we must resolve to do our part. As Peter writes in his second epistle, "Wherefore beloved, seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent that ye may be found of Him in peace, without spot, and blameless."

He concludes the epistle with the words, "But grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savious Jesus Christ."

That is the point of our lesson on courage for the future, to believe, to try in every possible way to follow the Master in our every action. Thus we cannot despair. These are the bases of courage for the future.

The Sweetest of Odors

By REV. E. R. JAMES

The house was filled with the odor of the ointment.—St. John 12:3.

A famous theologian has written a fascinating and thought thrilling article: "The mystic element in Christianity." Did you ever think of this side of the Truth. The mystic is one who sees below the surface.

A young mystic is watching this scene. Its details are deeply implanted in his memory. He impresses upon his readers that Mary anointed, not the Head, but the Feet of the Lord, Who, like an oriental, is reclining at the table, feet outwards. It happened perhaps some ten days before the Crucifixion. The Lord Jesus is the honored Guest in that family. How touching is the statement: "Now Jesus loved Martha and her sister and Lazarus." How natural to read: "They made Him a supper there."

Mary, being a temperamental woman, sensed that some sorrow was overshadowing her Lord and Master. Suddenly she remembers that cruise of ointment of spikenard, very precious. Such ointment was generally used for the anointing of the dead. 2 Chron. 16:14.

She returns to the guest chamber. Kneeling at the Feet of the Master she breaks that alabaster vase and pours is contents upon the Feet and wipes His Feet with her hair and "the house was filled with the odor of the ointment."

The fragrance fills the guest chamber; it passes through the house down the stairs where the work of the cooking and other preparations are going on. You see that strong woman washing the pots and pans. Her strength fits her for that work but she would not be allowed in the guest chamber. She would possibly drop a dish into the lap of some guest through nervousness. She takes a deep breath and looks up. Again she breathes in and exclaims: "What a sweet smell; I never smelt anything like it." True. Because Mary has broken the vase and poured all the contents upon the Feet of the Lord that that poor scullery maid is thrilled "with the odor of the ointment." Its sweetness enters her very soul. This is the gift of fragrance; it never fades from the memory. Have you the eyes to see the inward meaning of this?

What does you maid think of you? Is your sweetness, refinement and culture only kept for the drawing room or Church circles. If so, she will smell your pride, your selfishness and thoughtlessness. Its unpleasant odor will never be forgotten.

What do the men in your office, store or business think of you? Do they smell your slave driving spirit and meanness? Remember this odor will never be forgotten. One thing you may be sure of. They will never come to your Church. They have smelt your odor for six working days.

Look at that Alabaster Vase. A master craftsman has made it. Its curves satisfy his eye for beauty; for it is to contain ointment, very precious. Years later the eye of St. John saw that that Vase typified the Human Body of the Lord Jesus. "The world was made flesh and dwelt among us" is His mature thought on this revelation. It was a perfect Human Body prepared to received the Divine Ointment of God, very precious. "A Body hast Thou prepared for Me" is the prophetic promise."

Mary breaks the vase gladly and lavishly pours out all the ointment. Even so the Lord breaks His Body and pours out His Life. With deep emotion the Master breaks the Bread and says: "This is My Body, which is broken for you. Do this in remembrance of Me." In very truth, in the fulness of time, all the world will be filled with the "Odor of the Ointment."

Do you break your body and bend your will to the Father's will? Then your home will be fragrant and sweet smelling. When you go into the home of sorrow and sadness these terrible days, you will take this fragrance with you. When you leave that room or house, will be filled with the "Odor of the Ointment."

May this fragrance be your ideal for this coming year.

AN ODOR OF A SWEET SMELL, A SACRIFICE ACCEPTABLE, SWEET SMELLING TO GOD.

Public school children now are required to read about 15 times as much material as children a generation ago.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

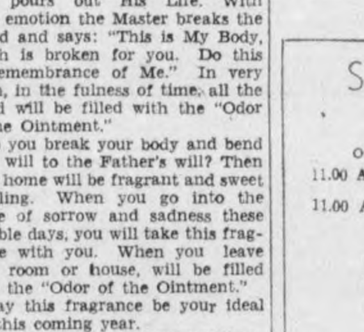
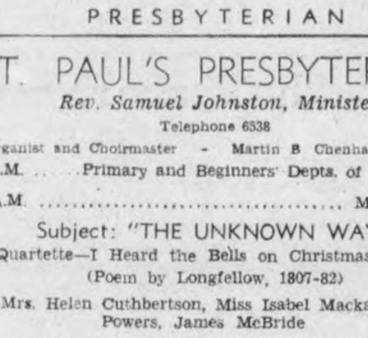
By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matt. 16:13-20; II Peter 3:14-18; I John 3:1-3

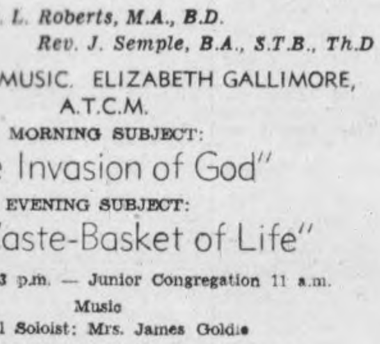


When Jesus came into the coasts of Caesarea Phillippi. He asked His disciples. Whom do men say that I the Son of Man am?



The disciples answered: Some say Thou art John the Baptist, some Elijah, and others, Jeremiah, or one of the prophets.

Jesus asked his disciples: "Whom say ye that I am?" Simon Peter answered that He was Christ, the Son of the living God.



Jesus blessed Simon and called him Peter the Rock, for God had revealed this to him.

The Old Year And The New

All things considered, we may congratulate ourselves on the year which now draws to a close. The war is not over, it is true, but it is now apparent that we shall win and that by this time next year a victory in Germany should be behind us and a victory in Japan not too far ahead. Military victory achieved, it will be our long task to clean up the mess which the war has made and to deal with the many and complex problems which peace will bring. Prophecy in this field is worthless, but it must be clear that the time which lies ahead of us will be more demanding, in some respects, than the war years. We must meet it with all the courage and resource that we can muster.

As for our own country, Canada has acquitted herself in such a way during 1944 that she has won golden opinions from her Allies; our efforts have been greater than ever. The last weeks of the year have been complicated by a dispute over conscription which has left some bitterness in the country, but which has, upon the whole, done little to interrupt our concentration on the job of winning the war. Canadians who are still looking for a perspective on that dispute would do well to consult the files of either the New York Times or the London Times, in which they will find admirable discussions of the whole matter; the responsible press both in the U.S. and in Britain understand Canada's peculiar problems far better than some sections of our own population. Canada—notoriously a hard country to govern—has weathered another conscription storm and has enforced conscription upon a reluctant, but not wholly unreasonable, minority.

To come nearer home, Peterborough's record during 1944 has been good, and the proof may be seen in the Report To The Ratepayers which appeared in this paper yesterday. We think that it would be a good thing if a number of other municipalities adopted our custom of publishing such a Report at the close of each year. Few citizens see the official Auditor's Report, and not everyone is able to interpret such a document; the Report which is published in the press is simple, direct and satisfactory. Peterborough has been well managed; the city business is the biggest business we have, and it is encouraging to know that it is being carried on in a thoroughly efficient and capable manner. Peterborough is fortunate in its municipal government.

In 1944 Peterborough has decided to take two important steps in building a Memorial Centre and a new hospital. The Examiner has often stressed the fact that increased population and wealth brings increased responsibility, and in undertaking these two projects the city is simply keeping pace with its own growth and importance. The incorporation into Peterborough of a new section, with a consequent rise in population, makes the duties of Peterborough greater than ever, but considered in the light of the excellent financial management which the city has had for many years, these duties should cause us no anxiety; Peterborough is growing quickly, but the growth is sound.

The Examiner wishes all its readers a Happy and Prosperous New Year. Our principal aim is to serve you, and if we fail our columns are open to any criticism you care to make. A newspaper is a curious thing in that it is half a private business and half a public utility; if it ceases to operate on a strict 50-50 basis it is not as good a newspaper as it should be. If it is operated wholly for private gain it ceases to be of benefit to the community: if it becomes everybody's plaything it loses its independence and its punch. During 1944 you have given us many indications that you look upon this as your paper, and that pleases us very much. We hope that in 1945 we shall be able to increase your pleasure and pride, and we shall be glad to hear your suggestions as to how we can do so; as for criticism of Peterborough by the Examiner, we do not think that there is any likelihood of a failure in that direction, either.

The Gibson Girl

On Saturday, December 23, Charles Dana Gibson died, and people who had forgotten her for years immediately recalled The Gibson Girl. Every age has its popular ideal of girlhood; today she appears to be the Hollywood pin-up girl or the boneless beauties drawn by Varga; at the turn of the century she was the Gibson Girl. She was tall, stately and aloof; her skirts swept the ground; her hair was thick and long and curled exquisitely on the back of her neck; she was very beautiful. Gibson appears to have modelled her on the aristocratic beauties drawn for Punch by the English artist, George du Maurier, but as he presented her she was the darling of this continent. She was shown stepping into the open motor-cars of her period, walking in the park with her dogs, posing elegantly in ballrooms, leaning on the arm of her proud father, and casting glances at high-collared young men which threw them into frenzies of adoration.

She summed up the romantic dreams of an era that is gone, and we cannot feel that the romantic dreams that have come with succeeding years are of equal quality. She had elegance and mystery—qualities which her daughters and granddaughters conspicuously lack. She made a cult of neatness and careful grooming where they make a cult of slovenliness and frowsiness; she was reticent, cool and withdrawing, but she always got her man, whereas her successors are brash, bold and aggressive, and are often slighted in consequence. She kept her physical charms under heavy wraps, and allowed only the slightest hints of them to be known: her descendants in the movie magazines expose themselves almost in a state of nature, and even to the most ardent eye they sometimes look as though their proper place was hanging from a butcher's hook. The Gibson Girl had a few ideas which the pin-up girls of our day have never suspected, and her charm is very real, even though she has been out of circulation for so many years.

The Stocking Shortage

For several months there has been a serious shortage of women's' stockings, and women have been complaining about it. They have not been unreasonable: they do not expect the beautiful stockings of the pre-war period, and they do not ask for large quantities of stockings; all they ask is two or three pairs of stockings to wear during the cold weather, with the chance of replacing them when they are worn past all mending.

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has replied to their demands by issuing a statement in which it is explained that nylon and rayon are needed in large quantities to make parachutes, towropes for gliders, gun-powder bags, linings for tyres, and other necessities of war. The implication is that the women who ask for stockings are trying to divert war materials to a frivolous civilian use, and we do not think that this is either just or true. Women want to keep their legs warm, that is all.

The Price Boarders who are trying to silence the women in this way probably wear tweed pants, wool socks and long underwear on their legs; they would not be pleased if their secertaries arrived at work in similar garb. Women in business and in professions are expected to dress neatly and attractively, and they cannot do so if they have no stockings. Modern stockings merely keep the legs warm; they are incapable of making legs attractive because they are badly made of inferior materials. Surely the WPTB can find an alternative to frozen legs or slacks?

NOTE AND COMMENT

An 'exploratory' oil well in California has been drilled to a depth of 15,862 feet. It seems to us that it has passed the point where exploration ends and idle curiosity begins.

A patient in New York threw his dentist out of a second storey window. We wonder if he said 'Now this may hurt for just a second'.

Boris Karloff (who should know) says that women "are more fascinated by horror than men". It's an open question: women marry men in spite of their looks, but men marry women in spite of their hats.

Diary Of Holiday Season

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Spending Christmas at a home where there are a lot of children of various shapes and sizes; children are doubtless very near to Heaven, as poets assure us, but one child can make more noise and disturbance than seven devils; they have no repose; when they are not screaming and laughing like hyaenas they are roaring as though their hearts would break, and drenching everyone with tears; this emotional intemperance is very exhausting to everyone except themselves. In my opinion history is wrong on one important point: Herod slaughtered the innocents before Christmas, and not after it, and the jury gave him a verdict of justifiable homicide....After helping to fill a number of stockings and wrap up last-minute parcels went tobogganing by moonlight; good sport until one of the party scarified her posterior on a lump of ice and was taken home for a poultice of hot vinegar and brown paper.

MONDAY: Christmas Day, which began at 7:30 a.m. with shrieks and screams of pleasure as stockings were ransacked; rose and looked on, offering advice about the inadvisability of eating sweets before breakfast, but nobody paid any attention....Great excitement among the children upon finding that Santa had eaten all the lunch which was left for him by the hearth, and had left a great many crumbs to prove it; even greater excitement among the grown-ups upon discovering that Santa had made free with the month's liquor ration, which had been carelessly left on a sideboard....To church, and sang very loudly and enjoyably.... Christmas dinner at mid-day, a large affair with covers for fifteen; ate a suitable amount and enjoyed it thoroughly, although I pretended that I had overeaten, which is customary on such occasions....More present-giving, more Christmas cake, more shandygaff, more jokes, more conversation conducted at the top of the voice....In short, a thoroughly satisfactory Christmas, marred only by the ever-present depression of the war.

TUESDAY: Boxing Day today; the postman, who has been looking like a meataxe for two weeks, turned up with an engaging smile on his face, and presented his compliments; my host's compliments were returned to him, in an envelope, and he departed looking as though his feet did not hurt any longer....Settled down to a serious contemplation of my Christmas gifts: a lot of people have given me books, for some reason; surely it is well known that I never read a line?....Also set myself to the irksome task of listing all the people who have sent me Christmas cards; I fear that I have not done the right thing by several of them, and next year I must send them cards with more than the usual amount of holly on them....I observe the whole Twelve Days of Christmas, from the Vigil to Twelfth Night, and therefore I ate a good deal today, and visited friends, and gave myself up to enjoyment, forgetting work as much as possible.

WEDNESDAY: People are beginning to be rather tired of me and the Twelve Days of Christmas; very few people appear to share my insatiable appetite for merry-making. Perhaps I was born out of my time; I might have made a good Elizabethan....And yet, with my capricious digestion, could I have faced those pitiless Elizabethan meals? Could I have drooled at the spectacle of a 'peacock in his pride' after having eaten heavily of sucking-pig, goose, venison pasty and kickshaws? Probably not....And yet the Elizabethans had their own way of meeting such problems; they 'took physick' and retired from public life for weeks at a time to do it; what Gargantuan doses of emetic and cathartic they poured down their throats, and how desperately they must have suffered!....Perhaps the path of moderation is best, after all.

THURSDAY: Travelled home today, breaking up the Christmas party, which was a pity, but necessary. It strikes me that I enjoy Christmas far more than any child, because my range of pleasures is greater, and I have learned how to enjoy myself through long experience. Children gulp their pleasures, and they are soon done; I sip mine, and they last as long as I like. I do not envy any child its violent enthusiasm, and I have never thought that I should like to be a child again. People who do so seem to me to confess thereby that they have never really grown up....I shall not make long entries in this Diary this week; most people are too full of their own concerns at this time to care what I am doing.

FRIDAY: Already New Year is at hand, and I have been to the cupboard to see whether I have the ingredients for even a very small bowl of my favourite New Year's Punch. I am not going to say here whether I have or not; I do not want a horde of people to visit me on New Year's Eve only to discover that I have nothing to give them; the regrets attendant upon the passing of the Old Year are poignant enough without that....It may be my imagination, but I always think that the fag-end of a year is a time of grey days and dreary weather; the departing year seems to faint and flag visibly, and to reproach us for the expectation with which we await his successor.

SATURDAY: A great deal of bustling and business, getting everything in order for the beginning of 1945. What a date! Already this century has advanced well enough into middle age to know how to behave, but it is as incorrigibly stupid and violent as it was when it was a mere child of 14....One of my jobs today is entering up a new Year Book with all the notes and reminders which are necessary for another year's work. All sorts of things—anniversaries, centenaries, dates of comets and dates of meetings, birthdays and death-days—they must all go in. I am as busy about this fateful job as though I were young 1945 himself, taking notes from the dictation of old 1944, and the Spirit of History. And one thing which remains in my 1944 Year Book falls due at this moment: I wish all my readers a Happy New Year, and hope most earnestly that 1945 may bring us a cessation of fighting in Europe, at the very least.

PAY OR ARGUE?

The offices of the Inspector of Taxes and the Collector of Taxes were in the same building.

A woman who got into the lift said to the lift-boy: "Taxes."

"Collector or Inspector?" asked the boy.

"Taxes, please," replied the lady.

"Now, look 'ere, mam," said the lift-boy. "Do yer want ter pay or just 'ave an argument?"

ALL DRESSED UP AND NO PLACE TO GO

Japs Lose Men At 14 to 1

(NEW YORK TIMES)

THE Japanese commander on Guadalcanal, in a message to his troops in late December, 1942, told them he knew they had been through a terrible ordeal from the shelling and bombing of the "cowardly" Americans, who chose to fight with those weapons instead of coming out in the open for hand-to-hand combat, but that in the end the brave methods of the Japanese would prevail. They didn't prevail on Guadalcanal.

Two years later they are not prevailing on Leyte. The "cowardly" Americans continue to kill Japanese at an over-all ratio in the Pacific since the start of the war of 13 to 1, and on Leyte at a ratio of 31 to 1.

There are many reasons for the high Japanese casualties and the low American totals. The principal one is the difference in fighting techniques. General MacArthur explained the American philosophy of combat when he said that the greatest possible care is being taken to minimize our losses. "Frontal assault methods are being avoided as far as possible, and every artifice of manpower and superior firepower is being exerted to prevent battle casualties", he said. "As a result, they continue light". A similar explanation was given by General Vandegrift of the Marines during the fighting on Guadalcanal to explain the slowness of advance.

The Japanese philosophy is exactly the opposite to that of our commanders. They expend men lavishly while conserving ammunition. They often start a charge without artillery preparation. They seem not to have learned the lesson that soft human flesh, no matter how brave the heart that drives it, is no match for a steel bullet or shell. Their philosophy of life and death gives their fanaticism a senseless expression, such as in their banzai charges, that makes them easy to kill.

Even with this American technique of not using a man to do a job a shell or bullet can do as well, if you've got the shells and bullets and bombs, it is not possible to avoid all casualties. There are jobs that the guns can't do alone. Such was Tarawa.

When the necessity arises, our men have shown themselves equal to the Japanese in bravery and superior in every other attribute of warfare, from a gun fight to hand-to-hand knife and fist combat. This much every American fighting man knows, and it is an important factor in morale among our combat troops that every effort is made to hold down losses, and that his chances of survival under those methods are better than 10 to 1 over those of the enemy he fights.

The Peace In Europe

(FINANCIAL POST)

THOSE American isolationists who never miss an opportunity for twisting the tail of the hard-pressed British lion, and the pessimists in this country who are convinced that world chaos is inevitable, got some straight and sane comment from Walter Lippman last week. Discussing the tangled problem of re-establishing order in liberated Europe, this leading American political observer puts the blame largely on the vague and impractical foreign policy of the United States. In his special column, "Today and Tomorrow", Mr. Lippmann made his blunt statement:

"Our official policy has been to insist that no vital question be settled until some time in the dim future—when the fighting will have ceased.

"This devastating uncertainly put a top premium on every kind of intrigue and agitation within the disputed area, and upon intervention from the outside, against that distant day when the Allies were going to sit around a green table and dispense justice and democracy".

The main structure of a permanent European settlement, says Mr. Lippman, is now taking shape initiated by the pacts signed by Britain, Russia and France. Instead of deploring this development, he argues, Americans should regard it as "promising the fulfillment of our chief war aim in Europe, and as putting a solid foundation under the Dumbarton Oaks proposals". It is the only way, he states, in which we can achieve our aim of disarming Germany for a generation without "assuming the intolerable burden of maintaining a large United States Army of occupation in Europe".

And to those who might still doubt the wisdom of the present course Mr. Lippman poses these two questions:

"Has any one who is wringing his hands and beating his breast about these developments any better plan for winning the peace than one which enlists the principal nations of Europe as the primary guardians of German disarmament?

"Does any one want the European States not to organize for the guardianship of Germany, and to be unprepared and uncommitted to deal swiftly and effectively with a revival of German militarism, and so to leave it to us—once again—to come it at the 11th hour and pay the price we are now paying?"

Recent bloodshed in Greece and disturbances in Belgium and France naturally have caused some dismay among the democratic peoples of the British Empire and the United States. They hoped that liberated Europe would be spared further suffering. But four years of terrorism and oppression apparently, are not to be completely erased without some turmoil. Under the circumstances it behooves Canadians and Americans to take as detached a view as possible. Before jumping in with harsh condemnation or impractical advice, both of which can only inflame the situation, they would be well advised to ponder the words of the eminent American observer we have just quoted.

King and Garson

Walter Pidgeon tells about the time he, Mackenzie King and the premier's secretary had several hours betwen trains in New York, when King expressed a desire to see Mrs. Miniver, then showing at Radio City.

Finding a long queue at the box office, King took his place in line. Pidgeon thought it hardly fitting for so important a personage to wait, so he slipped off to the manager's office to explain. The manager hot-footed it out to the street, but King was not in line. In the meantime, King's secretary had persuaded him to go to the ticket-taker and identify himself. They caught up with him in time to overhear his conversation at the door:

"I am Mackenzie King."

"You are," replied the usher in a "so what" tone.

"I am Prime Minister of Canada and I wonder if I could get in. You see, I have a train..."

"Mister, you'll have to wait in line."

"But I am a personal friend of Greer Garson," the prime minister explained. "I have, in fact, a letter from her here in my pocket."

"A friend of Greer Garson," he gasped. "Why didn't you say so?"

Charity Drying Up

No doubt the will of Sir William Mulock will be a subject of considerable discussion, for it is not often that a prime minister receives such a substantial bequest, although there were recent occasions in Britain when something of the sort was done. However, what is probably the most significant clause in the will is that no provision is made for charities because of the substantial bequests which Sir William made during his lifetime, and because of the huge succession duties payable by the estate.

In many ways succession duties are the most equitable form of taxes, and the most nearly painless. But they have reached a point now where charities which depended on the liberality of wealthy folks will have to look elsewhere. As Dean Inge said of England, now the time is is soon coming here when there will be no more wealthy people, certainly no wealthy families, for the amount of money which will remain with any family after succession duties will not be enough to maintain great fortunes.

What will universities, hospitals, orphanages do for revenue? Obviously they will have to look to the state, which will find that it has to use much of its new revenue for causes which were previously handled by private charity.

Now there are many objections to private charity. It is not perhaps quite systematic. It may reflect the whims of donors. But it has done great and valuable work in the past. If it is dried up by taxation a whole new technique will have to be worked out for handling a wide variety of activities. And it will be a problem to adjust the cold, impersonal power of the state to this task. Our statesmen will have to get used to meeting new calls for expenditure, as well as discovering new sources of revenue.—London Free Press.

WHAT LUCK!

Two Scotsmen were caught in a storm at sea. One of them was praying for safety and was just about to promise to forswear drink for ever, if he were spared, when the other cried out: "Dinna commit yoursel', Sandy, I can see land!"

Hard To Believe How Time Flies

DECEMBER 30

1914 It is announced that 150 men are wanted here for the Canadian Mounted Rifles.

Edward Jones and James Jordan, Peterborough soldiers invalided home from Salisbury Plains have arrived in Halifax.

Bert Hensley receives word that his cousin, fighting with the British Army has been killed in action.

Rev. T. B. McCordindale preaches his farewell sermons in the Lakefield Presbyterian Church.

A Bible Message

And Zelophehad the son of Hepher had no sons, but daughters.... And they stood before Moses, and before Eleazar the priest, and before the princes and all the congregation, by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, saying, Our father died in the wilderness, and he was not in the company of them that gathered themselves together against the Lord in the company of Korah; but died in his own sin, and had no sons. Why should the name of our father be done away from among his family, because he hath no son? Give unto us therefore a possession among the brethren of our father. And Moses brought their cause before the Lord.

And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, The daughters of Zelophehad speak right: thou shalt surely give them a possession of an inheritance among their father's brethren; and thou shalt cause the inheritance of their father to pass unto them. (Num. 26: 33; 27: 2-7.)

Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord. (Deut. 6: 4.)

A father of the fatherless, and a judge of the widows, is God in his holy habitation. God setteth the solitary in families: he bringeth out those which are bound with chains....

Justice and judgment are the habitation of thy throne: mercy and truth shall go before thy face. (Ps. 68: 5, 6; 89: 14.)

Letter To The Editor

STONING FOR DELINQUENTS?

Sir,—Some time ago you wrote an editorial praising the snow removal in this city. I am writing to draw your attention to the arrangements for the removal of ashes and garbage. In the case of the former the ash cans have to be hoisted about six feet and emptied into an open cart. If there is a wind blowing the results are most unsatisfactory. In addition a vast amount of hard labour has to be performed and, due to the fact that the ash cans are flung back to the man on the road, who may miss his catch, there is a good chance of damaging the ash cans as well.

Can you explain why this highly unsuitable design of cart was used instead of one slung lower down between the wheels?

An editorial of yours about a month ago referred to the increase in insanity in Canada, and was unable to suggest a remedy. This seems to me a simple matter, the children of today do not get enough sleep. This is especially noticeable in large cities like Toronto, where children of three or four can be seen on the streets at 10 or 11 o'clock at night. Parents seem unwilling to stay in on account of their children which seems to provide a simple reply to that which appeared to baffle you.

Another question which you referred to from time to time is that of juvenile delinquency. The answer to this problem is to be found in the Bible which exhorts parents not to spare the rod. As you are doubtless aware recalcitrant Jewish children were subject to be stoned to death under the provisions of the old Jewish Law. While this is extreme the principle still holds good.—Yours truly,

C. W. HOLMAN.

Unconsidered Trifles

A sweet young thing was watching drill one day. Suddenly a rifle volley rang out. With a surprised scream the lovely young lady shrank back directly into the arms of a young private standing behind her.

'Oh," she stammered, with a blush, "I was so frightened by the rifles. Do please forgive me."

"Not at all, not at all," spoke up the private. "Let's go over and watch the artillery."

Little Johnny's mother had just presented him with twin sisters, and the household was in a state of excitement. Father beamed with pride as he took Johnny on one side.

"If you tell your teacher about it I'm sure she'll give you a day's holiday," he said.

That evening Johnny came home radiant with joy.

"You were right, dad. I don't have to go to school tomorrow," he announced proudly.

"Did you tell your teacher about the twins?" asked his father.

"No, I just told her I had a baby sister."

"But you should have told her you had two of them."

"Oh, no!" said Johnny; "I'm saving one for next week!"

With The Armed Forces

By JEAN STENTON

The editor of this column will welcome extracts from letters from boys serving or any other information concerning them.

Ninety-five children crashed the St. Nicholas party given in Holland by the unit of which Lieut James Parsons is a member. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Parsons, 104 Douro street and he said the men got as much fun out of the party as the kiddies.

St. Nicholas day is a very important event in the lives of Dutch children and takes the place of the Canadian Christmas. Lieut. Parson's unit chose December 5 for the party at which they entertained all the children in their area.

"Last week I was asked by our O. C. to arrange a party for the Dutch children in our area on December 5. I appointed a party of about half a dozen boys to assist me. We went ahead and collected chocolate bars, chewing gum, fancy biscuits, Christmas cake and assorted candies. We were very successful and managed to get about 175 packets of chewing gum and lots of biscuits. The boys gave their week's chocolate ration and that helped us along, and there was about 15 pounds of Christmas cake turned over to us also. We packed everything on Monday and had a total of 160 gifts ready and 132 invitations were distributed. They were made by our boys themselves and every child close to us got one. The boys also agreed to give the best part of their day's rations to the children in the form of a good dinner.

Even Tree Lights

"Well the day arrived and the weather was very nice for this part of Holland, and the sun was out most of the time. The kiddies began to arrive a little before two o'clock and by 2 p.m. we had the room we were using quite full. There were about five children to each adult so we had quite a crowd. We had decorated one room with colored streamers, spruce boughs and a Christmas tree and our unit electricians soldered red and white tail light lamps on a wire and connected it up to batteries and this made the tree very nice.

"Our entertainment started with a reel of Popeye and then a short musical picture finishing up with a reel of Mickey Mouse. As all the children were between 3 and 12 years of age, they really enjoyed the pictures. After this there was a Dutch boy with an accordion to lead the children in a sing song. I think our boys enjoyed the children's songs as much as the kiddies themselves. We could not understand much as the singing was in Dutch, but it was interesting anyway."

When this part of the program was over, the youngsters lined up and each one of the soldiers took a child and got its dinner in his mess tins and then took the kiddie to the mess hall where they proceeded to eat. Some of the soldiers had quite a time feeding the very young children, but they managed nicely, the officer declared.

Hot Dinner

The meal, which was nicely cooked, consisted of roast beef, potatoes, carrots gravy bread and butter, with a jam tart and a piece of Christmas cake for dessert and a cup of hot chocolate. Lieut. Parsons said the meal was prepared by Cpl. R. Newham of Birtle Man. and all the hot chocolate and Christmas cake came out of boxes from home.

"When dinner was finished, the children were all taken outside to see St. Nicholas arrive in a jeep. St. Nicholas was another of our boys, Staff Sgt. J. Pilgisser of Oshawa. He was accompanied by Black Peter who is supposed to be a little nigger boy from Morroco, and when St. Nicholas is giving out presents, Black Peter watches and helps St. Nicholas and if any bad children come along, he chases them away. Pte. S. Baxter of Toronto, was Black Peter.

"The children really had a good time and each received a package containing two chocolate bars, one packet of gum and some biscuits. We had to do some hurrying at the last minute as we discovered that we had about 225 kiddies instead of the 130 that we expected. But we were able to get them all a good meal and a little present."

At the time he enlisted, Lieut. Parsons was working in South Porcupine. He has now been overseas 3½ years and a sister Lahring is with the RCAF, WD in Canada.

Many Parties

Other units in liberated sections of Holland did their best to make the Dutch children forget the past occupation. The Canadian Grenadier Guards planned a celebration in the part of the town where they were stationed, but before they could have it, they were moved. Undaunted, they left everything for the rear party to carry on.

In their new location they discovered the Dutch children were going about with long faces because their parents faced with empty larders, had told them the Germans had taken St. Nick away with them. The Guardsmen, promptly said they would send tanks into Germany and bring him back. On St. Nicholas day, along came the jolly old fellow waving from the turret of a Sherman tank. He brought sweets and gifts with him too.

CAPT. R. T. F. BRAIN, MM

The weather in Holland has consistently dampened the ardor of the Canadians, who cannot help contrasting the perpetual dampness with the climate at home This is the theme of a letter received by Fred Mann, 199 London street, from Capt. R. T. F. Brain, padre with the S.D. and G. Highlanders.

"The war goes on and for us, at its wet place. Holland is not a desirable spot in which to fight, for it's far too wet both overhead and underfoot. It is also difficult ground, because it's so flat. The people of Holland are really suffering and it will be no matter of astonishment to me to earn after the war, that Holland, of all the European countries will have suffered most. On the whole, the Dutch seem to be a very friendly people. I like the way they get on with the job of helping themselves. They are like the Belgians in this regard. The French are too slow and talkative.

"I've had a 48-hour leave in Paris. It is a wonderful city, and if, as and when I get a chance again, I'll certainly go there to see more of it. It's buildings are fine as are its main streets and Canadians are held in high regard in Paris."

Organized Activities

The Auxiliary Services organization in large military camps across Canada has an amazingly compact entertainment set-up. They promote sports, craft work and concerts to take care of the hours when men are off duty and too far rom a civilian centre which offers entertainment.

Petawawa Camp, 144 square miles in size, is typical in the matter of entertainment which has been set up. Sgt. Bill Joiner of Peterborough is one of the members of the Sports committee which operates a bowling alley where leagues from different units in the whole camp compete. There are six big skating rinks used for hockey and during the winter there are active hockey league contests. Other sports include basketball, volleyball, curling, skiing, boxing and skating.

The YMCA at Petawawa runs a dance every Wednesday night which is popular with the men at camp, and the Knights of Columbus have a similar affair. There are good dance bands provided and girls are driven from Pembroke in special Army buses to act as hostesses.

All the Auxiliary Services groups have craft shops and Pte. Bud Lloyd RCOC of Peterborough, is enthusiastic about the training the men get there. They are taught to do skilful leather work, carving and other hand craft, and they not only learn something useful, but it helps to while away their leisure hours. Many of the boys made lamps with unusual bases, slippers, mocassin style, beautiful leather wallets and women's purses, as Christmas presents. The Army work put much of the wartime products to shame.

Gallant Highlanders

The men and officers of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders have chosen an unusual Christmas card to send back to their friends in Canada. While extending best wishes for a happy Christmas, it also serves as a reminder to those at home, of what the men in that unit are facing. Such a card was sent by the officers and men to the Examiner staff.

The front of the plain white folded bears in red-printing the message "Glengarrians Christmas greetings, 1944 and in the corner their famous war cry "Up The Glens." On the inside pages under the heading "Remember" appear the names of the battles in which they have participated. They are divided into two groups some in green printing and others in red. The latter represent the major battles in which the unit has seen bitter fighting. To many an old soldier of the last war, these places will conjure up pictures of the days they slogged through the mud fighting the same enemy.

The names in red, the major battles, are as follows: Les Buisson (Hell's Corners), Vieux Cairon, Gruchy, Caen, Collombelles, Faubg de Vaucelles, Hubert Folie, River Laison, Pont de Frais, Louvagny, Rouen, Eu, Herquilingue, St. Martin de Boulogne, Outreaux (Hill 80) Cap Gris Nez, Hoofdplaat, Hooge Weg, Roodenhoek, Sasput Nommer Een, Breskins, Fort Hazegras, Oosthosk, and Knocke.

The complete list toals 69 engagements, and the names in green, signifying actions of lesser importance is as follows: Berniere-sur-mer, Villon les Buisson, Buron, Authie, Franqueville, Anisy, Cormelles, Bras, La Vey, Cintheaux, Urville, "Hill 190," Langannerie, Epancy, Trun, Familly, Boisney, Gras Thiel, Elbeuf, Boos, Fontaine Le Bourge, St. Saens, Acheux-en-Vimeu, Abbeville, Montreuil, Samer, "Point 128," Le Hamel, Tinghen, Contevile Lez Boulogne, Beuvrequen, Saffelaere, Tenhuessen, Thomaes, Fort Frederik Hendrick, Biervliet, Groede, Zuidzande, Retranchement, Ghent and Chateau d'Olsene.

These are the places where the Glengarrians have written history, and the stories of their gallant attacks will live on for other generations in these names.

The Officers and Executive of the Peterborough Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society extend to all workers good wishes for a Happy New Year and one in which Peace and Victory may be ours.

The Society wishes to gratefully acknowledge and thank the workers for their splendid co-operation and for all that has been accomplished in every department, by the sewers, knitters and cutters at the central work rooms; the church groups and rural units, the blood donors service.

Pheasants Native To China Taken To Europe By Romans

By G. H. RICHARDSON

The introduced Ring-necked Pheasant spends the winter wherever found.

When the Roman first reached China they found a certain river which they called the Phasis. Along the banks of this river were birds which were new to them. They called these "the birds of the Phasis" or Phasiani. From this word comes the English pheasant, the French faisan, and the similar word used in a number of European languages. The pheasant was introduced into England by the Romans at the time of their conquest, for by this time it had become a favorite table bird with them. There are two races of the pheasant common in England, one with the white neck ring, and the other without.

RING-NECKED PHEASANT

Pheasants, peafowl and jungle fowl are all closely related. Representatives of all of these birds are well known to everyone, but the last is the most familiar of course, since it is evidently from one of these that our barnyard fowl were derived. The red leghorn is surprisingly like one of the species of jungle fowl. Jungle fowl are found in the wild state in India, Ceylon, and that general region.

Many of the pheasants come from the northern parts of China and Tibet where the climate conditions are similar to our own. No doubt this atmosphere and the similarity of vegetation in the two regions, which are both of the temperate zone, account not only for the birds' adaptability here, but also for the fact that their colors fit in with our landscape much better than some of the other species.

Tree Sparrows

In October, when the frost is touching the ground, the tree sparrow comes down from the north. This little finch resembles the chipping and field sparrows in having a rusty crown. The field sparrow has a rusty wash across the breast also, and a pinkish bill. The tree sparrow has no rusty color on the breast, but has a single black dot in the middle, and its bill is dark on the upper mandible and yellow on the lower. The chipping sparrow lacks the black dot on the breast and has a conspicuous black line through the eye, a light, almost a white stripe separating it from the crown.

In southern Canada, neither the chipping nor field sparrows spend the winter, and the only chance of confusion with the tree sparrow might occur in places where a few tree sparrows are still present when the other two begin to arrive from the south in April.

Tree sparrows have a pleasingly musical twitter, the finch quality lending a charm on bitter winter days when the snowbound fields seem devoid of life.

CARDINAL

In southern Canada, the cardinal has been extending its range northward during the last 50 years. At one time it was rare at Point Pelee, but since then has increased northward and eastward so that a few are found regularly in the vicinity of Toronto all winter, and southwest of here are more numerous. One winter over 30 were discovered around London, Ontario, on a Christmas census.

New Municipal Group Makes Preparations To Dust Off Council's Book Of Rules

"No member except the mover shall speak upon any question or motion until it shall have been read from the Chair, and the question or motion if debated shall again be read before being put."

That is the text of rule 22 from the canons of municipal manner embodied in Bylaw No. 2509 regulating the procedure of the council of the corporation of the city of Peterborough passed March 3, 1924 during the mayoralty of the late John J. Turner.

This rule assumes the effect of preceding No. 19 requiring every motion to be presented to the Chair "in writing" with the names of the mover and seconder. Exceptions are routine motions to adjourn, adopt reports, refer petitions or other documents to standing committees, for the council to go into committee of the whole, or for a committee to rise.

Both the city and county councils have somewhere in their respective copies of their codes of procedure adopted for the end of decorum and also of emulation of parliamentary practice. They are a minor form of emulation of parliamentary practice. They are a minor form of 'red tape' to the average member of a municipal council, and in the usually free exchange of opinion and debate an applicable rule may seem to possess only nuisance value.

Carries On

It used to be and probably continues an ironbound rule in the council of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham that a motion is not before the "House" unless it has been submitted in writing to the clerk, and discussion waits on his reading. That detail may be a trifling obstacle to the immediate flow of discussion, but when it is established as accustomed procedure it is no longer noticed in its observance. It settles into routine, and in that circumstance the motion is a proposal to be read by the clerk from the copy presented to him and not from any notes he may have made of it.

Peterborough city and county councils do not entirely ignore these regulatoins, but they frequently evade them.

Book Of Rules

The 'interregnum' period between the outgoing of one administration and the incoming of its successor, invites a scanning of the book of rules of the city council.

Rule 20—"Every motion read by the Mayor or other presiding officer shall be deemed to be in the possession of the council, and can only be withdrawn before decision or amendment by permission of the council."

Here's another injunction that is permitted to gather dust—"No alderman shall, in the Council, speak more than once, and then not longer than ten minutes, to the same question, except the mover, who shall have the right of reply (but no longer than ten minutes) when all other speakers have finished; providing that any Alderman considering himself misunderstood, may with the consent of the Mayor or other presiding officer, explain, but so that no new matter whatever be introduced."

Rule 45 which is manifestly intended to discourage word wanderings says: "All standing rules of the Council shall be observed in Committee of the Whole so far as they may be applicable, except the rule limiting the number of times a member may address the Council, and for the taking of ayes and nays, and a motion for the previous question or for adjournment, but no member shall speak more than once in Committee of the Whole until every other member choosing to speak shall have spoken, and no member shall speak to the same question for a longer period than ten minutes at his first time of speaking and five minutes at every subsequent time, unless by consent of the Council."

Rule 4—The members of the Council shall not leave their places on adjournment until the Mayor or other presiding officer leaves the Chair.

Adjourn At 11

The Council shall always adjourn at 11 p.m. if in session at that hour, unless otherwise determined by a majority of the members present.

The Mayor may vote with the other members on all questions; and on any question on which there is an equality of votes shall be deemed to be negatived.

"Every Alderman present shall vote on all questions and motions, unless the Council excuse him; and if an Alderman refuses to vote he shall be counted as voting nay and so recorded when the vote is recorded; but he shall not vote upon any question or motion in which he has a direct or indirect pecuniary interest or profit, such as is peculiar to that member and not in common with the citizens at large. The vote of any member so interested shall be disallowed."

The rule relating to the enactment of bylaws is No. 49: "Every bylaw, memorial or address to the Council shall be read three times before being passed, the first time in Council when the general object of the measure may be stated, the second time in Committee of the Whole, when the clauses shall be read and put separately, and the third time after being engrossed in Council without amendment, excepting that it may at any time be recommitteed; and no bylaw, memorial or address shall be read more than twice at any one meeting of the Council, provided, however, that this latter clause may be at any time suspended, and the bylaw, memorial or address may be read a third time at the same meeting and finally passed thereat, if a majority of the whole Council vote therefor."

Money Regulations

All accounts and claims against the Corporation, except claims for damages, shall, when received by the Clerk, stand referred to the finance committee of the Council; and unless provided for by bylaw or resolution of the Council no account shall be paid until reported on by the finance committee and the report thereon adopted by the Council.

Rule 57—"No committee, or any member of this Council, or any of officer thereof, shall directly or indirectly enter into any contract with or authorize the purchase of, or purchase any article or any goods, wares or merchandise for the Corporation from any one or more of the members of this Council, or from any officer thereof."

Rule 58—"No officer of the Corporation or any member of the Council shall, on behalf of the Corporation, enter into any contract without having obtained by bylaw or resolution the previous authority and sanction of the Council in that behalf, and no officer shall purchase anything of the Corporation without the authority of a chairman of a committee or the Mayor, and the chairman or Mayor may authorize purchases of an amount not exceeding $25, except that in an emergency the chairman or Mayor may authorize an expenditure exceeding that sum."

Rule 59—"Any breach of the regulation imposed by the preceding section of this bylaw, on the part of any officer of the Corporation, shall subject him to forfeiture of his office and immediate removal therefrom."

Rule 5 sets out the duty of the Mayor "to preside at all meetings of the Council, to preserve order and decorum, and decide all questions of order, subject to an appeal to the Council, stating the rule or practice on which his decision is founded, and he may state facts but shall not take part in debate.

Rule 8—"If the Mayor or other presiding officer desires to leave the Chair to take part in debate, or for any other purpose, he shall call one of the members to fill his place and preside until he resumes the Chair."

The council's order of business begins with the hearing of deputations; consideration of the confirmation of the minutes of the last preceding meeting; reception and disposal of communications and petitions; reception of reports of committees and action thereon; notices of motion; first, second and third reading of bylaws, motions of which notice has been given; motions and questions, and the consideration of any business introduced by members, otherwise general business.

Spirit Of Hope Symbolizes All New Year Rites

The observation of New Year's is universal, and although the precise date of its solemnization may vary among different races and creeds, the spirit of hospitality and hopefulness prevails traditionally.

Prior to China's adoption of the Gregorian calendar, the Chinese New Year was celebrated during the time of the first moon—around the first of February. Traditionally, all debts must be paid by midnight on New Year's Eve or "face" is lost on New Year's Day. In the old days, the celebration began a week prior to the Eve when homage was paid to the Kitchen God and climaxed on the "fifteenth day of the First Moon" by "Teng Chieh," the Feast of Lanterns. The progression of festivities was accompanied by good conduct among young and old, parties and exchange of greeting cards.

Hindus Celebrate in April

The Hindus use a lunar calendar and solemnize their New Year toward the last of April. Many of the devout make pilgrimages to the Ganges and other holy streams for the purpose of washing away their sins, others offer propitiatory gifts to the gods in local temples, while feasting, exchanges of calls and greeting cards prevail among families and friends.

Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year, is one of the highest of Orthodox holy days. Also known as the Feast of Trumpets, the sounding of a ram's horn, the Shafor, calls the faithful to worship, reminding them of God's providence in caring for His people and rededicating them to His services. Rosh Hashana commemorates the Day of Creation and special prayers are offered in the synagogues for the restoration of Zion. In the home, the head of the house prays in behalf of his family over an apple or round loaf of bread which has been dipped in honey: the roundness thereof symbolizing the desire for a smooth and prosperous New Year.

January 'Two-Faced.'

The Gregorian months of January is the namesake of Janus, the two-faced Roman god accredited with the ability to look backward and forward simultaneously. New York city, on New Year's Eve, reflects the gaiety, toasting and meditation traditional to New Year's celebrations around the world. The streets, particularly Broadway, are thronged with thousands of festival-minded persons, the hotels, etc., are crowded with parties and many gather in churches to welcome the New Year in prayer. As the clocks strike twelve, the noise-makers are blown full blast accompanied by the whistles on every ship, tug, etc., in the vicinity, joined by those of the surrounding communities.

Honor Norse Goddess

Once upon a time, long before the Nordic tribes were converted to Christianity—maybe even before the Saviour was born—the tribesmen decked their lodgings with evergreens in honor of Hertha, Norse goddess of the home and domestic affairs. Hertha paid her annual visits during the time of the Winter Solstice and descended through the smoke which curled upward from the fir boughs burning upon a special altar of flat stones.

When the family and serfs were gathered before the blaze, Hertha would direct the person wisest in lore and legend to foretell the fortunes of those present.

Greek Crisis Has Arisen From Distrust Of Leaders

By GRANT DEXTER

OTTAWA: Representations regarding British policy in Greece are reaching Ottawa in surprising volume. There are evidently many who believe that the Churchill government has blundered and that the Canadian government should have something to say about current events in Greece.

In one of his speeches, Mr. Churchill inferred that the governments of the Commonwealth nations had been consulted and had approved of British policy. But in answer to a question in the House of Commons on December 6, Mr. King said that there are no Canadian soldiers in Greece and that the government "has no wish to interfere in the internal affairs of liberated countries where that can possibly be avoided." There is a degree of embarrassment at Ottawa because of the inference by Mr. Churchill from the term consultation. The government, it is clear, has expressed no opinion with respect to British policy in Greece. No advice has been sought; none has been offered. Consultation has meant only that the British foreign office has kept Ottawa informed.

What would have happened if London had asked Ottawa for advice is not clear. The External Affairs department obviously does not feel competent to advise with regard to the situation in Greece, is keenly aware of the difficulties in which the foreign office finds itself, and has no desire to add to these difficulties. There is no immediate Canadian interest, in the sense that there would be if Canadian soldiers were involved. There is a definite feeling that while the motives of the British government are unquestionable, mistakes have been made.

The situation as it is understood here, however, is not as bad as despatches have indicated. In essence it is regarded as having arisen out of distrust among left wing elements of centre and right wing groups which, of course, include the monarchists. This distrust began in the mutiny in the Greek regular army units in Egypt, early in the North African campaign, when leftist elements were expelled. The distrust does not, as yet, extend to any great degree to the British government or the British army in Greece. It will have been noted that the bulk of the left wing forces still acknowledge the command of General Scobie and that only a part of these forces are taking part in the fighting.

From the time of the Nazi conquest, the various groups in Greece have carried on separately the struggle for liberation. The overall task was assigned by the Big Three to Britain and British troops are now in Greece with the approval of Russia and the United States. Liberation is not yet complete. Nazis still hold Samos and Crete, and there are Nazi army elements still at large on the mainland.

As the hour of liberation approached it became clear that the resistance groups would have difficulty in forming a national government. To prevent civil war the British government, last May, got the leaders of all these groups together at Lebanon. They agreed upon a coalition government under M. Papandreou and every member of it, incidentally, was a republican.

In October, it was proposed to wind up the resistance movements and form a national army which would belong not to a party but to the state, and which would obey only the orders of the national government. The present trouble arose on the point of which group should disarm first. Again agreement was reached but, later, the left wing repudiated it. The agreement would have left right wing troops as the only organized Greek military force in existence during the interval between the disarming and the emergence of the new national army. The left wing, obviously, feared a dictatorship of the right, based on this armed force.

One mistake, it now appears, was to leave the armed force of any group in existence. The British army could have maintained order in this interval. But, in any event, the danger was not foreseen. The strike in Athens occurred three days after the breakdown and the shocking use of firearms on an unarmed people led on to the present fighting. The fighting, however, has been confined largely to the Athens area. The bulk of the left wing troops have remained aloof and it is clear that the left wing leaders are not unanimously in favor of the present bloodshed.

It is impossible, without first-hand knowledge, to imagine the present plight of Greece. The country was denuded of supplies and all movable assets by the Nazis. The transportation system was wrecked. Engines and rolling stock were taken to Germany. Bridges and roads were blown up. Greece possesses no raw materials and today is dependent on imports for food and supplies of all kinds. Under the Nazis, inflation was induced with appalling consequences. British troops are today on half rations to help keep the Greek people alive. Every effort has been made by the British and Commonwealth governments to get supplies to Greece and distribute them by coastwise shipping. The Greek drachma on November 7 reached the astronomical rate of 20 trillion drachmas to the pound sterling. At this point the British government stepped in, placed British credit behind a new Greek currency. The new drachma (November 9) is worth 600 to the pound and the inflated currency is exchangeable at 50 million for one.

For a long time Greece has been a country of mass unemployment and terrible destitution. The Greek people are on the verge of starvation. The economy of the country is a shambles. Indeed, the wonder of the present trouble is not that it has occurred but that the Greeks have still the vitality to fight. And it makes no sense to those close to the situation to argue that Britain and the other United Nations should clear out and let the Greeks make the best of things. The story of Greece is the story of the man that fell among thieves, only the Good Samaritan has been unwise in some of the things he has tried to do in aid. But to leave the victim prostrate would be unthinkable.

There is danger in the situation because of possible complications between the Big Three. If the new world organization were in being and Greece could come before the assembly, it would be different. But, even so, this is a domestic, not an international dispute.

The feeling at Ottawa is that the position might be improved by the abdication of King George, which would lessen the fear of a rightist dictatorship. A move along this line is expected in the near future.

DEC. 31, 1940—Taranto, Naples and Crotone attacked by R.A.F. Shipping Ministry requisitioned all tankers still under private control. Hitler forecast victory for Germany in 1941. R.A.F. attacked Netherlands and Rhineland targets.

JAN. 1, 1941—Bombs with German markings dropped in several Eire counties killing three persons. R.A.F. hit Bremen with 20,000 fire bombs and explosives and Germans staged night attacks on eastern England. Greeks captured strong fortified line outside Klisura, Albania.

Red Cross Clinic Grateful To Donors

Another year is drawing to a close and since the Blood Donor Clinic opened, almost 20,000 donations of blood have been shipped overseas.

To those donors, who have contributed so nobly to the safety of our men by the contribution of their blood, the Peterborough Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society extends its most grateful thanks. Many a wounded man will come back home, because these men and women have so generously given their blood to make his return possible.

To the doctors and nurses, to the churches and the five chapters of the I.O.D.E., and to all those who have fulfilled their various duties on the staff of the Clinic so faithfully and without remuneration, the Peterborough Branch wishes to take this opportunity of expressing its gratitude, because without their help the Clinic could not function.

The Blood Donor Service is also indebted to Wonder Bakeries Lt., Peterborough Utilities Commission, to Nashua Paper Co. and to the Coca Cola Co. for their continuous gifts of bread, distilled water, paper and Coca Cola, throughout the year.

The appreciation of this organization goes also to Nicholls Hospital for permitting the use of their autoclave for sterilization of equipment, to all firms in the city and to Red Cross groups outside of Peterborough, to whose continued interest the Clinic owes so much.

The Branch also appreciates deeply the co-operation of this newspaper in the furtherance of the Blood Donor work. Each week, since the Clinic opened, the Examiner has not only given this space without charge, but has helped in numerous other ways towards the success of this war effort.

At the beginning of this new year, the Peterborough Blood Donor Clinic asks for the continued co-operation of its regular donors, and for the enrolment of many new ones, that it may be enabled to do its part in bringing this conflict to a close, so that peace may be possible during the coming year.

360,000 Football Fans Expected To See Bowl Games

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 — (AP). — More than 360,000 football fans — nearly 100,000 more than a year ago — are expected to watch the various year-end football bowl games that put the finishing touches on a hectic 1944 campaign.

Serving as an appetizer for the Rose, Sugar, Orange, Coton, Shrine Sunt, and Spaghetti Bowls on New Year's Day, is the renewal to-day of the North-South struggle at Montgomery, Ala., after a year's lapse. Officials anticipate a capacity crowd of 22,500 for the game that stars two ace forward passers in the former Georgia star, Charlie Trippi, for the South, and Indiana's Bob Hoernschemeyer for the North.

The S.R.O. sign has been hung out for Monday's glamorous struggles. More than 90,000 are expected at the Rose Bowl in California where highly favored Southern California tangles with undefeated, but tied Tennessee of the South-east Conference.

Down at New Orleans the Sugar Bowl clash between Duke and Alabama figures to draw 70,000, and the East vs West (Shrine Bowl) encounter at San Francisco 60,000. The East All-Stars and Duke are favored.

The Spaghetti Bown in Italy that pits the Allied 5th Army against the 12th Air Force expects a turnout of some 35,000 soldiers. The Cotton Bowl engagement at Dallas between the Oklahoma Aggies and Texas Christian looks for a similar crowd.

Georgia Tech, upset conqueror of Navy during the regular season, battles high-scoring Tulsa in the Orange Bowl at Miami with 30,000 in the stands. The Sun Bowl tilt at El Paso, Tex., between the University of Mexico and South-western of Texas probably will have a crowd of 18,000.

TORONTO, Dec. 30 — (CP). — That's a funny little situation that arose at Nanaimo, B.C., where the Kirk brothers staged a "sitdown strike" demanding more pay for their hockey talents. Jack and Norm Kirk are stars of the Nanaimo Clippers and recognize their worth. The strange part of it all is that the team officials and the Amateur Hockey Association men on the coast don't think it at all strange that "amateurs" should be demanding pay increases, but take it all for granted....As a matter of fact, President Doug Grimston of the Provincial Amateur Hockey body said he would much rather have things in the open, instead of having surreptitious bonuses slipped around as was done in the oldd ays before everyone gave up the struggle to preserve that grand old myth....Only objection to the Kirk brothers' action apparently is that they have broken the price ceiling for hockey wages, and must pay the penalty of their sins—which means they may be suspended if they don't decide to live within their incomes.

Q.E.D.:

Just because men can play tough bruising games doesn't necessarily mean they are in good enough condition for the armed services, as suggested by James Byrnes, C.S. war mobilization director.

Fred Thompson of the Kitchener Record points out the case of Ted Reeve, noted Toronto athlete and sports writer, whose old football injuries finally caught up with him after he had hoodwinked the army doctors into taking him on as a volunteer. Ted had most of those injuries—the ones that made him unfit for military service — for many years while he was playing football, which isn't a sissy sport by any means.

Then, of course, there are the thousands of men in business and industry who have been rejected by the Army for one reason or another. They didn't have even the physical fitness apparently demanded to hold down one of the countless desk jobs in the services.

Mr. Byrnes evidently was barking up the wrong tree when he said a man must be fit for military service if he can 'compete with the greatest athletes of the nation."

REVIEW OF YEAR IN SPORTS

AUGUST

Havana Likely To Reap Gains

TORONTO, Dec. 30 — Charles Ferretti, general manager of Oriental Park, said he will go to Miami to see what can be done about attracting idle thoroughbreds for the Havana racing season.

While the track has made no immediate change in its four-days-a-week racing schedule which opened the Saturday before Christmas to continue until the first week in July, track officials said that if Ferretti receives encouragement, the park might increase its racing days and purses to make the meetings more attractive to American horsemen.

Purses for the 1944-45 season were raised to a minimum of $250, against last year's $200, with stake races at a top of $500 and $600.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Comes the time for a retrospective glance back over the sporting events of the year that is just closing. And the first thought is that in spite of the fact that we had no O.H.A. hockey, no baseball and nor organized lacrosse and that cricket just barely succeeded in hanging on this has been one of the most remarkable years in the history of sport here. The reason? The successful campaign in behalf of the Memorial Health Centre, involving the erection of a modern artificial ice arena and the providing of facilities for other sports to bring the city into the forefront of Ca dian municipalities in this respect. The raising of $210,000 by voluntary subscriptions and the passing of a bylaw authorizing a civic grant of $75,000 more have made this year perhaps the most outstanding from a sport standpoint in the history of this community. It is impossible to be too enthusiastic as to the eventual benefits from this most successful drive and the thanks of all sport-lovers should go to the public-spirited citizens whose vision and enterprise and energy supplied the leadership necessary to bring this great movement to a triumphant conclusion.

* * * * * *

Skimming over the sport events of the year we find only one provincial title coming this way and credit for that goes to the Y.M.C.A. volleyball team who won the Ontario championship last spring. There was no O.H.A. hockey, of course, with no rink available and the players declining to face another season with all the games played outside of town. The only organized hockey outside of the C.G.E. shop league was the Public School League which saw King George team win the honors after going through the season undefeated. Incidentally the Public Schools operated softball and soccer leagues as well during the past year and both loops were marked by keen competition and aroused a lot of interest. The schools continue to play a very important part in keeping sport alive in Peterborough and too much credit cannot be given the teachers who have done the coaching for the splendid results that have been attained. Their work has laid the foundation for future city teams in several lines of sport.

The Softball Season

From the viewpoint of crowd interest softball has been the major sport in Peterborough during the year. Both the Men's City League and the Girls' League had very successful seasons, playing before big crowds and incidentally raising sizable sums for war services purposes. The Plazas, returning to their original name after winning the City League last season as the 4th Battery, repeated their triumph, taking the league honors for the third year in a row by beating Switchgear in the finals. In the O.A.S.A. intermediate A playdowns Plazas disposed of Trenton in an exciting series only to go down to defeat at the hands of Oshawa Main Office in the next round. In the ladies' loop the Westclox, perennial champions, triumphed again, defeating Aircraft in the senior series. Brintons again carried off the intermediate honors and Westclox seconds won the junior championship and the Quaker Cup. Westclox, in the provincial playdowns disposed of York Brass, the Toronto representatives, but were beaten in the final by their old opponents, Stratford Kroehlers.

* * * * * *

In addition to the two city loops, there were school and church leagues and the Industrial League had a very successful season so that softball claimed a big part in the year's activities. Basketball had a good year. In spite of heavy losses of players due to enlistments the Y.M.C.A. was able to operate a House League and City League and the Ladies' City League at the Y.W.C.A. had a fine season with Transports taking the senior title from St. John's in a sensational series and Normals grabbing the intermediate honors for their first championship. The Peterborough Curling Club and the lawn-bowling club were able to report plenty of keen competition and large memberships and five-pin bowling became more popular than ever with a flock of leagues in existence. The Ladies' City Five Pin League saw the Westclox girls take the honors while the Men's City League title was carried of by Jay's team who did some consistently high rolling throughout. The Peterborough-Whitaker Cricket Club operated a limited schedule, affected by a scarcity of players, difficulty in obtaining transportation and trouble in scheduling matches.

Football Comes Back

Next to the Memorial Centre campaign the biggest development of the local 1944 sport season was the return of football. Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School operated senior and intermediate teams in the Cossa series after an absence of several years and under the coachnig of Bev Goulding, formerly of Bowmanville, the seniors signalized their return by winning the Lakeshore group. The final game with Oshawa Collegiate won in the closing moments by a goal from the field by Red Edgar was the most exxciting battle of the season. In the Cossa finals at Toronto the Peterborough students were eliminated by a big, fast Niagara Falls Collegiate twelve. In addition to the interscholastic football the Peterborough juniors operated a team and provided the fans with an interesting schedule that saw three young Toronto teams brought down here to provide fixtures for the Petes. The latter gave a good account of themselves, finally winding up the season by meeting a Hamilton team at Oshawa in a sudden-denth game for the unofficial junior championship. The Petes were nosed out after a tough battle under wintry conditions on a snow-covered field.

In closing this sketchy review, your column would like to take this opportunity of thanking all the good friends whose cooperation has made it possible to keep Examiner readers informed in regard to local sport during the past year. Our gratitude goes out to Herb Martin for his fine coverage of curling and lawn bowling, to Stroyan Leith for his reports on soccer games, to C. E. Ireson for his cricket news, to Gladys Mortimer and Bill Bennett for their help in regard to women's softball, to Dave Leether and Fred Scates for similar assistance in connection with the Men's City League, to Vince Fitzgerald and Tommy Miller for supplying the scores of the Men's City Five Pin League, to Betty Castle and Gerry Payne, for furnishing scores of the Ladies' City Five Pin League, to Vic Sedgewick for similar service in connection with the Y.M.C.A. Ladies' and Men's Five Pin Leagues, to Larry Maguire for his help in connection with the Industrial Softball League, to Hap Wilgar, Harley Weir and Andy Rutter for golfing news, to Howie Macdonald, Mary McPherson, Caroline Littlefield, Hymie Smith and especially to A. Neiman, the faithful scorer, for their assistance in covering ladies' basketball, to George Roper and the anonymous scorers of Y.M.C.A. basketball, to Gord Minty, swim coach for keeping this column posted on swimming news, to Bev Goulding and Junior Coach McNabb for aid in covering Collegiate football activity, to Rich Jackson and Doug Miller for news of the Peterborough junior squad, to R. K. McKee and Arnold Olmstead for furnishing us with school league news and the latter also for his help in connection with church league activities, to the St. Peter's pupil correspondents who have sent in reports of sport happenings during the year, to the anonymous correspondent who supplies the C.Y.O. bowling news and to all the other good friends who have aided this column.

400 Athletes Have Died In Service Of U.S.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 — (AP). — More than 400 standout professional and nationally-ranked amateur athletes have died in the service of the United States since that country entered the war.

A partial roundup of sports fatalities includes such familiar names as sprinter Charlie Paddock, polo ace Tommy Hitchcock, all-America footballer Nile Kinnick and miler Lou Zamperini.

Paddock, a marine captain and once known to millions as the world's fastest human, died in a plane crash near Sitka, Alaska; Hitchcock, a lieutenant-colonel and 10-goal international polo hero, was killed when his P 51 cracked up at Salisbury; and Kinnick, a naval ensign after an amazing grid career at the University of Iowa, was lost in the Caribbean Sea when his aircraft failed to return to its carrier.

Killed in Action

Zamperini, a lieutenant generally credited with once climbing a flagpole at Hitler's chancellory to collect a Nazi flag, was officially listed killed in action in the South Pacific although his family at Torrance, Calif., still has hope he is a war prisoner.

College football's honor roll is longer than the others because so many of its players are in the age group and physical condition that add up to front line service. Baseball, track, boxing and golf are others high on the list.

Died in Service

Two Major League baseball players have died in service — Eugene Stack, a rookie pitcher with Chicago White Sox, and Ardys Keller, a catcher who started 1944 spring training with St. Louis Browns. Incomplete Minor League lists reported to secretary L. H. Addington of the National Association include 41 names.

Boxing's better known of 131 fatalities were Indian Johnny Rivers and Andy Callahan. Gus Sonnenberg, who died of natural causes while in the navy, and Tex Edwards, Olympic ace and former football star, top wrestling's representation.

Johnny Burke of Newport, R.I., former national intercollegiate golf champ, and Jack Evert and Kendall Cram of tennis fame also died in service. Track's gold star list includes, in addition to Paddock and Zamperini, Frank Cuhel, 1928 Olympian hurdler from Iowa who was a war correspondent, and Bill Lyda, Oklahoma's 880-national collegiate king in 1942.

Billy Fisk, captain of the Olympic bobsled team in 1932 and 1938, was killed while serving as an R.A.F. pilot.

Lachine Coasts To 7-3 Victory

CORNWALL, Dec. 30 — (CP). — Lachine Rapids coasted to a 7-3 victory over Cornwall Cookies in an Interprovincial Hockey League game last night, scoring four goals in the third period after the teams had deadlocked in each of the earlier frames. The result lifted the Rapids into a third-place tie with Shawinigan Falls Cataracts.

Lineups:

Lachine—Goal, Lemaire; defence, Bean, Bathgate; centre, Villiere; wings, Morin, Morrow; subs, Broderick, Trigg, Chapman, Poulson, Deschamps, Terrault, Legault.

Cornwall—Goal, J. Renaud; defence, Dupuis, A. Renaud; centre, Gravel; wings, Lauzon, Savard; subs, Hebert, Carragher, Tapin, Burr, Perron, Deroches, Proulx, Marechal.

Officials—Contant and Leroche.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

With all the stables trying to get their horses into races at Tropical Park yesterday with the U.S. turf ban becoming effective after Tuesday, there were no less than 407 entries for the nine-race card. The track management restricted fields to 12 starters, however, and only 108 horses went to the post. Close finishes were the rule. Everybody, it seemed, was out for a piece of the prize-money as racing days started to fade out.

President Bill Tobin of Chicago Black Hawks and Art Ross, manager of the N.H.L. Bruins, in further conference yesterday at Boston reported they still had been unable to come to terms on prospective player deals. Tobin left for home late in the day without a trade.

The O.H.A. sub-committee, in session in Toronto yesterday, ruled that players of the former Port Colborne Junior "A" club could be signed by other teams, with a limit of two puck-chasers for any club. Alexnbarilko was given permission to play for the Brantford Junior "B" club and Edward Simon, formerly with Philadelphia in the U.S. Eastern Hockey League, will go to Kitchener Junior "B" team providing he has not played more than three games with the Quakers.

22 Marks Bettered Or Equalled In American League In 1944

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sport Writer

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—(AP).— The American League was more occupied with a slam-bang pennant race than breaking records last season, according to official figures released to-day which listed only 22 marks bettered or equalled, compared with 30 in 1943.

St. Louis Browns, who finally shook off Detroit and New York for the pennant, made three entries in the record book, while batting champion Lou Boudreau of Cleveland Indians and Frank Hayes of Philadelphia each hung up two new individual marks.

Hayes, in contributing two of the eight new major league records registered by the junior circuit, caught 155 games for the most consecutive contests and most games played by a catcher in one season. Hayes tied Catcher Ray Mueller of Cincinnati who set a similar National League record.

Boudreau set a new major league record for double plays at shortstop in a season, 13, and his .978 average was a new league high in fielding by a shortstop.

The Browns tied two major league records when they won nine straight games at the season's outset and took the flag with the low percentage of .578. Luke Sewell's lads also set a league record for grounding into the fewest infield double plays, 93.

Other new major league marks included: Most years leading league in home runs, New York, 25; most double plays at first base in a season, Rudy York of Detroit, 163; three successive errors at third base in one inning, Oscar Grimes of New York; and most years without a no-hit game, 22.

Team-mates George Myatt and Stan Spence of Washington equalled the major league mark of six-for-six at bat, while Boston's Bobby Doerr and Bob Johnson each hit the cycle. Other league records tied were the single game high of four two-baggers, by Johnny Lindell of New York, and five double plays at shortstop by John Sullivan of Washington.

George McQuinn and Don Gutteridge of the Browns had a hand in two of the five new league marks, each figuring in five double plays in a single game at first and second respectively.

Reliefer Joe Heving of Cleveland, set a loop mark of most consecutive games pitched and none completed with 63.

It was the fifth time in American League history that there were no unplayed games on the schedule—another record.

Omemee Is Allowed To Sign Local Players

TORONTO, Dec. 30 — (CP). — The Ontario Hockey Association sub-committee today decided that players from the Port Colborne team which withdrew from the Junior A series may join any other Junior A team, with a limit of two players to any one club.

The Waterloo Junior B team was transferred from group nine to group 10 where it will play with Preston, Paris and Guelph. The Newmarket Junior B team was transferred from group seven to group 16 with Markham, Port Credit and Richmond Hill.

Alex Barilko was given permission to play for the Brantford Junior B club and Edward Simon was given permission to play with the Kitchener Junior B club providing he has not played more than three games with the Philadelphia team in the eastern United States Amateur Hockey League. Omemee Intermediates were given permission to sign Peterborough players.

The committee re-affirmed its decision in not permitting service players to perform with civilian teams.

Bibeault May Put Boston In Top Bracket

By FRED KERNER
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Suggestions that the feud between Art Ross and Tommy Gorman is at an end because the Canadiens' mentor handed Goalie Paul Bibeault over to Bruins on a silver platter may or may not be on the right track. There is always a possibility that a shrewd-player-trader like Tommy Gorman had more than an olive branch in mind.

Paul Bibeault may not be an all-time all-star goalie, but he is as solid a netminder as can be found in the N.H.L. to-day. With a fair defensive aggregation in front of him, the former Habitant backstop is worth half a team—something he proved while with Toronto Leafs last season. And just as he proved a help to Leafs last season, this year with Boston he might be a hindrance to Hap Day's boys.

With a first-class goaltender, Bruins can climb into third place and push the Leafs on to the fourth rung in the standing. In that way Leafs might end up playing Detroit in one of the semi-final Stanley Cup series, and Habitants would face the team they helped.

Meanwhile with a full New Year's week-end booked in hockeydom, Detroit's Red Wings have a possibility of overtaking the Stanley Cup holders—but the probability is slim. Wings face the cellar-clistered Chihawks twice in a row on Sunday and Monday and the four points they can pick up in easy fashion might boost them atop the Habs. The Montrealers play only a single game—to-night — facing Rangers who have managed to down the loop-leaders once this year.

Figure filberts also point out that Hawks can go a long way to lift themselves out of the basement, for the Thompson team plays three games, facing Leafs at Toronto to-night prior to the two-tilt series against Detroit. Rangers get their second holiday game under their belts on Sunday night at home when they entertain Bruins.

All in all, though, the odds are good that the standing will be unchanged next Tuesday morning.

Memorial Finals Set For Toronto

TORONTO, Dec. 30 (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association at its annual mid-winter meeting yesterday announced that the Memorial Cup finals would be played in Toronto starting Saturday, April 14. Venue and dates of the Allan Cup finals for the senior title were not decided upon.

Frank Sargent, president of the C.A.H.A., said that a decision would be reached on the place and dates of the Allan Cup series before the end of February. The annual meeting of the C.A.H.A. will be held in Vancouver, May 5, 6 and 7.

A warning was issued by the executive that permission must be granted by the provincial branch and the C.A.H.A. before any member team can play an exhibition game with an United States team.

Staffords Hold Hamilton To 4-All Tie

By The Canadian Press

For the second time this season in the O.H.A. senior series, the surprising Staffords of Toronto last night held the league-leading Majors to a tie, the score at Hamilton being 4-4 in overtime. As a result, Majors retain a two-point margin above Staffords and St. Catharines Saints, tied for second place.

There was no score in the first period and it looked like cheers for Majors as they emerged from the second round with a 2-0 advantage on goals by Liscombe and Shillington. Within 11 minutes of the third frame, however, Kosick and Grigor balanced the score for Staffords and from there on the rivals took turns in slipping in the counters, with Moorehouse of the visitors knotting it at 4-4 with only 15 seconds of the regular time to play.

The snipers for Majors were Liscombe, Shillington, Conick and Brady while the Stafford markers went to Kosick, Grigor, Calhoun and Moorehouse.

In a return to Junior "A" competition St. Catharines Falcons climbed into a first-place tie with St. Michaels by beating Galt Red Wings 6-2.

McMurdy notched the sole tally of the first frame for Falcons, then the homesters cut loose to lead 5-1 at the close of the second period. Peterson paced the winners with two goals while Adamo registered both scores for Red Wings.

Falcons' other counts went to McMurdy, Davis, Delmonte and Dawdy, with Delmonte also breaking through for two assists. Other assists were chalked to the credit of Dawdy, Stewart (2) and Edwards. Helping Adamo in his two Galt counters were Jordan and Pavelich.

University Military Training Is Disrupted

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 30 — (CP) — Dr. K. P. R. Neville, registrar of the University of Western Ontario and dean of the faculty of arts, said today that the government was "not co-operating with the universities when it cancelled the university air training plan in the middle of the year."

"It is interference with the whole system of military training in the universities to take these students out of one group and thrust them into one of two others in mid-season," he said.

University students are required to take military training and those who have been in the air training plan must transfer to the Canadian training corps or the university naval training unit.

Soldier Teams Total 25 Across England

WITH THE CANADIAN ARMY OVERSEAS, Dec. 30 (CP)—Three Canadian Army hockey circuits grouping a total of 25 teams, are keeping the Dominion's national sport alive in the hearts of Canadians as well as British hockey fans this winter.

The Canadian Military Headquarters League includes two groups, both playing at Purley Rink with limited spectator accommodation. The Saturday circuit is composed of three teams and the Sunday one of four, which play morning double-headers.

Among the contestants are many veterans of Italy, France, Belgium and Holland, who, because of lowered medical categories now are at headquarters.

At Brighton a 12-team circuit operates four mornings a week and at Purley another six-team league is in operation. Winners of each schedule will meet for the Canadian Army hockey title in England. Present plans call for a "little world series" next Spring between Army and Air Force champions.

Toronto Man Supervisor

Auxiliary services sports supervisor for Canadians in England is W. H. Brown, former British Empire Games track star, of Toronto. One of the Brown twins of field and track fame, he has been overseas since March, 1943.

"Right now we have 25 affiliated teams and five pick-ups," he said. "Hockey does not interfere with the strenuous training of our reinforcements. On the contrary, our fighting men play their games in their sports periods. All units and area sports officers are most co-operative."

Sammy Godin, former National League and minor league professional star, is assisting Brown at Brighton, and has also assisted Supervisor Ross Neil, Y.M.C.A. auxiliary services officer from London, Ont., on his way from Newfoundland to the Western front.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Big Bill Tilden, who cleaned up every tennis event in world during his great career, announced his retirement as an amateur 14 years ago today. His pro debut was at New York in February, 1931 after he had headed the U.S. ranking amateur list for 10 years.

January 1

The high commissioner of baseball, Kenesaw Mountain Landis, began his third term as chief of major baseball's Advisory Council 10 years ago today when an agreement made in December, 1933, came into effect giving Landis a salary of $40,000 a year. Landis died November 25, 1944.

Nelson Earned $45,000 In Golf Duels

TORONTO, Dec 30—The game of golf got its Christmas gift this week, writes Grantland Rice. Though overshadowed by football, baseball, boxing, racing and basketball, insofar as general publicity goes, it drew the athlete, or competitor, of the year in Byron Nelson.

A popular vote from those writers who cover the country and who should know what it is all about, put the star golfer over such challengers as Marty Marion, brilliant shortstop of the St. Louis Cardinals; Les Horvath of Ohio State, Heisman Trophy winner; and the pick of Army's football team, the football pros, boxers and basketball players. And, in my opinion, the selection was justified.

Won $45,000 in Bonds

During 1944 Nelson won $45,000 in war bonds and in so doing played over courses from coast to coast, completing something like 80 rounds of golf for an average score of a trifle under 70—one of the greatest performances that any golfer has ever shown.

In the course of this long tour, Nelson picked up more money than any football or baseball player even approached for the 1944 season — and golf is not supposed to be a big-money game. You get only what you earn. You are paid off on what you do. You are given no guarantee of any sort, no matter how big you may be. You pay your own way from start to finish.

Along this line, professional golf is the finest amateur sport Rice has known. No one, no club, no organization takes care of you. You must take care of yourself. Nelson's $45,000 in war bonds and his great all-year record entitles him to the nomination of athlete of the year.

Several people have brought up the point that a golfer isn't really an athlete. By the old Grecian standards, and it was Greece that originated the word, an athlete is one who trains for war—no matter what the game.

Demands Concentration

Golf happens to be a game that demands the top in concentration on the job. This is a vital part of any competitive sport. Golf is also a game that requires co-ordination in the way of mind and muscle.

Any number of star athletes and top-notch coaches have never been able to master golf. Bill Tilden, Jack Dempsey and the late Knute Rockne are three striking examples.

"Golf is one game I could never play well," Rockne once said. "It always had me licked. So I gave it up."

Thousands of fine football players, big-league baseball players and boxers never could play golf well, no matter how hard they worked at the game. Golf is a game that demands good legs, a vital necessity in any sport.

Must Have Good Legs

"I never knew I was slipping," Walter Hagen pointed out, "until I found out my legs were going. You need good legs in golf as much as you do in baseball and football. This means the ability in a 36-hole, all-day test to walk at least 12 miles, always under a strain, and not get tired. When your legs are tired you also lose your timing on the short game—your chip shots and your putting. Legs mean a lot in golf when you have to play 36 holes a day."

"I can hit the ball better than I ever could," Gene Sarazen explained. "But my legs won't carry me far enough." And Sarazen happens to have barrel or oak-tree legs, but 23 years of tramping the greens have taken their toll.

With the old year now passing out of the picture we are not going to start giving a review of what has taken place during the past year but want to draw attention to what should have been done. We are not asking for any new year resolutions as they are generally broken after the first week or so. Looking around we note that the old kitty ball has been put away in moth balls by one of our teams and that at least three back games are now on their hands to get caught up, this will mean about four weeks of double headers.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 — (AP). — One sure way to drive yourself wacky is to try to make sense out of the various interpretations of amateurism and this dept. wouldn't bring up the subject if Nat Holman hadn't done it first . . . and there might be room for the suspicion that the canny C.C.N.Y. basketball coach was providing a ready-made alibi when he asked A.A.U. permission this week for his boys to play against Hamline's professional baseball players. Howie Schultz and Rollie Seltz.

Besides the varying ideas of collegiate amateurism, you have everything from tennis, which won't let a player accept a free racquet and limits travelling on expenses to eight weeks a year, to "amateur" hockey, paying cash on the barrel head, and polo, which ignores the whole matter . . . hockey men, for instance, argue that kids who come down from Canada and receive just enough money to pay for room and board, a few movies and presents for the folks at home are just as much amateurs as, say, Gunder Haegg, who was to come here for two months of foot racing under the auspices of the strict E.A.U., have all his expenses paid and hold down a job as correspondent for a Swedish newspaper to make up the salary he would have lost by not staying at home to sell haberdashery . . . we like the golf idea that a professional in one sport isn't necessarily a pro in another.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

There were three games played on ices 1, 2 and 3 that drew the attention of the boys on No. 8. On ice one, Tom McArthur was playing against R. Dawson and it was close all the way. They were tied going home but on the 12th end, 'Smiling Dick' put on the pressure and helped himself to a big five.

On ice two Ross Downey and C. Giroux were having a real argument. This game was also a tie coming home. When Giroux played his last stone Downey was lying shot. But Giroux played well and removed Downey's stone and then he laid two. Downey played a little heavy and that game was over.

But Wallace Harvey takes the gold medal. He and Stan Lowe had played a tie game and during the extra end it was all in favor of Lowe. When Harvey played his last stone Lowe was lying four, all around the rings, and looked to be well guarded. As Harvey's stone came down the ice it was seen that something was going to happen. His stone hit one of his own rocks out in front. It in turn hit another one and his third stone squeezed through the only "port" there was and settled nicely and quietly right on the Tee.

Don't forget the mixed bonspiel this evening at 7.30 p.m. Light refreshments later on in the evening.

Mother, Mix Your Own Cough Syrup. It's Fine

Gives Quick Relief. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

This well-known medicine, mixed in your own kitchen, costs very little, but it gives delightful, swift-acting relief from coughs due to colds. It takes but a moment to prepare—it's so easy anyone can do it. And it saves real money.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a 16 oz. bottle and add your syrup. Thus you make 16 ounces of really splendid cough syrup—and it gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and children love its taste.

And for quick, satisfying relief, you'll say it's really splendid. It has a three-fold action. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear air passages. You'll be delighted by its prompt, pleasing results.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a well-known and reliable soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if it doesn't please you.

The Mayor's Message To the Citizens

May I convey to the citizens of Peterborough my sincere appreciation of the great honor again conferred upon me by being returned by acclamation to the office of Mayor.

The Mayor's duties are many and important in ordinary times, but due to the war and activities centring on the supreme purpose of gaining victory the responsibilities of the office have greatly increased. I have been fortunate in having the kindly co-operation of all members of the Council, and I trust that I may have the continued friendly support of the Citizens.

I am proud of the part Peterborough is fulfilling in the cause of victory. By the united efforts of all citizens in great and small things victory is coming within our grasp.

To those who have loved ones serving with Canada's forces on land, on sea, or in the air, I would speak a special word. I add my hope to yours that before the year is ended the war will have ended victoriously for the United Nations, and your loved ones will have returned safely home.

1944 Failures Opportunity For New Year

Suggesting that people should review the events in their personal lives for 1944 with a view to correcting the failures in the New Year, was the theme of the address given by Rev. Fr. Marrocco to members of the Kiwanis Club and their wives Friday afternoon.

Rev. Fr. Marrocco said that people today were living in a spectator age, where they paid for entertainment, and he recommended that in imagination they consider life as an old photograph album, turning to leaf 1944, just before the arrival of the New Year. The speaker said that it should be studied from two angles, man's relation to God and man's relation to his fellow human beings.

In reviewing this page, the priest said it was necessary to give equal attention to both successes of 1944 and the failures, and to view them with a balanced mind, making neither too much of the good things or mistakes. Rev. Fr. Marrocco stressed that individuals must strive to live up to the standard set by God, and to profit by the omissions of this past year. It is a Christian duty also, he declared, to make certain that your relations with your family, friends and fellow countrymen are improved, for that alone can be the true basis of world fellowship.

"An album," he said "is used to provide pleasure after events when a person looks back and laughs and cries over the past. The album of life can serve as a guide for the new opportunities which will arrive in 1945. As members of a service club you should be proud of the opportunities which are open for you to do a worthwhile work, which I trust will be even greater than the things which you have accomplished in the past."

This was the annual dinner for Kiwanians and their wives when they are the guests of Chris Graham. The speaker was introduced by Dennis Fitzgerald and the vote of thanks was made by Art Bacon. During the meeting a blanket was won by Harold Rehill.

On behalf of the Kiwanis Club, Dick Raine presented a gift to Marvin White, a fellow Kiwanian, who is leaving soon to live in Halifax, and he and Charles Saunders, president, expressed their regret that they were losing a valued member.

The guest speaker next week will be Major Frank Ashton, who has had considerable service overseas.

Obituary

THOMAS J. MAHONEY

Funeral arrangements of the late Thomas J. Mahoney have been altered. The remains are resting at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Edmund Allen, 245 Lake street, and will be taken to his home at Clydesdale Sunday afternoon, leaving Peterborough at 1.30 p.m. The funeral will be held Tuesday morning to St. Mary's church for Requiem Mass at 10 o'clock.

The superstition that a broken mirror brought bad luck came from the fact that a shadow or reflection was once considered part of the soul.

PTE. STANLEY MITCHELL

Soldier Wounded Invalided Home

One of the major impressions of D-Day for Pte. Stanley R. Mitchell, whose wife and son live at 527 Sherbrooke street, was the large number of German prisoners taken by the Allied forces. Pte. Mitchell returned home Wednesday after serving in France with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, where he was wounded by machine-gun bullets in July of this year.

"At first, the prisoners seemed to be well-equipped, and good soldiers," he said, "although later on, they started getting young, and inexperienced. Many of them looked quite desperate, dirty and unshaven."

Pte. Mitchell was with the Canadian and British forces that wrote military history in France slugging it out while powerful American armoured columns made the dash to capture Paris. It was not a glamorous job; fighting at times was not heavy, and the main job was to sit tight, hold tight, and keep Jerry where he was until Paris could be wrested from the Nazis, he declared.

Exactly 33 days after he landed in France, Pte. Michell was hit by German machine-gun bullets, being fired by a hidden sniper in the Caen area. He was hit in the right shoulder and right arms.

"Frankly, I didn't think I'd be be put out of the war so soon," he said, "but it certainly hit me suddenly."

Wounded July 9, he was able to struggle about 100 yards before receiving any medical treatment. After that, a transportation combination of gun carrier, jeep, ambulance and airplane worked in co-ordination to get him back to a hospital in England.

He remained in a hospital until October, "although I wasn't on my back all that time."

Wonderful Care

Quick medical service, and the finest medical care is the lot of soldiers wounded overseas, according to this veteran of tough fighting days in France. He was wounded July 9, underwent an operation July 10, and was in England, July 11.

Pte. Mitchell doesn't remember a great deal about the day he was wounded. He was entering Caen at the time, and snipers were everywhere. In his opinion, it was probably a German hidden in a building, firing from the window, who hit him.

A former employee of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company, Pte. Mitchell enlisted in May, 1942, going overseas exactly one year later, in May, 1943. Overseas, he became attached to the S. D. and G. Highlanders.

After his leave is finished he will report for further medical treatment. Pte. Mitchell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Mitchell, 147 Crescent street.

Peterborough Girl Is Heard Over CBS

The following news item from the Ottawa Journal refers to a Peterborough girl with the Canadian Women's Auxiliary Corps:

Her first furlough since she joined the C.W.A.C. proved to be a profitable one for Pte. "Betty" Massey-Cooke, who is stationed at the Army Recruiting Centre on Queen street. In the Army for six months, she decided to go to New York City for a week. While there, Pte. Massey-Cooke and a friend visited the Columbia Broadcasting System "Sing Along" program.

Owner of a pleasing soprano voice, she was noticed by one of the announcers, while singing in the audience, and was requested to sing over the air for five minutes.

This morning from New York came a cheque from the CBS for $18.75 instead of the usual American War Bond given to the lucky winner on the program. Government restrictions do not allow bonds to be sent over the border.

"I'm so excited about winning, Pte. Massey-Cooke said this morning, "I can't even remember what song I sang over the air."

REMEMBER THE ROWANS

So you laughed at the lore of the rowan tree, that when its boughs dropped wearily with ripening berries in September it is advisable to go back to hardwood bush and fell some additional maples and beech trees. Rowan boughs broke under their weight of ruddy fruit last autumn, and elders warned that a harsh winter was on the way. It has two months to go, and if they are anything like December,—the wood pile and the oil tank will need restocking.

Aid To Victims In 1944 Tops 1943 Gifts

The end of a calendar year usually sees some reflections made on what has been accomplished during that period, if only for the purpose of comparison, which when it comes into the realm of doing some good or something of a constructive nature, should not be as odious as Shakespeare's axiom would have us believe.

Looking back over that period with a view to rendering an account of stewardship through the annual audit in compliance with the regulations of the War Charities Act, the secretary of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, finds that during the year just closing, the citizens did even better in the amount of assistance they gave to the bomb victims in Britain, by what might be considered a substantial margin.

During 1943 a total sum of £3,600 was cabled to the Lord Mayor of London, and the records for this year shows that the sum of £4,300 was sent, being an increase of £700 which is quite close to a 20 per cent. increase over the previous year.

After over four years of operation, this speaks highly for the manner in which the residents of the city and district have responded to this daily appeal, for it is a human trait in these swiftly moving times, for people to become accustomed to things that are of a continuing nature, even although they were tremendously shocked at the outset, so to even improve on a previous record after such a period, is really something that should be worthy of a little special mention.

Euchre Club Gives $18

The game of euchre provides considerable pleasure to some people, and it seems to be somewhat of a favourite pastime in the Township of Otonabee, for more than one club associated for that purpose in this district, have given assistance to the fund on a number of occasions.

Pleasure that can be made to also spread itself in such a manner as to give some hope and happiness to others, and particularly those in distress, may really be said to be of the finest type possible, (a hint to New Year's party revellers) to which allusion might be made in respect of a gift of $18 today recorded as coming from the Indian River Euchre Club.

Then the King's Own Bible Class of St. James' church are another group who have found pleasure in giving to others in need on more than one occasion, their gift of $10 following another of very bountiful proportions from another group in the same church quite recently, giving them an outstanding place among the various christian bodies in this city.

The pupils of S.S. No. 5, Otonabee taught by Mrs. Thelma Bird were among those who were represented in the gifts made earlier in the month, and it speaks all the more to their credit that they felt the urged to do even better, and so sent along another $5 to assist in the good work.

The Quaker Oats employees in the course of their regular duties, have undoubtedly played some part in helping to supply the British people with the necessities of life, which in turn gives them gainful employment, so it would seem only natural that they would wish to do something to assist those of their number who have lost their homes, a surely sufficient inspiration for the gift that is registered from the group employed in the flour mill.

FINE PERFORMANCE

The steady parade of the new snow loading machine up Water street, Friday, following a grading job, satisfied ratepayers that it is a manifestly efficient apparatus, and draws the sting of old fashioned winters. With weather such as December produced it has been recognized lately that Peterborough could readily use an extra machine if snow banks are to be kept subdued.

Havelock Gunner Reported Missing

Word has been receeived by Mrs. Clifford Shannon, 224 Rogers street, that her brother, Flt. Sgt. Oscar Frederick Newton has been reported missing after air operations overseas.

Son of Joseph Newton and the late Mrs. Newton of Havelock, the 26 year old flier was serving as a rear gunner, having gone overseas in March of this year. His wife and daughter, age 3½, are also in Havelock.

Pine Grove School Helps War Victims

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 30—(ENS)—The pupils of Pine Grove school held a concert recently to raise money for the British War Victims' Fund. The chairman for the evening was Bruce Dunford and the program varied from recitations, piano solos and duets to rousing choruses of Christmas carols and two short plays.

To complete the entertainment which was based on the Christmas theme, Santa came bounding in to distribute the gifts about the Christmas tree.

60 Peterborough Men Killed Fighting For Country This Year

In the minutes of the City Council this year are listed the names of sixty Peterborough men who were killed in action, died of wounds or of other injuries suffered in the service of their country.

The Council formally records the resolutions of sympathy which are adopted and written to the next of kin of men from this city who are mentioned in the official casualty list information as having made the supreme sacrifice of their lives. By this means the Council as the elected representatives of the people of Peterborough extend on behalf of the community its expression of condolence to the parents or wives or other next of kin of the men from this city who have paid the inevitable price of this war of maintaining freedom throughout the world against Germany and its forces and plans of enslavement and destruction.

The memory of these men cumulates at the end of the year in a deep sense of appreciation of their deeds, their endurance and their full and splendid significance in the future of their country and of the youth that will succeed them from one generation to the next.

Possibly the Council's list is not complete, but it is compiled from the records as they are published. Other men whom Peterborough might claim as their own enlisted perhaps from other centres, and may have been missed in the Council's tribute to their memory and sympathy to their families. The current list also does not include the casualties reported during December, but several are mentioned apart from that source.

Roll Of Honor

This Peterborough roll of honor, which no doubt will one day be transferred to fitting remembrance in the new city hall, is as follows:

Gunner Hector Brick, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Brick, Donegal street. died of wounds in Italy, Jan. 17, 1944.

Pilot Officer William Widdess, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Widdis, 292 Stewart street, reported missing in December, now presumed to have been killed.

Private Stanley James, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orval James, 268 Aylmer street, died of wounds in Italy with Hastings-Prince Edward Regiment.

Private Thomas Bloom, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bloom, Western avenue, killed while serving in England with the Canadian Forces.

Private Donald Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Anderson, 269 Burnham street, killed in action in March.

Major Reginald C. Yelland, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. M. Yelland, killed in Italy May 23, with the Three Rivers Tank Regiment.

Flying Officer Wayne Shea, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Shea, 189 Romaine street.

Havelock Plant Entertains Its Employees

HAVELOCK, Dec. 30 — (ENS). — A banquet given by the Canada Needle and Fishing Tackle Company, Ltd., to its employees of the Havelock factory was held in the Havelock hotel when about forty partook of a turkey dinner.

After the dinner P. Norris, Toronto manager, addressed the gathering and thanked them on behalf of the company for their splendid cooperation during the past year, which had enabled the company to fulfill its orders to the army and navy in addition to its ordinary commitments. Miss Maude Sexsmith replied on behalf of the employees thanking the company for its fine gesture.

A draw was held and resulted in the following prize winners: Miss Lois King, Mrs. A. J. Crook, Miss Iva Smith, Mrs. H. Jarves, Miss Gladys Chase and Miss Reta Quackenbush. Mr. Norris then presented George Ellis, the oldest employee with a pair of gloves as a token of appreciation from the company for his long service. Mr. Ellis was employed by the W. Croft Company, from whom the present company purchased the Havelock factory twenty years ago and he has remained with them ever since.

Earlier Presentation

At the close of the banquet, Mr. Norris tendered the company's thanks to Mrs. Thomas Paulos for the fine dinner.

Earlier in the day Arthur J. Crook, manager of the Havelock factory was the recipient of an Eversharp pen and pencil set from the employees as a token of their appreciations and esteem, the presentation being made by W. M. Platt.

ALLIES HIT NAZIS NEAR MEUSE—Striking back at the advancing German armored columns as they reached the Ciney-Celles area (1) a Yank counter-attack is under way to prevent the enemy from reaching and crossing the Meuse River. The Germans, as centre arrow indicates, had progressed some 60 miles since their counter-offensive began and were within about five miles of Dinant and the river when Yank forces were hurled into their path. To the north (2) is indicated the area in which the U.S. 1st Army men are carrying on their attacks in the Malmedy section, as well as standing between the enemy and the Liege. From the Chaumont-Todler area (3) the drive to Bastogne has freed the American garrison.

Lawyer Hurls Name Barrage At Chas. Chaplin

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Staff Writer.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 30—(AP)—Charlie Chaplin's lawyer prepared to-day to retort next Tuesday to such references to the comedian as "pestiferous, lecherous hound," "master mechanic in the art of seduction," "hoary-headed buzzard" and "cheap Cockney cad."

These epithets, and others such as "reptile" and "little runt of a Svengali," were thundered by Joan Berry's counsel yesterday in final arguments to the jury trying her suit to have Chaplin adjudged the father of her 14-months-old daughter.

Of Chaplin's testimony, Joseph Scott said:

"This fellow doesn't lie like a gentleman He lies like a cheap Cockney cad."

"If I've been hard on Chaplin, I feel that way about him," cried the 77-year-old Scott in conclusion. "I'm sorry he isn't here so I could look him in the eye and let him have it right on the chin."

Neither the comedian nor Miss Berry, his former protege, was in court.

Scott read from letters written by Joan Berry to Chaplin from Tulsa, Okla., in November, 1942, the month before she alleges her infant Carol Ann was conceived at Chaplin's Beverly Hills estate. After one letter's reference to the 55-year-old comedian as "the greatest genius and artist living," Scott exclaimed to the jury:

"Get a load of that, will you? After he's been debauching her all the time. He must have said to himself, 'I've debauched her. I've deflowered her. And I've made her like it. I'm some genius. I, Charlie Chaplin, am a great artist.'"

The final argument on Tuesday of Chaplin's counsel, Charles E. Millikan, will be followed by Scott's rebuttal and the court's instructions to the jury. The case is expected to be submitted to the jury on Wednesday.

Concerning defence testimony by three physicians that blood tests indicated Chaplin could not be the baby's father, Scott said:

"The experts are not infallible. Under the law of California you are not bound by expert opinion. You can give it such weight as you think it is entitled to."

Cornwall Becomes On January 1 Ontario's 28th And Youngest City

By ALBERT GRATTON
Canadian Press Correspondent

CORNWALL, Ont., Dec. 30—(CP)—This 160-year-old St. Lawrence River community embarks on a new phase in its historic civic career with the opening of the new year. After 110 years as a town, it becomes Ontario's 28th and youngest city Monday, Jan. 1.

The second largest and long one of the oldest towns in the province, as a city Cornwall will outrank four other Ontario cities—Welland, Galt, Woodstock and Owen Sound—in population.

Severs From County

Wartime industrial growth which brought its population over the 15,000-mark led town officials to seek incorporation as a city. The Ontario Municipal Board last March approved a formal application in which Cornwall agreed to assume the full obligations of a city and to sever its long affiliation as a member municipality of the united counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry. In 1943 the Private Bills committee of the Ontario Legislature rejected a move for city status on the grounds that the town wanted to become a city and at the same time retain its former status for municipal purposes.

In deciding on the application, town authorities said they felt the municipality's progress after the war could best be assured if it were free of financial commitments arising from its connection with the united counties.

The wartime population increase started in 1942 when many outsiders moved in to take jobs in local industrial plants. Opening of Stormont Chemicals war plant also attracted newcomers. The 1943 assessment roll gave the population as 15,118—it was 14,117 in the 1941 census—and this figure has since increased by 200 to 300.

"Factory Town"

Cornwall is familiary known through Eastern Ontario as the "factory town". Its largest industrial concern is Courtalds (Canada) Limited which employees about 2,000 men and women. About 1,800 are employed in the three mills of Canadian Cottons, Limited. These and other industries have been operating at capacity during the war.

The first community was established here in 1784 by United Empire Loyalists. They named it Johnstown after Sir John Johnston who supervised the settlement. A village sprang up and in 1834, the community was granted a charter which give it the status of a town with local self-government and was given its present name. In 1847 another act of incorporation provided for civic administration by the council and ward system.

By the middle of the 19th century, the town's industrial growth was well under way. Opening of the Cornwall canal and of the railroad system linking Toronto and Mon-

2,000 People Meet Sudden Deaths In '44

TORONTO, Dec. 30. — More than 2,000 people met sudden deaths in Toronto during 1944, and slightly more than in 1943, according to Chief Coroner Smirle Lawson, who last night appealed to citizens to make th, New Year's week-end a safe one.

"Toronto people, for the most part, are good sports, and I think we can leave it to their good sense not to drive if they are drinking," he said.

In the average year, Dr. Lawson pointed out, 1,610 die sudden deaths from natural causes, 97 die from falls, 92 from automobile accidents, 70 commit suicide.

Other average causes and numbers of deaths are: Abandoned babies 14, abortions 7, burns 13, carbon gas 2, coal gas 4, drowning 12, elevators 4, explosions 1, electrocution 3, gunshot wounds 2, illuminating gas 10, poison 16, suffocation 9, alcohol 10, airplane accidents 2, operations, anaesthesia 27, industrial accidents 16, mured 4, manslaughter 3, railway 11, street car 24.

Total number of sudden deaths was 2,068, as compared with 2,063 last year, and 1,898 in 1942.

US War Veteran Found Feet, Hands Frozen

MALONE, N.Y., Dec. 30 — (AP) — A discharged United States Army veteran, frozen into helplessness on Christmas Eve and rescued nearly three days later from his isolated cabin, lay in a hospital here today while surgeons considered amputating his hands and feet.

He is Joseph Eggsware, 42.

Eggsware spent the day before Christmas in Malone and returned to his cabin in the Lake Titus region. During the night the door blew open. When Eggsware awakened his hands and feet were frozen. He lay helpless until Wednesday afternoon when his cries brought a neighbor to the cabin.

Temperatures in the vicinity of Eggsware's cabin have gone as low as 28 degrees below zero this week.

Judge Declares Bylaw Illegal After Scrutinizing Ballots

COBOURG, Dec. 30 — (ENS). — The vote on the Cobourg Lumber Company fixed assessment bylaw of December 4, was declared illegal Thursday by Judge J. C. M. German at the conclusion of a scrutiny of the bylaw ballots requested by the town council. The bylaw was defeated by two votes at the election. On the question of ballots alone, the bylaw was still defeated after the scrutiny, but taking precedence over that was the finding of the Judge that the town had failed to meet certain legal formalities prior to the bylaw being placed before the electorate. The Judge's finding, after two day's scrutiny of the matter was as follows:

Referring to Section 296 of the Municipal Act, Chapter 266. R.S.O. 1937, he pointed out that cases dealing with matters of scrutiny resolved themselves into scrutiny into ballot papers whereas an amendment later on directed such a scrutiny into one of a study of the votes. He said that he was unable to find any case dealing with the Act as now constituted. The scrutiny occurred as a result of a bylaw submitted to the electors of the town of Cobourg on December 4 of this year.

Under Section 405, s.s. 1 (b), the returning officer made a return that the by-law had been defeated by a vote of 256 to 505, being four votes short of the necessary two-thirds majority. He pointed out that he had considered, as a matter of law, the votes which should be counted in order to arrive at a total of votes and therefore the percentage needed to carry it, and in his opinion on the Act as it now stands, two-thirds of the electors qualified to vote are necessary and by considering Section 124 that every ballot found in the ballot box shall be one of the total number cast, and that two-thirds of this total is necessary to bring it into effect. Section 124 had been amended following decisions in Brown and E. Flamborough and in the West Lorne Scrutiny. The section corresponding to 124 was s.s. 2 of Section 122 of the Consolidated Municipal Act of 1903 where receipt by any voter of his ballot was prima facie evidence that had voted and the court held in these cases that the prima facie evidence was not sufficient to justify adding spoiled or improper ballots to the total. His Honor said that he felt that as the Act now stands, these ballots should be added to the total and that it appeared from the evidence and inspection of the ballots, that there were 500 valid votes for the bylaw and 256 against, or a total of 756 good ballots. However 504 votes in favour of it were necessary to pass it, and in addition there are 11 spoiled ballots and 27 not marked at all, and three ballots which are in dispute, two of which were against and one in favour of the bylaw.

Ballots Initiatlled

These ballots were initialled (referring to the last three) by the D.R.O. in No. 5 and were found in the ballot box of No. 6. He went on to say that as the situation was viewed by him, he did not feel that he needed to decide on these two ballots as good or otherwise and not inclined to view that they should be counted as ballots for and against. If these 41 ballots were added to the 756 the bylaw would be defeated by a substantial majority, provided his view on spoiled or unmarked ballots was correct, Judge German said. If these spoiled and unmarked ballots are not to be taken into the total and the three ballots in contraversy are found to be bad, then the position as above indicated would persist.

His Honor then went on to review the condition of the poll, books stating that it appeared that in polling subdivisions No. 1 and 2, there was no record as to what person or persons voted on the bylaw and no column in the poll book where a check-mark could be made by the poll clerk and it was impossible for anyone to say whether the Statute was complied with and that only those entitled to vote on the bylaw had been given ballots. Furthermore in comparing the names in the poll books mentioned with the official lists, many voted who were not entitled to vote.

Again in No. 2, there was no column as to who obtained ballots. After one voter's name appeared the word "bylaw," and presumably that person did obtain a ballot on the bylaw. In poll book No. 3, the poll clerk headed a column with "bylaw" and had a check-mark to indicate who obtained a ballot and there were less errors in evidence than in any of the others, the Judge found. In No. 4 not only was there no column for the bylaw but also there was no column for mayor, reeve or council of whether tenants, freeholders. No. 5 column for bylaw ballots and on checking this list there were a number of instances where tenants had received ballots for the bylaw. In general though, it was in fair shape, he found. In No. 6 the poll clerk headed a column with "bylaw" but six voters received ballots to which they were not entitled.

No List Ready

Section 284, Chapter 266 provides that the clerk of the municipality shall prepare a list of those entitled to vote on the bylaw and that the list shall be final and conclusive. There was no evidence that had been prepared, he found. Nor was there a certificate from the clerk that it was a true and correct list of all those entitled to vote and posted up in his office. It appeared on the evidence that the town clerk died on November 19 and had been incapacitated several weeks before death, his work being done by an assistant who had not been formally appointed by the council but employed as assistant to the clerk. Section 284 appeared to be the one which must be complied with, preceding any money bylaw being presented to the electorate. In view of the fact that it had not been complied with and also in view of the irregularities in voting, the bylaw has not been assented to, through no fault of the electors but due to the council failing to comply with the Act and failing to secure adequate facilities for the vote being taken and failing to provide adequate help. There were extenuating circumstances in regard to these irregularities, and one was the fact money bylaws did not occur very frequently for councils to act upon.

Judge German went on to say that it was apparent that the council decided at a late date to submit the bylaw to the people and there was accordingly not sufficient time to comply with the required formalities. The Deputy-Clerk, E. A. Hircock, had attended the scrutiny and heard the eidence in regard to the irregularities and consequently he would be in a position to advise the town council as to the future, in voting. The Cobourg Lumber Co. was registered partnership of Dr. Rich-

A draw for to quilts for the Donegal Red Cross group was won by Muriel Buck and Mrs. George Peoples.

New German Tanks Beaten By Americans

NEAR HUMAIN, Belgium, Dec. 30.—(AP).—Hitler's black-clad S.S. armored crews and their touted heavyweight tanks have failed to live up to advance billing in the current battle.

Outweighed and outgunned American Shermans and tank destroyers, in a series of heavy battles with the most advanced prong of the German winter offensive, knocked out 44 enemy tanks for a loss of four—a victory margin of 11 to one.

"And at least three of those four tanks can be repaired and will see combat again," said Lt.-Col. Eugene A. Trahan of Lafayette, La.

He said he believed the American success was due to the manoeuvrability of American armor and more experienced crews.

Mrs. F. K. Harris Tells Christmas Story

The monthly meeting of the Church Women's Year of All Saints' Anglican church was held, with the president, Mrs. J. Adams, reading the opening prayers, assisted by Mrs. R. N. Jones, who read the Bible lesson.

Mrs. Jones also reported for the Navy League. Nineteen articles having been knitted for the month. Mrs. M. Fowler, reporting for the visiting committee said that 34 cards had been sent and one hospital visit made to sick and shut-in members. Two splendid bales, consisting of over one hundred articles of clothing each, had been sent to Canon E. J. Smith of Peace River, Alta. One hundred and ninety-five articles had also been sent to British War Victims. The offering was then presented and amounted to $159.68, making a total for the year $2,134.21.

The following program was given: piano solo, Miss Eleanor Glover; "O Come All Ye Faithful" chorus—Misses Betty Filer, Ann Lynn Hamilton, Margaret Patterson; recitation Donna Warrelow; recitation, Freddie Warrelow; piano solo, Barbara Roy; solo, Miss Jean Kelly accompanied by Miss Anne Gray; piano solo, Miss Jeannette Sloan.

The rector introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. F. W. K. Harris. Mrs. Harris told the beautiful Christmas story "How Mary Came to Bethlehem."

For her splendid leadership and untiring effort, Mrs. Adams was presented with a lamp. Mrs. L. Ackford made the presentation on behalf of the "Church Year." Tea was served at the close by Mrs. Ackford's group.

The following officers were elected for 1945—Honorary president, Mrs. W. A. Filer; president, Mrs. J. Adams; vice-president, Mrs. L. Ackford; treasurer, Mrs T. F. Doughty; secretary, Mrs. T. M. Fowler.

SS No. 6 Smith Gives Concert

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 30 — (ENS). — The annual entertainment and Christmas tree of the pupils of S.S. No. 6, Smith, was held recently. The room was tastefully decorated for the occasion and a number of the parents and friends of the pupils were present. Stanley Rosborough, chairman of the local school board, presided. Following is the program: duet, "We Are Little Children", by Shirley and Marilyn Redpath; recitations, "Christmas Is Coming", by Ruth Northey; "The Candle's Message", by Arnold Preston, and Helen Bowen; verse speaking, "This Is The Week Christmas Comes", by Grade II; recitation, "What To Do At Christmas", by Bruce Rosborough; chorus; recitations, "A Carol" by Freddie Bowen and "Missed Him Again", by Shirley Redpath; carol, "Away In A Manger", by Grades I-IV; two plays, "Mother Goose's Children" and "The Three Gifts"; recitations, "Epiphany" and "A Secret", by Mary Elizabeth Boyce; "The Sweet Madonna", by Eileen Boyce and Hubert Knox; "December", by Bobbie Knox; monologue, "It Isn't Far To Bethlehem", by Ralph Preston; play, "Jacqueline's Christmas Party", recitations by Ruth Boyce and Hanlyn Coons; part song by eight pupils, and a recitation by Roy Redpath.

At the conclusion of the program, gifts on the tree were presented to the pupils and the teacher, Mrs. J. Redpath.

Bible Class Enjoys Party

A splendid attendance of members marked the Christmas party of the Young People's Bible Class of St. Luke's Anglican church, in the parish hall Friday evening. In addition, several soldiers from the local Training Centre were invited, to enjoy the fun. Mrs. A. J. Arthur is teacher of the class.

After a series of amusing games, treasure hunts and musical parcels, the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing, and delicious refreshments were served. The entertainment committee, which planned the program, was made up of Misses Audrey Britnell, Frances Arthur, and Rudy Pollock and Bill King. The refreshment committee was Misses Iria Forbes, Dorothy Carpenter, Phyllis Lee and Norma Whittaker. Music was provided by Misses Alicia Langley and Audrey Britnell, and Ronald Burgess.

THE FUR CAPE-STOLE — For the first time in many years, the ubiquitous fur jacket has a rival. It is the fur-cape stole, chosen by many women to wear with a coat now, and over a dress when fur-jacket time comes around again. The cape-stole is certainly at home in this season of elegance in American fashion. Esther Dorothy, a clever woman furrier, shows this handsome cape-stole of white-faced silver fox. It has a full flared cape back and long, wide ends that drape luxuriously in a number of attractive arrangements.—By Alice Alden.

Military Touches Popular At Sadie Hawkins Dance

One of the most popular dances of the holiday season, the Sadie Hawkins, sponsored each year by the Friday Night Supper Club of the Y.W.C.A., repeated its successes Friday evening, with another record crowd.

The "Y" gym was buzzing with activity Friday afternoon, as busy committees hurried around putting last-minute touches on the novel decorations, and screwing in colored lights for the illumination. Large cardboard soldiers, in brilliant red and blue uniforms, lined the walls, while large bunches of red Christmas bells hung from the balcony, with its railings attractively decorated with candy-striped red and white paper.

One item of the decorations drew a good deal of laughter and made one corner of the gym very popular. The decorating committee had hung a large sprig of mistletoe from one of the decorated basketball baskets, and though they had contemplated putting up a warning sign, they had decided against it, so that a good deal of laughter ensued when the dancers discovered the trick. Miss Jean McTavish headed the decorating committee, assisted by Misses Gwyneth Reed, Joan Leslie, Dorothy Saunders, Barbara Weir, Nancy Sootheran, Agnes Weddell and Helen Weddell. Miss Betty Lou Braund was in charge of the program, while Miss Gwyneth Reed supervised the refreshments. Miss Barbara Weir was in charge of the sale of tickets.

Patrons and patronesses were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Eastwood, Mrs. C. B. Waite, Mr. and Mrs. Paige Rowell, Mr. and Mrs. D. Duncan, Miss Mary King, president of the Club, and Garry Braund, Miss Lena Dewart and John Wray, Miss Flora Metcalfe and Miss M. Gall, Girls' Work Secretary of the "Y". Several of the women acted as senior hostesses.

Junior Supper Club girls, who were on duty at the door, taking tickets and supervising the registration of the guests, were Misses Joan Chown, Barbara Murray, L. Robertson, and Ann Ottewell. Music was provided by the Melody Men, and several novelty and spot dances were enjoyed during the evening.

DOROTHY DIX . . . . .

MEN NEED PAMPERING

Wife Should Remember Husband Likes Affection, Flattery

The reason that so many wives fail to come up to their husbands' hearts' desire is because they do not know how to treat them. For it is a curious and pathetic thing that many a woman is married to a man for forty years without ever learning how to stroke his fur the right way. This is not because the woman doesn't try to be a good wife. On the contrary, she may cook herself to a cinder concocting the dishes he likes; she may get calluses on her hands darning his socks and sewing on his buttons; she may even be a Patient Griselda who yes-yesses him, and still leave their marriage ashes and dust in his mouth.

And, nine times out of ten, when a wife fails to play up to her husband and make him happy and contented, it is because she thinks that men and women are different; that they don't ask the same things of marriage, and that he doesn't want her to treat him the way she hopes and prays he will treat her.

Most of women's mistakes in marriage are due to their belief that men and women are temperamentally unlike and not amenable to the same tactics in handling. A woman knows, for instance, that she never sheds her sweet tooth, no matter how old she gets. She always wants to be sympathized with and flattered and made much over, but she thinks that a great, big, husky, grown-up man is sufficient unto himself and would scorn any coddling.

But it is the rare wife who ever tells her husband how handsome he is, or how distinguished his getting bald makes him look, repeats his witticisms where he can hear them, or puts him through his little parlor trick for the benefit of company.

Baby Comes First

After the first baby comes, most women cease to be lovers to their husbands. They transfer all of their affections, their petting, their caresses to their children, without even suspecting that their husbands are yearning to be chucked under the chin and told they were the boofulest thing in the word, and to have gooey nonsense talked to them.

The eternal wail of wives is that their husbands take them for granted; that they never notice how hard they work, or treat them like lady loves, or show that they have any more feeling for them than they have for any other household agent.

But it doesn't occur to Friend Wife to burn a few joss sticks before the man who has slaved for years and years to keep her and her children soft and comfortable. She thinks he doesn't crave an occasional pat on the head and to be told he is good old Fido who has always brought home the bacon, and that every night she gets down on her knees and thanks God for having gotten him.

It is the wise wife who applies her own feminine tests to her husband, and who knows when his grouchiness and irritability at home are the result of overwork and overstrain at the office, and who offers him her breast to weep on and comforts him with tender and loving words when he is in trouble and is at the breaking point.

"Male and female, He created them," says the Good Book, but He gave them the same hearts.

City Carpetball

These festive seasons do create havoc with our ways. The only thing that can be said is about those East City Wardens. I do not think that we have very much to worry about on the battle front when it comes to those worthy fellows, they sure haven't forgot how to handle their fire fighting equipment yet and are leading the field in regular style only losing 2 points out of a possible twenty. Your Scribe has been taking things easy for the last two weeks owing to more work than one could handle with the season's rush.

The Wardens met up with the Saints and took those innocent folks of four points with scores of 13-9 and 16-6. The other score was right the opposite for the Saints who at one time before or after entertained the Antiques at their Christmas party and sent them home without even a candy taking both games 13-6 and 11-6.

Looking over the schedule we find that the following games were not played as per schedule: PFD 1 vs BESL No. 6; LOL 2 vs BESL No. 6; St. George's vs BESL No. 6.

The games scheduled for the past week will now be played next week are as follows: All Saints' No. 3 vs BESL No. 6; LOL No. 2 vs Wardens No. 5; PFD No. 1 vs BESL No. 7

Standings to date

| Team | W. | L. | D. | Pts. | Av. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Five | 9 | 1 | 0 | 18 | 64 |
| Three | 7 | 3 | 0 | 14 | 50 |
| Two | 5 | 2 | 1 | 11 | 58 |
| Four | 3 | 5 | 2 | 8 | 51 |
| Six | 2 | 2 | 0 | 4 | 51 |
| Seven | 2 | 8 | 0 | 4 | 32 |
| One | 0 | 7 | 1 | 1 | 41 |

We would urge that all Skips do their best to play the games as per schedule and also to catch up with the back games. We are asking for entries into the president's cup playoffs and would suggest that, if we can raise one team from the Sons of England to enter this game that all the first round be played on one grounds, possibly All Saints' where four carpets can be laid at once. Also, there is only one team that has paid its dues, that is All Saints'.

This is all for 1944, and I take this opportunity in wishing you all that is good in 1945. Keep the ball arolling until the boys come home.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK —By R. J. Scott

Lt.-Col. Murray Fraser Visits Donors At Red Cross Clinic

Lt. Col. Murray Fraser, a medical officer who recently returned from overseas, paid a surprise visit to the Blood Donors Clinic, Wednesday, and inspected the work being done by the people in his home town.

During the morning, he watched the organization functioning and spent some time in visiting with the donors as they gave the life-extending fluid for overseas men. He told some of them that they would certainly consider their work worthwhile if they could see some of the men brought in from the battlefields.

"You would swear when you see some of them that they couldn't live even a few hours, yet after a shot of plasma in one arm and penicillin in the other, they perk up miraculously and a week later are able to sit up in bed and smoke."

Lt. Col. Fraser, former M.O.H. in Peterborough, told staff and donors alike that he was proud of the work the Clinic had been doing here and urged the people not to relax their cooperation in 1945, as it would be even more important to have plasma on hand, than in the past.

Due to the Christmas and New Year's seasons, work at the Clinic has been handicapped since not all the regular clinics have been held. About 42 donors attended the one clinic this week, and at the two prior to Christmas there were 173 present.

Donors Wednesday were:

C.G.E.: William A. Barker 1, William J. Jones 5, Charlie LaBarge 6, Robert Carney 2, Archie Collins 3, Howard Ralph 2, Gerald Young 5, Eric Whiteley 8.

De Laval: Leo Jones 6, George Kingdon 8, Earl Miller 4, Wilbert Fallis 5, Michael J. Toomey 2, Gustav A. Siegel 2, Hugh Young.

Quaker Oats: Miss Kay Edwards 3.

General List: Harold Gooding (Hydro) 6, Lawrence Shannon 1, Roger Nichols 5, Miss Lillian M. Smith (Hall's) 5, Charles Huffman 7, Miss Pauline Loescher 1, Miss Marie Gilbert 5, Miss Lillian Smith 8, Mrs. Geraldine Johnston 1, Mrs. Louis Pickering 2, Mrs. Annie Farthing 8, Mrs. Margaret Wright 4, Sgt. Frank A. Spencley 5, Mrs. Marian Paterson 7, Mrs. Harold Temple 1, Alan Bateman (C.P.C.) 1, Mrs. Muriel Bullock 3, Mrs. Mildred Preston, Mrs. Vera Purvis 5.

The Tea Hour Gossip . . . .

It has often been said that if Mother Nature had put a bit more vitamin C in her apples, she would have had the completely perfect fruit. Science has now come to her aid and apple juice, with added vitamin C, has been packed for our home use this year. Apples grow well in many sections of Canada and undoubtedly you buy many apples that grow in your own or a neighboring province. It pays to know the apples available in your market. You'll find some you like best for eating, others superb for baking and others that will serve you well in any role. Below is a recipe that you will enjoy, made from our own Canadian apples.

Apple Scallop

5 cups coarsely chopped tart apples, 2 cups cornflake crumbs, 2-3 cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon, 2 teaspoons grated orange rind, ¼ cup orange juice, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon melted butter. Prepare sufficient tart apples to yield the required five cups. Mix the cornflake crumbs, sugar, cinnamon and orange rind. Spread about a third of the crumb mixture in the bottom of a buttered baking dish. Cover with half the apples and repeat once. Sprinkle with a mixture of the orange and lemon juices. Stir the melted butter into remaining crumb mixture and use to top the layers in the baking dish. Cover and bake in a moderately hot oven 375 degrees for 30 minutes. Uncover and continue baking until apples are tender and the topping nicely browned, about 30 minutes. Serve with cream or thin custard. This is easy to make, easy to eat, easy to digest. Here's a family dish in every sense of the word.

Tomato Consomme

Canned consomme, plus an equal amount of tomato juice, makes a delicious dinner soup. Add any seasoning you may like.

Judge Declares

ards and Mr. Burtt and the members of the partnership had no authority to vote. Dr. Richards was now 74 on the list but there was no record as to whether he got a bylaw ballot or not.

If he had, then he had no right to vote. In No. 6, James Burtt of the company in question, received a bylaw ballot and voted, which he had no right to do, said Judge German. The deputy-returning officer could not be blamed, for the reason that the name was on the list in the first instance. The responsibility was entirely that of the municipality in failing to prepare a proper list, he ruled.

In regard to Isaac Whitefield, who took a ballot from the D.R.O. in No. 5 and proceeded to vote, His Honor said that there was no evidence that he had a right to so vote. The evidence had revealed that he had seized at least one ballot and cast that ballot and that it was most unusual and high-handed way of acting and that the D.R.O. could have had recourse to the authorities.

"Feeling as I do that the responsibility for this scrutiny has been that of the town, I direct that witness fees, court reporter and counsel fees be paid by the town and I fix the counsel fee at $50. I reserved judgment Thursday as to costs in the Wenn recount, and I find that the town had no responsibility for costs and that it will be a matter between counsel and client," declared Judge J. C. M. German.

HIGH CARDS AREN'T ALL

WE HAVE all seen so many hands in which a lot of the tricks are taken by little cards that everybody ought to know the high cards aren't the only powerful ones. When a suit gets established, the low cards are often just as good trick-takers as aces were originally. And, in a suit declaration, trumps of any size are mighty engines when there is a blank in some other suit where they can be used.

That was the actual bidding of this deal some years ago at Merrill, Wis., as reported by the player who sat South. After West made his contract plus an extra trick, losing only to the diamond A, South wondered why North had not supported his spades, with a hand good enough to make a slam possible opposite the two bid.

"Because I had nothing to go with the spades," was the classic answer. How in the world could he have "something to go with them," when his partner had a two bid, and West enough to butt in with hearts? Actually, North had a tremendous hand, under the circumstances, with high cards definitely impossible to hold in view of the other bids. His heart blank, holding all those trumps, was as good as the A K Q of hearts, besides which his spade K plus so many of the suit made it virtually certain the suit was solid.

North should have bid on every turn. The first time he was much too strong for a mere 3-Spades and should have bid 4-Hearts to okeh spades, indicate no heart losers and invite slam. Failing to do that, he should have stuck in a bid of the opponent's suit on each other opportunity, and South then should have bid 6 Spades if feeling weak, grand slam if feeling strong.

Others in the game thought South should have bid 4-Clubs on his second turn instead of rebidding spades. True, but that lapse was very minor compared to North's unbelievable passes with that powerful fit, especially the most terrible pass of all, when South had doubled and West redoubled the 5-Hearts.

New York Club Charges $36.30 A Couple

By MICHAEL O'MARA
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30—(CP). — Dwellers in free-spending Manhattan are all set for a traditionally noisy observance of New Year's Eve.

Although the Office of Price Administration has barred night clubs and hotels from making higher charges for the privilege of drinking and screaming this year than they did last, some of the prices to be exacted—coupled with the brigandish shakedown applied by head waiters on such evenings—are sufficient to make thrifty persons feel faintly ill.

Top holiday charges this year will be made by Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe and the Latin Quarter, both of which will squeeze their patrons for $36.30 a couple.

Prices range downwards from there, but rarely far below $20 and include only meals — not drinks. These average more than $1 apiece.

The Stork Club will insist that its patrons wear evening-dress; and will charge them $25.20 for the pleasure of wilting a high collar within its walls. But the management magnanimously says servicemen are exempt from the must-dress order.

Noisiest show to hit Broadway in a long time is the new Olsen and Johnsen vehicle, "Laffing Room Only." What the production lacks in wit it attempts to make up in pace and general hullaballoo, with stooges falling into the orchestra pit and out of the stage boxes, midgets patrolling the aisles, chorus-girls mingling with the audience, and pistol-shots crackling constantly.

A far pleasanter evening—in fact one of the most enjoyable Broadway has offered this season—is provided by the Theatre Guild musical "Sing Out, Sweet Land," starring Alfred Drake, the original "Curly" of 'Oklahoma'—and featuring Minstrelman Burl Ives.

Mr. Drake sings his way delightfully through a series of American folk-songs as the rambling story of a wandering immortal troubadour traces the growth of the United States from Puritan days in New England to the Second Great War.

Seldom has a singer been confronted with a more demanding role—he is on the stage at least three-quarters of the evening and singing most of the time—and seldom has an opportunity been seized more firmly. Mr. Drake carries the weight of a long show magnificently, with a well-mannered sense of humor to match his pleasant tenor voice.

Mr. Ives strums a wicked guitar and sings right along too; in places he stops the show.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, December 31

SUNDAY'S Horoscope encourages to a moderate degree the customary festivities for ushering in the new year. Astrologically, it seems as if there might be some sort of damper to excessive hilarity, although the incentive to a reckless and extravagant expenditure of funds and energies is stressed. There may be some surprising or intriguing angles suddenly developing.

Birthday Prediction

Those whose birthday it is may look for a moderately progressive and prosperous year, although there may be some tendencies to use the funds and resources rashly or improvidently. This due to an undercurrent of peculiar involvements or intrigues, in which possibly a trust, inheritance or some sort of obligation suddenly and surprisingly presents itself. Be cautious in affixing signatures, or in any other writings subject to misconstruction.

A child born on this day will be generous to an unwarranted degree, perhaps because of an obligation to an elder, or by virtue of an unexpected bequest or inheritance.

For Monday, January 1

Monday's astrological forecast is for an extremely lively and exciting state of affairs, in which all matters seem to be highly stimulated for travel, change, new agreements and contacts with influential and congenial personages. There is a strong tendency to overspend energies, finances and mental and physical as well as material assets. Important projects arise.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for an exceptionally lively, energetic, progressive and productive year, possibly born of new enterprise or change of ambitions and objectives in fresh fields of endeavor. A decision of major significance must be made, in connection with influential persons, whose capital may be involved, or their generous co-operation otherwise. Cultivate these with tact and diplomacy rather than by force or overaggressive measures. But clinch all deals under this benign vibration.

A child born on this day will be versatile, energetic, possess able initiative and skills of a practical as well as creative accomplishment.

For Tuesday, January 2

UNDER EXCELLENT auspices of leading planets this should be a day on which highly stimulated forces and faculties should be primed for the attainment of the highest ambitions and most cherished objectives, with the aid, encouragement and substantial support of those in influential positions. It would be well under this benefic testimony to give much forethought and sound reasoning to making a well planned program for enduring success and security as well as promotion, favors and enhanced prestige and popularity.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are encouraged to marshal all the forces, energies, assets and influences for the accomplishment of desired hopes and wishes, whether they lie in the direction of professional, financial, or purely personal power, preferment or high attainment. It is a time to move toward advanced goals, but with consideration as well as the aid, counsel and substantial support of those of prestige and sound standing. Rewards of merit may also manifest in a romantic or cultural fulfillment of ambitions.

A child born on this day may have much efficiency, talent and wisdom to equip it for worthy achievements in whatever field of endeavor it may set its heart upon.

SQUEEZES SIMPLIFIED

THOUGH a squeeze play usually appears pretty complex, the principle on which it operates is simplicity itself. It is just about the first axiom of the science of physics—two things cannot occupy the same space at the same time. When you play on a certain trick, that leaves you only enough space in your hand to retain some particular number of cards. If more than that number are required to protect two or more different suits, you are squeezed. You must discard your protection in one suit or another.

Though North and South had the Blackwood convention in their system, North decided, after the 3-No Trumps, that it was best to invite slam while at the same time showing his spades were five cards long, and then South decided to do the same with his clubs. If the pair had "Blackwooded" and had disclosed the possession of all aces and kings, it might have got too high, into a grand slam.

When West led the club Q and South saw the dummy, he could count only 10 prompt tricks, and had to probe for two more. So he took the opener with the club K and scored the spade K and Q, showing that suit to be hopeless. He had better luck then when the diamond J finesse worked, and still a chance for an even heart division—plus a squeeze try. West had already discarded a diamond on the second spade, so after the diamond J South played the diamond A and then led the spade 6, letting East have it with the 8 and discarding his club 4. East was not foolish enough to return a spade into the tenace, so chose the diamond 7 to the K.

The heart K and heart A followed, then the spade A, the club 7 being discarded. Now West was squeezed. Holding his heart J-10 to guard against the dummy's Q-7 necessitated his getting rid of a club from the J-10. When he did, he enabled South to come to his own hand with the club A, dropping West's last club and making the 9 good for the finisher.

Washington To Bastogne In Sixty Hours

By EDWARD D. BALL
Associated Press War Correspondent

BASTOGNE, Dec. 30 — (AP) — Fresh details of the Bastogne siege released to-day disclosed that Brig.-Gen. A. C. McAuliffe, Acting Commander of the trapped 101st Airborne Division, gave the "nuts" reply to a German demand on December 22 for surrender.

McAuliffe took charge of all the troops in the Bastogne pocket until the arrival of the 101st Commanding Officer, Maj.-Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, who left Washington on Christmas Eve when he heard of his outfit's predicament and flew the Atlantic.

Taylor arived in Belgium December 26, made his way through the enemy lines, and reached Bastogne early December 27. Armored elements and stragglers from various infantry units were hemmed in the town along with the 101st.

The relief corridor from the south was opened by Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton, waging a kind of war that is to his liking.

Three days after Field-Marshal Karl Von Rundstedt launched his offensive December 16 along the Belgian-Luxembourg frontier, the U.S. 3rd Army Commander was handed the job of stemming the enemy drive.

The pistol-packin' General flung his men and armor in a swelling tide toward the critical front.

Still in American Hands.

One of his objectives was to relieve the besieged garrison here in this strategic road hub. Bastogne now is a shambles, but it still is firmly in American hands.

His forces advanced up to 16 miles in six days along an east-to-west front extending from the Luxembourg-German border to the west of Bastogne.

They lifted a threat to the city of Luxembourg by pounding the Germans back two to 14 miles after they had speared within 13 miles of the Duchy's capital.

They reached Bastogne through a corridor that narrowed to only one mile as it entered the town, but widened at its base to three miles.

The task of countering Von Rundstedt was a ready-made one for Patton, an old cavalry hand who now is considered one of the world's foremost tank experts.

Von Rundstedt threw all he could against Bastogne, but he failed.

To-day there were some 200 destroyed German tanks lying in and about the town, hundreds of dead and more hundreds of German prisoners in cages.

Von Rundstedt has lost the first round of what may well be the war's decisive battle.

Man And Boy Slain

AUCKLAND, N.Z., Dec. 30—(CP Cable).—A man and boy were shot dead and three other persons wounded today in the seaside town of Napier when a man ran amok with an automatic pistol.

The man, described as a waterfront worker, first shot and killed a porter in the bar of the Caledonian Hotel, and wounded another man in the bar. Then he went to the hotel doorway where he wounded another man and took pot shots at people in the street, killing a boy riding a bicycle and wounding a woman.

Then police arrived on the scene. Senior Sergeant Forsythe captured the man after approaching him unarmed and saying: "Drop that pistol, don't be a fool."

The man obeyed.

FORCED FROM HOME.

TORONTO, Dec. 30 — (CP) — Clad in night attire during subzero weather, Mrs. E. Warden, her daughter Dorothy 14, and son Billy 16, were forced to flee from their burning home in suburban East York to-day. Firemen battled the flames for more than two hours. Fire Chief Percy Green said the house would be "a total loss."

Houston Explosion Felt Over 20 Miles

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 30—(AP) —A tug boat and barge were sunk and another barge and fireboat damaged by a terrific explosion in the ship channel east of here early to-day.

No lives were believed lost.

E. H. Furstenweld, lieutenant on the Port Houston fireboat, said the tug boat, which was pulling barges loaded with oil, sank along with one of the barges.

Flames from the burning vessels damaged the second barge, the U. S. Government fireboat and docks of the American Liberty Pipeline Company along the channel. The blast was felt over an area of 20 miles.

Australia Needs 70,000 Workers Says Gen. Keane

OTTAWA, Dec. 30 —(CP)—Australia believes the war against Japan will go on for "a long time yet" and consequently no slackening in the country's "100 per cent war effort" is in prospect for a few years, Senator R. V. Keane, Australian Minister for Trade and Customs, said today, reviewing Australia's war effort at a press conference here.

"All this talk of post-war reconstruction and reconversion is a distraction to the people," said Senator Keane when asked if his conferences with Canadian government officials would include plans for post-war trade.

He is in Canada for discussions with mutual aid and trade officials. Canada could supply many things that Australia could not manufacture at home and these supplies were more than ever necessary now.

There was a "colossal" shortage of manpower in Australia. Some 70,000 workers were needed. And this despite the fact that workers were frozen in their jobs and that elderly men were conscripted for work on defence projects. Several thousand men in their 50s had been conscripted to build airports and other military establishments.

The construction of the military establishments was part of Australia's reverse lend lease. The country was spending £10,000,000 (approximately $35,000,000) a month on reverse lend lease.

All told the country with its 7,000,000 population was spending more than £2,000,000,000 (approximately $7,000,000,000) a year on the war effort. In addition the people were subjected to much more rigid rationing than the people of Canada. Meat clothing, cigarets, cigars, tobacco, liquor, beer, sugar and tea were all on the ration list.

HUNS WITHDRAW ON WESTERN FRONT

Be No Repeat Performance of the Show at Versailles in 1919

MAIN EUROPEAN PEACE CONFERENCE IS BEING PLANNED FOR 1945 IN A PIECE-MEAL SERIES OF MEETINGS AND SETTLEMENTS

By FLORA LEWIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—(AP).—The main European peace conference is being planned for 1945 in a piece-meal series of meetings and settlements.

There isn't likely to be a repeat performance of the show at Versailles in 1919. Yet diplomats believe by the time this year is over the pattern for generations will emerge — embodying the seeds of a secure and peaceful world or studded with the dragon's teeth of war.

The critical transition period from war to peace, already begun in the midst of the shooting, is expected to fall mainly in this year.

While peace treaties and final settlements may be held off for years to come, the basic structure is slated for formation now. This includes the hub from which the whole peace system radiates and the measure of its chances for success — the strength of Allied relationships.

Conferences already on the books to shape the post-war world are:

1. The big three meeting due early in February. While Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin still have fighting on their hands, their decisions will chart the road for Europe at peace.

2. The February meeting of Latin American Foreign Ministers in Mexico City—still to be formally agreed upon. Here will come an index of whether the good neighbor policy forged in wartime co-operation will withstand the tugs of peace.

3. The United Nations' conference slated about March on a world security organization. Its aim speaks its signinficance.

Germans Lose 208 Planes In One Day's Fighting Bastogne Salient Enlarged

Patton's Army Continues To Gain Corridor 13 Miles Wide Huns Continue To Reinforce Bulge

By JAMES M. LONG—Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Jan. 2—(AP).—The U.S. 3rd Army advanced two more miles into the south side of the Belgian bulge in heavy pressure attacks and there were indications today that the Germans were extricating what armor they could from the flaming cauldron. There was a report, too, of activity on the 1st Canadian Army front in northwest Holland—an action in which a German attempt to use self-propelled guns, ferried across the Maas River, was defeated.

The American 9th Air Force and one German troops column definitely reported moving east in the St. Vith area near the base of the German wedge and another column of 100 vehicles including tanks and other armor was bombed and strafed near Ambleve, five miles to the northeast.

American infantry, tanks and planes exacted a great and growing toll of Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's material in the Belgian battle. The Germans had lost fully 110 tanks and armored vehicles, 208 planes and hundreds of other implements of war.

South of Bastogne, Lt.-Gen. Patton widened to six miles the corridor feeding his main offensive threat by capturing the villages of Houmont, 5½ miles southwest, and Chenonge, four miles southwest of the road centre. At last reports, the 3rd Army was 13 miles from the U.S. 1st Army flanking the north side of the bulge.

Allied supreme headquarters said today that two German counter-attacks were repulsed in the area of Champs, three miles northwest of Bastogne, and near Viller-La-Bonne-Eau, five miles southeast. The communique reported progress of Moircy, a much-exchanged Hamlet.

Von Rundstedt's attacks along the U.S. 7th Army around Bitche and eastward to, and along the Rhine appeared in preliminary appraisal to have netted little gain. These probably were the first of several strong diversionary efforts.

The German still was throwing most of his strength into the Belgian bulge. He was bracing the hard defensive line St. Hubert-Wiltz and persisting in counter-attacks around Bastogne.

The next moves in the gigantic test of men, strategy and machines were not yet apparent. It was plain, however, that Von Rundstedt has been hurt badly by sustained and heavy allied air attacks which went into their 11th day.

The whole front from Linnich to Stavelot at the north-central part of the bulge saw little activity Monday. Flak guns destroyed 17 German strafing planes in the area.

Headquarters disclosed that the Germans in a strong counter-attack the night of Dec. 30 drove the American from Moircy and Remagne, between Bastogne and St. Hubert.

Reds Whittle Garrison In Budapest

Huns Outnumbered Now Facing Annihilation

LONDON, Jan. 2 — (CP). — Fall of Buda, western section of Danube-straddling Budapest, appeared to be only a matter of hours to-day as the doomed Nazi garrison crumbled before the attacking Russian forces utilizing virtually every weapon known in modern warfare.

A communique broadcast early to-day from Moscow said the greatly outnumbered German and Hungarian defenders had lost more than 1,000 men killed yesterday in savage street fighting and had been compressed into an area less than four miles wide and a mile deep.

(A Cairo radio broadcast last night said all the Germans had been driven from Buda, but there was no confirmation from Russian or German sources.)

The communique also said Soviet forces had occupied 200 additional blocks in Buda yesterday, bringing to 600 the number now under Russian domination. The Russians

Hitler Speech Causes Furore

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 2— (AP).—Seldom has a Hitler speech caused as much heated controversy among German exiles and refugees as the recording which the world heard five minutes after the start of the New Year, when Berlin announced the Fuehrer had a message to deliver.

I spent much of New Year's Day among Germans from the Conservative Right to the Extreme Left, taking care especially to meet those who had seen or heard Hitler frequently. One of those to whom I spoke, in fact, had been one of Hitle's occasional advisers on foreign policy.

All agreed that this speech showed that Hitler definitely was no longer Germany's real leader.

Some believe it was really Hitler who spoke, but they say he showed himself a broken and hopeless man. Some are doubtful whether the voice was that of Hitler, but they agree the oratorical effort was a poor one.

Some feel positive it was not Hitler who made the recording.

These persons—all familiar with Hitler's mannerisms, diction and pronounciation — were intrigued by the explanation offered by one London paper, to the effect that the recording represented a piecing together of earlier recorded utterances.

Licensing Plan For Used Cars

OTTAWA, Jan. 2 — (CP). — A new licensing plan for used car dealers and changes in the method of applying ceiling prices to used cars were announced today by the prices board.

The board said these and other changes were intended to ensure equitable distribution at fair prices.

The new order establishes two sets of ceiling prices. Ceilings announced last August now apply only to reconditioned cars sold by dealers. Cars not reconditioned and sold by dealers, or cars sold by private individuals regardless of their condition, are subject to reduction below the ceiling of an amount equivalent to the estimated cost of putting the car in good operating condition or at least 10 per cent of the ceiling price.

Must Make Return

Under the new licensing plan, all dealers now in business who wish to continue business after March 31 must make a return to the motor vehicles administrator, E. R. Birchard, on a form provided by the board. On the basis of these returns permits may be issued but no permit will be issued to a dealer who is without facilities for repairing or reconditioning motor vehicles.

Similar returns must be made by any person who wishes to become a dealer, and after March 31 no person lacking a permit from the administrator will be allowed to trade in used cars as a dealer.

Price tags which dealers must display on every used car for sale must show whether or not the car is reconditioned. If the car is not reconditioned, it must show the estimated cost of putting the vehicle in proper running order.

30-Day Warranty

If a used car is sold by a dealer as reconditioned, a 30-day warranty is implied. If within that period the

Blizzard Hits Ontario Blocks Roads

Power Line Down At Kingston Industries Closed

By The Canadian Press

The fiercest gale of the winter swept across southern Ontario today, piling impassable drifts on provincial highways. It reached an estimated 60-mile-an-hour velocity at Kingston, where it tore down a power line, bringing about the closing of industrial plants.

The Dominion Meteorological Bureau in Toronto said the high winds and drifting probably will continue during the day. The Ontario Department of Highways warned motorists to avoid highway travel, saying that almost all highways are blocked in at least some sections.

One death was attributed to the storm in the Windsor district. Lambert Toffelmire, 68 year old watchman of Kingsville, was found dead in his car last night at the gravel pit where he worked. Dozens of automobiles were abandoned on blocked roads in western Ontario.

In the Parkhill district near London police and citizens hunted during the night for 17-year-old Leslie Doherty who went skiing at 10 a.m. yesterday and failed to return. Roads in the London district were blocked or nearly so after high winds drifted loose snow.

At Kingston power was disrupted from 5.15 to 6.44 a.m. when the main power line bringing Gatineau power to the city broke down. The city now is receiving additional power from a secondary Gatineau line via Peterborough. Power service to the plant of the Aluminum Company of Canada was disrupted at 7.45 a.m., halting war production. The power shortage also closed the Canadian Industries, Limited, nylon plant and the Kingston elevator. The high wind sent the Canada Steamship Lines freighter, Canadian, careening from her winter berth at the Kingston Shipbuilding Co. But officials said she was not damaged and will be towed back later today. The surface velocity of the wind ranged from 35 to 45 miles an hour with some gusts hitting an estimated 60-mile clip.

Rain In East

Brockville reported that rain Sunday night was followed yesterday by a fall of snow which drifted in a high wind. Highway traffic was slowed down and trains ran on delayed schedules.

At Hamilton, highways department officials reported that practically all highways are blocked in the Niagara peninsula where a fresh

HONORED IN NEW YEAR'S LIST — Two men from Peterborough and district are shown above who were honored in the King's New Year's honor list. Donald H. Craighead of Campbellford (Left) and a former CGE employee, has been named a Lieutenant Commander (SB) in the RCNVR. This is the second time he has been honored in the King's list. Otto Laderach (Right), whose wife lives at 62 Lansdowne street, has also been made a Lieutenant Commander. Prior to enlisting, he worked as chief tool designer at the CGE.

Peterboro Men Honored On King's New Year's List

Fifteen Peterborough and district men, four in the Navy, four in the Army and seven in the RCAF, have been honored in the King's New Year's list for 1945, it has been announced by National Defence Headquarters. Otto William Laderach, RCNVR, whose wife, Mrs. Lillian Edith Laderach, lives at 62 Lansdowne street, has been promoted to Acting Lieutenant Commander (E). He is believed to be the only Swiss officer in the Canadian Navy, and prior to enlisting he worked as chief tool engineer at the CGE. Lieut. Cmdr. Laderach was graduated as a mechanical engineer in Europe and when he first came to Canada in 1927 he punched cattle in the West for several years.

Lt. Cmdr. D. Craighead.

A Campbellford boy, Acting Lt. Commander Donald Howard Craighead, whose wife is now in Halifax, has been promoted to Lieutenant Commander (Special Branch). He received his last promotion in the 1944 New Year's list. A native of Seymour township, he taught school at Norwood for three years prior to enlisting.

A graduate of Queen's University, where he studied electrical engineering and earned his B.Sc., Lt. Cmdr. Craighead worked for a short while in the CGE before he decided up a teaching career. He attended public school at Burnbrae, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Craighead, still live, and later he went to Campbellford High School.

In the summer of 1940, he joined the Midland Regiment where he was commissioned a lieutenant, and he spent some time in Ottawa where he assisted with the basic organizational work in connection with the opening of the Army Trade School in Hamilton. In the spring of 1941 he transferred to the R.C.N.V.R. and was posted to Halifax where he has been stationed at King's College as an instructor in advance navigation.

A-Lt. Cmdr. J. de La Fosse Frewer

John de La Fosse Frewer, grandson of F. de La Fosse, 457 Water street, has been promoted to Acting Lieutenant Commander. He has served with the Royal Navy in the early years of the war and was returned to Canada when his ship was sunk by enemy action. During the last two years, he has served as Executive officer and Commanding officer of minesweepers and escort vessels on the Atlantic coast of Canada, under most trying and arduous conditions. By his outstanding zeal, cheerfulness and devotion to duty, he has at all times set a fine example to those serving under him.

Sharp Attack Thrown Back By Canadians

New Action Flares Along Adriatic With 8th Army Busy

ROME, Jan. 2 —(CP)—Canadian units of the British 8th Army broke a German raid across the Senio River southwest of Fusignano, seizing several prisoners and inflicting a number of casualties on the enemy, as New Year's fighting opened on the Italian front, the Allied command announced today.

It was the heaviest action of a day in which the Germans mixed propaganda speeches over loudspeakers with sharp artillery fire and patrol actions. There was no substantial change in forward positions, however.

The German raid on Canadian positions came on the right flank of Lt.-Gen. McCreery's army in the Po valley. The raiders crossed the Senio under mortar support.

(A front dispatch from Canadian Press War Correspondent William Boss said sappers accompanied the German raiding party and blew up three houses on the Canadian-held east bank of the Senio before they were repulsed.)

The Canadians struck back hard at the Germans who were sent fleeing across the river.

At seven other points along the Senio, German patrols crossed the river north of highway 9—the Faenza Bologna road—and 8th Army artillery and mortars moved up toward the river and began pumping shells into the enemy lines.

Lt.-Gen. Truscott sent 5th Army patrols probing enemy positions in the Serchio valley on the other end of the Italian front, where a short-lived German thrust of last week now seems altogether ended.

82,634 Americans Killed In War, So Far

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—(AP).—Official army and navy casualty figures, as of December 14, disclose that 82,634 Americans lost their lives in combat during the year. Of these, 70,676 were in the army and 11,958 in the navy, marine corps and coastguard.

An additional 318,157 were wounded—288,312 in the army and 29,845 in the other services. Still another 94,261 were missing, in enemy hands or interned—including 88,053 in the army and 6,208 in the sea services.

Irish Regiment Finds Enemy More Numerous

By WILLIAM BOSS
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS ON THE ADRIATIC, Jan. 2—(CP)—In its role of exploiting from the middle Lamone River bridgehead through to the Naviglio Canal, the Irish Regiment of Canada found the enemy more numerous than in any previous battle.

The Toronto outfit used three times its normal complement of small arms ammunition, killed and wounded more "certified" enemy than ever before and took 100 prisoners. By comparison, casualties in the tough three-mile advance were small.

Talk of the regiment after the fighting was Capt. Tony Falzetta, 21-year-old Sudbury, Ont., company commander, who led his men through some fine actions, capturing a bridge intact in one, grabbing and holding firm the crossing place for the Naviglio Canal bridgehead in another.

While other battalions established the lower Lamone bridgehead, a company under Maj. Norman Hickling of Toronto lent covering

Regent Orders Lay Down Arms

LONDON, Jan. 2—(CP).—In his first official statement as Regent of Greece, Archbishop Damaskinos of Athens told the Greek people yesterday that the immediate laying down of arms was "an indispensable pre-condition" for solving the country's political crisis.

"In the name of our suffering country," the Regent said in a statement released simultaneously here and in Athens, "we call upon those bearing arms to agree to lay them down at once and entrust to the Regency and the government a correct, just and democratically obtained solution for disputed questions."

His statement was accompanied by advices from Athens indicating that Lt.-Gen. Ronald M. Scobie, would confer again to-day with representatives of the Left Wing E.L.A.S. group in an effort to arrive at a truce in the bloody strife which has been wracking the capital.

Damaskinos was said to be planning a visit to Salonika to try and persuade that E.L.A.S.-dominated second city of Greece to support a non-partisan government to be headed by Gen. Nicholas Plastiras, who forced the abdication of King Constantine in 1922 by a military coup.

Dewey Has Plans For Seaway

Will Propose New York Sponsor Development

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—(CP)—Gov. Dewey, in his message of the 1945 session of the New York legislature, opening tomorrow, is expected to propose that the state sponsor the St. Lawrence seaway and power development project, according to reports from Albany.

Capital sources said Mr. Dewey would recommend that the state adopt the seaway as its own self-liquidating project unless the United States government takes affirmative action soon.

Last Dec. 12 the United States senate rejected the $285,000,000 power development by defeating an amendment which would have tied the project into an omnibus rivers and harbors bill. The action came despite a valiant effort by Senator George D. Aiken (Rep.-Vt.) to get it through.

The project was the subject of an agreement between the United States and Canada March 19, 1942 but because an earlier treaty covering the project was defeated in the Senate after ratification by Canada's parliament this new agreement was left for American disposal before Canada acts.

In leading the force arrayed against the project Dec. 12, Senator John H. Overton (Dem.-La.) opposed the idea of trying to make the agreement with Canada subject of a routine vote in Congress rather than a treaty which would require a two-third vote of the Senate.

Polish Question Flames Into Spotlight

Lublin Committee Achieve Coup With Blessing Of Soviet

By DEWITT MACKENZIE,
Associated Press War Analyst.

The Polish question— which long has been one of the deliberate problems of the British-Russian-American combine—has come flaming into the New Year like a rocket bomb, and nobody knows where it's going to land.

It looks as though the Polish National Committee of Liberation in Lublin may have achieved a decisive coup by breaking relations with the Polish government in London and proclaiming itself the Provisional Government of Liberated Poland. The Lublin Committee is, of course, working with the blessing of the Soviet Government and will have presented the world with a sturdy fait accompli if, Moscow recognizes the Provisional Government, as is generally anticipated.

However, the most intriguing aspect of the situation as I see it rests in another contingency. Supposing that coincidental with the Lublin Committee move the Red Army launches its long-awaited offensive against the German Vistula Line and starts pushing the Germans back out of Western Poland. That might easily happen—a fact which the Lublin Committee certainly hasn't overlooked.

Under the circumstances it must be assumed that the Lublin Committee would take over Polish territory as fast as it was liberated and organize it under the new Provisional Government. This would mean that the Lublin Government would be in control of all Polish territory East of the Curzon Line as soon as the Germans were evicted.

Then what would opponents of such a settlement of the Polish question do about it?

In any event, whether this possibility materializes, the Anglo-American members of the Big Three still have to declare their attitudes towards the Lublin committee action. Moscow has made its support of Lublin clear, and many observers believe that if and when the Soviet government formally recognizes the Lublin provisional government, France will follow suit.

The Washington State Department still recognizes the Polish government in London. Britain apparently is standing pat for the time being, but it's only a fortnight ago that Prime Minister Churchill gave the London government a hard knock by declaring that Moscow is entitled to the territory it claims in Eastern Poland—this territorial dispute being the great issue between the Soviet and the London government. The Lublin committee long ago conceded this territory to Moscow.

Nimitz Would Welcome Russian Aid

Says Allies Will Invade Japan At Earliest Moment

PEARL HARBOR, Jan. 2 (AP)—The long-untouched topic of possible Russian participation in the war against Japan was out in the open today, with Admiral Nimitz, a key figure in the Pacific struggle, permitting war correspondents to quote him as saying he would welcome such an eventuality.

(This terse but perhaps significant comment by the five-star admiral came at a time when the Soviet press has been dealing bluntly with the Japanese military situation. Pravda last week said "the development of Pacific events becomes ever more unfavorable for Japan.")

Nimitz, back from a tour of the forward areas, told a press conference yesterday that landings on the China coast remained high on the agenda, but he said the enemy's tenacity, illustrated by unrelenting resistance on by-passed islands, made it necessary to contemplate invasion of Japan itself.

Expects Rough Going

The Pacific leader was cautiously optimistic but he made clear rough going was just ahead.

Then he was asked:

"Would you welcome Russian participation in the Pacific war on our side?"

"Yes," he promptly answered.

"I am glad you put that last phrase in—'on our side.'".

Nimitz said the big fleet which will be put into action in the Pacific has not arrived but the work of British naval units there already is having a good effect.

His press conference yesterday followed the issuance of a 1944 war review which made point of the fact that Japan, presently being blasted by B29s from Saipan, now has become vulnerable to attack by carrier-based planes.

The review condensed these accomplishments in 1944 against Japan: Surface ships and aircraft sank two battleships, five aircraft carriers, seven heavy cruisers, more than 300 cargo ships and transports and 300 other vessels; submarines sank 468 enemy ships, with December totals still to be added; carrier-based planes destroyed 5,460 enemy aircraft in Pacific Ocean areas; and land-based planes wiped out 1,200 more (totals in the theatre of Gen. MacArthur are not included); an estimated 226,000 enemy troops and such strong bastions as Truk and Rabaul "have been reduced to impotence or ashes."

Later at his press conference, Nimitz said the destruction of Japanese shipping was at a pace exceeding production.

Katushas, giant rocket mortars, were brought into the capital to blast street fortifications. Desperate German counter-attacks with tanks and self-propelled guns were crushed in the overwhelming Red Army assault with flame-throwers and heavy guns that threatened to demolish the battle-scarred capital.

Other Russian forces captured 14 more places and drove within two miles of Losonc (Lucenec), Slovak communications hub on the Hungarian frontier above Budapest.

Moscow reports said a new offensive against Austria was expected to get under way as soon as the conquest of Budapest was completed. The German high command was reported to have included Vienna in the "threatened zone" and started partial evacuation and other emergency measures in the Austrian capital.

Germans Lose

Patton hit back hard, recapturing Remange and also taking Hubermont, Houmount and Chenonge. The Germans still hold Moircy.

The village of Wardin, three miles east of Bastogne was captured.

Farther east, there was heavy infantry fighting for a chain of hills along the south bank of the Wiltz River. Third Army gains were measured in hundreds of yards.

Today's Allied communique said the Americans "made small gains in the Saarlautern bridgehead." This was the first account of any attacks initiated along the Saar by the Americans since Von Rundstedt's December offensive broke up the Allied drive for the Rhine.

It did not appear that this signalled a renewal of the offensive, however. The best information indicated that any advances were intended merely to secure more favorable positions in minor adjustments of the line.

In the heavy fighting east of Bitche, Americans of the 7th Army in some sectors fought in a line based on the old Maginot forts. In the first phases of the assault, the Germans were said to have gained only in one sector. This was the woodland south of Bannstein, six miles southeast of Bitche. Even there, the advance was described officially as "slight."

Headquarters also disclosed that Echternach at the base of the bulge had been in American hands since Dec. 28 and that 3rd Army infantry had crossed the Sure river at this point in Luxemburg right on the German border. No reason was assigned for the delay in the announcement.

(The Berlin radio said the Germans had successfully resisted efforts to cut off the base of the bulge and asserted that "the German attack on both sides of Bitche is making good headway." The enemy quoted American prisoners as saying that "great havoc" had been caused in supply columns by Nazi V-weapons.)

Cavan Residents Elect Council

MILLBROOK, January 2—(ENS)—A newcomer to Cavan township government, Delbert Olan, headed the polls as councillor Monday, with 232 votes. Other councillors elected were Robert Armstrong, with 196 votes, and Joe Thorne, with 187 votes.

There were only three councillors elected in Cavan township, because there is a deputy reeve. Defeated were Richard Earle, 173; Norman Earle, 105, and S. C. Boyle, 42.

Both Reeve John Smith and Deputy Reeve Harold Cathcart, were returned to their positions by acclamation, earlier in the month.

Of the new council members, Mr. Armstrong and Mr. Thorne served on 1944's council. Richard Earle, one of the defeated candidates, also was a councillor in the past year.

Dummer Elects William Darling

WARSAW, Jan. 2 — (ENS). — William Darling, polling a total of 234 votes, was elected the Reeve of Dummer Township on Monday, defeating Stewart Clysdale by 32 votes.

Percy Bell, who served on the 1944 Council, headed the polls in the election of four councillors, with 280 votes, while Walter Sloane placed second with 273 votes. Allen Oliver with [illegible] votes and Wesley Chamberlain with 196 votes, were the other two men elected to the Council.

The two defeated candidates were G. Hamblin with 186 votes and Marmion Clements with 142. Hamblin served on the 1944 Council.

The race for the position of Reeve this year was between two new men, after Robert Martin, former Reeve, withdrew his name from the nominations list earlier in the month. He had served for several years

Canadians Drop 85,500 Tons

LONDON, Jan. 2 (CP Cable)—The Canadian Bomber Group dropped more than 85,500 tons of bombs on enemy targets during 1944—increasing the tonnage dropped during the first year of its operations almost seven-fold.

Formed in January, 1943, the group was one of the strongest units of R.A.F. Bomber Command one year later and continued to grow during the last 12 months.

More than 25,000 sorties were flown during 1944 and group personnel flew approximately 156,000 operational hours. The only important figure which dropped and conversely created another record was the ratio of operational losses for the group, which fell from just under five per cent during 1943 to 1½ per cent in 1944. This was considered a great achievement in view of added enemy defences.

During August the Canadian group led bomber command with the largest number of heavy bomber sorties flown—3,700—during which the Canadians dropped more than 13,000 tons of explosives—more than the German air force dropped on London all through the war.

OBITUARIES

DOUGLAS ALLAN VARCOE

The funeral of Douglas Allan Varcoe, son of Alexander Varcoe and Vivian Reynolds, of Birdsalls, R.R. 1, who passed away early Saturday morning in his sixth year. Service was held on Monday from his home.

The floral tributes were numerous. The service was conducted by Rev. Wm. Campbell, of Keene, and interment was made at Campbellford.

MRS. MARGARET BOWLES

The funeral services of Mrs. Margaret Bowles, beloved wife of the late Thomas A Bowles, were held from the family residence, Lot 21, Cavan, Highay 7A, with the Rev. W. Patterson, Millbrook, officiating assisted by Rev. Mr. Everson Springville.

Daughter of the late John Madill and Eliza Tate, she was the last surviving member of a pioneer family of five daughters and one son. Her father came to Canada when only four years of age, and his parents settled on the farm next to her present home.

For many years she was an active member of the Springville Church and of late years of Centreville Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are one son Norman A, at home and a daughter Amy Elisabeth of Peterborough.

Many floral tributes were received from friends and relatives.

Pall-bearers were Albert Bowles, Walter Brown, Manson Cathcart, Harry Bothwell, Sidney Todd, Bruce Elliott, and interment took place in Centreville Cemetery.

Reports last night indicated that E.A.M. delegates and Lt.-Gen. R. N. Scobie, British commander, had not come to terms on truce plans. Disappointment was felt at British headquarters that the E.A.M. had failed to come through with a flat acceptance of Gen. Scobie's conditions.

A statement by the British Embassy in Athens, issued by the ministry of information in London, said that when representatives of the E.A.M. central committee saw Gen. Scobie yesterday "they did not bring any confirmation of acceptance by the E.A.M.-E.L.A.S. of the two conditions for a peace contained in his memoranda of Dec. 12th and Dec. 16th."

The statement said the E.A.M. representatives "maintained that their memorandum of Dec. 18th amounted to acceptance of these conditions."

Gen. Scobie's terms were for the E.L.A.S. to carry out his orders and to cease resistance. He rejected later E.L.A.S. terms, which included proposals for formation of a new government and removal of Greek troops from Athens, because they failed to provide for cessation of resistance.

Movie Actress Shot Undergoes Operation

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 2—(AP). — Susan Peters, 23-year-old Hollywood actress, underwent an operation early today to relieve pressure caused by a bullet which lodged in her spine when a .22-calibre rifle was discharged in a hunting accident yesterday.

At Hollywood a spokesman at the actress' studio said details were lacking, but that he was informed Miss Peters was shot in the stomach as she was preparing to return from a duck hunt at the Cuna Mesa Gun Club south of San Diego.

With Miss Peters on the hunting trip were her husband, Richard Quine, coast guardsman and former actor; Quine's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Quine, and Tom's son.

Miss Peters is a native of Spokane, Wash.

M. H. Johnston Reeve Of N. Monaghan

Melville H. Johnston began his sixth year as reeve of North Monaghan township Monday, when he coasted to victory over A. W. Archibald with a total of 189 votes, to the contesting candidate's 106 votes.

Of the eight contestants for the four council seats, G. N. Moncrief with a total of 209 votes, headed the polls, followed by A. J. Arnott, with 127 votes, W. G. Waterman 126, and Archie Patterson 118.

George M. Sage led the race for the four positions on the School Board with 128 votes, followed closely by Cyril E. Barnes, with 121 votes, just seven short, followed by Ernest Horton, 112, and Walter J. Wood, Frank D. Dawson was defeated when he polled 83 votes. Fred Stinson, the only surviving member of the old Board, still has a year to serve.

The defeated candidates for the township council were Eric McKinstry 91, Frank Millard 89, James S. Roberts 82, and H. F. Doig 79. Of these, Mr. Roberts was a member of the 1944 council, and has served North Monaghan township for several years.

Because of the large section of North Monaghan which was annexed by the City of Peterborough, the post of deputy reeve was dissolved, an office held by Mr. Archibald in 1944.

Weather Reduces Voting

Bruce Johnston, township clerk, estimated that 35 per cent of the voters in the township actually went to the polls. Poor road conditions and bad weather kept many people at home, he believes.

There were four polling divisions, at Harold McMahon's store, No. 1; Rose Minicola's store, No. 2; the Town Hall School, No. 3, and Braley's School, No. 4. The polls closed at five o'clock, and the returns were all recorded shortly after six o'clock.

Here is how the various candidates stood at each polling division, after the final vote had been tabulate:

| | Poll 1 | Poll 2 | Town Hall | Braley's | Total |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Reeve Johnston | 27 | 42 | 77 | 43 | 189 |
| A. W. Archibald | 31 | 47 | 12 | 16 | 106 |
| For Council: | | | | | |
| G. N. Moncrief | 33 | 43 | 82 | 51 | 209 |
| A. J. Arnott | 31 | 37 | 32 | 27 | 127 |
| W. Waterman | 12 | 15 | 68 | 31 | 126 |
| A. Patterson | 26 | 35 | 30 | 27 | 118 |
| E. McKinstry | 31 | 47 | 4 | 9 | 91 |
| Frank Millard | 27 | 48 | 4 | 10 | 89 |
| J. S. Roberts | 24 | 35 | 9 | 14 | 82 |
| H. F. Doig | 26 | 29 | 16 | 8 | 79 |

There were only three polling divisions for the School Board, 1, 2 and 4.

| | Poll 1 | Poll 2 | Braley's | Total |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| G. M. Sage | 46 | 66 | 16 | 128 |
| V. E. Barnes | 47 | 58 | 16 | 121 |
| Ernest Horton | 36 | 42 | 34 | 112 |
| W. J. Wood | 33 | 55 | 17 | 105 |
| F. D. Dawson | 41 | 33 | 9 | 83 |

"A fine bunch of men," was the compliment paid the newly-elected council by Reeve Johnston, upon learning the final results of the election. "I am sorry to see Mr. Roberts out of it though. He has served for several years, and knows the work," he declared.

Reeve Johnston expressed his appreciation and thanks to the electors of the township, for their confidence in him, in electing him to the highest post for the sixth term. He served two years as a councillor, four years as deputy reeve, and the past five years as its reeve.

Guelph reported the gale followed a heavy snow and is blocking district roads. Conditions are described as the worst of the winter. Although no snow fell at Woodstock, the wind piled earlier falls of snow into drifts which blocked highways north and south of the city and west of Ingersoll. The highway to the east is barely passable.

In the Stratford area motorists were stranded by the deep drifts. Railway freight service was discontinued, only passenger trains operating. Some were as much as two hours late. Bus service in the city was discontinued this morning until the streets were cleared. Inter-city bus service is at a standstill. The fall was seven inches to eight a.m.

Galt Area Hit.

Traffic is tied up in the Galt area, a southwest wind piling drifts on the highways.

In the Windsor area traffic was at a standstill and the weather was the coldest of the winter—two below zero. The thermometer was still dropping at 10 a.m., and it was expected to hit five below by tonight. Private vehicles were abandoned on the Windsor-Chatham highway during the night and buses picked up almost 30 passengers from private vehicles and took them to Chatham where they boarded trains for Windsor.

The Meteorological Bureau's reports showed that the drifting was general in southern Ontario, but in the Kirkland Lake area of Northern Ontario the snow is packed hard and highway traffic is continuing.

A five-inch snowfall whipped by high winds isolated a number of towns and villages in the Kitchener district. Several cars entered Linwood, aided by tractors. Roads from Listowel are blocked in all directions. Workmen from New Dundee were unable to reach Kitchener this morning. Farmers left their cars at the entrance to their lanes off the highway to Guelph and a number of cars were abandoned. Sideroads are hopelessly blocked.

fire from the east bank. Then a company under Maj. George McCartney, of Toronto, pressed through for the initial exploitation. They soon had their first objective, a crossroads between Villanova and Borghette, and nine prisoners.

Falzetta then cracked through to seize a bridge over the Fossa Vetra, 500 yards inland, before the enemy could blow it up. Thirty prisoners were taken. Another company under Capt. Herb. Henry of Toronto worked toward another Vetra bridge 300 yards downstream and captured it unblown

Brought Down More Artillery.

Before Falzetta and Henry could get their men formed up across the stream enemy tanks and infantry attacked from their front. Heavy artillery concentrations broke them up, but the crossing was opposed by infantry until Falzetta brought down more artillery.

Falzetta and Henry advanced to secure a strip of the Naviglio's east bank to be used later as a crossing place. Falzetta was within 200 yards of the canal when he was stopped by terrific enemy fire from his front and both flanks.

A company from another Eastern Ontario battalion, advancing to his left under Capt. Charles Kinsey of Brockville pulled alongside and the to companies finally managed to shoot their way on to the canal bank positions.

Henry, moving forward on the right, twice was stopped by heavily-emplaced machine-guns and twice he charged through. Finally, with Germans strongly dug in on his objective and firing as well from either flank, Henry pulled back behind the Vecchia.

Falzetta now was holding out alone on the Naviglio. Enemy mortar fire came ceaselessly. From the shelling alone he had 10 casualties that afternoon. But the men held firm.

That night the Naviglio bridgehead was established by the Carleton and York Regiment from New Brunswick and an Eastern Ontario Regiment, and Falzetta pulled his men back a few hundred yards while a heavy artillery barrage preceded their assault.

Robert Saunders Elected Toronto Mayor

TORONTO, Jan. 2 (CP)—Former Controller Robert H. Saunders today was Mayor of Toronto, elected by a majority of nearly two to one over Mayor Fred J. Conboy who was seeking his fifth successive term in the office.

In comparatively light municipal voting yesterday, due to lack of an outstanding issue and weather conditions hampering traffic, Toronto voters rolled up a total of [illegible]8,757 for Saunders and 36,299 for Conboy. This was the final figure for 860 sub-divisions.

New Year's Day elections were also held at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Port Arthur, Owen Sound and St. Catharines. The Sault re-elected Mayor W. J. McMeeken for his ninth successive term with a vote of 4,002 compared with [illegible],200 for his only opponent, former Alderman Fred Irwin. Port Arthur re-elected Mayor Charles W. Cox for his 12th term over Dr. M. P. Benger. Owen Sound and St. Catharines had given acclamations to Mayors J. F. Knox and Dr. W. J. Macdonald respectively.

A large number of towns, villages and townships also held elections in the province New Year's Day.

The new Toronto Board of Control consists of two members of the Old Board and two new ones. Elected were David Balfour, 47,903, and W. J. Wadsworth, 45,881, former controllers, and former Alderman Stewart Smith, a member of the Labor-Progressive party, with 41,660 and former Alderman H. E. McCallum, 41,166.

Defeated in the board of control race were Leslie Saunders, 34,641; E. C. Bogart, 34,224; C. J. Millen, 30,309; and Harry Bradley, 9,581.

Toronto voters also elected two aldermen in each of nine wards, including two who had gained an acclamation previously in ward 4, and two Board of Education trustees in each ward, including two given acclamation in Ward 7.

The total vote was estimated at 104,770 out of an eligible list of 369,949.

Sault Ste. Marie

At Sault Ste. Marie the voters approved a by-law for municipal financing of a community building which will include an artificial ice arena, the structure to cost $400,000 and be financed by a debenture issue as a post-war project. The vote was 5,105 in favor and 743 against.

Sault voters also approved a by-law to form a board of education combining the present public school and collegiate boards, with 3,436 in favor and 1,933 opposed. They rejected however, by a vote of 3,001 to 2,104, a third by-law proposing a weekly ash collection. The city has been collecting ashes in an annual spring clean-up.

Voting yesterday for council Owen Sound elected Bruce Anderson, Mrs. A. B. Rutherford, E. Sargent and J. I. Brown.

Tra[illegible] Ki[illegible] Honored [illegible]ith Award [illegible] New Year's

[illegible]AWA, Jan. 2.—(CP).—Recog[illegible] of Canada's fighting men [illegible] staff who groomed and [illegible] for them was given in the [illegible] New Year's honor list which [illegible]ed the names of 859 mem[illegible] the Canadian forces.

[illegible] were 120 names on the [illegible]ist and 353 additional names [illegible] traditional accompanying [illegible] Year's naval promotions list. [illegible] army won 145 honors, the R. [illegible] 580, including 24 British ser[illegible] presumably attached to [illegible] training stations, and the [illegible] merchant navy 14.

[illegible] navy and air force lists was divi[illegible] into operational and non-opera[illegible]al sections but the army made [illegible] such distinction.

The [illegible], and circumstances of the [illegible] which won recognition were [illegible] available and in the majority of cases no citations were given.

The merchant navy awards were the only civilian honors listed in line with the government's announced policy of confining decorations to servicemen in wartime.

The highest award—Companion of the Bath—(C.B.)—went to seven officers, including Lt.-Gen. John Murchy, Chief of the Army General Staff, and Air Vice-Marshal C. M. McEwen, commanding officer of the Canadian overseas bomber group.

Other C.B. winners were:

Maj.-Gen. H. F. H. Hertzberg, retired commandant of Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont.

Maj.-Gen. E. J. Renaud, commanding officer of Military District No. 4, Montreal.

Air Vice-Marshal Albert De Niverville, member of the air council for training.

Air Vice-Marshal Alan Ferrier, former member of aeronautical engineering and now a member of the Federal Air Transport Board.

High Navy Award

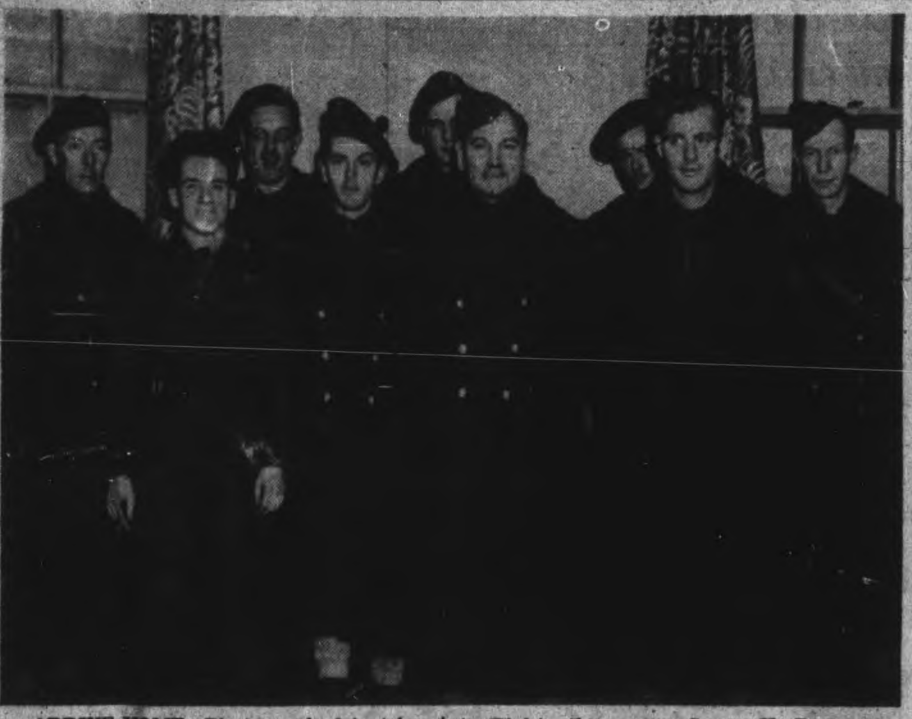
Air Vice-Marshal K. G. Nairn, former member for accounts and finance and now serving the Ministry in an advisory capacity.

Highest award to the navy—officer of the order of the British Empire (O.B.E.)—went to three officers, including Cmdr. Adelaide H. G. Sinclair, Toronto, director of the Wrens, one of many Canadian servicewomen in the list. Other servicewomen were Pte. Grace A. Newman of Waterford, Ont., and Pte. Helen Kovalchuk of Cleveland, O., who won commendations for brave conduct. There was no citation.

Highlights of the navy's promotions list was confirmation in the rank of captain for Horatio Nelson Lay, nephew of Prime Minister Mackenzie King and last identified as commander of the Canadian-manned flat-top Nabob; and Dr. Charles H. Best, co-discoverer of insulin, who is on the navy's medical research staff.

A citation accompanying an M.B.E. for Pilot John Brackett, 54, of Halifax gave further details on how a second Halifax explosion may have been averted. Citations accompanying awards to naval personnel in the King's birthday honors had disclosed other details. Brackett coolly piloted a flaming munitions ship to a safe spot and beached it where it could be later salvaged.



ARRIVE HOME—Photographed just before they left No. 3-A Depot, Fort Frontenac, for delayed Christmas festivities with their families, this group of soldiers arrived in Kingston aboard a hospital train Wednesday. # Robt. M. Holtby Dies Suddenly

PORT PERRY, Jan. 2 — The funeral was held in Port Perry recently of Robert M. Holtby, who was in a large measure responsible for the high calibre of Holstein cattle which are much in demand in the United States and Canada. Interment was in Pine Grove cemetery.

Mr. Holtby had been in good health until a week before his death. He was confined to bed, later contracting pneumonia which killed him.

Of Yorkshire stock, Mr. Holtby was born at Manchester, Ontario, in 1868 and attended public and high school at Whitby and later the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph for two years. During the next 31 years he operated the homestead at Manchester, during which time he served six years on the Reach Township Council and two years on the Ontario County Council. He moved to Port Perry in 1921.

In 1925 Mr. Holtby was appointed fieldman for Canada by the Holstein-Friesean Association of Canada and had an extensive acquaintance among Holstein breeders and other livestock breeders across Canada and parts of the United States, having judged Holsteins at most Canadian shows and several large American exhibitions.

He was always a strong Liberal except for supporting the late William Smith and the Union Government durng World War I and twice United Farmer candidates. He was the candidate for the New Construction Party in Ontario Riding in 1935.

Mr. Holtby was a member of the Methodist Church since the age of 15 years and at the time of his death was a member of the Port Perry United church.

Besides his wife, with whom he celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary on November 19, 1941, at a mammoth dinner tendered in their honor at Lindsay, Mr. Holtby leaves three sisters, Mrs. James Moffatt, Mrs. John Turner and Mrs. James Turner all of Carroll, Manitoba, and two brothers, William and Ernest of Manchester.

Port Hope Man On Missing List

L.CPL. GARNETT RUSSELL

Word has been received by Mrs. G. W. Russell, John street, Port Hope, that her husband, L.-Cpl. Garnoett W. Russell has been reported missing in action in Italy, and he is believed to be a prisoner of war.

L.-Cpl. Russell enlisted nearly three years ago with the Peterborough Rangers, later transferring to the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. He was wounded in January 1944 with that unit in Italy. Prior to enlisting, he worked in Peterborough.

His wife and the baby daughter whom he has never seen, live in Port Hope and a sister, Mrs. Ernie Sucee lives at 193 Mark street, while a brother, F. M. Russell, is editor of the Coldwater News.

Plead Guilty To Theft

COBOURG, Jan. 2 — (ENS).—Pleading guilty to the theft of two watches, a ring, and a camera, Glen Spraggitt of Orillia and Herbert Easterbrook of Kingston were remanded until Thursday. They were charged with theft of the articles from Oscar Greer on December 26, taking them from his room while he was out.

Cpl. Frank Lloyd Back In Canada

MARMORA, Jan. 2 (ENS)—England is one large military camp and an airport, in other words a fortified island, said Corporal Frank Lloyd of the Canadian Army Service Corps, home on a long service furlough.

The Corporal's mind is a storehouse of experiences in England, North Africa, France and Belgium, but he is not anxious to describe them, like many more thousands of fighting men who at present are enjoying a well-earned rest at home.

Corporal Lloyd is an original member of the Hasty Pees. He enlisted at Belleville on September 13, 1939. He participated in the invasion of France in the following year, was in North Africa for a short period and took part in the D-Day invasion. He saw a large area of England in his training days and picked upon the Birmingham district for his leaves because he had relatives there. Nine out of every ten you meet in England are wearing uniforms of some sort, the sight of which in time becomes monotonous to some extent, he remarked.

Narrow Escape

He witnessed different raids on London as well as on other places. Cpl. Lloyd selected one story out of the many he is in the position to tell concerning raids because it has its humorous side for him. As corporal of the guard he posted two men for duty just before a raid occurred. Jerry came over and dropped about sixteen bombs in close proximity to the boys. As soon as it was safe to venture forth Corporal Lloyd suggested to the sergeant that they check up on these two men. A crater had been formed between them and each with a whitened face was trying to discover what had befallen the other. Neither had received a scratch.

Corporal Lloyd transferred to the Canadian Army Service Corps last January. He thereby witnessed the transporting of many German prisoners. Asked if he had any idea as to what the Germans are doing for their wounded in the way of blood transfusions he replied that he had no occasion to find out. He does know that the Canadian blood transfusion service is a grand thing, administered as it is right at the front, he declared.

On the ship on which he returned to Canada were many war brides and their children, who despite a somewhat rough passage were delighted with the trip, and he was ready to testify that the work of the Canadian Legion and the Red Cross in looking after the passengers between disembarkation and entrainment left nothing to be desired.

Prior to enlistment Corporal Lloyd was employed at the Gold Mines at Cordova and before that was an employee of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Limited. He is visiting his wife and two sons, Bernard and Roger.

Bethany News

Rev. Mr. Henderson and Mrs. Henderson held open house for the young people of both churches, St. Paul's and the Y.P.U., when about sixty were present. The event gave an agreeable version of western get-togethers, as Rev. Mr. Henderson had spent 20 years in mission work in the Peace River district, coming from a four year pastorate at Renfrew to Bethany United church in July, 1944.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mark, of Toronto, were New Year's guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jarvis, Front street.

Mr. Sherman Montgomery, of Peterborough, was a New Year's guest of Mrs. Wm. Phillips, Glengarry Road.

Mrs. J. S. Donley, accompanied by her cousin, Mr. Jack Brown, of Calgary, were guests of Mrs. G. Foster on Saturday.

Mrs. Reg. Palmer, of Pickering, spent the week-end, guest of Mrs. Hilliard Davis, Wilson street. Her oldest son, Pte. Jack Palmer, is a prisoner of war in Germany, and she has only had one card from him. Her younger son, Pte. Charles Palmer, is a patient in hospital in England with pneumonia. He enlisted last January and went overseas in the autumn.

Miss Doris Driver of Allanby school, Toronto, has been spending Christmas holidays wth her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Driver, Wilson street.

Women Line Up To Kiss Men On Leave

LONDON, Jan. 2.—(CP).— For some 200 rioutously happy Canadian servicemen on nine days' leave in the United Kingdom from fighting in Western Europe the new year was welcomed Monday night in the second best way possible—drinking to 1945 in English or Scottish pubs.

As they summed it up; "It was the next best thing to being home."

Returning with British troops, also coming back to Britain on leave for the first time since D-Day last June, the Canadians were so anxious to get to places they regard as their second homes after years overseas that many didn't wait to travel to London. As the trains stopped at various familiar places they hopped off, with the result that only a handful reached the capital.

The majority of these troops, however, went to Scotland directly from the coast ports where they landed from the continent.

Literally thousands of Londoners, mainly women, jammed one station to greet two leave trains. In a singing, cheering mass, they stood for as long as 10 hours in damp, bitterly cold rain sheds, and when the trains finally arrived the women couldn't be held—they swarmed past guards, over the platform and embraced the men.

Kiss for Every Soldier.

A regular queue formed as the women made a point of kissing every soldier going past.

It made no difference to these women whether the servicemen were Canadian or British — they were returning heroes and were treated as such, Pte. S. C. L. Seeley of Toronto, veteran of the D-Day assault, claimed it was his most exhausting experience of the war. It took him many minutes to reach the street from the train.

"Be sure to mention in the story," he said, "that it was just good, clean fun, so my wife will understand."

Pte. P. J. Kidder of Moose Jaw, Sask., accepted kisses, then ran to the nearest pub, where he and Sgt. H. Nettleton of Lethbridge, Alta., drank two quick toasts—the first to their wives in Canada and the second to their leave in England.

Gnr. R. M. Dickhout of Gibson's Landing, B.C., wen to the nearest telephone, hunting his father, who is a sapper with the Royal Canadian Engineers here.

Seeks Cosy Pub.

Also headed for a family reunion was LAC. Jack Angove of Coniston, Ont., who wanted to get to Cornwall to see his grandmother. Another whose Air Force blue stood out in the mass of khaki was LAC. F. E. Doty of Edmonton.

"I am spending my leave in London;" he said, and it seemed most servicemen who came here had the same idea.

"I am just going to bum around and have fun and forget about ducking enemy shells and bombs," said Sgt. Max Schwabe of Montreal. "Me for a certain cosy pub I know. Brother, its sure going to be swell."

All of the contingent of soldiers was made up of D-Day veterans. Other contingents are expected almost daily under Field-Marshal Montgomery's home leave rotation plan, announced recently.

Apsley News

Miss Melva Irwin, of Peterborough, Miss Jean Irwin, accompanied by Miss Barbara Eaton of Toronto, spent the holiday week-end with their sister, Mrs. Fred Mann.

Miss Ruby Windsor, Reg. N., of Belleville, is at her home here.

Miss Cora Webdale spent last week with her sister, Mrs. A. Blakeley.

Syd McAuley of Oshawa, is with his wife and daughter here for the holiday.

Mrs. J. Guyett is visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Guyett.

The new year is bringing changes in our village. Mr. and Mrs. W. Earnshaw, Jr., are moving into the house they bought recently from John Tucker, and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McColl are moving to the farm vacated by W. Earnshaw.

Miss Doris McColl is back at work after spending the Christmas week at her home at Lasswade.

Mrs. Harris has returned from a visit to Toronto. Mrs. Stephens and Ray Stephens accompanied her home and spent the New Year holiday with her and Howard Harris.

Mr. Chas. Smith is with his wife and family in Peterborough for the holiday.

A watchnight service was held in St. George's Anglican church with a good attendance. Mr. Urquhart read the Liteny and gave a very fitting short address, stressing the wish that 1945 may see the world in general and the community in particular living at peace with all men. Mrs. James Downing was at the organ.

Obituaries

ALLAN NEILSON.

COBOURG, Jan. 2 — (ENS).—The funeral of Allan Neilson, retired railway maintenance engineer, was held on Saturday afternoon with interment in Cobourg Union Cemetery, the services conducted by Rev. H. R. Deering of St. Peter's Anglican Church. Mr. Neilson died after a long illness at the age of 75.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Neilson he was born at Conway, Ont. Following his earlier education at Conway, he went to Williamsport, Penn., here he resided for some time, later attending Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy, N.Y., graduating in civil engineering. After graduation he entered the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad. In 1896 he came to Canada where he married Carrie Williams of Cobourg at St. Peter's Church here the following year.

Mr. Neilson entered the employ of the C.N.R. as inspecting engineer on his return to Canada, later was appointed engineer of maintenance of way. Twelve years ago he retired. He was a Mason and a Forester, and was also an ardent fisherman.

Surviving are his widow, son Robert of Oshawa, and a daughter Mrs. S. T. Abbott of New York, and three sisters, Mrs. J. W. Campbell and Miss Martha Neilson of Philadelphia, and Mrs Lewis Diven of Reading, Vermont.

JOHN BILLINGSLEY

The funeral of the late John Billingsley, who passed away Sunday morning at Nicholls Hospital, was held this afternoon at 2 p.m. from the funeral home of D. Belleghem and Sons, 190 Hunter street.

Mr. Billingsley was born at Wolverhampton, England, 94 years ago, and had been a resident of Canada and Peterborough for the past 28 years. He was an engineer by trade and was employed at the C.G.E. until his retirement 25 years ago, as a fitter.

His wife, Ellen Venables, predeceased him 21 years ago, and he leaves to mourn his loss three grandchildren, Mrs. V. A. Young at 297 Bethune street, where Mr. Billingsley has made his home; Mrs. F. Dyer and Jack Billingsley, also of this city. There are also eight great-grandchildren. The service was conducted by Rev. W. A. Filer of All Saints' Anglican church and interment was made in Little Lake cemetery. Pallbearers were: Jack Billingsley, Sgt. F. Dyer, Douglas Dyer, J. Henderson, W. F. Sandy and R. Ritchie.

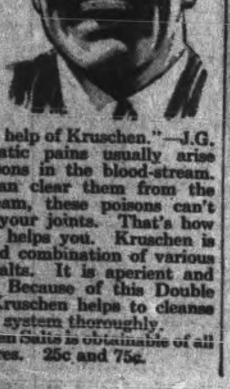
His War Work Couldn't Stop for RHEUMATIC PAINS



If rheumatic pains interfere with war work, the pains have to go! Here's how one British war worker gave his rheumatic pain its "marching orders":—

"My work is rather important," he writes. "I am in charge of two big boilers, and work all night. I had been troubled with rheumatic pains and constipation for about three years, and it was becoming a misery to do my work. I always felt tired. I tried Kruschen Salts, and after three weeks I felt like a new man. I do my work far better now than ever I have done before. One thing I noticed: I sleep much better too! I thank Kruschen Salts from the bottom of my heart. I would advise all men over 40 years to get the help of Kruschen."—J.G.

Rheumatic pains usually arise from poisons in the blood-stream. If you can clear them from the blood-stream, these poisons can't settle in your joints. That's how Kruschen helps you. Kruschen is a balanced combination of various mineral salts. It is aperient and diuretic. Because of this Double Action, Kruschen helps to cleanse the whole system thoroughly.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable of all Drug Stores. 25c and 75c.

The Retirement Of Lloyd George

The Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George has announced that, acting upon medical advice, he will not stand again for election in the Caernarvon Boroughs, the seat which he has held without a break for 54 years. As he will be 82 on January 17 next this is not a surprising decision, but his retirement will close an active political career of more than 60 years, and will remove a very distinguished figure from the British House of Commons.

Like many great old men Lloyd George is admired now by his colleagues and his opponents alike, but during the first thirty years of his political life he was deeply and rancorously disliked by a large proportion of the British people. His origins were obscure: his father died when he was three, and he was brought up by Richard Lloyd, his uncle, a man who was a shoemaker and a dissenting parson in the little Welsh village of Llanystumdwy. Lloyd George entered a solicitor's office when he was 14, and was qualified in that profession when he was 21; it was in the same year (1884) that he began to be active in politics, which had been one of his uncle's principle interests. The young lawyer follow the usual course of ambitious young Welshmen in his day; he attacked the tithe system of the Established Church, and insisted upon the right of Nonconformists to be buried in Church burial grounds, and in similar ways made himself a spokesman for the farmers and small tradesmen. So popular did he become that in 1890 he was elected to Parliament to represent Caernarvon, beating his Conservative opponent by 18 votes. In the Commons he kept up his enthusiastic Welsh nationalism, nonconformity, and Liberalism, and very quickly established himself as a formidable, eloquent, witty debater, and a tireless bringer of discomfiture to the Conservative government.

His rise to eminence was swift. He was President of the Board of Trade for Campbell-Bannerman in 1905, and Chancellor of the Exchequer for Asquith in 1908. It must be said that he made a great deal of fuss about his social reforms, but they were genuine reforms, intended to relieve the hard lot of the poor, and reduce the great fortunes of the rich. Lloyd George set in motion the move to impoverish the rich without correspondingly enriching the poor which has continued for so many years, and which now appears to have run its course; the good intentions behind the movement are not questioned, but its wisdom will be judged by posterity. It must be made clear, however, that Lloyd George put the finances of Britain into excellent order, and that this fact helped materially to sustain Britain through the early years of the First Great War.

It was in the War that Lloyd George showed his finest abilities. When the Asquith Government collapsed he became Premier, and his resource and his courage held the country together as Churchill's have done in recent years. He was a great home administrator, and a man of great military intuition, and on more than one occasion he had to teach professional soldiers how to fight a war. In the postwar years he was an indefatigable supporter of Wilson, and if Wilson had been backed up by his own people the fruits of Lloyd George's work might have been seen more clearly. But since 1922 he has been a private member, debating occasionally, and watching national affairs from the ruins of the once great Liberal party.

Judgements upon statesmen must be made by posterity. Much that he has revealed in his memoirs of the Great War has shown Lloyd George as a great man, and sometimes as a wilful and temperamental one, but always as a man who met great problems with all his wits about him. If his wits were not always equal to the problems which confronted him, is there anyone who dares to criticize? His place in history is secure, and his stature may increase with the passing of years.

A Student's Job Is Study

We are in complete agreement with Mr. Norman McLeod, the president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, who has expressed strong disapproval of interruptions of school work in order that students may "pick tomatoes, sort Christmas mail or set out cabbage plants". During the past three years of war there has been a tendency to look upon school children—particularly those in secondary schools—as a labour pool from which help may be expected for a number of seasonal jobs of a more or less patriotic nature; the result of this has been forgetfulness of the fact that a student's job is to study; it is time that we remembered it again.

Consider what happened in our own P.C.V.I. at the Christmas season: during the first fortnight of the month of December examinations were written; in the last week of the term any student who could get his parents' consent to leave school for a seasonal job did so, and attendance at the P.C.V.I. fell very low. Therefore it may be said that nothing whatever was taught at the P.C.V.I. in December; a month was lost out of a school year which is short enough in any case.

At present our schools are overcrowded, classes are large, and the program of studies is heavy, and yet weeks are sliced off the terms in order that seasonal work may be done. Apparently we attach more importance to any sort of work, however trifling it may be, than we do to education. It is time that educationists took a firm stand in the matter, and we are glad that Mr. McLeod has spoken so frankly.

In Canada we often boast of our high standard of education, but our actual respect for education is not high enough. Students who go to schools where any sort of seasonal work is an excuse to lay aside the books will do well if they scrape bare credits in their examinations; we want them to pass their examinations with honour standing. Teachers who have too little time in which to teach the assigned work cannot be blamed for the high percentage of failure, but they suffer a sense of frustration as they approach an impossible task which is bad for education generally. And our present system makes it clear to students of high school age that their country regards any sort of gainful work as superior to academic work, and makes it appear unimportant to them whether they go into the world half-educated or well-educated. Let us apply some common sense to this matter and stop playing ducks and drakes with our educational system.

The Marriage Of Dr. Royden

Dr. Maude Royden, probably the best-known woman minister of the Gospel in the world, has married at the age of 68; her husband, the Rev. G. W. Hudson Shaw, is in his eightieth year. Criticism in such cases is never welcome and rarely in good taste, but it must appear to many people that Dr. Royden, who was an advisor to young married couples for 40 years or more, waited rather a long time before making the experiment herself. However, she adopted a child in 1918, so it may be said that she knows rather more about being a mother than she does about being a wife.

Dr. Royden gave her advice to young couples in newspaper articles and in lectures and personal interviews. Marriage, she insisted, was something to be approached with caution, for she abhorred impermanent matches. "Trial marriage is no marriage at all", she often said. But she was an advocate of divorce in cases which were hopeless, arguing that the cruelty of keeping two ill-matched people together outweighed the affront to the institution of marriage which was involved in parting them.

Dr. Royden was a tireless advocate of sex education. "I find it difficult to speak in measured terms", she once told an audience, "of those parents who deliberately allow their daughters to take a step which involves the whole of their future life and happiness, and that of another human being also, in ignorance of what they are doing". She was an advocate of equality among the sexes; this is what she said to a group of young women: "You won't, I hope, feel that you ought to tell him everything that belongs to the past; and you won't, I hope still more fervently, feel that he ought to tell you". This advice, although it is often acted upon, is rarely acknowledged, particularly by women. Dr. Royden was ahead of her generation in everything, except, of course, the age at which she has chosen to marry.

This would be a dull, drab week if it were not for the brightness of the Christmas gift ties.

Farming News and Views

By HON DUNCAN MARSHALL

THE shortest day of the year has gone by. When we get into December, with its dark mornings, I am always anxious to get past the shortest day and so can look for the sun a little earlier, each morning, that is, if it shows itself at all. There are quite a few weeks of winter to pass yet but they can be well occupied by the farm work in the barns, and the planning for 1945. The Agricultural conference at Ottawa has concluded that the production for this year should be very similar to that of 1944. There seems to be no outstanding demand for an increase in any particular grain crop, and farmers will do well to base their spring seeding calculations on what their fields are best fitted for. A few acres more or less for any particular crop is not so important if the aggregate is up to that of 1944.

So far as cattle and pigs are concerned, Canada has done something better than her share, and market gluts in the past year were dangerous at times. If either of these products is slightly increased this year it better be bacon hogs, though that must not be done at the expense of quality, as we must stand at the head of the class for the export of this product when the war ends in Europe, and it always seems easier to keep quality up when we are reducing quantity than when we are increasing it.

AS crops are planned for this year, keeping the land up to standard, or improving it, is as usual the most important problem. To do this in the most natural fashion is our best way back to "virgin soil." Lord Northbourne in that most attractive little publication, "Look to The Land," makes these observations: "The soil is important to us as a living entity and not as a dead medium. Plants grow well in top soil, badly in subsoil, although the subsoil is richer in minerals. When the living layer (of top soil) is sickly or dying, the soil loses its tilth or texture, its control of water and its power of digestion. It loses its fertility."

This means, of course, that the soil bacteria must not be allowed to perish, and that can be prevented by the addition of humus, or vegetable matter, which the bacteria can turn into humus, by promoting its decay. This means more organic fertiliser, green crops, barnyard manure or compost, and if you want to do a little experimenting on your own account, try it on your vegetable garden. If the life is in the top soil we must preserve it, and as we extract it by crops, the straw and grain of which come out of the soil, and are a living part of it, there must be an honest biological exchange, so we must return organic matter that as it decays will give back to the land the life we have taken from it. The study of our fields as spring opens gives farming a zest. If we carefully count what we have taken out of a certain piece of land, it becomes an interesting calculation to determine how much we owe it and forthwith plan to pay back in full so we may fairly draw upon it again. These are interesting questions for winter study and farming in Canada is far too poor in literature.

THE potato yields in Ontario have been greatly stimulated this year by the 500 clubs, and no doubt many of the growers have surprised themselves by the results achieved. Producing about 500 bushels of potatoes on an acre of land means that to continue the production of his average crop the grower need only use about one half the land he formerly did and can use the balance for some other purpose. We have always had plenty of land in Canada, and after we got it cleared or broken, as the case might be, we seemed to think we could afford to let some of it go to waste. In countries where land is scarce it naturally gets better care. W. J. P. Turner, of Plymouth, Barnstable, England, grew 746 bushels of potatoes per acre in 1944. Great improvement has been made in this province, however, but one thing yet lacking is the proper screening, or sizing potatoes for sale. The reason given is the war and scarcity of help and it has some effect, but the price has more to do with it. Potatoes will sell without too much trouble, but it is well to keep in mind that it is quite worth while to establish a name for any product that will sell it on reputation when prices are not so readily paid.

A BRITISH Land Girl who came from a city to work on a farm at the very beginning of the war, writing last July of her fifth year of experience, concludes by saying, "It has not been glamorous or picturesque, just a job of hard work under strenuous conditions, but then we are not looking for glamour or trying to strike picturesque attitudes. We only want to do our share of keeping things going, and to get the job done. What about afterwards?....For my part, and I was thinking of this the other day as I was plodding up and down a field setting potatoes—I want three things. Firstly, I want to go abroad, to liberated Europe, and give a hand with relief. Secondly, I want a real holiday. Thirdly? I want to go on living in the country."

This girl had handled horse drawn implements, milked cows, pitched sheaves in the field and tackled most farm work.

FARMERS in the three prairie provinces have, up to December 14th marketed 206 million bushels of wheat, 36½ million bushels of oats, 54½ million bushels of barley, 2¼ million bushels of rye and 6¼ million bushels of flax seed. This is getting the grain out quickly and indicates the farmer's ability to move his crop because he is in funds and prices are good.

Are Poets Dangerous?

(By CHESTER A. BLOOM)

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The caption above is a transposition of words in one which appeared over an Ottawa Journal editorial some years ago arguing that poets in politics were dangerous fellows. Poets, the editorialist maintained, were idealists and perfectionists; subversive of practical politicians who must deal with human nature expressed in contract and vote-getting. It was, in fact, a piece of editorial leg-pulling.

Still, that bit of humorous sophism embodies the pseudo-philosophy of the U.S. Senators who, for a week past, have been flaying a poet in the Senate foreign relations committee, and the Senate itself.

Outraged politicians have had Archibald MacLeish, former congressional librarian, distinguished author and poet, on the griddle for days. Archie's work is not to be compared with the feeble prose which brought about the Journal outburst. He is a high class poet who deals in transcendentalisms like The Breast of the Infinite, Truth's Entangled Hair, Beauty's Burnished Wing, and such expressions as "Our March has Come to the Land's End and Beyond is Surf and the Sea to Wander."

APPARENTLY President Roosevelt named Mr. MacLeish, the poet, as one of the assistant secretaries to Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., new U.S. Secretary of State, in order to effect a sort of literary, esthetic and economic balance to the others. Mr. Roosevelt seemed to think that one poet might offset such hard-headed assistant secretaries as William L. Clayton, millionaire cotton broker; Nelson Rockefeller of the famed Croesus Rockefellers; James C. Dunn, alleged state department friend of Franco, the Spaniard; Brig.-Gen. Julius C. Holmes, military adviser; or James G. Grew, veteran former ambassador to Japan; also Robert Hurley, former governor of Connecticut, familiar with political wiles and Lieut.-Gov. Edward Heller, rich California business man, named for posts on the War Surplus Disposal Board which has the job of selling off a hundred billion dollars of surplus war property.

All came under the senatorial fire, of New Deal leftists while the rightists senators concentrated on the unfortunate poet. Let us take the case of the flayed poet first. It was notable that the anti-MacLeish poet-haters joined forces with the anti-millionaire New Dealers merely to "get Archie." We saw the same thing happen in our parliament when Conservatives voted with Quebec anti conscriptionists to "get King."

Plump and well-fed Senator Bennett Champ Clark was the spearhead of attack on poesy. Senator Clark pounced on an extract from Mr. MacLeish's book, "The Time to Speak" which revealed the fundamental objection of the senators to Archie. The extract quoted one of Mr. MacLeish's imaginary characters as saying. "The great American capitalist...and his banking system might well have been begotten explicitly from hatefulness. They have all the attributes of hatefulness; they are greedy; they are arrogant; they are gross; they lack honour; their existence insults their intelligence. It is a pleasure, almost a duty to hate them."

This apparent sin against the American economic credo roused outcries of senatorial rage. Senators who had been howling against British soldiers shooting at Greek leftists turned like wolves on Archie as a Communist fellow-traveller.

In vain Mr. MacLeish protested that these were not his views; that the quotation was lifted from the context; that the verse only portrayed the stock figure that Communist writers of the 1920's set up to knock down. The suspicions of the senators were not laid. Senator Clark dug up other verses of Mr. MacLeish's undergraduate days, demanded to know what they meant. For example this:

"How else am I, Love's acolyte, so wise to know that dreams and passions turned devote, and Joy grown sad, are Love with wide girl's eyes," and this:

"I have lived before and otherwhere...Watched Infinities of Things careen, with shouted Laughter down the startled Air."

MR. CLARK said he had read Shakespeare, Milton, Browning and U.S. poets but he couldn't understand this. Other senators seemed to think it was little short of damnable; they were sure Bolshevism was concealed in it somewhere.

Mr. MacLeish, in reply, quoted Browning as having said once of his early poetry: "When I wrote that, God and I knew what it meant; but only God knows now."

Upshot is that Mr. Clark and the anti-poetists have agreed that they might pass Mr. MacLeish, the poet, with a mark of about 51 minus provided the New Dealer opponents of the millionaire appointees will pass them. But the New Dealers take a much dimmer view of Messrs. Clayton, Rockefeller, Hurley et al. They seem unwilling to trade one poet for seven millionaires and rightist diplomats so the fight may go on this week.

Their objections will be dealt with in another article.

'Culture' In Saskatchewan

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

THE new C.C.F. administration in Saskatchewan proposes to organize that province into "a rich, cultural, social and athletic way of life," and to that end the Physical Fitness and Recreational Division of the Department of Public Health has prepared an elaborate plan. The details are given in a 24-page pamphlet.

The scheme is intended to provide "a Physical Fitness and Recreational Program" for Saskatchewan's 900,000 men, women and children—it is "an all-embracing effort to help bring happiness to every individual in a democratic society." The whole vast project is called the Saskatchewan Recreational Movement—briefly, SRM.

In this plan there will be headquarters in Regina for SRM, with district directors and organizers, and an SRM council in each community, the aim being to have clergymen and doctors on such councils, along with editors, lawyers, theatre-owners, farmers, and so on. The provincial body "would centralize the entire network of SRM community councils charging them with promotional ideas and program possibilities" with this broad objective:

"Encased in an over-all promotional and administrational power-house connecting local communities with provincial programs the SRM, through its mental and physical hygiene-jacket, would combine the positive currents of physical fitness activities with those of art and handicrafts, theatre and music, public discussions and forums, citizenship activities generally."

The population will be organised [illegible] groups—S-12 for 150,000 children under the age of twelve, S-18 for older boys and girls, and an adult group which seems to have no number. Each youngster gets a badge, a free magazine, and stars on the badge for conspicuous achievement in SRM—there will be medals for best leaders. The adult groups are to undertaken activities ranging from clay modelling to baby-minding, from horse-back riding to stamp collecting, from the study of psychology to the presentation of light operas, and each member is to pay $3 a year.

In a very broad way this is the plan; certainly it is ambitious. Fully realized it would link every resident of Saskatchewan—there is even provision for children of pre-school age—in an organization taking its inspiration from a department of the provincial government. One wonders whether the average Canadian will submit to such a degree of organization, even for his own physical and mental good. And suspicious persons will wonder too whether the C.C.F. isn't setting up what will be, or could be made, a tremendous political machine. Certainly the possibilities will be there. The C.C.F., as we are told so often, is composed entirely of high-minded patriots above and beyond all partisan considerations, and perhaps it hasn't occurred to them that this all-embracing "hygiene-jacket" containing everybody in Saskatchewan from cradle to graveyard could be used for political propaganda. Or perhaps it has.

A Bible Message

The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me; because the Lord hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; he hath sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound.... To appoint unto them that mourn in Zion, to give unto them beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness; that they might be called trees of righteousness, the planting of the Lord, that he might be glorified. (Isa. 61: 1, 3.)

Sacrifice and offering thou didst not desire; mine ears hast thou opened: burnt offering and sin offering hast thou not required.

Then said I, Lo, I come: in the volume of the book it is written of me, I delight to do thy will, O my God: yea, thy law is within my heart. (Ps. 40: 6-8.)

Now when John had heard in the prison the works of Christ, he sent two of his disciples, and said unto him, Art thou he that should come, or do we look for another?

Jesus answered and said unto them, Go and shew John again those things which ye do hear and see: the blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the poor have the gospel preached unto them. And blessed is he, whosoever shall not be offended in me. (Matt. 11: 2-6.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Thousands of Italians prisoners in Britain are working on farms and getting paid for it. Recently the British officer in charge of one of the prison camps was startled when a spokesman for the Italians asked if they could purchase British National Savings Certificates.

"Of course," said the officer, "but do you realize that funds paid for certificates will be used to make bombs which may be dropped on Italy?"

"Oh, we know that," answered the prisoners' spokesman, "but at least our money will be safe."

The head of the house approached the young man.

"Look here," he said, "you have been calling here to see my daughter for a long time now. May I ask what are your intentions?"

"Well," said the young man, "I had hoped to become an addition to your family."

"Let me tell you," was the reply in grim tones, "there's nothing doing in addition. You'll have to subtract."

A farmer was ploughing a field with one horse, but he was yelling: "Giddup, Jack. Giddup, Bill. Giddup, Jerry. Giddup, Sambo."

A stranger passing by asked: "How many names does your horse have?"

"Oh," said the farmer, "his name is Jack, but he doesn't know his own strength. So I put blinkers on him and yell all those other names. He thinks he has other horses helping him."

Legacy to Mackenzie King

There are extremely few Canadians who will not note with pleasure that Mr. Mackenzie King has been left a legacy of $50,000 by Sir William Mulock, an intimate friend of the Prime Minister for a great many years. The emoluments of public life are not large. The demands upon public men are heavy, and at seventy Mr. King is approaching a time when he will not enjoy an official salary and this bequest, when Mr. King comes to retirement, will contribute towards the life of dignity and independence which should be the reward of his distinguished service. Whether or not they agree with all Mr. King's acts and policies most people will applaud this gift and the spirit of the giver.

The bequest comes with special grace from Sir William Mulock. He it was who brought Mr. King to Ottawa, as Deputy Minister of Labour, and who launched him in public life into a career as a member of Parliament, as Minister of Labour, leader of the Liberal party and Prime Minister. Sir William meanwhile had left politics for the Bench, lived beyond the century mark, but their friendship never was broken and it is good to know that Sir William left this tangible expression of his esteem and respect for one whose life he had helped to fashion. —Ottawa Journal.

WHY TIRES FOR CIVILIANS ARE SCARCE—Sergt. Bob Burns, of Pampa, Tex., ruefully surveys the remains of two tires from a jeep that had just been strafed by German planes. An ordnance collecting point in Holland receives many tires like these every day. Tire casualties on the Western front are high and only a steady supply of replacements from home factories can keep the war machine rolling. That is one of the reasons you can't have all the tires you want for the family chariot.

Belmont Boy Is Killed In Italy

L.-CPL. BRUCE MENZIES

HAVELOCK, Jan. 2— (ENS).—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Menzies of Belmont township, have been officially notified that their son, L.-Cpl. Bruce Menzies, with the Hastings-Prince Edward Regiment, has been killed in action in Italy.

L.-Cpl. Menzies was reported wounded early in the Fall but had re-joined his unit. He enlisted in March, 1942, at the age of 21, training in Peterborough, Camp Borden and Sydney Mines. Prior to going to England in ...ember, he served for nine months in Newfoundland. He received his promotion to L.-Corporal last June and has been in Italy almost a year.

A brother, Driver Donald Menzies, is serving in Belgium with the R.C.A.S.C.

Bombers Attack Luzon Island

SOUTHWESTERN PACIFIC ADVANCED HEADQUARTERS, Jan. 2 — (AP). — Land-based American bombers on Mindoro have opened attacks in force to the far reaches of invasion-menaced Luzon island, bagging three enemy warships and five cargo vessels in one such blow 150 miles north of Manila, but signs also are accumulating of attempted enemy counter-actions against Mindoro.

Today's communique, which listed the sinking or probable sinking of three destroyers, three 8,000-ton freighter-transports and two smaller cargo vessels at Lingayen Gulf, also disclosed intense activity by Japanese ammunition trains on southwest Luzon just north of Mindoro.

Saturday, the same day that medium bombers, attack planes and fighter-bombers flew 150 miles northwest of Manila to Lingayen, more htan 50 Marine Corsairs blew up an entire ammunition train, strafed three others and attacked 20 locomotives in the Batangas area.

Batangas is 25 overwater miles north of Mindoro Island and roughly 100 miles from the New United States Mindoro base at San Jose which sent the strong force of raiders to Lingayen.

The enemy is continuing to raid Gen. MacArthur's Mindoro position, established by an invasion Dec. 15 which cut west across the central Philippines from conquered Leyte.

The Lingayen attack, representing the deepest penetration in strength of American bombers based in the Philippines, was pointed at a reinforcement and supply base for the enemy on Luzon.

The raiders reported seeing some of the eight ships go down and said the others were so badly hit it is reasonably certain they also sank.

Another day of mopping up on the west side of Leyte added 995 Japanese killed to the enemy losses in that campaign, now totalling 119,982.

Havelock Man Observes 92nd Birthday

HAVELOCK, Jan. 2 (ENS)—John Adair, Havelock's oldest resident, celebrated his 92nd birthday quietly on New Year's Day at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. W. Hill, where he has resided since the passing of his wife, the former Mary Hyslop, more than eight years ago.

Mr. Adair has fairly good health and is quite active for his age. He keeps in close touch with current events and his wish is that he may live to see the end of the war. In religion he is Presbyterian and weather permitting is rarely absent from the services of worship in the local church.

Mr. Adair was born in Wightownshire, Scotland, and came to Canada with his wife in 1881, settling at Perth. On the day following their arrival in this country Mr. Adair commenced work on the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway in whose employ he remained until retired on pension in 1918. For thirty years he served as foreman in the department of maintenance of ways. In 1901 he moved to Claremont and nine years later he took up residence in Agincourt where he resided until he came to Havelock.

Mr. Adair has two daughters, Mrs. W. W. Hill of Havelock and Mrs. M. Pringle of Toronto and four sons, Thomas of Oshawa, George of Trenton, Alex of Newcastle, and John of Manitoba. Two grandsons

Churchill and Eden left Athens to recommend acceptance of a regency to King George of Greece, who is now in London.

Two Nazi Agents Are Landed From U-Boat

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—Arrest of two Nazi Agents, trained in espionage and sabotage, who were landed by U-boat on the Maine coast last Nov. 29, has been announced by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Mr. Hoover identified the men as William Curtis Colepaugh, 26, U.S. citizen of Niantic, Conn., and Reich Gimpel, 35, natve of Germany who was a radio engineer in South America. The arrests were made several days ago in the New York area.

Mr. Hoover said the men supplied full particulars of their activities since landing at Hancock Point in Frenchmen's Bay, Me. They came ashore in rubber boats at night. He said they carried automatic revolvers, compass, camera, secret inks, and a variety of draft papers, discharges from the navy.

They had been supplied with $60,000 in American money, of which $56,574 remained at the time of their arrests.

Commenting on the arrests and the recent discoveries of two Japanese balloons in Oregon and Montana, which he said might have carried spies instead of explosives, Mr. Hoover declared these were evidence of an espionage and sabotage offensive against the entire American hemisphere.

Six Were Executed

The last known landing of enemy agents was announced June 28, 1942 by Mr. Hoover after four men landed June 15 at Amagansett, Long Island, and four other June 17 at Pointe Vedra Beach, Fla. All eight were captured and six were later executed.

Mr. Hoover said Attorney-general Biddle would decide what charges would be placed against Colepaugh and Gimpel.

The F.B.I. director said the two agents, after landing, went to Bangor, Me., and stopped briefly in Boston before coming to New York where they went to separate hotels, bought expensive clothes, and made purchases to construct a short wave radio transmitter to communicate with Germany.

Colepaugh, who once attended Massachusetts Institute of Technology, also served in the U.S. Navy until discharged in 1942 "for the convenience of the government."

He went abroad as a mess boy on the Swedish exchange ship Gripsholm, leaving the ship at Lisbon where he offered his services to the Nazis, Hoover said. He was enrolled in the Elite Guard and went to school in Berlin, the Hague and Dresen where he was taught radio photography and use of explosives.

Gimpel was arrested in Lima, Peru, while working for a German radio firm and was interned in Texas until repatriated to Germany where he continued to work until joining the Elite Guard for training similar to Colepaugh's.

NEWS ABOUT VITAMINS!

Take your vitamins in combination with other food elements for best results.

● Many people need extra vitamins for better health and keen vitality, but it is now known that vitamins do not work alone. They work as a team with certain other food elements. Hence, more and more, authorities are insisting "Take your vitamins in food!"

One of the reasons vitamins are so effective in Ovaltine is that Ovaltine is a concentrated all-round building food. It contains the other food elements that enable vitamins to work together effectively as a team.

For example, Vitamin D can't do its complete job unless you have plenty of calcium and phosphorus, as found in a glass of Ovaltine made with milk. Vitamin A can't function fully unless you also have plenty of high-quality protein, such as Ovaltine supplies. Vitamin B1 can't spark food into energy unless it has fuel-food to work on. To get this important "teamwork", doctors urge "Take your vitamins in food!"

Ovaltine also is the most delicious way to take your extra vitamins and minerals! And it costs very little for all it gives you! If you're eating normal meals, 2 glasses of Ovaltine a day give you all the extra vitamins and minerals you need. So why not turn to Ovaltine, as thousands are doing, for the delicious way to get more effective teamwork from extra vitamins and minerals for better health and all-round vitality!

Harness Racing Finishes On Monday At Dufferin

TORONTO, Jan. 2.—The curtain was rung down on the harness racing season at Dufferin Park Monday under ideal weather and track conditions. Three races and a special three-cornered match race with Lorne Lee, Cyrus Martin and Rose Carlton, the actors, featured the afternoon's performance.

Rose Carlton set the pace away from the wire and was never headed to win handily from Cyrus Martin, who slipped into second place at the half-mile post when Lorne Lee went a little wide.

The entire card was one of the best since the beginning of the season. Every heat was keenly contested and the finishes exceptionally close.

Fred Orpen presented the four top drivers in the drivers' contest with their winnings just prior to the conclusion of the final heat. C. Chapman topped the list with 100 points and received $100; Floyd Milton had 74 points and won $75; Pat Harvie, with 69 points, received $50, and Louie James, with 52 points, received $25.

EXTRA EARLY NEW TOMATO
Early Chatham

Earliest Quality Tomato Yet Developed —Valuable For All Parts of Canada
Of immense value for the North and West and other short season districts. Highly desirable for all other areas too as an extra early sort producing fine quality ripe fruit as much as two weeks or more before most other varieties. Proved a sensation on the Prairies in 1943 and 1944, including such districts as Lethbridge and Brooks, Alta.; Indian Head and Swift Current, Sask.; Brandon and Morden, Man. Around Calgary, where first distributed under the name of "Alberta", gardeners were simply "wild" about it. At Lethbridge Early Chatham ripened a week to twelve days before other extra early varieties. At Morden, Man., it has yielded as much as 20% to 40% greater crops than other good earlies. Early Chatham is dwarf, non-staking, and may be planted as closely as two feet each way. Fruits uniform, fine shape and colour; delicious quality. Average about 2¼ inches across but frequently larger. Order direct from this advertisement. As seed is not yet plentiful we cannot offer larger quantities than listed. (Pkt 15¢) (oz 75¢) postpaid.

Barons Creep Closer To Capitals

By The Canadian Press

Seven week-end games provided no upsets in American Hockey League standings, though in the Western Division Cleveland Barons with two victories, crept two points closer to the leading Indianapolis Capitals who could do no better than tie a couple of games.

In the Eastern Division, second-place Hershey Bears moved up a point nearer Buffalo Bisons by winning one and drawing one game. Bisons won only one of their three games.

Both of Bisons' losses were to Cleveland who won last night's game 3-2 after a 5-2 victory Saturday. Both games were played at Cleveland. Earl Batholome scored the winning goal last night less than two minutes before the game ended. Ed Prolop and Les Cunningham made Barons' other scores while Len Halderson and George Boothman tallied for Bisons.

Cunningham was the star of Saturday's encounter, with one goal and three assists. Roger Leger and Ken Kilrea scored for the visitors.

Sunday Bisons defeated Pittsburg Hornets 6-5 on home ice. Paul Mundrick and Wimpy Jones each scored for the victors, while Johnny Mahaffy notched up two, one of them unassisted, for Hornets.

In Sunday's game at Providence, Reds downed St. Louis Flyers 2-1. The winning margin was provided by Stan Kemp's second-period goal.

At Indianapolis Sunday Hershey Bears tied Capitals 3-3 on a third-period goal by Bill Warwick.

Capitals tied Pittsburgh Hornets 5-5 Saturday at Pittsburgh after Hornets had built up a 5-3 lead. Tony Hemmerling for the home team and Morden Skinner for the visitors each scored twice.

Hershey Bears won a 9-5 victory over visiting St. Louis Flyers Saturday, paced by Hal Cooper who scored three goals. Peggy O'Neil counted two for the Bears and Vic Lynn scored twice for St. Louis.

SPORTS—Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Members of the executive of the Peterborough Hockey Club, coaches and all others interested in the league to be operated by the club with the assistance of the city's service clubs are reminded of the meeting to be held tonight at the Duffus board room for final preparations for the season and for the drawing up of rink schedules for presentation to Ald. Floyd Curtis, chairman of the parks committee of the city council. Sweaters for the four teams have already been ordered by the executive and other details are being taken care of. It has been decided that the playing cushion for the hockey club league will be the new rink that is being erected in Confederation Square. With all the games to be staged at this central spot it is figured that all the clubs will get an even break so far as playing conditions are concerned. Rival coaches are already digging up material in their respective districts and it is expected that four well-balanced teams will take the ice to represent the four zones into which the city has been divided. Incidentally the addition of Monaghan Ward will give South-end Coaches Honey Tompkins and Art Heal a lot more territory from which to secure talent.

The announcement that the Ontario Hockey Association has given the Omemee intermediates the privilege of signing Peterborough players means that a number of the members of the Petes will see a little O.H.A. action during the present winter. According to reports Left-winger Joe Blewett, Right wing Honey Tompkins and Defenceman Les Burion are three of the Peterborough players who will cast in their lot with the Black Hawks this season and it is possible some of the others may land with the Omemee gang too. Meanwhile Ned Vitarelli who loves his hockey and regretted the fact that the Petes were out of action last winter has been playing with the Peoples' team in the Toronto Major Hockey League. More of the Petes may eventually commute in and out of Toronto for competition in the same loop later on. Doc Dafoe, Calhoun and other Whitby and Oshawa players who used to perform regularly against the Petes are also lined up with some of the Toronto Major League outfits and Dafoe in particular has been cooking with gas all season, figuring prominently in the score sheet. The last time Doc played against the local entry was two seasons ago when he turned up with the Brampton Army team, eliminated by the Petes in the Ontario playdowns.

Another Shutout

Toronto Leafs picked up a couple of points at the expense of the impotent Chicago Black Hawks Saturday in a game that was distinguished chiefly by the fact that Frank McCool scored his second shutout of the season. The final score was 4 to 0 and the argument contained little brilliant hockey, according to Stove League Ferguson who couldn't find a Black Hawk good enough to be named for one of the three stars. The Hawks have only won three games in 21 starts this season and seem to be going nowhere fast. The holiday week-end hockey did not set the world on fire. Probably the chief feature was that the New York Rangers managed to eke out a 3 to 2 win over the Boston Bruins, thus making it a perfect evening for Gotham fans who turned out nearly 15,000 strong for the engagement. One of the mysteries of the current hockey situation is how the Young Men of Manhattan find it possible to draw capacity audiences right along with a team that looks to have little chance to make the playoffs. This year's edition probably costs less in salaries than any New York outfit in history and yet it packs in the customers. A winning Ranger team could not hope to do any more business than the Patrickmen have been attracting with an outfit that has only four wins to its credit.

* * * * * *

The Detroit Red Wings incidentally were the big gainer over the holiday week-end for they knocked off the Chicago Black Hawks twice in a row to garner four points and gain a full game on the third place Leafs. It was the third loss in three nights for the Black Hawks and that would surely seem to be par for the course. At that nearly 13,000 fans saw the game at Chicago last night which the Wings grabbed off 4 to 2. The Chicago gang broke in front with a goal in the first period by Mosienko but in the second session a marker by rookie Wochy tied up the count and the veteran Syd Howe shot the Wings into the lead before the period ended. Clint Smith tied it up again early in the final session and less than five minutes remained to be played when Liscombe put Detroit in front and Armstrong cinched the argument two minutes later with another counter to make the final figures 4 to 2.

The Racing Outlook

"Canada has a check on operators who may have ambitions to open race tracks in the Dominion and take advantage of the shutdown south of the border," says Bill Walshe in the Ottawa Journal. "No sooner had the request circulated to stop racing in the States than a Detroit syndicate tried to get permission to re-open the old Devonshire track in Windsor. There are other tracks in Canada, convenient to the border, where races could be held and as long as entries and results are published bookies could continue in business, but it would be difficult to break down the Canadian barriers or break into the monopoly that now conducts running races in the Dominion. According to officials of the Department of Agriculture, the branch that controls Canadian horse racing, it would be almost impossible at present to re-open any of the old race tracks, revive the old race charters or establish new ones. Twenty-five associations operated charters for running races last year. There are idle charters in Canada, but they would need new tracks to hold race meets and material for grandstands, labor to prepare racing ovals, or permission to conduct betting would be difficult to obtain."

* * * * * *

"Many racing charters floated around Canada before the First Great War granting owners permission to run races for betting purposes, or, to be exact, conduct betting for the improvement of the breed, but since March 20, 1912, racing charters can only be granted by an Act of Parliament or by a Provincial Government," continues the Walshe article. "Only two Federal charters are in existence. One is used for the Toronto Thorncliffe races and the other for the Toronto Dufferin Park meeting. Federal charters grant owners the right to operate anywhere in the Dominion. Other charters are restricted. Charters must only be used at one ace track although, as a war measure to aid transportation, several race meets may now be held at the same track in one year. Thorncliffe Park ran races at Toronto Woodbine last summer and Long Branch conducted races at Toronto Dufferin. Not many years ago Windsor had three race tracks, but only one is still in business. Only 14 days of racing are allowed each year on one charter, which would not appeal to U.S. promoters who conduct race meets lasting 100 days. The owners of Canadian charters do not do too badly considering their elaborate establishments, which are used only 14 days in the year and cost fortunes to build."

Bettors Break Records As Racing Ends In U.S.A.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2 — (AP). — Staccato clicking of turnstiles and betting machines sounded today like anything except a funeral dirge for racing in the United States.

But the sport is dead, after midnight, as the result of a government request that all tracks close because of a war-time emergency.

In the banner crowds and record wagering at Tropical Park's current meeting, horsemen saw the hope of a brilliant revival once the emergency is ended.

For the third time in eight days yesterday, bettors broke Tropical's one-day parimutuel record. The 14,745 spectators who turned out for a morning program bet $777,674. Only Saturday the last-minute plungers had run the betting high to $752,200.

On Christmas Day, the inaugural of an eight-day meeting squeezed in between the announcement of the government ban and the midnight deadline, wagering reached $716,716 to surpass the old record of $629,036.

Immediate extension to professional football and baseball and other sports activities of the ban on horse and dog racing is not contemplated, but plans projected by war mobilizer James F. Byrnes for culling more manpower from 4-F ranks may eventually hit hard at the sporting world.

Congress, Mr. Byrnes said at Washington yesterday, should consider whether to draft all 4-Fs for war work or limited military service. Such a program if adopted might close down many sports, especially if most 4-Fs were put into uniform.

Mr. Byrnes explained his attitude on deferred athletes thus:

"I can not understand how athletes unfit for service can compete with the best in the land . . . in the case of those rejected for punctured ear drums, for instance, they seem to hear the signals all right. I imagine that they could hear the first sergeant all right.

"And as for those tricky knees that seem to stand up on the ball field all right, I suppose they would be able to stand up, at, say Verdun."

As for an order halting sports other than horse and dog racing, Mr. Byrnes said he has "not given consideration to it at all."

By the small margin of five shots President C. B. Westbrooke won the annual President - Vice - President match from Vice - President G. W. Green. When the boys stacked brooms at the noon hour the President was leading by 12 shots, but in the afternoon Geo. Green's boys put on the pressure but could not quite overcome the handicap. At one time during the afternoon it did look like as if the Vice-President might pull the match out of the fire but a big five by Percy De Wolfe in the closing ends of his game with C. Blewett tipped the scales in favor of the President.

On account of the condition of the ice, the evening games had to be cancelled so the score stood at 124-119 for the President.

Tonight we continue the schedule games with a double-header — C Group at 7 p.m. and A Group at 9 p.m.

Tomorrow evening at 7.30 o'clock we hold our first mid-week bonspiel. It will be conducted along the same lines as the Saturday afternoon spiel. The draw will be made promptly at 7.30 o'clock. Fee 25c. Phone your name in early and be on time.

Dartmouth Team Leads In Ski Games

LAKE PLACID, N.Y., Jan. 2 — (CP). — Freakish New Year's Day rain washed out the ski jump event, climax of the Lake Placid Club Sno Birds' 25th annual college and prep school ski games yesterday.

With only three tournament events completed when the games ended, Dartmouth University topped seven other squads with an impressive 295.9 point total. The "Night Riders" of Ottawa schools placed second, Queen's University of Kingston, Ont., fourth, St. Patrick's College of Ottawa fifth, and the Ski Gulls of Montreal schools sixth.

In college events, Harvey Clifford of Queen's was outstanding with a second in the down-hill, and third in the slalom and a fifth in the cross-country.

TORONTO, Jan. 2 — (CP). — To prevent things becoming too peaceful around the hockey fronts, it might not be amiss to pass on some ideas about the Ezinicki and other related cases as advanced by Fred Thompson of the Kitchener Record.

It's Fred's idea that the Leafs, through Maj. Conn Smythe, more or less brought it on themselves when they lost Bill Ezinicki to the Army. The Kitchener writer says that when Conn Smythe returned from overseas, "he made himself very unpopular with Army higher-ups by waxing critical of the reinforcement problem."

Then he adds: "It may be just coincidence, but since that time a number of athletes in the Toronto area have taken medicals and then found they were in the Army—much to their surprise."

Thompson hazards the guess that Wally Stanowski doesn't care any too much about taking his physical in Toronto, but would much sooner be examined in Winnipeg, where he reasons things aren't quite so tough. He was recently rejected by the R.C.A.F., might go the way of Ezinicki.

It's all very interesting, indeed.

What price Richard?

The good folk in Montreal are wondering what's behind the 25,000 somoleon offer for Maurice Richard made by Toronto's Conny Smythe. Nobody seems able to decide whether Smythe was just tormenting the Habitants' management by making them such a paltry offer for the "second Howie Morenz,' or whether it was just a good publicity stunt.

After the recent (or should we say current) Leaf-Canuck feud, you could be forgiven if you suspected it was all just publicity. After all if Leafs took Richard, they would have to find someone else to pick on them to keep the battle going.

At any rate, it creates an interesting situation, since Tommy Gorman just the other day asserted that Leafs refuse to have any French-Canadian on their team. Richard certainly isn't Russian-Irish.

Detroit Takes 2 Games Over Week-end

By BOB NIELSEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

New Year in the National Hockey League opened with Detroit's persistent Red Wings posing a new menace to the front-running Montreal Canadiens.

Twice in the past two weeks the driving Wings have stumbled in the act of overtaking the Stanley Cup champions. They stepped twice on the league doormat, Chicago, during the week-end to end a bare point back of Montreal. Last night's 4-2 defeat at the hands of Jack Adams' men climaxed a miserable holiday week-end for the Black Hawks in which they dropped three games in as many nights, losing 6-2 in Detroit Sunday and 4-0 at Toronto Saturday.

In two other tilts, Montreal ran its unbeaten streak to nine games by disposing of New York Rangers 4-1 Saturday and the New Yorkers did an about-face the following night to whip Bruins 3-2 in Boston.

Veterans Carl Liscombe and Murray Armstrong provided Detroit's winning margin in the third period last night after Chicago's dazzling wingman, Bill Mosienko, had kept his club in the game almost single-handed by scoring one goal and setting up Clint Smith on the other. Steve Wochy and Syd Howe were the other Detroit marksmen.

Wings' home victory was an effortless affair, achieved by ramming home six goals before Earl Siebert and Cully Dahlstrom replied late in the final period. Howe scored twice for the winners and the other tallies went to Liscombe, Armstrong, Red Lindsay and Mud Bruneteau.

Canadiens' triumph was featured by Ranger Joe Shack's successful shadowing of Montreal's ace Maurice (Rocket) Richard. Thus the Habitants had to turn on the pressure to overcome stubborn Blueshirt resistance. Buddy O'Connor, Elmer Lach, Frankie Eddolls and Fern Gauthier did the Montreal scoring and Ab Demarco tallied for New York.

Toronto Maple Leafs closed out a disastrous December with the season's second shutout. Ted Kennedy, vigorous Leaf centre, and Mel (Sudden Death) Hill sparked the Toronto offensive with a goal and an assist each. Nick Metz and Bob Davidson scored the others.

Rangers' first victory of the campaign over Bruins pulled the Blueshirts to within three games of the fourth-place Rossmen. Grant Warwick, Hank Goldup and Ab Demarco were the New York marksmen and Paul Gladu and Bill Cowley scored for Boston.

Art Wiebe Plans To Join Hawks

CHICAGO, Jan. 2 — (AP). — Chicago's Black Hawks, who lost three games in as many nights over the week-end, to get pushed deeper into the National Hockey League cellar, are going to get help.

Club officials said today that Art Wiebe, veteran Hawk defence player, has answered their plea to come to the Hawks' aid and will report this week. Wiebe's delay in joining the team was said to be because of a manpower shortage in Vermilion, Alta., where he operates a bakery.

Hamilton Takes Senior Tussle

By The Canadian Press

Veteran Clarence Shillington fired two goals and assisted in the other as Hamilton Majors scored a 3-1 comeback victory over Toronto Staffords in an O.H.A. senior game last night.

The Major star's performance was particularly useful as the visiting club was forced to start without four players who were stranded by an auto breakdown on the trip to Toronto.

Ritchie gave the home club a 1-0 lead with the only goal of the second period, an unassisted effort, after a scoreless initial session. The margin stood up until midway through the third, when Shillington marked up his first tally on a pass from Conick. Hex repeated two minutes later, converting a pass from Groom, before setting up Liscombe for the final score.

Week-end Stars

By The Canadian Press

Frank McCool, Toronto, who scored his second shut-out of the season as Maple Leafs blanked Chicago Black Hawks 4-0 Saturday night.

Syd Howe, Detroit, who scored twice and assisted in a third goal as Red Wings defeated Chicago 6-2 Sunday.

Earl Seibert, Chicago, who robbed Goalie Harry Lumley, Detroit, of a shutout within seven minutes of the final whistle in Sunday's game at Detroit.

360,000 Attend Bowl Games On New Year's

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—It was a happy new year for all the favorites except Georgia Tech and the East All-Stars in the annual Jan. 1 football Bowl deluge played before more than 360,000 fans at 10 different sites. Bowl games ranged from Army versions in Marseille, France, and Italy to a customary 91,000 turnout in Pasadena.

Southern California stretched its Rose Bowl victory string to eight by handing Tennessee a 25-0 setback, their first of the season, and completing an unbeaten, though twice tied, campaign. Jim Hardy threw two scoring forwards and sneaked over another on the hidden-ball play.

Oklahoma Aggies, paced by All-America Bob Fenimore, who scored twice, smothered Texas Christian 34-0 before 37,500 at Dallas' Cotton Bowl, but Duke had to come hard in the closing minutes before catching Alabama, 29-26, for a Sugar-Bowl triumph that thrilled 72,000 customers.

Georgia Tech ran into trouble in its Orange Bowl date with Tulsa as the golden hurricane startled 30,000 fans by striking for a two-touchdown lead in the first period and never letting up before earning a 26-12 victory.

The Western All-Stars, sparked by the chucking of U.C.L.A.'s Bob Waterfield, shoved over two last-quarter scores to shade the East, 13-7, in San Francisco's Shrine charity game that drew 60,000 persons.

Southwestern of Texas set a scoring record in the Sun Bowl, crushing an out-matched University of Mexico squad, 35-0.

The 5th Army gave a 20-0 shellacking to the 12th Air Force in the Italian Spaghetti Bowl before 25,000 service personnel.

The soldiers in France subbed a Riviera Bowl for last year's Arab Bowl classic in Africa and 16,000 turned out at Marseille to watch the Railway Shop Battalion unit smother the Army All-Stars, 37-0.

Leading Teams Lose Matches

GLASGOW, Jan. 2—(CP)—The top teams in the Scottish Southern League got off to a bad start in the New Year's Day football program today, with Rangers, Hibernians and Motherwell all losing their matches.

The big attraction of New Year's Day Scottish football—no games were played in England or Wales—was the Glasgow clash of Rangers and Celtic in which Celtic won by the only goal of the game before the league's record crowd of 70,000. However, the match did not reach a high standard and miskicks were frequent.

Hibernians lost 3-0 to Hearts and Motherwell lost 1-0 to Hamilton Academicals.

Today's play made no change in the standings, with Rangers first, Hibernians second and Motherwell third.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 — (AP). — If you've been wondering what the New Year will bring in sports, you can start with the fact that a high school boy will fight a main bout in Madison Square Garden Friday night . . . that's not taking anything away from Billy Arnold, the young Philadelphian who'll tussle 10 rounds or less with the venerable Fritzie Zivic . . . in fact, some might think it's a great novelty to find a fighter sufficiently interested in education to stay in high school . . . Billy has an impressive knockout record and he's probably as good a welterweight as there is around these days.

He may be a great fighter some day, but now he's still a high school kid fighting in the ring that has been used by the greatest boxers of the last 20 years.

Don't Kid the Kids

The contrast between these famous older fighters and the present crop may be startling, but Arnold isn't the only kid of his age who'll get the top billing this year . . . many of the boys who played in yesterday's football bowl games are 'teen-agers just out of high school . . . they're playing basketball and hockey in the Garden and soon will be running in the track meets . . . next spring more of them will be stepping from high school into big league baseball.

Soldier Returns Wife Murdered

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2 — (AP) — Two hours after Cpl. Harry E. Hertel, 25, was reunited with his wife late last night after 2½ years overseas, she was dead, a bullet through her heart, and at her side was the body of a man who neighbors said had been a frequent visitor to her apartment, a revolver clutched in his hand.

The tragedy was enacted shortly after midnight in the little apartment Mrs. Betty Hertel, 20, occupied during her husband's absence. The dead man was identified by police as Charles Serwalt, 40.

Hertel told police he and his wife had just entered the bedroom when Serwalt burst into the apartment, revolver in hand. Hertel ran out of the apartment and met two friends. They dashed to the apartment where they found Mrs. Hertel slumped near the bedroom door, apparently shot down as she tried to escape, and Serwalt in a pool of blood on the floor.

Still Optimistic

LONDON, Jan. 2 — (CP) — Nazi leaders, including long-silent Reichs-Marshal Hermann Goering, issued New Year's proclamations through the DNB agency Saturday, promising war-weary Germans that victory is still around the corner.

Goering's proclamation, which was not delivered in person, asserted, "it is our duty and our task in the coming year to carry war again into the enemy's country."

He said the way will be hard but promised the Germans, "one thing is also certain—that we will achieve victory and with it peace under the leadership of Adolf Hitler."

Follow the example of famous cooks the world over — bring out flavour with savoury mustard sauce. Here's a recipe with a tongue-tingling nip that'll turn your made-over meal into a four-star hit.

The basis of this tantalizing sauce is Libby's Prepared Mustard. Grand for cooking because it nips but never bites. Put Libby's Prepared Mustard on your shopping list to-day.

This MUSTARD SAUCE is Good With Meat Loaf:
1 tablespoon minced onion
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
2 tablespoons Libby's Prepared Mustard
1 cup brown gravy

Saute onions in butter. Add vinegar and simmer for five minutes. Add mustard and gravy; simmer a few minutes and strain. Serve hot. Makes 1¼ cups sauce.

Canada Becomes Second Largest World Exporter

OTTAWA, Jan. 2 — (CP). — Trade Minister MacKinnon said to-day in a review of Canadian activity in 1944 that it is probable exports of domestic merchandise for the year came near "the unprecedented value of $3,500,000,000."

To this total should be added, as the product of Canadian labor, exports of new or "non-monetary" gold amounting to more than $100,000,000, the minister said.

"Thus Canada has been exporting its products in 1944 at the unparalleled rate of approximately $12,000,000 per working day — a figure which indicates that we are the second largest exporting country in the world, second only to the United States," he continued.

"It must be realised, of course, that we cannot take full credit for this achievement since Great Britain during the war has suffered her exports to decline to a low level."

Canada entered 1945 with an extraordinarily high level of productivity and of cash income in all her leading industries. This was not merely a paper prosperity, since the purchasing power of the Canadian dollar had been well maintained throughout the war, particularly since the establishment of price ceilings in 1941.

The generally high level of productive and distributive activity throughout the Dominion in 1944 was reflected in increasing retail sales, as well as in the increasing ordinary revenues of the Dominion, which for the first six months of the fiscal year 1944-45 amounted to $1,365,000,000, or an increase of $90,000,000 over the same period in 1943.

National Income Up.

The national income in the first nine months of 1944 was estimated at $6,828,000,000, an increase of 6.3 per cent over the corresponding period of 1943, and more than double the amount in the same period of 1939.

"From the national point of view 1945 should be a year of high production," said Mr. MacKinnon.

"As for the individuals whose fortunes may be affected by the transition from war to peace, I may observe that Government policies in respect of demobilization and rehabilitation, of unemployment insurance, of housing, of family allowances and other social security measures, will go far to assist Canadians in adapting themselves to the changes inherent in the re-establishment of peace throughout the world.

"Canada has made many claims upon its citizens during the war, and will be prepared to honor their reasonable counter-claims in the future."

The rate of expansion in Canadian production in 1944 had been moderate compared with that in previous wartime years, but it had been more widely distributed over the whole of the Canadian economy, especially in the agricultural industry.

"During the earlier years of the war, Canada was working up to a record level of industrial production, and we thought a year ago that the peak figure had been reached in 1943. Nevertheless, we have again made further advances in 1944," the Trade Minister said.

In the first 10 months of 1944 exports of Canadian products valued at $2,861,000,000 exceeded by $482,000,000 the figure for the same period in 1943, largely as a result of increased exports of food.

While it was too early to dogmatize regarding the post-war export trade and its distribution by countries and commodities, older customers in countries formerly occupied by the Axis and now liberated were beginning to appear in trade statistics.

After four years, France had reappeared as a customer in September and October trade statistics, and it was expected Belgium and the Netherlands soon would be buying in Canada again.

"By and large, there will be in the immediate post-war period an urgent demand from all over the world for a great variety of essential goods which Canada can supply," said Mr. MacKinnon.

"The more remote outlook is a different matter, but I have complete confidence in the commercial and industrial future of a nation which, amid storms of war, involving the withdrawal of a large part of the labor force from productive employment, has nevertheless put forth the creative energy which Canada has abundantly demonstrated throughout those stirring years."

On Home Front.

Mr. MacKinnon reviewed home front activities thus:

Seven hundred thousand Canadian farmers attained a high level of production in 1944, in spite of depletion of labor forces. They obtained higher cash incomes than in any other period, enabling them to pay off in large measure the mortgage indebtedness and other obligations contracted during the depression.

Exports of agricultural and vegetable products and of animals and animal products had an aggregate value of $919,000,000 in the first 10 months of 1944, compared with $588,000,000 in the same period of 1943.

In the forests, logging activity was at a higher level in 1944, with an increase of 17 per cent in the employment afforded. Pulp production in 1944 was likely to be near that of 1943, when it was 5,273,000 tons.

Newsprint production as likely to be greater than in 1943 and probably would approximate 3,000,000 tons. Exports of wood, wood products, and paper in the first ten months of 1944, valued at $363,000,000, were about $47,000,000 greater than in the same period of 1943.

Mines were affected in 1944 by the scarcity of labor there being a decline of 2 per cent in the number of miners employed in reporting mines in the first nine months.

Fisheries Advance

Fisheries increased the value of their products from $40,000,000 in 1939 to $75,000,000 in 1942 and an estimated $93,000,000 in 1943. Increases in sea catches had been reported for 1944.

The manufacturing industries as a whole gave more employment in 1944 than in 1943. In 1944 the salaries and wages paid employees of manufacturing industries appeared to have been at the rate of nearly $40,000,000 a week compared with about $14,200,000 a week in 1939.

"In recent months the prospects for an early victory have brought about some decline in the numbers of employees in the groups of industries which had shown most rapid expansion during the war, such as the iron and steel group, the non-ferrous metal group and the chemical group.

"This decline has been accompanied by an approximately equivalent expansion in the non-war industries, particularly in those concerned with food products. The trend of the time is seen in the removal of restrictions on the use of certain metals and other materials in production for civilian consumption."

Mr. MacKinnon reviewed the work of railways and other transportation services. He said their achievements had been remarkable and they had made a substantial contribution to winning the war.

WOMAN MAYOR—Mayor-elect Mary C. Dondero at her home in Portsmouth, N.H. Mrs. Dondero lost the election in the original count held December 12 but was later declared the winner in a recount, over County Commissioner Ira A. Brown (R.) by a margin of seven votes, 2,117 to 2,110.

30 Quislings Die Within Six Weeks

LONDON, Jan. 2 (CP)—An official Norwegian source said today that 30 Quislings had been assassinated in Norway in the past six weeks.

He said patriots in the country had declared "an open season" on traitors and "hardly a day passes without some Quisling creature who has worked for the Germans being shot or liquidated."

The Norwegian government charged today that the Germans were staging commando raids against defenceless villages which they had already evacuated along the coasts of northern Norway.

"Not content with evacuating the greater part of the population of north Norway and destroying most of their homes and means of existence," a government spokesman said, "the Germans are sending back raiding parties to finish off the work."

...ngs Names ... Councillors

HASTINGS, Jan. 2 — (ENS) — With 230 votes, Arthur Orr headed the polls in the election of four councillors at Hastings Monday. The three other men elected to the council were Ross Burnham, with 195 votes, Francis Kennedy, 134 votes, and Iden Bonds, Sr., who received 130 votes.

Jack Brinklow, also a contestant for a seat on the council, was edged out by one vote, when he received 129 votes. A recount showed that Mr. Bonds' one-vote lead was true.

Stanley Stevenson, a member of the Hastings village Council for the past eight years, was elected reeve previously, by acclamation. He succeeded Reeve Kelley, who retired after seven years in that office.

The defeated candidates for the council were Mr. Brinklow, Walter Peck, with 91 votes, and Gideon Walker, who polled 18 votes.

Because of bad weather and poor travelling conditions, only an average vote was polled.

Cpl. Arthur Jameison Returns To Canada

OMEMEE, Jan. 2—(ENS)—Cpl. Arthur J. Jameison, RCAF, of Omemee, returned to his home this week after serving more than three years overseas. Cpl. Jameison is the son of Mrs. Carrie Jameison and the late Ned Jameison of Omemee.

The airman enlisted at Hamilton in August, 1940, and after training at Trenton and Summerside, P.E.I., was sent overseas in the summer of 1941 with the rank of Leading Aircraftman. After some months of training in England he was promoted to Corporal and was attached to 408 Squadron as a service mechanic. Having been granted a month's leave in Canada, he reached his home here this week.

Cpl. Jameison was well known in sport circles in this district, having played with the Omemee softball club and Omemee hockey club in the Peterborough league.

Chinese Troops Take Villages

CHUNGKING, Jan. 2 — (AP) — Chinese rtoops driving from the north-east on Wanting, where the Burma Road intersects the Chinese border, have captured a number of villages and inflicted "heavy casualties" on the enemy, the High Command announced to-day.

The attacks were launched last Tuesday and the same evening the Chinese silenced Japanese guns which had been shelling Chinese positions in the vicinity of Man-peng, 12 miles north-east of Wanting.

(The New Delhi radio, heard in London, said other Chinese forces stabbing west from Bhamo through Northern Burma had crossed into China at one point.)

Meanwhile, dispatches were reported that constant Allied air blows have crippled the Japanese main supply line up the Yangtze River into Central China.

New Citizens Are Welcomed

Peterborough's newest citizens the 4,348 residents of North Monaghan who on New Year's became part of this city, were given a welcome in a half hour radio program over CHEX on Monday afternoon. Led off by Mayor James Hamilton the program was one of welcome in which plans for the future were outlined and the difficulties which must be overcome when such a large amount of territory is annexed.

The annexation was the second largest in history of Peterborough, the largest being at the time the village of Ashburnham joined with the town of Peterborough to become a city.

The speakers on the program were R. H. Parsons, city engineer, who intimated the mileage of the streets in Peterborough had been increased by one-third; Dr. R. A. Kelly, M.O.H., outlined health and sanitation services. Chief Constable John Thompson said the annexation would make for easier handling of police problems. Fire Chief George Gimblett promised fire protection and told of the equipment which was available to fight fires in the annexed area. Garfield Torrance, manager of the garbage collection system, promised the best of service commencing with this week.

Gordon S. Matthews, chairman of the Utilities Commission and R. L. Dobbin, the general manager, outlined the plans for the extending the hydro and water services in the area. G. Wilson Craw, chairman of the Board of Education, and K. S. Wightman, inspector of Public Schools, spoke on educational problems.

The schools in the annexed area have been operated by the Board of Education since September 1 and already medical and dental survey have been completed Mr. Wightman announced. Andy Rutter acted as master of ceremonies.

Y's Men's Club Gives $100 For Memberships

An annual custom for a number of years now, the Y's Men's Club of Peterborough has again made a $100 grant to the Y.M.C.A. for the purpose of giving memberships in the "Y" to youngsters in the city who are unable to buy them on their own.

This year, 30 boys have already been enrolled, through the good work of the Y's Men's Club, in providing the grant. The boys are selected from lists compiled by the Children's Aid Society and Shelter, schools and churches.

Woman Serving For First On School Board

LINDSAY, Jan. 2—A former member of the council, H. H. McFadden finished first in the race for the post of deputy reeve of Lindsay, Monday, defeating the contesting candidate, L. T. Braunton by 814 to 595 votes. Mayor Charles Lamb and Reeve R. Butler were both returned previously by acclamation.

Of the eight contestants for the five council seats open for election, George Oke, a newcomer, polled the highest vote, 905 votes, followed by Miss Ada Greaves, with 824 votes. The three other elected councillors were Charles Ferguson, 790, Hilton Manly, 751, and John L. Baker, 750. Stan Pitts and Bert Hick were automatically returned for a second term.

For the Board of Education, Mrs. Gladys Laidlee defeated her opponent, William Stevens, by a vote of 358 to 203.

Defeated in their attempts for seats on the council, were Wilbor Heaslop, 587, who sat on last year's council, Clayton Grills, 419, a newcomer, and Harry Pearce, 341, also a first attempt.

Of the councillors elected, Mr. Oke and Mr. Manley are newcomers, Mr. Ferguson was re-elected, Miss Greaves was the first woman to sit on the council when she was elected two years ago, and Mr. Baker is a former deputy reeve.

Mrs. Laidlee made local history also, becoming the first woman in Lindsay's history to have a seat on the School Board.

RCAF Continues Support Of Air Cadets

OTTAWA, Jan. 2 (CP)—R.C.A.F. Headquarters said last night that continued support and assistance will be given to the Air Cadet movement in Canada.

Headquarters said it wished to dissipate reports that the suspension of the recruiting of aircrew had led to withdrawal of R.C.A.F. support for Air Cadets.

Following is the text of the R.C.A.F. statement on Air Cadets: "The Royal Canadian Air Force will continue to support and assist the Air Cadet movement in every possible way, it was emphasized in a statement issued from Air Force Headquarters to-day. The statement was intended to dissipate reports which have gained circulation in some quarters that the suspension of recruiting for air crew had led to withdrawal of R.C.A.F. support for Air Cadets.

"The Air Cadet League and the civilian bodies working with the League have done excellent work in the development of the Air Cadet movement and the R.C.A.F. has no intention of withdrawing its support.

"The experimental program of last summer under which several thousand Air Cadets were attached to R.C.A.F. stations for a period of training and for familiarization flights was an unqualified success. A comprehensive post-war training program for Air Cadets is also under consideration at the moment. There are presently a total of 31,000 Air Cadets in 379 squadrons and enrolments are rapidly increasing.

"The interest and assistance of civilian organizations in this youth movement is noteworthy and gratifying."

Three Baby Boys Born On New Year's

Three babies were born to Peterborough parents on New Year's Day, and it may come as a cheering sign to girls of the young generation, to know that they were all boys.

Mrs. Fred Buller, 178 Lansdowne street, has the honor of giving birth to the first hospital baby of 1945. Her baby was born at 7:40 Monday morning in St. Joseph's Hospital. The other two boys were born at night in Nicholls Hospital. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Cowling, 302 Park street, at 6:20 p.m.; and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Lester, 427 Park Hill Road, at 8:10 p.m.

It is possible that other babies may have been born at home and not yet reported.

ON THE ROAD TO MANDALAY—American medium tanks manned by Chinese move into Berma to support the current Allied drive. British, American and Chinese units have been making steady gains in Burma and an arc is gradually drawing about Mandalay. Some military observers believe the Japs intend to pull out of Burma altogether... presumably before they are thrown out.

Miss M. Archer, Member Pioneer Peterborough Family Passes Away

The death of Miss Mary Archer, who, after a long and painful illness passed away at Nicholls Hospital early Sunday morning, December 31, has removed one of Peterborough's most warm hearted and outstanding personalities.

Miss Archer was a daughter of the late Francis Archer and his wife, Margaret Ann Elizabeth Rubidge, and a sister of the late John Archer of Trinity College, Oxford, who was drowned while boating on the Otonabee River.

With the exception of some years at school in England her whole life was passed in this City where she was born, and in the family residence at 300 Rubidge street, where for many years she has had the enjoyment of the constant companionship of her devoted friend, Miss Helen Hugel.

Miss Archer saw Peterborough grow from the modest dimensions of a small town to the proportions of a prosperous industrial City and she always was deeply interested in anything that made for its social and moral welfare. For many years she was a member of the Board of Anson House, of which she was elected an Honorary President some years ago. She was an active member of the Otonabee Chapter of the I.O.D.E. and the Peterborough Health Association, and was one of the founders of Peterborough's Women's Canadian Club and an officer for some years.

A member of the Church of England, Miss Archer was always greatly interested in anything that related to St. John's Church and particularly so from the fact that her great-grandfather, Captain Charles Rubidge was one of its founders. Naturally also it was a matter of some pride with her to recall that he was one of the earliest residents of the County of Peterborough, having registered as a settler in 1819, preceding by some six or seven years the arrival of a large body of settlers from Ireland, brought into the County by the Honourable Peter Robinson. As one of Mr. Robinson's chief assistants, Captain Rubidge played an important part in the establishment of the new settlers.

Miss Archer had many distant relatives living in various parts of Canada and the United States. The nearest of her relatives, and the one with whom she was most intimately associated, is Mrs. Margaret Lambe, of Peterborough.

Miss Archer is also survived by Mrs. David Archer, an Aunt, of Fairford House, Gloucestershire, England, Major Alderson Archer, of Bridge House, Castle Eaton, Swindon, Wilts, England, and Miss Violet Alderson, living in the Isle of Jersey.

The funeral service was held at St. John's Church this Tuesday afternoon, being conducted by the Rector, Canon W. P. Robertson, and burial was in the Rubidge family plot in Little Lake Cemetery.

Miss Archer will be sincerely mourned by a large circle of friends and will be long remembered for the sterling straight forwardness of her character and the sincerity of her friendship.

Senior Hi-Y Club Has Sleigh Ride

An old fashioned sleighing party was held Monday evening by members of the Senior Hi-Y Club, when 20 couples enjoyed a brisk trip through snowy, blustery weather out past the Peterborough Golf Club, and a return to a cheery fire, refreshments and dancing, at the Y.M.C.A.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Duncan were the chaperones, and back at the "Y" Jack Matthews was in charge of the refreshments, and Owen Cauley looked after the recorded music for dancing. Ping-pong, and a program of other sports was also enjoyed.

Almost 12 Million

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—(AP)—The United States' armed forces have increased to 11,900,000 since 1940. Of that number 8,100,000 were in the army, the remainer in the navy, marines and coast guard. The figures, compiled as of Dec. 1, were presented recently to a senate committee and given yesterday in a report of War Mobilization Director Byrnes.

War—4 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

Jan. 2, 1941—Germans concentrated heavy night attack on Cardiff as R.A.F. hit Bremen, Emden and Amsterdam. German planes arrived in Italy to aid Fascist air force in Mediterranean. Bombs dropped over County Wexford and magnetic mines laid at Enniskerry, 15 miles south of Dublin.

Twice Widowed Since War Began

LONDON, Jan. 2—(CP)—A 25-year-old woman twice widowed in this war told 2,000 teen-age students today they must "learn to hate" and the boys and girls cheered her.

"Hate is not an emotion that we like," said Dr. Barbara Simonds, addressing a London conference on education in world citizenship. "It comes with particular difficulty to the young. But it is the thing which is necessary to the present. Without hate I do not think we will be able to bring this war to a final, irrevocable end and build the world for which we are fighting."

The young woman, whose first husband was shot down over France in 1943 and whose second was killed at Arnhem in Holland, urged the students to "examine your history" to see why wars occurred.

"In finding these answers you will discover why before the war, they burned oranges in California and threw herring back into the sea while children were deformed by rickets." She did not expand this statement.

She concluded with words her second husband had written his three-year-old stepson: "Never make courage and loyalty an excuse for war. Make peace an opportunity for courage and loyalty."

Fewer Drunks

TORONTO, Jan. 2 (CP)—It may have been the liquor shortage but anyway, Toronto police reported fewer drunks this New Year's than in many years. Forty-three persons were arrested on drunk charges, most of them in the downtown area.

Lord Mayor Cables Thanks For Donation Of 2,000 Pounds Made To Aid War Victims

From the Lord Mayor of London, Mayor James Hamilton has received a cable thanking the citizens of Peterborough and district for their support of the British War Victims Fund when £2,000 was sent for Christmas. The Lord Mayor in expressing his thanks, says the money was used to bring relief to children, and he pays special tribute to the work of F. G. Mann, the secretary-manager of the Peterborough Fund. The cable read:

"Very sincere thanks for wonderful gift of two thousand pounds for relief of bombing distress among children. This is a great achievement by your citizens. Do tell them how much we appreciate their help. Our special gratitude is due to Mr. Mann he has worked unceasingly for success of fund."

Madoc Fighter Scores In Wild Battle

LONDON, Jan. 2.—(CP Cable.)—Canadian fighter squadrons, shooting down 35 German planes on the first day of the New Year as the enemy carried out "suicidal" attacks on Allied airfields in Belgium and the Netherlands, had their "biggest score ever," the R.C.A.F. announced to-day.

A German aircraft destroyed by a Canadian in an R.A.F. Tempest squadron raised to 36 the total Canadian contribution to the 2nd Tactical Air Force's Monday record of 34 confirmed kills.

Yesterday's wild air battles over the fordward airfields on the continent marked the culmination of one of the most successful periods for the R.C.A.F. fighters, fighter-bombers and night fighters, which, since Dec. 23, have shot down a grand total of 75 enemy planes while helping stem the German counter-offensive in the Ardennes area.

While these air combats were more spectacular, the Canadian squadrons carried out another task just as vital — wiping out ground transport. Since Dec. 23 they have destroyed or damaged at least 227 mechanical transport, 90 locomotives, 111 railway cars and six armored vehicles.

R.C.A.F. headquarters here has not yet received the full list of Canadian fliers who scored kills Monday, but here are available names:

Two Enemy Planes Destroyed

PO. Steve Butte, Michel, B.C.
PO. Mac Reeves, Madoc, Ont.
FO. A. H. Fraser, Westmount, Que.
Flt. Lt. J. W. Garland, Richmond, Ont.

One Destroyed

Flt. Sgt. Keith Lindsay, Edmonton (also one probable).
FO. H. Laurence, Edson, Alta.

Reeves and his namesake, Flt. Lt. Dick Reeves of (1507 Mount Pleasant Rd.), Toronto, who is no relation, plunged into a flock of enemy planes while returning from patrol. Dick Reeves had to land immediately because of a faulty motor but Mac, his guns belching, closed on one plane which caught fire and crashed. He attacked the second victim from underneath and the pilot baled out.

1944 Figures Show Drop In Death Rate

Although there were 77 more births in 1944 than there were in 1943, the remainder of the vital statistics showed a decrease in the marriage and death columns.

For 1944 there were 1,089 births, 320 marriages and 429 deaths; as against 1,012 births, 343 marriages and 456 deaths in 1943.

The same trend with 15 more births, 6 fewer marriages and 35 fewer deaths were evidenced in the figures for December, 1943 and 1944. The statistics on record for this period at the City Hall are: December, 1944: 86 births, 18 marriages and 23 deaths; for December, 1943, 71 births, 24 marriages and 58 deaths.

Obituary

AUBREY MITCHELL.

The funeral was held to-day from the Nisbett Funeral Home of Aubrey Mitchell, 356 Stewart street, who passed away Saturday afternoon in Nicholls Hospital, after being in poor health for about two months. He was in his 76th year. Burial took place in Lakefield cemetery and Major Wood, of the Salvation Army, conducted the service.

A resident of this city for more than 12 years, Mr. Mitchell was born in Taunton, England, the son of the late John Alfred Mitchell son of the late John Alfred Mitchell and Elizabeth Price. At an early age he came to Canada, but before coming to Peterborough, he lived for some years in Hastings and Lakefield.

Whole in Peterborough, Mr. Mitchell was a devout member of the Salvation Army. He was a baker by trade, and his wife, formerly Mabel Doughty, predeceased him 21 years ago.

Mr. Mitchell leaves to mourn his loss two brothers, Edward of Toronto, and Herbert of Collingwood.

Crowds Jam Theatres

Toronto's theatres did a booming business New Year's Eve, if line-ups often stretching two blocks in length are to be taken as an indication. At the downtown first-run movie houses, where special previews were being offered, queues had been formed as early as ten o'clock, although the doors did not open until five minutes past twelve o'clock.

SERVING IN HOLLAND—Cpl. Louis Libman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Libman of Peterborough, is serving with an Echelon Servicing Corps, RCAF, in Holland. He left High School to join the air force in 1940, and has been overseas two years.

Ted Cranfield Top Salesman

Ranging between eight and 14 years of age, 70 young members of the Y.M.C.A. sold 500 packages of Christmas cards during the festive season, with the proceeds, $100, going to the World Service of the Y.M.C.A.

Ted Cranfield, who sold 42 packages, took top honors in the sale, and was presented with a model airplane kit by Hartley Fowler, secretary of the World Service. Bob Able won the second honors for selling 27 packages, and eight-year-old Jim Mills, was the third top salesman, with 25 packages sold.

The proceeds have been turned over to the World Service, a great organization that is carrying on the work of the "Y" throughout the world.

Police Report Quiet Holiday

From a police viewpoint, the New Year celebration in Peterborough was a quiet affair.

The advent of Monaghan Township with its large additional territory and over 4,000 more citizens into the city, caused not a ripple so far as the police department was concerned. As a matter of fact, although the annexation had been in force 36 hours up to noon today, not a call or a complaint had come in from the new city area.

Outside of a few traffic accidents, the holiday week-end passed quietly, police report. There was only one arrest, as the result of a domestic difference, and the accused was allowed out to report back on Wednesday.

The result was that 1945 opened without a session of the police court. There was not a single case on the docket.

On New Year's Eve police patrolled all the night spots. Chief Constable John Thompson was on the job himself, visiting all the dance halls and sizing up conditions. There was no trouble reported, although it was a bit noisy in some of the restaurants early Monday morning.

Watch-Night Services Popular At Churches

Watchnight services at many of Peterborough's churches New Year's Eve were generally attended by more people this year than in former years. Many servicemen and women took advantage of this beautiful service to watch the old year die, and the arrival of a new year.

Rev. Dr. James Semple said that attendance at the Watchnight service held at George Street United "was very satisfactory," and Rev. W. A. Filer reported excellent attendance at All Saints' Anglican church.

Watchnight services were held at Trinity United church, Park Street Baptist church, George Street United church, All Saints' Anglican church, the Salvation Army, Elim Tabernacle, the Full Gospel Pentecostal church, Nazarene Gospel Service. At other churches throughout the city, large attendances were noted Sunday evening, when special music was presented, and sermons were based on appropriate themes.

Moscow Celebrates

MOSCOW, Jan. 2 (AP)—Moscow danced and sang the New Year in with the greatest demonstration of gaiety since the war began. The leading hotels opened their long-closed special ballrooms and kept dance bands playing until 3:30 a.m. Vodka, sweets and other luxury articles were at the lowest prices of the wartime period.

Bailieboro Club Gives $50 To Bomb Victims

With below zero weather and heaps of snow abounding, it would seem rather incongruous to talk about baseball, but at that it might not be out of place, for it reminds all of brighter and more congenial days for many folk, who would prefer them in preference to those which enforce many restrictions in the outdoor life as it prevails in mid winter.

The Bailieboro Baseball Club has given much pleasure in the past to its patrons, its friends and members, and on occasions in the past, the writer recalls that they have spread this pleasure during the war years to a much wider field, by giving assistance to people in distress through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, besides helping other similar war assists in a financial way.

This has now been further enlarged on by them, through another contribution of $50 to assist the bomb victims in Britain, which is recorded in this day's list of receipts, and one can hardly help making two observations, which might seem quite appropos to the occasion.

The first of these is that any sports club that has such a balance of funds on hand after the season has closed for quite a period of time, must have been quite a successful outfit. The next is, that having the means at their disposal through this, of spreading gladness to people in trouble far away, they rise to the occasion and act in a true spirit of sportsmanship by so doing. May such sports as this flourish and meet with every success.

Bell Office Box Totals $145

When a silent appeal such as a penny box might be considered to be, is backed by a personality who is interested to the point of giving a fair proportion of its contents at each collection time, the results that follow must naturally assume a bit above the average proportions.

This happens to be the case with the box located at the Bell Telephone Co. Ltd. office on Hunter street where the cashier is just as equally pleased as the secretary of the fund, when the box yields a fair sized amount at the time of its collection.

Another $3.50 is credited to it today, to give a total of $145.06 for this one box since first placed in operation, which gives it a prominent place in the records of achievement by this type of fund activity.

Another nice list of personal gifts is now in the making, which will appear in a few days, for which additions would be most welcome, offering a nice way of starting a New Year. The item today listed under change, came as a result of a customer of the Examiner giving direction to use the change from the payment of an account by mail in this manner.

Two Cars Collide On Hunter St. Bridge

The first automobile accident to be investigated by the city police in 1945 involved a collision on the Hunter street bridge early Monday morning.

Samuel G. Marche, 232 Hunter street west, was travelling west across the bridge ... 409 Wolfe street, was driving his car east.

The two vehicles met in collision and the Murduff car was badly damaged along the side as a result of the impact.

Cars driven by James K. Brown, 47 Benson avenue, and H. Dulmage, Cherry Valley were damaged in a traffic accident at Hunter and Aylmer streets. Brown was driving south on Aylmer street and Dulmage west on Hunter street.

BEAUTIFUL COSTUME JEWELRY—Finer workmanship, new beauty and elegance is apparent in costume jewelry designed by America's leading designers in this accessory field. For one thing, the fine pieces are invariably smaller and much more restrained than the big, flamboyant pieces so popular a few seasons back. Fantasy and sentiment play their part in designs of the type created by clever Clifford Furst of Castlecliff. He combines two sentimental motifs for this bowheart brooch which is of sterling plate with gold finish. The heart is decorated with brilliants. Bowknot earrings in the gold-plated sterling make up the dainty set.

Courageous Girls Represent Canada In Danger Areas

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

LONDON, Jan. 2 —(CP)— For several hundred Canadian women in battledress 1944 will be remembered as a year of fulfilment, the goal towards which they had worked since they put away civilian life, and moulded themselves into the military routine of living.

As each girl, nurse, Cwac, Wid, Wren, solemnly took the oath that made her a member of His Majesty's forces, tucked away at the back of her mind, behind the desire to do a job for Canada, was the hope that that job would mean even more than serving at home.

As she listened to her brothers, father, husband, friends, straining towards the second front, she too wanted to be in at the big show. She knew there would be no place for her in beachhead days. But as Allied armies swept across Europe she wanted to be behind them, doing her job.

For Canadian nurses, Cwacs, members of the Canadian Red Cross Corps, 1944 meant just that.

Thirteen days after D-Day, four attractive girls in air force blue battledress waded ashore from landing craft as part of an R.C.A.F. Mobile Field Hospital.

As guns barked around them day and night the four feminine flying officers, Molly Mulholland of Georgetown, Ont., T. C. 'Pit' Pitkethly, now Mrs. Lindsey, Edna Millman of Manitoulin Island, Ont., Vera Soper, of Owen Sound, Ont., cared for air force wounded.

First Army Hospital

By mid-July the first Canadian hospital had been set up in tents in a Normandy apple orchard and the tragic stream of wounded was flowing into its wards.

Others followed closely and now their number, which includes several hundred nurses, is a military secret.

Sometimes when the order came for another move, up closer to the swiftly moving front line, they began packing their tents and equipment while they still had patients.

Hardly were they out of their transports, tired and dust covered from a long trek over convoy-choked roads than ambulances were bringing the first wounded to their tents, as they were being set up.

The policy of the Canadian Medical Corps, is to bring hospitals as far forward as operations permit. Casualty Clearing Stations, where nurses also serve, are usually three or four miles behind the front where often shells from Canadian artillery behind them whizz overhead.

Nurses are not the only Canadian women serving in France, Belgium and Holland. With each Canadian General Hospital goes several girls of the Canadian Red Cross to act as welfare officers, to write letters for the men, provide them with reading material and cigarettes, and to take hot tea round the wards.

Cwacs came overseas from England when the first Canadian military administration headquarters arrived in the middle of August with Capt. Pearl Hatton of Windsor as senior officer.

Lived Under Canvas

When rear headquarters arrived more Cwacs, mostly clerks as were the first unit, came to work in the records branch and to move up behind the army. Until near the end of October they lived, like the nurses, under canvas, although they were kept far from the sound of guns.

The Cwacs who see the most of the war are those in the Canadian Army show units, and for them its a tough campaign. Often they sing their songs and perform their skits right behind the front, sleeping wherever there is accommodation, eating field rations and moving overnight to give a new show next day.

Back in England, the thousands of nurses, Cwacs, Wids and Wrens, to whom only V1 and V2 bring the war close, carry on their jobs.

The Cwacs under Lt.-Col. Alice Sorby of Winnipeg, increased their numbers by several hundred during 1944. The girls who arrived in the United Kingdom in 1942 and 1943 are veterans now who have slipped quietly into the British way of life.

Most of them are drivers, clerks, cooks and telephonists concentrated around London. Other units, however, are on the staff of a large Canadian camp, where one of their duties is to provide a laundry for Canadians.

The R.C.A.F. Women's Division under Wing Officer Kathleen Walker of Montreal and Ottawa, became more than ever in 1944 an integral part of Canadian fighter and bomber formations in Britain.

Some serve at headquarters in London but the greater number live on airfields where they have filled any post, such as intelligence officer, messing officer, operations room staff, driver, clerk, cook or wireless operator.

Canadian Wrens are serving their country at 50 different bases in Canada, the United States, Newfoundland and Great Britain, and a few have been lent to the Royal Navy. Trained in 30 trade categories the girls are writers, typists, stenographers, librarians, messengers, postal clerks as well as technical workers.

Miss Helen Beatty, a graduate of Western Hospital, Toronto, spent the holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Beatty, 261 Perry street.

Miss Jean Ferguson has returned to her home in Strathroy after spending the Christmas holidays with Miss Lenore Fleetwood, Waterford street and Miss Helen Hall, Frederick avenue.

Le Gros-Liddell Vows Solemnized

Canon W. P. Robertson officiated at the pretty wedding in St. John's Anglican Church, Saturday afternoon, when Ruth Edna May Liddell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Liddell, 603 Armour Road, became the bride of Albert Le Gros, son of Mrs. Hilda Le Gros, 354 Stewart street. The church was banked with ferns for the occasion and Fred G. Mann was at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white taffeta, with full skirt and Sweetheart neckline, and long Bishop sleeves, coming to a point over either wrist. Her veil of net fell from a Queen Anne halo and was caught with pearls, and she carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. H. Bromley, as matron of honor, in pink taffeta, with full skirt. Her headdress was a halo of pink flowers and pink net, and she carried a bouquet of Talisman roses. Melville Le Gros, of Toronto, was his brother's best man, and the ushers were Keith Kidd and Lieut. Robert Tracy.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Hooper's Palm Rooms, where the bride's mother received the guests in a navy blue ensemble, with grey hat, and a corsage of Talisman roses. The groom's mother, also receiving, wore Teal blue, with black hat, and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Later, for a wedding trip to Toronto, the bride donned a Hunter's green ensemble, with black accessories. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Le Gros will live on Armour Road.

Fort William Girl Becomes Bride

A wedding of interest took place recently in Fundamental Baptist Church, Fort William, when Dorothy Joy Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Collins of Fort William, became the bride of Neville K. Sprinks, of Moose Jaw, Sask., second son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Sprinks, of Moose Jaw. Rev. W. C. Tompkins officiated, and Mrs. Norval Gammond was at the organ, accompanying Mrs. George Jones, who sang "The Wedding Hymn" during the service.

The bride is the grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Griffin, 504 Bonaccord street and is also a granddaughter of Mrs. W. J. Collins, 97 Crescent street, Peterborough.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white satin, with a wide front panel of applique, and Sweetheart neckline. Soft bows of satin were used at the waistline, and the fitted Bishop sleeves came to points over her hands. Her long veil of fine embroidered tulle fell into a train and was caught to a tiara of orange blossoms. She wore a strand of pearls, and carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses.

Miss Ethel Collins was maid of honor, gowned in sunni blue, on similar lines to the bride's. Her blue feather calot had a ruching of blue satin, and a watching shoulder-length veil, and she carried a bouquet of Pernet roses and 'mums.

Miss Faith Collins, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid, in floor-length blue organza over blue silk, with fitted bodice, and heart-shaped neckline and short puffed sleeves trimmed with pleated frill. Her sweetheart headdress was of matching material, and she carried a Colonial bouquet of baby 'mums and rosebuds.

Harold Collins, brother of the bride, was best man, and Rev. D. Scrimgeour and Pte. Lyle Robinson were ushers.

At the reception, held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony, the bride's mother received, wearing a two-piece French violet dress, with matching straw hat, and accessories, and a corsage of cream roses. The bride's table, draped with an Irish linen cloth edged with hand crochet, was arranged with a rose bowl of cut flowers on a mirror plaque, and lighted pink tapers. The three-tier wedding cake was served from a side table.

For a honeymoon trip to Moose Jaw, the bride donned a sunni blue wool dress, blue herringbone tweed coat, matching fur felt hat, and black accessories.

Trinity Holds Special Service

Trinity Church observed a fine beginning for the new year, when more than 200 of the congregation joined for the watch-night service New Year's Eve. The evening service was delayed until 9.30 o'clock, concluding at 10.30. Rev. J. L. Hodgson was in charge, taking as his message, "Face the New Year Unafraid, and Put Your Trust in God."

During the social hour which followed this service, a number of familiar hymns were sung, and light refreshments were served. Rev. Hodgson again took charge at 11:45 and as the new year opened, the congregation bowed in silent prayer for the men overseas and future peace. The pastor paid particular tribute to R. F. Downey, recording steward, who was responsible for this innovation in the watchnight service.

The attendance was larger than usual for the morning service because of the holiday season. Rev. Hodgson gave a short talk and pithy sermon on "Life and Conduct."

PO. F. Andrews Weds In West

Evelyn Louise Halladay, only daughter of Sgt. H. G. Halladay and Mrs. Halladay, formerly of Peterborough, became the bride of Pilot Officer Frederick W. William Andrews, eldest son of Mrs. W. J. Chamberlain and the late Gerald Andrews, of Norwood, in a quiet and pretty wedding recently, at the home of the bride's parents, in Medicine Hat. Rev. H. S. Irving officiated, and Miss Connie Adkins played the wedding music.

For the ceremony, the bride chose a floor-length gown of white brocaded eloquente, on princess lines, and a silk embroidered veil falling into a train, caught to a coronet of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of red and white carnations, and she wore a single strand of pearls, the gift of the groom.

She was attended by Miss Edith Singer, as bridesmaid, in floor-length beige crepe, trimmed with brown, a beige hat with shoulder-length veil, and carrying pink carnations. Pilot Officer Larry Laidlaw, R.C.A.F., of Rivers, Man., was best man.

Mrs. Halladay, received the guests at the reception, wearing a teal blue afternoon ensemble, with a corsage of white carnations. The rooms were decorated with white chrysanthemums and ferns, and the bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake, flanked by tall pink tapers and bouquets of pink baby 'mums.

The bridesmaid received a gold identification bracelet, and the best man was presented with a leather wallet.

For travelling, the bride chose a brown suit and matching accessories, and after a short honeymoon, they will live in Brandon, Man. The bride, who formerly lived in Peterborough with her parents, was employed in the office of the Dominion Glass Company, Redcliff, Alta., and the groom, formerly employed at Genelco, in Peterborough, is stationed at No. 1, C.N.S., Rivers, Man.

Sgt. R. Cauley Marries Toronto Girl

A wedding of wide interest took place Saturday evening in St. John's Chapel, St. Michael's Cathedral, Toronto, when Sonya Hamilton McMane, daughter of Lt.-Col. and Mrs. Charles McMane, became the bride of Sgt. Robert Cauley, RCAF, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Cauley, Homewood avenue, Peterborough.

The chapel was decorated with white chrysanthemums for the ceremony, with Rt. Rev. Monsignor Harris officiating. Rev. Dr. Ronan was at the organ, and the boy choristers sang.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a portrait gown of blush ivory satin, with deep yoke of net, encrusted with a frill of antique ivory lace. ... tip veil fell from a cor... ing lace, caught wi... orange blossoms, and ... cascade of gardenias.

If you are a housewife, here is a tribute which you have richly earned.

To you, Madam, we want to say this. We of General Foods know how much planning and ingenuity you have had to use to keep your family happy when wanted goods have been scarce. We know the demands that hard shopping conditions have made on your determination, good humour and nervous energy.

If you are a grocer, this is an appreciative message for you, too.

We know the strain you have been under in running your grocery business well in spite of food shortages, spotty distribution and scarcity of help.

As a major factor in the industry, we ourselves have carried a responsibility. We have tried to distribute our products with fairness to all and feel that we have been reasonably successful.

But without the co-operation of housewives and grocers, and of our employees who have done their part so loyally, no such success could have been possible.

We offer you our sincere good wishes for 1945. We hope to have a continuance of your splendid co-operation. For, however well our best hopes for the future are fulfilled, the effects of the war will not speedily be overcome.

Audet's victims were three Focke Wulf 190's, one Messerschmitt 109 and an unspecified aircraft.

Pilots in this wing destroyed a total of nine German aircraft, probably destroyed another two and damaged six. They also smashed at Nazi rail traffic, destroying four locomotives, damaging 13 and damaging 75 freight cars.

The other two kills went to FO. Robert Lawrence of Edson, Alta., without firing his guns. He was attacked by five German aircraft over a distance of about 10 miles and was taking evasive action, turning first toward an "F.W." on his beam. When the latter attempted to follow in tight circles, it crashed and burst into flames. As he circled he bounced past an ME. 109 and was just about to open fire when the German, attempting to make too tight a circle, crashed.

New Year's Party Held At Uptown Centre

A pleasant New Year's party was held Saturday evening at the Recreation Centre under the joint auspices of the Citizens' Co-ordinating committee and the supervisors and staff of the Recreation Centre. C. Mowry was convener of the committee which was also responsible for the Christamas party the previous week. He was assisted in the preparations for these parties by a committee consisting of the following members: Adj. V. Graham, Mrs. J. K. Hughes, Mrs. E. E. Young, Misses H. Lytle, G. Cox, C. Littlefield, M. Kearns, Supervisors Gordon Kennedy and Ernest Irwin and A. Hope, H. Dodds, G. Miller, I. McRae and G. Groombridge.

The following manufacturers made the two parties possible by their generous donations: Peterborough Lock Co., Quaker Oats Co., Western Clock Co., Dominion Woollens, C.G.E., Outboard Marine, De Laval Co., A. Wander Co., Brinton Carpet Co., J. J. Turner and Sons, Peterborough Lumber Co., Peterborough Canoe Co., Card and Paper Works, Beaver Lumber Co., Colonial Weaving, Martin-Hewitt, B. F. Ackerman's, Canada Packers, Raybestos, and Nashua Paper. Fifteen theatre tickets were donated for each party by the Managements of the Capitol, Centre and Regent Theares. The theatres have been donating an equal number of tickets for the bingos each Saturday night.

The program for the New Year party was a varied one, consisting of sing songs and quizzes led by El Jones and Harry McLay of the staff of CHEX, a piano duet by Ethelwyn Gibson and Gloria Wilson, whistling by Miss Mignon Mayneord, vocal numbers by Mr. Jones and Bob Hendry, who also led in community singing. Winners for the quizzes were Misses P. Sanders, I. Weaver, K. Elliott, E. Gibson, G. Wilson P. Houghton B. Rome, Ptes. VanDamme and Paetkau of Manitoba, Pte. Chew, R. and B. Unrau of Saskatchewan, Pte. McNeill of Nova Scotia, and Pte. Phillips of New Brunswick.

Junior hostesses were supplied by Adj. Graham, Miss Cox and Miss Lytle.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, January 3

CONTINUED progress advancement and expansion of opportunity and productiveness follow efficient, skillful and well directed efforts, judging by the force of astral influences. Level heads and sound and sensible reasoning should combine to the attainment of meritorious objectives. In this the interest, cooperation and perhaps financial support of those in high places may be counted upon, with enhanced prestige and popularity both in business and the pursuit of pleasure or social and romantic aspirations.

Those wnose birthday it is are assured of a year in which they should find opportunity, promotion, favors and tokens of preferment from those in advanced position, ready to proffer due rewards for exceptional skill, versatile talents, or unusual personality or ambitions, where carefully planned and developed. Under benign and expansive conditions it may be a time for seeking prestige, promotion and pleasure in whatever direction the ambitions may aspire.

A child born on this day should have a wide range of talents, skills and ambitions and should have a prosperous, happy and productive career. Its nature should be warm, hospitable and generous.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Perhaps there is nothing new in the suggestions I am about to give you, for getting the most from your sugar and butter rations but, if they are not new to you, they will at least serve as reminders. To save sugar, don't experiment with your sugar ration. Use tested recipes, make cakes without frosting, try reducing the amount of sugar a little in your pre-war recipes or try an extra pinch of salt in cooking, it brings out the sweet flavor. To save butter, use other mild-flavored fats in baking, especially in highly flavored foods, such as spice cakes where butter is not needed for flavor. Use recipes that only call for a moderate amount of fat. Instead of buttered breadcrumbs to top scalloped dishes, mix grated cheese with the crumbs. To save both butter and sugar, use more muffins, biscuits and other quick breads instead of cakes and cookies which require more of both sugar and butter. Keek in mind that the butter ration we have had is being cut from this day on until further notice. Below are some recipes that you will find useful.

Honey Sour Milk Spice Cake

¼ cup butter, 6 tablespoons sugar, ¼ cup honey, ½ cup sour milk, 1 egg, 1 2-3 cups flour, ½ teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons baking powder ¼ teaspoon cinnamon ¼ teaspoon ground cloves ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, ⅛ teaspoon salt. Cream butter, add sugar and egg well beaten and honey. Sift dry ingredients and add to egg mixture alternately with sour milk. Turn into a greased pan and bake in a moderate oven.

Nut Bread

1½ cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup sugar, 1 to 2 teaspoons candied orange, or lemon peel, ½ cup chopped nuts, 1 egg well beaten, ½ cup milk, 1½ tablespoons of butter, melted. Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Add the nuts and the peels. Combine the well-beaten egg and the milk, add to the flour mixture and stir until smooth. Add the cooled, melted butter. Do not overbeat the mixture. Turn into a greased loaf pan or, if you want round slices, turn in a greased baking powder can. Bake in a slow oven, about 350 degrees for one hour.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

DEAR MARY MOORE: I'm proud of my Mock Hollandaise and hope you will pardon me if I send you something you already have. But none of my neighbors seem to fuss with sauces much and I think they are essential to nice dinners. This one I use on our own homegrown, homecanned spinach and broccoli or on fish, or by adding a little curry on hard cooked eggs.

Mock Hollandaise (Contributed by H. F. M.)

Melt 1 tablespoon butter and add 1 tablespoon flour, and when smooth add slowly ½ cup milk and stir until sauce boils. Season with ¼ teaspoon salt, and add 2 to 4 tablespoons butter or cooking oil, 1 egg yolk beaten, and ½ tablespoon lemon juice, and a shake of cayenne.

I like my lemon sauce too, but it may be because we raise our own honey.

Lemon Sauce (Contributed by H. F. M.)

Mix 2 tablespoons cornstarch with ½ cup honey and add 1 cup boiling water and cook and stir until thick and smooth. Boil 2 minutes. Put over hot water and cook 10 minutes. Add 1 or 2 tablespoons butter, 1½ tablespoons lemon juice, grating of nutmeg, and few grains salt. Delicious with cottage pudding Steamed Carrot Pudding or Steamed Raspberry Pudding.

Thanks for both of these sauces—I think they are indispensable to good dining too.

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION—Our doctor has told me my young son of ten should have more of such kinds of meat as liver, kidney and hearts or the vitamin B they contain and for other reasons. I have never cooked these meats and think I will start off with hearts. Please help me out on this—I think the main dffiCulty will be the thought of preparing them. Thanks from Donga.

ANSWER—The best approach to preparing the internal organs you mention is to school yourself in the thought that Nature intended them for human consumption just as she did steak and other muscle meats. They are rich in many things the average diet lacks.

Braised Stuffed Heart (Veal)

Wash three veal hearts very well, trim off veins, stuff with sage and onion stuffing, skewer into shape, and brown on all sides in 4 tablespoons drippings. Add to them 1½ cups water, shake over salt and pepper, cover tightly and bake at 350 degrees Fahr. for about three hours. If pork hearts are used they require a little longer. A beef heart requires 4 hours. Cut in thin slices at table and poud over gravy made from liquid in pan which has been thickened and strained.

Braised Liver With Vegetables

One pound pork liver sliced ½-inch thick, 2 tablespoons flour, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 4 tablespoons lard or dripping, 2 cups carrots diced, 2½ cups potatoes diced, 1 sliced and diced onion, 1 cup tomatoes or juice, 1 cup boiling water.

Cut the liver in 2-inch squares, and roll in the flour which has been mixed with the salt and pepper. Saute in the lard until brown. Remove liver from pan and add carrot, potatoes, onion and saute 5 minutes. Add liver and tomato juice and boiling water. Cover and simmer for 1 to 2 hours. Thicken gravy before serving.

You will doubtless find a recipe for Beefsteak and Kidney Pie which is my favorite way with kidney, but if you want my recipe for kidney fricassee write again.

QUESTION—I came to you some years ago for luncheon dishes and you gave me 2 or 3 which I have been using to good advantage ever since. One of them was Spanish Rice, but I unfortunately have lost my recipe. Would you reprint it when you have the space? Thanking you for your various courtesies.
Magda Shaw.

ANSWER — I don't remember which Spanish Rice recipe I gave you but the present one I'm using is good:

Spanish Rice:

Cut 1 onion in thin slices and add to 2 tablespoons fat. Stir and cook 2 minutes. Add ½ cup rice, washed and drained, and stir and cook 10 minutes. Add 1 cup vegetable stock or boiling water and cook until it is absorbed; then add 1¾ cups tomato pulp, 1 plemento cut in strips (optional) 1 green pepper chopped fine (optional), and ½ teaspoon salt. Cook until rice is tender. Add more seasonings if desired. Grated cheese or up to 1 cup ground cooked meat make nice additions.

Aid To Islanders

LONDON, Jan. 2—(CP-Reuters)—Official word has arrived in London that the steamship Vega, carrying relief supplies from Canada for the people of the German-occupied Channel Islands, arrived at Guernsey Island Dec. 27.

WOMAN WARRIOR FREED BY AMERICANS—Captured by the Germans at Smolensk, Red Army parachusist Tamara, 21, was taken with 700 other women to the German western front where they were forced to dig tank traps and trenches for the Nazis. After being freed by men of the U.S. 83rd Division, she tells her story to a woman war correspondent (Right).

OPPOSITES ARE A MARRIAGE HAZARD

Qualities That Drew Two Together Often Drives Them Apart

ONE of the curious things about marriage is that the law of the attraction of opposites works before marriage, but fails to function after marriage, and that the very qualities that drew a man and woman together so often drive them apart.

That is the sardonic little trick that Mother Nature plays on humanity. For she is not concerned with the happiness of the individual. She is interested only in keeping the race on an even keel, and so in order that we may not all be giants or pygmies, or morons or high-brows, she makes big men fall in love with little girls and the beautiful but dumb maidens have an irresistible charm for college professors. And vice versa.

Lured By The Unknown

It is this simple little fact that both men and women are lured by the unknown in each other into marriage that is at the bottom of so much domestic infelicity. It is what makes rich old Grandpas marry little gold-diggers young enough to be their granddaughters. That makes staid, solid business men, with a domestic complex, marry flighty little Janes, who haven't an idea in their heads or a desire in their souls for anything but fine clothes and night clubs.

It is what makes girls turn down fine young men, who would make them good husbands, for drunkards and ne'er-do-wells they will have to work to support, and that makes handsome rounders have a practically hypnotic appeal for pious girls, who first pray for them and then marry them.

For the fascination of being married to someone totally different from oneself doesn't last. Exploring a new personality isn't the happy pastime one expected it to be. It is too full of difficulties. It has too many quirks of disposition that have to be negotiated, too many mountains of strange ways and opinions and customs to be surmounted. And it makes one long for the old familiar road and the kind of husbands and wives to which they were accustomed.

Not Conductive to Happiness

Of course it may be good for our own souls and for our offspring for us to marry people who are our opposites instead of our likes, but it does not make for peace and happiness in the household. For it takes more strength of character than many of us posses to be able to see our mates' points of view and concede them the right to their own opinions, and to grant them any personal liberty.

We all, for instance, think that a thing is right or wrong according to whether we like it or not. Whether a woman complains of being a golf widow, or whether she can spend a pleasant hour discussing a game with her husband, depends upon whether she plays herself or not. Whether a woman considers herself a neglected wife because her husband reads the papers or a book at night, instead of talking to her all evening, depends upon whether she likes to read or not. Whether a man lambasts his wife for gadding and raises ructions over her buying a new dress depends upon whether he likes to step out of an evening and takes pride in her appearance.

So it all boils down to the secret of being happy though married into like marrying your like. The people we enjoy living with are those who are replicas of ourselves.

Lose 67 Tanks

WITH THE U.S. THIRD ARMY, Jan. 2—(CP-Reuters)—The Germans have lost 67 tanks in unsuccessful heavy counter-attacks against the east flank of the Bastogne corridor, three miles southeast of Bastogne.

Believe Japs Fleeing Burma

ALLIED LAND FORCES HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTHEAST ASIA, Jan. 2 — (CP). — Advancing British troops were within 86 miles of Mandalay today and there were indications the Japanese may have decided to pull out of Burma entirely.

A British column entered Kaduma, 16 miles from Yeu, and the triple drive from northern Burma has reached the northern and western rim of the Burma rice bowl. The approach toward Yeu, only 70 miles northwest of Mandalay, was announced yesterday by headquarters of Admiral ord Louis Mountbatten.

Simultaneously, other British forces fighting southward along the Bay of Bengal coast occupied Rathedaung, on the east side of the Mayu River 25 miles north of Akyab, without meeting Japanese opposition.

Only in the Namkham area southeast of Bhamo, in northern Burma, do the Japanese appear to be putting up any organized resistance.

Shell Plant Burns

SOREL, Que., Jan. 2—(CP)—Fire early today destroyed the shell manufacturing plant here of Sorel Industries, Ltd. causing a loss estimated at $200,000.

There were no reports of injuries and no explosions occurred.

The burned building measured about 800 by 100 feet and only the walls remain standing.

G.I. Not Popular

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Jan. 2—(AP).—"We're tired of being regarded as government issue," said a spokesman for a group of overseas veterans at the army distribution centre. "We've got names and we want 'em used. So from now on we will protest the use of the phrase of 'GI Joe' by individuals, or by movies and newspapers."

SCOTTISH NURSE helps relieve MANY AILMENTS with Mustard
MRS. M. MILLER came from Aberdeen, Scotland. She has a nursing home in Swift Current, Sask.
"I learned many of the uses of mustard and its value in home nursing while I was in training in Scotland," explained Mrs. Miller. "One in particular was the method of causing a patient to perspire freely, thus helping to break the fever and eliminate poisons from the body." She described how a flannel blanket is dipped in boiling water containing a half a cup of mustard and then wrung out and wrapped around the patient to induce perspiration.
Bronchial Trouble in Babies
"I never hesitate to use a mustard poultice on small babies in case of bronchial trouble," states Mrs. Miller. "It helps to give quicker, safer relief than any other remedy. I saturate the chest or back with olive oil and apply mild poultices mixed one part mustard to five parts of flour on the affected areas." Just by knowing this simple fact, thousands of babies may be relieved from bronchial suffering. Never leave a poultice on longer than twenty minutes.
Pure Mustard is Safe Mustard
The best proof of the value of mustard in treating so many common ailments is the fact that thousands of people like Mrs. Miller depend on it year after year. Keep mustard always handy in your home to help relieve Chills or Colds, or when you feel depressed by Grippe or other Winter infections. Use it to help relieve pains of Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Arthritis, Neuritis, over-tired muscles, etc. Call your doctor if symptoms are serious. Be sure that you use famous Keen's D.S.F. Mustard, made entirely from mustard seed of highest quality and packed to preserve its uniform quality and full medicinal strength. Sold by grocers and druggists everywhere.
Free Booklet Describes Medicinal Uses of Mustard

Market Strong Sales Heavy

TORONTO, Jan. 2.—(CP).— The market was strong and active in the early session to-day. Index gains of .47 and .42 were boarded by the industrials and golds respectively and the western oils were up .23. Base metals showed a small decline at noon. Turnover was comparatively heavy at 585,000 shares for the first three hours.

The liquor stocks, Hiram Walker and Distillers-Seagrams, gained a point each and Industrial Alcohol added ¼. The steels and foods posted more gains than losses.

In the golds Giant Yellowknife was a leader. It advanced 85 cents to sell at $10. Other golds gaining 5 to 15 cents included Frobisher, Bear, Negus, Donalda, Pioneer, Queenston, Cochenour Willans, Sylvanite and San Antonio.

Vermilata featured the western oils. It advanced 4 cents to 15 on trade of more than 150,000 shares.

Air Offensive In High Gear

LONDON, Jan. 2 (CP)—The Allied offensive on German supply lines continued today as escorted United States heavy bombers, following night R.A.F. attacks, roared over Western Germany before noon primed to meet any repetition of the Nazis' sudden New Year's Day show of aerial strength.

The 11th consecutive day of heavy bomber activity followed night raids by R.A.F. heavy bombers on a fuel plant near Dortmund and railyards at Vohwinkel near Dusseldorf. Other R.A.F. planes attacked Hannover and the railway centre of Hanau, 10 miles east of Frankfurt.

Night fighters and Intruder aircraft of bomber command supported the bombers and attacked airfields, destroying at least four enemy aircraft in combat.

The air ministry said Lancasters made the Vohwinkel attack while Halifaxes hit the Minceterstein bensol plant near Dortmund. Fires and large explosions were seen at both objectives.

The Canadian bomber group did not take part in the night operations but many Canadians were in the crews of the Halifaxes.

Reporting on the Dortmund raid, Flt. Sgt. M. R. Grant of Bowmanville, Ont., said "we could see the ground in detail, even the famous canal. There were bags of explosions and a couple of big explosions in the target area."

The air ministry said also that R.A.F. Mosquitos last night flew offensive patrols over northwest Germany, destroying one enemy aircraft.

Reconnaissance has shown a large break in the embankment of the Dortmund-Ems Canal, attacked by Lancasters near Ladbergen yesterday, the air ministry said. This was the fourth time the canal had been attacked and drained.

The communique, which said eight bomber command aircraft are missing from yesterday's operations, said that R.A.F. Mosquitos made low-level attacks with 4,000-pound bombers against railway tunnels on the main lines in Western Germany leading to the German salient on the Western front.

Revised tallies showed at least 221 German planes wrecked in Monday's widespread combats, while Berlin claimed 427 Allied planes were destroyed, most of them on the ground in morning swoops on fighter bases behind the Western front. There was no Allied confirmation of German claims.

Six Persons Killed New Year's Weekend

By The Canadian Press

Six persons were killed accidentally in Canada over the New Year's week-end, three as a result of traffic accidents. Three persons died in Ontario, two in Quebec, and one in Manitoba. Police are investigating a seventh in New Brunswick.

Fog and storm conditions in Ontario contributed to the deaths of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Thomas who was struck and killed by a New York Central Express train at a level crossing in St. Thomas, Saturday night, and Larkin O'Brien, 48, of Toronto. O'Brien was instantly killed Monday night when struck by a car at a street intersection. Lambert Toffelmoire, 68, of Kingsville, in Western Ontario, was found dead Sunday, slumped over the wheel of his car in Windsor. Police said death was apparently due to exposure.

Two persons were asphyxiated in Montreal Monday when six dwellings were affected by escaping gas. They were Mrs. Emilie Jeffort, 65, and Samuel McBurnie, 67.

In Saint John, N.B., police found a French merchant seaman from Brittany, Henri Geuzon, stabbed through the stomach on board ship Monday.

William K. Bearisto, 70, of St. James, near Winnipeg, Man., was killed Saturday night when struck by a car at an intersection near his home.

HASTE MAKES WASTE

FUNNY THINGS happen in those slap-dash rapid-fire games played by commuters on trains between cities and their suburbs. Deals are queer because nobody takes the time for thorough shuffling, or a Kibitzer does it, and sometimes the cards are dealt three and four at a clip to speed up the action and make more hands possible during the short trips. The bidding is lickety-split and the play is usually a case of pull out the first card which seems advisable instead of checking up and weighing one move against another.

There had barely been time for both sides to get vulnerable, and here was a chance to finish the rubber. The Westchester train was already between the 125th Street station and Grand Central when Sid Hydeman, art director of "Liberty" picked up his fairly normal West hand and the other New York artists in the group looked at their freaks.

Furious bidding brought grand slam bids from both sides, whereupon Mr. Hydeman decided his two aces looked pretty good as doubling material. Expecting the madly-bid diamond suit to be ruffed, he laid off it and opened his club A. But that was ruffed, too.

South then led to his Heart K, ruffed a second small club in dummy, ruffed a spade in his own hand, ruffed his diamond in dummy, ruffed a second spade, the A falling, led another club for a ruff, then a third spade for a ruff. This time he happened to use the heart 6 for trumping purposes, and Mr. Hydeman over-ruffed with the 8, setting the slam.

"Jumping Jehosophat!" roared South. "I thought I had taken the trumps out in one round. I had 75 different ways to make the contract, but only had time to count up to 12, not to 13."

Incidentally, if you had a nickel apiece for all plays like that made by hurrying commuters, you probably would be able to finance the entire war.

Hospital Ship Torpedoed; Loss Is Heavy

LONDON, Jan. 2—(AP)—The War Office, in announcing 10 decorations for heroisms, to-day disclosed many tragic details of the sinking of the 1,200-ton hospital ship Amsterdam off Cherbourg last Aug. 7, although silence was maintained on the loss of life.

A former passenger steamer, loaded with British wounded, many of them suffering from shell-shock, the Amsterdam was torpedoed by a German submarine and sank in 14 minutes after breaking in two.

Censorship permitted a London newspaper to publish the bare fact of the sinking Nov. 21, but no announcement of full details has yet come from official quarters.

Accounts of the bravery displayed by six officers — three of them nurses—and four men of the ranks, all British, disclosed that the torpedo hit the stern of the ship. Some patients in a ward under the afterdeck were killed by the explosion. Others drowned.

The Order of the British Empire was awarded to Lieut. Oliver Gray of Glasgow, who was in charge of the ward, which was sheared in half when the vessel parted.

"He did not leave the ward until all living patients had gone," the citation read. "The ship capsized and sank while the officer was standing on the horizontal starboard side trying to rescue a nurse through a porthole of the lower deck where she was trapped.

Three nurses, instead of taking positions in lifeboats, remained aboard the stricken vessel, evacuating the seriously wounded until the ship sank and they were thrown into the sea.

One of these was Miss Lily McNicholas, who could not swim and as floundering about in the water until rescued by a United States Navy cutter.

Four men of the ranks were awarded the British Empire Medal. One, a sergeant, Alistair Mitchell, was blown out of his cot in the stern deckhouse, but he entered the wrecked ward and began carrying patients to the deck.

Farmer Bruised When Car Runs Over Him

CAVAN, Jan. 2—(ENS)—J. M. Armstrong, 8th Line, Cavan, narrowly escaped serious injury at the week-end when he slipped and fell under his car. He suffered no broken bones, but was badly bruised.

Mr. Armstrong and his son, Gerald were trying to start their car, preparatory to going to market. They had hitched a team of horses to the car and Mr. Armstrong was steering when he slipped and fell, the horses dragging the car over him. One wheel passed over his shoulder and chest.

He was lying in such a position that the only way he could be freed was to have the horses drag the car back over him. Dr. M. E Hobbs of Millbrook was called to attend the unconscious man but found no bones broken, only severe bruises. Mr. Armstrong is also suffering from shock.

Misfortune has been dogging the steps of this family in recent months. Mrs. E. J. Powell of Millbrook, a daughter, recently lost her home by fire and it is only a short time ago that Mrs. Armstrong recovered from a fractured hip.

Personals

Sgt. Clifford Wood and Mrs. Wood and their daughter, Lucille Annabelle, Trenton, arrived Friday to spend the New Year's holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morton.

Miss Mary Armstrong, Peterborough, spent the New Year's week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Armstrong.

Mr. A. Stewart visited friends in Toronto for the holiday week-end.

Windsor Has Disastrous Fire

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 2—(CP) Firemen Saturday poured streams of water into the smouldering hulk of the Osterhout block on Pitt street east as Fire Chief Clarence DeFields, formulates plans for an investigation into the $60,000 blaze which gutted the two floors of the three story building and caused unestimated damage to the merchandise of the two stores and restaurant on the street floor.

Chief DeFields said that the fire "has every appearance of arson." He added that the fire was too obvious to be a chance blaze.

Nine pieces of equipment and 40 firemen, representing all those who could be contacted for duty, answered the call. At the height of the fire 6,000 tons of water an hour were being poured into the three-story brick structure.

Anniversary Marked By Sunday School

MILLBROOK, Jan. 2 — (ENS). — The Sunday School of St. Andrew's United Church worshipped with the regular congregation on Sunday morning, on the occasion of its anniversary, the superintendent, Wilfrid Elson, assisting the minister, Rev. A. L. Sisco, in the chancel, reading the lesson and announcing the hymns.

The minister spoke on "Good Standing", urging obedience, opportunity, and privilege in the great task of Sunday School teaching. The special message to the children was on "Echoes", stressing that what they send out comes back to them in kind. The male quartette, W. H. Coombe, G. Might, H. Oullette, and B. Ingham, sang, "True-Hearted, Whole Hearted", and the choir sang a special anthem during the offertory.

Announcement was made that 39 boxes had been sent to St. Andrew's boys and girls overseas for Christmas, and the cost, $97.80, had been practically all covered by voluntary giving.

Candle-Light Service

In the evening, for the first time, a candle-lighting service was held, with the church lighted, as on Christmas Sunday, with candles at each pew and choir stall, the small trees either side the altar having only blue lights, and a single tall white taper burning on the altar centre.

The processional hymn, "Standing At The Portal", introduced the choir members, headed by 10 girls in white typifying angels, coming from the vestrys either side of the church and meeting at the central aisle from which point they went by twos to their places in the chancel. The opening number, "I Would Be True", for the consecration service, was sung by the girls in white, Edith Elson, Melba Ball, Jessie and Margaret Dawson, Kathryn Bigelow, Audrey Armstrong, Hazel and Marian Rowe, Betty Forsyth and Maretta Olan.

The pastor stressed consecration of life and all our time and talents to the service of the Master as a fitting approach to the new year, the result being inward peace and a quiet confidence, through the saving power of God. During the offertory, Mrs. Lawrence Winslow sang the solo in the anthem, "The Old Refrain", and for the special period when every one present was asked to reconsecrate themselves to God's service for 1945, Melba Ball and Edith Elson, alternately lighted candles for sacrifice, love, faith, and devotion. Between each kindling from the central light on the altar, the minister offered prayers, and the choir sang hymns.

Americans Using 25 Divisions In West

LONDON, Jan. 2 — (CP) — The German Transocean Agency broadcast to-day that the Americans now have thrown 25 divisions against Field-Marshal Von Rundstedt's offensive salient into Belgium.

All Berlin broadcasts again withheld any claims of further German advances.

One report declared that "whatever course future events may take we have at least foiled the enemy's plans for a winter offensive which were well beyond the blueprint stage. At the same time Eisenhower has been forced to regroup all his front."

Berlin declared vaguely that "the advance of our spearheads has changed into a battle of movement."

RCAF Continues Cadet Support

The Royal Canadian Air Force will continue to support and assist the Air Cadet Movement in every possible way, it was emphasized in a statement issued from Air Force Headquarters today. The statement was intended to dissipate reports which have gained circulation in some quarters that the suspension of recruiting for aircrew had led to withdrawal of R.C.A.F. support for Air Cadets.

The Air Cadet League and the civilian bodies working with the League have done excellent work in the development of the Air Cadet movement and the R.C.A.F. has no intention of withdrawing its support.

The experimental program of last summer under which several thousand Air Cadets were attached to R.C.A.F. stations for a period of training and for familiarization flights was an unqualified success. A comprehensive post-war training program for Air Cadets is also under consideration at the moment.

There are presently a total of 31,090 Air Cadets in 379 squadrons and enrolments are rapidly increasing.

The interest and assistance of civilian organizations in this youth movement is noteworthy and gratifying.

2 Men Spotted In Hun U...

DETROIT, Jan. 2—(AP) — Reports that two men wearing uniforms resembling those of German officers were seen in Detroit put police in four states on the alert Saturday.

Spurring the search was another report that two German prisoners of war had escaped Thursday from a camp at Jacksonborough, Ont. They were identified by the Federal Bureau of Investigation as Arnold Schultz, 24, and Edward Gurzan, 22, both of whom, the F.B.I. said, speak broken English.

Pte. Frank Waniolek of the Michigan State troops said he saw two men in full uniform, but without caps or overcoats, running from between two box cars to a waiting automobile as he stood on guard last night at the Detroit Harbor terminal. The motor of the car was running and a driver, in civilian clothes, was at the wheel, Waniolek said.

A watchman at the harbor terminal said that a few minutes before he heard Waniolek yell he heard a motorboat enter one of the slips. The boat stopped for a few seconds, he added, and then left.

The vicinity of the terminal was searched by more than 50 policemen and other officers watched the main highways out of Detroit.

...ce Fight ...s On Budapest

2 Million Civilians Hide In Cellars As Reds Advance

MOSCOW, Jan. 3 (AP)—Russian storm forces were smashing their way through bloody Budapest today in probably the fiercest house-to-house fighting since Stalingrad.

Making progress in what an official announcement called "fierce encounters in fortified houses, in courtyards and in cellars," Red Army troops yesterday captured 232 blocks in Pest, the part of the city east of the Danube, and 53 blocks in Buda on the opposite bank.

On the basis of preliminary reports it is believed in Moscow that the enemy garrison already has lost 10,000 dead and possibly 30,000 wounded.

Although the Red Army has not officially estimated the strength of the trapped garrison, Col. Gen. Janos Voros, minister of defence of the provisional Hungarian government recently set up in Russian-held territory, said last night the total may run as high as 75,000 to 100,000 Germans, plus 30,000 Hungarians.

With yesterday's advances, which brought in approximately 1,000 prisoners, the Russians now hold nearly 1,000 blocks of the battered city.

How 2,000,000 civilians estimated to be cowering inside the city are surviving the struggle could only be imagined.

It now apeared likely that the Russian armies would not resume offensive operations in great force in the direction of the Austrian frontier until Budapest is largely overwhelmed.

Forty-two miles northwest of Budapest and 10 miles southeast of the Danube communications centre of Komarom, fresh German armored forces drawn from Austria lashed out yesterday at the tip of Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin's salient on the main road to Vienna. It was announced officially the attack was repulsed.

New Premier In Greece Tackles Job

Tries To Reconcile All Parties In New Cabinet

By STEPHEN BARBER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ATHENS, Jan. 3 — (AP)—Gen. Nicholas Plastiras, veteran Greek soldier and politician, undertook today to form a new all-party government in the hope of ending the bitter civil strife which has wracked Greece for many weeks.

Plastiras agreed to assume the premiership last night at the request of Archbishop Damaskinos of Athens, who was named regent of Greece last Friday by King George II, now in London. Gen. Plastiras succeeds George Papandreou, British-supported premier who resigned when it became apparent that his efforts to restore harmony were doomed to failure.

Meanwhile it was announced officially that the Soviet government in Moscow is reopening its legation in Athens. Mihail Sergieff, former first secretary and charge d'affaires of the legation, is expected to arrive in Athens shortly. Since the liberation of Greece from the Germans Russia has been represented here only by a military mission.

The general's decision came as Athens still echoed to the sound of British artillery replying to shelling by left-wing E.L.A.S. forces who had refused to participate in any government headed by Papandreou.

In announcing his acceptance Plastiras ignored Greek superstition against taking an important step on a Tuesday—the day Constantinople fell to the Turks in 1453.

The 61-year-old Plastiras returned from exile in France only recently under an agreement with Papandreou and British authorities.

In 1922 he engineered a military coup which resulted in the abdication of King Constantine and served as a member of the revolutionary committee which for a time ruled the country. In December, 1923, he was responsible for the banishment of King George II, who had succeeded his father, and later was exiled briefly himself for allegedly plotting another coup.

In 1923 he again set up a military government after the fall of the late Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, but the coup proved unsuccessful and he was once more forced into exile. In 1935 he was sentenced to death in absentia by the government of the late Premier John Metaxas.

Germans Lash Out Furiously At Half Dozen Front Points

By JAMES M. LONG—Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Jan. 3 — (AP). — The American armored onslaught smashed 5½ miles northeast of Bastogne today up the diagonal railway toward St. Vith, beating into the outskirts of Michamps and into the Maister woods through stubborn German resistance.

But the German Army was lashing out furiously at a dozen places along the undulating 70-mile front from the Saar to the Rhine in diversionary assaults which already have cost the Americans their thin foothold on German soil northeast of Sarreguemines. The attacks may yet prove to be another burst in Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's offensive.

So far, the American line was holding the Germans to limited gains, but the Nazis were still striking along their two-mile deep and five-mile long dent southeast of Bitche. The enemy, moreover, had driven a bridgehead across the Blies River east of Sarreguemines.

Snow was falling again over the Belgian bulge and there was rain farther south. At least through this morning, close air support was lacking because planes were grounded.

The 3rd Army was gaining steadily along the whole Belgian-Luxembourg bulge front from the outskirts of St. Hubert to the northeast and east of Bastogne. The offensive was widened to 17 miles.

7,825 Prisoners

The 3rd Army has captured 7,825 Germans since striking against the bulge Dec. 22.

Continued reports of heavy German traffic, nearly all of it eastbound along secondary roads, suggested a German withdrawal.

Removal of the Security Blackout on news brought the current reports up to this morning.

Reports, also up to the early daylight hours of today, from the Saar-Rhine front, said the Americans had recaptured Schauffhausen, wiping out one dent in their lines, fashioned by a German attack west of Volklingen.

The Germans threw in a new attack near Ludwiller, two and a half miles southwest of Volklingen, but it was being held.

Patrols were active on the British-Canadian Holland front, where the Germans sent two forces across the Maas River north of Gertruidenburg last night. They were promptly pushed out. Another patrol which crossed near Kapelle later withdrew.

Behind the Siegfried Line in the Saarland and Palatinate, however, a considerable increase was noted in enemy activity and Supreme Headquarters in its communique said ominously that "German units are across the Blies River" in the sector east of Sarreguemines.

The inclination still was to treat the German jabs along the Saar and to the Rhine as local attacks.

Three more towns were recaptured in the Belgian-Luxembourg bulge. These were Magaret, Gerimont and Mande.

The 3rd Army had captured 7,825 prisoners since December 22, when it launched its counter-thrust agoinst the German offensive.

(The German communique claimed more than 24,000 Americans had been taken and that total U.S. casualties since December 16 far exceeded 50,000. The enemy claimed eight 3rd Army divisions were making a supreme effort to encircle German positions on three sides of Bastogne.)

Patrols penetrated St. Hubert but were pushed out of the Belgian traffic centre which was increasingly menaced by the approach of Lt.-Gen. Patton's main forces closing up

Huns Regrouping For Major Thrust In East Impose Security Blackout Along Danube

LONDON, Jan. 3—(CP-Reuters).—The German high command has imposed a security blackout on fighting east of Komaron, on the Danube 90 miles from Vienna, the Berlin military spokesman, quoted by the German Trans-Ocean Agency, reported today.

Earlier, Moscow dispatches said that the Germans had massed a great concentration of tanks in the Komaron area for what might be an attempt to break through to Budapest 35 miles to the east.

Moscow has released little news of the Hron River battle—key to the Bratislava plain and Vienna—during the last few days. Such silence often implies regrouping for a major thrust.

Leaders' Views In Sharp Contrast On Jewish Immigration Policy

JERUSALEM, Jan. 3 — (AP). — David Bengurion, chairman of the Jewish Agency, told me recently it planned to move 1,000,000 more Jewish settlers to Palestine in the shortest possible time.

"The British are under obligation to permit the Jews to continue to come here," he said in an interview. "It's morally impossible to close Palestine now."

Bengurion expressed belief that the British White Paper of 1939 would be revised. This document limited Jewish immigration to Palestine to 75,000 over a period of five years. It stipulated that 10,000 should be admitted yearly, plus 25,000 as Britain's "contribution to the solution of the problem of Jewish refugees." The quota now is nearly exhausted.

Bengurion described the White Paper as a relic, and said he has reason to believe that Prime Minister Churchill himself viewed the document with disfavor. He described the condition of Jews in Europe as more acute than ever and said they are not safe even in liberated places.

Regarding the attitude of the Arabs, he made these statements:

1. They are less concerned with the Jewish position in Palestine than with the bogey of Jewish expansion throughout the whole Middle East.

3. Recurrrence of the terrorism and violence such as developed in the middle 1930s is unlikely.

3. An agreement with the Arabs is fully possible provided a Jewish state comes into existence in a formal legal sense.

The Jewish leader said that benefits would accrue to the Arabs in Palestine through continued Jewish development of the country — a fact to which Arabs with whom I have talked readily agree.

TRANSJORDAN, Jan. 3.—(AP).—Emir Abdullah, ruler of Transjordan and one of the political and spiritual leaders of Arabs throughout the Middle East, sadi recently in an interview with the Associated Press that he would resist any further Jewish immigration to Palestine.

Owing to this area's recognition of his claim of direct descent from the prophet Mohammed, the Emir ih considered to be one of the foremost spokesmen for the Arab case. His small state adjoins Palestine at the Jordan river and some Jewish Nationalists contend that it is an integral part of Palestine. They say Transjordan should be included in the territory where the Zionists wish to establish their national home.

R.C.A.F. Fighters Destroy 36 Enemy Planes

LONDON, Jan. 3 (CP-Cable) — R.C.A.F. Lancasters joined with R.A.F bombers in pounding the German city of Nurnberg last night, while Canadan Halifaxes were in the R.A.F. force that hit Ludwigshafen and, the R.C.A.F. said today, "both attacks were extremely successful." One R.C.A.F. plane is missing.

Scores of Canadians also flew with R.A.F. squadrons on these raids.

Fires Seen 140 Miles

FO. Jack Hendren of Saskatoon reported fires in Nurnberg were "visible for 140 miles on the return flight" and he said there was one gigantic explosion—"one vast burst of orange flame."

Both the Iroquois and Bluenose Squadrons went to Nurnberg, while the Goose, Thunderbird and Alouette Squadrons went to Ludwigshafen.

FO. C. L. Hoff, North Vancouver, B.C., said he saw four big fires in Ludwigshafen, home of the I.G. Farben Chemical industries, topped off by a large explosion as his aircraft left the target.

Flak was reported moderate but many searchlights were used.

Canadian fighters also have been active in the air war. A compilation last night, based on latest reports from the Continent, showed that Canadian fighter pilots accounted for at least half of the 84 German planes destroyed New Year's Day by the R.A.F. 2nd Tactical Air Force.

Canadians Score Gains In Italy

ROME, Jan. 3 —(CP)—Canadian troops of the British 8th Army, battling toward the road stronghold of Alfonsine on the Adriatic sector of the Italian front, have gained considerable ground between the Senio River and Fossa Vecchio Canal, it was announced today.

The gains were registered in the face of stiff German resistance.

Lt.-Gen. Foulkes' men took 70 prisoners from a stubbornly-fighting German Jaeger division which sought to bar their path.

The thrust, launched over an area ribbed with waterways, apparently caught the German forces by surprise. A number of enemy strongholds were cleaned up.

Farther south a German pocket east of the Senio is being mopped up, although this must "still be regarded as a substantial enemy bridgehead over the river," an official announcement said.

Alfonsine, on the Ravenna-Ferraro road 7½ miles north-northeast of Bagnacavallo, has been the Canadian corps' next objective since it captured the latter road hub several days ago.

Patrols were reported active along the Allied 5th Army front to the west in the brief Allied communique.

The Canadian advance came after a day in which German patrols had sought to regain lost territory by recrossing the Senio River under mortar fire in the Fusignano area, 12 miles northwest of Faenza.

Warn Motorists Storm Is Continuing

TORONTO, Jan. 3 (CP)—An urgent appeal to all motorists to stay off Southern Ontario highways "for their own safety" was issued today by the Ontario Department of Highways which said its reports indicate the two-day-old storm is raging across all the southern section of the province with renewed fury.

"We can't say with any certainty what roads are open and what roads are blocked but motorists should remain off the highways for their own safety until the situation clears," said a spokesman. "Scattered reports we are receiving today indicate that a real storm is blowing everywhere in Southern Ontario."

Earlier the department had simply repeated its warning of yesterday and last night advising against highway traffic.

Death toll in the storm rose to three. John Johnson of Petrolia was the third death. He dropped dead when he reached work after walking through snow - blocked roads.

The Dominion meteorological bureau forecast for the Lower Lakes Region today and tomorrow gives little hope for a letup in the storm. Strong winds are predicted both for today and tomorrow, with light snowfall continuing tomorrow chiefly in the Western Ontario section where the storm seems to have been at its worst.

Reports to the bureau from most Southern Ontario points are that roads are blocked and drifting is continuing. Goderich in Huron county reports that a blizzard is raging there. However, around Lindsay roads are open.

Although there is some snow in Northern Ontario, the highways are generally open, the department of highways said. North Bay reported a strong wind with some snow but roads are open. Roads are open in the Sudbury district although the

Superforts Hit Honshu Isle

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3—(AP)—Superfortresses smashed anew today at Japan's teeming island of Honshu, hitting industrial targets in daylight.

Size of the attacking force and its specific targets were not disclosed in a War Department communique announcing the assault by the Saipan-based sky dreadnaughts.

In their first blast against the Japanese homeland since Dec. 27, the B29s possibly uncorked another attack against the Musashima factory of the Nakajima Aircraft Company, one of the principal producers of military planes.

Honshu is the principal island of the Japanese Archipelago. It is the site of such vital manufacturing, shipping and administrative centres as Tokyo, Yokohama, Nago, Kyoto, Kobe and Osaka.

The Honshu raid followed an announcement last night by Gen. MacArthur of a blazing New Year's day aerial assault on Manila's Clark field. For the first time MacArthur brought Formosa into his communique, announcing that patrol planes set five coastal ships afire and destroyed four planes at this island bastion 325 miles north of the Philippines.

Admiral Nimitz announced at Pearl Harbor another bombing of Iwo Jima, a springboard for Nipponese raids on the Marianas.

Hydro Finishes Wartime Plans

OTTAWA, Jan. 3.—(CP). — The program of wartime expansion of Canada's Hydro-Electric facilities has been "virtually completed" and power production for war purposes appears to have passed its peak, the resources department reported today in its annual review of Hydro-Electric progress in the Dominion.

The net increase of water-power installation during 1944 was 68,700 horse-power, the smallest annual increase since 1939 and resulting almost wholly from completion of the 68,000 - horsepower brilliant plant on the Kootenay River in British Columbia.

Canada's total water-power installations stood at 10,283,218 horsepower at the end of 1944 and one-fifth of this total has been installed during the last five years, almost wholly for war purposes.

This achievement in Hydro-Electrict development "may be assessed as a basic and one of the most significant single factors in Canada's vast war-production program," said the review, prepared by the Department's water and power bureau.

The Marshal Von Rundstedt of the Philippines is bull-voiced and bull-headed General Yamashita, the Japanese commander-in-chief, who is showing signs of intending to emulate his Nazi opposite in Europe and launch a counter-drive against Gen. MacArthur—and his newly-acquired position on strategic Mindoro Island is likely to be an early objective.

The battle of the Philippine Archipelago is rushing towards its crisis, and the MacArthur-Nimitz partnership is crowding the Jap invaders hard.

Yamashita has sworn to force MacArthur to surrender conditionally, and there's no doubt that the war-lord means business. Yamashita isn't to be regarded lightly, for he's one of the outstanding generals of our time.

Don't forget it was he who made that sensational drive through the jungles of the Malay Peninsula, capturing the "impregnable" base of Singapore early in the Pacific war.

As recently-appointed commander in the Philippines, Yamashita is the Mikado's right arm, for these islands are the key to victory. The general is showing particular concern over the new American acquisition — air bases on the southern end of Mindoro, which nestles up against the main island of Luzon. These bases place Allied air power within less than half an hour's flight of Manila. No wonder Yamashita is getting busy.

Now American bombers based on Mindoro are sweeping all Luzon in force. MacArthur's intention to invade Luzon, for the final great engagement of the Philippine battle, is an open book. As a natural corollary we see Yamashita carrying out military operations on southern Luzon — only a stone's throw, so to speak, from Mindoro — with the apparent design of trying to oust MacArthur's forces from the smaller island.

The impending crisis of the battle of the Philippines will produce some of the bloodiest fighting of the bitter war in the Pacific.

Nurse Lauds Greek People

Spent 5 Years In Crete, Occupied Greece

LONDON, Jan. 3 (CP) — "Miss Joanna Stavridi after five years in Crete and occupied Greece has now come home and wishes her friends to know that she is with her parents at Lennox Gardens, S.W. 1."

That was the social note in London newspapers. Behind it was the story of a modern Florence Nightingale who stayed behind to nurse wounded soldiers in Greece when she might have escaped with her sister to Africa.

During the last five years her parents, Sir John Stavridi, London banker, and Lady Stavridi, had only occasional Red Cross messages to let them know she was still alive.

As soon as British forces returned to Athens, the 37-year-old nurse, who has been awarded the Distinguished War Certificate of the Red Cross Society, was flown home and now is recuperating from her experiences.

"The nerves of a people who have been brought all that the Greeks have cannot be expected to be quite normal," Miss Stavridi told reporters. "I think that explains some of the things which are happening in Greece now."

She had high praise for the way the Greeks looked after British soldiers who remained in the country during the German occupation.

Would change boundaries

Warns Against Wholesale Revenge On Huns

LONDON, Jan. 3 (CP)—Sir Stafford Cripps, Minister of Aircraft Production and former Ambassador to Moscow, urged today a recasting of Europe's boundaries "on a safer pattern" to keep the peace, but cautioned against wholesale revenge on the German people.

Outlining a policy "of practical Christian idealism," Sir Stafford said Germany must be stripped of power ever again to wage war, and war criminals must be punished.

This, he told the Baptist Union, is what should be said to the German people:

"We desire to treat you as brothers and with friendship," but we must insist upon taking measures to protect and comfort our other European brothers, upon which you and your leaders have inflicted such untold sufferings.

"We are not your judges — God alone can judge of human actions and motives—but shall take what practical steps we can to provide a safe period of absence of war during which we can start to build the more permanent structure of lasting peace.

"When the passions generated by war have died down and you have been able to convince your neighbors of your true desire for friendly and peaceful co-operation, you will be able to join with all the other nations in elaboration of such an international order as will obviate the danger of future wars."

Admiral Ramsay Naval Chief Killed In Crash

PARIS, Jan. 3 — (CP). — Admiral Sir Bertram Ramsay, 61, the man who planned the rescue of the British Army at Dunkerque in 1940 and who directed naval operations when the Allies recrossed the Channel four years later, on D-Day last June 6, was killed yesterday when a plane in which he was travelling to Belgium crashed.

Allied Supreme Headquarters said merely his craft met with an "accident" while carrying him to a conference. It was believed bad weather and not enemy action was to blame.

Admiral Ramsay — nicknamed "Dynamo"—was naval Commander-in-Chief under Gen. Eisenhower.

The naval chief won his knighthood in recognition of the achievement of rescue of 335,000 British and French soldiers in the Dunkerque evacuation.

Sir Bertram won additional fame and a second Order of knighthood in 1943 when he directed naval operations in the invasion of Sicily following his supervision of the North Africa landings in 1942.

But his greatest feat was in planning and supervising execution of the immense task undertaken by the Allied Navies last summer when they ferried 1,000,000 men, 183,500 vehicles, and 650,000 tons of stores to France within a month after D-Day.

The Admiral won his nickname in the nine days of the Dunkerque operation during which he drove to exhaustion a staff of naval officers working with him in the "dynamo room"—drove them till they collapsed and slid from their chairs—telephoning for trains, medical supplies, food, doctors, and nurses, and telephoning to every coastal town and village for hundreds of miles to tell them to send boats and more boats and still more boats.

Base Metals Show Advance

TORONTO—The Base Metal and Industrial Stocks advanced in the early session and the Golds and Western Oils were steady to a bit lower on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Trading was moderately active and volume totalled 341,000 shares for the first three hours.

Pend Oreille swung into active and in heavy turnover advanced 8 cents to 1.50. Falconbridge gained 15 and Steep Rock added 4 cents. In the senior list Smelters, Nickel and Noranda added sizable fractions.

The Steel, Utility and Food Stocks were stronger industrial groups. Canada Wire A gained 2 points and Gatineau A Pfd. added 1½. Vermilata was the Western Oil feature. It touched 16 for a gain of 2¼.

Missing Cobourg Man Now Presumed Dead

Previously reporting missing, Leading Seaman Gerald James Gallagher, R.C.N.V.R., whose aunt, Mrs. Mary Gallagher lives at University avenue, Cobourg, has now been presumed dead as of August 21, 1944, it was reported today in an announcement from the Department of National Defence. He was serving on H.M.C.S. Alberni when it was sunk.

Serving with the Royal Canadian Service Corps, Pte. Stanislaus Hotts whose sister, Mrs. Bernadette Meraw lives at Tweed, has been listed as injured, while on active service overseas.

Airborne Units Enjoyed Bastogne Battle

By JAMES M. LONG

PARIS, Jan. 3.—(AP).—Don't tell the 101st "Eagle" Airborne Division it was rescued at Bastogne—or that it was relieved—or even that it was in a tough spot.

That is not the story of its husky deputy commander, Brig.-Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, and not the story of the fighting men who were with him through a week in which—the way they looked at it—they had parts of seven German divisions by the throat all around them.

The men still fit are still there, to do the job they figured they were sent there for: To attack and help smash Field Marshal von Rundstedt's wedge.

"We resent any implications we were rescued or needed rescue," Gen. McAuliffe declared to-day in speaking of "Merry Christmas"—the map name the 101st gave to the 15 or 20 square miles of Belgium held against everything the Germany Army could hurl against it.

"When we were left in position there during the corps withdrawal our commander told us not to get ourselves surrounded," Gen. McAuliffe recalled with a chuckle. "That's a laugh.

"We were giving the Germans the licking of their lives, and they had the effrontery to send us a note asking us to surrender," the general said.

That was the note he replied to in his now-famous one-word answer—"Nuts!"

Despite the intensity of the battle the commander said he figured his casualties were less than in comparable actions in either Normandy or Holland. The reason for this he attributed to the quality of the airborne fighting men, of whom he told this story:

"A couple of these airborne troopers visited the tomb of Napoleon in Paris and one of them commented to the other, "The greatest soldier that ever lived is buried there."

"To which the second airborne fighter replied:

"'Aw, when did he ever jump?'"

R.C.A.F. Fighters

R.C.A.F. fighters destroyed at least 36 enemy aircraft while a half-dozen others fell to Canadians flying with R.A.F. squadrons.

The top-scoring wing in the 2nd Tactical Air Force during the day was the Canadian Spitfire unit, which brought down 24 German planes, probably destroyed another three and damaged seven.

Scorers included two airmen who downed three planes each. Both from the Ram squadron, they were FO. G. D. Cameron of Toronto and Flt. Lt. John Mackay of Cloverdale, B.C.

Others from the Canadian wing who helped to set up the day's record—the previous top mark for the Canadians in a single day was 22 planes—included Sqdn. Ldr. Dean Dover, D.F.C., and bar, of Toronto, who destroyed and ME109 and shared another with FO. Dean Kelly of Peterborough, Ont., and Flt. Lt. Donald Gordon, of Vancouver, with two ME109s.

Double scorers included Flt. Lt. J. W. Garland, Richmond, Ont., and PO. Mac Reeves, Madoc, Ont.

Single scorers included Flt. Lt. B. MacPherson, St. Thomas, Ont.

Bombers Set Up Record In Daylight Swoops

LONDON, Jan. 3—(CP). — Eleven hundred American heavy bombers from Britain smashed rail and road centres in Western Germany to-day for the 12th consecutive day—a record for sustained winter daylight bombing—after night R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. attacks on Nurnberg and Ludwigshafen.

Skies were cloudy and only a solitary German fighter, which made an ineffectual pass at one bomber formation, was sighted by the fighter escort.

The bombers spread from 3,000 to 4,000 tons of explosives over the highway intersections, ripe for traffic jams, north-west of Karlsruhe and along the Belgian-German border, and over railyards jammed with front-bound freight at Cologne, Aschaffenburg and Kfulda, near Frankfurt.

The daylight force went out after the night raiders—more than 1,000 strong — had left Nurnberg ablaze and hit Berlin as well as Ludwigshafen.

Watchers in southeast England reported the American raiders, on their way to blast the Reich for the 12th consecutive day, were spread out across the sky in formations two miles apart, taking an hour and a quarter to pass.

The first formations started just before the backout lifted.

Heavily escorted by fighters, they represented one of the greatest masses of Forts ever seen in the Dover area.

R.A.F. night bombers attacked Berlin and R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. planes hit Ludwigshafen — where the I G. Farben industrie chemical and oil works was heavily pounded in a concentrated raid—as well as Nurnberg.

Lindsay Couple Wed 74 Years

LINDSAY, Jan. 3 (CP)—A 95-year-old man and woman who have vivid memories of the Mackenzie Rebellion and the Fenian Raids celebrated their 74th wedding anniversary yesterday in their farm home west of here.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Minthorne live in the same house in which he was born. The farm was built on land which his father and grandfather cleared from the virgin forest.

Still erect and square-shouldered, Mr. Minthorne recalls the "wonderful adventures" of his boyhood when he accompanied his father on the long trek to Whitby where they had to go for all their provisions. "It was a long and arduous journey," he said. "We carried our burdens through the forest to Lake Scugog, thence across the Lake by raft and then on again through the forest to our home."

Mrs. Minthorne was born in Devon and is proud of a family connection with ex-President Hoover of the United States.

going is heavy between Espanola on the mainland and Little Current on Manitoulin Island.

Hamilton Hit Hard

The Hamilton district has been hard hit. Snowfall there is continuing and high winds are piling it into the roads. Half the department of highways plows in the district have broken down. In nearby Caistor township all roads are blocked with some drifts six feet high on county and township arteries. Even horses are unable to get through in some places.

Joseph Upshall, storekeeper at Caistorville, said that "yesterday some of the few farmers who got in to the store nearly lost their horses in the drifts." Ernest Pettigrew, storekeeper as Caistor Centre, told of farmers driving teams across fields and over passable parts of roads to get to No. 20 Highway so they could drive to Smithville to obtain food.

Road conditions around Caistorville are reported to be worse than after the Dec. 11-12 snowstorm when it was two weeks before the community was "dug out."

The weather moderated today at Guelph but roads were still blocked and the city is without bus service. There is a general road blockade in the Owen Sound area. It was five below zero last night at Stratford with a snowfall of 15 inches. Highways to Kitchener and London are reported open but they are narrow and rough and drifting is bad. Highways to Seaforth and Clinton were blocked this morning. Passenger trains are running late and freight train service is still suspended.

There is no bus service out of the city.

Bad At Galt

Woodstock reported that the highway to Stratford now is open to traffic but drifting is continuing on most roads and highways. Buses have been getting through to London and Tillsonburg but there has been no traffic between Woodstock and Norwich since Monday. Fresh snow through the night added to the problem. Hundreds of motorists were still stranded in the district. Because of road conditions only a fraction of the usual milk supply reached the city yesterday.

In the Galt area highway traffic conditions were returning to normal. Trucks now are getting through to Hamilton and other provincial roads around the city have been opened although county and side-roads are still blocked. Farmers are using horses and sleighs and are driving through the fields to get milk to the dairies. No Toronto newspapers reached the city yesterday.

Night-long efforts of highway crews with snowplows failed to improve conditions in the Kingston district where highways and rural roads were blocked and traffic halted. Already the city has had as much snow so far this winter as during the entire winter of 1943-44. Road conditions continued bad in the Brockville area.

German movements inside the wedge were the greatest since the Nazi westward tide was stemmed, and these were mostly eastward.

There was no positive indication whether this represented an outright withdrawal of armor which Field Marshal Von Rundstedt was unwilling to risk losing, or whether it was a troop shift from the battered southern flank to meet a possible menace elsewhere.

Patton's troops swarmed forward in gains averaging at least a mile along the whole front from west of Bastogne to St. Hubert. They broadened their striking positions on both sides of Bastogne an advanced 1½ miles more to the northeast.

By last night, the thrust to the northeast through bitter German opposition had reached Arloncourt, less than a mile from Micamp, which is five miles northeast of Bastogne.

Advance Halted

A 3rd Army dispatch filed at 11.13 a.m. today, however, said "fierce German resistance on both sides of the Bastogne salient had brought an overnight halt to the advance into the neck of the bulge."

German defences came principally from small arms and anti-tank gun fire rather than from German armor. Along this whole sector where Von Rundstedt earlier had jammed his forces shoulder to shoulder, there were reports that over the past 24 hours of steady troop movements to the east and northeast.

This would be towards St. Vith, the road junction at the base of the wedge which Allied fighter-bombers have been keeping under ruinously constant attack.

Official reports from north of the salient said that flank was quiet last night. Two German patrols, one in American uniforms, were spotted. The weather still was cold and the skies were bad for flying. American troops crawled forward a few hundred yards against German outposts south of Manschau.

2 Miles East.

From Bastogne itself, the Americans by last night fought their way two more miles due east through the village of Margaret and on toward Longvilly.

Mande-St. Etienne was taken in a push of close to a mile due west along the Bastogne-Marche road.

Driving northward from the line which runs almost straight from Bastogne to St. Hubert, the Americans cleared the De Valets forest, five miles west of Bastogne. They pushed up three quarters of a mile from Monnerue, northeast of Moircy, and captured the village of Gerimont, a mile south of Tillet.

Northwest of Moircy, Patton's forces fought their way somewhat over a mile northwest into the Lambay Fays forest, 11 miles due west of Bastogne.

Overnight, 3rd Army armored elements beat off strong counter-attacks in the Michamps area and near Harzy, four miles due east. South of Bastogne the Germans heavily shelled Honville, a mile east of the Arlon Road.

German traffic inside the bulge was reported hugging secondary roads in an effort to escape detection. Artillery and planes gave the moving Germans attention. Headquarters during the night lifted the 36-hour news blackout on the battle for the bulge.

The headquarters communique said "enemy activity had increased" in the Saar valley.

The Germans hit the 3rd and 7th Army lines at almost a dozen places between the Saar and Rhine in diversionary and perhaps feeler attacks, but none of these made sizable gains and most were repulsed.

An American counter - attack against a German thrust near Werbeln, three miles west of the German steel town of Volkingen on the Saar, cleared the enemy from the town and pushed the front back as far as Schaffeusen, virtually restoring the original position.

The Germans succeeded in getting some troops into Bliesbruck in a moderate scale attack along the Blies River east of Sarreguemines, but the advance was slight.

The Americans cleared the Germans from the Bliesbruck forest a mile south of the town to which the enemy had penetrated in a push from farther east.

The Germans apparently still held their two-mile penetration along a front of approximately five miles southeast of the Maginot fortress town of Bitche, but there was no word of further gain there and the attack appeared to be firmly contained.

British Subs Bag 165 Jap Ships

LONDON, Jan. 3 — (CP). — British submarines sank at least 165 Japanese ships, including a cruiser and a destroyer, during 1944 a compilation from Navy records by The Canadian Press showed last night.

That figure, roughly, is also the total of British submarine successes since Japan entered the war on December 7, 1941, since there was little Royal Navy underwater activity against the Japanese before last year, British losses in the period were not available.

Of the 165-ship total, only 10 were warships. The remainder were merchantmen, ranging from large freighters suitable for troop transport to small coastal vessels carrying supplies to the spread-out Japanese forces.

Many other Japanese ships, including a 7,000-ton aircraft carrier, are believed to have been sunk through British submarine action, but unless there is absolutely no doubt of destruction, Navy files list them only as "probables."

Recent widespread attacks against ships supplying the Japanese Army in Burma, Sumatra, and the Andaman and Nicobar Islands mean that large and powerful submarine forces are the advance units of a Royal Navy Eastern Fleet soon to be as strong as the entire Japanese navy.

Precise locations of the submarine attacks are not given, but naval records show British undersea craft ranged from the Straits of Malacca near Singapore, along the Sumatra coast to Sabang, and north-west in the Indian Ocean to the Andamans. Many times commanders took their craft within range of enemy shore batteries.

Besides a 5,000-ton Kuma class cruiser and the destroyer, other naval vessels destroyed included landing craft, anti-submarine vessels, minesweepers, and large escorts. The cruiser was sunk a year ago in the northern approaches to the Malaca Straits. The destroyer and 2 vessels it was escorting were sunk last May south of the Andaman Islands.

Firemen Extinguish Eight Chimney Fires

Chimney fires throughout Peterborough accounted for eight calls received Tuesday by the local fire department. None caused serious damage.

Two calls coming shortly after nine o'clock in the morning started the ball rolling, and after that the firemen's day was liberally sprinkled with chimney fires. At 11:30 o'clock firemen visited the residence of E. Brumwell, 57 Hilliard street, followed by a blaze at the home of H. Clapham, 291 Townsend street, at 1:58 o'clock. At 3:07 o'clock a chimney fire at 669 Reid street, home of C. Brien, was extinguished, followed by a re-call to 220 Park street, J. Armour, where overheated pipes were the trouble.

Next call was received at 3:31 o'clock, to the residence of H. Hutchinson, 143 Rubidge street. From then until close to midnight comparative peace was in effect at the fire hall, but one last chimney fire before midnight ended the day. This was to the residence of G. Langhorne, 772 Water street, at 11:52 o'clock.

Compared with some other days the fire department has experienced, Tuesday was a "quiet" day.

Although this counter-attack was too far distant to affect the fate of the Germans cut off in Budapest, a force of the latter, possibly in sheer desperation, tried and failed to break out of the western part of the Hungarian capital.

Soviet correspondents said Russian guns of all calibres were battering deeper inside the city, sometimes duelling at less than 100-yard range with German tanks and self-propelled artillery.

An Izvestia correspondent said the Germans had converted Budapest University into a fortress in the centre of blocks of burning houses. He said fire and smoke enveloped the commercial district along the riverside.

South of Bologna German patrols overran a 5th Army outpost in the Livergnano area, but American troops counter-attacked and recaptured the post.

British Jungle Troops Are Nearing Mandalay

KANDY, Ceylon, Jan. 3 — (CP). — British jungle troops, sweeping across the Shwebo district of Upper Burma virtually unopposed, have entered Yeu, terminus of a railway to Mandalay via Monywa on the lower Chindwin, it was announced officially today.

At Yeu the Allied forces were less than 70 airline miles northwest of Mandalay and only 22 from Shwebo.

Other troops who Monday occupied the Mu Canal village of Kabo, 12 miles northeast of Yeu, were consolidating their position. The Kabo plant which controls the water supply for the entire Shwebo plain was captured undamaged.

The Empire expressed the belief that agreement between Arabs and Jews is wholly possible provided that Jewish immigration ceases at this point.

"As for those already here, we are prepared to take them to our hearts, assisting their protection and give them the honor and prestige their achievements warrant.

"What we won't accept is the probability of being stampeded by the continued arrival of Jewish thousands. In short, the Arab world expects Britain to stand by the White Paper and its specific guarantees to the Arabs."

Monty Lauds Gen. Eisenhower

LONDON, Jan. 3 — (CP). — Field-Marshal Montgomery told Gen. Eisenhower in a New Year's message that he and his troops under his command would "follow you anywhere."

Both the Allied Supreme Commander and the British Field-Marshal, head of the 21st Army group composed of the 1st Canadian and 2nd British Armies, expressed confidence of victory in 1945 in an exchange of greetings made public to-day.

Eisenhower wrote of his "profound gratitude" for the services of Montgomery and his troops.

"In full knowledge of your continued loyalty and devotion, I am confident that 1945 will be for us a year of victory and will bring us peace," we said, "Good luck to you all."

"I want to assure you of the personal devotion and loyalty of myself and all those under my command," said Montgomery. "We will follow you anywhere."

Driver Fined $30 For Yule Accident

As the result of a Christmas accident on George street in which several persons were injured Herman Wease was fined $30 and $2.50 costs or a month in jail in police court this morning after he had entered a plea of guilty to a charge of careless driving.

Inspector James F. Reid told the court that the accused had been drinking. His car had got over on to the wrong side of the road and although the woman driver of another automobile had pulled over into the snowbank to avoid being hit there was a collision, considerable damage was done to her car and several persons received slight injuries.

Elmer Bell who pleaded guilty to a charge of having acted as a chauffeur without a chauffeur's license was fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

[illegible] In Tokyo [illegible]nds Letter Home

TRENT RIVER, Jan. 3 — (ENS) —For the third time in four years, Rfmn. Ralph Alley, a prisoner of war in Tokyo, has been able to send mail to his mother, Mrs. George Alley, telling her he is well and asking to be remembered to his friends.

The letter, written April 4, 1944, reads:

"Just a few lines to let you know that I am well at present, and hope you and dad are the same. I have received many letters and a parcel, half containing food. Some of the Campbellford boys are here with me, and are feeling fine and hope to be home soon. We are getting ready for many good feeds when we get home, and I am considering taking a year's vacation when I'm back.

"The Red Cross is sure trying to do a lot for the prisoners of Japan, and we hope that they continue to do all they can. I have not received a parcel from home yet, but certainly hope to.

"We are all wishing and waiting the end. Tell the people of around home that I am well and have asked for them."

Rfmn. Alley enlisted in May, 1940, at 18 years of age, with the 1st Midland Regiment, later transferring to the Royal Rifles of Canada, and was taken prisoner at Hong Kong on December 24 of the same year, where he has now spent his fourth Christmas.

Before enlisting he was the Examiner carrier boy for this community for some time. Another brother Carmen is now serving in Holland, having been in the service four years, while a second brother Clarence served two years in the service, being discharged about a year ago. George Alley, his father, also served in the Army in Canada for nearly two years.

New Seating Plan For Legislature

TORONTO, Jan. 3 — (CP). — There will be new seating plan for the 1945 Ontario Legislature, it was learned at Queen's Park last night.

Two new Cabinet ministers—Dana Porter, Minister of Planning and Development, and Liquor Commissioner W. G. Webster, minister without portfolio — will be given seats on Treasury Row. Mitchell Hepburn will move from his present seat and will take Harry C. Nixon's seat as the Liberal House Leader.

A new seat will be found for Nelson Alles, C.C.F. member for Essex North, who has broken with his party on Labor policy. Speaker W. J. Stewart may also have a House seat this year following the practice of two former Speakers.

Nurses Refuse To Punch New Time Clock

TORONTO, Jan. 3—Installation of a new time clock at the Toronto East General Hospital caused a strong feeling of resentment on the part of nurses yesterday. Out of a total of 27 nurses who reported for duty at the 7.30 a.m. shift yesterday, 25 refused to punch the clock. The afternoon shift went all out when 75 out of 75 nurses refused to punch the clock. The nurses declared that they were professional women and it was beneath their dignity to punch a time clock.

According to W. E. Leonard, hospital official, the clock was installed to afford easier means of knowing who is in the building. "We are not trying to keep tag on our staff," said Mr. Leonard, "but I think any one will agree that it is very difficult to keep track of a staff of 400 without some such system.

The time clock applies to hospital officials, technicians and even the superintendent of nurses.

"This is a public institution, supported by public money, and I think that any one will agree that we should do our utmost to bring a high standard of efficiency to this institution," declared one official.

"I think when the nurses have a few days to consider the matter, they will, undoubtedly, agree that they are only being requested to do the same as any well-run office staff in any large business concern or institution," said another official.

Although this system is used in few Canadian hospitals, it has been readily accepted and has been proved a highly satisfactory system in the United States, according to Mr. Leonard. "I believe that this system will soon be adopted by numerous Canadian hospitals," he declared. "However, we realize that we are pioneers as far as Canada is concerned, and we did expect some resentment, but none of the nurses has refused to work, and no serious trouble is anticipated," he added.

2,844 Veterans Draw Benefits

OTTAWA, Jan. 3 (CP)—Veterans Minister Mackenzie announced today that post-discharge re-establishment benefits were paid 2,844 ex-service men and women in November—an all-time high figure and 1,000 more than the September total of 1,810.

Also in November, jobs were found for 15,487 veterans of the present and first Great Wars. Of these, 11,930 went to veterans of this war, an increase of 2,500 over the number placed by National Selective Service in September.

The figure on placements was in excess of discharges from all three services, indicating Selective Service and the Veterans' Department was more than keeping pace with discharges.

Post-discharge benefits are payable to veterans who are taking vocational training or higher education, who are unemployed because no suitable work is available, or who are awaiting returns from a farm or business venture.

Of the 2,844 veterans who were paid such benefits during November, 435 were awaiting suitable employment and only 283 of these were still in receipt of benefits at the end of the month. Payments were made to 454 ex-service personnel who were taking university or professional training and 1,887 grants were paid to those taking vocational training.

The total amount expended under the order in November was $152,756 compared with $88,246 in September.

Congress Faces Lively Session On War Issues

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 —(AP) — The 79th Congress of the United States comes to life officially today, grimly agreed that the war is far from won but divided over ways to reinforce the home front.

The thump of the gavel in both houses clears the deck for traditional swearing-in ceremonies.

Most business will be postponed until after President Roosevelt's fourth wartime message on the state of the Union is read to members in a joint session Saturday.

But controversy already had begun to develop around an issue as old as the fighting itself— proposals for universal service legislation.

The President gave a sort of approval to talk about work-or-fight legislation at yesterday's White House news conference. When a reporter asked if he was for that kind of law Mr. Roosevelt said he thought so. He added it was up to Congress to write the ticket.

The President said he was in substantial accord with the recommendations of war mobilizer James F. Byrnes. These included an appeal for broadened government control over men rejected by the army as physically unfit.

This fund some support in Congress, mixed with strong dissent. There also was argument over a Byrnes suggestion that the War Labor Board be given authority to enforce its orders without resorting to government seizure of plants. His proposals for enactment of post-war tax changes got a cool reception in some quarters.

The House Military Committee will meet Friday to decide what to do about Mr. Byrnes' idea that the 4,000,000 4-F's should be made subject to assignment to war plant jobs. Members will consider also whether to hold hearings on Universal Service Legislation that would give the government the right to tell men and women they must take war jobs.

15,000 British Brides Seek Entry To U.S.A.

By BARBARA WACE

LONDON, Jan. 3 — (AP). — From 12,000 to 15,000 British girls married to American soldiers applied for visas to the United States in 1944.

There will be thousands of British brides setting up house in the United States in the next few years, aided by a digest of "Bride's Guide to the U.S.A." published in Good Housekeeping" magazine. The guide was compiled by the magazine in conjunction with the Office of War Information. Many of the tips will be applicable to the thousands of British war brides who will make their home in Canada after the war.

Squarely facing national differences in eating habits, manners and national ideas, the booklet points out how to avoid the most likely pitfalls.

The breakfast menu, which will make the war-rationed British girl's mouth water, clearly demands cereals with cream, eggs and bacon, which is crisply-fried, and toast (hot and buttered).

The digest says frankly: "Most British brides will arrive in America entirely unknown. No one knows who you were at home and in most cases no one cares very much to dig into your past. Practically no American is able to 'place' you by your accent. It is what you are that is important. If they like you, they like you, and if they don't like you a good address in London is of no help."

"Listen, look around and take your time," the article advises. It goes on to explain that American humor is different and must be taken calmly.

"The kidding perhaps is harder to get used to, but you have to learn to take it."

The British brides were told that "in America it is good manners to praise everything you like whether it is food, furniture or the view from the window."

The earnest little English miss anxious to impress her "in-laws" was advised to "dress your smartest for your first interview, and remember that except in the smallest villages lipstick is expected."

The difference in American sport and the proper preparation for a big ball game was explained to the girls used to decorous British cricket crowds.

"One unwritten rule," the booklet says, "is that the spectators may probably go quite wild and use violent language. Don't be shocked. It is all in fun."

Crerar Applauds Airborne Troops

ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Jan. 3 (AP)—Gen. Crerar, commander of the 1st Canadian Army, has congratulated the U.S. 101st Airborne Division—heroes of the siege of Bastogne — which once fought through the Low Countries under his command.

Crerar's message read:

"All ranks of the 1st Canadian Army have watched with admiration the magnificent manner in which their friends of the 101st U.S. Airborne have fought it out with the enemy around Bastogne. Our high regards and congratulations."

The General commanding the Airborne unit replied:

"The officers and men of the 101st Airborne Division are grateful for the message from the 1st Canadian Army. It is a point of pride to this division to have worked as part of the 1st Canadian Army in Holland."

Snow Delays Court

COBOURG, Jan. 3. — (ENS). — There was no court Tuesday afternoon on account of the weather. Magistrate R. B. Baxter was unable to hold court due to the fact that he was snowbound near Picton. The magistrate from Lindsay was unable to hold court at Bowmanville because he, too, was snowbound.

1944 Council Meets For Last Time

COBOURG Jan. 3—(ENS)— An account of the stewardship of the 1944 council was given Tuesday morning when Mayor Jack Burnet and the old council held its final meeting, turning over the reins of office to Mayor Roy Dodge and his 1945 council. Rumours that the revelation of last week's election recount might result in a move to declare the whole election void, were thick Tuesday but nothing happened.

Ex-mayor Burnet in a comment of the year's work, expressed regret that the fixed assessment by-law had failed to pass. Speaking of the suggestion of rural residents that the new post-war highway pass further north than the present survey, Mr. Burnet declared that many apparently did not realize what it would mean if the highway should run further north. Westbound traffic would be inclined to drive right on to the Port Hope—Peterborough highway juncture and by-pass the connecting links at Cobourg and other centres along the line, should the new route go further north, he said.

During 1944 there had been two definite industrial enquiries but until the war was over it would be impossible to close the deal, he pointed out. Speaking of the Arlington lots which the town purchased from a syndicate for park purposes, Mr. Burnet informed the council that he had started the syndicate which bought the property and then sold it to the town to prevent other hands getting hold of it. Interviews had been made with the Department of Public Works in regard to getting the east and T-piers repaired. Also during the year the local rink had been acquired by the municipality.

Need Ability

Mr. Burnet explained that the opposition from some to the appointment of Jack Ewart as town clerk-and-treasurer was a case of "why not hire my boy?" He stated that accounting ability as well as municipal experience was wanted for such a job and Mr. Ewart possessed both.

The new council appointed Reeve Robert Love, Deputy-Reeve Douglas Glenn and councillors Field, Morton and Jeffery to the striking committee, who brought in the following committee for 1945.

Highways and Streets — Eddie Morton, chairman; Deputy - Reeve Douglas Glenn; Reeve R. Love and Councillor J. Runciman; Public Buildings, Printing — Councillor Jeffery; Reeve Love, Deputy - Reeve Glen, Mrs. C. Delany; police—Reeve Love, councillors W. Wenn and Alan Field; fire, water and light—Glenn, Delany and Jeffery; market and Licence committee—Delany, Runciman and Wenn; health and sanitation—Runciman, Jeffery, Delany and Morton; by-laws—Field, Wenn and Delany; finance — Field, Morton, Love and Jeffery; court of revision—Wenn, Morton, Runciman, Glenn and Field; manufacturing and rehabilitation — Mayor Dodge and council.

90 Superforts Batter Osaka

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 3 —(AP) —About 90 Saipan-based Superforts bombed the Aircraft Centre of Nagoya and neighbouring industrial cities of Osaka and Hamamatsu today, a Japanese Imperial Communique reported. This is the largest number OB29S officially reported by the Japanese as being over Japan.

The communique, broadcast by the Domei News Agency and recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, claimed that 17 Superforts were downed and 25 damaged. Four of those downed were listed as probables and three as being destroyed by body-crash attacks.

The enemy claim followed an earlier War Department announcement from Washington that B29s of the 21st Bomber Command had struck again at Honshu, the main island of Japan.

The three industrial cities Tokyo reported were attacked to-day are on the south-central coast of Honshu. Osaka and Hamamatsu respectively, are roughly 75 miles southwest and southwest of Nagoya whose two big Mitsubishi Aircraft plants have been repeated targets of B29 raids.

Japanese reports said the B29s struck in waves in mid-afternoon with almost perfect visibility for the bombardiers.

Nab 2 Prisoners

SELLS, Ariz., Jan. 3—(AP)—Indians provided the first clew that led to the apprehension yesterday of two weary German U-boat prisoners after they plodded across nearly 175 miles of cactus-studded desert bound for Mexico.

Their capture brought to 10 the number of Germans caught since 25 fled from the Papago park prisoner camp at Phoenix, Ariz., Christmas Eve. The two are Heinrich Palmer and Reinhard Mark.

Trinity Club Plans Social Evenings

Trinity Young People's Club has undertaken to sponsor a series of social gatherings, with refreshments, in the church parlors at the close of the evening services on Sundays, during the next few months of the new year. A number of other church organizations have already signified their intention to help along this worthy undertaking, and it is planned to hold the first 1945 social evening on Sunday, January 14th next (when the Y. M. C. A. groups will attend the 7.00 p.m. service in a body). The second such social hour will be held at the close of the evening service on Sunday, January 28th next. A special invitation is being extended to all men and women in the Armed Forces to be present at the services and remain for the fellowship meetings following.

Franco Regime To Fall Soon Official Claims

NEW YORK, Jan. 3. — (AP).— Spain's last Republican Premier, Dr. Juan Negrin, said last night in a speech cabled from London that the Franco regime would be succeeded by "a stable, tolerant and progressive republic."

At the same time he rejected— "emphatically, no!" were his words —any intervention of other powers in Spanish affairs.

Negrin's remarks were cabled to a Madison Square Garden rally organized by the Nation magazine to demand that the United States break relations with the Franco Government.

Negrin asserted that the Spanish people "are ready and able to handle their own affairs, on condition that we are let alone. . . ."

"We have had two centuries of experience with foreign interventions and a bitter memory, so costly have they been for us," he said. "For the last of these interventions that one that by supreme sarcasm was so hypocritically labelled non-intervention—we are still paying.

"We would welcome, and we would be grateful for the sympathy, the help, the collaboration of friends. But the intervention of powers; no! emphatically no!"

Negrin, explaining he had kept silent for years because he "did not want to add fuel to the political bickerings within the Spanish emigration," said exiled Spaniards would reconcile their differences "when the moment comes."

"And, rest assured also that there will be in Spain a stable, progressive Republic, grounded in a sweeping amnesty," he declared.

Admirable Civic Broadcast

Most citizens of Peterborough, we are sure, approved heartily of the admirable civic broadcast which, at the instigation of the Mayor, was given to welcome the people of North Monaghan to citizenship in this city. The idea of such a broadcast was a graceful one, and it was carried off with dignity and sincerity.

The 4,346 people of the new section would have been just as much citizens if there had been no broadcast; the population would have risen just as irrevocably from 28,031 to 32,379; and the new citizens would have been just as free to enjoy all the privileges of city life, to share city expenses, and to grumble at city officials if they had had no official welcome. But the welcome was forthcoming, and we think that everyone was the better for it.

Government of any kind is impossible without ceremony; however democratic a community may be it must observe protocol and traditional observance in its public functions or those functions will quickly cease to be orderly and impressive. Sometimes local governments neglect ceremony to the point where slovenliness begins, and their ineffectuality may be traced in part to this cause. But we think that in Peterborough a good balance is maintained between no ceremony at all and an over-elaboration of ceremony. The broadcast on New Year's Day was a good example of civic ceremony—which really means the same thing as civic courtesy and proper pride—very pleasantly and effectively performed.

There is one civic ceremony which used to be common in places like Peterborough, which we should like to see revived, and that is an annual Mayor's Dinner; the Mayor and the Aldermen work all the year 'round to keep the city in good trim, and we should like to see them have a really good dinner once a year at the expense of the ratepayers. Let no pinchpenny protest against the cost of such a blow-out; a good Corporation saves us the price of a hundred such dinners every year. We suggest that the Council discuss the revival of the fine old custom when next it meets. Let's show the rest of Ontario that we know how to do things in style.

Humours Of The Honours List

His Majesty's 1945 New Year's Honours List was not without its humours. David Lloyd George, for instance, the radical who did more than anyone else to tumble down the castles and the stately homes of England, has become an Earl. It is noticeable that radicals, if they live long enough and are lucky, usually end up in the seats of the mighty, and if the Earldom persists we predict that the grandchildren of the Welsh Wizard will be fine crusted Tories. We notice also, with a broad grin, that the secretary of the Boilermakers' Union and the Iron and Steel Shipbuilders' Union is now Sir Mark Hodgson; the children of a knight, naturally, will not be expected to make boilers or build ships. The path to social advancement, obviously, lies through service to one's fellowmen.

Great numbers of decorations were awarded to members of the armed services, some of whom have been honoured on so many occasions that they have almost the status of collectors. Some of the honours, clearly, are richly deserved and will be worn with dignity by the men who have received them. Canada maintains its priggish disdain of knighthoods, wishing perhaps to give the impression that in Canada virtue is its own reward; it is observable, however, that it is from Canada that the suggestion has been made that the award of the V.C. should carry a substantial pension with it. We may scorn titles but we are still bearcats for a pension

The Honours List, though very long, does not appear to carry the name of a single artist, musician, actor or man of letters; in wartime such riffraff need not look for official recognition. But the late Professor A. N. Whitehead, who for at least fifteen years was recognized as one of the two or three great philosophers of our day, has been awarded the Order of Merit—posthumously. The official view apparently is that the only good philosopher is a dead philosopher; it is fortunate that the official view has not yet infected every phase of life in the British Commonwealth.

Two New Year Speeches

At the turn of the year both Churchill and Hitler made predictions about the length of the war: Churchill said that "before many months have passed" the war in Europe would be over, and Hitler promised his people that the war would end in 1945 only if Germany won it.

During the past five years we have come to know both Churchill and Hitler pretty well, and we know that whatever the British Prime Minister may say from time to time he never means more than that the war will end when—it ends. As for Hitler, we know that he is not as much of a windbag as we once thought, and that if he says he will fight all through this year he certainly means to try it. It is pointless to say that Germany is finished, and cannot last much longer; we have been saying that for years, and we ought to realize by now that it is what we hope and not what we know which begets this opinion. We thought that Germany was on her last legs this autumn, but Germany made a counter-offensive against our lines which we have not yet curbed; that counter-offensive has made us think seriously about the efficacy of our command and our strategy. Germany is far from finished, and if Hitler says that he will fight to the last German, that is what he means.

The war in Europe may end suddenly, but we dare not count on it. The Germans cannot win: that is to say, they cannot drive the Allies back from the German border with such losses that they are forced to capitulate and offer Germany terms of peace. But the Germans can avoid a crushing defeat by keeping their stomach for war after we have lost ours; it has been made clear during the past six weeks that our weariness of war has betrayed us, and strengthened the hand of the enemy.

Both Churchill and Hitler have to make promises of victory in 1945; it is expected of them. The odds are heavily behind Churchill. But we must realize that those odds are the Allied peoples, and that his cautious hope can only be made a fact if we all stick at the jobs we are doing as faithfully as we did during 1941 and 1942, when our chances of victory were slim indeed.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Kitchener Record aptly observes that people, like boats, toot loudest when in a fog.

"Frigid Wave Hits California" says a headline. And the London Free Press makes the oblique comment: "Evidently one without any Hollywood ambitions".

Private Smokey Smith, V.C., spent a part of his first day at home in New Westminster, B.C., at a tea given for him by a women's organization. What these heroes go through!

A New York shop offers handkerchiefs at $225 each. And that, remarks the Ottawa Citizen with earthy bluntness, is the sort of thing that leads to blowing the nose with the thumb.

The French horn player in the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra has married one of the lady first violinists. An ideal match: he will blow his own horn and she will never have to play second fiddle.

Of the $50,000 left him by the late Sir William Mulock, Prime Minister King will get about $15,000, the rest going in provincial and Dominion succession duties. We wish that fellow Ilsley could share this first-hand experience.

Not until the Third Century was the birth of Christ celebrated to any extent. There was no general agreement on the date but December 25, January 6, and March 25 were most commonly chosen. When the Bishop of Rome started to observe the festival on December 25 in A.D. 354, the date as we know it became established.

A Congressman from California who has been touring in the Pacific announces that Australia's war effort 'disgusts' him. This seems unfriendly, particularly after the kindly way in which the Australians treated the American servicemen who turned up there as refugees from Guadalcanal and other Pacific battles.

How Literate Are Canadians?

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

ABOUT a week ago a reporter from the Toronto "Globe and Mail" interviewed a number of second-hand booksellers in that city, asking them questions about their trade; he found that they were not impressed by Toronto libraries, and agreed that there were no real 'collectors' in that city. This is interesting, because Toronto is about as literate a city as will be found anywhere in Canada, and if Toronto is at fault in this respect, where does the rest of the country stand? Your answer, of course, will depend to a great extent on what you happen to think about the second-hand booksellers of Toronto.

FOR my part, excepting two or three who really know their business, I do not think much of them. Their knowledge of buying and selling old books in the ordinary way is sound enough, but they do not know much about books in general, and I have never found them particularly courteous or helpful in my searches for out-of-the-way books. They complain that there are no collectors in Canada; it is possible, of course, that no real collector would cross their thresholds. Contrary to popular belief, very few collectors spend hours pawing over the duty debris in second-hand bookshops in search of undiscovered treasures; collectors usually go to shops where the treasures have already been found, and they expect to pay a fair price for them. The Toronto booksellers complain, it appears, that anyone in that city who owns a book more than 50 years old thinks that it is worth a fortune; there are booksellers in that city who suffer from a kindred delusion. To them, any rubbishy little pamphlet published in this country before 1860 is 'Canadiana', and they have quaint ideas of its worth.

THE fine items of Canadiana, they complain, go to the States. This may well be so; Canadiana is not every collector's meat, and it may prove more attractive to a collector in another country than it does at home. It depends on what sort of collector you are, whether Canadiana appeals to you or not. If you are intent upon making a complete collection of Canadiana, any necessary item will appeal to you, but such colecting is of no more literary significance than collecting matchboxes; it is mere accumulation. If you collect books to read, much that passes as Canadiana will be of no interest, for it is virtually unreadable.

OF the two types of collector, booksellers greatly prefer the first. He will buy anything which is wanted to round out his collection, and if his ardour is bright enough, and his purse long enough, he will be a valuable client to his bookseller. The second man, who buys to read, and who likes first editions and old books merely for their association, is a less obliging fellow: a political pamphlet on a forgotten cause, or a book of sermons, or the memoirs of some trifling and insigificant person are worthless to him, and he cannot be persuaded to buy. But is the literacy of a city, or a nation, to be judged by the number of these squirrel-collectors that it possesses? Is it not probable that the man who collected old books in order to read them is the more intelligent and discriminating person?

IT is not my intention to assert that Toronto is a city filled with highly cultivated book readers and book collectors; no such city exists in Canada, which is still too raw a country to produce any large cultivated class. But I do say that second-hand booksellers are not the best judges of such a matter. They have a trade interest in the affair which clouds their judgement, and they have not enough rare books in their shops to attract the collector's trade. There are few collectors in Canada who can pay more than a hundred dollars for a fine book, but there are several among my own acquaintance who will pay up to that figure, and there is a good profit to be made in such trading. The booksellers of Toronto might be surprised to know how many books are brought into this country from booksellers in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia—books which they themselves are not interested in supplying, though some of them are items of Canadiana.

A BOOKSELLER'S idea of a collector and my idea of a collector differ in one essential respect: he likes the man who buys books as an investment, and I like the man who buys books to read. Many of the books which are the safest investments are impossible to read, and almost any junk (including dime novels with the advertisement of a particular soap on the back) has a value if it is arranged in a special significant order. But rare book values are, in the main, false values, like the values of so many things that people collect. Far be it from me to deny the charm of an old book which has given pleasure to generations of readers, but its value is strictly sentimental, and a country in which it is sparsely appreciated is not necessarily illiterate because of that.

Charles Dana Gibson

There were reasons why Charles Dana Gibson was the most celebrated pen-and-ink artist of his time as well as a painter applauded by the critics of his later work. He was both a social satirist and the delineator of the spirit of an era. He even had a part in the creation of that spirit. The Gibson girl was something we wanted and in which we took a pure delight. Nor has that delight then dissipated wholly by the years since the Nineties, as the most casual glance at reproductions of the artist's earlier work will prove. For twenty years, in a period of great illustrators, he influenced life and fashions in this and other countries because he had vitality of thought as well of draftsmanship.

There were things less well known about him but no less to be regarded now. He was a fine public-spirited citizen, associated with many good causes. He had the kind of friends that warmth, vitality and integrity make. Even those of his era who never knew him except on the printed page held him in admiring affection. In art and among humanity his place is secure.—New York Times.

A REAL ACTOR

An actor riding home in his car with his wife, after a gay party, became abusive. First the actor was merely insulting, then he started to slap his wife, then he punched her. After a couple of punches, the wife yelled: "Help! Help!"

The actor leaned over and said: "Don't be frightened, dear. I'm with you."

Worst November In Years

(By SENATOR RUPERT DAVIES)

IT is good to be back in Canada again in the land of crisp wintry weather and bright sunshine. Unfortunately, I struck the worst November which they have had in Britain in many years. There was rain nearly every day, and for several days at a time there were heavy dull gray clouds in the sky from the time the sun rose about nine o'clock until it set about five. The trip home was uneventful, but it could hardly be called comfortable. Luxury travel is a thing of the past on the high seas today. The sleeping accommodation was crowded, but the meals were good, and the speed of the ship most satisfactory. We were just about a week from port to port. One thing I discovered in making my way by devious routes one Sunday to the port from which I was to sail, and that is that traffic in the Midlands is quite as heavy as traffic out of London. All the trains seem to be crowded; and strange as it may seem, despite the blacked-out carriages, the blacked-out stations and some unintelligible shouting on the platform (supposed to indicate the name of the station), people do seem to arrive at their destinations without much fuss or bother. The people of Britain have become so used to discomfort and inconvenience during the five years they have been at war that conditions which before the war they would not have tolerated have now become their normal way of life. In the trains they take matters philosophically, and help one another. They are a wonderful people.

I HAVE referred before to the strict rationing which the population of Britain is undergoing at the present time. I want to deal with it now in greater detail so that our readers will see exactly what the position is. Rationed goods for one person for one week are as follows:

| | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|
| ½ lb. sugar | | 2 |
| 2 oz. tea | | 5 |
| ¼ lb. bacon | | 6 |
| 3 oz. cheese | | 2¼ |
| ½ lb. fats: | | |
| 2 oz. butter | | 2½ |
| ¼ lb. margarine | | 2¼ |
| 2 oz. lard | | 1⅛ |
| Meat | 1 | 2 |
| Total cash for rationed goods | 2 | 11⅛ |

Shredded suet, free, but very short in supply.

Children under five receive no tea, but there is provision for orange juice, cod liver oil, etc., in place of tea.

Each person is allowed 24 points each four-weekly period, or 6 points weekly. All cereals are on points with the exception of oatmeal. All canned fish and meats are on points, as are dried fruits and canned fruits. Meat pastes and sausages are free of rationing when obtainable. Each person is allowed three ozs. of soap each week, or soap powder in place of soap; washing soda is free of points.

Unrationed goods include coffee, cocoa, sauces, pickles, flour, tinned soups (supplied on quota of 1939 buying), semolina, cornflour, custard powder (on quota).

Each person is allowed 1 lb. of preserves each month, with a choice of jam, marmalade, lemon curd or mincemeat, and ¾ lb. of sweets per month.

Points needed for some of the rationed articles include: milk, 6 points her tin; canned pilchards, herrings, 2 points per tin; grade 1 salmon, 20 points per ½ lb. tin; grade 2 salmon, 8 points per ½ lb. tin; dried fruits, 8 points per lb.; canned meats, 12 points per ¾ lb. tin; rice, 4 points per lb.; biscuits, 8 points per lb.; unsweetened biscuits, 4 points per lb.; syrup and treacle, 8 points per lb.; imported marmalade, 4 points per lb.

Heavy workers have a special ration of ¾ lb. cheese weekly. Eggs are rationed, one each per week. Allocations of eggs are not guaranteed, however, for any special period, but depend on supply. One grocer told me he had had two deliveries in one month, and then been six weeks without a delivery. There is a good supply of dried eggs, and these have been greatly appreciated after the people became accustomed to using them. Adults receive 24 clothing coupons per year. A good suit costs 16 coupons.

HOUSING is a matter which is creating tremendous interest in Great Britain at the present time. Since the appointing of Mr. Duncan Sandys to the position of Minister of Housing in place of Lord Portal, some changes have been made in the immediate plans. Lord Portal had intended to erect large numbers of steel houses as temporary habitations; these were called "Portal houses." Mr. Sandys has changed this plan somewhat, but is still trying to rush through a large-scale program of housing to take care of those who find themselves without any comfortable place to live at the present time.

While arrangements for temporary housing are being rushed through, a long-time plan is also being carried out in both urban and rural districts. I saw a number of the new urban houses, and also some of the permament houses which are being erected for agricultural laborers in the farming districts. Building costs are very high today—practically double what they were before the war. On the other hand, the type of agricultural laborer's cottage which is being erected is a vast improvement on the old dark, dingy cottages which were built for agricultural laborers in the nineteenth century. I went to look at three new agricultural laborers' cottages which had been built on a hillside lane of red brick with slate roofs. The three houses were built as a unit, and they cost £750 each. They have large windows front and back, upstairs and downstairs. In each cottage there are two rooms downstairs and a small kitchen, two good bedrooms upstairs and a bathroom.

I WAS very much interested in the tendency to make life easier and more comfortable for the agricultural laborer. In the nineteenth century he or his wife would probably have had to carry their water from the farm pump, or a well at some distance. The best they could have expected would have been a pump in their own back yard. Today, farm laborers' houses are equipped with bathrooms, and with water pumped to the kitchen sink. This is done by building them near streams or rivers and deflecting water from the stream to work a ram which rams water from a near-by spring to a tank in the attic, which practically assures them of an inexhaustible supply of pure water.

BUILDING at the present time is very expensive in Britain. This is attributed to two things: high cost of materials, and the fact that only the older workmen are left at home and naturally they are not as fast as the younger men. The cost of bricklaying is doubled, but it is still far from being as high as it is in Canadian communities. There is a great demand for houses. I saw a very nice seven-roomed house, which had been built a few years ago for £1,200, sold by auction for £2,950. Incidentally, I should add that the agricultural laborers' cottages rent for 13s. a week—five or six times as much as the old-fashioned cottages rented for in the days before the war.

ONE IN 130,000,000

There is one man in the United States who will not buy a bond in the Sixth Victory Loan campaign now in progress. His name is Henry Morgenthau, Jr.

At a Loan rally, Mr. Morgenthau remarked that it is only necessary "to ask them to buy" in order to sell bonds. The lady chairman of the local War Finance Committee promptly called his number by asking him to buy a bond from her. He refused. Then he explained that the only person in the United States who is not permitted to buy War Bonds or any other type of Government securities is the Secretary of the Treasury. He is forbidden by Federal law.—Halifax Chronicle.

WOUNDS OF PARIS

Letter in London Telegraph

Sir,—In France, the worst damage is invisible; it has been done to the soul of the nation. The passionate desire to get rid of the abhorred presence of the enemy has compelled the French to make use of all sorts of deceit and cheating in their relations with the aggressor. In an invaded country such foul play is perfectly legitimate.

These normally pernicious habits, however, gradually permeate a man's mind until they become ingrained and can, at best, only be eliminated gradually and very slowly. Men and women who, by sheer force of a circumstance, have grown used to violating daily the laws of human decency in their relations with the enemy are bound to resort to them in their dealings with their compatriots and their Allies.

One may well feel almost desperate at this dreadful degradation of the soul and it is but scant solace to reflect that it was unavoidable and that the French are no more repsonsible for it than a soldier is for his scars.

The English can never be sufficeintly grateful for the fact that, by the grace of God and the accident of geography, they have been spared this worst of war damages, which goes mostly unrecognised and for which there will never be any compensation.

F. BOILIOT.
Member of the French Provisional Consultative Assembly, Paris.

A Bible Message

And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, and say unto them, Ye shall be holy, for I the Lord your God am holy.... Turn ye not unto idols, nor make to yourselves molten gods: I am the Lord your God.... And ye shall not swear by my name falsely, neither shalt thou profane the name of thy God: I am the Lord. (Lev. 19: 1, 2, 4, 12.)

Who hath directed the Spirit of the Lord, or being his counsellor hath taught him? With whom took he counsel, and who instructed him, and taught him in the path of judgment, and taught him knowledge, and shewed to him the way of understanding?....

All nations before him are as nothing; and they are counted to him less than nothing, and vanity. To whom then will ye liken God? or what likeness will ye compare unto him? (Isa. 40: 13, 14, 17, 18.)

Unconsidered Trifles

A drunk staggered up to a man at a night-club bar, and said; "You remind me of my wife, shir. The reshemblance is amasing. You'd be a double for her, if it weren't for the moustache."

"But I have no moustache," the other protested.

"I know," replied the drunk, "but my wife has."

The church was crowded for the bride was one of the most popular girls in the town. After the ceremony, friends rushed to kiss the bride. After about half an hour the breathless girl looked puzzled and, looking down at one little man, she said:

"I don't know you. Why are you kissing me?"

The little man scratched his head.

"I dunno, lady. When I joined this queue outside I understood it was for razor blades!"

A man entered an engineering shop and asked to see the manager. When he came face to face with the latter he said: "I'm looking for a job as a mechanic."

The manager looked at him hard for a moment, and then said:—

"But aren't you the man we fired last week?"

"That's right."

"Then," asked the manager, "why have you come here look for a job?"

"Why not?" retorted the applicant, truculent, "I lost it here, didn't I?"

Sidewalk Etiquette

Traffic officials who long ago overtook automobiles, buggies, and bicycles have just attempted to clap a regulation harness on shanks' mare in its own right-of-way, the sidewalk, and have received a severe kickback. Under the new Toronto bylaw, there was to have been no more free wheeling on the heel and skimming around a corner on the left-hand side. Despite a world swing to the left, walking Torontonians were told that henceforth they must cling to the right, and give a hand signal before turning.

We expect further clarification of the rules would have been called for. For example, in the case of a bundle-laden shopper, would an elbow manceuver fill the bill, and would there be any redress for adjacent pedestrians if the signalling hand should, perchance, contain an umbrella or cane? And what about rear-view mirrors on hats? On reflection, there's an idea there.

If one glimpsed a boring acquaintance bearing down on him, he could always quicken his pace. But not run! Ah, no, running was not to be done in Toronto this year, particularly after streetcars.

Nothing was said about any reverse motion, which perhaps was just as well, for after five days' mistrial, Toronto officials themselves beat a signal retreat, ran for cover from the laughter of their fellow-Canadians and repealed the ordinance.—Christian Science Monitor.

PLAYING DETECTIVE

A group of ladies belong to a swanky bridge club. Some discovered that money and jewelry were being stolen during the game. They suspected one of the members, and decided to make a long and patient test. Each week a different member would absent herself from the sessions. When all the others had taken turns in being absent, and the thefts nevertheless continued at each game, they agreed that the eighth member, who had attended all sessions, must be the guilty one. The lady, who bears a distinguished New York name, was asked to resign, and did.—Leonard Lyons, in New York Post.

JUST FOR WOMEN

By CONNIE NICHOLSON (Society Editor of The Examiner)

With Santa now returned to his home in the North, Canadians are sitting back, with memories of Christmas and New Year's dinners, studying the abundance of gifts and good cheer old Saint Nick brought them.

However, in the countries of Europe, Christmas was entirely different, and in England, still strictly rationed, Christmas had its usual cheer, but not the variety of richness of gifts which Canadians and Americans enjoyed. A regular communication from England, issued before Christmas, gives an idea of how the English "made things do", and with ingenuity were able to provide a variety of gifts which would not be thought possible.

For the children, toys and dolls were in even shorter supply this sixth Christmas of the war, and toys available were made of wood. Colored silhouettes of ducks and chickens, solid-looking trucks and wheelbarrows, and unpainted hobby horses were among the displays, with battleships, forts, manned with toy soldiers and guns, and model aeroplanes as the favorites, the latter finding favor particularly with small boys.

Work At Home

Toy making in the home has proved a constructive and worthwhile hobby for a great many English women, who have made them as gifts for evacuated or bombed-out children. Patterns are sold in most stores, and odd pieces of leather, fur, and materials, are used to make sturdy, practical toys. A Christmas novelty used Field Marshal Sir Bernard Montgomery as a model. The General's head, wearing the famous badge-decorated beret, is modeled in plastic, and a small calendar is attached by means of a small red, white and blue ribbon.

The austerity fashions which are the rule in England have made women alive to the importance of decorative accessories, and many ingenious and clever designs in costume jewelry have made their appearance. Shopping previews showed that a piece of jewelry would be the most popular Christmas present for women.

Wartime restrictions, in putting an end to the manufacture and importing of fashion jewelry, created a demand for old-fashioned pieces, and cameo brooches, strings of coral, paste clips, imitation pearls, Victorian bracelets and rings, necklaces and earrings in semi-precious stones, have come into their own again. Inexpensive necklets made from painted shells, flowers cut from felt, and twisted strips of colored leather have also become popular.

Jewel Trim

Speaking of the decorative value of jewelry and sequins and brilliants and other dress timmings, Canadian designers are using this idea also, to accentuate particular lines of a dress, as well as "dress it up".

Newest and smartest thing for late afternoon and evening wear is the black crepe dress, on simple lines, with perhaps a little strategic draping at the shoulder or waist, accented with brilliant sequins in floral design, or with bright jewelled clips or perhaps a jewelled belt. A cleverly designed dress, particularly in black, is the most flattering for every type of figure, and it is always in style.

Matching bows tacked in just the right spot to highlight the style; ruffles, in matching or contrasting materials, and even glossy braid, are being used in the latest fashions. Self-colored sequins as well as contrasting sequins are finding great favor with the designers and their clients. A brilliant jewelled belt is just the thing to dress up a black dress for evening wear, and coupled with one of the new dog collar necklets, set with matching stones, it makes a perfect ensemble.

Remember to put that extra-large dinner ring over your evening glove, and to clasp your bracelet over the glove too, for added effect.

Name Your Price

"A stocking, a stocking, my kingdom for a stocking!" moan Peterborough mesdames and misses, as wintry winds blow and the stocking shortage really makes itself felt, literally as well as figuratively.

Although the dearth of hose is not as acute as just before Christmas, the quality of stockings available is not up to pre-war levels, and a women's best hose is more apt to "pop" and run, than they were previously. Experts ask that she remember that rayon is weakened by water, and should be thoroughly dry before being worn. They suggest a drying period of at least 48 hours before the stocking is worn again, so that the fibres are thoroughly dry and more able to withstand wear.

However, if the stocking has been stubborn, and has popped a nice run, trying running it up on the sewing machine. Women who have tried it claim that the seam is neater, straighter, less conspicuous and less likely to give trouble. Adjust the stitch regular for a very short stitch, and thread the machine with mercerized sewing thread, matching the color of the stocking as nearly as possible. Turn the stocking wrong side out; lay the two edges of the run together and stitch, starting about one inch below the run, and ending a corresponding distance above it. If the youngster of the household used the darning egg for a handy, hard-to-break toy, a worn-out electric light bulb makes a good darning egg if the real thing can't be found.

George St. W.A. Hears Reports

An excellent attendance of members marked the first regular meeting for the new year of the Women's Association of George Street United Church, Tuesday afternoon in the Board Room. Annual reports were given by committee conveners.

The president, Mrs. W. G. McLaren, reported that nine baskets of Christmas cheer, and two baskets of fruit, had been sent to shut-ins at Christmas. Mrs. H. M. Yelland, Miss Mary Elliott and Mrs. J. Tinney gave accounts of the Red Cross work done during the year, and Miss Elliott also gave a fine report on the soldiers' boxes, as convener of the committee. One hundred and eighty-two boxes were sent to men and women in the armed services, and many interesting letters of thanks were read from those who had received them.

Mrs. W. P. Hetherington's group was in charge of the devotional period, which included the singing of two hymns, a Scripture reading by Mrs. J. C. Wood and prayer by Mrs. James Brown. Mrs. G. H. Cutmore, guest soloist, sang two enjoyable numbers, "The Gift," and "Bless This House," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. J. A. Weams. Mrs. McLaren opened the meeting by wishing everyone a happy new year, and reading a poem, "The New Year's Lesson."

It was announced that the W. A. would serve refreshments at the annual congregational meeting, to be held January 31.

Miss Edith Smith has returned to Windsor after spending the holiday week-end with Miss Peggy Parnell, Rubidge street. She was also entertained by Miss Nola Smith, Mrs. Murray Thomas and Mrs. Kenneth Bolam.

Need Hot Substantial Food For Appetites In Winter

By LAURA C. PEPPER
Chief, Consumer Section,
Dominion Dept. or Agriculture

Outdoor parties know no season. From the sugaring-off parties of early spring through the picnics of summer, the hikes and corn roasts of fall to the skiing, skating and sleigh-ride parties now in season, Canadians are more and more going outdoors for their fun and entertainment.

And when they return, rosy cheeked and ravenous, to the house they want food, plenty of it, hot and substantial. Baked beans or variations on the hot dog or hamburger theme followed by doughnuts and plenty of coffee or cocoa are not particularly original but probably make as big a hit as anything you could think up. The Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, however, has other suggestions of proven popularity for this type of party.

If the party is planned in advance any favorite casserole dish will make a hit. So will sausage rolls, meat pies, and eggs, fish, meat, etc., creamed and served on hot split tea biscuits, in patty shells or croustades. (Croustades are three-inch cubes of bread, hollowed out to form cases, brushed with melted fat and oven-toasted.) For a small party you probably couldn't do better than to serve waffles or griddle cakes with sausages or bacon. Welsh rarebit, French toast sandwiches which need no butter, or a big platter of bacon and eggs. With any of these might got a jellied salad, a big bowl of tossed greens or cole slaw.

With an emergency supply of canned soups and "snackwich" makings you are prepared for the occasions which are almost bound to arrive when someone brings the gang home for a snack without previous notice. Heat the soup, lay out the makings and let them carry on from there. They love it. You will need to watch the butter though and our suggestion is that you work what you can spare into the fillings themselves. With some fillings butter can be omitted altogether or, with grilled cheese for example, bacon fat can be used instead.

The recipes which follow are not the "party only" kind. The Liver Spread is perfect for carried lunches and the other recipes...well, try them for family suppers and see if they don't bring a request for repeats.

Liver Spread

½ pound liver (1½ cups chopped, cooked)
3 tablespoons fat
½ cup chopped onion
2 half-inch slices bread (cubed)
1-3 to ½ cup salad dressing
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper.

Cover liver with boiling water and simmer 5 minutes; drain. Melt fat, add onions and cook until clear. Add cube bread and cook until crisp and lightly browned. Put liver, onions and bread through the food chopper together. Add dressing and seasonings and mix well. Yield 1½ cups.

Beanburgers

5 cups home baked beans
OR 2 tins beans (20-oz. size)
2 tablespoons bacon or ham fat
6 round buns, halved
OR 6 slices bread

Heat beans in saucepan. Spread buns or bread with fat and brown lightly in hot frying pan or under broiler. Serve beans on buns open-face fashion. Six servings.

Quick Beef Stew

1 pound hamburger
2 tablespoons fat
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup tomato juice
1 cup diced cooked vegetables
OR 1 cup condensed vegetable soup
Salt and pepper to taste

Brown meat in hot fat, add flour and brown slightly. Add remaining ingredients and cook 15 minutes, stirring constantly. Serve on split hot biscuits or toast points. Six servings.

Ham and Spaghetti Casserole

6 ounces (1½ cups) spaghetti broken in 2 inch pieces
½ pound uncooked ham in ¼ inch slices
2 medium or 3 small onions
1 tin tomato soup
OR 1 cup seasoned tomato sauce

Cook spaghetti in 1½ quarts boiling water with 1½ teaspoons salt. Drain and rinse in cold water. Fry ham until lightly browned, about 10 minutes, then put ham and onion through the food chopper. Place alternate layers of spaghetti and ham-onion mixture in a greased casserole finishing with a layer of spaghetti. Pour tomato soup or seasoned tomato sauce over the top and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F. for 30 minutes.

Whole Loaf Toast

Remove the top and side crusts from a loaf of bread, leaving the lower crust. Cut the loaf lengthwise down the centre, cutting to but not through the lower crust. Then cut, in the same way, across the loaf six to eight times. Spread the cubes of bread gently apart and brush the cut surfaces lightly with ¼ cup soft, creamed butter. Toast in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees F. for 10 to 15 minutes. Serve the loaf hot. Each persons pulls off his own cube.

French Toast Sandwich

12 slices bread, ¼ inch thick
1 cup sandwich spread, cheese, ham, egg, etc.
2 eggs
1 cup liquid, milk, tomato juice or left-over fruit juice
Salt and pepper to taste
Mild-flavored fat

Prepare sandwiches from bread and filling, no butter is needed. Beat eggs, add liquid and salt and pepper. Melt a little fat in frying pan, dip sandwiches quickly into liquid and saute in hot fat until brown on both sides. Serve hot. Six servings.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, January 4

PERSISTENT and patient effort, sound advice, and wise decisions should have the effect of much progress and eventual success and security. "Slow but sure" might be a productive maxim for the day, since there are indications of false moves, either through haste, confusion of ideas and policies, or danger from tempestuous, impulsive or emotionally swayed actions. This ill considered behavior might lead to fraud, duplicity, of possible legal entanglements. Sign all writings or agreements with caution and be slow to make hasty changes or conclusions. In extremes, advice of superiors might help.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may reap fair harvest of success and stability by adopting a carefully considered plan of action, good advice, shrewdly worked out methods or tactics, supported by patient and persistent effort and determination. There may be rash incitements to quick and excitable activities, or to rush into dangerous situations recklessly, with impulse or highly stimulated emotions. Pitfalls and legal entanglements as well as fraud and duplicity follow such impetuosity. Sign all papers and agreements cautiously. Also give sufficient thought to travel, change or new arrangements affecting business as well as private affairs.

A child born on this day may be studious, systematic and persevering, against odds and dangers, although with impulses to rush into difficult situations or litigation. Much reflection and logic might avert trouble.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

We are to-day going to continue our recipes for the conserving of sugar and buter:

Economy Cake.

1½ lbs. raisins, 1 tablespoon of of butter, 1 tablespoon lard, ¾ cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup cold water, 1½ cups flour, ½ teaspoon soda. Combine all ingredients except the flour and soda and boil together for 15 minutes. Let cook, and add flour and soda sifted together. Turn into a greased baking pan and bake in a moderate oven for 30 or 40 minutes.

Cheese Puffs.

Half loaf bread, butter, ¼ pound sharp cheese (grated), ¼ teaspoon baking powder, 1 egg (separated). Cut bread into slices third of an inch thick. Cut slices into strips or rounds two inches in diameter. Toast on one side. When cool, spread untoasted side with butter. Combine cheese, baking powder and beaten egg yolk; blend thoroughly. Fold in stiffly-beaten egg white. Spread a thick layer on buttered side of toast and place on a baking sheet under the broiler to puff up and brown. Serve hot. This recipe make light puffs.

Baked Lima Beans.

2½ cups dried lima beans, 1 cup diced celery, ¼ cup chopped onion, ¼ chopped green pepper, 2 cups milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, 1½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Wash beans, cover with cold water, and let stand overnight. Add salt, cook until tender and drain. Cook celery in a very little water. Cook onion and green pepper in the butter, until tender, but not browned. Blend in flour, salt and pepper, and add milk. Cook, stirring until the mixture is thickened and smooth. Add beans and celery. Turn in a greased baking dish and bake one-half hour in a moderate oven. Serve at once.

DOROTHY DIX . . . . .

HUSBAND-MONOPOLIZING BRIDES

Young Wife Should Allow Husband To Maintain Old Ties With Family.

DEAR MISS DIX—Would you warn these young war brides not to be too monopolistic of their husbands? I have a very sweet new daughter-in-law whom I desire to be friends with, but she never lets me have a single minute's conversation with my son alone. When I go to see them, she doesn't leave us together even long enough to do her daily chores. She insists that my son should be constantly at her side even when she is cooking dinner, and she pouts for hours if he refuses and says that he wants to talk to Mom a little.

Can't these new wives be made to understand how selfish this attitude is, and also how dangerous it is for them, because too much vine-clinging and priority in a wife is a sure way to lose a husband's love and his family's admiration?

A WAR MOTHER.

ANSWER—Listen, Mother, nobody can tell a bride anything. She knows it all. She is the only woman in the world who knows how to manage a husband and keep him eating out of her hand, and it is only after she has gotten a lot of bumps and seen her cherished theories go blooey that she is willing to sit at the feet of the women who have been along the road she is just starting to travel, and take a few tips on how to get along with Friend Husband.

And the first one, that the wise and experienced woman would give her, would be not to try to monopolize her husband; not to attempt to be all-in-all to him, which is the foolish ambition of most brides. No human being can be that to any other human being. Before a man marries he had a family that he loved and with whom he had a community of interests and the recollections of his lifetime. Getting married didn't make him cease to care for them, or lose interest in them, and naturally he wants to see them and talk to them. And when his new wife tries to prevent this, she does it at her peril.

There is no surer way for a young wife to bind her husband to her with hoops of steel than for her to share him with his family, and for her to give him plenty of time alone with his mother. If she does, she may be very sure that they are spending the time singing her praises.

Not Ready For Marriage

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am in love with a girl of 20, but I am only 19. She insists upon being married now, but I am getting ready to go overseas and am not certain whether or not I should marry her. My first problem is age. Do you think my being younger than she is would make any difference? Then I have only a high-school education, while she is a junior in a pre-medical school.

I have tried to persuade her to forget marriage for the present, but she has definitely made up her mind to marry me. Seeing that she is so far ahead of me in age and education, I have developed an inferiority complex. What should I do?

A WORRIED SOLDIER.

ANSWER—Brave up, soldier, and say NO to the girl, and stick to it. Don't let her shanghai you into marriage for which you are not prepared in any way. No boy of 19 is ready for marriage. He doesn't know what he is going to want in a wife. He has no way of supporting one, and he should wait until after the duration and he has a good job before he takes on the responsibilities of a family man.

Peterboro Girl Winner In Story Contest

Miss Phyllis Turkington, 12 Anne street, has brought distinction to Alpha Theta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, Peterborough, by winning second prize in a short story contest, open to all 1,500 Chapters of the sorority, in Canada and the United States.

A stenographer at the C.G.E., Miss Turkington is convenor for her chapter, of the various contests sponsored by the international Beta Sigma Phi. The official sorority magazine, "The Torch", in announcing the winners, said that the sorority was particularly pleased to award a prize to a member of a newly-installed chapter. Miss Turkington is the only Canadian among the winners, the first prize going to a member of a New York chapter, and the other to a Garden City, Kansas, chapter. The award is a cash donation to the Chapter's treasury.

Splendid Cough Syrup Easily Mixed at Home

It's So Easy! Makes a Big Saving. No Cooking.

To get quick relief from a distressing cough, mix this recipe in your own kitchen. Once tried, you'll say it's your favorite cough medicine, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. Anyone can do it. No cooking needed. (Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.)

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients in concentrated form, well knows for its prompt action on throat membranes.

Put the Pinex into a 16 ounce bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make 16 ounces of very efficient medicine, and you get four times as much for your money. It tastes fine and never spoils.

And for quick, satisfying relief, it is splendid. You can feel it penetrating the air passages and taking hold of the cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

After a long holiday layoff girls' basketball comes back into its own at the Y.W.C.A. Friday night when the schedule will be resumed with a double-header. The senior contest brings together the leading Transports and the C.G.E. outfit and should be a decidedly interesting argument for a win for Mary McPherson and her Electricians would tie the senior race up in a knot. The C.G.E. outfit knocked off St. John's in their last start and they would be delighted to perform the same trick at the expense of last year's champs. If they play the same kind of basketball they showed against the Saints Transports will find them plenty tough opposition. The senior game is the second fixture on the card, starting at 8.45 o'clock. In the first game, a junior fixture, the undefeated Y.M.C.A. Grads who have been making every post a winning one will meet the Quakers in what should be another interesting cage engagement. With no games in three weeks the double-bill Friday night should attract a real crowd.

* * * * * *

Jim Ferguson blew in from Strathroy and George Gray from Burlington for the New Year holiday and their presence in town proved disastrous for the Cougars in the Y.M.C.A. House Basketball League. Cougars played the Trojans Saturday night and while the game meant little or nothing to Bill Kemp's outfit the Davern entry needed a victory to make sure of second place and a playoff spot against the undefeated Johnston Lions. Cougars were favorites to win and thus set up the playoff picture but the addition of Ferguson and Gray to the Trojans' lineup upset the beans. As a result instead of winning handily the Cougars found themselves defeated 34 to 14 in a game in which the Trojans were always setting the pace. George Gray racked-up a score of 16 points with eight baskets from the field and Ferguson, besides playing well defensively added eight points to his team's total so the two visitors were responsible for 24 out of the total of 34 points scored by the winners. Jack Matthews with eight points worked hard for the Cougars but the Kemp outfit had too much scoring punch and won the argument handily.

It's Poor Stuff

Quality of N.H.L. hockey as dished out by the Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks last Saturday night must have approached a new low judging by the comment of the Star's Andy Lytle. Says Bre'er Lytle: "Numerous customers judging by their comments, felt 'O death where is thy sting-a-ling' as they kept reproachful eyes on the scene before them and the dark brown taste in their mouths became almost over-powering." Babe Burkhart, according to Lytle, who has been gazing on the game as a connoisseur for many years, expressed his thoughts aloud when he said that it was the worst hockey he had ever seen and our old friend Ace Bailey remarked that he was glad Conn Smythe was not looking at the game because the sights on the ice would not only have emotionally stunned him but perhaps the shock might have killed him. As for the Star's commentator he declares that the untutored way of the teams on the ice resembled a dog chasing his tail and that the Leafs' attack division was represented almost solely by Ted Kennedy, its rear protected by Stanowski and McCool. All of which confirms this column's estimate of this year's brand of cash and carry hockey. The wonder still is why the fans continue to pay major league prices for bush league play.

"Nobody is about to collect that $1,000 offer that Conny Smythe will give to the party who induces Canadiens to accept his $25,000 price for Maurice Richard," says Bill Gaynon in the Niagara Falls Review. "And by the same token, neither Art Ross nor Lester Patrick is going to give the Toronto mogul's $30,000 proposition for Milt Schmidt and Neil Colville any attention. The Leaf general manager was not dickering for ordinary players when he extended offers for the Canadien rocket and the two other performers, presently in the armed forces, but he has been around the puck markets long enough to know that magnates do not dispose of stars of that type, regardless of the amount of the offer. Lester Patrick, once related to the writer that he tried to buy Howie Morenz from Canadiens for an amazing sum, which a Habitant executive later told us was $75,000, and "Busher" Jackson was sought for $35,000, but both proposals were laughed off by Leo Dandurand and Conn Smythe. Les stated that the rejections convinced him that stars could not be purchased and prompted his starting a school and farm system, which produced some of hockey's finest. Art Ross always contended that Schmidt was the greatest of all forwards, and Patrick rates Colville in high brackets. For the past couple of years, Richard has been the game's most sensational player, so you can imagine how the Smythe dough will look to Ross, Patrick or Gorman. All hockey managers are looking for playing material these days, and collateral does not compensate for the loss of a headliner, so before this gets into print, nothing but negative answers will come from Montreal, New York and Boston."

Bonuses It Gives

Says George Campbell in the Oshawa Times-Gazette: "Last Saturday's issue of the Montreal Star carried a column-length article by Lloyd McGowan, well-known Montreal sports scribe, in which he extolled the virtues and hockey talents of the two Montreal boys who are making good with the Generals, Fred Denney, right-winger, and Louis Crowdis, goalie. Both boys played for Mickey Hennessy's Wing Wheelers. The story even stated that the boys were back in Montreal for Christmas holidays, with a "bonus" and named the figure. Tut! Tut! These Juniors from Quebec must have forgotten that in Ontario a "Christmas box" is a "Christmas box"—not a "bonus." Amateur hockey players never receive a "bonus." Mr. McGowan expresses the hope that Mr. Hewitt will not be reading his article. Apparently Lloyd has forgotten that last year in our O.H.A. Junior ranks, one club actually "sold" a Junior player and his transfer to another club in a player-trade. Both of the Montreal boys are only 17 and of course, they are expected to remain with the Generals for at least a couple more seasons, by which time the Memorial Cup playdowns will be being staged out West again. Lloyd McGowan's article goes on to say, in part:—"Both boys swear by Charley Conacher, the Oshawa coach, also by Soup Campbell, whom they claim is the best booster for a Junior hockey club in Canada." (P.S.—We didn't get any Christmas bonus either.)"

The Canadiens go on their winning way. With Detroit Red Wings breathing on their necks as the result of a double win over the week-end the Flying Frenchmen sailed into Boston last night and knocked off the Bruins 6 to 3 to increase their margin to three points. The Rossmen gave them an argument for part of the journey, overcoming an early three-goal Canadien lead, only to fade in the second period and watch the Montrealers gallop away with the decision. Elmer Lach put the Canadiens in the lead inside the first minute and Getliffe and Eddolls followed with Montreal goals. However in the last three minutes of the first period Rookies Cupolo and Kennie Smith fired markers for the Bruins and at the 1.16 mark in the second session Jennings evened up the count on a pass from Cowley. That was the Bruins' last stand however. Richard sent Canadiens into the lead late in the period, Mosdell increased the margin to two inside the next two minutes and Buddy O'Connor completed the scoring in the final minute of the game to make the Canadien triumph complete.

Morley Powell Wins $100 In Boat Contest

Competing against boat enthusiasts all over Canada, Morley Powell, 370 London street, has been awarded first prize of $100 in the "Ideal Boat" essay contest, sponsored by Boating Magazine and winners were announced in the December issue of the magazine. A mechanical engineer at the Canadian General Electric Company, Mr. Powell based his essay on his own 35 m.p.h. runabout he built in 1937, which he feels will be the ideal type of craft for the average cottager after the war.

When he built his 19-foot runabout, it would cost an average amateur builder approximately from $1,200 to $1,700 to complete the job, he said. A factory built craft of similar design and features could be purchased for between $1,500 and $2,000. Cost of materials would probably be higher, he said, if a person built one, although labor costs would shoot down.

Want Quiet Motor

There are many reasons why Mr. Powell feels this type of boat will be ideal for post-war use.

"Then, people will no longer tolerate a noisy, hard-starting engine anymore than the average motorist would now tolerate a 1915 model of cheap car", he said. "A good boat will last over 20 years, and why not pay as much for it as for a car which will last say five".

He pointed out that his runabout is just as dependable and easy to drive as his car. Repair costs have dropped from $20 a year or more to almost nothing, he said, comparing his present motor with the older one.

"There are quiet operations from one mile an hour to 35 miles an hour," he commented.

The plans of the hull of Mr. Powell's craft are made up from plans by Doane, very much modified. Its length is 19 feet, beam, five feet eight inches.

Specifications

Here are other interesting technical features of this $100 prize winning boat:

V-bottom with step, (step interferes with backing).

Planking: Phillipine mahogany, board and batten type, bottom boards all screw-nailed for easy repair; side planking screwed to ribs and clinch-nailed to battens.

Frames: white oak, except deck frames may be spruce; engine springers to form main backbone of boat and to extend from stern to near bow. Lifting out of the water is accomplished by using two ⅝-inch studs 36 inches long threaded full length and proper attachments to roof beams and engine stringers behind engine and at drivers' seat.

Deck; Mahogany board and batten with screw holes plugged.

Engine; rubber mounted, Buchanan Rocket 85 H.P.

Propellor: Accessible without lifting boat, namely under stern just enough to stop cavitation.

Shaft: Stainless steel with rubber bearing and flexible shaft log.

Rudder: Overhung back of stern and connected to automobile steering gear with levers and drag line—no cables.

Water inlet: scoop at stern for easy cleaning.

Muffler: To consist of large exhaust pipe constricted at outlet, cooling water to feed into water jacket around pipe for 18 inches and then to enter exhaust.

Fittings: aluminum or nickel cut water, chrome plated lights, ventilators, pleats, etc., plate glass windshield and navy top and end curtains with windows.

Gas tank at stern and fire extinguisher at bow.

Cock-pits: Front to seat five or six, rear to take luggage only. Removable bucket seat for driver and next to him to allow carrying large furniture.

Performance: Up to 35 m.p.h., without lifting bow objectionably; bow must not bury if engine cut off suddenly. Must bank on turns.

Six Months to Build

It took Mr. Powell about six months to complete his fast, open runabout. Most of the work was done in his spare time, and so when he learned he had won first prize in the contest, it came as a big surprise.

"One of the things I am glad about", he told the Examiner, "and that is that the first prize honors should come to Peterborough, which has a fine reputation for boat-building."

Mr. Powell has been keenly interested in boating ever since he built himself a canoe during the last war. Since that time, he has completed work on several outboard motor boats, beginning the first one in 1928.

"In my opinion, inboard motor boats will be more popular than ever after the war", he said. "During the summer, several appeared up at Chemong Lake, and generally, their popularity is becoming more widespread. There will likely be a revival of inboards, because when people get settled on a lake of any size, they usually like a small boat with a light motor."

High words of appreciation of Peterborough's surrounding lake country was expressed by Mr. Powell, who also opined there are many people who do not appreciate the beauty which is so close by to this city. He told of visitors coming here and marvelling at the opportunities for boating through the lake chains.

What is going to become of the $100 prize money? Well, he confided he would like to carry out Boating Magazine's hopes that he spend it on his favorite pastime, but that right now, shortages of gasoline, for one thing, prevent this.

Last 2 Tracks Close; Bookies Quit

NEW YORK, Jan. 3—(AP)—The death knell of horse racing in the United States was sounded Tuesday as Tropical Park and Fair Grounds, only two race tracks operating, closed in obedience to the request of the War Mobilization Director, James F. Byrnes, that race tracks cease operations.

Saddened race track owners and officials were somewhat consoled by a government official's statement that the banning of horse racing was not an indictment against the sport.

Transportation of spectators and horses to and from the tracks is another official consideration. Not only will the Byrnes order black out racing, but through a directive from the office of defence transportation, it has prevented removal of horses to Canada, Mexico and Cuba.

In New York, many of the bookmakers closed their accounts until war continues to permit return of the thoroughbred sport to the United States.

Those staying in business believe that fans will not play tracks in Havana or Mexico. Suspension of the scratch sheets published by the Armstrong Publications, the Triangle Publications' Daily Racing ... to make a big difference in the amount of play. Officials of the Morning Telegraph and Racing Form declined comment as to the publications' future.

There also were indications from other cities that many books would fold because of the lack of interest and knowledge of the horses running in Cuba and Mexico.

Closing day in Miami brought out a crowd of 10,743 that tossed a total of $857,414 into the pari-mutuel machines to break Tropical Park's record for the fourth time in an eight-day meeting.

In New Orleans, only 5,000 people attended the nine races at Fair Grounds in contrast to the holiday throng of 10,000 New Year's Day.

Final Decree

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 3—(AP)—Movie Actress Deanna Durbin, 22, was granted a final decree of divorce yesterday from Vaughn Paul, film producer. Miss Durbin, native of Winnipeg, won an uncontested preliminary decree in December, 1943, on grounds of mental cruelty. They had been married two years. Paul now is a lieutenant in the United States Navy.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press

Standings of National Hockey League scoring leaders held unchanged last night as each of the league's four top scorers picked up one or two points when Canadiens defeated Boston 6-3. Maurice Richard, Canadiens, narrowed the gap dividing him from his top-place team-mate Toe Blake to three points. Elmer Lach, Canadiens, drew within a point of third-place Bill Cowley, Boston. Other scoring leaders were idle.

Late Owner's Son Given Black Hawks

CHICAGO, Jan. 3—A 16-year-old son of the late Major Frederic McLaughlin, William, is the new owner of the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League. The club is being held "in trust" for the young man until he becomes 21 years of age.

It is presumed that William J. (Bill) Tobin, the former Ottawa and Edmonton goaltender, president of the Black Hawks for several seasons now, will continue to direct the management of the club.

Illness forced the late Major McLaughlin, who died last week, to turn the direction of the Black Hawks over to Tobin.

Major McLaughlin made his bow in the National League in 1926-27 after purchasing players of the Portland Rosebuds entry in the Western Canada Hockey for $50,000. For years he was one of the N.H.L.'s stormy petrels.

Intensely patriotic, he had long encouraged the development of hockey among United States athletes. He introduced more American-born players into the N.H.L. than any other United States city. At one time he announced plans to turn out an All-American team. He even tried the noble experiment several years ago, but quickly withdrew after his proteges had taken a couple of real shellackings.

Only 10 at Funeral

Characteristic of the late Chicago owner was the funeral services recently.

A few days before he died he detailed funeral arrangements to intimates.

"There are a lot of people in this world that don't like me," he is quoted. "For that reason I want a private funeral. I don't want a lot of busybodies around shedding crocodile tears over me."

Only 10 persons attended the private services.

Hershey Bears Clip Flyers

By The Canadian Press

Hershey Bears, by a 6-4 victory over St. Louis Flyers last night at St. Louis, drew within two points of the leading Buffalo Bisons in the Eastern Division of the American Hockey League.

Bill Gooden put Bears in the lead in the first minute of play but Bill Kendall evened the score four minutes later.

In the second period Hershey took the lead again on a goal by Sam Cooper, then lost it as Vic Lynn and Freddie Hergert scored for St. Louis in quick succession. Lloyd Mohns and Bill Warwick scored before the period closed to put Bears ahead again.

At mid-period in the third Hergert scored his second goal of the game, evening the count again, but two goals by Gooden in the last six minutes gave Bears the victory.

Junior Hockey Thriving In Maritimes

HALIFAX, Jan. 3—(CP)—With increased interest shown by all Maritimers concerned with junior hockey, news of the lighter players takes up more room than that of the senior men.

There has been a concerted effort to improve facilities, equipment and management of all junior hockey teams, and in this work the most active agents have been the teachers in the schools, many of whom are acting as coach-manager with considerable success.

At present the Halifax Centrals have top rating in the Halifax junior loop, with nothing but victories to their credit. In the minor league, South End and Saint Mary's have come out ahead.

The A.P.C. league games are continuing, although the last two games seem to have suffered, because players from services teams were away on Christmas leave. As things are now, it is impossible to make any predictions on future games.

Industrial leagues are experiencing a boom. So far, the Halifax Shipyards Machine Shop has the outstanding team, while at Mahone Bay a team from the Industrial Shipping Company has arranged to play in the Lunenburg loop, as soon as there is ice.

Senior hockey is giving fans few surprises, with the Navy teams putting on the best show. The Dec. 30 victory of Cornwallis over Halifax Navy showed the advantage of having a team that one sports writer described as "pro-infested." The last game of 1944 was a Halifax Navy victory over New Glasgow's Bombers.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

It is expected we will have a bigger crowd tonight than we can accommodate. It is our first mid-week local spiel and already many curlers have made their entry. Our tip to the curlers is this: that if you want to play be at the rink by 7.30 p.m. If you come late and are left off the draw, do not blame anyone but yourself.

The committee advises the players to read the note on page 3. It says: "When a player telephones in his name, and is absent when the players are ready to go on the ice he automatically forfeits his place to any other player present who is not already on the board."

Chaplin Case Jury Hears Fiery Argument

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 3 (AP)—A jury starts deliberating today on whether Charlie Chaplin—pictured by Joan Berry's attorney as a "lecherous character" and by his own lawyer as a man proved innocent by science—is the father of her 14-month-old daughter.

Only the Judge's instructions on points of law remained before the seven women and five men retire to the jury room, trailing such mental echoes as the final booming plea of Joan's 77-year-old counsel, Joseph Scott:

"Tell it to him! give it to him! let him know that 'from now on, you're stopped in your tracks.'"

Scott told the jurors: "You'll sleep well the night you give this baby a name. You'll lengthen your days when you make Chaplin realize that the law treats him the same as a bum down on skid row."

Referring to the 55-year-old comedian as "a wretched specimen of a man," Scott addressed the jury: "Nobody can stop Chaplin and his lecherous conduct all through the years except you ladies and gentlemen."

Miss Berry, 24, the actor-producer's former drama pupil, wants him adjudged the father of her baby Carol Ann and required to pay $2,500 monthly support.

The Comedian's lawyer, Charles E. Millikan, in his own final argument stressed the testimony of three physicians, who said blood tests showed Chaplin could not be the parent.

Biblical references — begun last week when Scott asked the jury to remember the story of Christ and the woman taken in adultery—were continued yesterday by Millikan when he recounted the crucifixion and said, "The truth was not crucified with Him."

"And the truth in this case is that Chaplin is not the father," Millikan added.

This brought the response from Scott:

"I'm an old man, but I've never before heard a man put up as a synomym for Christ."

Major League Leaders Meet

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sport Writer

CHICAGO, Jan. 3—(AP)—Baseball's major league leaders meet here Friday to draft a new major league agreement re-creating the office of commissioner and presumably whittling down the big stick the late K. M. Landis waved for 24 years.

The job of assembling a work formula for Judge Landis' successor falls to a 10-member committee including five representatives each from the American and National Leagues.

Apparently sounding the sentiments of most other owners, P. K. Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs and a committee member, said he would like to see a new agreement which would "codify the rules" of baseball operation under a commissioner.

"We all agree that Judge Landis did an incomparable job of running baseball for 24 years," declared Wrigley, "but the time has come—for we should have learned something in those 24 years—to say just what the commissioner had jurisdiction over—there should be a set of specifications drawn."

He referred to a clause in the old agreement which gave Landis carte blanche in any and all matters relating to baseball. The judge's peremptory use of this cudgel often bruised the pocketbooks as well as the feelings of some club officials.

Friday's meeting ostensibly will be limited to discussion of an agreement which will be presented to a full meeting of owners here some time in February.

Both Wrigley and Will Harridge, American League president and member of a three-man council temporarily governing baseball, said there was no likelihood that any candidates would be considered for the commissioner at this time.

Remount Service May Purchase Spare Horses

TROPICAL PARK, Fla., Jan. 3—(AP)—Tropical Park's bulletin board is covered with notices of farms in the north available for winter training quarters and those by men seeking to purchase horse flesh cheap. Latest prospective buyer to step into the picture is the Remount Service of the United States Government. This branch is seeking stallions and will have a representative here shortly to check on available material. Prices up to $2,000 are being paid. So says the notice.

Prof. Frank Hawley, weight-reducing expert of the jockey quarters at Tropical Park, reports that his reducing cabinets took 200 pounds off riders during the eight-day meeting. "I guess a lot of the boys just worried weight off," he said.

O. L. Hopper, who had 14 head of horses at Tropical Park, owned by the San Man Stable and the Swanee River Stable, is in the market for additions to this string. He will remain here until the weather breaks in the north. The same is true for many other horsemen, who have no definite plans for the future.

Jockey Jess Higley, more fortunate than numerous other riders, will proceed to his 48-acre Hillcrest Farm at Wadsworth, Ill. He hopes to make this property available to horsemen in the immediate future as training grounds.

Hirsch Jacobs, America's champion trainer, is philosophical over cessation of racing in the United States. "I could be a lot worse," he said. "I have one brother fighting in Europe and another in the Pacific. Their problems and those of many others on the front line are something to cause concern. Racing has weathered other tough blows and it will this one.

Don Meade took himself off Signator in the New Year's Handicap and, just for that, the stewards said he could remain idle on the final day of the meeting, cancelling his mounts for the afternoon.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has issued an order that no horses are to be shipped by train or van without a specific Governmental order. Papers will be issued only when horses are shipping to their home grounds, not for transportation to another track. This presents a problem for many owners, who have no "home grounds," just shipping from track to track around the country.

Seibert Traded To Detroit For 3 Others

By FRED KERNER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

President Bill Tobin of Chicago Black Hawks, after three straight losses by his club, hurled a "startler" at the hockey world last night in the form of a player-trade with Detroit.

In what was announced as a "straight" trade, big Earl Seibert, Hawks defenceman and team captain, went to Red Wings for three Detroiters—Don Grosso, Cully Simon and Byron (Butch) McDonald. It's the kind of trade little speculation can be made about. Seibert, though a veteran of 15 years in professional hockey, is still a tough "baby" on the rearguard and he manages as well to set up a good number of scoring plays during a season.

What sports writers think of Seibert can be summed up in the fact that he has been on an all-star selection in every year since the 1933-34 season.

Grosso and Simon are a couple of boys highly regarded around Detroit way. Only a few days ago Jack Adams said Grosso had a habit of making life miserable for opponents, while Simon "has not gone Fauntleroy." McDonald is a farm-club boy, currently with Indianapolis Capitals in the American Hockey League.

Wings Not Hurt

Dropping two players of Detroit's active roster and acquiring one does not hurt wings too much, while Chicago seems to be well-bolstered for the time being. Wings have a heavy-duty defence in Flash Hollett, Hal Jackson, Bill Quackenbush and Seibert. Up front there remains Steve Woochy, Joe Carveth, Syd Howe, the Bruneteaus, Murray Armstrong and Ted Lindsay.

In one respect the trade was merely as "inter-departmental" exchange. James Norris Sr., who owns Detroit Olympia and the Red Wings, owns the Chicago Stadium and, it is said by Detroit sports writers, will soon be owner of the Hawks.

No cash was involved in the deal, but Tobin said that did not mean that he wasn't ready to pay cash for players that he believed would help the Hawks get out of the cellar. He added he was preparing to make a tour of the league cities in search of talent to help the hapless Hawks, who have won three games this season while losing 16 and tying three.

Grosso, 29, a native of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., never has played minor league hockey and has been with the Wings six seasons prior to this season. His best year was in 1941-42 when he led the Wings in points with 23 goals and 36 assists, placing third in the league's point getters. He also is co-holder of the league's all-time record for assists in one game—six—which he set in a Detroit-New York Ranger contest.

Last night the pace-setting Canadiens came up with another win — their 17th in 23 starts — topping Boston Bruins 6-3. For a while it looked as though Boston was going to provide a bit of a barrier to Dick Irwin's team, but they kept a one-goal margin in each period.

Leading individual scorer Toe Blake added an assist to his total, while his line-mates Maurice Richard and Elmer Lach added two points to their totals with a goal and an assist each. Ray Getliffe, Frankie Eddolls, Ken Mosdell and Buddy O'Connor scored the other Canuck tallies, while Bill Dupolo, Ken Smith and Bill Jennings did the honors for the Hub squad.

IN PLAYER SWAP—Earl Seibert, veteran Chicago defence player, has been traded to Detroit Red Wings for three players and no money is involved in the deal. The Detroiters who will don Black Hawk uniforms are Don Grosso, Butch McDonald and Cully Simon.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SYD THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Jan. 3 — (CP). — What will Dobbin do now, poor thing? Animal lovers (especially those whose love of horseflesh is so deep and sincere they will sacrifice the little woman's fur coat to keep the parimutuel machines going) are wondering just what will become of the sterling beauties now left jobless by the United States cracked down on racing.

Reports say the price of aristocratic horseflesh is taking a tumble already, and worried owners are getting rid of their less-nimble-footed animals as quickly as possible. After all, you can't expect the average horseman to keep a stable full of those original exponents of the horse-laugh if they can't put on their running shoes once in a while and earn some oat money. Someone in the game to earn a living just can't afford it.

There's another angle to the current situation, though, that sees some well-fixed owners buying up any animals they can get at a bargain. They know that sooner or later racing will be resumed and they will have the field to themselves, after all the small, struggling horsemen have been forced out.

It all should smooth things out for the big owners, who can pasture their blue-blooded stock on the Kentucky blue grass and wait until the order is removed or relaxed.

But the problem of what to do with all the surplus manpower is going to be even tougher to solve. Of course, they can always take some of the smaller jockeys and put them inside airplane wings to replace midgets for some other worthy purpose, while the trainers perhaps could promote Army efficiency by grooming tanks and suchlike.

But the bookmakers—there is a sad and homeless tribe of waifs. Their greatest joy and mission in life is removed from them, if they cannot help deserving denizens of the tracks earn an honest, if meagre living. They can always transfer their activities in larger measure to baseball, hockey, and other games, but that won't be the same to them.

The only solution we can see is to start a "take a bookmaker into your home" movement to tide the unfortunate gentlemen over until better times return. But who are we kidding? Those gentry don't need as much help as most of us—we mean, as most of those who were their customers.

Motherwell Wins First Place Tie

LONDON, Jan. 3 — (CP Cable) —Motherwell went into a first-place tie with Glasgow Rangers in the Scottish Southern Football League to-day by virtue of a 3-0 victory over Hibernians while Rangers were blanked 1-0 by Queen's Park.

Until to-day's loss—their second in New Year's holiday games—Rangers held a two-point lead in the Senior Scottish League. But now Motherwell and Rangers each have 31 points, while Clyde is one point behind.

Clyde defeated Dumbarton 7-1.

In the Scottish North-eastern League's new program, Aberdeen, the recent cup winners, visited Arbroath and emerged with one point from a 2-2 tie.

Rangers did well in winning at Kirkcaldy against Raith Rovers by a 2-1 score.

There were no games to-day in the English League.

Say Absenteeism In War Plants Curbed Racing

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3—(AP).— Absenteeism in war plants near race tracks was cited yesterday as the real reason behind the Government ban on racing.

This explanation came from a Government official, who declined to be quoted by name, but who described as "relatively insignificant" the number of workers directly involved in the operation of race tracks.

"Absenteeism is the answer," he said. "There has been a regular pattern of increased absenteeism following the opening of tracks. In some instances the increase has been as much as 30 per cent."

James F. Byrnes, director of War Mobilization and Reconversion, who ordered the tracks closed after today, merely explained that he acted to reduce the drain on manpower, transportation, communication facilities and other services.

Mr. Byrnes' assurance that professional baseball and football are safe for the present from an outright ban similar to that closing down race tracks appeared to be based on the theory that these sports have not cut deeply into the war factory work schedules.

The re-opening several months ago of the Hollywood Jockey Club, located near a large aircraft plant, resulted in pressure from high military quarters for the closing down of racing, it was learned.

Meanwhile the War Manpower Commission sent representatives to Miami to recruit war workers from the ranks of jockeys and other employees at Tropical Park race track.

Agents Check Field.

The WMC agents, despatched by the Atlanta regional office, took supplies of "referral slips" to be handed the track and stable staffs, steering them to job openings in war industry, WMC headquarters in Washington said.

The WMC made available facts and figures on the country's horse-racing industry. The figures came from a high-placed racing authority, by WMC said it was unwilling to guarantee them. They showed:

Racing investment of $75,000,000 in tracks, $60,000,000 in horses, and $20,000,000 in breeding farms.

There are about 1,800 professional jockeys handling some 5,000 horses in training for racing on 100 tracks. About 15,000 are employed as stable help.

Meanwhile, the Office of Defence Transportation, modifying its provision against the transportation of racing horses and dogs, said it would permit the movement of these animals to points outside the United States for racing purposes —provided the races are held more than 300 miles beyond the borders.

This will prevent the shipment of racing horses or dogs to plants in nearby parts of Mexico, Canada and the Havana area of Cuba.

The distance apparently is regarded as too great for horse players to go, except possibly on vacation trips.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2— (AP). — When that expected sports boom begins after the war (well, everybody says there's going to be one) look for basketball to spread out faster than any other sport.... Even in war time the cage game has registered some notable gains in the United States, notably in New England and the deep south, two sections that always could take it or leave it.... Reports from Boston say the Garden doubleheaders there are beginning to catch on and that Boston High school are playing the game for the first time in about 30 years.

Of 330 players on the National Football League active list on Dec. 7, 1941, 244 now are in the armed forces. That's 74.2 per cent—not counting seven club owners, three trainers, four publicity men and two league officials.... Latest word is that Jimmy Byrnes' order of 4-F athletes won't change the status of many of them.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Taking the threat of increased personnel losses in stride, the American Baseball League yesterday announced the opening schedule for the 1945 campaign which will be touched off by the traditional curtain-raiser at Washington April 16 between the Senators and New York Yankees. The race proper gets under way the following day, with Detroit at St. Louis, Chicago at Cleveland, Washington at Philadelphia and Boston at New York.

Stan Musial, slugging outfielder of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, has been ordered by his draft board to report for induction and is expected to leave his home town of Donora, Pa., with the next contingent of draftees later this month. Musial, most valuable player and leading hitter of the National League in 1943, is married and the father of three children. He passed the navy physical examination last June.

Stockholders of the Washington Baseball Club yesterday re-elected Clark Griffith president of the club and voted him a $1 a share dividend on the 20,000 shares outstanding. Griffith said the club "made a little money" last season despite finishing eighth in the American League.

William B. Carpenter, veteran arbiter in the major and minor leagues, has been appointed umpire supervisor of the minor leagues, President W. G. Bramham of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues announced yesterday. In recent years Carpenter has been supervisor of International League umpires.

Maxie Berger Wins Decision

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (CP)—Maxie Berger of Montreal, veteran of the Eastern United States fight circuit, showed at the Broadway Arena last night that he was the Berger of old, uncorking a slam-bang attack to win the feature eight-round bout on a decision, but he could not floor Richard (Sheik) Rangel of Fresno, Calif.

Berger was one of four Montreal fighters to invade American rings last night. Three won victories with the fourth, Jean Barriere, losing on a decision at New Bedford, Mass.

At New Bedford, Barriere sought to avenge his defeat three weeks ago at the hands of Benny Singleton of Waterbury, Conn., sensational 16-year-old schoolboy, but was outpointed in a stiff 10-rounder at the Bristol Arena.

Benny May had more success at Newark, N.J., knocking out Tommy Jones of New York in 1.56 of the third round of a scheduled four-rounder with a left to the jaw.

At White Plains, N.Y., Maurice Lavigne won a six-round decision over Chris Adcock, New York.

Falcons Defeat Oshawa 4-3

By The Canadian Press

By virtue of a courageous 4-3 comeback victory last night over Oshawa Generals, St. Catharines Falcons are still tied with the Memorial Cup-pointed St. Michael's College Majors for leadership in the Junior A section of the Ontario Hockey Association.

The Falcons overcame a 3-0 deficit to win in overtime at home, while the power-laden Majors, minus six regulars, uncorked a furious third period assault for six goals and a 9-3 triumph over Galt Red Wings at Toronto.

Stewart was the star of the St. Catharines victory, scoring twice in the final period rally that knotted the count and assisting on Peterson's overtime clincher. C. Smelle was the other Falcon marksman. Barry Sullivan stood out for the visitors, counting twice as the third-place Generals rolled in the first period. Roy Taggart got the other Oshawa goal.

At Toronto Red Wings gave the short-handed Collegians a tough battle before succumbing to superior power, fighting back to tie the score after Majors had taken a 3-0 lead. Johnny Blute and Leo Gravelle led the St. Michael's attack with two goals each, the others going to Sloan, McLean, Paul, Costello and Harrison.

Krompotich, Adamo and Babando tallied for Galt.

Blake, Richard In Top Place

MONTREAL, Jan. 3 — (CP) — Montreal Canadiens' recent 9-1 victory over Detroit Red Wings resulted in Toe Blake and Maurice Richard of the Habitants' heading the official National Hockey league scoring statistics issued today. The statistics cover games up to and including Sunday, Dec. 31.

Toe Blake showed 16 goals and 23 assists for a total of 39 points while Maurice Richard had 24 goals and 11 assists for 35 points. Bill Cowley ranked third with 34 points, 12 goals and 22 assists, while Elmer Lach of Montreal was in fourth spot with 32 points, eight goals and 24 assists.

Richard's 24 goals led that department with Blake's 16 second, while Lach lead the assist column with 24, while Blake was second in that department with 23. Pat Egan of Boston continued to hold down the penalty lead with 42 minutes in the cooler.

Frank McCool of Toronto Maple Leafs is the only goaltender to list any shutouts, with two to his credit. With 70 goals against him in 22 games, he has an average of 3.182. Bill Durnan of Montreal, with 49 goals against in 22 games, has an average of 2.227, the best recorded for a large number of games. Paul Bibeault had played one game with Boston, allowing one goal for an average of 1.000.

WAR HERO — Lieut.-Col. Tommy Riggs of Huntington, W. Va., a star on the University of Illinois football team in 1939-40, is a war hero, too. Riggs was commander of a combat engineering unit that delayed a German armored drive into St Vith, Belgium, by setting up a road block.

Dr. John Condon "Jafsie" Dies At Age 84

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (AP)—Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon, 84, who tried in vain to ransom the kidnapped Charles A. Lindberg Jr., died today—the 10th anniversary of the start of Bruno Richard Hauptmann's trial for the crime.

Dr. Condon, a retired New York City public school principal, had been ill of pneumonia for a month. He died at his Bronx home at 2 p.m., E.D.T.

It was Dr. Condon, known the world over as "Jafsie" — the name he took from his initials, J.F.C.—who handed over $50,000 in St. Raymond's Cemetery, the Bronx, to a man who said he was "John" and identified himself as the baby's kidnapper.

The transaction took place the night of April 2, 1932. On the previous March 1, the 20-months-old son of the famous flier and the former Anne Morrow had been stolen from his crib in their Sourland Mountains home in Hopewell, N.J.

Given a note which said the baby would be found on "the boad (boat) Nelly" in Long Island Sound, Dr. Condon got in touch with Lindbergh, who searched in vain for his child. On May 12 the child's body was found in a thicket just off the Hopewell-Princeton Highway, five miles from the Lindbergh home.

Three years later Dr. Condon became one of the State's chief witnesses in the little courthouse in Flemington, N.J., where Bruno Richard Hauptmann went on trial for the infant's slaying.

Attorney-General David T. Wilentz asked Dr. Condon to identify the "John" he met in the cemetery.

"John was Bruno Richard Hauptmann."

Hauptmann, a carpenter, was convicted, sentenced to die in the electric chair and executed April 3, 1936.

Dr. Condon went back to the Bronx to resume his quiet life.

His widow, a daughter and two sons were at his bedside when he died. Funeral services will be private. The body will be in state until Thursday. Burial will be at Valhalla, N.Y.

Found—One Bomb Police Mystified

MONTREAL, Jan. 3 — (CP). — Veterans of the Montreal Police Lost and Found Department yesterday claimed they had a "natural" for the believe-it-or-not column: Found, on New Year's Night, in the northeastern district, one aluminum-nosed and propellered bomb, 12 inches long, 2 1-3 inches in diameter, serial number SR-269.

The bomb, which has a four-blade propeller, was believed by police to be of a "type used by the Air Force." A pedestrian stumbled on it, buried into a snow bank. Police was soon notified and the missile, which could have gone off if it had been dropped into anything but a snowbank, was carefully carried off to headquarters where it still was yesterday while officials investigated the unprecedented "find."

Miss Gayle Pollock, Toronto, spent New Year's at her home here.

SUPPORTED AT ARNHEM

EALING, England — (CP). — It has been disclosed the Middlesex Regiment gave machine-gun and heavy mortar support to the 1st Airborne Division at Arnhem.

HOME ON FURLOUGH—Pte. Annie Hartin, C.W.A.C., is spending a leave with her mother, Mrs. R. Hill of Havelock. She enlisted in July 1943 and has been serving in a shoe repair shop in Vancouver. Her husband, Tpr. W. H. Hartin, is fighting in Italy.

NEW TYPE HUT FOR THE ARMY—The Hut Age has arrived on the battle fronts of Europe. First there were the Nissen huts, pre-fabricated houses, portal houses and now comes the Moody Hut. It is the brain child of Major H. H. G. Moody, of Winnipeg, serving with the Royal Canadian Engineers. It is practical because it can be constructed with materials always at hand. Square mesh track, such as is used in laying plane runways, is overlaid on a steel frame. The mesh is then covered with sack cloth, and two coats of cement. Top picture shows a Moody hut in course of construction and lower shows the completed hut. Four men can construct a Moody Hut in an hour and allowing the cement to dry, it is ready for occupancy in about five days.

3-Power Meeting To Come Soon

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3—(AP)—President Roosevelt indicated to Congressional leaders to-day that he plans to meet "some time soon" with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin.

Leaving a White House conference, Senate Majority Leader Alben Barkley told reporters:

"The President indicated that some time soon—without indicating the date or place—he will meet with Churchill and Stalin."

Whether the projected meeting of the United Nations trio will be held promptly after Mr. Roosevelt's fourth term inaguration Jan. 20 was left in the air. Sen. Barkley said that was in the realm of pure speculation.

The Congressional chiefs arranged to receive Mr. Roosevelt's annual "State of the Union's" message next Saturday—the day the Senate and House of Representatives meet jointly to count the electoral ballots. The President's budget message will be delayed until next week, probably reaching Congress around Tuesday.

Mail Theft Brings Reformatory Term

WINDSOR, Jan. 3 — (CP) — "Maintaining the safety of the mails is a public necessity important in the highest degree," said Magistrate J. A. Hanrahan in county magistrate's court today when he sentenced Alphonse F. Parent, 24, of Belle River to two years less one day in the Ontario Reformatory, with an indeterminate term of not more than 12 months.

Parent drew the two-year term for theft of a postal letter bag containing $600 in cash and $10,500 in negotiable victory bonds Dec. 5 as it was awaiting transfer to a train. According to his own statement he burned the bonds and spent $268 of the $600.

The court's commendation was given provincial constable H. J. "Bert" Tinson, Belle River detachment, and Leonard Neil, Windsor detachment, for their "intelligent police work" in solving the case.

Tremendous Loss

PALMERSTON NORTH, New Zealand, Jan. 3 (CP Cable)—Military material valued semi-officially at more than $1,000,000 (about $3,600,000) was destroyed by fire, the most disastrous in New Zealand's history, Sunday night at this town 80 miles northwest of Wellington.

The fire broke out in the buildings of Manawatu Agricultural and Pastoral Association, which had been converted into a great storehouse for military supplies.

Friendly Pickpocket

CHICAGO, Jan. 3—(AP).—Friendly hands aided Darwin A. Palmer when he slipped and fell on an icy street near his home. The unidentified man not only assisted Palmer to his feet but insisted on walking him home. Later Palmer reported to police that the stranger apparently had relieved him of his wallet containing $20, a cigarette lighter and a case and other articles he valued at $145.

Polish Congress Opposes Plan

TORONTO, Jan 3 — (CP) — The Canadian Polish Congress said in a statement today that "grievous harm would be perpetrated if the Polish problem were settled along the lines set forth" by Prime Minister Churchill in a recent speech.

The statement said the congress represents 127 Polish organizations in Canada and more than 90 per cent of the "organized Canadians of Polish descent."

Polish Canadians associated with the Congress were shocked by the speech in which Mr. Churchill "agreed to sacrifice Poland in order to satisfy the unjust demands of Soviet Russia," said the statement.

A sixth partition of Poland "instead of bringing the longed-for peace, for which the existence of a strong and independent Poland is indispensible, will plunge the world into new disputes and conflicts and may culminate in a new and more terrible war."

SLIGHTLY WOUNDED — Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Richardson of Marmora have received word that their son, Pte. William J. Richardson, has been slightly wounded while serving in Italy. He has been overseas two years.

Nazi Elite Guards Slaughter Belgiums

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press War Correspondent

STAVELOT, Belgium, Jan. 3 — (AP).—Army officers estimate that fanatical Nazi Elite Guard troops slaughtered without provocation at least 100 Belgian civilians during the first few days of the recent German break-through.

Acting mostly under direct orders from the German officers to kill all civilians encountered, Hitler's pampered troops clubbed, shot and burned to death men, women and children without cause.

As the Americans began to contain the sudden offensive, however, trapped enemy columns were kept so busy fighting for their lives they had neither leisure nor ammunition for murdering civilians.

In addition to atrocities against civilians in the Stavelot area, German troops probably massacred more than 150 American troops. This is a conservative figure.

254 Killed

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 — (AP) — A total of 254 persons were killed in the United States during the three-day New Year's holiday week-end.

The death toll this year was boosted by 48 fatalities in a collision of two Southern Pacific trains near Ogden, Utah, Sunday. Otherwise, traffic mishaps accounted for 96 deaths, with 54 attributed to fires and 56 from miscellaneous causes.

Last year the New Year's death toll was 242, traffic accidents causing 150 fatalities.

Narrow Escape

GUELPH, Jan. 3 — (CP) — Mrs. Angus Mackenzie and her 24-year-old son Francis to-day were described as in good condition in hospital where they were taken after both suffered burns.

Francis had been repairing a truck and his clothes were soaked in gasoline when he lighted a cigarette, the match setting fire to his clothing. Mrs. Mackenzie pushed him outside the house and rolled him in the snow until the flames were extinguished.

TAMBLYN
SUGGESTS A RESOLUTION

New resolutions are very much the order of the day at this period of the year. All of us invariably resolve to do this and that, but unfortunately very few of these resolutions are kept permanently. There is one resolution, however, that we all would be well advised to both make and adhere to. That one pertains to the maintenance of our "Good Health" and "Physical Well Being". In these times of extraordinary stress we are all apt to become careless in this respect and sometimes with dire results. So may we again remind you that your Tamblyn Drug Store is fully prepared to supply your "Health Needs" at all times and this week is stressing "Vitamins." Their use as you well know will very definitely aid us to stay at the "top of our form" as well as assisting to ward off so many of those so-called common ailments. As an aid to your selection a number of Vitamin products have been included in this list of

THEY'RE HERE AGAIN

Those annual visitors for better or for worse—income tax forms—are here again. Postmaster Charles Lacheur advises they may be obtained at the Post Office.

COUSIN KILLED.

Mrs. William Harrington, 411 Downie Street, has received word that her first cousin, Larkin V. O'Brien, was killed in an accident in Mimico on Monday. Mr. O'Brien, 48 years of age, was a T.T.C. conductor.

100 DINNERS

Approximately 100 turkey dinners with all the trimmings were served to servicemen stationed in Peterborough and those passing through the city on New Year's Day at the Uptown Recreation Centre, Adjt. Velma Graham said on Tuesday.

SERVING OVERSEAS

Sgt. Instructor Cecil Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Brown, 796 George street, is serving overseas. Prior to enlisting he worked on the Upper Canada News in Belleville, and after joining the Army was stationed at the Peterborough Training Centre for a time. His wife lives in Belleville.

NO LINES DOWN

As far as it can be learned, there have been no lines down during the night, although there has been some trouble reported, a Bell Telephone official said today. There has been no trouble in or immediately around Peterborough, but during the past 24 hours some difficulties were being experienced in the Pontypool area.

STATIONED IN GREAT BRITAIN

Cpl. Kenneth Brown, whose wife, nee Virginia Grant, and two sons lives at 47 Benson avenue, is serving overseas. He enlisted in July 1940 and is now with an infantry unit. Son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Brown, Benson avenue, he has a sister, AW 1, Molly Brown, R.C.A.F., W.D., now serving in Newfoundland. Prior to enlisting, he was employed at Canada Packers.

EUCHRE LAURELS SHOT

Lloyd McLure's reputation as a euchre player was blasted at the sergeants' mess at the Armouries Tuesday night, according to information reaching The Examiner this morning with a somewhat gleeful suggestion that since the mighty had fallen it ought to be news. And it was not so much the fall thereof as the completeness of it, for it seems that the traffic officer fell in with knaves who were not satisfied merely with handing him a trimming, they even "skunked" him, a term of contumely for the unfortunates who fail to score a point. "Mac" seems to have been given the works, with much chortling that echoed among the victors even into today.

GUEST SPEAKER

Rev. Dr. P. J. Kelly will be the guest speaker at the convention dinner of the Northumberland and Durham Apple Growers' Association at Cobourg Tuesday January 9.

1945 LICENSES

Motor vehicle permits, plates and garage licenses for 1945 will go on sale to the public throughout Ontario, January 15, it was announced by Highways Minister Doucett, Tuesday.

GOOD CONDITION

Highway No. 28 between Peterborough and Port Hope is in good condition, road officials said today. Plows worked during the night, and have kept the road in a state suitable for travelling. Highway No. 2, from Port Hope to Toronto, is also reported to be open and in good condition.

DEPUTY-REEVE LOSES

Deputy-Reeve W. J. Patton of Clarke was defeated Monday by Ted Woodyard in the only contest for the township's municipal posts. He had been reeve for seven years, and Woodyard was a new man who accepted nomination. Reeve T. A. Reid and the other members of the council were elected by acclamation.

ON THE OUTSKIRTS

City Engineer Parsons had one of the Board of Works graders at work today removing snow barriers to Wartime Housing dwellers in the High street and Hatton areas. Both of them are now within the city's boundaries, and snow has been piling up in their streets to the point where mail delivery was being seriously hampered. It was reported that this service would have to be suspended if the roads were not made passable for the postal carriers.

GARBAGE CARE

Heavy falls of snow have added extra burdens on the garbage collection department in Peterborough, and citizens including those newer residents, are requested to place garbage at the edge of the road, or else shovel a path to where the garbage lies. Former North Monaghan residents particularly are asked to make sure ashes are not mixed with garbage. Another important "must" is that garbage be protected from rain and snow. Garfield Terrance, supervisor of the garbage department, said today that greater garbage collection efficiency can be obtained if these simple requests are carried out.

"NUTS" TO NAZIS—Brig.-Gen. Anthony G. McAuliffe, acting commander of the 101st Airborne Division, encircled at Bastogne, Belgium, is credited with the classic answer "nuts" to the German demands that he surrender. Gen. McAuliffe is 46 years old and one of the youngest generals.

Fall On Icy Verandah Brings Broken Wrist

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 3 (ENS)—Slipping on an icy porch, Mrs. A. E. Higgins, of Smith township, fractured her right wrist Tuesday, and received treatment from Dr. Alex Fraser, of Lakefield.

Mr. Higgins, who has been ill for some time, managed to get out of bed and call for help, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Boyce, neighbors, arrived. They put in a call for Dr. Fraser.

Dr. Fraser was only able to drive as far as Kingdon's Corners, where Mr. Boyce met him with the team and sleigh. He examined Mrs. Higgins' wrist, and drove her into Peterborough, where it was set. The injured woman remained with friends in Peterborough overnight, and will return to her home today.

Snowy weather made roads poor, the patient had to be taken from her home to the highway by sleigh, on her trip to Peterborough.

Holland Casualty Improving Slowly

Sgmn. James Devlin of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals who was wounded recently in Holland, is improving although he is not yet able to sit up in bed, according to word received by his brother, William Devlin, 190 Charlotte street.

Although the soldier was unable to write himself, a message came from a welfare officer at the hospital stating that he was suffering from injuries to the head and right hand, and it was hoped he would soon be well enough to sit up. Sgmn. Devlin has been overseas two years.

Jap Rocket Bombs

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 3 — (AP). — Radio Tokyo warned today that a "Japanese-manufactured rocket bomb will make its appearances in the Pacific war soon."

The broadcast was intercepted by the Federal Communications Commission.

PLEASE! SHOVEL YOUR DRIVEWAY

WHEN EXPECTING A COAL DELIVERY

The drivers for the coal yards in Peterborough are up against one of the toughest delivery problems in years. The shovelling of your driveway will greatly assist in making prompt deliveries. This will be greatly appreciated not only by your fuel dealer but also by the workmen who are laboring long hours to keep you supplied with fuel.

VOL. XCI, No. 2 — WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 3, 1945 — PRICE FOUR CENTS

THREE MEN IN NEW YEAR'S LIST — Three men with Cobourg associations were named in the King's New Year's honor lists. H.-Maj. P. J. Dykes (Left), now an MBE, was appointed rector of St. Peter's Anglican Church, Cobourg, in 1936, and he was later made a canon of the church. He enlisted in 1940. Robert Kerr (Centre) of the Merchant Marine, was also awarded an MBE. He has been sailing for 17 years, and in 1941 he was a survivor of the Lady Drake which was torpedoed. He is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Kerr, and his wife and child reside in Halifax. Lt.-Col. Frank P. Lloyd (Right) has been made an officer of the Order of the British Empire. He opened a practice in Cobourg 24 years ago, and is now in charge of Camp Borden Military Hospital.

800 Young Farmers Attending Special Short Course At Guelph

GUELPH, Jan. 3—(Special)— The first big gun in the agricultural program of 1945, was fired to-day at the Ontario Agricultural College, with the opening of the Agricultural Short Courses in Agricultural Production, Marketing, and Farm and Community Organization.

Over 800 young men and women representing all sections of Ontario are enrolled. It is the largest attendance in the history of these courses, and is evidence of new interest in the big agricultural program.

"War demands of agricultural production have first place in the farm program of Ontario," said President G. I. Christie, of the O.A.C. "Ontario farmers are determined to do their share. Larger supplies of grains, pork, beef, milk, eggs, poultry and wool and other products are needed."

Livestock Producers Have a Big Job

Prof. R. G. Knox, head of the Livestock Department, Ontario Agricultural College, opened the Livestock Short Course with emphatic reference to the responsibility of the agricultural community of Canada, especially with reference to production of livestock and livestock products in view of present world conditions.

He pointed out that Canadian farmers are asked to produce in 1945 the following percentages of their accomplishments in 1944.

| | P.C. |
|---|---|
| Hogs | 100 |
| Cattle | 108 |
| Calves | 110 |
| Sheep and Lambs | 103 |
| Total Milk Production | 103 |
| Made up of the following dairy products: | |
| Milk (Total) | 103 |
| Creamery Butter | 105 |
| Cheddar Cheese | 100 |
| Evaporated Whole Milk | 100 |
| Condensed Whole Milk | 94 |
| Whole Milk Powder | 100 |
| Skim Milk | 100 |
| Egg and poultry production figures are as follows: | |
| Eggs (Total) | 106 |
| Eggs (Export) | 121 |
| Poultry Meat | 101 |

This means that for the Ontario farmer with little betterment of the farm labor situation, he is asked to produce, with the exception of hogs the same livestock as last year.

Prof. Knox referred to the statement of the Dominion Minister of Agriculture, the Honorable James G. Gardiner, before the Dominion-Provincial Conference in Ottawa, December 4. Mr. Gardiner pointed out that, "Last year I announced that we had entered into a two-year contract to deliver bacon and cheese to Britain. Since our meeting we have entered into similar contracts in eggs and beef covering the years 1944 and 1945."

Records show that although there have been variations in the monthly production in livestock and livestock products in Ontario, the Province has done its share in 1944, and it is believed that Ontario farmers are busily planning to meet their requirements of 1945.

In general terms, the position is not greatly changed from last year. There is more wheat in sight than a market can be assured for. A market can be found for all dairy products, and well finished livestock at least until the end of 1946. The prospects assured for feeder cattle are better than ever before in that there is an assured market at present prices for every feeder and stocker now in the feedlot, provided it is properly finished for market.

Soil Management

Speaking to the Livestock and Crops Section, Professor G. N. Ruhnke, head of the Department of Chemistry and Director of Soil Surveys for Ontario, urged that more attention be given to planning for soil conservation farming which would maintain the desired levels of production with the least impairment of the soil.

"We have recognised the importance of improving the breeding, feeding and management of livestock, and the use of better adapted varieties of crops, but we have not recognized to the same extent, the importance of soil fertility maintenance, in relation to the production of these higher quality crops and livestock."

"Run-down or depleted soils cannot produce crops of high nutritive value and crops of inferior feeding quality cannot adequately maintain the growth and reproduction of the better livestock we are hoping to produce on more of the farms in this province."

"The sale of crops, livestock, and livestock products, from the farm results in unavoidable losses in soil fertility which must be replaced if the productivity of the land is to be maintained. The history of agriculture in countries much older than ours, confirms this as an inescapable consequence of continued cropping and cultivation. Soil fertility maintenance is the keystone of a permanent productive agriculture; the foundation of crop and livestock production."

"This is the season of the year to take stock of our soil management practices. Are we practicing soil mining or soil-building? This question deserves serious thought and consideration. To get at the answer it is desirable to make a thorough study of the various factors which influence the soil fertility balance on the individual farm."

"The rotation of crops deserves special attention in relation to their ultimate soil-depleting or soil conserving effects." The influence of the cultivated crops such as corn, roots, potatoes, eac., on the loss of soil organic matter should be kept in mind. The importance of hay and pasture crops in their effectiveness in building up organic matter and protecting the soil against erosion should also be considered. The return of fertility nutrients through the medium of crop residues, manure and fertilizers should be figured into the credit side of the balance sheet."

End Of Line

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Jan. 3—(CP). — The end of 1944 was a "red letter day" in the life of Frank Davey of Sault Ste. Marie. It marked 44 years and eight months' service in the railroad business as an engineer, and as he brought his train into the station he was greeted by a delegation of citizens who were there to welcome him home on his last trip. Though he is done railroading he intends to carry on activities in public life.

Mild Weather

HALIFAX, Jan. 3—(CP).—Spring-like weather settled over most of the Maritimes yesterday in the wake of a lashing storm of wind and rain that caused considerable damage in shore sections of Nova Scotia.

War—4 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

Jan. 3, 1941—Eire charge d'affaires at Berlin ordered to protest air attacks as raider bombed Dublin residential district injuring 12 persons. Australian forces penetrated defences at Bardia. President announced 200 merchant shipbuilding plan. Liner Queen Elizabeth arrived at Cape Town after 12 day trip from New York.

Flying Sailor Back In Canada

Mac Campbell, son of Mrs. L. A. Campbell, 314 Elias avenue, is one of the few Peterborough boys to be serving in the Fleet Air Arm of the Royal Navy, and at present is spending a furlough with his mother.

The young flier completed his senior matriculation at the Collegiate in June and the following month, he enlisted in the Fleet Air Arm, later going overseas. While in England, where he began his training as a pilot, he was on a course similar to the I.T.S. taken by R.C.A.F. men in Canada. His work also included a little naval training.

Now Mac Campbell has been sent back to Canada where he will train for eight months in flying. Unlike the Air Force work, he will be taught how to handle only the planes which he might be expected to use while serving with the Navy. Although a few other Peterborough men are in different branches of this service, Campbell believes that only one other trained as a pilot. That was Douglas Wolfe, who while training in the United States at Pensacola, died in a crash.

Snow Blocked Lanes Delay Deliveries

"The public can help a lot in saving time on fuel deliveries if they will shovel enough snow from lanes to let our trucks get in," said Jack Thompson at the Rink street yard of Thompson's fuel and wood this morning. "People help each other to get orders filled on time if they will co-operate with the dealers by making it possible for us to save time, not lose it, in getting into yards with the least possible delay.

Every dealer in the city wants to send out deliveries as promptly as possible, but these are unusual snow conditions, and the problem rests with the consumer as much as with the trade. Loss of time on any one trip works against the next ones on the list, and results in delays that can be lessened if the people in placing their orders will do their part by removing snow from their lanes."

364,000 Deferments Called To U.S. Army

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 — (AP). — James F. Byrnes, war mobilization director, called on Selective Service today to take steps for the immediate induction into the United States armed services of men 18 through 25 who now have agricultural deferments.

There are 364,000 in this age group with deferments.

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said Mr. Byrnes had made the request to Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey "because of representations made to him by the army and navy that they must have men."

So, Mr. Byrnes proposed to tap this new source of manpower for the armed services.

It represents the largest remaining source of young men.

Use 8 Divisions

LONDON, Jan. 3 — (CP). — The German communique asserted to-day that eight American divisions had been hurled into a supreme effort to encircle Nazi positions east, south-east and west of Bastogne and that United States casualties since December 16 "far exceed 80,000."

Prints Convict Youth Second Time

John Herbert Maloney, 17, was convicted in police court this morning on a charge of theft of the use of an automobile belonging to James Cooper and was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., to a month in jail.

Maloney had previously been convicted of assaulting a woman on Sherbrooke street and on that count had been serving a month's imprisonment.

Once again foot prints in the fresh snow helped to bring the charge home against the youthful accused. In the assault case police evidence of taking Maloney's boots and rubbers and comparing them with footmarks in the snow was a principal factor in the Crown's case and this morning similar testimony was again featured.

Sergt. Gordon T. Puffer said that he had been driving south on Park street with Provincial Constable L. A. McClure, and as they got near 148 Park street he noticed a car come out of a laneway on to Park street, spin around and then run into the curb. Two men got out of the car and ran down a lane, witness said. Sergt. Puffer said that he had followed the tracks of the two men. The lane ran back of 133 Rubidge street and witness noticed a spot there where an automobile had evidently been standing and tire marks ran from there to where the car was on Park street.

Compare Footprints.

Sergt. Puffer said that after Maloney had been arrested by Constable McClure and had been taken to the police station his boots and rubbers were removed and were taken to the laneway at 148 Park street. There the police made fresh impressions with the rubbers and found they exactly duplicated a set of footprints there and they also fitted the footprints perfectly.

Constable McClure corroborated this evidence and told of arresting Maloney as he came out of the laneway on to Townsend street. The witness said that one of the men who ran away from the car on Park street as they approached looked like the accused; the other man who ran looked like a soldier.

Constable C. J. McGillen, who took accused to the police station after his arrest said that Maloney was drunk. James Cooper, owner of the car, testified that he had left his machine parked behind his boarding-house and he had not authorized anyone to take it.

W. J. Arthur Fair, who defended Maloney, moved for dismissal at the conclusion of the Crown's case but the motion was denied by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C.

Filmsy Story.

In the witness box Maloney said that on the night he was arrested he had bought two "mickeys" of liquor from two soldiers and had paid $8 for the liquor. He said that he had consumed the contents of the two bottles in a picture show and did not remember anything that happened after that until he found himself in the police car with Constable McGillen. He said he did not remember anything about assaulting a woman or taking a car. To Mr. McElderry he admitted a previous conviction for theft of the use of a car.

In finding the accused guilty, Magistrate Langley said that he did not believe Maloney's story.

Danes Strike

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 3—(AP).—Eighty Danish patriots have blown up a radio manufacturing plant in Copenhagen which makes "magic eyes" and other parts for the German V-2 weapon, the Free Danish Press Service said to-day.

The Danes overpowered 20 factory guards early yesterday morning, killing one of them, the dispatch added.

Hog Cholera Epidemic

TIMMINS, Jan. 3—(CP).—A sudden epidemic of hog cholera has taken the lives of more than 100 pigs in the Cochrane district in the last week.

BACK FROM OVERSEAS—Pte. Kenneth Hill of the Highland Light Infantry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hill of Havelock, is home from overseas on a 30-day furlough. He has been overseas since 1941, and for more than a year has been connected with the firefighters in England. He originally enlisted with the H. and P.E. Regiment, but later transferred.

SHOOTS DOWN FIGHTER—FO Robert McCracken of Lakefield shot down a German fighter plane in a heavy dogfight over Germany recently. FO McCracken is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard McCracken, and is attached to the Canadian Wing of the British 2nd Tactical Air Force. A Canadian Press story previously identified him as Arthur McCracken.

Dummer Reeve Only Man New On Council

Membership of the County Council is only slightly changed as the new year emerges from the holiday season and the administration of 1944 retires to appear again with only one substitution.

William Darling is taking the place of Reeve Robert Martin as Dummer representative. Deputy-Reeve A. W. Archibald of North Monaghan will be absent, but the township is reduced to one seat in the County Council as a consequence of annexation. Reeve Melville Johnston came through the New Year's Day election with a majority over Mr. Archibald, his deputy; Reeve Gordon Scriver is retained by the electors of Lakefield, and the council will re-assemble with only one newcomer to its household.

Reeve Martin had terminated by his own wish to retire after a long period of service to his municipality in which he had gained the respect of all those who had observed his work in Dummer, and had made quite a few friends in and around the city. Quiet and unassuming and guided by good judgment, Mr. Martin was one of a long line of Dummer reeves, interested in their township and its service, and competent in the handling of its affairs. The election of William Darling brings back to the County Council another member of that name which was long represented by the late John Darling, who was at one time Warden.

The seventeen members of the 1945 council are: Reeves Isaac Anderson, Belmont-Methuen, retiring Warden; Albert Hall, Chandos; Gilbert McIlmoyl, Smith; James Humphries, Asphodel; William Darling, Dummer; James Gifford, Ennismore; Peter J. Mather, Otonabee; M. H. Johnston, North Monaghan; Jeremiah Mahoney, Douro; Norman Lean, Burleigh-Anstruther; Rork Ferguson, Norwood; Ernest Seeney, Havelock; Gordon Scriver, Lakefield; Charles Flynn, Harvey; David Curtin, Galway-Cavendish; and Deputy-Reeves Eric Pearson of Smith and Harry Reid of Otonabee.

Among the prospects for the 1945 Wardenship are Mr. Johnston, Mr. McIlmoyl and Mr. Mahoney.

December Snow Sets Record For 14 Years

December's 29¼ inches of snow stands out as a new peak in the weather records that are now being kept by James Harrison of the city's waterworks.

Mr. Harrison said this morning that his statistics look back only to 1930, and that last month was 'easily first' for that period of fifteen years. Rainfall was only .54 inches; maximum temperature was 43 degrees on the 5th and the minimum was 16 below zero on the 29th; and the mean temperature was 17 degrees.

Woollen's Group Gives Again And Again

There is an apt saying that "Charity (which is also goodness) should know no bounds save that of prudence," examples of which might also be aptly applied to many sources of gifts to assist the distress of bomb victims in Britain, through the local district fund operating for that purpose.

In a concrete form, this has been demonstrated by the employees of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds, Ltd., in recent times, because they have given again and again for this purpose through the fund, being reported on three different occasions with a substantial gift each time.

Their latest gift of $80 is registered today, following a previous one of a like amount just before Christmas, which had been preceded by another $80 a short time before that, to make a total of $250 in tha short period of time.

Among the first to extend a helping hand in the early days when the fund began to function, they have continued assisting all through the little more than four-year period that it has been in operation. It is a practical support that is much appreciated indeed, as shown by the text of the Lord Mayor's cable appearing in Tuesday's issue of this newspaper.

A penny box that makes its silent appeal at the Examiner Office adds another $1.60 to the long series of collections that have appeared in this column, the result of odd change deposited by customers while there on business.

The fund now has close to $900 on hand towards the next donation of £500, a very creditable sum in view of the splendid support given for the Christmas donation.

Schoolboy Gag

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 — (AP). — Twelve-year-old Ronald Davis was found yesterday bound with wire to an iron pillar alongside subway tracks near the Times Square Station. He first said a man had tied him there but later, according to Detective David Miller, declared he had bound himself so as to avoid taking a school examination for which he was unprepared.

Fleet Arrives

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 3—(CP).—A complete British fleet has arrived in Australia, NBC reported George Folster said yesterday in a shortwave broadcast from the Philippines. He said the force, including aircraft carriers, is under the command of Adm. Sir Bruce Fraser.

Army Men Go Bail For Borden Bandsman

COBOURG, Jan. 3 (ENS)—Frederick Poole of Toronto, who was committed for trial recently on a charge of manslaughter, was allowed out on bail of $2,500 on his appearance here. The bail had been tentatively set at $5,000 but later the amount was reduced to $2,500. Three members of the army went his bail. Poole was charged after the death of Bandsman Herbert Johnson who died less than 24 hours after he and Poole had been involved in a fight at Cobourg last October.

Strong Winds Will Continue

TORONTO, Jan. 3 —(CP)—The weatherman predicted today that strong winds are likely to continue in Ontario's lower lakes and Georgian Bay areas, giving little hope of relief from drifting snow which has paralyzed motor traffic on practically all provincial highways and sideroads in the southern part of the province.

The Ontario department of highways said last night that highways were filling in with drifts almost as fast as they were being plowed and conditions were almost as bad as after the big Dec. 12 storm. "We are not recommending traffic anywhere," an official said.

Buses operating out of Toronto were able to make runs to Hamilton and Oshawa and to such nearby points as Brampton, Woodbridge, Sutton and Newmarket but no long runs were attempted.

Long distance telephone service east of Toronto was badly disrupted yesterday when sleet and rain freezing as it fell brought down wires. But officials said repair crews were following snowplows and making repairs as quickly as possible.

ing her feelings. Could you suggest some way?

DISGUSTED.

ANSWER — I have always felt that it is a great pity that we have let the anonymous letter be monopolized by villains. It could have a great field of usefulness in the hands of kindly people who could take that method of telling others, like this girl, of faults that make them unacceptable to those who know them and like them, and which they could easily correct if their attention was called to them. I suggest that you write such a letter to the girl who is a very imperfect ablutionist, and I bet it will send her to the bathtub in a hurry.

Helping Hand And Faith In God Put And Keep 'A.A.' On Dry Way

By BEN ROSE

What happens when one alcoholic meets another alcoholic?

Well, last Thursday 40 or 50 met with their wives and children and had a whizzbang Christmas party. The Toronto clubrooms of "Alcoholics Anonymous" were festooned with gay trimmings and there was lots to drink — coffee and ginger ale that is. "There was Christmas music, good eats, happy fellowship, lots of laughs and no tears," said one member.

It was a happy event in the history of "Alcoholics Anonymous" which in a few weeks will be two years old.

Reunites Many Families

In two years, A.A. has tried to help 400 people (the club term is contacts or prospects). A conservative estimate is that 300 of the 400 were freed from the grip of alcoholism. A.A. helped reunite many families, one so broken up that mother, dad and the children were in six different cities. They were all together for Christmas this year.

It has helped to re-establish a man, who lost his job over drink, in a better-paying job, although this precarious method of promotion is not recommended to the general public. Some men, because they "joined" A.A., say, "1944 was the happiest year in my life."

A.A. moved this year from improvised quarters on Bloor St. E. to well-furnished, comfortable rooms at 1170 Yonge St., which have a piano, radio, card playing and other game facilities. The bills are not met by dues, because strictly speaking A.A. has no dues, no constitution, no president or secretary, or even members in the official sense of the word. Those associated with it who can afford to do so, pitch in to pay the shot, which is not large—"ten bottles a month," one man described it.

Rewards for Staying Dry

Last Sunday a group was asked to say frankly what their personal rewards for staying "dry" were. Here are some of their answers: (1) keener food tastes; (2) sounder sleep; (3) money in the bank at the end of the month; (4) a sense of inner well being; (5) better appearance; (6) more responsibility at the office; (7) an open hand instead of a cold shoulder from families and relatives.

About 10 per cent of A.A.'s present members are women, and have been since it was organized.

Rapid Rise in Drinking Women

A recent survey by the Yale school of alcoholic studies showed a rapid rise in the number of women alcoholics in U.S. in the past few years. It revealed that one in every six, instead of one in every seven, patients entering mental hospitals and alcoholic psychosis was a woman.

Alcoholism among both men and women is most prevalent in the same age groups. A few are in their 20's, the result of the general lowering of age groups in the last decade, more are in their 30's, and then the number builds up rapidly till age 49, dropping after that until the three-score mark is reached. There the story ends. "The majority of real heavy drinkers are dead by 60," the A.A. member said grimly.

Branches of "Alcoholics Anonymous," which started in the U.S. where it has some 20,000 members, are functioning in Toronto, London, Windsor and Essex. Plans are afoot to start one in Montreal next month.

Four kinds of meetings are held by A.A. Saturday night is social night, when members bring their wives and children. Every Thursday evening there is an open meeting at which members tell their own last experiences with drink. Two Tuesdays a month are devoted to closed meetings for alcoholics only when help is given on personal problems; on Sundays at 3.30 p.m., a beginners' class takes place when the program of working principles is explained.

At first, prospects are urged to contact the club at least four times a week, either by a visit or a phone call. It's marvellous, members say, what hearing a reassuring voice can do to ease an alcoholic's tension. Sometimes the tone of an alcoholic's voice is a danger signal and more than once a clubman has said, on hearing it, "Hold on, I'll be right over," and he goes to the scene of his friend's crisis.

Need Lot of Fellowship

"Any alcoholic in recent trouble needs a lot of fellowship for three months," he said. "After that many of them never come near the club but they stay 'dry.' It takes a lot of thought, time and effort to rescue an alcoholic and keep him from slipping back. But one alcoholic will go through hell for another in a way not understood by outsiders.

"One of the startling contradictions of life today is the way society treats the alcoholic. It gives silent approval to drinking and then is merciless to the victims. The magistrate says, '30 days'; the businessman says, 'Off with his head"; the doctor says, "I don't want your business." A firm will gladly accept orders from a traveller who gets them by entertaining customers at drinking parties in his hotel room but when the 'crash' comes and his memory lapses, and he can't make decisions like he used to, he's fired without compunction."

"'Alcoholics Anonymous,' is one of the most vital religious movements in a small way in North America today," the member said. "We don't preach long-faced religion, or denominationalism, but we do ask for a faith in God that is robust and unashamed. A.A. may teach the churches a few things. Men and women who have been defeated by drink and who have regained mastery of themselves have experienced a deep forgiveness, have been given an abiding faith. Before, their faith was in drugs, sedatives and narcotics, but this is replaced by faith in truth, goodwill and right actions. One man thanked God for 10 years of drunkeness because it enabled him to free several friends from alcoholism.

Soldier Dies Now Says Likes Breathing

TORONTO, Jan. 3.— Before he "died," Cpl. Dan Coates of Toronto was lifted into the air by the blast of a buzz-bomb in Holland and flung against a wooden building.

After he "died," Cpl. Coates agreed that "it's a pleasure simply to breathe."

He doesn't remember a thing about the time in between—the time during which he was dead. But he figures he was dead about 30 seconds.

Here's the weird story as written in the Canadian Army's newspaper Maple Leaf:

Coats, fitter in the RCEME, was working on some vehicles well behind the lines. A wayward buzz-bomb ran out of fizz near him, plunged into the ground, blasting everything in the vicinity across the landcape.

The Toronto corporal was taken unconscious to hospital. He was "out" for several days. Then he opened his eyes, looked around the room and relapsed into coma again.

That night, near midnight, he stopped breathing.

Fate sent an orderly past his bed. He paused to make adjustments in the bedclothes, was alarmed by the peculiarily lax position of Coates' head and arms. He called a medical officer.

The MO. and the orderly applied respiratory methods in a long chance that the corporal would come back to life. An hour passed. Suddenly, Coates started breathing again. The crisis passed and the corporal from Toronto made a rapid recovery.

To-day he's in Paris, on convalescent leave. But it isn't the glamor and galety of Paris that thrills him. He likes breathing.

I.L.O. Suggests Meeting Set For Europe

MONTREAL, Jan. 3 —(CP) —The International Labor Office announced to-day it would suggest to the I.L.O.'s governing body which meets January 25 in London, that 27th International Labor Conference be held "on the European side of the Atlantic," preferably sometime after October 1.

The governing body is empowered to fix the date and place of the conference. The International Labor Office is the secretariat of the International Labor Organization.

The announcement said that among the subjects the office would suggest for discussion by the conference would be "maintainance of high levels of employment during the period of industrial rehabilitation and reconversion" and "industrial relations, with special reference to collective agreements."

The session also will have before it a report from Edward J. Phelan, acting director of the I. L. T., on social developments and it may also have to deal with questions relating to the organization's constitutional structure.

The governing body also will decide on measures to constitute the International Joint Indutrial Committee whose establishment was authorized by the last session of the conference. The industries for which committees will be proposed by the office are. European Inland Transport; European Coal Mining; Iron and Steel Production; the Engineering Trades with Separate Committees for Shipbuilding and Aircraft and Automobile Manufacture, and Textiles with Separate Committes for Cotton and Rayon, and Wool.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

GET RID OF LOSERS

COUNTING UP the number of apparent losing cards in your own hand, when you are a suit declarer, usually discloses a larger number than you can afford if you are to make your contract. Then you look over the ways to get rid of some of those losers. There are four main ways of doing it. One is to ruff them, another is to finesse, a third is to discard them on winners of some other suit in the opposite hand, and the fourth is to set them up into winners by playing enough early rounds of the suit. Sometimes you combine all of these.

North: ♠ 10 6 3 ♥ Q 5 3 2 ♦ Q 2 ♣ A K 9 3
West: ♠ K 4 2 ♥ 7 6 ♦ A 10 5 ♣ J 10 8 7 2
East: ♠ Q 8 ♥ K 10 9 ♦ K 8 4 3 ♣ Q 6 5 4
South: ♠ A J 9 7 5 ♥ A J 8 4 ♦ J 9 7 6 ♣ None

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | Pass | 1 ♠ | Pass |
| 2 ♣ | Pass | 2 ♥ | Pass |
| 4 ♥ | | | |

Just look at the possible losers in South's hand after West led a trump, the 7. There were some in spades, hearts and diamonds, and the declarer decided to use all four standard devices to cut them down.

An automatic finesse worked on the first trick when East played the heart 9 and the J won. The heart A was scored and another trump led to the K. East led to the diamond A and scored the return with the K, then switched to the spade Q. South got that with the A, used the now set-up diamond J to drop the 10, then the 9 and on these threw off dummy's last two spades.

This enabled him to ruff the spade 9 and K with the trump Q and throw off the spade 7 and 8 on the dummy's top clubs. All he had to do then was ruff a club with his last trump and score the spade J for the final trick.

A pretty ordinary hand, yes, and yet it gave a chance to use a whole bag of tools for prevention of losing tricks.

Tomorrow's Problem

English Boys Shatter Street Lamps

By JOHN SUTTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Jan. 3 — (CP). — The war hasn't changed British children. They're the same mischievous kids they were before 1939 and the same as kids in Canada or anywhere else.

Anyway, that's what the new street lights in London seem to prove. Most children in London didn't remember what street lights looked like. They hadn't seen them for more than five years. And when the blackout was relaxed a bit, they watched the light at first with awe. But not for long....

Gray's Inn Road, running between the city and King's Cross railway station, was one of the first London streets to put on its lights, and they are about the brightest in London, shedding two more candle-power than the moonlighting most of the city gets.

Each 100 yards along the main traffic road is a bin of pebbles which the long-suffering municipal workers scatter over the slippery tarmac on rainy days. The boys and girls soon found what seemed as good a use for the stones as ever the municipal corporation had.

In circles where street lighting is a dominating topic, it is said that "at least seven of the lamps" remain undamaged.

Five years aerial bombardment has produced in Britons a well-distilled reaction towards Germany's revenge weapons.

A bomb fell about a quarter-mile from a workers' street car early one morning in Southern England and the car shook as though it would jump the rails. After the rumble died away there was a heavy silence among the six or seven passengers.

Then a grizzled, white-haired man spoke up, quietly: "That makes me feel a lot better. I expect a bang as I go home every morning. Now I'm satisfied."

It wasn't a remark that packed much punch, but everybody felt better.

FDR Unworried By Bickering Between Allies

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP) — President Roosevelt acknowledged today that there are some important differences among the Allied powers and implied that they concern European political and territorial problems.

Moreover, he indicated that he doesn't hope to settle them all at his forthcoming meeting with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin.

Sketching a rough background for this meeting in response to a rapid fire of news conference questions, the President declared that the Allies have a pretty good set of principles, but that they are differently interpreted in different countries and under the circumstances, he said, you do the best you can.

Earlier in the day it was indicated that the "Big Three" probably will meet early in February. The Senate Democratic Leader, Alben Barkley, said after talking with the President that Mr. Roosevelt had indicated he would meet Mr. Churchill and Premier Stalin some time soon, to which John McCormack, Democratic Leader in the House of Representatives, added, "Probably."

Mr. Roosevelt himself offered no cue as to his plans. When told of Senator Barkley's report he said it's a question of the meaning of the word soon and he would suggest that it means anon.

Mr. Roosevelt also was asked about Prime Minister Churchill's statement that he had been in telegraphic correspondence with the President on the handling of the Greek situation, the implication being made that the President had in some way subscribed to the British policy of using armed force in Greece.

Mr. Roosevelt replied that the most important thing is to see that the populations of rescued countries do not starve.

Principles Most Important

The discussion of differences among the Allies arose when a reporter remarked that the British Ambassador, Earl Halifax, said this morning that consideration was being given to obtaining closer consultations among the Allies, particularly the United States, Britain and Russia.

The President responded to that by saying the only way to get closer consultations is to have a common capital for all three countries, and you can't do that. Actually, he added, there is an enormous volume of correspondence constantly going on among them.

As for reported differences, he said, anybody who has to write all the time, and he included those who write for magazines or in books as well as in the press, is likely to lose sight of the difference between principles and details. Principles, he said, are a guide in the same way that the 10 Commandments are a guide, although they are often interpreted differently.

The peoples of the world, Mr. Roosevelt continued, have pretty good principles, but they are often interpreted differently with reference to particular hills, valleys and towns. Under the circumstances you do the best you can, he added.

A reporter suggested that the inference to be drawn from the President's remarks would be that he hopes to reconcile the differences. Well, the President said, don't you think there are differences and that they are necessary?

"Inevitable rather than necessary, Mr. President," the reporter replied.

Inevitable differences, the President agreed, adding that some are important and some are not important.

Message on Saturday

The President may start off his relations with the new Congress by laying down a proposed foreign policy program. There are apparently well-founded reports that his state-of-the-union message Saturday will lay down a point-by-point program of foreign relations proposals on which he hopes action will be taken in the months ahead.

Lord Halifax spent a half-hour with Secretary of State Stettinius to-day, just before Mr. Stettinius made a noon call on the President. Lord Halifax reported that his general subject concerned the need for closer and more frequent exchange of information and a general tightening of relations not only between Washington and London, but also with Moscow and other Allied capitals.

The President may speak in some detail, in his Saturday message, on the Polish issue, which sill remains one of the foremost diplomatic problems in Europe and on a variety of other subjects, including post-war boundary settlements.

Vanderbilt Girl To Receive Over 4 Millions

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—(AP).— A slenler, raven-haired young matron will emerge completely next month from an uncomfortable cocoon spun of great wealth and bitter family battles.

Gloria Vanderbilt de Cicco will reach her 21st birthday Feb. 20 and become mistress of the $4,500,000 fortune which made her, for the first 16 years of her life, the central figure in a series of legal wrangles between her mother and her paternal aunt.

The annual accounting, filed last week in Surrogate Court by her guardian, Thomas B. Gilchrist, valued the estate at $4,363,000. A final accounting will be made on her birthday, Mr. Gilchrist said to-day.

The millions came from a trust fund set up by her grandfather, Cornelius Vanderbilt, which she inherited from her father Reginald C. Vanderbilt, sportsman son of the founder of the great railroad fortune. Her father died when she was a year old.

For the first 10 years of her life the chunky little girl lived the life of any child born to wealth.

But in December, 1934, her father's sister, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, sculptress and racing enthusiast, who died two years ago, brought court action for the custody of little Gloria, charging that Mrs. Gloria Vanderbilt was unsuitable to have the care of the child. The action was successful, although Mrs. Vanderbilt appealed the decision up to the United States Supreme Court.

Sums, ranging downward from $70,000 a year, were allocated by the court for her support, with an allowance given her mother.

Gloria was 16 when she met de Cicco, son of an Italian-born Long Island truck farmer, and the following year they were married in Santa Barbara, Cal. in a ceremony with Hollywood trimmings.

Two years later she was quoted as saying: "I'm proud to be Mrs. Pat de Cicco—I was never proud of being a Vanderbilt....I can see now what trouble is for. It's to make you realize what you've got when you're happy. That's why I don't blame my aunt and mother any more for dragging me through that trial."

Dispatch Rider Dies From Injuries

HAVELOCK, Jan. 3 — (ENS).— The following letter was received by Mrs. T. Fitzpatrick from Lt. Evan G. Cameron, R.C.E., giving her details about the road accident which resulted in the death of her son, Spr. James Terrance Fitzpatrick, R.C.E., in France in August, 1944.

"I have just received a letter from Spr. Mervin Leslie which you had written to him asking about details of your son James' death. I was his officer and wrote you shortly after his death giving you details, but the letter must have been lost in transit somewhere.

"Your son was one of my dispatch riders, and was making a trip out to see us on a job we were on, when he was struck by a truck and knocked off his motorcycle. He suffered a broken leg and severe internal injuries which ultimately caused his death. He was immediately taken to the closest field dressing station and then moved to a field hospital where we finally located him the day after the accident.

Good Progress.

"He told us then how the accident had happened. He was in a happy mood, although in a shocked condition, and was kidding the boys that he would be back with them in a few days. The doctors attending him said that he had a good chance of pulling through. Two days later I had to go down near the hospital he was in, and went in to visit him and as informed of his death due to an internal hemorrhage. He had died quietly in the night."

The officer wrote that Spr. Fitzpatrick is buried just outside of Caen in the Canadian cemetery there. It is on the west bank of the River Orne overlooking the river valley and river and that great battlefield.

First Sea Lord An Old Hand In Naval School

By FRANK LOWE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 3 — (CP) — The story goes that when Admiral of the Fleet Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham received one of those many war forms to fill out he wrote, opposite the clause asking him what he was a civil life, the word, "child."

It might well be a true story, too, because Britain's First Sea Lord and Chief of Naval Staff has followed the sea for 46 of his 60 years—and now finds himself at the top of the career ladder facing one of the toughest tasks a naval tactician ever had.

In the war against Japan he will be up against an enemy who will be using the tricks he himself employed to keep the Mediterranean open against the Axis fleets. He knows only too well that although the combined Allied fleets outweigh the Japanese force, an inferior fleet can make life miserable, even disastrous for a superior one.

He learned that the hard way. In the Mediterranean, when he was commander-in-chief of that troubled stretch of water, he put to sea with two battleships, one carrier, five cruisers and a fleet of destroyers with orders to bottle up the big Italian fleet.

As the war developed and his losses mounted his numerical inferiority became ludicrous. At one time his force consisted of three cruisers and one fighter pilot, and another story told of the admiral is that when he was presented with the K. C. B. Cunningham remarked wryly, "I wish they had given me three squadrons of Hurricanes instead."

Skilful and Courageous

But by combining skill, bluff, audacity and courage he won his fight. And the climax came the day he received the surrender of the Italian fleet and wrote that famous dispatch beginning, "Be pleased to inform your Lordships that the entire Italian battle fleet is now anchored under the guns of Malta . . ."

So it may be seen that he knows only too well what can be done with very little. And the Japs, although outnumbered, will have some surprises the Allies know nothing about. For instance, how many 16-inch battleships have they built?—It is known they have built some under the news blackout that has shrouded Japan's war building for the last eight years.

Thus, despite drubbings at the hands of the United States Navy, it probably is true that the Nipponese fleet is still a powerful defensive force. It holds many sea bases along the thousands of leagues of the Pacific, bases from which it can harry the innumerable seaborne landings the Allies must make.

It follows, then, that all these hydra-headed sections of Japanese naval power must be lopped off before the Allies can get to grips properly with the enemy—a strategic undertaking the vastness of which, considering the vastness of the Pacific, would stagger the average naval tactician who figures things out on a ship-to-ship, stand-up engagement basis.

But Cunningham has never figured that way—he could never afford to—so it may well be that the role his fleet played in the Mediterranean will have suited him ideally for the Japanese fight. At least you can't food an old underdog with old tricks.

High School Boy Spots Two Nazis

HANCOCK POINT, Me., Jan. 3—(AP). — Harvard Hodgkins, 17-year-old high school senior, today credited his habit of noticing newcomers for his spotting of two men, described by the F.B.I. as German agents, when they landed on the Maine coast, Nov. 29.

The arrest of the men was announced last night by the F.B.I. Hodgkins said.

"I was returning from Hancock to my home at Hancock Point four miles distant, driving in a heavy snowstorm when I saw two men wearing topcoats walking along the road toward me in the direction of Bangor. Each had a satchel.

"I was sure neither was anyone who lived around here and I thought it was unusual for anyone to be walking around in a storm at midnight, so I followed them. They went about 100 yards farther on the road and then took a path into the woods.

"I told my father (a deputy sheriff), about it when he came home the next day." The father notified the F.B.I.

More Nurseries

TORONTO, Jan. 3 — (CP). — The Ontario Department of Welfare reported yesterday a substantial increase in the number of day nurseries and day-care centres in the province. There were 28 nurseries in operation during the past year compared with 15 in 1943. Thirty-nine day-care centres were in operation compared with 20 in 1943.

BRITISH ROLL ON IN BURMA—This map shows the approximate situation in Burma, according to most recent reports from that theatre. The British are continuing to make gains, despite savage resistance of Jap suicide rearguards, and are reported to have reached Kanbalu, on the main north-south Burma railroad. A parallel force is pushing down the Irrawaddy River, while the Japs are believed to be withdrawing to make a stand on a defence line some 20 miles north of Mandalay, their key supply base. The British are now about 70 miles from this line.

Legislature May Open Feb. 14

TORONTO, Jan. 3—(CP)—A Toronto paper said Tuesday that preparations are under way at Queen's Park for the opening of the second session of Ontario's 22nd Legislature Feb. 14. This is a week earlier than the 1944 opening. The session is expected to end by Good Friday, which falls on March 30.

The paper predicted that debate will be more contentious this year than last because of Mitchell F. Hepburn's return to the ranks of the Liberals of whom he now is House leader. In the last session the former premier sat as Independent Liberal member for Elgin.

"Liberals claim that Mr. Hepburn intends taking a fighting stand against the Drew Government," the paper said. "This might lead to the Liberals lining up with the C.C.F. to force dissolution. In this event, Liberals were considering that Mr. Hepburn might be the one called to form a government, with the C.C.F. as his supporters."

The Drew cabinet will discuss major legislation at a meeting today, said the paper.

Magazine Raps Critics In U.S.A.

LONDON, Jan. 3 — (AP) — The Yorkshire Post said today that since the recent "plain speaking" by the Liberal London magazine "Economist" (which called for "an end to the policy of appeasement" toward the United States), "one or two influential Americans have begun the searching of hearts."

"We are thankful our difficulties have been put to the American public squarely," the Conservative Post said editorially of the Economist article that hit at what it called "the recent violent and sustained criticism and abuse" of Britain in the United States.

The Post said: "The time has come for plain speaking, if behind it lies clear and honest thinking. Many Americans are saying grieviously unfair things about Britain and her part in the war. An effort must be made to show them how wrong they are. . .

"We often have been deeply troubled by the American failure to acknowledge our needs and rights and by the bland American suggestions that we give up parts of the Empire, such as bases the United States would like.

"But there is a point at which indignation can and should no longer be silent. That point has been reached by this country."

Liquor In Jail

WHITBY, Ont., Jan. 3 — (CP). —Julian Czechowski of Oshawa took a bottle of liquor to his brother, an inmate of the county jail, at Christmas. # C.C.F. Concludes 4-Day Meeting

WINNIPEG, Jan 3—(CP)—Delegates to the C.C.F. inter-provincial council concluded Monday a four-day, closed meeting at which discussion centred on economic and legislative problems. A spokesman said delegates particularly stressed the urgency of a dominion-provincial conference.

The final session of the meeting, attended by delegates from all parts of Canada, was devoted to a discussion of methods of streamlining parliamentary and legislative procedure. Andrew Brewin of Toronto, the conference spokesman, said delegates felt the "very important task of parliamentary procedure is hampered by antiquated procedure, waste of time and too much talk."

The party stand that provincial government taxing authority in corporation and income fields, and the inheritance tax, still under provincial jurisdiction, should be federal, was reaffirmed.

In Disfavor

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 3—(AP). —Denis Kendall, member of the British House of Commons, said here last night that "Prime Minister Churchill's Tory policies toward small European countries, carried through without consultation with the United States, is in high disfavor in England."

Britain Refuses Spaniard Use Of Radio

LONDON, Jan. 3 — (CP) — The British government has refused to permit former Republican Premier of Spain, Dr. Juan Negrin, to broadcast tonight to a meeting in New York's Madison Square Garden called to urge establishment of a Democratic regime in Spain.

A Foreign Office spokesman said today the refusal was on grounds that no facilities were available, and that the former premier had promised when he arrived in London that he would not indulge in political matters.

Negrin will not be prohibited from sending his message to New York by cable, the spokesman said.

"To grant Dr. Negrin permission to broadcast for political purposes," the British spokesman said, "would constitute an unwarranted exception and justify the expressed grievances of other persons with stronger cases who, in the past, have been refused similar facilities."

Earlier reports from the United States said Freda Kirchwey, editor of "The Nation" who is chairman of the meeting, had asked the U.S government to intervene on behalf of Negrin.

In New York, associates of Miss Kirchwey said she would make a full statement on the British refusal to permit the broadcast at tonight's meeting.

"The British Foreign Office could have only one purpose in ruling Dr. Negrin off the air—a desire to silence criticism and stifle the demand for a democratic policy toward Spain," Miss Kirchwey said in a statement issued at her office.

"Whatever changes may be pending in British-American relations with the Fascist regime in Spain it seems unlikely that they provide for a free choice for the Spanish people as to their government and their future."

17 U-Boat Prisoners Are Still At Large

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 3—(CP)— Two of 19 German U-boat prisoners still at large after a sensational Christmas Eve break were recptured last night.

The prisoners, Capt. Hans Werner Krauss and Helmut Drescher, were apprehended by a farmer about 65 miles from Papago Park Camp from which they escaped. They were the first escapees to be caught since six of the original 25 who fled were taken into custody a few hours after the break was discovered December 24.

5 Peterboro District Men Mentioned In Dispatches

OTTAWA, Jan. 4—(CP).—Maj.-Gen. Dan Spry, Hamilton and Winnipeg, divisional commander in Northwest Europe, was among 478 officers and men of the Canadian Army honored with mentions in dispatches for "gallant and distinguished service" in an announcement today from Defence Headquarters. Every branch of the service, from infantry, artillery armor to pay corps, staff clerks and chaplain service, were included in the mentions, which went to 164 officers and 314 non-commissioned officers and men.

The list contained the names of six brigadiers, including Brig. T. Eric Snow of Vernon, B.C., famous Maritime athlete of two decades ago.

Lt.-Col. Robert W. Armstrong, an artillery officer of Toronto, and Lt.-Col. Kenneth J. Southern of Port Arthur, an engineers' officer, were among the eight officers and one other rank mentioned posthumously.

Lt.-Col. Rev. John Logan-Vencta of Ottawa was the highest ranking chaplain to win recognition, and among the prominent names was that of Lt.-Col. Lord Tweedsmuir, son of the late Governor-General. Col. Tweedsmuir is a Canadian infantry officer.

Premier Retains 4 Greek Posts

By STEPHEN BARBER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ATHENS, Jan. 4 —(AP)— Gen. Nicholas Plastiras, leader of the 1922 revolution, took over the burdened premiership of Greece today with the declaration that the first task was "full restoration of the state's authority."

It was understood that he planned to make a further appeal today to rebellious left-wing E.L.A.S. —the militia of the E.A.M. party— to lay down their arms.

"I've always been a soldier in my country's service," said Gen. Plastiras. "In taking up my duties I fully realize the seriousness of the tragic conditions we are going through.

"The government aims, firstly, at a full restoration of the state's authority; secondly, the return of public services to their duties; thirdly, the punishment of crimes committed under Axis occupation; fourthly, immediate attention to the relief and rehabilitation program and the raising of the standard of living."

Reaction of the E.L.A.S. to the "common confidence" cabinet formed by Gen. Plastiras was awaited as an indication of Gen. Plastiras' chances of success in restoring peace.

German Losses Near 5 Million

MOSCOW, Jan. 4.—(CP-Reuters)—The Germans suffered more than 4,500,000 casualties in 1944 on the western and eastern fronts in Europe, Moscow radio said to-day.

The enemy lost 3,000,000 men killed or wounded and 1,563,000 prisoners, as well as territory six times the size of Germany, according to Soviet calculation.

Moscow radio listed this total of German prisoners: Since D-Day in France, Belgium and Luxembourg, as 756,000; in the Ukraine, Crimea, White Russia and the Leningrad area during the first half of the year, 660,000; in Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania during the summer, 10,-000; in Rumania, Bulgaria, Greece, Hungary and Yugoslavia in the fall, 134,000.

"As the number of dead and wounded amounts to at least twice that of prisoners taken, their number can safely be estimated at over 3,000,000," Moscow said.

Fears Communism To Sweep World

QUEBEC, Jan. 4.—(CP).—Cardinal Villeneuve, addressing the St. Jean Baptiste Society here last night, said "we will need a miracle to save ourselves from Communism, as we needed one in 1940 when Britain escaped the horrors of Nazi invasion."

"Communism is a more subtle threat than Nazism," the Cardinal said, adding that "when Communism fights private ownership it also fights the human rights as well as the human person."

Paper Raps U.S. Attitude

American Reaction Dubbed Childish

LONDON, Jan. 4— (CP).— The Tribune, a Leftist weekly, said editorially to-day that some American reactions to criticism were childish, and added that if plain speaking, "produces that kind of conduct in America, then she had better withdraw herself until she is fit to enter the comity of nations."

"International co-operation is not the gift of American magnanimity but a necessity of world life," the newspaper said.

"It is this tendency on the part of many Americans to regard plain duty as an act of impulsive generosity that we find so furitaing. For America to look upon their intervention in two world wars as evidence of their noble altruism is as irritating as it is myopic.

"The fact is, and Americans may as well face it sooner rather than later, that isolationism is a policy of which America is not longer capable. If Pearl Harbor failed to teach that, then nothing we can say would succeed.

"Of course it is true that Americans may behave as though they were self-sufficient. But they will soon learn that they themselves will prove not the least sufferers from such an attitude. You cannot expect to trade with the world and ignore its behaviour at the same time. Apostles of the American century will be forced to proselytize outside the frontiers of America, and that goes for reactionary as well as enlightened Americans."

Reds Retreat For 2 Days In Hungary

Budapest Garrison Trying To Reach Tank Force

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Jan. 4 (AP)—Mobile warfare raged between Budapest and Vienna today as a huge German tank and infantry force, mounting the first German counter-offensive on the Eastern front since October, sought to break through Russian lines to the relief of the surrounded garrison in the Hungarian capital.

In the last two days the Russians had given ground and it was probable that more would have to be yielded, although the Russians appeared to be getting the situation in hand.

The German counter-assault was sprung from the area of Komarom, a Danube river town 25 miles northwest of Budapest.

The German-Hungarian garrison in Budapest, where the Russians have overrun 1,062 city blocks, was reported making savage attacks in an effort to break out toward the relieving force.

Nearly a third of the eastern section of the capital was in Soviet hands, an additional 200 blocks having been captured in the last 24 hours.

The exact time the Germans launched their counter-attack in the Komarom area has not been disclosed, but from available reports it appears to have been Tuesday morning in the snowy dawn.

A heavy German thrust was thrown at Russian artillery positions. A Red Star dispatch said the artillery line had been forced back by German tanks southeast of the city but it did not state the extent of the withdrawal. The official account said merely that the Russians had given up several populated points along the southern bank of the Danube.

The most recent official accounts of the advance on Komarom had placed Russian elements 10½ miles east of the city.

The enemy action, although heavy and violent, does not resemble a counter-offensive, field dispatches said.

The Russian bulletin said Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's troops, driving on Losonc (Lucenec), in southern Slovakia northwest of Budapest, had captured Sacher, half a mile from Losonc's limits. Ten other places to the east and south also fell to the Russians.

Claim Germans Can Fight For Months Yet

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERNE, Jan. 4 (AP)—Information from inside Germany, discounting Nazi propaganda, indicates that German armies equipped with a series of new weapons must be reckoned a fighting force capable of continued effective resistance—perhaps for many months.

Moreover, the enemy apparently believes he can still win the war by taking advantage of Allied mistakes and difficulties.

Reports dealing with the German military situation and use of secret weapons coming from half a dozen independent sources in Germany stress these factors:

While a fluke might end the war tomorrow, or a new Allied offensive might quickly smash massing Nazi forces, it appears:

1. That the Germans have sufficient gasoline to carry out their present battle plan.

2. New secret weapons are being turned out steadily in underground factories.

3. Troop reinforcements are still available in large quantity.

It is difficult to determine the degree these informants have unconsciously absorbed Nazi propaganda, but they are in a position to be well informed and have proved reliable in the past.

Observers in Berlin are convinced the Nazis had far greater underground stores of gasoline

Canuck Units Launch Major Attack

Move Into Suburbs Of Alfonsine After Surprise Push

ROME, Jan. 4 (CP)—Canadian troops of the British 8th Army, smashing northward east of the German stronghold of Alfonsine, inflicted what were officially described as "heavy casualties" on a crack German Jaeger division and took 100 prisoners in capturing the village of Conventello, two miles east of Alfonsine, it was announced today.

The Canadians then pushed out along a road to the north on the east bank of the Fosso Vecchio about 1,000 yards and came to within two miles of San Alberta, one the shore of the Valli Di Commachio.

This advance was accomplished against forces of Tiger and Panther tanks rushed up by Germans to support their failing infantry. Armored battles persisted.

Southwest of Alfonsine other 8th Army forces chipped away at the German bridgehead on the east bank of the Senio River and gained about a quarter of a mile.

Alfonsine lies on the Ravenna-Ferrara road, 7½ miles north-northeast of Bagnacavallo, already seized in the present Canadian drive.

Counter Blows

Today's communique told of Canadian gains against "continued strong resistance and four determined enemy counter - attacks," which were repulsed.

No other action was reported in the 8th Army Po valley sector near the Adriatic, but headquarters said there was "considerable patrol activity on both sides" along the Allied 5th Army front in central Italy south of Bologna, and farther west near the Tyrrhenian Sea.

Lt.-Gen. Foulkes' 1st Canadian Corps last night was reported thrusting into the suburbs of Alfonsine, nine miles north of Ravenna—

Serious Difficulties In Way St. Lawrence Development

OTTAWA, Jan. 4 — (CP). — Canadian officials were interested today in Governor Thomas Dewey's recommendation that New York State proceed with development of the St. Lawrence Waterway in conjunction with the Province of Ontario and the Dominion of Canada.

The New York governor's suggestion was made in his message to the state legislature at Albany and involved action by the state without the co-operation of the United States Government, which has so far failed to obtain the approval of Congress for a St. Lawrence Waterway treaty with Canada.

Several serious difficulties in the way of the course of action proposed by Mr. Dewey were seen, however. The chief one, from a Canadian point of view, was that it would mean a piece-meal development of the St. Lawrence System and throw out the carefully-balanced division of costs as between the two countries worked out in the St. Lawrence Waterways Treaty of 1941.

That treaty, as well as the previous treaty which was not ratified either, provide for a development of the whole system from the head of the lakes to the sea. The costs would be divided on a 50-50 basis as between the two countries and costs of work already completed by either country is taken into account in striking the balance.

Thus, Canada gets credit for the huge investment in the Welland Canal which would form part of the system and in the result the arrangement as to costs for work yet to be done is considered favorable to this country.

If New York and Ontario proceeded to develop the international section of the river on their own and to divide the costs as between New York on the one side and the Ontario and Dominion Governments on the other on a 50-50 basis, the Canadian share would be much greater than under the 1941 treaty.

If the larger development were proceeded with later it might be difficult to reach a satisfactory adjustment.

Some constitutional difficulties also are seen in the way of a state government dealing with a government outside the United States but these are not regarded as insurmountable.

Protest Delays In Announcing New Offensive

PARIS, Jan. 4.—(AP).—Protests against censorship delays in news about the new United States 1st Army offensive have come from correspondents both at Allied headquarters and in the field with the U.S. 1st Army.

The headquarters correspondents complained that the BBC sent out news of the offensive when it was still restricted at headquarters. Headquarters officers subsequently lifted the lid.

Front-line reports protested that headquarters scooped them by hours on the news.

A dispatch filed from the front by William F. Boni, AP war correspondent, at 6 p.m. yesterday was not released for transmission until today, about 12 hours after headquarters had released virtually the same news. After giving a few details, Boni said:

"This is the extent of the details which for the present 1st Army correspondents are allowed to write —correspondents who, although they were on the scene when the attack kicked off in a miserable combination of cold, snow, sleet and rain and followed it through the first daylight hours, did not even have what surely was their privilege of being first to release news of the offensive.

"That word came instead from SHAEF—and the fact that SHAEF was making the announcement did not reach us until just before midnight last night. A plan had been accepted and approved whereby, under the 36-hour embargo which had been in effect for a week or more, first stories of an offensive would go out from 1st Army headquarters at 5 p.m. (noon, E.D.T.) today, and there would be no earlier announcement from any higher headquarters. The SHAEF communique left us holding the bag."

"It is by no means the first time that 1st Army correspondents have been scooped by the higher command on one of their own attacks."

Yesterday's criticism of supreme headquarters censorship came in the course of a heated discussion during which Drew Middleton of the New York Times called the recent headquarters briefing "the worst I have experienced in five years of war." Marshall Yarrow, Reuters correspondent, asserted that "if BBC runs this place let us know and we can pack up and go to London and listen to BBC." Edward Angley of the Chicago Sun said BBC frequently had been enabled to anticipate official announcements.

Headquarters announced a 36-hour time lag on western front news was being cut to 12 hours.

After the BBC reported the advance, censorship ruled that corresponents might quote BBC to this effect but would not permit them to attribute the information to Allied Headquarters or to confirm or deny it on their own account.

Smash Into Northern Flank Through Blinding Storm Huns Counter At Bastogne

Germans Gain Up To Four Miles In Northern Lorraine But Americans Blunt Newest Thrust

By JAMES M. LONG—Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Jan. 4—(AP).—American 1st Army infantry and tanks fought three miles forward in the new offensive against the north flank of the Belgian bulge by 8 a.m. and continued the advance today through a blinding snowstorm, it was disclosed at Supreme Headquarters. The gains were along a six-mile front on both sides of Grandmenil, 20 miles north of Bastogne. Three to five miles north and northeast of that bastion town on the southern flank of the German penetration, and the U.S. 3rd Army was halted by violent counter-attacks against the 101st Airborne Division.

Half the gains south of Grandmenil were made in the first eight hours after the 1st Army went over the top. Weather worsened. Snowstorms turned into blizzards. Field Marshal Von Rundstedt reacted swiftly with tank-supported counter-attacks.

(The Germans claimed British tanks were participating in the new offensive and that the U.S. 9th Army had been rolled up from Aachen.)

Some 15 miles or so to the south, the United States 3rd Army advance was halted at least temporarily by violent German counter - attacks north and northeast of Bastogne against the famous 101st Airborne Division. Field Marshal von Rundstedt built his southern flank force to ten divisions.

Hammer Flanks

A dispatch from the 7th Army front in northern Lorraine said the threatening German thrust south of Bitche had been blunted and 7th Army men were hammering steadily at flanks of the enemy salient, achieving some advances.

Persistent German attacks from the Saar to the Rhine, however had forced the Americans from their holdings in the German Palatinate east of the Wissembourg gap and from all except the Saarlautern bridgehead in the Saarland.

German advances of up to four miles in [illegible] to Reipertswiller, six miles below Bitche and just 13 miles north of Saverne on the Allied lifeline to the Rhine city of Strasbourg. A small force of Americans was withdrawn from a corner of Bitche itself. A bastion of the old Maginot Line.

(The German radio said the Allies had launched an "all out" offensive in the bulge from Stavelot to Marche.)

Believe Weather Curtailing Aerial Activity

LONDON, Jan. 4.—(CP)—Enemy reports of Allied bombers approaching from Italy heralded the 13th straight daylight attack on Germany today.

Up to noon there was no warning of bomber formations invading Germany from the west—a sign that the weather might be halting the record winter string of 12 consecutive days of raids by the U.S. 8th air force from Britain.

Snow, rain and leaden skies prevented operations yesterday by aircraft based in France, Belgium and Holland. Bombers flying from Britain had to drop their explosives through a heavy overcast.

Late yesterday R.A.F. Lancasters and Halifaxes bombed two German fuel plants near Dortmund in the Ruhr and long range Mosquitos carried the attacks through the night with raids on scattered objectives in Western Germany.

German flak defences caused the loss of one bomber and two fighters from the R.A.F. yesterday and last night and three American bombers and two fighters. Seven other American fighters failed to return

British Report Extensive Gains

KANDY, Ceylon, Jan. 4 — (CP). — British 14th Army troops have captured positions both north and east of Kanbalu, one of the strongest centres of Japanese resistance remaining in northern Burma, Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters announced today.

Kanbalu lies in the Irrawaddy Valley about 100 miles northwest of Mandalay. Enemy forces remaining in the region already have been imperilled by British troops advancing eastward across the Shwebo plain toward the Mandalay railway. The latter troops this week reached Kabo and Ye-U, 30 and 40 miles southwest of Kanbalu.

Enemy opposition now has stiffened at both Kabo and Ye-U, headquarters said. British jungle troops made steady progress at Kabo, the communique reported, but Japanese operating from positions on the east bank of the Mu River apparently have checked the Allied forces for the time being at Ye-U.

Eastern air command bombers and fighters ranged widely over Burma yesterday, shooting up and bombing enemy troops, installations and communications, and heavy bombers again flew into Thailand, striking tracks, locomotives and freight cars on the Bangkok-Moulmeing Railway. Several bridges were destroyed in Burma.

Drive Being Organized Against Black Market

LONDON, Jan. 4.—(CP-Reuters).—The Daily Mail said today that Sir Charles Tagert, dope gang buster and former Middle East police chief famous for his suppression of terrorism in Palestine and India, has undertaken a great new drive against Britain's black market in food.

Sir Charles has been given a staff of former army officers whose names are secret. All are intelligence experts and their main task is to uncover the men and their nation-wide organization.

The newspaper said that black marketeering in Britain "has assumed the proportions of a national scandal in spite of the most intense police activity and numerous prosecutions."

Crisis of German Assault Not Passed

Security Of Allied Line North of Salient Dependent On Hodges' Success

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The U. S. 1st army's new counter-offensive against the northern flank of Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's Belgian bulge affords solid encouragement but shouldn't lure us once more into the pleasant but dangerous fields of over-optimism.

The cold fact is that the crisis of the great German assault hasn't yet been passed. Lt.-Gen. Hodges' drive in the Grandmenil sector—officially reported today as making good progress against stiff resistance—must be regarded as of defensive nature at this juncture.

Of course if the 1st army push is successful it will complement Lt.-Gen. Patton's drive northward into the southern flank of the bulge and so will threaten to cut off the bulge at the base. This would enclose large German forces in a sack. However, that's merely a potentiality. The actuality is that Hodges' attack is essential for the security of the Allied line north of the bulge.

The American forces have regained the initiative about the perimeter of the bulge, but on the southern flank of the Allied line the Germans are on the offensive in the Sarreguemines-Bitche - Lauterbourg zone and have made some progress. Their main purposes are to compel the Allies to divert forces from other areas, and to oust them from the Saar region, but we may be sure that if they should succeed in making a break-through anywhere, this would be exploited to the utmost in a drive into France.

Thus on the whole Von Rundstedt, while he has lost the initiative at least temporarily on the perimeter of the bulge, still is able in considerable degree to make the Allies dance to his fiddling.

Probabilities are that the German commander still is looking for a soft spot on the north of the bulge through which he might make another thrust towards Liege and thence on to Antwerp. Loss of the great communications centre of Liege would be a terrific blow to the Allies, and if the Canadian-won port of Antwerp were put out of commission it would be a catastrophe. I think this is one of the primary reasons for the new 1st Army counter-offensives—to knock out of Von Rundstedt's head any notion of attempting a break-through in the north.

Judge Settles Jail Case

County Charged Town For Prisoner Keep

WHITBY, Jan. 4—(CP)—A three-year dispute between the county of Ontario and the town of Whitby as to what payment the town should make to the county for using the county jail as a town lockup was settled today when Judge D. B. Coleman delivered his judgment as arbitrator in the dispute.

Under its provisions the town will pay the county $300 per year, retroactive to Oct. 1, 1941, the date on which the town began using the county jail facilities for persons arrested by town police.

The county sought to collect $1 per day per prisoner from the town under the terms of a by-law passed by the county council. Action was entered in Division Court by the county to collect at this rate but Judge Coleman, who also heard the case, then found that the by-law which set the rate was ultra vires of the county council. Subsequently he was asked to settle the matter as arbitrator.

His honor found that the county's claim that extra help was acquired to care for the town's prisoners, while valid at the outset, was no longer justified as the eight-hour day law makes the same number of employes necessary now. Costs of the arbitration were assessed equally against the disputants.

Formosa Raided New Landing On Mindoro Isle

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ADVANCED COMMAND, Jan. 4 — (CP). — Co-ordinated air blows struck at southern Japan, the Ryukus and Formosa along a 2,000-mile arc reaching Luzon — prize island of the Philippines — as Gen. MacArthur today disclosed his troops have made two new landings on Mindoro, his closest approach to Manila.

Carrier-based and land-based planes — said by a Japanese Imperial communique to total 500 — combined in a raid on Formosa and Okinawa Islands, aerial stepping stones between Japan and the Philippines. Admiral Nimitz announced the action from Pearl Harbor yesterday, but issued no details.

His account did not mention land-based planes which the enemy account reported. Such planes might operate from either the Philippines or China, from which they have previously struck at Formosa.

By Japanese report, the blow compared in size to the smashing attacks in October which preceded the invasion of the Philippines. Strategic nature of Formosa as a staging base would require its neutralization to cover any Allied moves to the south, military experts said.

Other carrier aircraft ranged into the Ryukus at a point a little over 300 miles from Japan.

The same day, the biggest force of Saipan-based B29s yet to fly to Japan started huge fires at Nagoya, Nippon's airplane centre on southenr Honshu.

Details Meagre

Admiral Nimitz announced the Formosa attack in a communique, the meagre details of which suggested a radio silence to protect just such a continuing operation as the last previous carrier-based pounding of Formosa in October, the prelude to MacArthur's return to the Philippines.

MacArthur has not yet reported the air activities over Luzon for Wednesday but today's communique told of bombers and fighters based in the central Philippines ripping that island from north to south, heavily pounding Clark Field in the Manila area, and sinking or setting afire 25 ships off the west coast. These raids were Monday.

On Mindoro Island, where the Americans landed on the southwest coast at San Jose Dec. 15 to set up an air base from which bombers now are softening Luzon, MacArthur reported shore-to-shore landings on the east coast and just north of San Jose.

Exact sites of these landings were cloaked in secrecy but the one north of the original invasion scene would cut down the distance to Manila, already less than 150 miles.

The landings were unopposed, making unnecessary any preparatory naval gunfire. The east coast landing was at dawn Monday, the other at dawn Tuesday.

2 Infantrymen Awarded V.C.

LONDON, Jan. 4 — (CP-Reuters) —Two British Army infantrymen, Pte. George H Eardley of Cheshire and Cpl. William Harper of Doncaster, have been awarded the Empire's highest gallantry award, the Victoria Cross, for outstanding feats on the Western Front.

Eardley, of the King's Shropshire Light Infantry, was with a platoon detailed to clear an orchard near Overloon of machine-gunners. Time after time Eardley went in alone, with bullets spattering around him, to silence three machine-gun posts.

Harper, whose award is posthumous, commanding a section of the York and Lancaster Regiment, which was directed to attack the Depot de Mendicite, a natural defensive position surrounded by a wall and then a dike.

Harper led his section up to the wall, with "superb disregard" for a hail of mortar bombs and small arms fire the Germans were using, crossed the wall alone three times and routed the Germans covering it. Then he was killed while directing his section across a ford of the dike.

They were the 116th and 117th men to win the V.C. since the war started. Of the total, eight have been won by Canadians.

Rentals Rules Revised For Business Space

OTTAWA, Jan. 4 (CP)—Owners of manufacturing, office, store or other business space now can require tenants to accept renewal leases up to five years, the Prices Board said today in announcing a revision of commercial rental regulations.

"Under the revised regulation, the landlord can require the tenant to renew for a minimum period of one year or for a maximum of five years, but this renewal may not be for a longer period than that of the expiring lease," said Owen Lobley, rentals administrator for the board.

"If the tenant does not accept the renewal demanded by the landlord, it must vacate. If the landlord does not demand a renewal the tenant may remain in occupancy after his lease has expired, and at the option of the landlord will be either a tenant from month to month, or an overholding tenant under provincial law."

A tenant, however, may be required to vacate at the end of his lease if the landlord desires possession of the premises for his own use or for conversion into dwellings. Before giving notice to vacate, which must be of at least three months' duration, the landlord must secure from the rentals administration a permit to give notice.

Mr. Lobley pointed out that any valid notice to vacate given under provincial law prior to Jan. 2, 1945, remains in full force and is not affected by the changes in the regulations. Landlords who, prior to Jan. 2, 1945, have made bona fide commitments to deliver vacant possession of commercial premises to a third party at the termination of the present tenant's lease, may secure clearance from the rentals administration to fulfil the commitment.

is in the new cabinet, but the new foreign minister, John Sofianopolous, was a possible link with the faction.

Lt. Gen. R. M. Scobie's communique told of continued warfare. It reported that British troops were making "good progress" in clearing armed leftists from further areas in central Athens, east of Athens, in Piraeus and sectors south of the Athens-Piraeus road.

(An E.A.M. broadcast heard in London appealed to the new regent, Archbishop Damaskinos, "to ask one of our delegates to come and discuss with you how to halt this bloodshed," but reiterated determination to "sacrifice everything to secure the motherland's independence and protect her democratic freedom.")

Plastiras himself retained four important posts in addition to the Premiership, assuming the War, Navy, Air and Merchant Marine portfolios. E.L.A.S. leaders previously had been reported insistent that they should be considered in filling these posts.

The men with whom Plastiras surrounded himself were described for the most part as having Liberal affiliations, although they included several members of prominent families with Rightist tendencies.

Permitting one appointee to hold several portfolios—such as Justice, Health and Social Welfare—the new Premier left room for the inclusion of E.L.A.S. representatives in the government later.

The important post of Minister of Foreign Affairs was awarded to 57 year old Liberal John Sofianopolous, who founded the Greek agrarian party in 1932. In 1936 he organized the popular front party with left wing elements and was imprisoned subsequently by the late Premier John Metaxas.

Sofianopolous later escaped to Paris, but returned to Greece in 1940 when his country was at war with Italy and lived there throughout the German occupation. He combined his agrarian party with the Socialists to form the "Union of the Left" (Agrarian Socialists).

Other appointees included:

Finance, George Sideris; Justice, Health and Social Welfare, Nikolas Colyas; Education and Interior, Pericle Rallis; Agriculture and National Economy, John Glavanis; Communications, Gen. Lucas Sakelaropoulos.

Undersecretaries—War, Leonidas Spais; Navy, Theodore Condurіotis; Air, Wing Cmdr. Peter Cilos; Foreign Affairs, George Melas.

Michael Mavrocardatos was named Undersecretary to the Premier.

Hodges Blunts

hills of the Ardennes where the Allied winter campaign was slapped to a standstill, it became increasingly apparent that Von Rundstedt intended to stay on the offensive.

Headquarters withheld specific information of the new 1st Army offensive south of Grandmenil for security reasons, except to report initial gains.

Germans positions were heavily mined and dug in all around the bulge.

In the fluid battle around Bastogne, the Germans recaptured Wardin, three miles to the east, but by nightfall yesterday, the Americans had surrounded the village and repulsed an attack in company strength.

Terrific Fighting

St. Hubert, 15 miles west of Bastogne, was increasily threatened by Americans troops slogging through the woods just east of the road centre. Reports reaching headquarters that an American force of undisclosed size was holding out in that town, invested by the Germans for 10 days or more, but this was without specific confirmation.

The 26th Infantry Division reported heavy fighting in the mountain battle in North Luxembourg south and west of Wiltz. Gains were measured in yards. U.S. elements were three miles southwest of Wiltz and slightly less than four southeast of armored units fighting north and east of Wardin.

The infantry also was but a mile and a half from Doncols, astride the only major road out of a five-mile-deep box at Harlange where Von Rundstedt has committed up to five divisions in efforts to break through the 35th Division and cut the Arlon-Bastogne Road.

The foe crossed the Blies River anew south of Habkirchen, where artillery interrupted the thrust. Pressure eased somewhat south and southeast of Bitche, where enemy advances had ranged up to five miles.

Canadians Active.

Meantime the 1st Canadian Army flung back a German attack in company strength across the Maas (Meuse) River in Holland. Associated Press War Correspondent Kenneth C. Dixon said the Canadians suffered minor casualties in the action. He did not give its exact location.

Resilient U.S. 1st Army tanks and tank-riding infantry surged ahead across the snow-covered terrain south of Rochefort, engulfing two villages about three miles south of the town in the extreme nose of the bulge.

The 1st Army was back-tracking the ground lost in the German December offensive. In the Grandmenil area where the greatest potential threat was posed against the 20 divisions of Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's three armies in the bulge, supreme headquarters said resistance was stiff but that "good progress was being made."

Lt.-Gen. Hodges uncorked his offensive early Wednesday in a bitter blizzard. Tanks led the advance. Atop the clanging steel vehicles rode infantrymen who clashed with Nazi ground troops in the path.

The Grandmenil area is 20 miles north of Bastogne and the same distance west of St. Vith. It apparently was in this sector that they rested, regrouped and refitted 1st Army divisions were striking their hardest blows. In the Rochefort sector, 21 miles southwest of Grandmenil, high ground was captured dominating the valley ahead.

Bulge Hot Spot

American attacks on the north and German blows on the south kept the Belgian bulge the hottest spot on the Western Front, for the forces employed here were far larger than in the Saar-Lorraine or other sectors.

One of the German counter-attacks in the south was mounted by 50 tanks and a regiment of infantry north of Bastogne, against positions of the 101st Airborne Division at 2 p.m. yesterday. Another force the same size attacked the parachute troopers northeast of Bastogne in the grey dawn today.

A few tanks got through the Eagle Division's lines in yesterday's attack near Longchamps, but the infantry was checked. The 3rd Army fought yesterday into Bourcy, 5½ miles northeast of Bastogne, up the railroad to St. Vith.

Front dispatches said Lt.-Gen. Patton was posing two entrapment threats around Bastogne. One was across the 14-mile neck of the bulge. The other was southeast of Bastogne, where four or five German divisions were penned on three sides with only a four-mile corridor open betwen Wiltz and Wardin. One road only leads from the pocket, but the German-held opening is in difficult terrain, adaptable to defence.

Dixon reported that apart from the grand-scale Belgian action and the single attack on Gen. Crerar's men in the Netherlands the Germans were employing such patrol forces along the western front that it seemed they either were saving strength for a fresh manoeuvre or were beginning to feel the manpower pinch.

Snow was falling on the U.S. 1st and 3rd armies as they sought to cut the two main roads leading through the pinched waist of Von Rundstedt's menaced bulge. Thickening weather made visual bombing almost impossible, although Allied planes kept St. Vith and Houffalize, junctions of the two roads, under day and night attack.

In the Bastogne area the 3rd Army was within five miles of Houffalize and 21 of St. Vith.

Everywhere in the bulge, Gen. Eisenhower's communique noted strong German resistance.

Violent Battle North Of Basel

BASEL, Switzerland, Jan. 4—(AP) A violent artillery battle resounded through the Rhine Valley north of Basel early today with the Germans bringing their heaviest guns to bear against the French city of Mulhouse.

The gunfire extended all the way from the Swiss frontier to Mulhouse, a distance of 15 miles. Mulhouse lies eight miles west of the Rhine, which here forms the German border.

Germans troops were said to have attempted to cross the river at midnight but were thrown back by French fire at Huningue, just across the Swiss frontier from this city. The Germans withdrew from that French soil a month ago.

While German artillery was shelling Mulhouse from position in the Black Forest across the Rhine, French artillery opened up on Istein fortress and the surrounding area on the east bank of the stream, five miles along the valley from Huningue.

Extremely heavy detonations shook Basel homes at 5 a.m., and persons here expressed the view the guns of Istein fortress had gone into operation. They were silent during the French drive to the Rhine a month ago.

Ten thousand French school children are to be evacuated from Mulhouse and placed under the care of the Red Cross in Switzerland. The first 250 already have crossed the frontier.

another previous enemy strongpoint which fell to the Canadians. The advance was made following the overcoming of stiff resistance between the Fossa Vecchio Canal and the Senio River.

In an area laced with waterways, the Canadian onslaught apparently caught the Germans by surprise. Seventy prisoners were taken and a number of strongholds fell, last night's reports said.

The patrolling by both sides today was reported intensified all the way across the front, particularly in the area of Highway 65 due south of Bologna.

American artillery broke up four sharp enemy raids in the area of San Ansano, just west of Highway 9, four miles south of Bologna.

In the right sector of the 5th Army front, German artillery laid down a rocket barrage followed by a series of raids in the vicinity of Monte Dellverro and Sillare Ridge. These were repulsed.

Obituaries

MICHAEL PATTON.

The funeral of Michael Patton, 340 Alymer street, was held this morning from the Bert Duffus Funeral Home to St. Peter's Cathedral, where Requiem Mass was offered at nine o'clock by Rev. G. Kay. Burial took place in St. Peter's Cemetery. He was 77 years of age.

A resident of this district for a number of years, Mr. Patton passed away suddenly Tuesday following a heart attack, which he suffered while on a visit to some old-time friends at the House of Providence. He had been in good health previously.

He was born in the Township of Haldimand, a son of the late Michael Patton, and Bridget McKenney. His wife, formerly Annie Carrol and one son, predeceased him.

MRS. W. H. GILLESPIE.

A woman who will be recalled by an older generation in Peterborough, Mrs. Lottie Gillespie, formerly Lottie McWilliams, died suddenly in the Western Hospital, Toronto, Tuesday morning. For a number of years she had lived at 673 Euclid avenue in Toronto.

Mrs. Gillespie was born in the Lindsay district, the daughter of the late James McWilliams and Charlotte Copeland, and received her education there.

Before she married William Henry Gillespie, who has since passed away she resided for a time in Peterborough. Mr. Gillespie worked here, and was born in the Peterborough district. After the marriage, however, Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie moved to Lindsay, and also lived in Cobourg for some time before moving to Toronto, where Mrs. Gillespie had lived ever since.

About 23 years ago, her brother, E. N. McWilliams, operated one of Peterborough's finest men's cap, hat and fur stores. Later, the store was purchased by William Lech. Occasionally, she would work in the store and fellow-workers who still reside in Peterborough today, recall her as being a quiet and reserved girl, but well-liked by everyone.

While living in this city, she attended the old Methodist Church on Charlotte street, and was a member of the Bible Class of the Sunday School.

In her death, Mrs. Gillespie leaves to mourn two brothers and one sister, E. N. McWilliams of Peterborough and Amos McWilliams of Toronto; and Mrs. Lillian Furlong of Toronto.

Two sisters, Mrs. Nelson Tait of Cobourg and Mrs. Marguerite Edmondson of Oshawa, predeceased her.

The funeral will be Friday afternoon at three o'clock in Toronto, from the Trull Funeral Home, at 1111 Danforth avenue. Interment will take place in the family plot, Mount Pleasant Cemetery, at Toronto.

RONALD DAWSON

MILLBROOK, Jan. 4—(ENS)—The many friends of Mrs. John Dawson will regret to learn of the death of her second son, Ronald, in the hospital at Winnipeg recently. He was born and brought up at Millbrook, and had been for some years manager of the Bank of Toronto at Rossburn, Man. His mother was spending the winter at his home, and has now gone to the home of her youngest son, George Dawson, at Saskatoon to remain until spring. The death of Ronald followed an operation for goitre. Surviving are his wife, and two sons, both in the armed forces.

than the Allies believed. Synthetic gasoline is still being manufactured, and the Germans need far less fuel for their operations than in the days when the Luftwaffe went out steadily.

One German said of the Luftwaffe, "we now go into action only after good scouting and intelligence reports indicate it will be worthwhile."

These informants believe firmly that "V-weapons" being turned out in underground factories in Czechoslovakia as well as in Germany now number up to 10. They say a new airplane, ready for use, is shot from the ground like a rocket.

Carrying a crew, it switches to gasoline until approaching the target. Then the plane can use compressed air to permit a silent swoop. After leaving the target and launching its one torpedo, it can switch back to gasoline and land normally. The plane is said to mount two cannons and has a cruising range of about 1,000 miles.

Berlin declares a new portable rocket machine, strapped to one man and firing effectively over a 400-yard range, was used in the Von Rundstedt offensive.

Meanwhile, the Nazis are studying constantly Allied propaganda, military policy and political manoeuvring, especially in Greece, Belgium and France. This course is being pursued by Germans who believe they can yet win a worthwhile bargain by fighting on.

Elderly Man Struck By City Bus

Struck by a factory hour bus about 8 a.m. to-day at Monaghan Road and Brown street, Ellsworth Stoddard, 79, who lives at No. 9 Monaghan Road, suffered a severe head injury and was removed to Nicholls Hospital for treatment and examination.

The accident was investigated by Police Constable Gordon Trennum. Information indicated that Mr. Stoddard was crossing Monaghan Road at the Brown street intersection diagonally from the west to the east side, shortly before 8 o'clock on his way south to the plant of the Peterborough Lumber Company, where he is employed.

The bus driven by Gordon Gunsolus, 582 Water street, does not usually stop for passengers on its way to the Monaghan Road factories south of Romaine street at that hour.

From the bus company it was reported that Mr. Stoddard ran out in front of the bus, and possibly he may have expected that it was going to stop at Brown street where some persons were waiting in front of Saunders store. No positive explanation was available.

Mr. Stoddard was attended at Nicholls Hospital by Dr. R. F. Nott for a deep cut on the scalp, and it was understood that an X-ray was to be taken of the skull to determine whether here was any evidence of fracture. It was also stated that Mr. Stoddard did not lose consciousness when struck by the bus. He came to Peterborough some three years ago from Victoria Harbor, and has been living since then at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Kernaghan. His wife lives at Victoria Harbor and he has one son overseas and another in Toronto.

More than 900 fighter-bombers and fighters struck at enemy communications in a wide area in Italy and Yugoslavia yesterday. Twelve locomotives, 64 railroad cars and six railway bridges were destroyed in the Po Valley, Brenner Pass and Yugoslavia and rail lines were cut at 67 places. One bridge destroyed was north of Padua. The railyards at Zidani-most were bombed. Several enemy planes were destroyed on the ground at an airfield at Ghedt South of Brescia in Italy.

A heavy-laden troop train was strafed in Northern Yugoslavia and the fliers reported hundreds of Germand soldiers were seen running for the woods.

Mayor Suggests Work Program For Current Year

COBOURG, Jan. 4 — (ENS). — An outline of the work for the current year was suggested by Mayor Roy Dodge at the inaugural meeting of this year's Council Tuesday night. The new Mayor submitted to each committee a proposed list of work for the committee to take under consideration in 1945, some of it being of long-range proportions.

To the Streets Committee he suggested purchasing road machinery and snow removal equipment, street oiling, stop lights at dangerous corners, and sidewalk repairs. The Fire, Water and Light Committee was asked to have a survey made of all public buildings, schools and factories, to secure a plan of their fire fighting facilities. The committee was also asked to have street lights increased in strength and number and cooperate with the Public Utilities Commission to secure lower water and power rates.

The Police Committee was asked to start a Student honor roll of the older boys at the local Collegiate along the line that the town of Kingsville had inaugurated this year, and to take up with the Chief of Police any plan he might have for the betterment of the department. The Market Committee, he suggested, could review licence fees and market by-law, working with improve facilities at the market. The Public Buildings and Printing Committee was asked to make improvements in the Municipal Building. The Health, Sanitation and Sport Committee, he suggested, could look into a new trunk sewer system planning, study site of dump with the view of enlarging if necessary, possible change of sewer outlet in the harbor, and assist local sports.

The Mayor suggested that the Finance and Harbor Committee look into securing repairs to the ferry slip and pier wall along the side, lower tax rate, plan an industrial harbor west of ferry slip, look into assessment roll and voters' list.

The Rehabilitation Committee should prepare a master plan covering ten years' post-war activities in conjunction with the other committees. To the Manufacturing Committee the Mayor suggested that it keep the industrial pamphlets up to date and mail them out to new territories, to study all industrial sites, and get control of same if at all possible and to set aside a larger requisition for this work than in former years.

IN PLANE CRASH—Admiral Sir Bertram Ramsay, Allied naval commander-in-chief on the Western European front, who has been killed in a plane crash on the way from France to Belgium, apparently not due to enemy action. Admiral Ramsay planned the D-Day assault on France and the escape of the British and French troops at Dunkerque.

CCF May Oppose McNaughton In Grey North

OWEN SOUND, Jan. 4. — The name of Air Vice-Marshal A. E. Godfrey, of Gananoque, will be placed before a nomination meeting Saturday called to select the C.C.F. candidate in the Grey North by-election, Feb. 5, it was announced yesterday by Maurice Christie, president of the Owen Sound C.C.F. club.

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, minister of defence, is the Liberal candidate, and Garfield Case, Owen Sound mayor, the Progressive Conservative candidate.

Vice-Marshal Godfrey, who retired from the R.C.A.F. early in 1944, already is the C.C.F. candidate in Leeds in the next federal election. He has a career of nearly 40 years of service in Canada's forces behind him, and holds several decorations including the air force and military crosses.

He was the first pilot to fly from Montreal to Vancouver, making the flight in a seaplane in 1926. He was lost for 12 days in the Peace River district on the return leg of the first Trans-Canada airmail delivery from Ottawa to Vancouver in 1928.

Veteran Pilot Home On Leave

TILSONBURG Ont., Jan. 4—(CP).—Flt. Lt. Jack D. Rice, D.F.C., Canadian transport pilot who flew Prime Minister Churchill, Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder and Lt.-Gen. Sir Harold Alexander on a secret journey out of Cairo and who dropped Mr. Churchill's son, Maj. Randolph Churchill into Yugoslavia, then landed behind enemy lines to bring him out, is on leave at his home in nearby Springford.

In the R.A.F. for two years and 10 months, he has to his credit 2,000 hours in planes that never carried a gun and camethrough his operations without a scratch. His right arm was broken in an auto accident in Italy where he was waiting to return to Canada.

His D.F.C. citation commended his "great gallantry" on special operations in October, 1942, to the oasis of Kufra, and in the invasion of Sicily in 1943.

Doctor Wade Declares Cobourg Streets Disgrace

COBOURG, Jan. 4 — (ENS) — Purchase of a snow plow was recommended by Dr. W. Wade, local physician in a lengthy letter to the town council in which he charged that Cobourg streets were a disgrace and worse than any municipality on Highway No. 2, east of Toronto.

He declared that the first duty of a Streets Department should be cleaning out snow after a storm so as to render resumption of public services as soon as possible.

"I think without a doubt that the streets of this town are the most disgraceful during the winter months of any municipality on Highway No. 2, east of Toronto," he declared in one part of his letter.

Disgraceful Situation

Dr. Wade went on to point out that he had been informed that all the town had to cope with a snow storm was a few shovels and a scarcity of help. Equipment was asked for years ago by the Streets Department, but nothing was done, he said. Last winter he went to Port Hope after a bad storm and found the streets had been cleared by the plough while Cobourg was practically snow-bound and doctors were not able to get to the General Hospital to attend patients.

"One would think we lived in the back woods and the sixties with our little snow shovel street cleaning equipment," he asserted.

Dr. Wade went on to say that on Tuesday, December 12 (day of the big storm), no member of the medical staff was able to get to the hospital due to Chapel street being plugged up with snow. It was not until afternoon, after heavy vehicles had broken a way that the street was negotiable, he said. Many of the doctors could not get out of their driveways because the streets were blocked with snow.

Councillor Eddie Morton labelled the better as a lot of "hot air" and pointed out that it had appeared in the local press, in which Cobourg was said to be in the best shape from here to Toronto. Councillor Mrs. Clara Delany said that she had been in Port Hope on Christmas Day and found roads there no better than Cobourg. Councillor Allan Field said that no equipment had been able to cope with the severe storm of last month and he could not see the town buying a $10,000 snow plough. A heavy truck with snow clearing equipment would do the job and he suggested that council see how other towns handled it. Reeve Robert Love suggested that the town get a three-ton truck with as Port Hope had to handle the snow removal. Mayor Dodge also thought that a three-ton truck with snow removal equipment should meet the requirements.

Clear Main Highway

COBOURG, Jan. 4 — (ENS) — Cobourg and district experienced another bad snow storm Wednesday and Tuesday night but it did not reach the proportions of the one last month. However it was bad enough to make travel impossible for some time on the highway, due to poor visability. Highway plows same through Wednesday and traffic was resumed. Out in rural sections the snow accumulated in large drifts and many roads are blocked.

3000 Land Plots Available For Vets

OTTAWA, Jan. 4 — (CP). — About 3,000 small land holdings across Canada are to be made available this year for veterans already discharged, Veterans Minister Mackenzie said yesterday.

It is planned, if possible, to construct new homes on these holdings during the year and a limited number of full-time farming units will be released in 1945 to meet the need of exceptional cases.

Large-scale settlement under the Veterans' Land Act has not been previously attempted because farm machinery and seasoned lumber have been in short supply. In addition there was a desire to protect the interests of the men who will be eligible for the benefits of the Act, but who are still overseas.

Mr. Mackenzie said increased supplies would become available this year and a substantial number of men who have seen service in an actual theatre of war have been or are being discharged to civil life. Although the settlement program will be speeded up this year a large part of the acreage acquired for soldier settlement will be held in reserve for the men still overseas.

The Civil Service Commission announced yesterday it was seeking 100 men, preferably veterans with overseas service, as officials in the veterans' land scheme. The men will be required as settlement supervisors and some for assistant district superintendents.

The Seriousness Of Our Situation

The seriousness of the situation in which the Allies find themselves has been admirably summed up by Mr. Walter Lippmann, the American columnist. Comparisons between the German breakthrough under Ludendorff in 1918 and the present breakthrough under von Rundstedt are futile, he insists; wars are not won by historical analogies; only "the conviction of desperate urgency" can save the day for us.

This is the judgement of one of the best commentators on world affairs now writing; Lippmann has recently returned from France, where he has had a chance to see for himself what is happening. This is what he says:

"The blunt truth is that all of us—and I know of no exceptions—have underestimated the power of our enemies. We have allowed ourselves to see things as we wished to see them, and not as they are. Now we must see them as they are, and find in the truth not comfort and ease but steadfastness and resolution. The spectacular victories which we won in Europe and in the Pacific caused our enemies to concentrate furiously in order to wage war. The victories caused us to be off guard, to think about reconversion and demobilization, and to theorize and quarrel about peace. What we have to do now is to regroup our forces, mobilize to a far higher degree than we have yet done, and readjust our political ideas to the realities of a long and hard war".

In brief, he concludes, the only way to shorten the war is to prepare ourselves in every respect for a long war. We have cherished many a foolish analogy between this war and the last, and one of them is the belief that, because the last war ended after approximately four years, this one cannot last much longer; it is time that we realized that this war can last until we make tremendous exertions to win it; and until we stop planning for the postwar period and reconversion we are only half at war.

These plain words are directed principally to the people of the U.S.A., but we can profit by listening to them. Mr. Lippmann also scolds his country's rulers and representatives for their holier-than-thou attitude toward British and Russian diplomacy. These are his words:

"Let us remember that we are not in a position either in Europe or in the Pacific to indulge in the moral luxury of estranging our strongest Allies. The British and the Russians have paid a terrible price to wage this war while we were making up for our unpreparedness. They have paid with their blood for the right to be judged, at least considerately and temperately even if we think they are in error, when they act in defence of what they regard as their vital interests.

"They have needed us and they need us now to insure their survival and their security. But we have needed them, and we need them now, and this everlasting sniping and self-righteous moralizing about issues which few of us really understand, has already gone further than it can be allowed to go in view of the ordeal of our troops and in the light of the immense Allied effort it will take to conclude this world war".

These words, from a man whose prestige as a commentator on international affairs is very high, are a serious warning. The Germans have been told by Hitler in his New Year address that they will stick at nothing, and spare nothing, in their attempt to win the war, which they can do very simply by keeping us out of their country and wringing a compromise peace from us: the Japanese have changed their strategy from sea to land, which means that we shall have to fight a land campaign to beat them. These things will not be done quickly and they will not be done at all if we give only half our attention to them. Quarrels and dreams of the future must wait until the main job—beating the enemy—is successfully completed.

The Archbishop's Heavy Task

Archbishop Damaskinos, now Regent of Greece, is meeting many difficulties in his attempts to form a government, but there is ample reason to believe that he can do as much as anyone to bring stability and reason to his country. During the past month Greece has been torn by a new sort of war, in which British forces have played an unpleasant and ungrateful part. Opponents of the Churchill government have been eloquent in stressing the disagreeable side of British action in Greece; they have not yet shown how that action was to be avoided. All that they can suggest is that the British should get out of Greece and let the Greeks run their own affairs; they must know that this would mean civil war, fought with weapons which the Allies gave the Greeks in order to fight the Germans. There would be slim hope for a truly democratic outcome of such a war, and it would be desperately hard on the large numbers of Greeks who are not in sympathy with either of the contending factions. Mr. Churchill and Mr. Eden did the right thing in going to Greece and making what temporary settlement they could. And that settlement was a Regency under Archbishop Damaskinos.

The Archbishop is quite accustomed to trouble and hard, thankless tasks. He was leader of the Relief and rehabilitation committee when Corinth was destroyed by an earthquake in 1928. He was moderator and peacemaker among the quarreling Greek churches in the U.S.A. in the '30s. Soon after the Germans occupied Greece he became Archbishop of Athens, and his resistance to the Nazis was fearless and vigorous. It was he who protested to the local German governor against the shooting of hostages, which deprived the community of heads of families, only sons and leaders of intellectual life; when he was asked to replace a list of hostages slated for execution with an alternative list, he unhesitatingly made up a list of the Greek bishops, with his own name at the top. Understandably such action was embarrassing to the Germans, and very heartening to the Greeks. Damaskinos has the respect of all factions, and we may hope devoutly that he will be able to make a compromise and clear the way for a plebiscite.

It was a plebiscite which put George II on the Greek throne in 1935, and therefore the king should have no serious objection to another plebiscite and regency now. His objections, if any, will be purely formal, for the regency is now a fact, and the plebiscite should not be long delayed.

Advances In Daintiness

This Dominion now appears to have reached a stage in its development which the United States passed through about twenty-five years ago, in which the desire is strong to find new and dainty names for old and honourable jobs. A gentleman has written a letter to one of our contemporaries advocating a new name for garbage collectors; the name 'garbage collector', he suggests, implies an undignified calling, and must be painful to the feelings of those to whom it is applied. He does not suggest an alternative himself, but we suggest that 'Preventer of Pestilence' might fill the bill.

We regard this suggestion with amusement, because we cannot see anything wrong with collecting garbage as a way of earning a living, or with 'garbage collector' as a trade name. But the urge to find new names for old trades is strong. The letter-writer says that the undertaker and the real estate agent have disappeared; they are now 'morticians' and 'realtors'. To some people, perhaps, but not to us. The word 'realtor' suggests nothing to us but some passages in Babbitt, and we always think of an undetraker as an undetraker. The word 'undertaker' means simply 'contractor', and it seems to us to be a good one for a man who contracts to bury the dead decently. It is far less suggestive of worms and corruption than the ugly 'mortician'.

Not long ago we heard a discussion as to the desirability of calling 'domestic science' by the grand new name of 'household arts'. The question at once rose: "Could a household artist be asked to scrub a floor?" Obviously not: it would be beneath her dignity; her employer would have to scrub her own floors while the household artist did a little light dusting. There is such a thing as being too fancy in the matter of names.

The trouble, we think, lies in a wrong conception of what work is honourable and what work is not. Surely any necessary work is honourable, however dirty or laborious it may be. Collecting garbage is honest and useful; then let the garbage collector rejoice in his name, and not seek for a resounding honorific which would make him slightly comic.

Australia's Warning

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

UNDER the labour and socialistic government of Australia, to which the Canadian C.C.F. is constantly pointing with pride, "a vigorous trend toward authoritarianism" has been developing despite the legal framework of a democracy, a tight constitution and a people jealous of its rights. This is the warning issued to the English-speaking world by Mr. Brian Penton, editor of the Sydney Daily Telegraph. Writing in the New York Times Magazine, Mr. Penton says that the Australian government's tampering with free speech and free press is a danger signal which democrats in other countries cannot ignore.

Little noted in the rush of events, the Australian government made a mockery of free speech and public debate last April. When the Sydney Telegraph published articles criticizing the government's handling of industrial disputes in the coal industry, the newspaper was suppressed. The criticism had nothing to do with military affairs. It did not touch the problem of military security. Yet the Telegraph was suppressed for criticizing the government.

The whole press of Sydney, Melbourne and Adelaide then reprinted the statements and editorials which the censor had forbidden. These papers were suppressed, too. The whole metropolitan press of Australia was suppressed for criticizing the government. In a similar situation in Canada all the larger papers would have been suppressed, for example, because of their criticism of government's manpower policies.

Happily, the Australian courts overruled the censors and the papers went ahead and published their criticism after their suppression. The government then altered the censorship rules to exclude political news and comment from the censor's power.

But censorship on foreign news moving out of Australia has been more drastic still. George Weller, correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, records in a recent book that he and the other American newspapermen accompanying the American expedition to Australia were not allowed to report the debates of the Australian parliament on conscription, nor even to cable the editorials of the Australian press on the issue. If Canada followed the same policy no American newspaper could have reported the recent conscription debate in our Parliament.

AS Mr. Penton points out in his Times article, the problem raised in Australia is fundamental in every democracy on earth. It is the power of the bureaucrat. In an age of rapid change and in a society of baffling complexity, legislatures have delegated wide powers to officials. During the war this delegation has greatly increased until bureaucrats are framing regulations which become, in fact, the law of the land, which Parliament itself has not passed and perhaps has not seen. In wartime such negations of the parliamentary system are often unavoidable, but they are not confined to wartime. Even before the war in Canada, for example, Parliament had itself abdicated part of its essential powers of over-taxation, placing in the hands of officials virtually uncontrolled power over the taxpayer.

However, the anti-democratic process does not stop there. As Mr. Penton has observed in Australia, the official who has been given power to regulate soon takes on the power to adjudicate as well. He comes to regard himself not only as empowered to order the public about, but also to judge when the public h— disobeyed his orders. He becomes not only a policeman but a judge, as he is under the taxation system of Canada. Usually he is a good judge and, in Canada anyway, an honest man and probably overworked and underpaid.

BUT the principle here is all wrong, for it violates the fundamental right on which all personal liberty rests, namely, the principle that, in questions of dispute, the citizen has the right to appear before an impartial court as the equal of the government. When that right is lost, when the state itself assumes the power to judge the citizen, freedom is undermined and eventually disappears.

This has happened in every country where the state has taken control of the whole economy and of all society. Before it can do so, before it can operate its overall plans for society, it must control the citizen and judge him. And, as has been found in Australia under a government theoretically devoted to state control of society, the state must also try to control public opinion, which is the chief factor in society. Overall state control is found to be irreconcilable with complete freedom of discussion and of the press.

"No part of the British Empire has come so close to fascism as Australia," an eminent king's counsel said in Australia recently. But the warning which emerges from the suppression of newspapers for criticism of the government does not apply to Australia alone. It applies to every free country, where the pressure of a society in convulsive change tempts the legislature to hand over its powers to experts and to imagine that, by some quick magic, the wisdom of the state can replace the initiative of the citizen.

The Flake

Go out in a snowstorm clad in a dark coat and you can have a whole museum full of snow crystals to study simply by standing and watching the flakes as they fall on your sleeve. The variety is literally endless, but until one has tried to pair off the crystals, it is hard to believe that a hexagon can have so many variations.

Occasionally one will find a double hexagon, actually a twelve-sided figure; but even in such a flake there are six rays all alike, with six alternating rays of another kind, also all alike. It is as though two crystals had been placed one upon the other in such a manner that the points of one fell precisely between the points of the other.

Now and then, too, one will find a flake that is the simplest kind of hexagon, merely a plate with six square, unadorned edges. But usually the flake is a star, elaborate in the extreme, filigree work of amazing beauty. Once in a while one will find a flake fully half an inch across, large enough that one can study each point in detail; and the complexity of each point is like the dream design of some master in balanced detail. Never do the points of a flake vary from each other; for there is a crystalline order in nature that is as near perfection as anything we know.

Watching these flakes, so fragile that a puff of breath can destroy them, one may also think of that other common hexagonal crystal, one of the most durable of all in the rocks of the hills and the sands of the seashore—quartz. There is, surely, some close cosmic kinship between them.—New York Times.

THE ETERNAL OPTIMIST

"What Do They Know of England?"

(By SENATOR RUPERT DAVIES)

THERE still seems to be a lot of money left in Britain for what might be called luxuries. While I was in London, a picture by Tintoretto (who lived from 1518-1594 and whom Titian summarily dismissed from his studio in Venice for some unknown reason) sold for 1,050 guineas. This picture was called "The Virgin Weeping Over the Dead Body of Christ". One hundred and five years ago this picture was bought by a Kidderminster family named Knight for only thirty-six guineas. Perhaps the most famous Tintoretto in Britain is "The Origin of the Milky Way" in the National Gallery for which the nation paid £1,250 in 1890. Another picture from the same Kidderminster family, "The Raising of Lazarus", by Lucus van Leyden, brought 580 guineas. Nearly £10,000 was paid for pictures at the sale on this one day.

ANOTHER indication of the fact that there is a lot of money in Britain was the paying of 15,000 guineas by Mrs. Florence Nagle for the two-year-old filly Carpatica at the Newmarket bloodstock sales conducted by Messrs. Tattersalls. This was a record price for a horse of this age at a public auction. The previous best high price was 13,500 guineas for Happy Landing, a filly of the same age, last year. Forty-three years ago, however, Mr. G. B. Faber paid 21,000 guineas for a two-year-old colt in a private transaction. Carpatica is by the Derby winner Hyperion out of the 1,000 guineas winner Campanula. The total amount realized at this year's bloodstock sales is 1,042,964 guineas.

DESPITE the war Britain is leading a fairly normal life, and the same things are discussed over there as are being discussed in Canada. For instance, last year, it will be remembered, there was quite an agitation to relieve the indemnities of Canadian Members of Parliament of income tax. It was claimed that the $4,000 which Parliamentarians at Ottawa received was to indemnify them for loss of time from their businesses. However, the agitation was unsuccessful. In Britain a number of letters are appearing in the press urging that the £600 received by Members of Parliament in Britain should be free of income tax. At the present time the first £100 is free of income tax; but to claim anything above that figure, a Member of Parliament has to put in an expense account. He can charge his rent in London on account of parliamentary duties providing he has another home to keep up away from London. He can also charge secretarial expenses, postage, etc. In Canada it is different: Members are allowed to frank their mail, and secretaries are provided.

SOME discussion took place in The Times while I was in Britain with regard to the work of hospital staffs. British hospitals, like Canadian hospitals, are finding it difficult to secure domestic help. It was claimed by several writers to The Times that the reason for the shortage of domestic help in hospitals was the poor treatment which the maids received; it was claimed that the food was mediocre, the accommodation shocking and the hours often reached seventy in a week. Further, the maids objected to being treated as "slaveys", with no standing in the hospitals.

ONE hears many views upon the future of Britain. I discussed it at length with a number of people, and found varying opinions. Committees are being set up all over the country today, planning for post-war industrial activity. A huge drainage system is being put into effect. Every square mile of Britain is being carefully examined; and I was told by one drainage authority that when the plan is completed and the new drainage scheme which is contemplated is in effect, the production of rural England will be increased by one hundred per cent. There is a determination on the part of many able men to see that Britain is able to do much more towards supplying her own tables than she has been able to do in the past. I saw acres and acres of wild hill land planted with potatoes, and in beautiful parks surrounding great mansions I saw the stubble of thousands of acres of grain which had been cut in the fall of the year. Great concern is being shown by the House of Lords with regard to the export trade of Britain, which has fallen from £470,000,000 in 1938 to £232,000,000 in 1943. This, it was explained, was due largely to the fact that many factories were busy manufacturing implements of war for the use of the British people themselves.

THERE are those of course, who feel that Britain is done; that her day is over and that never again will she be a first-class power. I dined with a group of Canadians, and I heard this theory freely and emphatically expounded. I heard the same idea stated with great finality by a gentleman from Ohio, during the trip home. As I listened, I wondered if these people had ever read the history of England, and had any idea of the resourcefulness and capability of the British businessman. At times I was tempted to paraphrase a well-known quotation, and say: "What do they know of England who only London know?" It is amazing how emphatically people can speak of England who have never seen England except from the window of a boat-train; who know nothing of the industrial life of the Midlands, of Yorkshire and Lancashire, and the great shipping interests of the busy ports which dot the coast of England, Scotland and Wales, or the great agricultural productiveness of the West of England. England guarded the gates of freedom for two years alone. I am optimist enough to believe that the country which gave to the world Wellington, Kitchener, Haig, Wavell, Pitt, Disraeli, Cobden, Peel, Gladstone, Lloyd George, Churchill, Woolton, Nuffield, Eden and General Montgomery, is by no means finished. After having helped win the war and settle the peace, I feel sure that Britain will face the task of putting its own house in order again with courage and resiliency.

John and Albert and a Pair of Lions

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

IT didn't happen at "a seaside resort called Blackpool," nor did John meet the horrid fate that befell little Albert. But at first there seemed no doubt that John Robinson of Manchester was hell-bent on joining little Albert in that particular section of Valhalla roped off for those meeting their end by lining a lion. John, a 15-year-old, apparently decided he was a match for a lion named "Mushie" at catch-as-catch-can wrestling and flung himself on the beast without warning. Mushie, accustomed to grappling with his trainer, a young woman, was unnerved momentarily by the switching of the sexes, and John separated the big cat from some of its mane before Mushie got warmed up. Then John lost part of his trousers and a slice of shank meat before the combatants were separated.

For a while, we were at a loss to account for young John's extraordinary behaviour. We wondered if Lancashire lads are subject to some strange leonine leanings which take them too close to the noble beasts. Again we wondered if John thought himself a reincarnation of an earlier John Robinson noted for his handling of beasts. We thought of a possible relationship between poor little Albert and John—both were from Lancashire—and then we remembered that Albert's mother had roundly declared she was raising no more children for lions to lunch on, and we thought it likely that so sensible an attitude would be shared by the entire family. The only other thing we could think of was that Master John had sneaked a stiff one from the sideboard before going to the circus—and oddly enough, that led us to the solution, although it was a different sort of Christmas cheer that caused the incident.

The Ministry of Food is directly responsible for young John's behaviour. Not satisfied with handing out an extra eight ounces of sweets for children, along with an extra half-pound of margarine and a half-pound of sugar, the Ministry gave this unsuspecting youth a whole 14 cents' worth more meat in the week before Christmas. He had thus crammed 37 cents' worth of meat into him during that week, and it transformed him into a dangerous carnivore. In fact, it now appears as though Mushie was the one to benefit from the fight being broken up. The Ministry had better pay close attention to this phenomenon and be very careful how it increases the meat ration, or else the keepers at Whipsnade will have to start figuring a way to protect the zoo inmates from the spectators instead of the other way 'round.

Chicken Trouble

Those smart, up to the minute American magazines are having difficulty distinguishing their chickens. A few weeks ago Life, with its staff of about 50 editors and assistants, was apologizing for a picture of a "Senator stroking a hen" which hen had big comb, wattles, spurs and was in the attitude of crowing. Now News Week, similarly supplied with editorial talent, prints a picture of a big, white "Plymouth Rock Rose Comb" with as nice a single comb as any Plymouth Rock ever grew.—Port Arthur News-Chronicle.

A Bible Message

O God, thou art my God; early will I seek thee: my soul thirsteth for thee, my flesh longeth for thee in a dry and thirsty land, where no water is; to see thy power and thy glory, so as I have seen thee in the sanctuary. (Ps. 63: 1, 2.)

Furthermore Elihu answered and said, Hear my words, O ye wise men; and give ear unto me, ye that have knowledge.... Let us choose to us judgment: let us know among ourselves what is good....

There hearken unto me, ye men of understanding: far be it from God, that he should do wickedness; and from the Almighty, that he should commit iniquity.... Yea, surely God will not do wickedly, neither will the Almighty pervert judgment. (Job 34: 1, 2, 4, 10, 12.)

Touching the Almighty, we cannot find him out: he is excellent in power, and in judgment, and in plenty of justice: he will not afflict. (Job 37: 23.)

STAKING THE MOON

We have still further indication of the "big" outlook of the United States. Asked for information as to how scientists travelling to the moon might file claims on territory there, the Interior Department issues the instructions, calmly assuming that such lands may be "designated as public domain under the sovereignty of the United States."—Windsor Star.

THEY KNOW

There are some people who will be under no illusions as to the nature of the peace that one day must be written with Germany. They are those who have fought the Hun on land, at sea or in the air; the dispossessed populations of Europe; the French, with their long memories, the Norwegians, with their gallant pride, the townspeople of Dover, Coventry, Plymouth and London and many, many more. To that may be added the liberal-minded Teuton who knows that his homeland is held in the thrall of the blackest night in modern times. They will be for peace, not for any uneasy lull between awful wars. They will seek a peace that will last because the war-makers have been rendered harmless in fact.—Victoria Colonist.

MEET NEW CIRCUMSTANCES

Behind the industrial distortion which war, with its concentration on certain branches, must needs produce lie a pressure of energy, a richness of talent, and a proved capacity to meet new circumstances as they arise which will surely rank among Britain's chief assets. But success in turning these assets to account depends on the whole-hearted acceptance of another lesson taught by the war, that the concerted organization and direction of all the resources of production—men, machines, and material—is a condition of efficient and economical production. Already, as the time of transition opens, industry is beginning to demand from the Government the information, guidance, and disclosure of policy that it must have. All the great potential capacity of the country will have to be brought into play if Great Britain is to provide in future rising standards of living for her population on a basis of full employment and at the same time equip herself for that active role in world affairs which alone will entitle her to retain her traditional position among the Great Powers.—London Times.

DECORATED PIGEONS

The award of the Dickin Medal for gallantry to a couple of pigeons the other day is not by any means a precedent. Probably the most famous of these decorated birds is the carrier pigeon which saved Verdun by delivering through smoke and poison gas a message which eventually reached Marshal Petain. For this the bird was decorated with a special ring corresponding to the Croix de Guerre, which it wore until it died of old age and over-feeding. In the United Services Museum in Whitehall is a stuffed pigeon which is known as "Crisp, VC." It belonged to Capt. Crisp, whose trawler was attacked in the last war by a submarine; the bird managed to carry a message which brought the navy to the rescue of the crew in time. It was the French Government which, responding to public sentiment, created leg rings that were the equivalent not only of the Croix de Guerre but the Legion of Honour, the Military Medal, and the War Cross, and many of these decorations have been bestowed on pigeons. Even Japan devised in 1939 similar rings for Japanese carrier pigeons honoured for "distinguished service."—Manchester Guardian.

Hospital Ship Carries Eight Peterborough Men

Eight Peterborough and district men were among the 700 casualties who arrived Tuesday on the hospital ship Letitia. Veterans of both Italy and fighting in Northern Europe, several of them had seen long, heavy fighting before being wounded.

Pte. Vernon Henry Tarkington, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Tarkington, 232 Wolfe street, who went overseas before his 19th birthday and was in action only two months before becoming a casualty, is one of the youngest to return.

While serving as a reinforcement to the Black Watch Regiment, after it suffered severe casualties near the end of July, Pte. Tarkington was wounded in the right hip and also suffered injuries to the face and arms. In October, he became seriously ill as a result of his wounds.

Before enlisting, Pte. Tarkington worked in the Induction Motors at the C.G.E. and his father served with the 19th Battalion in the last war. A brother, Petty Officer Jack Tarkington, is stationed at Halifax and was hoping to welcome his brother back to Canada.

A veteran of much tough Italy fighting, Pte. Anthony Schiarizza, a paratrooper, has arrived back in Canada. Son of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Schiarizza, 562 Bethune street, he suffered an eye injury when wounded the second time.

At the time he became a casualty, Pte. Schiarizza was serving with the First Special Service Force with the 5th Army, and he was first wounded while fighting at the Anzio beachhead. One of the fifteen men to volunteer for paratroop work, he won his wings at Helena, Mont. Prior to enlisting with the Prince of Wales Rangers (CA) in March, 1942, this soldier was employed at the De Laval.

Others in the list include: Spr. H. S. Calberry, whose wife, Mrs. Mildred Calberry, lives at 409 Braidwood avenue; Pte. A. R. Edwards, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Edwards, 415 London street; Pte. F. R. Lustic, whose wife, Mrs. Helen Lustic, lives at 313 Louis street; Pte. W. A. Phillips, son of Mrs. Lena Phillips, Lindsay; Sgmn. W. Revoy, son of Mrs. Violet Revoy, Marmora; and A-Cpl. R. B. Waudby, son of Mrs. Hazel McIlmoyle, R.R. 2 Lakefield.

Constitutional Status Of Nationalists

By GRANT DEXTER

By GRANT DEXTER

Between the Laurier naval policy of 1909-10 and the outbreak of war in 1914, much happened in Quebec. The Bourassa Nationalists and the Conservatives, with the knowledge and connivance of the party chiefs, including Sir Robert Borden, joined hands in 1911 to beat Laurier in Quebec. The succeeded and thus did the Conservative attain power. But the price paid by both parties to this unnatural union was high. The Conservative party was discredited. Bourassa's hold on his countrymen also weakened. It would be untrue to say that all the antagonism of Quebec to the Conservative party since 1911 is attributable to conscription.

As in 1944, there was virtually unanimous support in 1914 for Canadian participation in the war. Everybody, including Mr. Bourassa, was agreed. Dissention did not beging until late in 1915.

Before 1914 there had been an influential movement in English-speaking Canada in support of Canadian autonomy. Co-operation between this group and the Quebec Nationalists, however, ended on or shortly after the outbreak of hostilities. The correspondnece, on this point, between J. S. Ewart and Mr. Bourassa is conclusive.

As the Quebec Nationalists became increasingly critical of the war, Mr. Bourassa felt impelled to explain his earlier attitude of support. The explanation was that the Nationalists always had made reservations on the point of constitutional status. And now that the imperialists were willing to "bankrupt" Canada to save the Empire (a quotation from Mr. Meighen), it was time these constitutional limitations were emphasized. Canada's actual obligation was strictly limited to defence. This limitation derived directly from the Constitutional act of 1791; the B.N.A. act and the various Militia acts. Canada, Mr. Bourassa went on, was a self-governing colony and the Imperial power—Great Britain—as the single voice in foreign policy must bear the responsibility for war. French Canadians were right in abstaining from overseas service. They were obeying a sound instinct. Efforts to encourage greater Canadian participation were ascribed by the Nationalists to scheming Imperialists, under orders from Downing street. Such appeals were to be resisted.

Up to 1916, the Quebec Liberals under Laurier vigorously supported the war. Enthusiasm then began to wane. Charges were made, and for the most part proved, that the government had seriously mishandled French Canada. When conscription was introduced in the House of Commons, Laurier, himself, took ground similar to that occupied by the Nationalists in opposing it.

The Nationalists by resolution passed at Montreal on June 7, at the outset of the debate at Ottawa, declared conscription to be contrary to the principles of the Canadian constitution. A few days later, June 13, in the House of Commons, Laurier said:

"The law of the land, which antedates Confederation, not by many years, but by many generations, and which was reintroduced very shortly after Confederation, emphatically declares that no man in Canada shall be subject to compulsory military service except to repel invasion or for the defence of Canada."

Rodolphe Lemieux, on the following day, put the case as follows:

"Sir, on this grave issue I stand upon the bedrock of our constitution, and I claim that England has accepted the Canadian contention that there is no constitutional obligation upon us to take part in war outside of Canada, except for the defence of our territory...The view taken by the sober people of Quebec is that, according to the constitution of Canada, there is to be no conscription of blood for service abroad. For the defence of the territory, certainly, and that they have proved again and again from the time of the cession until now."

Ernest Lapointe developed the constitutional argument in detail:

"I also oppose this bill," he said, "because it involves a radical and most serious charge in our constitutional relations and constitutes a departure from well-known principles agreed to by all parties as to the constitution of this Confederation."

Innumerable citations could be given. For example, Mr. Boulay (Rimouski) put it this way: "We are opposing conscription...because our traditions, our constitution, our status as a colony are opposed to it."

There were, of course, a multitude of other reasons. Canada was doing too much. Parliament, having already been extended by one year and with many vacancies, was moribund and unfit to deal with so important a matter. There were numerous grievances such as the mistreatment of the minority by the majority, the language question in Ontario, and so on. The mishandling of recruiting in Quebec by the government, indeed the fumbling of the Quebec situation entirely, was stressed. It was argued that the proof that this was a British and not a Canadian war was plain in the enlistment figures: 14,245 French Canadians; 125,245 native-born English-speaking Canadians, and 155,095 British-born Canadians.

The basic argument, however—the bedrock in Mr. Lemieux's phrase—was the constitution. Canada was a self-governing colony, not obligated to participate in overseas wars. Voluntary participation was one thing; compulsion was another. The mother country was obligated to defend Canada and to wage her own wars. How could it be different when Canada had no voice in British foreign policy; had no foreign policy of her own; had nothing to say on the issues leading to war; had not declared war herself; was, so to speak, dragged into the conflict as a part of the colonial empire?

Successive British governments have recognized Canada's freedom from all obligation. Mr. Asquith only a few years before had explained why Canada could not have a part in any foreign policy. Surely it must follow that, under responsible government, there could be no obligation without representation. This was the Quebec case against conscription — theoretically iron-clad, clinched, unanswerable.

The development of this argument in the conscription debate of 1917 in the speeches of Laurier, Lemieux, Lapointe and many others has already been referred to. It would be repetitious to pursue the survey into the anti-conscription campaign which got under way forthwith in Quebec, with Mr. Bourassa unsuccessfully competing with the Liberals for the spotlight. The story will be found in many books. The most concise and accurate is Elizabeth Armstrong's "The Crisis of Quebec." W. H. Moore's "The Clash," is another. And of course the pamphlets and other material issued at the time are full of it.

Try this at bedtime tonight

● Do you sleep soundly and wake up refreshed, clear-eyed and buoyant, ready for the day's work? Or are your nights restless and disturbed, your mornings spoiled by fatigue and exhaustion?

If you've been waking tired and listless, why not do as thousands today are doing—simply drink a cup of Ovaltine warm at bedtime. For Ovaltine does three things to bring vigorous morning freshness.

(1) Taken warm at bedtime, it relieves that feeling of nervous tension—helps the body relax for sleep without drugs. (2) Processed for easy digestion, it supplies light nourishment to prevent restless tossing and turning due to digestive unrest. (3) It supplies a variety and wealth of important food elements to rebuild body and nerve cells, replenish vitality to meet the morning.

Ovaltine furnishes not only essential vitamins, but also a combination of minerals, high-quality proteins and quick energy food elements which authorities agree are necessary for health and top vitality.

So if you sleep poorly—waken tired and listless—why not turn to Ovaltine as an aid to refreshing sleep and clear-eyed, radiant morning freshness. See if you don't begin to wake up each morning brighter, and more buoyant—ready to greet the day with a smile. 150

Peterboro Rink Wins 2 Rounds

TORONTO, Jan. 4—(CP)—A rink skipped by Mrs. H. M. Dulmage of Peterborough is the only one of six rinks from outside Toronto which survived first and second round play yesterday at the Granite Club in the Robertson trophy curling event, emblematic of the ladies' single rink championship of Ontario. Of the 27 entries, 21 were from Toronto.

Mrs. Dulmage defeated Mrs. F. S. Livingstone of the Granite Club 10-8 in the opening round and then took a second round game from Mrs. H. A. Dickson of Toronto High Park 9-5. Another Peterborough rink, skipped by Mrs. G. A. Woods, defeated Mrs. H. G. French of Granites 14-10 in an opening round game but was eliminated by Mrs. M. C. Code of Toronto High Park in the second round, 16-3.

Another out-of-town entry, Mrs. R. McIntosh of Bobcaygeon, was eliminated in the main event by Mrs. Hilley of Toronto Granites and in the consolation event by Mrs. G. French of Granites.

High Nazi Decoration

LONDON, Jan. 4 — (CP) — Germany's newest and highest decoration has been awarded to Col. Hans Ulrich Rudel, 28, airman credited with destruction of 463 tanks and 700 vehicles among other accomplishments, the Berlin radio said yesterday.

The decoration was described as Golden Oak Leaves with Swords and Diamonds to the Knight's Cross of the Iron Cross.

Helps Check Colds Quickly

You can often check a cold quickly if you follow these instructions.

Just as soon as you feel the cold coming on and experience headache, pains in the back or limbs, soreness through the body, take a Paradol tablet, a good big drink of hot lemonade or ginger tea and go to bed.

The Paradol affords almost immediate relief from the pains and aches and helps you to get off to sleep. The dose may be repeated, if necessary, according to the directions. If there is soreness of the throat, gargle with two Paradol tablets dissolved in water. Just try Paradol the next time you have a cold and we believe that you will be well pleased; Paradol does not disappoint.

By HERB MARTIN

There was a fine crowd of men curlers out on Wednesday night for the first mid-week bonspiel of the season. They played three 4-end games and were all through around 10:30 o'clock.

This mid-week 'spiel is something that many of the boys have been asking for, and if last night's attendance is anything to go by, it looks as if it is here to stay.

To-night we continue the schedule with B Group playing at 7 o'clock and C Group playing at 9 o'clock.

Up at the Toronto Granite Club on Wednesday, Mrs. H. Dulmage's rink came through with two wins. Mrs. G. Wood won her first but lost the second. This is the annual play for the Robertson Trophy and many rinks from all parts of Ontario are entered.

Winning rinks last night ere:

First—J. Adams, A. Paterson, T. Ryan, S. Lowe, skip.

Second — C. Mathers, F. Sommerville, F. Green, W. M. Cruthers skip.

Third—K. Currie, H. Baptie, B. Scott, D. MacIver, skip.

Fourth—W. Davidson, F. Paterson, T. McArthur, D. Davis, skip.

4,970 Enlisted

WINNIPEG, Jan. 4 — (CP) — A total of 4,970 men enlisted in the active Army and 418 women joined the Canadian Women's Army Corps in Military District No. 10 during 1944, District Recruiting Headquarters announced here to-day. In 1943 6,015 men and 702 women enlisted in the district.

London Curlers Nose Out Detroit

DETROIT, Jan. 4 — (AP). — The 45th annual international curling bonspiel opened yesterday at Detroit Curling Club, although some Canadian curlers bound for Detroit, stopped by a snow storm, were forced to abandon their cars and board trains. The London, Ont., rink, captained by Jack Burgess, substituted for a team from Forest, Ont., unable to get through drifts, to nose out a Detroit rink skippered by Harold Steele, 11-10, to advance to the second round of the Gooderham and Worts Trophy competition.

Defending champions, Daniel Kelly's Toronto rink, was forced to go all out to win a 9-5 first round decision in 10 ends over R. R. Evans' Hamilton rink.

Other first round results: A. J. Dalton's Detroit rink downed Earl Green of Toronto, 13-2; H. H. Holden of Detroit stopped Toronto team skippered by Thomas Hudson, 12-2; Doug Fisk of Detroit counted a 7-6 verdict over Homer Lockhart's Sarnia rink; Lorne Stealey of Detroit beat Dr. S. P. White's Orangeville rink, 9-3; Nate Cornwall of Detroit won from J. A. Well's Guelph, Ont., four, 13-5; a Kitchener rink, skippered by R. W. Ripley, defeated D. F. Woodbridge's Detroit entry, 14-7.

Finals will be held Thursday night.

Tomorrow night's battle between C.G.E. and Transports in the senior section of the Ladies' Basketball League should be about as tidy an argument as has been staged in the loop this season. The Electricians need a win in this game to tighten up the race and on the form they showed on their last appearance Mary McPherson, Marg Carson and the rest of the C.G.E. team should provide plenty of opposition for the powerful Transports who are now out in front in the league race. The last time the two clubs met they scored basket for basket in the early stages of the battle and it was not until well on in the second half that Transport supremacy finally asserted itself. C.G.E. have improved noticeably since then and they look good enough to put up a determined battle for the league honors. The senior game is the second fixture of the evening, billed for 8.45 o'clock. In the junior division the unbeaten Y Grads tackle the Quakers in a game scheduled to start at 7.45 o'clock and it, too, should be an argument well worth seeing. The resumption of cage activity after three weeks' layoff should attract a real crowd to the Y.W. C.A. gym Friday night.

"This may not be the best team that has ever represented Toronto Maple Leafs in the N.H.L.—most of us agree it isn't—but none of the best ever topped this one in customer appeal at the box office," says Bobby Hewitson in the Toronto Telegram. "Figures there are to prove it, too, though it must be admitted the said customers have the financial means and are looking for spots to spend it. One of these spots is pro hockey and Maple Leaf Gardens. At any rate this present Toronto team has outdrawn any other Toronto team over the 11-game stretch of this season. For the eleven games already played 138,064 cash customers have paid their way into Maple Leaf Gardens on ten Saturday nights and one Thursday. Last season over the same stretch of eleven games the Leafs drew 115,938 customers. And in their biggest year of attendance—1942-43—they drew 126,460 for the first eleven games. Thus the increase this year over last year is 22,126 and over the year previous 11,604. And if you care to work it out further the per game attendance this year has been 12,550 or just 77 customers per game short of the seating capacity of 12,687."

The Hockey Outlook

Further progress toward organizing the Peterborough Hockey Club's midget loop for boys under 16 years of age was made at the meeting of the executive the other night when the city was divided into zones, each of which will be represented by a team in the loop. It was decided that the Eastern zone should take in all of the section of the city east of the Otonabee River. The North zone will comprise all of Peterborough north of Brock street, from the river to the western boundary. The West zone will consist of the area bounded on Brock street on the north and Wolfe street on the south, with the Otonabee as the eastern boundary and running through to the western boundary while the South zone will consist of all the territory south of Wolfe street, including the newly annexed section of Monaghan. Games in the hockey club loop will likely be played on Tuesday and Thursday nights with Mondays and Wednesdays as practice nights and all the league games to be played at the new cushion that is being prepared at Confederation Square.

* * * * * *

With the hockey club league taking care of boys up to 16 years of age, the schools providing organized hockey for younger lads, the church league likely to operate several sections and a new juvenile loop organized by Jim Buchan to provide hockey for players 18 and under the hockey picture, so far as developing young pucksters is concerned looks decidedly more healthy than it did a month or so ago. The lack of a covered arena will be keenly felt, of course, but the kids are going to make the most of the opportunities that are being offered and the various leagues should have a good season. It is likely that the juvenile league may operate with only three clubs, although more would be welcome. It was hoped that St. Peter's School would have entered a team in this loop but the school authorities have decided that will not be possible this season. The three clubs already in line are a team from the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School, another outfit sponsored by the Y's Men's Club and Buchan's own team who will operate under the name of the Hawks.

Might Ride A Tank

This column has no hesitation in aligning itself along side Chick Appel, Stratford Beacon-Herald sport scribe in the followinig pertinent comment: "You may have noticed a picture in some newspapers showing Jockey Bobby Permane having an injured shoulder dressed, and quoted as inquiring "What can I do in a war plant?" He is also quoted as saying he doesn't want to work in a war plant during the racing ban "because all I know is riding." This newspapers also received that picture from a well-known news agency and promptly consigned it to the waste paper basket in disgust. On after thought the picture was retrieved from the w.p.b. because this observer felt that it demanded more attention than that. Evidently Mr. Permane scarcely knows there is a war on, and that he and every other loyal citizen should have the winning of that war uppermost in their minds. There'll hardly be any people bewail the fact that Permane may have to work in a war plant, or better still, don the uniform of the armed forces. We can do without horse racing and all other sport, if need be, in order to bring Hitler and his gang to their knees, and "poor" Bobby Permane's predicament doesn't merit even one crocodile tear."

* * * * * *

"Just what does he think our boys from field and factory, story, office and school knew about war work or military service when this war broke out?" asks the Stratford scribe. "They were peace-loving youngsters who only wanted to enjoy their way of life, but when the call came they didn't hesitate, nor cry about knowing nothing about war work or military service. Yet they volunteered to aid their country in the time of trouble and learned the art of handling the tools of war fast and well. The brave lads of the United States, Canada and the other democratic countries didn't bemoan the fact they knew nothing about warfare and war work." They knew their liberty and freedom were at stake and they didn't hesitate in offering their services to protect that liberty and freedom. That's Bobby Permane's duty too, whether in a war plant or on the firing line. Horse racing and other sports can wait until unconditional surrender has been secured. Permane would look much better riding a jeep instead of a horse."

The Canadiens' ace line of Toe Blake, Elmer Lach and Maurice Richard has scored 50 goals so far this season.... That is just seven short of the total scored by the whole Black Hawk club.

Royal Regiment Paid Dearly For Bridgehead

By WILLIAM BOSS
Canadain Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS ON THE ADRIATIC, Jan. 4. — (CP).— An abortive bridgehead made over the Lamone river in December represented a considerable investment in men and fighting by the Royal Canadian Regiment before the unit was withdrawn to the river's east bank.

The foothold, which at one stage measured 800 yards in the R.C.R. sector, lasted roughly eight hours and cost the regiment heavily in killed, wounded and missing, most of them believed to have been taken prisoner.

Little was known of the dyked river and a reconnaissance was made the evening of Dec. 4 by Lieut. Jim Joice of Toronto and Brantford, Ont., with his sergeant and 12 men. Joice and Sgt. Meadows, M.M., scaled the 40-foot dykes, then entered the icy stream to ascertain width and depth. They got their figures and started back for the east bank.

A grenade was thrown at them and they were machine-gunned. Joice was seized with a cramp and began to sink. The sergeant edged him to the bank, got out himself and tried to pull in his officer. Unable to, he went for help but when he returned there was no sign of the officer.

On the basis of the sergeant's information the crossing was made in boats. Companies under Maj. Jim Houghton, Toronto, and Maj. Eric Thorne, Hamilton, got over first. A light bridge was thrown between the banks and a third company under Capt. J. H. R. Wilkinson, St. Johns, Que., joined them.

Made Main Thrust

Houghton established his men on the crossing place, protecting the immediate bridgehead, while Thorne fanned out to the left. Wilkinson made the main thrust inland, bypassing strongpoints and reaching a group of houses 800 yards from Maj. Houghton.

The operation had been intended to be a two-battalion showing but an eastern Ontario regiment on the R.C.R.'s right [illegible] by our own artillery fire and disorganized. It was more than two hours before they were joined on their side of the river.

Things were going nicely when at first light an enemy counter-attack came in, but was beaten off. The regiment was catching its breath when a new, full-scale attack came in from the same place. An enemy battalion deployed along the embankment and opened fire. They spread out in groups to cut down the Canadians' sub-units in Maj. Thorne's locality. Others sped inland to cut off Capt. Wilkinson's company.

Thorne's company had been reduced earlier by the loss of virtually a complete platoon. Capt. Peter Hurtzberg, Ottawa, had just brought his men into position not far from the railroad bridge when a shell landed, wounding several of his men and killing him instantly. Four men still are missing.

Escaped Captors

The Hamilton major's position disintegrated. Of his other two officers, one was killed. The company headquarters was overrun. Thorne, wounded, was captured and escaped. His company sergeant-major was taken prisoner. When last seen the major, wounded again, this time in the chest, had groused two or three men and was preparing another stand. But tactically the bridgehead's left flank was wiped out.

Wilkinson, inland, was faring no better. The Germans, with a ring of tanks and self-propelled guns about the bridgehead, had sealed it off and were closing in for the kill. Wilkinson's headquarters in a farm cottage was hit seven times and there were many casualties in the platoon holding it. As the Nazis drew closer he ordered a withdrawal to Houghton's position.

A lieutenant, though wounded in the arm by gunshot and in the back by shrapnel, came through the area to Houghton's position, bringing 11 men with him. The other platoon leaders were missing.

This left only Houghton's men on the R.C.R. sector, and after holding on a little longer he decided to withdraw to the west bank. The last two platoons to evacuate the bridgehead were under Lieut. Dan Burns, Halifax, and Sgt. James Bain, Aylmer, Ont.

Glengarrians Captured 2700 Men In 24 Hours Of Heavy Fighting

By CAPT. ATHOLL STEWART

The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders landed at Berniere sur Mer as part of a break-through element on June 6 and were instrumental in ensuring the consolidation of the bridgehead.

Digging in at Les Buissons, the regiment suffered incessant counterattacks by the 21 Panzer Division at "Hell's Corner."

The Glens advanced as far as Vieux Cairon after beating off these fierce blows. But this was only preliminary to the break-through.

On July 8 the Glens formed part of the attacking force against the perimeter defences of Caen. Their objectives were Gruchy village and the Chateau St. Louet. These the regiment took. Major Neil Gemmel of Peterborough commanded the assault company on Gruchy.

With two companies and nine tanks, the regiment set out for Caen, and by four o'clock in the afternoon they had again secured all their objectives despite minefields; pillboxes and heavy fighting in the streets. The Glens then consolidated their positions on the west side of the city on the River Orne.

After taking Caen and Vaucelles, they joined up with a western brigade and were ordered to attack down the Caen-Falaise road to capture Hubert Folie, due north of Tilly la Campagne, and to hold it at all costs.

For 12 days the regiment endured fierce fire. The postiion was nearly untenable due to the constant shelling, mortaring and bombing. The regiment held on like grim death, and were finally relieved by a 4-division unit.

First Across Laison

The Glens were among the first troops across the Laison river to the left of the Caen-Falaise road, and were among the first troops to use the Wasp flame throwers.

From the Laison they struck due south until they were within sight of Falaise, where their advance was halted.

Their next assignment was to help stem the German tide that was erupting through the Trun valley and escaping to the east. This they did, killing many Germans and taking over 3,000 prisoners.

The great dash from Trun to Boulogne was next on the agenda. The SDG's were the first unit into Rouen and Eu and many other minor points.

At Boulogne Major J. G. Stothart, DSO, of Ottawa, found a secret tunnel under the city wall and with a small detachment of men went through it into the centre of the citadel, shooting up the garrison and emerging with the party leader, the acting garrison commander. In 24 hours' fighting from St. Martin de Boulogne until the final surrender, the Glens captured 2,700 other ranks and 80 officers.

Relieve at Leopold Canal

Against fierce opposition the Glens played a prominent role in the seaborne assault force that effected the relief of the hard pressed units on the Leopold Canal. Against 64 German Infantry Divisions, they captured four objective in as many days. These strong points were taken with the help of heavy weapons and equipment.

After suffering many casualties, the regiment under an Ottawa lieutenant-colonel, former 2 I/C of the Camerons of Ottawa, was the only unit in position to attack Breskens.

The colonel said, in an interview, "Well, we held an O Group, talked it all out and teed the attack up to the inclusion of every possible eventuality. When the OCs left I figured that we had done everything possible. I called in the padre and asked him to say a prayer. The next day we were in Breskens."

Up to the fall of Breskens, the Glens claim 27 major battle honours and a host of minor ones. In addition to this they estimate between seven and eight thousand prisoners captured since D-Day.

There are three original SDG officers left, Major Neil Gemmel, 2 I/C, Capt. Don Scott, Support Company and Capt. Harry Willis, HQ Coy, all of Peterborough.

Some of the men with the regiment are, CSM D. K. MacDonald, MM, of Renfrew, Ont.; Pte. Hector Edwards of Lakefield; CSM Johnny Peer of Brockville; Cpl. G. W. Phillips, Brockville; Lieut. Reg. Dixon IO, Peterborough; Capt. S. P. Lafontaine, adjutant; Major Wally Braden, Bowmanville; CSM Noel Morin of Cornwall and RSM Fred Lockhart, MM, of Peterborough.

He's Not Sorry

MOSCOW, Jan. 4 — (CP-Reuters) — Standing to-day among his Russian captors in shattered Budapest, where the Germans were destroying everything they could lay their hands on, an S.S. prisoner was reported in a Budapest dispatch to have made this comment: "We did'nt build it, so we don't have to be sorry about it."

He merely shrugged his shoulders when his guards reminded him the Germans had promised to defend the Hungarian capital as if it were part of Germany.

TORONTO, Jan. 4 — (CP). — There have been numerous unkind remarks about the calibre of play being dished out for the customers in the National Hockey League this year (the past two or three years, in fact), but one of the unkindest was directed against the supplier of rollicking entertainment by Andy (Toronto Star) Lytle....Andy was none too pleased by Chicago Black Hawks display when they visited Toronto last, and suggested the Windy City men could do better by drafting a Toronto junior team to meet Leafs the next time, instead of wasting all that time and money coming from Chicago.

Innocent bystander:

Although the N.H.L. is being maligned, there still are numerous characters who get provoked when their favorite team is given a dressing-down. Bill (Moncton Transcript) Hutchinson found that out to his sorrow when he had occasion to rap Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens recently. Bill reports he is still cringing from the lambasting a pair of letter-writers and supporters of aforesaid squads gave him. Which all helps to explain the big gates the N.H.L. teams have been dragging in all along.

Missed the boat:

The famous Nanaimo, B.C., holdout case seems to be going all wrong for the holdoutees. Jack Kirk, starry centreman of Nanaimo Clippers, is reported to have demanded $75 before he would board the boat scheduled to take his team to New Westminster for a game, but the manager said in effect Kirk would miss the boat in that case. Kirk hasn't appeared with the team since, and brother Jack has lost his job at the rink.

Post-war plans:

Winnipeg is anxious to get in the swing of intra-city sports as soon as air travel is available so the city's teams can fly to other large cities. There are no populous centres handy the 'Peg, but Tony (Winnipeg Tribune) Allan thinks the city might get into the American Association Baseball League if the travel barrier could be removed. Senior football competition with Toronto, Montreal and other Eastern cities is also a possibility.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

Following the halt of horse racing at Fair Grounds, New Orleans, through government order, rumors floated around the stables that a meeting would be staged at Hot Springs, Ark., despite the Washingtong directive, that Cuba was sending ships to transport horses from Miami, that the animals were being moved from California to Mexico and that the government would permit resumption of racing as soon as the publicity subsides. They were just rumors, however, it was stated.

In the meantime, Fair Grounds officials said $2,330,630 had been bet during the nine days of the otherwise scheduled 75-day season.

What effect the racing ban would have on the use of motor vehicles by turf patrons from California to Agua Caliente, Mexico, track was uncertain, officials of the office of defence transportation said at San Diego. Most track followers had been parking their cars at the border and using taxis to reach the track three miles from the line.

Gambling clubs at Reno, Nev., yesterday were using direct wire service from race tracks in Cuba and Mexico and announced the inauguration of a foreign betting sheet, following the termination of horse racing in the United States.

10 Horses Sold

Despite the U.S. turf holiday, 10 thoroughbreds yesterday were sold at a Miami, Fla., auction for a total of $6,550, the string being sold by trainer Bob Shannon of Guthrie Hall farm to Dr. F. J. Bennett of Huntingdon Valley, Pa., for breeding purposes.

Ingersoll Machinists took advantage of their small ice surface to score a 5-1 victory over Woodstock Red Wings in an exhibition hockey game at Ingersoll last night.

More than 800 dogs and 200 handlers were idle yesterday at greyhound racing tracks in Florida as a result of the U.S. racing ban. It was pointed out at Jacksonville that it costs about $250 to raise a good racer and that kennel-club meetings ran as long as 42 days during the winter season.

After defeating the Bruins 6-3 in an N.H.L. fixture at Boston, Montreal Canadiens discovered, on packing their equipment to entrain for Toronto, they had been robbed of two pairs of $30 skates, a couple of sweaters and other playing articles. The skates belonged to Ray Getliffe and Leo Lamoureux.

Declaring that baseball needed a leader now, Branch Rickey, President of the Brooklyn Dodgers, declared yesterday that no time should be lost in selecting a baseball commissioner to succeed the late Kenesaw M. Landis. He said it seemed reasonably certain that baseball clubs would operate in 1945.

Because of wintry conditions, the O.H.A. Junior "B" game, Kitchener at Stratford last night was cancelled. The Greenshirts advised from Kitchener by telephone they could not make the trip.

When all members of the London Hockey Club were unable to reach St. Thomas last night for a scheduled game in the St. Thomas District Hockey League with Fingal airmen, the latter loaned three players. With the help of these flyers, London won 10-2 but the decision may not be counted.

Writers Hesitate To Place Richard High

By FRED KERNER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Praise given Maurice (Rocket) Richard by Jack Adams after his five-goal splurge against the Detroit team last week is all very nice, Montreal sports writers say. But, they add, wait 10 years before there are any comparisons with hockey's greats.

Adams was quoted as saying that the Rocket is the greatest hockey player he has seen in 20 years. Of course he could be right, but during those years, Adams has seen some great players—among them Morenz, Shore, Clancy, the Cooks and Frank Boucher.

The five-goal feat was a repeat for Richard, for he did the same thing against Toronto in the Stanley Cup semi-finals last spring, but by way of comparison, the Rocket has a long way to go to equal some goal-scoring records of the past. The modern record, of course, is held by slim Syd Howe of Detroit who tallied half-dozen against Rangers last year.

But at least three of hockey's oldtimers scored nine goals in one game. The first was the redoubtable Edouard (Newsy) Lalonde who performed his triple hat-trick on March 11, 1910, when he was playing for Renfrew Millionaires against Cobalt.

Four years later Tommy Smith, with Quebec Bulldogs, popped in nine goals while playing Montreal Wanderers on Jan. 21, 1914. A few months later, Dick Irvin, Canadiens' coach who played for Winnipeg Monarchs, also scored nine in a Canadian championship game.

In Toronto, Richard has been tagged Montreal's secret weapon, "R-5," and though he has performed no block-busters on Toronto ice this year, Queen City fans will flock to the Gardens tonight to watch the league-leaders tangle with Leafs who have won three of their five meetings with the Canucks, and tied another. Hot on Canadiens' heels in the loop standing, Detroit visits Rangers.

Sweeney Schriner and Johnny McCreedy will both likely be in Toronto for the game tonight, but neither will take the ice. McCreedy, discharged from the R.C.A.F., worked out with Leafs yesterday and should be ready for action in a few more days, while Schriner is not counted on for another two weeks after suffering a knee injury.

Bears Toss Away Golden Opportunity

By The Canadian Press.

Hershey Bears threw away a golden opportunity to vault into first place in the Eastern Division of the American Hockey League last night, losing to Pittsburg Hornets 9-1 before 2,500 Pittsburg fans.

After a scoreless first period Tony Hemmerling gave the Hornets a brief lead, but Alex Ritson knotted the count at 14:42 to make it 1-1. From then on Pittsburg piled it on, tallying twice more in the middle period and finishing it up with six goals in the third. The cheering fans saw Bob Gracie beat Hershey goalie Roger Bessette three times, while teammate Schultz accounted for two.

The other Pittsburg goals came off the sticks of Bob Walton, Marcel Bessette and Johnny Mahaffy.

Hollywood and HERE

By HYE BOSSIN

An English magazine quotes J. Arthur Rank, Old Country film leader, as being interested in future Canadian production and saying that "the sky is the limit" on the possibilities of Canada . . . Irving Hoffman of the Hollywood reporter prints a GBS anecdote about the man who visited him and was struck by the fact that he saw no flowers about. "Why, I thought you were exceedingly fond of flowers," stated the visitor. "I am," replied Shaw abruptly, "—I'm very fond of children, too, but I don't cut off their heads and stick them in pots about the house!" . . . Lena Horne will head an all-Negro cast in "Sweet Georgia Brown." All-Negro films don't do any too good at the general boxoffice but there are hundreds of theatres owned and patronized by Negroes in the United States and they make such films financial successes.

The Canadian motion picture public is aware of many actors and actresses and even some directors who hail from Canada. But there are also Canadians who are outstanding in the arts, sciences, crafts and professions which means so much to the making of a motion picture.

Douglas Shearer, brother of Norma, is the leading authority on sound recording in the Cinema City. One of the most successful writers there is Norman Reilly Raine, author of the original "Tugboat Annie" stories and the author of many fine motion pictures. Shearer is from Montreal and Raine from Toronto.

Then there is Stephen Day, among the first few in the field of set designing. Perhaps you remember some of his work in "How Green Was My Valley"? In 1942 he won the Academy Award for his art direction of "This Above All" and "My Gal Sal."

Day came to Hollywood from Vancouver in 1930 and starting with Von Stroheim's "Foolish Wives," has created or shared in the creation of the backgrounds of dozens of the best films since then.

The newest case of a Canadian making good in Hollywood is that of Louis Applebaum, a member of the musical staff of the National Film Board. Applebaum, whose home is Toronto, was borrowed from the NFB by Producer Lester Cowan to write the score of "Tomorrow the World." Previewers report that it is a great film and that Applebaum's music does much to make it that. The young composer is now back on the job in Ottawa.

"Tomorrow the World," incidentally, was directed by Leslie Fenton, recently discharged from the British Navy, who won a medal during a Commando raid on a Nazi sub base. Fredric March and Betty Field share the star billing with Skippy Homeier, who plays an 11-year-old Nazi.

People of prominence are the targets of scandalmongers. In Chicago the fiancee of an officer committed suicide and local papers claimed that the soldier had in the past been married to Ona Munson, former movie star. Miss Munson was bewildered, since she not only had never been married to the officer but hadn't even heard of him! . . . It costs $100 in Chinese coin or about $8.00 in Canadian money to see a film in China . . . Ethel Barrymore Colt, youngest of the Barrymore family girls, just married a man with three grandchildren . . . One of Hollywood's leading producers is a woman, Virginia Van Upp, who is in charge of all the top grade films made at Columbia. She has written and produced "Together Again" and "The Impatient Years." She wrote the screenplay of "Cover Girl" and is currently working on "Some Call It Love" for Rosalind Russell. Capable gal.

Judge Refuses To Accept Blood Tests

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 3.—(AP). — Blood tests to determine parentage are not binding evidence under California law, Superior Judge Henry M. Willis told a jury Wednesday afternoon, shortly before it retired at 1.18 p.m. EDT., to begin deliberations on Joan Berry's paternity suit against Charlie Chaplin.

The seven women and five men trying the 24 year old screen aspirant's suit to have the comedian, 55, adjudged the father of her daughter, Carol Ann., who was 15 months old yesterday, was told by the court:

"....Whatever claims the medical profession may make for blood tests to determine parentage, no evidence is by law of this State made conclusive or unanswerable so declared by the code of civil procedure of the State of California, and the said code....does not declare that this type of expert testimony is conclusive or unanswerable. Therefore you are not bound by an opinion based on such tests. Give it the weight to which you deem it entitled."

Three physicians testified for Chaplin that blood tests they made proved he was not Carol Ann's father.

"It is not merely a question whether Mr. Chaplin had intercourse with Joan Berry, but whether by such intercourse, if in fact he did have intercourse with her, the plaintiff child was begotten. The burden of proof is upon the plaintiff to prove that Mr. Chaplin is actually the father.

"If you should find from the evidence that at, near or about the time that plaintiff child, according to the usual laws of nature, was begotten, both the defendant and some man or men other than defendant had sexual intercourse with her and you are unable to tell which of them is the father of the child, then your verdict must be in favor of Chaplin...

"If you find from the evidence that it is just as probable that someone other than the defendant herein is the father of Carol Ann Berry, and if the evidence leaves a question for your conjecture, or is evenly balanced thereon, plaintiff has not met the burden of proof required and would not be, in such case, entitled to your verdict and you must in such case find for the defendant..."

As the jury retired they carried with them the mental echoes of the final booming plea of Joan's 77-year-old counsel, Joseph Scott.

PARIS, Jan. 4—(AP)—Reflecting French resentment against what is considered Allied "pampering" of German prisoners, the humorous weekly "Le Canard Enchaine" today pictured Nazi prisoners at an American mess table, with an irate U.S. soldier-waiter shaking a finger at them and saying:

"If your damned Wehrmacht keeps on massacring our prisoners we won't give you any dessert."

Pete Gray Gets Annual Coveted Award

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 4—(AP)—Pete Gray, one-armed outfielder who despite his handicap has won a major league berth, was announced to-day as the winner of the Spokane athletic round table's sixth annual sportsmanship award.

The Spokane group which sponsors fabulous stunts like "Bundles for Congress" and then turns serious at intervals to make contributions to advance sports, said Gray would be awarded a $1,000 War Bond at a fitting ceremony.

Gray was picked on the basis of nominations by sports editors across the country.

Virgil Warren, chairman of the Round Table's Award Committee, said Bob Ritter of the Progress Bulletin of Pomona, Calif., summed up the feelings of fellow writers with the comment that Gray "must be the symbol of returning wounded veterans who have lost the services of a limb. His inspiration will no doubt speed many of them on their way to useful lives once again despite handicaps. There is no second choice."

Gray, one-armed outfielder for Memphis Chicks, was signed last fall by St. Louis Browns and will join them in spring training. He once was the property of Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League.

Post War Program Awaits Action

By MARSHALL BATEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

REGINA, Jan. 4 — (CP). — Huge post-war land utilization programs through major water development costing an estimated $24,700,000 are being prepared for early action by the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration.

Only Federal Government appropriations, materials and man-power are needed to send dredges into five large projects to construct reservoirs, dams and canals while another 4,500 small water projects are included in the program, extending over five years.

In the most ambitious undertaking since the P.F.R. Act was passed nine years ago to assist Prairie farmers in combating drought and economic depression, it was estimated some 1,000,000 acres of unproductive land could become revenue producing, supporting many thousands, by completion of the five major projects. Much of the land, publicly owned, could be used for soldier settlement, officials said.

In addition to labor required in preparing materials, cement, lumber, equipment and miscellaneous supplies, the program would give work to 3,350 men for total of 116 months.

The projects are:

1. The St. Mary-Milk River Water Development, costing an estimated $15,000,000, to irrigate 345,000 acres in south-eastern Alberta which have a very limited production under the present dry farming practices.

2. The Red Deer River Diversion costing an estimated $6,750,000, to irrigate approximately 500,000 acres giving a constant water flow through 610 miles of dry creek, traversing 12,000,000 acres of range lands in eastern Central Alberta and western Saskatchewan.

3. The South Saskatchewan-Qu'Appelle River Development, costing an estimated $2,250,000, to irrigate approximately 30,000 acres of land and provide a permanent water supply and limited irrigation in many agriculture centres of central Saskatchewan, including Regina and Moose Jaw.

4. Souris River Development, costing an estimated $120,000, to irrigate 10,000 acres in the Souris River Valley of south-eastern Saskatchewan.

5. The Medicine Hat Irrigation Development, costing an estimated $650,000, to extend the irrigation district constructed by the Canadian Land and Irrigation Company, and bring 75,000 acres under cultivation beween Vauxhall and Medicine Hat in Alberta.

Other Projects.

The post-war program also includes orderly construction of some 4,500 small water projects— small dams and dugouts — in communities needing permanent water supply in the three Prairie Provinces.

In the first nine years of the P.F.R.A. 22,000 water development projects have been completed, including 1,500 in 1944. These projects were a boon to the livestock industry and brought water facilities for pastures and feed lots in addition to irrigation.

Large projects, mainly storage and irrigation, are paid for by the Federal Government while dugouts, stock-watering dams and irrigation works on small streams for providing water on individual farms may be operated by the municipality with the Federal Government giving financial assistance for part of the development with the applicants responsible for the actual work.

George Spence of Regina, director of P.F.R.A., said other plans include:

1. Surveys to determine Prairie regions where trees grow naturally.
2. Surveys for wood lot planting of trees, or shelter belt planting.
3. Surveys to determine how far wind erosion can be checked.

In 1945, some 180,000 acres will be surveyed for community pastures, adding to the some 1,500,000 acres taken out of cultivation in the Prairie Provinces, Mr. Spence said.

Surveys, including engineering and soil studies have been completed for the St. Mary-Milk River project and "we are all ready to go ahead," he said.

E. L. Gray, P.F.R.A., superintendent of water development, said the major dam on the St. Mary-Milk River project will be approximately 186 feet in height, one-half a mile in length, and store 270,000 acre feet of water, costing an estimated $3,850,000. The main canal will distribute water from the dam, north of Cardston, Alta., some 160 miles north-east to a point near Medicine Hat. It was estimated the labor for the full $15,000,000 project could keep 1,000 men working steadily for five years. The development will make use of Canada's share of the St. Mary international stream.

Red Deer River Diversion.

Engineering surveys have been completed and economic studies will be made in 1945 on the Red Deer River diversion project. Waters from the Red Deer will be diverted near Stettler into a 100-mile canal down to reservoirs in the Hanna district in eastern central Alberta, utilizing the Ham and the Kirkpatrick lakes south of Coronation. It is estimated this project will employ 1,500 men steadily for 18 months.

The Red Deer diversion would provide settlement and a means of livelihood for some 7,500 families in an area where about 90 per cent of the original settlers were forced out by drought conditions. The project could rehabilitate some 24 urban communities, now practically depopulated and provide irrigation for 500,000 acres.

The Medicine Hat irrigation would give employment to some 250 men continuously for 12 months and provide an area for settlement for some 1,000 families.

The South Saskatchewan Qu'Appelle River project, including a dam on the South Saskatchewan River in the Elbow-Outlook area would make water available for diversion to the Qu'Appelle River valley. It is estiamted 500 men could be kept busy for 18 months on this work.

The Souris River job would require only 100 men for eight months and include storage dams in the Souris River, south Weyburn, and on Long Creek, a Souris tributary, with a number of creek diversions and canals.

VERSATILE LST PROVIDES MATERNITY WARD—As Americans invaded Mindoro Island in the Philippines, the LST, which has been used for everything from an airplane carrier to a railroad ferry, played a new role. En route to its home base immediately following the successful invasion of the Japanese strongpoint on Mindoro, the LST produced a maternity ward and a navy doctor with two navy corpsmen delivered a Filipino woman, Maria Demilin, of a daughter, Juanita. The mother, above, watches as the medics carefully handle Juanita immediately after birth. The mother and child are doing well, thank you! This is an official U.S. Navy photo.

British Women Politicians Very Widely Known

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 4 — (CP). — One of the strange things about British politics is that women politicians are widely known, successful, and praised even by their men colleagues in parliament yet their political prospects seem poor.

One political writer has forecast that not more than a dozen or so will be returned to parliament at the next general election.

"This is odd," he wrote, "when every one of our women M.P.S. is known to everybody and when almost every week brings them new triumphs."

Women politicians have been much in the news of late:

Lady Astor has just announced her decision not to seek re-election after 25 years in the House of Commons. She was the first woman to take her seat.

Viscountess Davidson has just been elected to the executive of the Conservative private members committee, the most influential back-bench body in the House of Commons. She is the only woman who has ever sat on the inner council of the party.

The Labor party conference at its December session elected five women to its national executive with an aggregate of more than 10,000,000 votes — Miss Ellen Wilkinson, Mrs. Jennie Adamson, Miss Alice Bacon, Mrs. Barbara Gould and Dr. Edith Sumerskill.

The woman-power committee under Miss Irene Ward, Conservative M.P. has just completed a memorandum in favor of equal pay for women.

But despite the way they have justified themselves in parliament, women candidates do not seem to be much encouraged. In the last general election in 1935 there were 66 women candidates and 1,282 men. In the House now there are 14 women M.P.S. and 601 men.

At present it appears there will be more women seeking election next time than in 1935.

Go Active

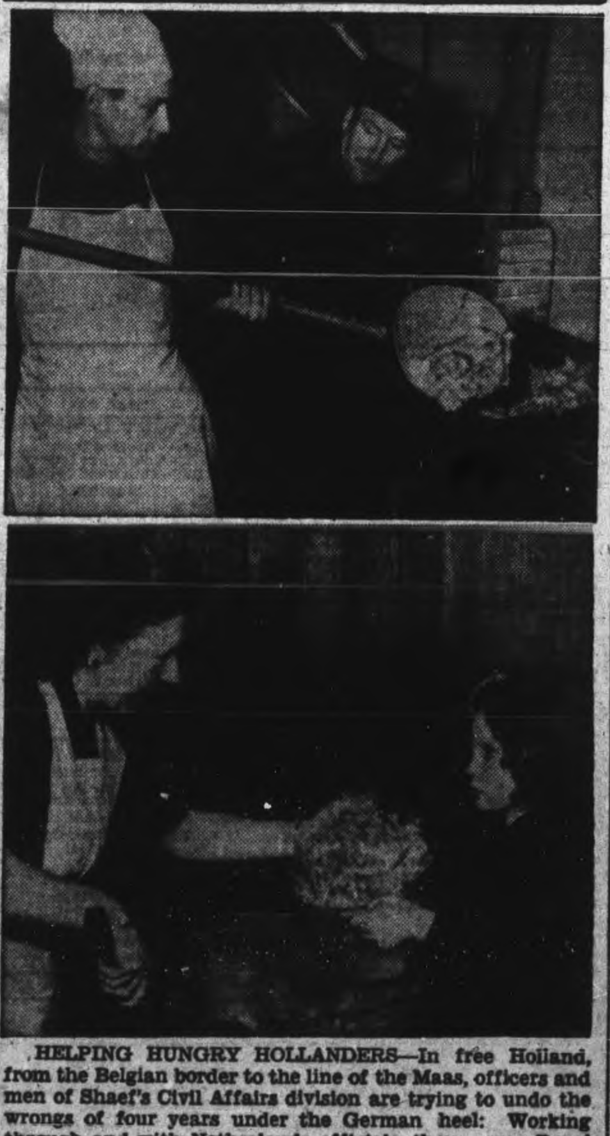
LONDON, Ont., Jan. 4—(CP)—Almost all London and district youths recently drafted have "gone active" immediately, call-up officials said today. Most of the recent draftees here have been youths, just past their eighteenth birthdays, who continued in school or at work until their notifications reached them.



HELPING HUNGRY HOLLANDERS—In free Holland, from the Belgian border to the line of the Maas, officers and men of Shaef's Civil Affairs division are trying to undo the wrongs of four years under the German heel: Working through and with Netherlands officials, these men—Royal Canadian Air Force officers among them—are charged with the responsibility of housing the homeless, feeding the hungry and restoring life to the broken towns and cities. In the Upper picture Squadron Leader J. F. MacNamara, formerly a schoolmaster at Glebe Collegiate, Ottawa, and for three years flying control officer at Rockcliffe airport, looks on while a Dutch chef dishes out hot food at a communal feeding centre. Children are usually sent to draw the family ration of hot food, and in the Lower picture a little girl holds up a bucket to be filled.

RAF Completes Forty-three Attacks In December

LONDON, Jan. 4—(CP)—Despite the poorest flying weather of the year the R.A.F. completed 18 night missions and 25 daylight attacks during December and deluged German targets with 54,420 short tons of explosives, it was announced yesterday.

United States 8th Air Force heavy bombers dropped another 42,000 tons, bringing the total tonnage of explosives dropped on German targets by Britain-based heavy bombers to more than 96,500 tons. The total for November, the best operational winter month of the war, was 99,500 tons.

All but 2,340 tons of the R.A.F. loads—which includes the tonnage carried by the R.C.A.F. bomber group—were dropped on targets in western Germany in support of the Allied armies. Outside targets included U-boat pens at Rotterdam and shipping at Oslo and Gdynia.

An R.A.F. commentator said many airfields in Britain were out of action for days during December because of fog and planes had to be diverted as far north as Scotland.

The versatile R.A.F. Mosquito bombers completed 46 missions during December and dropped 550 two-ton blockbusters, the statement revealed.

"Counter-measures against rocket bombs increased," an R.A.F. commentator said. "The attacks were successful enough to compel the Germans to reinforce their anti-aircraft defences around the sites."

The commentators said the R.A.F. 2nd Tactical Air Force made 15,000 sorties and destroyed or damaged 900 road vehicles and 250 locomotives. During the attacks more than 7,500 bombs of various types were dropped and more than 5,500 rockets were expended.

The R.A.F. transport command brought to England its 50,000th casualty from the front since D-Day without the loss of a single patient.

In addition more than 1,200 anti-shipping sorties were flown by R.A.F. coastal planes and 100 vessels were attacked.

Jobs Problem When War Ends

CLEVELAND, Jan. 4 — When the servicemen begin to come home in large numbers and when the demobilization of the munitions makers gets under way the most important single problem in this country will be jobs, says the Cleveland Trust Company.

It adds: "Among the desires of our fighting man, perhaps the most generally predominant is that a job should await his homecoming. It is natural that he should give it first place in his thinking, because it is the natural means to all the values that are implicit in his dreams about home and family. We must have real jobs in large numbers for our young people, and many of them will have to be new ones.

"But jobs do not just happen, nor are real jobs brought into being by Federal deficit financing. Self-sustaining jobs flow from successful combinations of enterprise and capital. They involve the taking of risks by managements which assume those risks in the hope of making profits.

"Hence it follows that the number of available jobs always largely depends on whether the political climate that is created by the national administration is hospitable or inhospitable toward business enterprise."

USE SECRET METHODS

LONDON — (CP). — Secret methods of construction employed in the manufacture of Mosquito aircraft are embodied in Britain's emergency plans for building of bungalows to replace bombed-out homes.

1. The St. Mary-Milk River Water Development, costing an estimated $15,000,000, to irrigate 345,000 acres in south-eastern Alberta which have a very limited production under the present dry farming practices.

2. The Red Deer River Diversion costing an estimated $6,750,000, to irrigate approximately 500,000 acres giving a constant water flow through 610 miles of dry creek, traversing 12,000,000 acres of range lands in eastern Central Alberta and western Saskatchewan.

3. The South Saskatchewan-Qu'Appelle River Development, costing an estimated $2,250,000, to irrigate approximately 30,000 acres of land and provide a permanent water supply and limited irrigation in many agriculture centres of central Saskatchewan, including Regina and Moose Jaw.

4. Souris River Development, costing an estimated $120,000, to irrigate 10,000 acres in the Souris River Valley of south-eastern Saskatchewan.

5. The Medicine Hat Irrigation Development, costing an estimated $650,000, to extend the irrigation district constructed by the Canadian Land and Irrigation Company, and bring 75,000 acres under cultivation beween Vauxhall and Medicine Hat in Alberta.

Other Projects.

The post-war program also includes orderly construction of some 4,500 small water projects— small dams and dugouts — in communities needing permanent water supply in the three Prairie Provinces.

In the first nine years of the P.F.R.A. 22,000 water development projects have been completed, including 1,500 in 1944. These projects were a boon to the livestock industry and brought water facilities for pastures and feed lots in addition to irrigation.

Large projects, mainly storage and irrigation, are paid for by the Federal Government while dugouts, stock-watering dams and irrigation works on small streams for providing water on individual farms may be operated by the municipality with the Federal Government giving financial assistance for part of the development with the applicants responsible for the actual work.

George Spence of Regina, director of P.F.R.A., said other plans include:

1. Surveys to determine Prairie regions where trees grow naturally.

2. Surveys for wood lot planting of trees, or shelter belt planting.

3. Surveys to determine how far wind erosion can be checked.

In 1945, some 180,000 acres will be surveyed for community pastures, adding to the some 1,500,000 acres taken out of cultivation in the Prairie Provinces, Mr. Spence said.

Surveys, including engineering and soil studies have been completed for the St. Mary-Milk River project and "we are all ready to go ahead," he said.

E. L. Gray, P.F.R.A., superintendent of water development, said the major dam on the St. Mary-Milk River project will be approximately 186 feet in height, one-half a mile in length, and store 270,000 acre feet of water, costing an estimated $3,850,000. The main canal will distribute water from the dam, north of Cardston, Alta., some 160 miles north-east to a point near Medicine Hat. It was estimated the labor for the full $15,000,000 project could keep 1,000 men working steadily for five years. The development will make use of Canada's share of the St. Mary international stream.

Red Deer River Diversion.

Engineering surveys have been completed and economic studies will be made in 1945 on the Red Deer River diversion project. Waters from the Red Deer will be diverted near Stettler into a 100-mile canal down to reservoirs in the Hanna district in eastern central Alberta, utilizing the Ham and the Kirkpatrick lakes south of Coronation. It is estimated this project will employ 1,500 men steadily for 18 months.

The Red Deer diversion would provide settlement and a means of livelihood for some 7,500 families in an area where about 90 per cent of the original settlers were forced out by drought conditions. The project could rehabilitate some 24 urban communities, now practically depopulated and provide irrigation for 500,000 acres.

The Medicine Hat irrigation would give employment to some 250 men continuously for 12 months and provide an area for settlement for some 1,000 families.

The South Saskatchewan Qu'Appelle River project, including a dam on the South Saskatchewan River in the Elbow-Outlook area would make water available for diversion to the Qu'Appelle River valley. It is estiamted 500 men could be kept busy for 18 months on this work.

The Souris River job would require only 100 men for eight months and include storage dams in the Souris River, south Weyburn, and on Long Creek, a Souris tributary, with a number of creek diversions and canals.

VERSATILE LST PROVIDES MATERNITY WARD—As Americans invaded Mindoro Island in the Philippines, the LST, which has been used for everything from an airplane carrier to a railroad ferry, played a new role. En route to its home base immediately following the successful invasion of the Japanese strongpoint on Mindoro, the LST produced a maternity ward and a navy doctor with two navy corpsmen delivered a Filipino woman, Maria Demilin, of a daughter, Juanita. The mother, above, watches as the medics carefully handle Juanita immediately after birth. The mother and child are doing well, thank you! This is an official U.S. Navy photo.

British Women Politicians Very Widely Known

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 4 — (CP). — One of the strange things about British politics is that women politicians are widely known, successful, and praised even by their men colleagues in parliament yet their political prospects seem poor.

One political writer has forecast that not more than a dozen or so will be returned to parliament at the next general election.

"This is odd," he wrote, "when every one of our women M.P.S. is known to everybody and when almost every week brings them new triumphs."

Women politicians have been much in the news of late:

Lady Astor has just announced her decision not to seek re-election after 25 years in the House of Commons. She was the first woman to take her seat.

Viscountess Davidson has just been elected to the executive of the Conservative private members committee, the most influential backbench body in the House of Commons. She is the only woman who has ever sat on the inner council of the party.

The Labor party conference at its December session elected five women to its national executive with an aggregate of more than 10,000,000 votes — Miss Ellen Wilkinson, Mrs. Jennie Adamson, Miss Alice Bacon, Mrs. Barbara Gould and Dr. Edith Sumerskill.

The woman-power committee under Miss Irene Ward, Conservative M.P. has just completed a memorandum in favor of equal pay for women.

But despite the way they have justified themselves in parliament, women candidates do not seem to be much encouraged. In the last general election in 1935 there were 66 women candidates and 1,282 men. In the House now there are 14 women M.P.S. and 601 men.

At present it appears there will be more women seeking election next time than in 1935.

Go Active

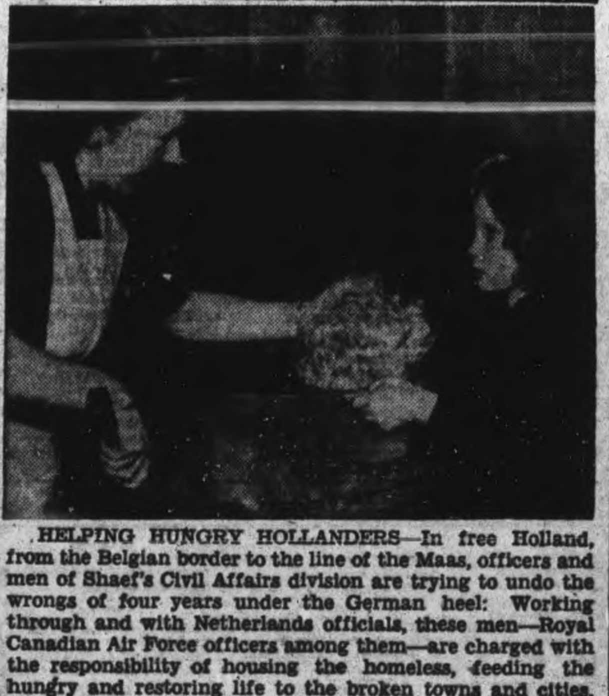
LONDON, Ont., Jan. 4—(CP)—Almost all London and district youths recently drafted have "gone active" immediately, call-up officials said today. Most of the recent draftees here have been youths, just past their eighteenth birthdays, who continued in school or at work until their notifications reached them.



HELPING HUNGRY HOLLANDERS—In free Holland, from the Belgian border to the line of the Maas, officers and men of Shaef's Civil Affairs division are trying to undo the wrongs of four years under the German heel: Working through and with Netherlands officials, these men—Royal Canadian Air Force officers among them—are charged with the responsibility of housing the homeless, feeding the hungry and restoring life to the broken towns and cities. In the Upper picture Squadron Leader J. F. MacNamara, formerly a schoolmaster at Glebe Collegiate, Ottawa, and for three years flying control officer at Rockcliffe airport, looks on while a Dutch chef dishes out hot food at a communal feeding centre. Children are usually sent to draw the family ration of hot food, and in the Lower picture a little girl holds up a bucket to be filled.

RAF Completes Forty-three Attacks In December

LONDON, Jan. 4—(CP)—Despite the poorest flying weather of the year the R.A.F. completed 18 night missions and 25 daylight attacks during December and deluged German targets with 54,420 short tons of explosives, it was announced yesterday.

United States 8th Air Force heavy bombers dropped another 42,000 tons, bringing the total tonnage of explosives dropped on German targets by Britain-based heavy bombers to more than 96,500 tons. The total for November, the best operational winter month of the war, was 99,500 tons.

All but 2,340 tons of the R.A.F. loads—which includes the tonnage carried by the R.C.A.F. bomber group—were dropped on targets in western Germany in support of the Allied armies. Outside targets included U-boat pens at Rotterdam and shipping at Oslo and Gdynia.

An R.A.F. commentator said many airfields in Britain were out of action for days during December because of fog and planes had to be diverted as far north as Scotland.

The versatile R.A.F. Mosquito bombers completed 46 missions during December and dropped 550 two-ton blockbusters, the statement revealed.

"Counter-measures against rocket bombs increased," an R.A.F. commentator said. "The attacks were successful enough to compel the Germans to reinforce their anti-aircraft defences around the sites."

The commentators said the R.A.F. 2nd Tactical Air Force made 15,000 sorties and destroyed or damaged 900 road vehicles and 250 locomotives. During the attacks more than 7,500 bombs of various types were dropped and more than 5,500 rockets were expended.

The R.A.F. transport command brought to England its 50,000th casualty from the front since D-Day without the loss of a single patient.

In addition more than 1,200 anti-shipping sorties were flown by R.A.F. coastal planes and 100 vessels were attacked.

Jobs Problem When War Ends

CLEVELAND, Jan. 4 — When the servicemen begin to come home in large numbers and when the demobilization of the munitions makers gets under way the most important single problem in this country will be jobs, says the Cleveland Trust Company.

It adds: "Among the desires of our fighting man, perhaps the most generally predominant is that a job should await his homecoming. It is natural that he should give it first place in his thinking, because it is the natural means to all the values that are implicit in his dreams about home and family. We must have real jobs in large numbers for our young people, and many of them will have to be new ones.

"But jobs do not just happen, nor are real jobs brought into being by Federal deficit financing. Self-sustaining jobs flow from successful combinations of enterprise and capital. They involve the taking of risks by managements which assume those risks in the hope of making profits.

"Hence it follows that the number of available jobs always largely depends on whether the political climate that is created by the national administration is hospitable or inhospitable toward business enterprise."

USE SECRET METHODS

LONDON — (CP). — Secret methods of construction employed in the manufacture of Mosquito aircraft are embodied in Britain's emergency plans for building of bungalows to replace bombed-out homes.

The Peterborough Examiner

VOL. XCI, No. 3 — THURSDAY, JANUARY 4, 1945 — PRICE FOUR CENTS

Main Street Topics

WRONG MAN.

Herb. Page, of Trenton, and not Herb. Payne, was the owner of the car mentioned in Tuesday's Main Street column. The car was slightly damaged by fire Monday evening.

FIRST PARADE

The first parade since before the holidays will be held Monday evening at the Armouries, when members of the 4th (R) Battery, Heavy Anti-Aircraft, R.C.A. will commence their winter program of training.

FILMS ON LOAN

The Peterborough Film Library at the Normal School has the following films on loan January 4 to January 12: How the Ear Functions (Gr. 7 and 8); Wild Elephant Roundup (General); Children of China (General); British Empire Links (Suez Canal); How Nature Protects Animals (General); Teaching with Sound Films (Teachers); Robinson Crusoe.

SNOW TROUBLE

Block side-roads are still causing much difficulty in the distribution of rural mail, and are still preventing the delivery of some mail, Postmaster Charles Lacheur said today. Main roads are open, and in that connection, rural route mail is being delivered steadily, but heavy snow has made all the little side-roads impassable for letter carriers, most of whom use automobiles.

COMMANDO SPEAKER

A member of the famed Commandos, and a soldier of wide experience in amphibious warfare, Major Frank Peter Ashton, Royal Artillery, will be the guest speaker at the Friday meeting of the Kiwanis Club. Before being called back to England in February, 1944, to help plan D-Day, Major Ashton served in one of the main focal points of warfare against the Japanese....the Southeast Asia Command.

NAMED REEVE

Mr. and Mrs. Clair Donnelly, 421 Stewart street, received word today that Mr. Donnelly's youngest brother, Harold Donnelly, had been elected reeve of Greenock Township in Bruce County, an office formerly held by the Peterborough man for three years, a decade ago. The Donnelly family moved to Peterborough five years ago, and Mr. Donnelly is engaged in lumbering operations in the Cloyne district.

BANK CLEARINGS

Bank clearings for the past week amounted to $1,281,164, according to the weekly report of the secretary of the Clearing House issued today.

IN CHRISTIE ST. HOSPITAL.

Engineer Lieut. Gerald Duffus of Peterborough has been admitted to Christie St. Hospital, Toronto, for further analyzation and treatment of chronic dysentery. He returned to Canada about six months ago, having been serving with the Royal Indian Naval Volunteer Reserve.

FOOD FOR BIRDS.

In this wintery weather, everyone can stand a little reminder that birds have to eat too! A handful of crumbs or a small piece of suet should be tossed into the backyard for our feathered friends regularly. Hunters report that partidges will not go hungry for a while yet, as absence of sleet has left their food supply undiminished.

FORMER RANGER OVERSEAS — A member of the Prince of Wales Rangers when the unit was mobilized in March, 1942, CQMS J. W. Field is now stationed overseas. Prior to joining the Army, he was manager of Mason's Main Store, and his wife lives at 73 Robinson street. Two brothers are also in the forces, Les Field has just returned from overseas and Alf Field is with the Navy. His father, William Field, 215 Princess street, is a veteran of the last war.

Vandals Upset Ash Cans; Citizens Angry

If any citizen can tell Alderman Swanston while he ns still chairman of the property committee what can be done to prevent the upsetting of ashes along streets where the cans have been set out for collection, the suggestion will be gratefully received.

Some loutish fellow went down Rubidge street the other night and spilled ashes along the east side from Dick Raine's store just about to Dalhousie street. The street was a mess, and in that block all the money spent by the citizens for the convenience and orderliness of collecting and disposing of ashes was wasted for those days.

At the northwest corner of Rubidge and Sherbrooke streets, across from the Raine store, an array of ashes containers was spilled about on the sidewalk, a repetition of a week ago. These containers had been put out from the corner stores and apartments, and they held a lot of ashes.

This Rubidge street experience is being repeated here and there around the city, too frequently to be ignored, and citizens commenting to the Examiner declared with annoyance that it was about time an example was made of somebody, and also that the people themselves should be willing to report to the police of these infractions they see.

Snow Fails To Halt Milk, Bread Deliveries

Milk is being delivered either by sleigh or truck to all parts of Peterborough and outlying sections, and a survey of dairies in the city revealed that difficulties have been met, but overcome.

Silverwoods Dairy reported the major trouble to be in getting the milk from the country into the city. Bottling milk, they said, is coming in quite regularly, because for the most part, the producers live on the main roads, which are now open and reasonably clear of snow. Milk for processing however, comes chiefly from the farmers living on the side roads, which are tied up with snow.

Campbell's Dairy said there were difficulties about bringing milk in from the country, but it is still coming. Farmers living on the side roads take their milk to the main roads, where it is picked up.

The Canada Bread Company received their daily shipment from Toronto by truck, and reported highways between Peterborough and the Queen City to be in good condition. Weston's Bread Company however received their shipment by rail, due to the fact officials in Toronto probably pictured roads east of the city to be as bad as roads west.

Beat To Death

WEST VANCOUVER, B.C., Jan. 4. — (CP). — Twenty-five-year-old Jenny Conroy of North Vancouver, whose body was found Dec. 20 on a lonely road in West Vancouver, lived for some time after she was brutally beaten, evidence at a coroner's inquest revealed yesterday.

Court Dismisses Charge Of False Pretences

Declaring that on the whole evidence that while the accused by his evidence had left him under the impression that he had not been dealing fairly with the complainant the crown had not succeeded in proving false pretences Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning dismissed a charge against F. A. McLean, Toronto, of having obtained $200 in cash and three $50 Victory Bonds from Charles J. Waldron, Peterborough.

McLean was defended by W. R. Philp while Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

The story of how a chance meeting with McLean at a summer resort last July had led to a transaction by which Waldron, Simcoe street, Peterborough, has apparently lost $250 in cash and four $50 Victory Bonds, was told by the elderly C.G.E. worker in police court Thursday afternoon.

Waldron, the only witness called by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., said that around the first of July last he was visiting a friend at a cottage in the Orillia district and McLean was staying at a cottage nearby. Waldron testified that McLean had accompanied him on a shopping expedition to Orillia and while in that town had told Waldron of his business connections.

Waldron stated that McLean told him that he had a contract with the Chinese government and that he was buying airplanes and selling them to the Chinese. Witness said that McLean told him that he could buy the planes for $500 and sell them for $750.

Gave Money Twice

"He told me he could make me some money," Waldron swore, adding that McLean had wanted him to put up $500 but that he had said that he did not think he could put up that much. At Orillia, he said, he had given McLean $15 in cash, a $50 Victory Bond and a cheque for $35. Three or four days later McLean had come to Peterborough and met the witness outside the C.G.E.

Waldron said that the accused showed him a paper that was headed "Chinese Government," and also showed him a bond for $1,000 that he said Waldron could have for security if he wanted it. Waldron said that he had given McLean at that time three more $50 Victory Bonds and a cheque for $200. He had never received any of that money back, he told the court. Several telegrams that Waldron said he had received from the accused in August were produced in court.

To Magistrate Langley Waldron said that he had understood that McLean was going to buy an airplane and sell it to the Chinese government and that he was to have his money and profits in a few days.

Cross-examined by W. R. Philp Waldron said that the person he had been visiting in the cottage in the Orillia district, was a widow named Mrs. Ogilvie and that she was an aunt of McLean's wife.

Mr. Philp examined the accused at length as to the documents he said had been shown him by the accused. Waldron said that he did not have any of them in his hands. They had been shown to him by McLean, he said.

Called For Defence

At the conclusion of the crown's evidence Mr. Philp moved for a dismissal of the case but Magistrate Langley reserved judgment on the motion and called for the defence. Hereupon McLean went to the witness box.

The accused said that he was a veteran of the First Great War and also of this one, that he had won a number of decorations, had been mentioned in despatches several times and "had been recommended for the Victoria Cross."

McLean denied that he had told Waldron that he had a contract with the Chinese government or that he had shown the complainant any $1,000 bond or a document purporting to be a contract with the government.

The accused told the court that he had hoped to be able to buy surplus planes not required under the commonwealth air training plan and that he had negotiated with Chinese officials as to their purchasing these machines.

"Planes that cost the citizens of Canada $18,000 each have been sold as low as $300," McLean stated in the witness box.

Accused said that he had made it clear that the money advanced to him by Waldron was to be used for organizing expenses.

Has Record

At this morning's session McLean was cross-examined by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., and admitted a number of previous convictions on false pretences charges at Hamilton and Toronto.

McLean said that he had no contract with the Chinese government and swore that he had not told Waldron that he had one. He said that he had some contacts with representatives of the Chinese government in regard to the purchase of planes and that the money advanced him by Waldron was a loan that had been used for expenses in connection with the deal.

In giving judgment Magistrate Langley said that the only witness called by the crown had been Waldron and that his evidence had not been definite and clear. It might have been that McLean had told the complainant that he had contacts with the Chinese government and Waldron had thought that he said a contract. At all events there was a reasonable doubt and His Worship said that he could not find on the evidence the false pretences alleged by the crown.

MADE A CAPTAIN — Philip Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Webber Turner, Gilmour street, has been promoted to Captain, his family have been informed. This officer was one of two to escape the Arnhem trap in the autumn.

2 Peterborough Boys Become Air Gunners

Two Peterborough airmen graduated as wireless air gunners recently, at Royal Canadian Air Force schools in Ontario. They are Sgt. J. E. Corbett, 145 London street, who graduated at No. 4 Bombing and Gunnery School, Fingal, and Sgt. E. A. Beauclerc, 303 Frederick avenue, who graduated at No. 6 Bombing and Gunnery School, Mountain View.

Sgt. J. R. Pollock, 41 Mill street, Port Hope, was another district man to graduate in the R.C.A.F. recently, when he became a navigator at No. 1 A.O.S., Malton, Ontario.

Postpone Hockey Game

NORWOOD, Jan. 4—(ENS)—The hockey game scheduled for Wednesday evening between Hastings and Stirling in the Junior O.H.A. was postponed and will be played at a later date, as the Stirling team was unable to make the trip owing to the condition of the roads.

PROMOTED OVERSEAS

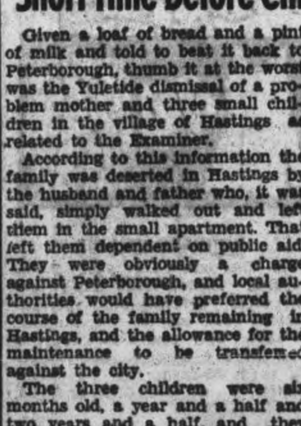
Lieutenant John Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Rogers, who enlisted from the Provincial Police, has been promoted to a captaincy in Belgium. He was at one time on the staff of the Peterborough Police Department.



STATIONED WITH RCEME—Craftsman P. D. Heffernan, whose wife lives at 230½ Rubidge street, is serving overseas with the RCEME. An employee of the Quaker Oats, he enlisted in July, 1942. A brother, Edward, is stationed in Western Canada with the RCAF, and another, John, is with the North Nova Scotia Highlanders in Holland.

F.O. W. Hamilton Completes 25 Air Missions

Piloting a big, four-engined Stirling bomber through 25 operational flights over enemy territory without once being hurt is the overseas experience of Flying Officer William Hamilton, D.F.C., who is now at home after serving with the R.C.A.F. abroad since 1942. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hamilton, 599 Homewood avenue.

Military and industrial objectives in Germany, including Hamburg and Berlin, were the targets this young Peterborough airman attacked. Although most of his flying was over Germany itself, he has completed flights over France, including the French-Italian border.

One of his most memorable flights was a mission over the Alps by night, to attack a tunnel, through which supplies were being sent by the Germans to Italy. It wasn't the fury of the assault, or the fierceness of the opposition that made the flight memorable, but the serene beauty of the snow-crested Alps, by moonlight and cold starlight.

Dusseldorf, centre for the manufacture of plane and auto engines, was a target on several occasions. It was also his first land target, although he had been engaged in dropping mines before that.

Of all places inside Germany, the two great cities of Berlin and Hamburg put up the heaviest anti-aircraft defence, in the opinion of this Distinguished Flying Cross winner. Despite the opposition, Berlin and Hamburg were battered severely. FO. Hamilton said the two biggest fires he has ever seen were at these places.

Mixed Crew

Three Canadians and four British airmen made up the crew of his plane. FO. Hamilton, like most other fliers who have returned, expressed high admiration for the men of the crew. The other two Canadians aboard were PO. Robert Jackson of Toronto, the plane's mid-upper gunner, and Bill Martin, of Weyburn, Sask., the rear gunner.

FO. W. HAMILTON

In November, 1943, FO. Hamilton finished his tour of operations, and subsequently was engaged in instructional work, until arriving home on leave, in Canada.

It was in August 1943 that he made the memorable flight to Berlin, which won him the D.F.C. He is one of five men from Peterborough or the immediate district, to win the coveted order.

Enlisting in the R.C.A.F. in August, 1941, he graduated at Hagersville as a pilot, and went overseas in October 1942. He received his commission overseas. A brother, Lieutenant Robert Hamilton, has been in Italy since the beginning of that campaign, and took part in the invasions both of that country and Sicily.

A GREAT EMPIRE

The British Empire is the world's largest, comprising 13,353,952 square miles with a population of 500,775,000.

Mother, 3 Children Thrust Out Of Home Short Time Before Christmas Holiday

Given a loaf of bread and a pint of milk and told to beat it back to Peterborough, thumb it at the worst was the Yuletide dismissal of a problem mother and three small children in the village of Hastings as related to the Examiner.

According to this information the family was deserted in Hastings by the husband and father who, it was said, simply walked out and left them in the small apartment. That left them dependent on public aid. They were obviously a charge against Peterborough, and local authorities would have preferred the course of the family remaining in Hastings, and the allowance for the maintenance to be transferred against the city.

The three children were six months old, a year and a half and two years and a half, and they needed help; and the recital to the Examiner is that in their need they were given one bottle of milk, one loaf of bread, and a virtual order "to scram." Possibly the family were picked up and brought to Peterborough, but they didn't get any transportation allowance from the village treasury.

That was two days after the big snow storm at the middle of December. Arriving in Peterborough where their appeal was not contested, and would not have been if had been passed on from Hastings, the family became dependent upon the city's welfare department for a "merry" Christmas.

Then right here in Peterborough there was a family comprising a wife and four children who "were to be put out on the street." Threatened with eviction they appealed to the Welfare Office, explained their straits, and a satisfactory adjustment was made with the landlord.

At another house the electric light service was turned off by the owner of the premises. The house was in darkness. This was another family of four children.

To explain these circumstances, an Examiner reporter asked the Welfare Department if everything had gone well, perhaps not cheerily but temporarily pleasant for those needing some help, and the answer was broadly "Oh, yes,—but," and these instances of exception were cited, indicating the harassment of at least three families, not of adults, able to forage for themselves, but of eleven children in the midst of wartime prosperity and on the threshhold of the anniversary of Bethlehem, where there was once an inn that was overcrowded, leaving only some space to spare in the stable with the dumb beasts....

Paternity Case Jury Deliberate Long

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 4 —(AP)— The Charlie Chaplin paternity trial jurors go into their second day's liberations today with what their foreman described to the judge as "a possibility" of reaching a verdict.

The seven women and five men were solemn-faced as they filed back into the courtroom late yesterday to be excused overnight. For four hours and 40 minutes they had weighed the contention of Joan Berry, 24, that the world-famed comedian, her former drama instructor, is the father of her 15-months-old baby Carol Ann.

The jurors returned to court in mid-afternoon for a re-reading of part of Joan's testimony.

It placed her in the company of two other men, for several hours each, on the night of Dec. 30, 1942—a night which she said culminated in a sex act with Chaplain. At another time during her testimony Joan had said she had not been intimate with any other man after she met Chaplin.

Re-Read Testimony

In the testimony re-read to the jury Joan related that twice in December she met Lionel Vasco Bonini, described by Chaplin's attorney as a former representative for a wine-importing concern and now a soldier in the South Pacific.

She said she went to the apartment of Hans Ruesch, a magazine write, about 4 ap.m. Dec. 30 and remained until 8 p.m., when they went out for cocktails and dinner and thence to Bonini's apartment. After a tiff with her, she said, Ruesch left and she and Bonini drove around "a long, long time," seeking Ruesch at a hotel, a restaurant and at his apartment.

After a two-hour stop during which Bonini went upstairs to his apartment and she remained in his car, she testified, he drove her to Chaplin's home about midnight.

In excusing the jurors until 9:45 a.m. today, Judge Willis warned them that "this is one of those cases that arouse the interest of morons and vicious persons who desire to have their ideas voiced by the jury." He told them to "avoid and resent" being approached by "persons who have no regard for justice" and advised them not to answer their telephones.

Grave Robbed

SOUTH AMBOY, N.J., Jan. 4. — (AP).—Police sought to-day grave robbers who battered down the bronze doors of a mausoleum in St. Mary's cemetery here during a pouring rain Monday night and ripped open a casket containing the body of Mgr. James J. Coan, Roman Catholic priest who died in 1926.

AT DEBERT CAMP—Pte. Herbert Scully, son of Mrs. Helen Scully, Elm street, is stationed at Debert and has been spending a New Year's leave at his home. He enlisted in April while he was an employee of a Toronto bread company.

Individual Help Features Aid To Bomb Victims

In these very modern times, when villany in one part of the world adversely affects people who are living thousands of miles away hardly any well meaning person could sit back and disclaim any sense of personal responsibility for others welfare, such as Cain made when he asked "Am I my brother's keeper" in the early days of biblical history.

The same history hundreds of years later in the parable of the man who fell among thieves, showed that to a large extent the same condition prevailed, for many passed by on the other side, and it was a stranger who demonstrated a heart of the finest temperament, that could act in a personal manner to relieve the victims distress.

In this day and generation when world conditions call for a widespread practice of the same virtue as displayed by the good Samaratin there has been an increasing number of persons who have taken this same personal interest in other peoples welfare, shown by the repeated lists of purely personal gifts made for this purpose, to relieve the distress of bomb victims in Britain, through the local and district fund operating on their behalf.

To-day another such list of personal gifts is acknowledged, many of whom thereby put into practice that part of the parable relating that if there were further need, more help would be forthcoming, since they had already given of their means to help on former occasions.

In any good work done by a community as a whole, it is the support that is given in an individual personal way, that proves the foundation to determine to just what extent the effort may go as a whole, which from a local standpoint is best judged by the fact that close to $90,500 has been given in both an individual and collective way for this humanitarian object of assisting other people in distress.

In so doing, the citizens as a whole have been, and are doing a noteworthy assist towards ringing in a better world that it is hoped will emerge when the din and strife of war are but a thing of the past.

Thin Layer Of Ice Covers Lake Chemong

After all December's winter, traffic over Chemong Lake does not yet dare leave the old floating bridge. If anybody imagines that the ice being delivered around town from trucks, one of them 'manned' by two young women, is new season product, the opinion is entirely wrong.

Winter has produced a lot of snow but comparatively little ice, and according to Sam Bell of Bridgenorth there is not much frost penetration of the ground so far, and not likely to be with the present protective covering.

Traffic across the lake to Ennismore follows the summer and surer route across the bridge. They say at Bridgenorth that "there are only two inches of blue ice" under the snow and slush.

Meanwhile, the city council's attempt to dispose of the ice business into which it gravitated last year in the conviction that municipal mediation was necessary to ensure a supply of ice for the city has failed to attract any private interest.

Some one has suggested that if the city is going to carry on for 1945 it is about time that a source of supply be selected and its surface cleared of snow to let the frost get through and make ice.

BROUGHT BY BRITISH

Cheddar cheese was introduced into the United States by early British settlers.

PROMOTED — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dundas, Downie street, have received word that their son, PO. Barney Dundas, serving with the RCAF in England, has been promoted to Flying Officer. He enlisted in March, 1943, and has been overseas since May as a navigator. Prior to enlisting, FO Dundas was employed at Genelco.

Organize Drive To Secure CWAC Recruits

KINGSTON, Jan. 4—(Special).— With more men being drawn from home war establishments in Military District No. 3 for training and service overseas, there is an urgent need for Canadian Women's Army Corps replacements to fill these vacancies.

Lieut. Muriel K. Robertson, CWAC recruiting officer, is making a special speaking tour of the district, addressing women's organizations and other groups to secure their support in boosting recruiting in the CWAC.

Although the corps since its formation over three years ago has replaced over a division of men, several thousand are still needed as soldier replacements for such positions as clerks, typists, stenographers, switchboard operators, laboratory technicians, drivers, mechanics, radio operators, draughtswomen, waitresses, dental and hospital assistants, electricians and X-ray technicians.

Lieut. Robertson's speaking tour commenced in Ottawa October 1 of last year, and since has taken her through the entire Ottawa district and Kingston and Peterborough. She will return to Peterborough on January 16 to complete her tour which will include visits to Lindsay, Port Hope, Cobourg and Bowmanville, where she will make contacts to speak to organizations of both men and women.

As a result of the support given by organizations already addressed, a definite upswing in CWAC recruiting is expected in Military District No. 3.

Open Flying School

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 4 (CP) — One of the first flying schools for future civilian pilots, to open in Canada since early in the war will be started by Leavens Brothers Air Services Limited at Crumlin on Jan. 8, it was learned today.

Under the name of Leavens Brothers (Training) Ltd., this firm operated No. 4 Air Observer School and trained hundreds of navigators and air bombers under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan. The school closed early in December, 1944.

Band Studies Bible Children

The Nettie McKenzie mission band of Knox Church met in the junior room with 23 members and one visitor present, and a short business session was held with the president, Betty Crowe presiding.

The meeting opened with prayer offered by Betty Crowe. Marilyn Todd, the secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and the treasurer, Margaret Johnston, read a report. A reading was given by Robert Ross, the temperance secretary.

The theme of the worship service conducted by Betty King, was "Children of the Bible". The call to worship was given by Aileen and Gwynneth Todd, and the Scripture reading by June Drummond. The finding and protecting of the baby Moses in story was read by Betty King. Tommy Oesch and Margery Drummond took up the offering which was dedicated by the singing of "Lord When to Thee a Little Lad".

The fifth chapter of the study book "Tommy Two Wheels" was read by Mrs. R. Hanscom and the highlights of the chapter were selected by members of the band and recorded as a news bulletin by Marilyn Todd. The worship service was closed with prayer by Betty King. The leader, Miss Inez Barrer was absent.

59 Servicemen Dinner Guests During Holidays

Forty-four soldiers from the local Training Centre were entertained in homes at Christmas dinner, and 15 at New Year's, as reported by Miss Gertrude Cox, convener of the home hospitality committee, at the regular meeting of the Women's Voluntary Services, on Wednesday.

In addition, twenty-two boys were entertained in home on Sunday during December. Two dances were held during the month, and 40 junior hostesses and four senior hostesses were on duty at each. The same number of girls was also supplied for each of the three bingos at the Recreation Centre.

Other reports presented to the chairman, Mrs. N. D. Seaton, included the account of the canteen work, presented by Mrs. J. Londerville, who said that 34 girls had put in a total of 174 hours at the canteen. Miss G. Fowler said that two musicales had been presented during December, and also that the camp library had been looked after by members of her committee. Mrs. H. T. Rehill reported that two workers of the clerical committee had worked six hours for the Armouries, the Citizens' Committee, and Civilian Defence. Mrs. J. Matthews said that nine Miss Canada girls had sold $67. in war savings stamps, working 18 hours.

It was announced that Miss Freda Held, assistant director of Women's Voluntary Services in Ottawa, is expected to be in Peterborough, February 7 to meet the local executive. She will discuss the place of the centralized committee in the post-war period.

Lindsay Couple Wed 55 Years

LINDSAY, Jan. 4—Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Tilly of Lindsay were the recipients of many congratulations on the occasion of their 55th wedding anniversary.

Mr. Tilly was employed by the Bell Telephone Company for fifty-four years until his retirement some few years ago at which time he was manager of the Lindsay branch. He served for some time on the town council and is a past president of the Curling Club. He is a member of the Masonic Order and of the Session of Cambridge Street United Church.

Mrs. Tilly is a member of the I.O.D.E. and was for many years active in the Women's Institute. They have two children, Frances, now living in the United States, and Major T. George Tilly, M.C., of London, Ontario.

IODE Stresses Clothing Need

Mrs. E. McBrien was welcomed as a new member of the Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E., at their regular meeting Wednesday evening at the Y. W. C. A. Monthly reports were given and plans for future work were discussed.

Mrs. H. Steggles, war convener, spoke of the need for articles of clothing for civilians and members of the armed forces, and Miss Doris Burgess, welfare convener, reported that two afghans, knit by Mrs. T. Brightman, had been donated to the Chapter. Baskets of fruit were taken to the soldiers in hospital at the local Training Centre at Christmas, and one basket was given to a family. The educational secretary, Mrs. I. H. Keefer, read a letter of appreciation from the teached of the adopted school expressing thanks for the gifts sent from the Chapter. At Christmas, each child received a game, a book, a pair of mitts and 25 cents from the Chapter.

Members decided that the Chapter would give the fullest co-operation in the Dominion drive for $300,000 for the Camp Library Fund. Ontario's objective is $150,000, and the money is to be raised during January. Members were urged to make the campaign a success because of the keen appreciation expressed by men and women in the services who have used libraries already maintained by the I. O. D. E.

A nominating committee, consisting of Mrs. C. B. Waite, Mrs. E. V. Morphet and Mrs. C. C. McIntyre was named, to be assisted by Mrs. B. Moore, Mrs. A. Sands and Mrs. J. T. Carley.

Millbrook Flier Weds In Burford

A wedding of interest took place in Burford United Church, when Margaret Ann Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Scott, of Burford, became the bride of LAC. M. Ralph Greer, of Scoudouc, N.B., son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Greer of Millbrook.

The church was decorated with ferns, roses and 'mums for the ceremony, with Rev. Dr. William Scott officiating. V. Bernard Smallman was at the organ, and accompanied Maurice Woods when he sang "O Promise Me" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a floor-length veil of white net, caught to a halo of velvet leaves and carried a bouquet of red roses. Miss Joyce Scott attended her sister as maid of honor, in floor-length pale green brocaded satin, with large puff sleeves. She wore a small matching hat, and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

John Gregg was best man for his brother, and Austin Parnell and Edward McCune were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Cornish House, Burford, where the bride's mother received the guests, in a gown of purple crepe, with matching hat, and a corsage of Talisman roses. The groom's mother, also receiving, wore a two-piece emerald green crepe ensemble, with matching shaded feather hat, and a corsage of Talisman roses.

For a wedding trip to Buffalo, N.Y., the bride donned an Alice blue dress, small blue feathered hat, grey tuxedo style coat, and black accessories.

Sunday School Holds Annual Meeting

About 50 officers and teachers were present at the annual meeting of George Street United Church Sunday School on Wednesday. Following a hot supper served at 6:30 by Mrs. W. Copp, Mrs. J. Tinney and Mrs. F. Greatrix. Rev. Dr. James Semple presided for the election of officers.

The results of the election are as follows: Associate superintendents, Leo Copp and Frank Greatrix; superintendent of supply teachers, A. Stewart; grading superintendents, E. Wellwood and E. Hales; superintendent of the junior church, Miss Georgia Hardill; business manager, Wilbert Frise; associate treasurer, Lloyd Gilmour; general secretary, W. C. McBride; treasurer of the King's Bank, A. E. Kingdon; superintendents of paper supplies, C. Wiley and E. Ingall; superintendent of the primary department, Miss Ruth Parnall; superintendent of the beginner's department, Misses June Wellwood and Margaret Edmison; superintendent of the cradle roll department, Mrs. A. Clark; representative to the official board, L. Bird; pianist, Lenore Skitch; musical director, Quirt McKinney; lantern operators, Roy Powell, Morris Richardson and Keith Boorman; hall monitor, Everitt Hales; Scout group committee, F. M. Ward, W. Frise, A. Bacon, W. Hamilton and L. Copp.

Following the business session, pictures from the National Film Board were enjoyed, under the supervision of Quirt McKinney. The superintendents thanked the officers and teacher for their splendid support during the year, and it was announced that the school had concluded the year in excellent financial standing. Rev. Dr. J. R. R. Cooper pronounced the benediction.

Couple Observe Golden Wedding

A number of friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. George Wood of South Monaghan gathered at their home recently to honor them on the occasion of their fiftieth wedding anniversary. After an enjoyable period of community singing, the guests of honor were presented with a longing chair, and several friends spoke briefly, congratulating the bride and groom on their fifty years of married life, and wishing them health and happiness for the future. After Mr. Wood had expressed his thanks for himself and Mrs. Wood, refreshments were served.

Expect Nurses To Accept Clock

TORONTO, Jan. 4—Some nurses at Toronto East General Hospital remained adamant last night in their refusal to punch the new time clock, recently installed at the hospital. "But," chuckled Superintendent W. E. Leonard, "the flurry will be over soon—I hope."

Because they considered punching clocks beneath their dignity as professional women, 75 of the nurses had simply walked scornfully by the clock, with its nearby racks of cards. And last night, 'some are punching the clocks—and some aren't," Mr. Leonard said. "However, we are not having any trouble about it and I expect the whole thing will blow over once the girls learn that there is no intention to tag them, but simply to have records of who is and who isn't at work."

Some hospital in the United States use time clocks, but so far as is known this is the first one installed in Canada.

Otonabee IODE To Help Provincial Drive

At the monthly meeting of the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E. Mrs. A. Leach, regent, asked that members take special notice of the forthcoming provincial drive in January to obtain funds to be used to supply libraries for the armed forces.

Mrs. A. Blewett, acting secretary in the absence of Mrs. D. Bell, read detailed information for primary chapters concerning the drive. The regent requested that each member give her full cooperation when called up to assist during the drive. Mrs. Leach presided at the meeting, held Wednesday afternoon in the green room of the Y.W.C.A.

A letter from the Peterborough Memorial Community Centre was read, expressing thanks for the Chapter's donation, and also one from students of Apsley school, acknowledging and expressing their appreciation for a large box of Christmas gifts sent to them during the holiday season. Fifty dollars was voted for the purchase of warm blankets for distribution overseas, and the vote taken in favor of a municipal chapter for Peterborough was unanimous. It was announced that the sewing meeting, January 8, would be held at the regent's home, 140 Stanley avenue.

Millbrook News

Captain B. B. Dawson, home on a brief furlough, left on New Year's Day for a new posting.

Cpl. Beatrice McDowell, RCAF (WD) of Hagersville, was home for the New Year's week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. McDowell. Also joining the family party were Mr. and Mrs. Eric McKinstry of Peterborough and Sgt. Reginald McKnight, RCAF, and Mrs. McKnight of Debert, N.S., home on furlough.

Good Plain Cooking Needed Following Holiday Season

By MARY MOORE

After eating a generous share from four different turkeys over two weeks I was glad to stay home and prepare some of those so-called homely meals that lack glamour, but oh how good they taste.

I mean such things as home-made vegetable soup, and baked beans with po'k chops, and ginger-bread, and headcheese. Don't they sound good? I wish you could have sat at our table and eaten from that big dish of beans with us. There was only one thick pork chop for everyone, but it was the beans they wanted a second and third time.

Homemade Vegetable Soup

Bones from roast beef or turkey or chicken, ½ cup each chopped celery, carrots, and onion, 1 to 2 tablespoons raw rice, 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley, 1 table-spoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, a shake of curry is nice if you are curry minded. To bones add 1 quart cold water and boil, covered, at least 2 hours. Remove bones, slipping any meat from them back into the liquid. Add all remaining ingredients except the parsley, and boil, covered, just until rice is tender. Add parsley just before serving.

This soup makes a good one-hot-dish-meal if served with grated cheese and hot buttered rye toast.

Home Baked Beans and Pork Chops

Soak 1 pound white beans over-night; in morning drain and boil in water to cover 1 hour. Add 1 No. 2½ can tomatoes, about 2 teaspoons salt, 2 teaspoons sugar or 1 table-spoon molasses, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon mustard. Put in large casserole; strew top with 2 or 3 slices chopped bacon or fat from pork chops, and bake 2 hours. Cover with pork chops (one for each person to be served) and sprinkle chops with salt, pepper and paprika. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until chops are baked and fat edge on them is golden. You may need to add more salt and a little boiling water during the baking period.

Headcheese

One pork head, 2 lbs. very lean beef, white pepper, salt, onion or garlic, thyme, celery seed, salt, sage if desired. Have the butcher prepare the pork head so that all you have to do is boil it three hours and slip off the meat and skin and put it through the grinder. Boil the beef separately until tender and put it through the grinder separately. Now combine meats and add just enough water to cover, do not flood it. Then add the seasonings to taste—ground onion up to 1 tablespoon may be added; if garlic powder is used add no more than ⅛ teaspoon. Bring all to boiling point. You may add 1 tablespoon soaked gelatine to insure it being hard enough to slice when chilled, but it should not be necessary. Pour into moistened moulds and chill.

Gingerbread

Two cups sifted cake flour, 2 tea-spoons baking powder, ½ tea-spoon soda, 2 teaspoons ginger, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup shortening, ½ cup sugar, 1 beaten egg, 2-3 cup molasses, ¾ cup buttermilk. Sift flour, then measure and sift with dry ingredients except the sugar, 3 times. Cream shortening, cream in sugar; add egg and molasses; then flour mix alternately with milk. Pour into buttered pan and bake at 350 1¼ hours. Applesauce may be used instead of butter milk.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, January 5

CONCERTED efforts in the right direction continue to offer further significant opportunities for promoting the position, bolstering credit and economic prospects, together with enhanced social, domestic and affectional standing. It should be a propitious time for gathering all the skills, talents and resources toward this end, with fresh starts gaining strong impetus and assuring fruition of ambitious objectives. Initiative, sagacity and swift grasp of circumstances combine to bring comfort, gratification and personal prestige and popularity.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be offered a chance to forge ahead on fresh and productive lines on which there is great promise of ultimate success and progress, as reward for shrewd, sensible and concentrated efforts, well thought out and formulated plans. Energy and initiative may be highly stimulated to attract support from influential financial sources. The personality may be also graciously recognized as a factor in social, domestic and romantic accomplishments, with probable festivities in celebration of happy events. Courtship and marriage are indicated.

A child born on this day may be blessed with many talents and skills, equipping it for position, influence, and standing in a happy and prosperous life.

DOROTHY DIX . . . . .

GOOD DISPOSITION COUNTS

Seek Good-Natured Girl, Boys — Happiness of Home Depends Upon It.

IF I were a young man looking 'em all over with matrimonial intentions, the one thing that I would keep my weather eye focused on would be the girl's disposition. And if she had a bad one, no matter what looks or other charms and virtues she possessed, I would never, never, take that fatal trip to the altar with her.

For I should know that in time romance fades away, and beauty turns to skin and bones, or fat; that wit grows stale and cuteness silly, and that women park their bag of tricks when they get married, but that the one thing they keep from the cradle to the grave is their dispositions.

That would be thing I would have to live with, day in and day out, for years and years and years. That would be the thing that would determine whether I would be happy or miserable, and whether my marriage would be a little bit of heaven on earth, or an understudy of purgatory.

Beware of Camouflage

You may say that picking out a wife with good disposition is easier said than done, because girls are so adept at camouflage that they can assume a virtue, even if they lack it, as easily as they can slip from an untidy house dress to a spick and span party gown.

Many a man who married a soft, gentle little creature so mild butter wouldn't melt in her mouth finds he is united to a virago. Many a yes-yeser before marriage is a no-noer after marriage. And probably there is no henpecked husband, who can't call his soul his own, who wasn't attracted to his wife by the way she always deferred to him before marriage, and said: "Just as you wish, John."

Now, of course, it is true that not even an FBI investigator can always tell what sort of a disposition a girl has concealed about her person. still and all, a little sleuthing in the matter will yield valuable tips, for not even the foxiest of females can always keep up an act.

Tearful Wife Drowns Ambition

So the wise lad, when he goes a-courting, will note first whether the maiden who has hit his fancy was born with a real, genuine funnybone, or whether she has just substituted a make-believe one. For the happiness of a home depends on whether the woman at the head of it laughs off the little inevitable mishaps of domesticity, or makes a tragedy of them. An optimistic wife, who is jolly and full of fun, keeps her husband jacked up to doing his best, whereas a melancholy, depressed wife drowns out all of his ambition in her tears.

Next, notice whether a girl can take things in her stride, or if she has to always be appeased. Stroking a kitten's fur may be a pleasant diversion for an hour occasionally, but having to rub an old cat's hide the right way to keep her from clawing you, is another matter. Step high, wide and handsome around the girl you have to handle with gloves.

Above all, get a line on a girl's real disposition by observing her own home. That is the best clue to her nature. If she is loving and unselfish and tender to her own people, she will be that way to her husband. But if she is selfish and peevish and fretful at home and her parents are afraid of her, heaven help the unfortunate sap who marries her.

So look out for Sweetum's disposition when you go a-courting, boys. It is the thing you will have to live with if you marry her.

TAILORED FOR EVERY DAY—North or south, a starkly tailored frock in some attractive color is a year 'round necessity in the wardrobe. It's an American fashion stemming from the shirtmaker, more useful to many figures than a classic suit, but serving the same gap in what-shall-I-wear-today. This rayon frock is a 1945 model.

Trent River News

Pte. Douglas and Jack Liberty have returned to Toronto after spending the holidays with relatives here.

Messrs. Jack and Terry Evans, Toronto, Pte. Pat Logan, Sydney, Nova Scotia, were holiday guests with Mr. and Mrs. Melville Wight.

Miss Francis Dart, Peterborough, spent the holiday week with her mother, Mrs. George Dart.

Misses Vaughn and Jeryne Brown have returned to Ottawa after spending the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brown and family.

Mrs. Jack Fisher and daughter Marlene of Norwood spent New Year's with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Ellis.

The war workers resumed work on Tuesday after a week's holidays. Owing to bad weather and road conditions the attendance was small.

The opening of Trent River school has been postponed till Monday, January 8, owing to the death of one of Mrs. Brisbin's relatives.

The many friends of Mrs. W. C. Inkster will regret to hear of her illness.

Mrs. A. Richards, Cobourg, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith and family, Baltimore, were New Year's guests with Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Lean and family.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Pollock spent New Year's with Mr. and Mrs. S. Ellis and family at Campbellford.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP

My first recipe today is for a very delicious muffin. These muffins are very easy on both sugar and butter and make such a lovely addition to the most simple supper. My second recipe is for a peach coffee cake.

Apple Muffins

2 cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, ½ tablespoon all-spice, 2 eggs (well beaten), 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons melted shortening, 2 tablespoons shredded apple.

Sift together dry ingredients; add eggs, milk, melted shortening and apple; mix all together quickly. Bake in well-greased muffin pans in hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 20 minutes. This makes about 12 muffins.

Peach Coffee Cake

Cream 2 tablespoons shortening and ¼ cup of sugar. Add one well-beaten egg. Sift together 1 2-3 cups flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder. Add alternately to creamed mixture with ½ cup of milk. Mix just until blended. Pour into greased pie plate and arrange sliced peaches on top. Crumble 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter, ¼ cup sugar and 1 teaspoon cinnamon together. Sprinkle over peaches. Bake at 375 degrees for 35 minutes.

Chocolate Sour Cream Cake

2 eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup thick sour cream, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup cocoa, 1½ cups pastry flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon soda. Beat eggs until very light. Gradually beat in sugar and add cream and vanilla. Beat well. Beat in the sifted dry ingredients. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven. Unless you have rich sour cream, do not attempt to make this cake, as there is no butter in it.

BIRTH

EGGLESTON—To Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Eggleston, R.R. 3, Omemee, at Nicholls Hospital, on Friday, December 29th, 1944, a son.

DIED

GERMAN, Mrs. Alex—The funeral of the late Mrs. Alex German of Hastings, will be held at the residence of her brother, W. E. Hermiston, Warkworth, on Friday, January 5th, at 2 p.m. Interment at Warkworth Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

TILLOCK—In loving memory of dear dad, who passed away January 4th, 1944.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
His weary trials and troubles are past;
In silence he suffered, in patience he bore,
Till God called him home to suffer no more.
—Sadly missed, Ivy and Len.

TILLOCK—In ever loving memory of my dear husband, Walter M. Tillcock, who passed away peacefully January 4th, 1944.

One year has passed away since that sad day
The husband I loved was called away
God took him home it was his will
But in my heart he liveth still,
This day brings back to memory fresh
My dear husband who has gone to rest
There is one link death cannot sever
Love and remembrance last forever
It is hard to lose a husband dear
But God who knowest best
Held wide His loving arms and said
Come unto Me and rest.
—Sadly missed by his loving wife.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late Thomas Mahoney of Clydale, wish to thank the clergy, attending doctor, the sisters and nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital, neighbours and friends, for their spiritual acts of kindness, also Mr. Clarence McCormick for keeping roads open and any others who assisted in any way during their recent sad bereavement.

Storm Abates Highways Clearing Fast

TORONTO, Jan. 4—(CP)—The traffic-paralyzing storm which held southern Ontario in its grip for two days abated today. While snowfall continued in some sections of the province the wind generally was light and there was no further drifting.

The Dominion Meteorological Bureau said the 11-mile-an-hour wind velocity in Toronto was about representative of the situation elsewhere. Snowfall in the last 24 hours ranged from an inch at Toronto and London to four inches at Owen Sound.

The Ontario Department of Highways reported progress in opening its network of roads in southern Ontario. "Main highways are being opened now that the drifting has been stopped," an official said.

Although the wind, which reached a velocity of 25 to 30 miles an hour at some place yesterday, diminished today weather forecasts predicted colder weather tonight. Railway and telephone service has been restored almost to normal in most areas.

Bus lines were operating out of Toronto last night but were restricted to 40 miles west of Toronto, 25 miles north and 35 miles east.

In Wallaceburg, between Chatham and Sarnia, the Pere Marquette Railway, which handles freight only, will start a coach line run today between Chatham and Wallaceburg. Due to the storm, passengers were riding in the caboose of the freight, but the great number of passengers prompted the use of coaches.

A milk shortage threatened Windsor and dairy officials said that families with children would get priority if farm trucks could not get into the city today. Highways around Hamilton showed improvement and some bus routes were operating.

Welland was isolated except for railway traffic, all of which was running behind schedule. Electric railway lines, however, have been unable to operate. Twenty people stranded in cars between Welland and St. Catharines were rescued last night.

Highways running out of Cobourg were reported to be clear and traffic was running normally. At Kingston the wind was accompanied by a snow fall that blocked all highways and though snow plows were working full time, drifts were blowing back on the roads.

Highways generally are being cleared and most will be open for traffic by tonight. In the Hamilton area only one highway, No. 56 in the Binbrook area, was impassable this morning. Traffic in the Galt area was expected to return to normal in another 24 hours. Guelph reported the highway situation improving. Windsor district roads were being gradually opened.

In the Peterborough area highways were open today but side roads were blocked. In the Brockville district highways were open but heavy. Main highways were open in the North Bay area although some back roads were blocked.

Clerk of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough.

Australia To Get 5000 Canadian Trucks

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 4.—(CP Cable).—The first consignment of 5,000 trucks being sent by Canada for essential civilian use probably will reach Australia in March or April, the Federal Department of Import Procurement said today. The statement followed a recent announcement by Customs Minister Richard Keane that such trucks would be sent here.

The import procurement department did not know the types of trucks coming. However, Australia needs 13,000, including utility types, immediately.

Reserves of trucks have dwindled steadily since the beginning of 1944 and supplies of some types have been so low that only the highest priority users could be supplied. There was no free flow of trucks from the United States in 1944 because of heavy army demand.

U.S. Suggested Turks Break With Japanese

ANKARA, Turkey, Jan. 4 — (CP.-Reuters). — Turkey's break with Japan, announced yesterday, followed a "suggestion" by the United States back by Britain, Turkish Foreign Minister Hakan Saka disclosed at the meeting of the Grand National Assembly at which the decision was taken.

The suggestion — made by the Allies on Christmas Day—pointed out that the break would shorten the war with Japan by depriving the Japanese of a post from which they could observe Allied preparations.

The Turkish Foreign Minister told the assembly: "Today there is given us a new chance to grant aid to the Allies with whom we have made common cause for the realization of the goal which they are striving to reach.

"The government of the United States, which is the ally of our ally and which since the beginning of the war has furnished us substantial and valuable aid, suggested on Dec. 25 that Turkey should break off diplomatic relations with Japan if she wished to shorten the war by contributing to the Allied victory in the Far East and it stressed that such a break would deprive Japan of one of her most valuable posts for observing Allied war preparations.

"On the same day the government of our ally Britain backed the American suggestion and for the same reasons invited our government to break diplomatic relations with Japan declaring that it considered that Turkey could so make an essential contribution to Allied victory in the Far East and shorten the war."

After examining this joint proposal the Turkish government convinced that it would be a substantial aid to the Allied cause informed the United States and British ambassadors that it would be submitted to the decision of the Grand National Assembly Saka declared.

He declared: "We are convinced that by taking this decision which is in line wtih the historic earlier decision to break off relations with Germany and is in conformity with our fundamental policy of which you are aware and with our alliance you will once again be taking a decision in harmony with the supreme interests of the country."

U.S. Soldier Amputates Legs Of Three

By FRANK CONNIFF

IN THE ARDENNES FOREST, Jan 4.—Equipped with only an ordinary pair of scissors, a scalpel and the knowledge he had picked up as a U.S. Army medical aid man, 23 year old Sergt. Frank Palco, Roth, Va., amputated the legs of three Belgian women who were pinned beneath the wreckage of a demolished air raid shelter at Malmedy, army doctors revealed today.

The women were trapped under a falling beam which crushed their legs and trapped them in the choking dust of an air raid shelter destroyed by a recent enemy air attack.

With the exception of experience picked up in field aid stations, Palco knew nothing at all about surgery. He had never studied medicine; his nearest approach to the subject being hygiene courses in high school and the Virginia Polytechnic institute.

Two of the women recovered. The third, a woman whose resistance was weakened by old age, died after she had been removed from the debris of the shelter and rushed to a hospital.

Palco was standing a Malmedy street after the air raid when a young girl ran up to him, implored him to come save her grandmother—the woman who later died. He went to the wreckage of the shelter and found the three trapped women.

"I realised the beam had crushed their legs beyond hope," he said. "The elderly woman was in the worst shape—but she begged me to work on the others first.

"I didn't have much to work with, but their legs were so badly crushed that the scissors were sharp enough to cut through. I gave them morphine injections to reduce the pain, but they still must have been in agony."

Although he volunteered for the medical department, Palco said he had no post-war ambitions to become a surgeon. He said he planned to take up the study of law.

Baroness Guilty Stole Fur Coat

LONDON, Jan. 4— (CP)—Baroness Mary Frances Furnivall pleaded guilty to-day in the West London court to charges of shoplifting a fur coat, handkerchiefs, powder and soap valued at $1,932 and was ordered held for trial Jan. 18.

The 44 year old baroness, twice married and twice divorced, appealed for leniency and said her financial and matrimonial worries had "reached a pitch where things seemed intolerable."

The baroness said she originally had only meant to borrow the merchandise.

Constitutional Status

The conscriptionists really made no effort to meet the constitutional argument. About the only frontbencher who referred to it was Sir George Foster, who followed Sir Wilfrid in the debate on the second reading. He brushed it aside as legalistic hair-splitting. This was a practical, not a constitutional question. Were our boys to be reinforced or abandoned?

That the constitutional argument weighed heavily in Quebec in 1917-18 is obvious from the record. Anti-conscriptionists eagerly sought a footing on this "bedrock". Thus supported, they developed all kinds of other arguments but always their final stroke was that the basic rights of a colony had been invaded.

Drew Anxious To Speed St. Lawrence Job

TORONTO, Jan. 4.—(CP).—While Canadian officials claimed interest in Governor Thomas Dewey's recommendation that New York State proceed with development of the St. Lawrence waterway in conjunction with the province of Ontario and the Dominion, Ontario Premier George Drew said last night that the province was anxious to have the project proceed at earliest possible date.

Governor Dewey urged completion of the development in a message opening the 1945 State Legislature. He said that New York State co-operate with the province and the Dominion "if the federal administration is unable or unwilling to proceed."

"For years I have advocated completion of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project,' Dewey said. "The incomparable resources of the St. Lawrence should no longer be wasted."

Commenting on Governor Dewey's statement, Premier Drew said the project constitutes one of the most important post-war projects for Ontario, "providing in the first place a very considerable amount of employment in the construction and then providing a large source of new industrial and agricultural development.

Some constitutional difficulties were also seen in Ottawa in the way of a state government dealing with a government outside the United States, but they were not considered insurmountable.

George H. Challies, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission said yesterday the Commission had been asked by New York State if it was willing to cooperate in the matter, but there had been no negotiations. He said the commission was willing to proceed, but it was a matter for the government to decide.

Losses Lowest In November Since D Day

OTTAWA, Jan. 4—Character of the November fighting was reflected in Canadian Army casualties of only 1,998, lowest monthly total since D-Day.

Dead numbered 744 for November, and wounded 1,310, but there was a subtraction of 56 evidently by reclassification after comparison of October and November missing — prisoner—interned figures, to reduce the total to 1,998.

Total casualties up to Nov. 30 were 60,941. The army's sacrifice stood at 16,387 killed; 333 presumed dead; 1,262 missing; prisoners or interned (including 181 who have been repatriated or escaped), 5,237; and wounded 37,722.

Prior to July, when the practice was started of reporting casualties by the month, a list was given of all casualties in all theatres, except Normandy, from the beginning of the war until June 30, and of casualties in Normandy up to July 20, and the total of dead and wounded then were 7,965 and 15,827.

The July fighting in the environs of Caen and Carpiquet and on the Italian front advanced the list to 9,501 killed and 18,343 wounded. In August, the 1st Canadian Corps had broken past the bloody defense area of Normandy, had advanced across the Seine, had taken Rouen at a cost there, added to 2nd Corps casualties, of 2,328 killed and 6,314 wounded for the heaviest month's losses.

It was in August—early in August—as revealed by former Defense Minister Ralston at the recent special session of Parliament, that he received a telegram "which advised that there was a serious shortage in the strength of the infantry units and that remustering was rapidly going on."

Second Corps action in September, plus the advance across the Somme, the taking of Boulogne, Nieuport and the drive across the Leopold Canal and beyond Antwerp, cost 2,068 killed and 6,518 wounded.

In October began the bitter fighting for the Scheldt Estuary which ended in the opening of Antwerp as a port. This, together with 2nd Corps fighting along the Adriatic, resulted in 1,753 killed and 5,570 woundod.

To Visit Russia

LONDON, Jan. 4—(CP-Reuters). —An official delegation from the British labor party will leave London at the end of February to visit the Soviet Union. This journey, now to take place after repeated postponements over nearly two years, represents the latest move by the British labor movement to lay firm foundations on which to build a post-war international labor organization.

ONE TIME TO TAKE TIME

IF THERE is one time when a player should especially make sure he takes enough time to think before acting, it is just after he has made an insufficient bid. Did you ever make one? Of course—who hasn't? After such a bid, the laws provide that, if you correct it with the lowest sufficient bid of the same declaration, your partner must pass on his next turn; if you correct it any other way, he must pass throughout. In actual experience, the corrected bid you make is usually the last one of the auction, so justifies all the thought you can give it before selecting it.

That bidding table will look slightly haywire to you. It is haywire, but it is exactly what happened. North was so excited by his partner's big two-bid when he held all that bunch of good stuff himself, that he got discombobulated. He went still more up in the air when he heard West bid 3-Clubs.

"Now," he enthused to himself, "I can let my partner know all about my blank in clubs, my perfect diamond fit and the fact that it looks like a slam to me. I can bid the opponent's club suit."

While reflecting briefly on that, and recalling his partner's bid of 2-Diamonds, he quickly decided, "Yes, 3-Clubs is the thing to bid." So he bid it.

"Insufficient bid!" hollered both East and West. "You have to make it sufficient."

"Oh, yes," he answered, "4-Clubs."

It was only then that he recalled the law, as it was recalled to him—his partner must pass on his next turn. West, of course, passed too, instead of doubling and giving the opponents a chance to get back on the track.

The 4-Clubs got set three tricks, whereas grand slam could have been made in either hearts or diamonds. North said that, if he had taken time to think, he would have bid at least 6-Diamonds and might have taken a chance on grand slam.

Yugoslavia's King May Accept Marshal Tito As Premier

LONDON, Jan. 4 — (CP) — King Peter of Yugoslavia is expected within the next 48 hours to agree to formation of a new government headed by Marshal Tito as premier, with Dr. Ivan Subasic stepping down from that position but retaining the foreign ministry.

King Peter may also agree to establishment of a regency, less than a week after George II of Greece made a similar decision.

King Peter apparently has no choice but to remain in exile until a plebiscite is held, accepting a three-man regency submitted to him for his approval, even though this would be tantamount to relinquishing his throne.

Tito and Subasic agreed on the regency and formation of a federal democratic government, several months ago.

King Peter promised months ago not to return to Yugoslavia until summoned by his people after a free election. He gave some indication of his failing hopes when he purchased a home in the English countryside.

King Peter has considerable wealth in the United States, including $1,000,000 in insurance left by his father.

Since his marriage last March to Princess Alexandra of Greece, which caused a rupture in relations between Peter and his mother, Queen Marie, the young monarch, at the suggestion of his advisers, has kept out of political activity.

The disaster, caused when a mail-express train piled into the rear of the Pacific Limited, took a toll of at least 51 lives and injured more than 100 passengers. (International Soundphoto)

Crediton Merchant Pays High Tribute To Syntona

Suffered Constantly With Acid, Upset Stomach; Gas, Nausea and Heartburn. Had Pains in Shoulders and Arms. Nerves Were Tense —Couldn't Sleep.

MR. FREEMAN MORLOCK

The sponsors wish to acknowledge the many encouraging reports recently received and are happy to know that this great herbal compound is bringing better health and happiness to so many local men and women whom the readers of this page know personally. To-day, we take pleasure in quoting the experience of Mr. Freeman W. Morlock, well-known shoe merchant of Crediton, Ontario. Read this sincere statement:

"In the past year or so I suffered greatly with acid indigestion, gas and heartburn. I was subject to sharp cramps and there was almost constantly a full, uncomfortable feeling in my stomach and chest. After eating there seemed to be a lump in my throat and sour liquids would rise from my stomach and make me feel nauseated. More recently, pains set into my shoulders and arms, and my nerves began to trouble me so I couldn't sleep well.

"I was advised to take a good tonic and having heard about how Syntona helped friends of mine, I began taking it a few weeks ago. In that short time Syntona has done for me everything that was claimed for it. I can eat heartily now and my food digests without any of the former trouble. I got relief from the rheumatism in my shoulders and arms, my nerves are more relaxed and I sleep better. I think Syntona is a grand medicine, and I have already recommended it to many of my friends."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

Hospital Ship Letitia Has 700 Canadian Wounded

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX, Jan. 4—(CP)—Casualties from all the Canadian battlefronts of Europe streamed ashore Wednesday from the Canadian hospital ship Letitia as she disembarked her complement at the end of her second trip as a casualty transport.

Carrying more than 700 invalided fighting men, the Letitia arrived in port late yesterday. Today, the soldiers, sailors and airmen were being placed aboard hospital trains bound for their homes from coast to coast.

There were veterans of the western front fighting who had been wounded in spots all the way from the Normandy beaches to Holland, survivors of the Italian scrapping, shot-down fliers and men returned because of injuries or illness suffered in England. The bulk of the casualties were from the western front.

A wearer of the Military Cross was Capt. Jim Flintoft of Montreal, who won the decoration while fighting with the Royal Canadian Artillery's 14th Field Regiment in the struggle for Carpiquet airport in France.

"But don't ask me why I got it," he said. "I haven't seen the citation yet, and it's still a mystery to me. Anyway, it's nothing to make a fuss over. My commanding officer collected three of them."

Capt. Flintoft was knocked out by the explosion of an ammunition truck which was hit by a Nazi shell 25 yards from him near Tilly La Compagne. He lost his left foot.

A five-year man returning was Sgt. George Wakeford of Owen Sound, Ont., who had enough narrow escapes between D-Day and Sept. 17 to last him for life.

"The fourth strike was out for me," he said, a German bullet went through the shoulder cloth of his jacket. Then one snipped the leather chinstrap of his helmet. A third nicked his ear.

Finally, he was hit by shrapnel outside Boulogne. The shell fragment broke his spine and left him paralyzed for a time, but now he is getting around again.

Like many another souvenir-hunting soldier, Sgt. Wakeford had his moments of affluence at the front. Once, he and some companions nailed a Nazi paymaster and got his valise with 500,000 francs in it.

"Here I was," he recalled, "walking around with 90,000 francs on me and with no more use for it than if it was ten cents. No place to spend it." Eventually, he left the roll behind and returned to Britain with 250 francs.

A dead-eye tank gunner who had knocked out 14 German tanks before they finally got him, Trp. Paul A. Paquette of Kirkland Lake, Ont., was returning home with a leg wound.

Gunning with the Sherbrooke Tank Regiment, Tpr. Paquette ran up his score against Nazi Panzer tanks and Mark IV's in France. In all the battles, only once was his tank knocked out. That time, three Panzer tanks surrounded his crew and polished off the tank.

A sniper got Paquette 20 miles outside Antwerp.

Bancroft News

PO. Rodney Robinson, who has been at sea for the past few months, arrived home Monday to spend a leave with his mother, Mrs. R. W. Robinson of Bancroft.

Miss Marie McAlpine of Toronto returned home Tuesday, having spent the holiday with relatives in town.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Mitchell left for Kingston Tuesday morning, to consult a specialist, as Mrs. Mitchell has been in poor health lately.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Fuller attended the funeral of the late Mr. Leo Doyle of Bancroft, which took place at Campbell's Bay, Quebec, Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goodkey and Doreen are spending this week in Toronto with relatives.

Miss Vivian Stringer, Reg.N., who recently was on the staff of the Red Cross Hospital at Kapuskasing, Ontario, is now spending a vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Stringer of Bancroft.

Dr. and Mrs. S. S. Lumb, Peggy Lumb, left over the week-end for Oshawa, where Dr. Lumb received word that his father, Mr. Eli Lumb, had suffered a broken hip.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Vance on New Year's Day, at the local Red Cross Hospital, a daughter.

Mr. William McCarthy of Boulter was rushed to the Bancroft hospital New Year's day suffering severe cuts to his hand, and was attended by Dr. O. W. Anderson. Mr. McCarthy was sawing wood with a buzz saw and happened to turn away from the saw table for a moment when a stick of wood struck his hand shoving it into the path of the saw. The blade tore into his hand between the thumb and index finger and also badly lacerated two other fingers. Mr. McCarthy will remain in the hospital a few days under observation.

Bancroft hockey fans are banking everything on the local puck chasers who have started off the season by defeating Coe Hill 14 to 2 and Maynooth Monday night 6 to 4.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Sutherland and family spent New Year's with relatives in Peterborough.

Mr. Herman Vardy left Wednesday morning for Toronto, where he will be employed with the Curran and Briggs Construction Company for the winter months.

Mr. Alec Scott, accountant at the Bank of Nova Scotia, Bancroft, is temporary acting manager, because of the vacancy caused by the sudden death of Mr. Leo Doyle.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Goodwin and FO. Don Goodwin of Maynooth, left Monday for Picton, where they will spend a few days with relatives.

The local Department of Highways are working double shifts endeavoring to keep Highways 60, 62, and 28 clear for traffic, which they have managed to do so far despite almost a daily fall of snow. Monday's high winds have again blocked side roads.

Dewey Demands Completion Deep Waterway

ALBANY, N.Y., Jan. 4—(CP)—Completion by the State of New York in co-operation with Canada and Ontario of the St. Lawrence seaway power project "if the Federal administration is unable or unwilling to proceed" was recommended to-day by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in a message to the opening of the 1945 State Legislature.

Among other recommendations of the Governor were the "locking up" of an expected $150,000,000 state surplus, along with $163,060,000 previously accumulated, for a broadened post-war construction program which would include an $800,000,000 long-term highway program and a $100,000,000 departmental building program. He also proposed salary increases for all state employees and legislators.

Recommending that New York State "continue vigorously to assert its substantial rights and interests in the St. Lawrence development," Gov. Dewey said of the project:

"For years I have advocated the completion of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project. During the past decade the means have been found and billions in federal funds have been appropriated to develop great rivers in other sections of the country for power, navigation, flood control, irrigation and like purposes.

"The incomparable resources of the St. Lawrence river should no longer be wasted. If the federal administration is unwilling to proceed, then the State of New York itself should undertake to complete the project of a self-liquidating basis, in co-operation with the Dominion of Canada and the Province of Ontario."

Naval Command May Be Divided

LONDON, Jan. 4 (CP-Reuters)—The death of Admiral Sir Bertram Ramsay, Allied naval commander-in-chief in Europe, in a plane crash yesterday may lead to the division of this post into separate commands, it is believed in naval circles here.

The Allied naval commander is responsible for all shipping between the United States and Europe and between this country and Europe.

It might be practicable to divide the command into an operational one concerned mainly with the Antwerp zone, another dealing with the channel and a third with the Atlantic. The bulk of the supply would come under a purely administrative commander.

However, should a new Allied commander-in-chief be appointed to succeed Admiral Ramsay, the man most widely-suited for the post is Admiral Sir John Cunningham, now Allied naval commander-in-chief in the Mediterranean.

Admiral Cunningham's war sphere has come largely to an end owing to the elimination of the enemy navies from that area.

MOVING UP ON GERMAN FRONT IN THE GRAY DAWN — Breaking camp and preparing to move deeper into Germany, Allied infantrymen put on their equipment while the smoke of their cook fires rises into the gray morning mists.

Hun Counter Continues In Hungary

Reds Hard Pressed To Hold Against Panzer Units

MOSCOW, Jan. 5 — (AP). — Russian forces were reported grimly holding off German armored attacks supported by hundreds of planes today in the Soviet-held corridor, once 30 miles deep, northwest of beleaguered Budapest.

The German panzer thrust down from the Danube, west of the big Danube bend, entered its third day. It appeared daringly designed to liberate remnants of the nine Nazi divisions trapped in the Hungarian capital.

Inside Budapest Russian storm forces for the eighth day gained more ground and now have occupied 1,400 city blocks since the initial attack last Friday, a Soviet communique said.

The German counter-offensive northwest of the city was fed by panzer and air force reserves brought directly from Germany, the Russians said, and they were flung recklessly into battle in a desperate bid to break the Soviet siege line clamped around the capital.

A Red Star frontline dispatch said waves of German tanks beat against Russian defences in the Vertes Hills and along the right bank of the Danube. Nazi formations of 15 to 50 fighter-bombers stabbed repeatedly at Red Army ground positions.

In spite of the reported loss yesterday of 58 aircraft, the Luftwaffe swarmed into action again today. They were intercepted by Russian fighters.

The Russians have estimated that six panzer divisions, augmented by several panzer grenadier divisions have been thrown into this Nazi counter-attack, which as yet shows no signs of abating.

Russian reports insist the enemy has failed thus far to make any real breach in Marshal Feodor Tolbukhin's front, though paying a high price in manpower and equipment.

Meanwhile inside the flaming capital, roughly one-third of Pest was believed mopped up by Malinovsky, while three-quarters of Buda on the west bank was reported under Soviet control.

Canadians Attack

LONDON, Jan. 5.—(CP Cable.)—The German News Agency claimed to-day that Canadian troops attacked the town of Hemme, about seven miles northwest of Nijmegen, Holland, with flame-throwers and tanks and "at the price of heavy casualties succeeded in penetrating to the ruins of the town."

British Capture Akyab City Without Battle

KANDY, Ceylon, Jan. 5 —(CP)— The city of Akyab, third largest port of Burma and for two years an important Japanese supply base, has fallen to British and Indian seaborne forces, Allied Headquarters announced today.

A communique said the attackers had swarmed ashore on Akyab Island—on which the city is situated—early Wednesday morning without encountering any opposition.

Akyab, which has a normal population of about 40,000 and is situated at the mouth of the Kaladan River on the Burmese west coast, has been a prime objective of the Allied drive in southwest Burma. The Japanese were reported to have had about 1,000 troops on the island at one time, but they evacuated the garrison and most of their weapons the night before the Allied landings.

The retreating Japanese left behind many booby traps and mines.

In withdrawing they tried to take some of the coolie class of the local population, but many of the educated middle class rebelled and threatened to resist with guns buried by the British when they retreated in 1942.

The Allied landing forces struck from three directions, some landing on the northern beaches from naval craft, some crossing a four-mile stretch of water from Foul Point on the mainland and others crossing in local boats from Kudaung Island to the east.

The operation represented a leapfrog advance of about 25 miles for the British forces, which only a few days ago occupied Rathedaung, on the coast northwest of Akyab.

Town Of Granarolo Cleared Of Huns In Northern Italy

By WILLIAM BOSS
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS ON THE ADRIATIC, Jan. 5 — (CP-Cable). — Canadian troops, smashing hard at the Germans in the Canadian Adriatic sector, have cleared the town of Granarolo, five miles north-east of captured Faenza, in almost eliminating an enemy pocket on the Senio River's east bank and established a bridgehead over the Bonifaca Canal, south of San Alberto on Lake Commachio, at the front's northern end

In addition, the Canadians south of the lake, which is 10 miles north of captured Ravenna, smashed a powerful enemy counter-attack and inflicted about 500 casualties on a crack German regiment. These included at least 400 prisoners.

The Canadians co-operated with British formations in attacking the Germans' Senio bulge on Wednesday night. They forced the Germans behind the Naviglio and the Vecchio Canals, roughly paralleling the Senio and the enemy finally withdrew over the Senio, leaving behind only a small pocket east of Cotignola, on the Senio six miles north-east of Faenza.

Men Haul Guns.

Granarolo was cleared yesterday morning after a night of stiff fighting during which infantrymen had to cross a railroad and the Naviglio and Vecchio Canals. The town was entered by Alberta infantrymen.

Anti-tank guns had to be manhandled cross the country, each being hauled by 30 men.

A smashed enemy counter-attack was made by 4 battalions against a sector north-west of the Granarolo area held by British Columbia infantry and British infantry. The troops held their fire until the Germans were within 15 feet of their Vickers guns and literally cut the enemy in two.

Some Germans managed to infiltrate the British and Canadian positions, but were counter-attacked by Toronto infantrymen under Capt. Herbert Henry of Toronto.

Farther downstream, two miles south-east of San Alberto, a tank squadron under Maj. J. E. Cook of Armstrong, B.C., and companies of Western Ontario infantry under Captains D. Cook of London, Ont., and Peter Fisher of Toronto seized a bridge over the Bonifaca intact. They crossed after wiping out 21 Germans who tried to oppose the crossing and took the other Germans prisoner.

Hun Corridor Narrowed To 12 Miles

Montgomery Heads All Forces Along North Flank

By JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Jan. 5 (AP) — Veteran British infantry and armor thrown into the Belgian bulge counter-attack by Field Marshal Montgomery, commanding all Allied forces on the north side of the salient, has gained up to 2,000 yards all along its front.

This was disclosed at Supreme headquarters today along with the fact that the U.S. 1st and 9th Armies have been under Montgomery's command since Dec. 20, when the Germans were threatening to break the Allies' western front forces in half.

While the British forces gained on the north today, the German attack into northwestern France against the U.S. 7th Army developed into a full offensive with a drive forward for two more miles southeast of Bitche—close to 15 miles inside France and within 12 miles of the Saverne Gap, the key to Strasbourg.

Bradley in South

Lt.-Gen. Omar N. Bradley, American commander of the 12th Army group, was disclosed in charge of all Allied forces on the south side of the bulge. Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton's 3rd Army is a chief element of this command.

(A Washington announcement said one 7th Army division was included under Gen. Bradley's command.)

Gen. Bradley's command formerly included the 1st and 9th Armies.

British 2nd Army tanks and infantry went into action yesterday at the northwestern tip of the Von Rundstedt salient and reached Waha in a push of 1,500 yards.

The drive in continuing, field dispatches said, and netted up to 2,000 yards all along its front from Marche to the right flank of the U.S. 1st Army to the east.

Other British units attacked the Germans on the outskirts of newly-captured Bure and Wavreille, south of Rochefort at the western end of the salient.

The British troops were rushed to

Plan To Extend Post-War Diplomatic Jobs

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Jan. 5—(CP)—Plans for an effective Canadian foreign service after the war are taking shape as a constantly-increasing flow of war-induced business with other countries calls for steady expansion and frequent adjustments in the set-up of the External Affairs Department.

In the shaping of these plans three main considerations are kept to the fore:

1. International politics and business as between governments will bulk much larger in the post-war period than they have in the past if success is attained in creating the kind of international organization now considered necessary to maintenance of peace and furtherance of the prosperity of all nations.
2. Canada's influence and stake in international affairs will be much greater than before the war.
3. Economic and trade matters vitally affecting Canada will be more closely linked with diplomatic and political matters than ever.

Yugoslav Units Enter Austria

LONDON, Jan. 5—(CP)—Yugoslav Partisan forces have crossed the Austrian border and are menacing a German arc between Klagenfurt and Graz, Marshal Tito announced today.

In a broadcast communique heard in London, Tito said the Partisans had cut the Maribor-Graz railway line "in many places," apparently in the areas of Wildon, Leibnitz and Ehrenhausen.

In addition, the announcement said, the rail line from Maribor to Dravograd, paralleling the border just inside Yugoslava, was destroyed "over a long stretch." This line crosses the border less than 10 miles west of Dravograd and leads thence to Klagenfurt.

Graz lies 26 miles inside Austria opposite the junction of the Yugoslav, Hungarian and Austrian borders. Klagenfurt, 63 miles to the southwest, is 13 miles from the frontier.

The Maribor-Graz railway has been used by the Germans to supply troops both in Northern Yugoslavia and on the opposite side of the Drava River in Hungary, where the Russians have driven to within less than 50 miles of the Austrian frontier southwest of Lake Balaton.

Maribor is a rail junction about 10 miles inside the Yugoslav border.

Tito said other attacks were made on the railway running between Lujbljana and Jesenice, just inside Yugoslavia parallel to the Italian frontier. A locomotive and several railway cars were destroyed there.

An Early Spring?

KITCHENER, Jan. 5 (CP). — First prediction of the year (?). An early spring is in the offing says Public Utility Commissioner A. J. (Jim) Cundick, who is a well known local weather prophet. Jim says he uses the Walpole Indian method to reach his deductions and added mild weather in February is assured as well as an early spring.

Bombers Harass Nazi Positions

LONDON, Jan. 5—(AP). — Allied bombers blasted a communications centre on the northern flank of the German bulge in Belgium and raked Nazi positions behind the front in a full-scale assault today.

Holland-based Mitchells and Bostons of the RAF 2nd Tactical Air Force raided a concentration of German material near St. Vith before noon.

Huge formations of U.S. 8th Air Force heavy bombers jabbed at rail and road centres despite thick clouds which obscured targets.

Shortly after noon a new wave of heavies, probably RAF Lancasters or Halifaxes, was reported heading toward the Reich before the American raiders returned from their mission.

The tremendous daylight activity by bomber fleets followed two night raids on Berlin and a surprise blow on Nazi troops entrenched along the Bay of Biscay between Bordeaux and La Rochelle by RAF heavies.

Two waves of RAF Lancasters bombed Nazi troops, artillery and supply dumps in France's southwestern coastal region still held by the enemy, and first reports indicated the attacks were well concentrated. The bombers struck near Royan at the mouth of the Gironde River 50 miles north of Bordeaux.

Earlier in the night RAF Mosquitos raided Berlin twice, and in daylight yesterday American heavies hammered Nazi communications along the Brenner Pass railway line which extends from Northern Italy to Southern Germany.

Greek Situation Appears Worse

LONDON, Jan. 5—(CP).—The Liberal News-Chronicle charged today that the new Premier of Greece, Gen. Nicholas Plastiras, evidently regarded himself as dictator "with the backing of British bayonets."

The paper attacked Plastiras' statement that ELAS forces must obey orders of Lt.-Gen. Ronald M. Scobie, British commander in Greece, before parleys to end the civil strife began. This "makes nonsense of Churchill's visit to Greece," it said.

The London Times also took a gloomy view of the situation, saying that the new Greek government "apparently has been constituted in complete divorce, or at least in separation of, the EAM and ELAS."

Scobie Cancels Peace Talks With Rebels

By STEPHEN BARBER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ATHENS, Jan. 5 — (AP). — Further discussions with Left-Wing E.L.A.S. leaders concerning their political grievances were barried by the new Greek government today pending E.L.A.S. compliance with the military terms of Lt.-Gen. Ronald M. Scobie, British commander in Greece.

Scobie, whose troops now are fighting to drive E.L.A.S. forces from Athens, has demanded that the Leftists lay down their arms and leave the capital.

The new government's stand was stated by Foreign Minister John Sofianopoulos, who made it plain that the first goal of Premier Gen. Nicholas Plastiras is to "impose law and order."

Sofianopoulos said that if Scobie's terms are accepted as "a sign of the E.L.A.S.' good faith," the Plastiras government would welcome a parley.

"It is hoped that new approaches may be made," he declared, "but for contact to come it is essential that the military terms be accepted."

Sofianopoulos added that laying down of arms by the E.L.A.S. in the Athens area would be only a starting point, and the "obviously laying down of arms in all Greece is the next step." He emphasized that the E.L.A.S. represented a "minority."

By making acceptance of Scobie's terms a prerequisite to further talks concerning the political setup in Greece, Sofianopoulos followed a line almost identical with that pursued by the previous cabinet of George Papandreou.

Reassurances concerning the intentions of the new government also were offered the Left-Wingers by Sofianopoulos, who said there never had been any serious danger of a Rightist coup.

"If those suspicions ever had a serious foundation, they could be still less entertained today," said the Foreign Minister," "with the regency established and a formation of a Democratic Leftist government presided over by a man with an irreproachable Democratic past."

EXTRA!

LONDON — Prime Minister Churchill conferred today with Gen. Eisenhower and Field Marshal Montgomery.

LONDON—The Berlin radio reported today that the Red Army was massing troops in the Vistula bridgehead area 120 miles south of Warsaw and was again probing German lines along the Polish front.

Reds Recognize Lublin Group

LONDON, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Russia today announced recognition of the Polish provisional government of Lublin, making a clean break with the Polish government in London, which still is recognized by Britain and the United States.

Bringing to a head one of the thorniest questions facing the impending Big Three parley, the broadcast announcement came within four days of the joint announcement by Britain and the United States that they stood by the London Polish government.

Maintains Stand

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 — (AP). — The United States today reiterated its recognition of the Polish government in London despite Russian recognition of the new Polish regime at Lublin as a "provisional government."

The state department announced in reply to inquiries that it had received advance notice from the Russian government of the Soviet action.

Asked for additional comment, a department spokesman referred to a statement issued by Secretary of State Stettinius last Monday and said there was nothing to add to it.

In that statement Stettinius asserted:

"This government continues to maintain formal diplomatic relations with the Polish government in exile in London."

Soviet Ambassador Gromyko called at the state department at 4 p.m. yesterday but officials declined to say whether he then brought the advance notice of today's action in Moscow.

Out For Season

Allies Expected Hun Attack To Be Weaker

By LEWIS HAWKINS
Associated Press War Correspondent

WITH THE U.S. 3RD ARMY, Jan. 5 — (AP). — The pile of second guesses on the ugly Christmas present the Germans handed the Allies already is that high and growing steadily.

This reporter has no fancy theories to toss on the stack, but after listening to soldiers high and low, including some of those overrun in the first rush, here are some conclusions held by a good many men charged with planning and fighting the war in these parts:

1. Neither the time nor the place of the German offensive was a surprise to Allied leaders. Its scale was.
2. Nowhere along the Western Front were Allied lines as thin as they were in Luxembourg and the southeast corner of Belgium, where one division's sector ran many miles. It had been that way a long time; Allied chiefs knew the Germans knew it, and the point of attack was a natural.
3. With the Roer River in the north and the Siegfried Line in the south greatly slowing the United States 1st and 3rd Armies, the Germans were able to relieve some of the divisions and add to their reserves for a push. After months of defeat, Hitler desperately needed good news before winter set in in earnest, and so the time was ripe.
4. The thinness in the area was what is known in the military trade as a "calculated risk."
5. Gen. Eisenhower and associates have been taking such calculated risks all across France, but you never hear much about them until they go sour.
6. The Allied bosses knew the Germans had between 20 and 30 divisions in reserve for such a punch, but what they didn't know was that

Roads Are Blocked So Boat Is Used

MEAFORD, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Unable to reach Meaford over blocked roads for badly needed supplies, George Smith and his son Norman of St. Vincent township, rowed three and a half miles across storm-swept Georgian Bay to Meaford yesterday in a 14-foot punt.

With their small craft loaded to capacity with food supplies the fishermen set out for home in the teeth of a "nor'wester" which was blowing down the lake. And it took them just one hour and ten minutes to reach home, a feat marvelled at by veteran fishermen.

Two U.S. Armies Under Monty

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 —(AP)— Field Marshall Montgomery has been given command of the U.S. 9th Army and most of the U.S. 1st Army as a result of the emergency created by the German breakthrough in Belgium and Luxembourg.

Making this known today, the war department spokesman said continuance of the arrangement will be left to the discretion of General Eisenhower, Supreme Allied Commander.

Assignment of the 9th and portions of the 1st Armies to Field Marshal Montgomery left Lt.-Gen. Omar N. Bradley's 12th Army group command with the 3rd Army and elements of the 1st Army and other units which were pushed to the south by the German assault.

The change gave Montgomery command of all forces, including British 2nd and 1st Canadian Armies, on the north flank of the German salient. Gen. Bradley commands the forces on the south.

Australia's Part Not Told

McArthur Fails To Mention Australian Actions

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 — (AP). — Percy Claude Spender, member of the Australian war council, said yesterday that communiques from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters were placing Australia and its war effort in a false light.

"Before I left Australia," Mr. Spender said in an interview, "I was of the opinion that communiques covering Australian operations in the southwest Pacific should be issued by the Australian commander-in-chief in Australia, or, at least, if the communiques are to be composite ones, that the part played by Australian forces should be made quite clear.

"At the present, Australian operations are covered by a general communique issued by Gen. MacArthur in the Philippines. These communiques refer to 'our troops', 'our bombers', or 'our fighters', and that Australian military forces are engaged in the operations is in no way apparent. . . .

" . . . I don't think any communique has ever been issued about the current important operations of the Australian troops in the area just north of Australia, and until such time as one is, no comment can be made by any of the correspondents in the area."

Great Belgium Battle Nears Showdown

Believe Allies Shaping Huge Pincers To Annihilate Hun Army

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

If we accept the view of German military experts, the Allied attack on the northern shoulder of the Belgian bulge is the start of a major counter-offensive which is calculated "to hit the German armies decisively in a big pincers operation."

That is to say, the Berlin view is that Gen. Eisenhower is bent on driving a wedge southward to join the salient which Lt.-Gen. Patton has thrust northward in the Bastogne zone. This would close Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's avenue of retreat from the western part of the bulge and a large force of Germans would be trapped.

That's a delectable morsel to roll under the Allied tongue, and certainly it's the Allied ambition to inflict just such a disaster on the Germans. However, while it's all right to recognize this fact, we mustn't overlook the stern realities of the present moment.

The battle of the bulge, which bids fair to be one of the great and bloody engagements of the war, hasn't by any means hit its peak. It is growing in intensity hourly but it's in such a state of flux that no man at this moment can forecast developments, although there's no doubt that the Allies will win ultimately.

Probably it's true that the long-range objective of the U. S. 1st army counter-attack, in which British 2nd army elements are participating, is to join up with Patton's drive from the south and so create a sack. However, as pointed out in yesterday's column, Lt.-Gen. Hodges' initial purpose is to relieve pressure on Patton and to disrupt any possibility of Von Rundstedt breaking out through that northern shoulder of the bulge and reaching the all-important Allied communications centre of Liege, and perhaps the port of Antwerp upon which Eisenhower is so largely dependent.

Whether Eisenhower is going "all-out" in his present operations remains to be seen. One would expect him to make his maximum effort when Von Rundstedt had fully committed his forces to the battle of the bulge, for the Allied commander's purpose is to annihilate as many of the enemy as possible. Von Rundstedt has been moving fresh troops and armor into the bulge, and it may be that the field is set for the show-down.

Buffalo Opposes Waterway

Claims Project Will Divert Commerce

BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 5 —(AP)— Governor Dewey's support of the proposed St. Lawrence seaway and power project was called "incredible" and "very disturbing" in statements issued yesterday by officials of the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce and the Niagara Frontier Industrial Traffic League.

Ralph M. Andrews, Chamber of Commerce vice president, said the seaway proposal represents "an attack upon the livelihood of thousands of workers in the waterfront and transportation industries of Buffalo."

President William J. Holehouse of the Traffic League assented the seaway would divert commerce from all New York State ports and transportation lines, and "Governor Dewey should rather be one of the most ardent objectors to this attack on the economy of New York State."

In a message to the state legislature Wednesday, Gov. Dewey proposed that if the federal government does not complete the St. Lawrence, New York, in co-operation with Canada and the Province of Ontario, should do so.

Germans Teach Allies Costly Lesson

WITH UNITED STATES FORCES, Belgium, Jan. 2 (Delayed by Censor)—(AP) — The announced score of 363 German planes destroyed on New Year's Day by Allied anti-aircraft and fighters, representing the biggest single day's aerial toll of the war, recalled to the Allies two painful lessons.

It taught them that anti-aircraft pays for itself in protecting airfields and that planes parked at the fields always must be dispersed.

Ack-ack crews claimed 208 planes destroyed, with about 81 more probables—in itself a new anti-aircraft record. An army spokesman said the crews checked their claims carefully and the figures had been accepted.

Took Own Time

Allied airfields unprotected by anti-aircraft guns suffered far more damage than others. Apparently aware of the unguarded nature of some RAF fields, Luftwaffe pilots took their own time making strafing and bombing runs. The resultant destruction proved once again how such freedom for concentration on a job pays big dividends for the attacking planes.

No reason was given why such airfields were left unprotected other than the assumption that superior Allied air strength had been relied upon to stave off any enemy air assaults. But the Germans slipped in low and fast and caught most of the fields completely by surprise.

In addition to that, despite the costly lessons of the last two or three years, some of the same fields had planes parked wing-tip to wing-tip without the slightest attempt at dispersal, thus the German planes could destroy or damage dozens of Allied aircraft with single strafing runs. Had the planes been scattered around the airfield sector, it would have been almost an individual run for each plane.

Again in this instance, the only explanation seemed to have been overconfidence in Allied air strength, which never yet has been able to keep occasional low-flying enemy raiders from scoring. It can be made to prove too costly to be worth while—as it did yesterday—but that does not restore lost planes.

The Allies had this hammered home to them twice in the Mediterranean theatre during the last year and a half, once in Italy and again on Corsica, when closely parked aircraft suffered terrific losses, inflicted by comparatively few enemy planes.

'Hogtown Halo' Irks New Mayor

TORONTO, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Mayor Robert Saunders is out to rid Toronto of its "hogtown halo" in Ontario.

"I am writing a letter to every mayor and reeve in Ontario advising them that we shall be glad to assist them in every way possible when they're in Toronto on official business," the new mayor said today. "We will provide them with the services of a member of the city clerk's office to assist them in a secretarial capacity and if we are advised in advance we will arrange hotel accommodation for them."

the front at the first sign of danger to Liege when Von Rundstedt launched his offensive and backstopped American lines until yesterday, when they went on the offensive, Roger Greene, Associated Press war correspondent, said in a front dispatch.

Six Allied and German armies thus were committed to the grinding battle being fought in drifting snow, fog and miserable terrain—some of the worst fighting conditions of the war—and the Allied assault on the German north flank was broadened to 35 miles.

21 Mile Front.

With slow, steady gains on a 17-mile front on the north side of the salient, the U.S. 1st Army in its three-day old attack had whittled down the German gap between Bastogne and Grandmenil to scarcely 12 miles.

On the south side of the salient held by three German armies, the United States 3rd Army turned back 17 fierce German counter-attacks to-day but its front was substantially unchanged.

(Berlin radio claimed the Germans had broken through the Allied line at Sarreguemines on a 25-mile front and had "cleared the old German Reich area between the Saar (river) and the Upper Rhine" of United States 7th Army troops.)

Berlin said yet a fourth Allied army, the U.S. 9th Army, had been brought from the Aachen area to bolster a pile-driver attack, but Allied Supreme Headquarters had no comment on this report.

(A field dispatch said the U.S. 3rd Army had driven off 17 separate German counter-attacks within the 24-hour period ended at 6 a.m. today.)

Moving up under terrible conditions in which tanks stalled on icy slopes and slithered downhill, tearing out the telephone communications at the sides of the roads, Hodges' men had plowed forward as much as 3½ miles for their maximum gain on a front which extended from Beffe, eight miles east of Marche, to Bergeval, four miles southwest of Stavelot.

LONDON—A Paris broadcast recorded here today quoted "an official American announcement" as saying that the Allies now have 72 divisions on the western front while the Germans have no operational reserves available.

WITH MONARCH LIFE—George W. Heron has been recently appointed district manager of the Monarch Life Assurance Co. for Peterborough, according to an announcement today by G. C. Cumming, general manager. Mr. Heron, who is a veteran of the First Great War, and who served in the air-force in the present war, has eight years' experience in the life insurance business and is a capable and qualified underwriter.

Cattle Prices Down Slightly; Receipts Light

TORONTO, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Cattle prices were 25 cents cwt. or more lower than last week on steers and heifers, in trade on the Livestock Market here this week. Receipts were light owing to the snow-blocked roads. Buyers were reported out to lower cattle prices; the modest supply moved slowly with 900 carried over from Tuesday. Light Wednesday receipts allowed a fair cleanup but several loads of weighty steers were unsold at the close.

Calves were strong. Hogs, lambs and sheep were steady.

During the week weighty steers sold at $11 to $12.50 with one load at a top of $13. Butcher steers were $9 to $11.50, with heifers $11 down. Butcher cows were steady at $7.25-$9.25, with canners downward to $5.50. Bulls sold from $6.50 to $8.50. Fed yearlings were $11.85 to $12.50. There were no stockers in the sales. Milkers and springers were quoted at $130 to $150 for tops.

Calves sold at $16 to $17 for the choice, with common light vealers downward to $10.

The few lambs offered sold steady at $13 to $13.50 for good ewes and wethers, with culls downward to $7. Sheep were $2.50 to $5 cwt, according to quality.

Hogs were $18.35 for Grade A and $17.95 for Grade B1 dressed. Sows were $13.25 dressed.

Weekly summary of receipts:

| | Cattle | Calves | Hogs | Sheep & Lambs |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| This week .. | 3204 | 342 | 1234 | 556 |
| Last week .. | 3000 | 730 | 2600 | 900 |

Plan To Extend

barked upon was the co-ordination of the trade commissioner service of the Trade and Commerce department with diplomatic and consular services of the External Affairs department.

Young men entering government service for work in missions abroad—a number now are being selected from the armed forces—will be trained and qualified for service as trade commissioners, consuls or secretaries in missions.

A new crop of junior and permanent officials is being started by the selection of suitable material from members of the forces. Some of those selected require further university training which is available to them under the Veterans' Rehabilitation Educational Plan.

At the top a possible post-war development is the appointment of a separate Minister for External Affairs. So far the Department has been headed by the Prime Minister and because of the close relation of external affairs to high government policy that arrangement is likely to continue during the war and throughout the transition period.

More Consuls.

Development coming when suitable officials are available include appointment of new chiefs for the two existing diplomatic divisions and possibly a further creation of new divisions, perhaps a Latin-American division and a Far Eastern division separate from that dealing with the United States. The Commonwealth and European division might be divided into two sections.

As yet Canada has not gone in heavily for consular representation abroad. There is a Consul-General at New York but consulates in other cities, both in the United States and elsewhere, are in contemplation.

With an increase of $500,000 in appropriation for the commercial intelligence service voted at the last session of parliament, the Trade and Commerce Department is expanding its trade commissioner service which from now on will be closely co-ordinated with external affairs.

Included in the Trade and Commerce Department plans are the appointment of trade specialists who will make themselves familiar with particular Canadian commodities available for export and the markets for them.

Also being considered is the employment of officials skilled in investigating methods of production and marketing in other countries with a view to providing useful information for Canadian producers and exporters.

Drew On Radio Pleads For Conference Soon

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP)—Premier Drew of Ontario urged the people of the province last night in a radio address to do "everything you can to urge" that a Dominion-provincial conference be called without delay to discuss co-operation in dealing with post-war and other problems.

In a speech broadcast over two Toronto stations, the premier said such a conference is just as important for Canadians as the 1944 conferences of several of the United Nations at Dumbarton Oaks and Bretton Woods.

"Although the head of every provincial government in Canada has indicated his desire for a Dominion-provincial conference to prepare plans for tackling of our post-war jobs, the Dominion Government has refused to call such a conference.

"I am placing the facts before you because this is a matter of the utmost concern to every Canadian. Since taking office....I have been pressing constantly for a Dominion-provincial conference to discuss the measures which should be taken to provide for the rehabilitation of the members of our armed forces, the re-employment of our munitions workers, the organization of reconstruction projects and the establishments of the most effective basis of social security...."

The premier referred to a recent ban of the Ontario Department of Education on distribution to schools of material of which it had not approved and said an "anonymous spokesman" for the office of Prime Minister Mackenzie King suggested "this had been done because of the circulation through our schools of a radio speech by the prime minister of Canada."

The Ontario direction went out for "a very different reason." It was because of inaccuracies in information about Ontario in a circular issued by the Wartime Information Board which "would have been most unfortunate to place in the hands of the pupils in our schools."

Drew Pearson In Trouble Again

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 — (AP). —State Secretary Stettinius said to-day Britain and the United States are "in basic agreement" on aiding Italy, but are still working on how to go about it.

Bringing Anglo-American Italian policy up to date from the time last September when President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill enunciated a policy of assistance to the co-belligerent country, Mr. Stettinius issued a statment at his news conference which said in part:

"There have been no major differences between the British and ourselves in these discussions and they have resulted in substantial agreement between the two governments...."

Mr. Stettinius' statement was prompted by publication by columnist Drew Pearson of parts of a memorandum on Anglo-American Italian policy submitted to the State Department last August 22 by the Earl of Halifax, British Ambassador to the United States.

"The document," Mr. Stettinius said, "is part of the confidential records of the department. The unauthorized publication of any part of it is in the highest degree regrettable and the matter is being pursued."

Quilt Sewing Done By Red Cross Workers

NORWOOD, Jan. 5—(ENS)—Mrs. F. Baldock opened her home to the women of her community Wednesday afternoon for a Red Cross sewing and knitting meeting, the first of the year. One large quilt and a crib quilt were completed.

The following knitting was reported finished: Mrs. R. Nevins, 1 pair of socks for the local I.O.D.E.; Mrs. H. Ford, 1 baby jacket and 1 pair of baby mitts for the Red Cross; Mrs. H. Peters, 2 pair (soakers) baby panties for the Red Cross; Mrs. Peters also donated one large quilt top. A letter of thanks and appreciation was received from Wesley Nevins from overseas for a Christmas parcel.

At the conclusion afternoon tea was served by the hostess, Mrs. E. Buck extended an invitation to the women to come to her home for the next meeting.

V.D. Declines

QUEBEC, Jan. 5 (CP)—Venereal disease in the armed forces and the civilian population of Quebec City showed a 50 per cent decrease in 1944 as compared with 1943, it was announced last night. Disorderly houses here were closed in December 1943.

Quality First

GUELPH, Jan. 5—(CP)— Professor R. G. Knox of the Ontario Agricultural College told young farmers attending the special course at O.A.C. yesterday that quality was the stepping stone toward building "permanent British preference for Ontario bacon."

some 20 of these had concentrated opposite the weak sector.

Why they didn't know is a point that will be argued a long time. Some say they should have known and taken steps. Others say the attack came after two weeks of almost continuously bad weather which hindered aerial reconnaissance and photography. The massing was inside Germany, where it is difficult to obtain information.

Expecting there might be trouble in this area, the Allies had been careful to establish no major supply dumps anywhere between the front and the Meuse River, which Field Marshal Von Rundstedt failed to reach.

Agnes Borland Observes 90th Birthday

INDIAN RIVER, Jan. 5—(ENS).—One of Indian River's oldest residents, Miss Agnes Borland, celebrated her ninetieth birthday recently. Born in Otonabee, near Rice Lake, of pioneer parents from Ayrshire, Scotland. Miss Borland is the third of a family of nine children: Jane, James, Agnes, John, Lizzie, Louis, Annie, Mary and Willie. The entire family had reached the remarkable age of eighty without a single break occurring in the family circle.

While Miss Borland was still an infant, her parents moved to Asphodel, where they made their home until 1871. Miss Borland vividly recalls the little log shanty where her parents made their home. They had to cut down the dense forest to clear a bit of land for planting. Oxen were used entirely for the farm work and an axe and cross-cut saw were the only tools her father had to cut down the big timbers. These days of her childhood were spent largely in the out-of-doors.

When Miss Borland was still a young girl of seventeen, her parents moved to Indian River and settled on the farm now occupied by Henry Borland, a nephew of Miss Borland. From there they moved to the farm now owned by L. Dunford, and finally to the home where she now resides. Miss Borland lives with her sister Annie, and brother John, who on New Year's Day celebrated his eighty-ninth birthday.

Miss Borland is a very active woman, and frequently journeys unattended to Peterborough, Norwood or Campbellford by train, where she visits her relatives. The entire household are faithful attendants at the Baptist Church here.

Miss Borland spends much of her time in winter piecing quilts and making rugs, but in summer she can be seen, even on the hottest days, in the garden. Her flowers, of which she passionately fond, are a spot of beauty in this little village, while her vegetable garden rarely sprouts a weed. She has a fine berry patch, and not only produces all her household can use but has some for sale as well.

A number of her relatives gathered at her home and gave her a surprise party. She was the recipient of an occasional chair, as well as several personal gifts. A beautifully decorated birthday cake bedecked with ninety tiny pink candles was another pleasant surprise. Among those who attended the birthday party in Miss Borland's honor were: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Borland, Esther and Alan, Mrs. Fred Fife and Mrs. Gaven Shearer of Indian River; Miss Annie Reid of Keene; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Borland, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Clysdale, Miss Margaret Reid, and Miss Ethel Clysdale, all of Peterborough; and Miss Beatrice Borland of Norwood. The condition of the roads prevented many other relatives from attending.

OBITUARIES

MRS. ELLA FORTUNE

WESTWOOD, Jan. 5 (ENS) — A resident of Otonabee township all her life, Mrs. Ella Fortune, formerly Ella McDonald, passed away in Nicholls Hospital Thursday, after a brief illness. She was 80 years of age.

Mrs. Fortune was born in Otonabee township, the daughter of the late James McDonald and Mary Anne McConnel. Her husband, the late Michael Fortune, predeceased her several years ago.

A member of the Presbyterian church at Westwood, Mrs. Fortune leaves to mourn her loss a son, James, of Klameth Falls, Oregon, four sisters, Mrs. Robert Wilson, of Otonabee, Mrs. Charles Wheeler, Mrs. J. Stewart and Mrs. H. Peck, all of Montana, U.S., and one brother, Samuel McDonald, of Norwood.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, from the Westwood Presbyterian church. Interment will be in Westwood cemetery, and Rev. J. A. Campbell, of Keene, will conduct the service.

JOHN ADAM CHRISTIE

HAVELOCK, Jan. 5 — John Adam Christie passed away suddenly at his residence, 311 Kingswood Road, Toronto, on Wednesday, in his 56th year. He leaves to mourn his loss a sorrowing wife, Irene Mossom, three daughters, Mrs. R. Dunning (Marguerite), Mrs. R. Benjamin (Jacqueline), Dorothy Christie, and one son, Spr. Douglas M. Christie, overseas with the Royal Canadian Engineers.

Remains are resting at the William Sherrin Funeral Home, 873 Kingston Road, Toronto. The funeral will be Saturday afternoon at two o'clock and the service will be in the chapel. Burial will take place at Scarboro Memorial Park.

Montgomery Suggested As New Deputy

LONDON, Jan. 5.—(CP).—Many Britons feel that Field Marshal Montgomery, 21st Army Group commander, should be made acting deputy and chief planner to Gen. Eisenhower, Allied Supreme Commander in Western Europe, the London News Chronicle's editorial page columnist, A. J. Cummings, said to-day.

"But Eisenhower probably knows that neither his own generals, nor the Washington War Department, nor the American public would acquiesce in the appointment of Montgomery to a vital position on the Supreme Staff," Cummings said.

"The Americans let it be understood that Washington would 'frown upon' any proposals for lessening or splitting Eisenhower's command."

He added that Gen. Eisenhower was "a man of proved ability, as popular with the British as with the American staffs, and he is a hard worker.

"But the criticism I have heard is that Eisenhower's time is so much taken up with administrative routine and important questions not bearing directly upon fighting at the front that he has too few opportunities for thinking . . . in terms of strategy. Who does the thinking in the Allied High Command? No one seems to know."

Then the columnist suggested that Field Marshal Montgomery should have the planning task, but said Washington objected to him.

Cummings added:

"This is regrettable if unavoidabel. Montgomery is an exceptional soldier, the very man to match against von Rundstedt's game and to plan the riposte. There is some reason to believe that Montgomery's though scrupulously loyal to all decisions of the High Command, had long ago been uneasy about strategic dispositions which have resulted in the great German counter-offensive."

Fresh Blizzard Strikes Ontario

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP)—A fresh blizzard struck today in the segment of Southern Ontario between Lake Huron and Georgian Bay and the Ontario Department of Highways announced a ban on all highway travel in that area.

The new storm came just when provincial highways in the district were being cleared after the fierce two-day blizzard earlier in the week which blocked them continuously. The department said its reports showed the storm was reaching inland as far as Guelph, Orangeville and Barrie. It was expected also to hit the Kitchener and Stratford areas.

"Aside from that section, provincial highways are in fairly good shape," said the spokesman. Reports from highways men in the new storm area were that visibility was low and that the snow was drifting rapidly.

A dispatch from Kitchener said that a rough night and ceaseless drifting left conditions in snowbound villages in that area much the same as on Monday. A number of farmers who fought their way through eight-foot drifts to nearby Linwood yesterday for supplies said only necessity led them to make the trip. The Elmira-Kitchener highway is open to motor traffic. The Elmira-Wallenstein road was re-opened by snow plow and shovel crews today to get a patient to hospital in Kitchener.

A trickle of supplies yesterday reached the East Lambton village of Alvinston, previously isolated for two days, and there was no hardship. A snow plow from Glencoe pushed through the drifts, followed by milk and mail trucks. The milk supply was limited to families with babies. The bread supply is reported to be limited but there is enough to go around. Drifts in the village are 10 feet high.

Petrolia reported a second death from the storm. Frederick L. Napper, 61, collapsed and died while helping Arnold Thompson get a horse and wagon through heavy snow. He was pushing the wagon. The earlier death was that of John Johnson who died of over-exertion after walking through heavy snow-drifts to work.

Weather forecasts predicted fresh winds, with light snowfalls or flurries in the Georgian Bay and Lower Lakes Regions.

Moscow Predicts Great Offensive

LONDON, Jan. 5—(CP Cable)—While the battle for Budapest raged today, Moscow radio predicted a new Soviet winter campaign "on a larger scale than any of the previous ones."

"There is now no doubt that the greatest offensive yet launched on the Eastern front is in sight," the radio said. "It will exceed all earlier drives in power and impetus."

Declaring that the final annihilation of the German forces in the Budapest cauldron is at the most a matter of days, it added: "The loss of the town will deprive the Germans of all Hungary as a forefield to the fortress of Germany.

"The Russians will then dispose of a frontline running from East Prussia through Poland and Czechoslovakia to the Austrian border."

TOURING WEST INDIES

KINGSTON, Jamaica — (CP Cable). — Oliver Stanley, British Secretary of State for the Colonies, arrived in Kingston yesterday from Nassau, on a tour of the British West Indies.

DEFENCE MINISTER AT PRESS CONFERENCE—Visiting Montreal Tuesday to inspect the Royal Canadian Army Ordnance Depot at Longue Pointe, General A. G. L. McNaughton, Minister of National Defence, held a brief informal press conference in the R.T.O. office at Windsor Station. The Minister is shown above as he told press men Canada was "pulling no punches" in its efforts to reinforce its men serving overseas. (Canadian Army Photo)

Stimson Warns Nazis Unbeaten

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP).—War Secretary Stimson said yesterday the Germans still hold enough power to launch another, though smaller, offensive on the western front.

The Germans, he told his weekly news conference, are a "tough, disciplined enemy" and will "never rest on a passive defence."

He said that "having made his gamble ,the enemy is not yet pulling out. On the contrary, he has dug in at certain points on the perimeter of the salient and maintains enough troops in the centre to threaten another push."

Speaking of German activity on the U.S. 7th Army front in the region of the Saar, Mr. Stimson said it remains to be seen whether that was a probe or intended as a sizeable attack.

From the beginning of the German attack on Dec. 16 through Dec. 30 a total of 22,430 German prisoners were taken, he said.

He added that a preliminary field report shows our tank losses were only six per cent greater than the expected monthly attrition rate for armor during the German counter drive.

Mr. Stimson said he saw a "close relationship" in developments on the western front to affairs on the Italian front and German prospects in the east.

In the Philippines, the Japanese power to strike retaliatory blows "is still lively," he said, because they have on Luzon and elsewhere many troops and planes to invest.

Mr. Stimson said 61,260 enemy dead have now been counted on Leyte in addition to "all the thousands who perished at sea."

To Help Women

OTTAWA, Jan. 5—(CP)—Veterans Minister Mackenzie announced today that Dr. Olive R. Russell of Toronto, a graduate of the University of Toronto, has joined the veterans affairs department as an executive assistant, specializing in the rehabilitation of members of the women's services.

Before her enlistment in the C.W.A.C. where she served as a personnel selection officer, Dr. Russell specialized in vocational guidance. She is a charter member of the Ontario Vocational Guidance Association.

Gold And Oils Show Strength

TORONTO, Jan. 5—(CP)—Gold and oil groups were firmer during the afternoon on the Toronto Exchange, with a number hitting new 1944-45 highs and gains also outnumbered losses in the base metals. Industrials were exceedingly active and quite a number of new peaks were reached. Trading volume reached 586,000 shares, slightly down from yesterday's first three hour total.

In the industrial group, Powers Corporation, Winnipeg, Winnipeg Pfd., Algoma, English Electric "A", Canadian Car, National Steel Car all hit new highs. Papers too were generally up, with Canadian Tire, Brown Company Preferred, M. & O. Paper setting new tops. Distillers Seagram touched a new top of 44½ up ⅜.

Miscellaneous and food offerings were steady to firmer with Easy Wash setting a new high. Massey's new was up ⅛ and Pfd was quoted at 22½.

British American Oil set a new high mark.

Bralorne in the golds was another new top scorer, while Macassa, Aunor, Chesterville, Paymaster, which traded 71,000 shares in the first three years, all showed gains.

60 Jap Ships Riddled In Three Days

PEARL HARBOR, Jan. 5—(AP)—A violent onslaught by U.S. 3rd Fleet aircraft carriers—the deep penetration into enemy waters which has caused Tokyo radio to warn of impending major war devlopments—may have fallen for a third consecutive day on Formosa and the Ryukyus. Such a possibility was suggested by a radio blackout over the fleet.

Meanwhile, heightened American air assaults on Luzon, main island of the Philippines, sank or badly damaged 60 ships the first three days of 1945 and raised havoc with Japanese planes at Clark Field, 75 miles northwest of Manila, Allied Headquarters in the Philippines reported today.

Gen. MacArthur announced the sinking or damaging of 35 ships at Manila Bay and in Lingayen Gulf, 150 miles to the north, Tuesday and Wednesday. On New Year's Day 25 ships were sunk or damaged in the same areas.

Besides the 25 freighters and transports, aggregating 57,000 tons, listed in MacArthur's latest bag, American aircraft also accounted for a seaplane carrier, three naval escorts, a coastal vessel and five luggers sunk or severely damaged.

Hitting both Formosa and the Ryukyus, indicating even greater striking power than that loosed on separate days against the same targets last October, 3rd Fleet carrier planes are known to have struck Tuesday and Wednesday (U.S. date).

That much, but little more, was confirmed yesterday by Admiral Nimitz in a communique which said the details "are not yet available." That phraseology often covers a continuing operation.

(Circumstances surrounding the present attacks are such that the most concentrated aircraft carrier blows of the Pacific war may well be in progress.

(Last October, when the way was cleared for reinvasion of the Philippines, the carriers had the added responsibility of knocking out the enemy air force in the Philippines ahead of Gen. MacArthur's Leyte-bound transports.

(Now, from newly-won and developed land bases on Leyte and Mindoro, MacArthur's planes are combing prized Luzon Island, leaving the carriers free to use their power against Formosa and the Ryukyus.)

Nimitz' terse account yesterday contrasted with Tokyo radio's unconfirmed reports that 500 Hellcats, Helldivers and Avengers hit Formosa and Okinawa for nearly seven hours the first day.

The enemy said 400 returned for another seven hours the second day.

Tokyo's version also was that 40 China-based B29s took part.

Fresh Japanese air attacks hit Mindoro Island, where new American troops landings this week have been effected on the east and west coasts. The enemy planes struck airfield and shipping installations at night, causing some damage.

On Leyte Island, 401 more Japanese were reported killed and five captured in one day to bring the total to 121,470.

British Take

Ease with which the operation was carried out seemed to confirm earlier dispatches from Burma which said the Japanese apparently had written off the Burma campaign as a lost cause.

Actual capture of Akyab Island is credited to Capt. W. D. David, R.A.F., who landed a small liaison plane there Jan. 2 and found the entire Japanese garrison had fled New Year's Day.

The enemy abandonmeint of Akyab without firing a shot was in direct contrast to the bitter defence put up through two previous campaigns, in which British offensives were blunted and thrown back.

Akyab has seven airfields, several capable of handling the largest aircraft. Despite partial demolition by the Japanese, the sites are capable of repair. The fields will extend considerably the range of the combined Allied air forces in the battle for lower Burma.

The harbor will accommodate vessels as large as 10,000-ton cruisers.

Seizure of the city promises to free from two to four divisions who now can help send the Japanese scurrying to the southeast. For two years the British have been compelled to keep up to four divisions and many supporting troops in Arakan, on the northern shore of the Bay of Bengal, to prevent a Japanese invasion of India along the narrow coastal plain.

Pte. Jack Perry Experiences Blitz Horrors

The delayed action bomb sliced through the street curb, crashed its way into the basement of a London barracks buildings, and finally came to rest beside an elevator.

"If it had exploded then, I probably wouldn't be here right now," said 22-year-old Pte. Jack Perry, 477 George street N., who arrived home recently after serving almost five years. He was wounded in Italy last May.

A member of the Provost Corps, Pte. Perry was stationed in London during the great air blitz of 1940 and 1941. But despite the fury of Germany's assault on Britain at that time, this soldier would rather go through a bombing raid, than an attack by buzz-bombs. The latter are much more powerful in their explosive effect, in his opinion.

"If an ordinary bomb goes off a block away, it might shake you up a little, but probably wouldn't hurt you. If a buzz-bomb lands even two blocks away, you've had it", he said.

Rockets, of course, can't be seen, but the damage caused by them can. At first, Pte. Perry did not anticipate any experience with V-2 missiles, but on a repatriation leave in London just before returning to Canada, his visit coincided perfectly with a rocket attack.

During the blitz in 1941, great work was done by the men of the delayed action bomb disposal squads, Pte. Perry said. He has seen them doing their work at first hand and spoke high words of admiration for the daring displayed by members of this renowned outfit.

Liri Valley Casualty

He has seen much during the past four years. Going overseas at 17 years of age, he was sent to Italy with the Provost Corps in the latter part of 1943. Pte. Perry suffered severe wounds while taking part in the furious fighting that raged in the Liri Valley in Italy, just past the Adolph Hitler Line. Three razor-sharp fragments of an exploding Nazi .88 mm. shell pierced his shoulder, resulting in a compound fracture.

"We were in kind of a small valley, and I guess the Germans were about a half-mile away. They were firing over the ridge of the hill, and at the time I got it, we were all looking for some place to take cover. The tanks, that had been with us, got out smartly, and the other tank soldiers and I were trying to get out of the way, when the shell came."

"I didn't hear the shell explode; I've spoken to a number of soldiers hit by the .88, and none of them seem to have heard the explosion. It was a burning sensation, and then I went out and didn't wake up until I was back getting medical attention."

The shell that struck the Peterborough soldier killed a young Canadian from Western Canada, and wounded three others, five altogether, was its catch. Many casualties in Italy have been caused by fragments from Nazi .88's, he declared.

Directed Traffic

Pte. Perry's work in Italy consisted mainly of patrolling and traffic direction. Traffic, in this case, was tanks, gun carriers, jeeps, and military supplies in general. Bridges and important communications hubs were also on his beat, invariably targets for German bombs and shells.

After a short time spent in a hospital in Italy, Pte. Perry was returned to England by hospital ship. He remained in a Canadian hospital there until his return to Canada. Excellent medical treatment was given him, he reported.

When Canadians stationed in England have leaves, the majority head up Scotland way, Pte. Perry said. More like home, an atmosphere of friendliness and hospitality hard to discern in England, is much in evidence in the northern country.

"And there's always some old Scotsman who'll ask you if you know Joe McIntosh, who lives in Ontario. So many of the Scotch people have relatives living here in Canada.

Pte. Perry left high school to enlist in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, in February 1940, at the age of 17. Little more than five months later, he arrived overseas, and there transferred to the Provost Corps. He is the son of Mr and Mrs. W. D. Perry, 447 George street, and will report back for medical treatment after his 30-day leave.

PROMINENT FARMER ELECTED DIRECTOR BANK OF TORONTO

JOHN J. E. McCAGUE has been elected a Director of The Bank of Toronto. He will bring a wealth of practical farming knowledge and a sympathetic understanding of the farmer's problems that will be invaluable to his associates on the Bank's directorate. Mr. McCague is president of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, vice-chairman of the Canadian National Live Stock Records Committee, and vice-president of the Dairy Farmers of Canada. In 1921, after receiving a Bachelor of Science degree in Agriculture from Ontario Agricultural College, he was appointed representative by the Ontario Department of Agriculture for South Simcoe and opened offices at Alliston, Ont. He later represented the Department in Carleton County. In 1928 he took over management of T.P. Loblaw's noted Stevenson Farms at Alliston and, following Mr. Loblaw's death in 1933, purchased part of Stevenson Farms and established his own Glenafton Farm where he has developed an outstanding pure bred Holstein herd. Mr. McCague is past president of the Canadian Swine Breeders' Association and the Canadian Fox Breeders' Association.

Hemorrhage Halted

COBOURG, Jan. 5 (ENS) — Tony Pardella, who was taken to St. Michael's Hospital last week as a result of a sustained hemorrhage of the nose, was reported improving Thursday, doctors having been finally successful in arresting the flow of blood. However, several blood transfusions were necessary during his treatment. The nose had bled off and on for a week before he was taken last Saturday to Toronto.

Week Of Prayer Services Planned

At a recent meeting of the Peterborough Ministerial Association it was decided to hold week-of-prayer services from Monday, January 8, to Saturday, January 13. The services will be conducted by local clergymen and addresses will be given on the theme, "The Lord's Prayer." Some of the ministers plan to introduce the topic at their Sunday services. Each service will commence at 8 p.m., and an offering will be received in aid of the Ministerial Association. Following is the schedule for the week:

Monday—Murray Street Baptist—Dr. J. Semple.

Tuesday—St. James' United—Rev. J. L. Whan.

Wednesday—All Saints' Anglican—Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe.

Thursday—St. Paul's Presbyterian—Dr. E. W. Young.

Friday—Trinity United — Rev. Samuel Johnston.

Saturday—Salvation Army Temple—Dr. J. R. R. Cooper.

Two Men Sentenced For Cobourg Theft

COBOURG, Jan. 5. — (ENS).— Glenn Spraggett of Orillia and Herbert Easterbrook of Kingston, were given jail sentences Thursday on their appearance in police court on a remand. Last week the pair pleaded guilty to theft of two watches, a ring and a camera from Oscar Greer, whose room they entered on December 26. It was revealed Thursday that Spraggett had been on suspended sentence at Orillia for carrying a concealed weapon and that Easterbrook had been found guilty of wearing an army uniform after he had been discharged.

Magistrate R. B. Baxter found that Spraggett had been the ring leader and sentenced him to two months in jail dating from January 4 and the other accused was given one month in jail dating from his arrest on December 26.

Tire Shortage Grows Daily Controller Says

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Rubber controller Alan H. Williamson warned today in a prepared statement that the shortage of civilian tires is likely to become "still more acute" within the next few months because of the step-up in military tire production.

He said that tire rationing representatives throughout Canada have been instructed to continue to screen all applications for tire permits so that only the most necessary vehicles be supplied until the situation improves.

At the same time, he revealed that one of the first steps taken to boost military tire production was the cancellation of plans made three months ago for an increase in the output of tires urgently needed for essential civilian users, such as doctors, nurses, police, firefighters, war plants and milk truckers.

"Even the cancellation of these plans may not prove enough," said Mr. Williamson, "Unless the situation at the battlefronts improves rapidly, we may not be able to maintain the 1944 rate of civilian output — a rate which did not meet all essential demands."

He said that during 1944 there were sharply-rising demands from essential users.

"Many thousands of the tires of 1941, 1940 and previous years, have become utterly worn out, and as the months go by the replacement needs are going up rapidly," he said. "In an endeavor to keep essential vehicles on the road, and thus maintain an all-out war economy, it was necessary to increase the output of civilian tires in 1944, and in that year about 870,000 were released under the rationing regulations as against 540,000 in 1943."

In response to an appeal made last week, representatives of the labor unions conferred with government officials at Toronto and agreed to make every effort to help overcome the shortage of military tires.

"I now appeal to every civilian motorist to do his part," said Mr. Williamson. "Give your tires every possible care. If they are beginning to wear out, get them retreaded. The tires you have may be the last you'll get for some time to come."

Capt. H. Winter Weds English War Worker

COBOURG, Jan. 5 —(ENS) — Mrs. Edith Winter of Cobourg is in receipt of a clipping from an English paper which contains the report of the wedding of her son, Capt. Henry Winter to Miss Florence Lilliane Siese, daughter of Mrs. F. B. Siese and the late F. B. Siese of Brighton, England.

The groom is well-known here where he was born and educated. His father, was the late Harold Winter. Capt. Winter is an artillery officer and was a member of the 22nd Medium Battery here before the war. Just prior to his wedding, Captain Winter had returned from Normandy. A considerable number of Cobourg girls and boys, who are in the armed services in England, attended the wedding of the popular Cobourg boy.

Cobourg Churches Plan Prayer Week

COBOURG, Jan. 5. —(ENS) — Cobourg Week of Prayer will commence on Monday evening next when Rev. W. P. Woodger of Trinity United Church will speak at St. Peter's Parish Hall. Rev. H. R. Deering of St. Peter's Anglican Church will speak at Trinity Hall on Tuesday; and on Wednesday, Rev. S. D. France of the Baptist Church will speak at the Salvation Army Citadel. On the following evening the speaker at the Baptist Church will be Rev. E. W. B. MacKay of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. The Week of Prayer will close on Friday evening with Rev. Dr. Armour of the British and Foreign Bible Society at St. Andrew's Church.

Millbrook Flier D.F.C. Winner

MILLBROOK, Jan. 5—(ENS)— Flt. Lieut. Harold McCamus, who has been serving with the RCAF overseas as an observer, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, it has been announced. No citation is available yet.

The young flier is the son of T. W. McCamus, and the late Mrs. McCamus, nee Ruby Tate, of Millbrook. Following his enlistment, he served as an instructor at Centralia before going overseas in December 1942. At present, he is a member of the Coastal Command overseas.

An employee in the office of the Canada Packers for two years before enlisting, Flt. Lieut. McCamus attended the Millbrook Continuation School, where he won the Norman Allen Scholarship at his graduation. He attended the Peterborough Business College and spent two years at the University of Toronto, taking a course in commerce and finance.

This is the eighth man in Peterborough and the immediate district who has been granted this RCAF award. The others are Wing Cmdr. "Bunt" Waddell, Wing Cmdr. Wallace Barton, FO. William Hamilton of Peterborough; FO. Anthony Delaney, Douro; FO. Frank Haddelesey, Norwood; PO. R. H. Watt, Hastings, and FO. Allan Brown, R.R. 1, Millbrook.

Snow Piles Create Problem For Plows

COBOURG, Jan. 5 —(ENS) — The piles of snow in the county have now reached the extent where snow plow operators are beginning to wonder where they can pile the next fall of snow. Out in Hope township on Dean Hill, the snow is piled ten feet high on either side of the road and it is considered impossible to do any more. Due to the fact that snow fell before the cold weather set in, there is no frost in the ground and one farmer reported that fish worms were close to the surface of the soil. It is believed that if there is a sudden thaw with rain, the melting snow will remain where it is instead of seeking drainage levels over what would ordinarily be frozen ground.

Red Cross Workers Review Shipments

HASTINGS, Jan. 5.—(ENS). — The Hastings Red Cross Society met in the council chambers with the president, L. E. Kelly, presiding.

The treasurer, A. C. Putnam, reported the balance in the general fund as $239.53 and $63.55 in the home fund. A contribution from Rev. J. Davey and Mrs. Davey was received. A letter from Sgt. Jas. Ryder in Holland, acknowledging the receipt of his Christmas parcel was read.

Mrs. W. E. Wilson reported the last two shipments as containing 3 sweaters, 5 pairs gloves, 2 helmets, 20 children's coats, 14 quilts and a 48 piece layette donated by the Mission Circle of Trinity United church, 60 "housewives" for the air force, 25 suits men's hospital pyjamas, 12 quilts.

At the close of the meeting the draw for fowl was made. The winners were: Turkey, Miss Mary Walsh; goose, little Mary Doherty; chicken, L. E. Kelly.

He was with the Royal Navy for four months and also took part in the naval operations of the Invasion. He has two brothers in the armed services.

Nazi Comments On Rift Between Allies

LONDON, Jan. 5 — (CP). — The Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm newspaper Svenska Dagbladet quoted a German Foreign Office spokesman today as expressing interest in recent British-American editorial exchanges over apparent differences in foreign policy.

"We are on the lookout for signs of new developments," the German spokesman said, according to a Svenska Dagbladet dispatch relayed here from Stockholm.

"We must not exaggerate, however. We know the Anglo-American alliance is cemented by common hatred of Germany, and this is strong enough to reconcile differences of opinion."

Meanwhile the London Daily Mail expressed alarm over what it termed "Plain speaking that has degenerated into brawling." The paper suggested it was "time to call a halt" to editorial recriminations in the two countries.

Such recriminations, the Mail said, "satisfy no one except Goebbels."

Declaring that an early meeting of Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin would eliminate the danger of a rift, the Mail also called for "some form of permanent council to maintain continuous contact."

Yesterday sections of the British press challenged American critics of British foreign policy, especially in Greece and Poland and asserted that the United States should form a more definite policy of its own rather than hit at others.

Musical Chairs In The Council?

On Monday the newly elected City Council will meet for the first time, and Aldermen will be chosen to head the various departments and committees of local government. The people of Peterborough, we think, will be keenly interested in these appointments. What changes will be made? Who will remain in an office which he has held before? What new men are learning the ropes of city administration? These are the questions which we will all ask.

In the course of the next two or three years, Peterborough will be looking for a new Mayor. Mr. Hamilton has held that office with distinction in the past, and will do so for another year and perhaps—no one can predict these things—for a year after that. But who will succeed him? And who will succeed his successor? These are matters which may properly be considered now, for a man does not fit himself to be Mayor in a few months. He needs as wide an experience of city administration as possible, and we feel that he should be a man who has served on as many city boards and committees as possible. That is why it will be interesting to see what changes will be made on Monday, and what men are fitting themselves to be experienced, well-grounded leaders of this city.

There are advantages in leaving one department of city administration under the care of one man for several years; he knows the job thoroughly and performs it without wasting time. There are a few men on the present Council who have given the city first-rate service on certain boards and committees for many years, and the city is grateful to them. But although it might be good for the city to keep them at these same jobs, it is questionable whether it is good for the men themselves; should they not seek a broader experience? There are, of course, certain jobs of city administration which take almost a year in office to learn, and there is no sense in turning a man out of such a job before he has had a chance to use his experience and make his mark in it; but it is scarcely just to make a man a slave to these jobs because he has shown himself efficient in them; three years is a long enough term in a demanding administrative post. And there are some jobs, such as Chairman of the Property Committee, which are so vexatious that no man should be asked to hold them for more than two years. But if a man is to be Mayor at some future date, he should know how the difficult jobs are done, and he should have a taste of listening to complaints about garbage and ashes. He should, in fact, have as much all-round experience as he can get.

Will the Monday appointments do anything to provide this breadth of experience for the men who may conceivably be Mayors of this city within the next ten years? Like many of the citizens of Peterborough, we hope so, but it does not lie in the power of the citizens of Peterborough to bring it about. The matter rests in the hands of the new Council which will, we hope, prove an active and vigorous, and in this matter also a foresighted, body.

A Bank Explains Itself

We confess that we are somewhat astonished, but very pleased, by an advertisement which the Bank of Montreal carries in our columns today, in which it explains what it is doing for the men in its employ who are now in the Canadian armed forces. It is not that we ever doubted that the Bank of Montreal—or any other bank—behaved very generously toward its employees; we know a little about banks and we know that they are generous institutions. But in the past banks have never confided these matters to the public. Banks have generally worn a frozen face.

Banks are dignified institutions, and we like them that way. A romping or frolicsome bank is unthinkable. But banks are also human, and we have always been rather sorry that they took pains to conceal their humanity from the public. Such concealment has led to the familiar cartoon conception of a banker as an overstuffed old gentleman with white sidewhiskers and a top hat, who is cruelly indifferent to the fate of the average citizen; it has aided socialists (who only like socialistic bankers) to spread the belief that bankers are scheming fellows who bring about depressions in order that they themselves may profit, in some mysterious way; it has fostered the legend that banks are bowelless institutions, operating on business principles laid down by Scrooge.

Banks have never been like that, although it is true that they have become much sunnier during the past twenty-five years. We are glad to see a bank telling the other side of its story. We think that if banks did this more often, and published fewer immensely complicated and incomprehensible yearly statements in very small type, the general public would realize that the rhythmic thumping which may be heard in banks is the beating of a heart of gold, and not merely a Golden Calf chewing its cud.

The Bunyan-Stannard Envelope

Some of the most painful and deadly wounds sustained in this war are caused by burns—the terrible, searing burns from ignited gasoline, flame-throwers, and explosion flashes. And because more gasoline is used in many more machines, because flame-throwers and explosives are more common than ever, casualties of this nature are more frequent in today's war than ever before. It is therefore gratifying to note that science has made another forward step in treating this type of casualty.

Thousands of lives and still more thousands of limbs are being saved by the invention of a British naval officer, Lieutenant Commander John Bunyan, R.N.V.R. This invention is a fabric envelope to enclose and irrigate burns and open wounds.

Lieutenant Commander Bunyan is, by profession, a consultant and researcher in dentistry. He discovered, after some years of experiment, that irrigation with Sodium Hypochlorite could save the lives of many who had received burns and wounds so severe that they would formerly have been considered fatal. Furthermore, the dressing he devised eliminated pain entirely; and can remain on the wound for from ten to twelve weeks.

His discovery aroused the enthusiasm of Mr. Stannard, a Staffordshire silk-manufacturer, who devoted a great deal of time and money to perfecting the fabric of which the Bunyan-Stannard envelope is made. The envelope is being supplied to the forces in Europe and the East; emergency packs that can be applied by the wounded man himself are carried by bomber crews. Like all other British inventions, it is available to the United States under reverse lend-lease, and is being used extensively by the American forces.

There is a little comfort in the fact that the men who must face the possibility of burn casualties as part of their daily lives are now better protected than they ever were from painful and fatal burns. There is additional comfort in the realization that this discovery may be used in the years of peace to save many other lives which might be lost without it.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"A Long War Is Certain" says an editorial heading. He means a longer war.

---

A lot of fun is being poked at the war prophets these days, but upon the whole they seem to be at least as reliable as the weather prophets.

---

"The smart husband puts soap in the water before he washes the dishes" says an advertisement. The smart husband doesn't wash dishes.

---

An English physician was recently quoted as saying: "If your child doesn't thrive on fresh milk, boil it". That'll learn it to turn up its nose at good milk!

---

The Calgary Herald urges its readers to take their hats off to the past and their coats off to the future. And we suggest that they keep their shirts on for the present.

---

The Knoxville Journal says that there will be a war every twenty-five years until the U.S.A. buys England, Scotland and Wales and transplants their entire population to Canada. The insurance of peace, we assume, lies in leaving the Irish behind.

Britain's Warrior Poets

By ROBERT LYND
(Condensed from London News-Chronicle)

THE death in battle of Rex Whistler, most charming of contemporary British decorative artists, is yet one more example of the self-sacrifice of painters and their fellows, the poets, in the present war.

Whistler, as a young man of genius in his late thirties, could obviously have found a comparatively secure occupation for his talents at home, but he preferred to force his way into the Welsh Guards and to become a fighting man in a war, as he conceived it, for the liberty of the world.

THERE has always been a tendency to distinguish between the writer and the fighter, and those who maintain that writers are not good fighters used to produce as evidence the story that Demosthenes, running away from battle, fell into a bush, and, imagining that it was an enemy, begged it for mercy. They also adduced as evidence on the same side Horace's confession that in some battle or other he fled and, during his flight, threw away his little shield.

On the whole, however, writers have shown themselves in the past to be no less valiant than other men. Aeschylus asked that there should be inscribed on his tomb the statement, not that he had written great tragedies, but that he had fought at Marathon.

And a noble list of soldier writers, between his day and ours could be compiled, among them Byron, and Tolstoy and the poets of the last war.

During the greater part of English history, however, no one expected poets and artists to go to war. Wars were fought abroad with small expeditionary forces, and it was the poet's function not to join in the fighting but to inspire the nation to noble efforts and to celebrate the courage of its fighting men.

Thus Wordsworth, who wrote some of the greatest war-time poetry in literature, never saw a war. And no great poet of his time except Byron ever wore a military uniform or approached a battlefield. Coleridge, indeed, enlisted, but he soon got back to civil life.

IN a later generation, Tennyson wrote heroic verse about fighting, but he wrote it in the peaceful atmosphere of the Isle of Wight. Towards the end of the century Kipling arrived with warlike messages, but his "Barrack-room Ballads" were not written in barracks.

It was taken for granted, indeed that the function of the writer and the function of the soldier were different, and that the writer could serve his country best, not with bullets, but with pen and ink. The fact is that he was not needed at the front, not because he was an aethetic weed, but because he could do more effective work at home.

The war of 1914 changed all that. Total nations were ranged against each other, and poets and other writers became not only men of letters but soldiers. Rupert Brooke's sonnets, derided by some people in the years of peace, were sonnets in the great tradition of Wordsworth, and they were written out of the flaming heart of a volunteer—a man on active service.

JULIAN GRENFELL was not primarily a writer, but his poem, "Into Battle" — a poem which drew from Kipling the comment, "His lips must have been touched" — expressed the spirit of the fighting man in a form that will still move men's souls even at the end of centuries of peace, if the world is lucky enough to experience them.

Most of the so-called Georgian poets were fighting men—Siegfried Sassoon, Robert Nichols, W. J. Turner, Edmund Blunden and Wilfred Owen among them. And there were many others outside the Georgian catalogue.

In the present war, I fancy, it will be found that once again there has been no lack of poets in uniform.

SIDNEY KEYES, a good enough poet to be awarded the Hawthornden Prize, was killed in Tunisia at the age of 20. Alun Lewis, schoolmaster, poet, and short-story writer, was killed in India at the age of 26. Stephen Haggard, gracious both as poet and actor, died on active service in the Middle East at the age of 31. And there are others—many others—both known and little known.

It certainly cannot be said that those of whom Kipling once spoke as "the brittle intellectuals" have lived and died without glory in the present war. Never probably in the history of England were so many young poets in arms in defence of the things they hold even dearer than their art.

Hence it seems to me that whatever sides we may take in the argument about modern poetry, we must salute the modern poets. They have proved themselves to be great men worthy of a nation in its hour of greatness.

Shovel Technique

Gathered around the fireplace or hugging the radiators is a good spot to discuss the techniques of shovelling snow and clearing the sidewalks and driveways.

Generally speaking there are three different treatments. Each has much to be said for it.

The first is the hard and earnest way of going to it with a shovel. By heaving a shovel of snow first to the right, next to the left and so on to the end of the walk, pride can be taken in a nice clean front walk and approach to the front door. It may raise a few blisters and excite a backache, but it has its compensations when the neighbours compliment you on the result.

The second is not so strenuous. It is to take ashes and sprinkle them liberally along the walks so that no one will slip. The ashes application is good for driveways where there is a slight slant. It prevents slipping down on the way out and gives gripping space for the wheels on the way in. Spring rains will wash away the ashes eventually.

The third way is the cozy method. It is to get all enthused about shovelling the snow and when the enthusiasm reaches a high peak, but not too high, to find a comfortable chair and relax until the enthusiasm passes off. Then, the plan is to let the city look after the snow.

Ah yes, it's nice to shovel the snow, but it's nicer to lie in your bed these cold frostly mornings.—Windsor Star.

JAPANESE EXAMPLE

As a general rule, we can't see much good in anything that comes out of Japan. As an example to us, however, her goal of "utter utmost" munitions production might be worth following. —Windsor Star.

TIME TO PUT THE LID ON

Angell On Reading

(WINNIPEG FREE PRESS)

TO a reading public, to a public earnestly seeking at least a superficial knowledge on the brave new world to be, wherein nations will live with nations to forever preclude the possibility of war, the galaxy of books now on the horizon and daily making their appearance on this subject convey only confusion. No one person can read them all, and they are all widely divergent.

Sir Norman Angell, contributing recently to the Saturday Review of Literature, says, on the subject of reading books on the post-war world set-up, that one answer could be that most of these books are not intended for the lay public, but for specialists, professors, and students of political science. This, he says, put the question in another form:

"How is the specialist knowledge to percolate down to the politicians and general public who must finally decide? Through the next generation of students? But we shall need this knowledge, or some of it, within the next year or two".

Sir Norman Angell is helpful to a student of world affairs when he says that there is no such thing as a single and perfect plan or constitution for the world; nor is such necessary for a peaceful civilization. He cites the case of Sweden and Switzerland as both being highly civilized and successful democracies, roughly the same cultural development. They have quite different constitutions, one a monarchy, the other a republican confederation. And he adds that because Spain, Germany and Argentina are republics, they are not necessarily freer or more democratic than "conservative monarchies" like Holland and Britain. Most important and not to be confused with Great Britain is the statement that the British Commonwealth possesses neither a constitution nor a government. Yet its nations, the Dominions, maintain peace with each other and can act in common for mutual security.

SALIENT sentences, conveying poignant and revealing paradoxes, were penned by Sir Norman when he talked about post-war conferences:

"In a world of 60 or 70 nations of infinitely varying background, ways of thought, habits of life, scales of moral value, political and religious doctrine, each must be prepared to concede, to compromise, to tolerate differences, to grant to others the right to doctrines which differ from our own. If arms are to be used for the promotion of doctrines, economic or political, we shall get back to conditions of the religious wars and the inquisitions. Passionate convictions are so often the enemy alike of truth and of peace. Willingness to accept far less than what we believe to be the perfect, that spirit of tolerance and compromise which so many 'over-principled ruffians' (as a certain group of revolutionaires were once truly called) regard as craven and pusillanimous, is not a vice, but a virtue without which freedom and democracy are impossible. If those millions of passionately convinced enemies of Roosevelt were not willing nevertheless to live under his hated leadership, America would not now be at peace".

In concluding his long thesis on books, past, present and future, dealing with the blueprint of the world to be, Sir Norman has gathered an impression from the reading of many of these books that at this stage the drawing up of ambitious plans and blueprints is less useful than the dissipation of those fallacies which, he says, unless they are dissipated in some measure, will make the carrying out of even the best plans impossible. And he has found that most of these books wisely conform to that condition.

Understanding The Japanese

(NEW YORK TIMES)

OUR cultural relations with Japan seem almost as bad as our military ones. Here comes the Japanese Publicity Association, for example, with a song for mass singing entitled, "A Tune for Throwing Out the Anglo-Americans." The idea is understandable, but such a title wouldn't get to first base in this country, even if it were changed to "A Tune for Throwing Out the Japanese." Our soldiers, sailors and marines are doing it, but not singing it—at least not in those words. The lyrics of the Japanese song are described by the Tokyo radio as "very amusing." They run like this:

Yamashita is in command.
His pride is in battle.
He will not let MacArthur get away this time.
Mr. Yankee, please do not get away;
All Japan is an arsenal.

The statements are interesting, if true. The appeal to "Mr. Yankee" will be duly heard in Leyte and elsewhere. But is it funny?

Maybe it is funny in Japanese. Maybe our funny songs wouldn't seem funny in Japanese. We have to allow for translations from one language into another very, very different language. The people of the land of the cherry blossoms not only talk as we don't; they seem to think as we don't. But some things are translatable without much damage. The Emperor Hirohito celebrated the eighteenth anniversary of his accession to the throne on Christmas Day. He must have thought it was something to celebrate. But the curious aspect of his reign is that it is called "Showa, or era of enlightened peace." That epithet, applied to Japan's goings-on ever since the attack on Manchuria in 1931, somehow doesn't make sense. Until the Japanese alter a great deal it now seems plain we shall never understand them.

Gilbert and Sullivan Government

Most people's first reaction probably was to laugh, albeit sardonically, when they read the news story from Washington about the American Legion official who found it took two and a half months to get from Ottawa a sample copy of an official government form. But actually it is more a case for sorrow than for levity.

The episode may appear exceptional and fantastic to the uninitiated. But it is only a single, publicly recorded illustration of the bogs of bureaucracy through which the public must flounder—and often sink—in dealing with government departments.

Red tape, pettifogging and bewilderingly long delays may be humorous as subjects for comic operas. But trying to do business through Gilbert and Sullivan methods of government administration justifiably produces infuriated discouragement with the practical workings of democracy.

The experience of the American Legion man is sadly typical of the unbusinesslike lack of despatch and decision which prevails to far too great an extent in many a government department. Partly it is due to the top-heavy, cumbersome and antiquated system of procedure under which most departments must operate. It is also due partly to indolence and incompetence and fear or inability to make decisions and accept responsibility.

It prevails not only in the dealings between departments and the public, but between departments and between divisions in a particular department. For example, in the days when thousands of new employees were being taken on by war agencies and other departments, there were countless cases of workers having to wait anywhere from two to four months for their first pay cheque. Instances crop up repeatedly of similar periods being required to get rulings, decisions and actions asked by one department of another.

And if it takes that long for inter-departmental dealings, it can well be imagined how long it takes for the public to get anywhere in ordinary transactions with bureaucrats.—Montreal Gazette.

A Bible Message

I am the Lord, and there is none else, there is no God beside me: I girded thee, though thou has not known me: that they may know from the rising of the sun, and from the west, that there is none beside me. I am the Lord, and there is none else....

Thus saith the Lord, the Holy One of Israel, and his Maker, Ask me of things to come concerning my sons, and concerning the work of my hands command ye me. I have made the earth, and created man upon it: I, even my hands, have stretched out the heavens, and all their host have I commanded. I have raised him up in righteousness, and I wil direct all his ways....

For thus saith the Lord that created the heavens; God himself that formed the earth and made it; he hath established it, he created it not in vain, he formed it to be inhabited: I am the Lord; and there is none else. (Isa. 45: 5, 6, 11-13, 18.)

Contemporaries

C.C.F. WOOLLENS

The Saskatchewan C.C.F. Government has started to put its theories of state ownership into effect. Resources Minister J. L. Phelps has announced the province is starting a woollen mill in Moose Jaw.

The project is an ambitious one. The mill will turn out blankets, mackinaws, men's shirts, women's dresses, quilts and fine yarns. The initial investment will be $125,000. An expert is being brought from the United States to get the enterprise going. (The Saskatchewan Government seems to have a weakness for hiring Americans in preference to Canadians.) According to Mr. Phelps, "Consumers will get more and better woollens at fair prices, and the returns to wool producers will be increased. The opportunity for a woollen mill has been ready in Saskatchewan for 40 years, but private enterprise has not seized it."

The Government also plans to start a pulp mill and a fish-filleting plant in Northern Saskatchewan.—Calgary Albertan.

Less Work, Same Pay

There should be widespread interest in the plan evolved by Lever Brothers, Limited, whereby the standard working week at the company's main plant in Toronto has been reduced from 48 to 40 hours, without either increasing the labour costs of employees. It is an interest which will likely be shared by industrial managements, labour groups, industrial relations experts, and the public. Both the scheme itself and the manner in which it was developed are of practical significance to all these groups.

For labour, it demonstrates a sound and satisfactory method of achievement of the 40-hour week, a goal toward which labour bodies have been working, with some success, in recent years and which will probably be sought even more intensively after the war. For industry, it presents a concrete workable means by which such aspirations of labor can be effected while still avoiding the financial and competitive drawback of increased costs. For labour relations authorities and the public, it shows that progressive improvements in working conditions can be achieved with mutual satisfaction to both labour and management and, indeed, through the co-operative effort of both groups.

The Lever plan, which has been approved by the National War Labour Board and now goes into effect after a six months test of its feasibility, was worked out by a joint plant committee composed of representatives of management and of workers. The latter were chosen through the plant local of the International Chemical Workers Union, A. F. of L. Through the proposals adopted by the committee, labour efficiency and man-hour output have been so increased as to maintain production in 40 hours at the same volume previously requiring 48 hours of operation. While basic hourly wage rates remain the same, a 20 per cent "efficiency" bonus or incentive pay keeps average weekly earnings the same as on the old 48-hour basis for employees who keep up to the agreed-upon standards of efficiency and productivity.

The scheme is a striking illustration of what can be accomplished by collaboration in mutual interests between employers and labour.—Montreal Gazette.

WED IN TORONTO—Principals in a marriage of interest which was solemnized recently in Toronto, Sgt. Robert Cauley, RCAF, and his bride, the former Sonya Hamilton McMane, are pictured above, following the ceremony. Rt. Rev. Monsignor Harris officiated, in St. John's Chapel of St. Michael's Cathedral. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Cauley, Homewood avenue, Peterborough, and the bride is the daughter of Lt.-Col. Charles McMane and Mrs. McMane.

DOROTHY DIX

OWES DEBT TO AUNT AND UNCLE

Girl Who Lives With Relatives Can Repay With Love and Gratitude.

DEAR MISS DIX—I live with my aunt and uncle, who are sending me through high school and who give me anything I want. I try to please them, but they still think I do not do enough and are always cross with me. I would hate to go home as my father and mother both drink.

I do not know what to do. I am only 16 and need someone to advise me.

JOAN.

ANSWER—There is only one piece of advice that any well-wisher could give you, my child, and that is to stay where you are and make the most of your opportunities.

Try to realize how kind and generous your uncle and aunt are to take you out of a miserable home and give you an education and comfortable surroundings and pretty clothes. It costs a lot to support a girl, and but for them you would have nothing, so you can't be grateenough to them, or try hard enough to please them. Remember that they are in no wise bound to do this for you. They do it out of their affection and sympathy for you.

Suppose they do try to control you? Suppose their ideas are a little strict and old-fashioned? Suppose they do scold you a little? That is all as nothing as compared to what they give you and what they save you from. Just think how miserable you would be at home with drunken parents who would probably beat you as well as be cross with you.

You will soon be through high school. Then, perhaps, your good aunt and uncle will give you some sort of technical education that will fit you to make a good living. Perhaps they will give you a business course, or a course in beauty culture, or in dressmaking, or millinery, or salesmanship, something that will enable you to be free and independent and earn good money.

Keep that in mind as your goal and the time will go by quickly. Keep in mind all that you owe to your aunt and uncle. That is a debt of honor that you can only repay with love and gratitude and by deferring to their wishes.

One-Sided Proposition

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a woman of 30. Have been going for two years with a man with whom I am in love. He is in love with me, but, although he has brothers and sisters, he is the sole support of his mother, and he says that we must wait until she is dead before we can marry.

He won't even become engaged for fear of hurting his mother's feelings. Yet he doesn't want me to go out with any other young man, or to go anywhere without him. Do you think he is giving me a square deal?

PATIENCE.

ANSWER — If you have any backbone whatever, you won't be patient any longer, or put up with any such one-sided proposition. The mother may live for thirty years, and I can think of nothing more horrible or demoralizing than to base all of your hopes of happiness on another person's death. There will be murder in your heart every minute of the time.

If the young man puts his mother before you, let him have her, and you hunt up a more ardent lover.

Entitled To Recreation

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am the mother of four children. Naturally, I have had a hard time while they were little, but now the two older girls are large enough to be quite capable of looking after the two younger ones, and two or three afternoons a week I play cards or go visiting or to the movies, and I come home feeling rested and refreshed.

But my neighbors say there is something wrong about a mother going out and leaving her children two or three times a week. Do you think I do wrong to go out that often?

A MOTHER.

ANSWER—Certainly not. There should be a law to force every mother to take an hour or two of recreation every afternoon out of her home and away from her children. If she did, she would be a better wife and mother and housekeeper and there would be fewer homes from which the husband and children flee as they would from places of torment.

So don't listen to your neighbors. Let them rave. Get all the change and enjoyment you can without neglecting your family. You will be the better wife and mother for it.

Connie's Legs Fooled Nazis

PARIS, Jan. 5—(CP)— She is a slim, dark girl named Constance. The other night she walked into one of those plushy, mirrored black market restaurants where a dinner costs $20. She walked with all the aplomb of the bejewelled collaborationist dolls who are regular patrons.

This is odd because Constance is something quite different. She was a private secretary before and during the occupation and now she graces—or runs—the office of a high French official.

A little group of leaders of the clandestine press had assembled to pay her a luxurious tribute. This is why.

When the Germans came, Constance was working in a radio station and it was pretty hot for any one who didn't want to play Nazi ball. She and the boss got out and set up business behind the false front of a textile firm.

Their office was one of the coordinating points of the underground press from which bits of forbidden information were circulated to clandestine papers operating in imminent risk of Nazi reprisals.

Constance, because of her guileless private secretary mien, was picked to scoot round Paris on a bicycle, distributing important scraps of paper to secret pick-up points.

Beauty In Distress

Scarcity of transportation made it no oddity for a business girl to be getting around on a bicycle, but Constance made her rounds with no bicycle license plate such as the Germans required. It was too risky to try to get one.

"But I didn't get stopped once during the whole occupation," she said. "Whenever a cop glanced at me in a funny way I'd pretend my dress was blowing up, give him a good show of my leg, struggle with my skirt a bit, and throw him an embarrased smile. Whatever he'd been thinking of doing he'd forget."

The leg gag lasted throughout the occupation, and so did Constance and her newspaper.

The group of clandestine press leaders, shaking their heads in awed admiration, said: "We'd never have been able to get along without Constance and what she did."

Constance, one of the real heroines of the resistance, waved away the tribute in the time-honored manner of private secretaries. Tossing a tolerant glance across the restaurant at her collaborationist sisters, she said:

"It was really quite interesting, you know. Now with everything straightening out, life almost seems dull. I wonder if anything as exciting is ever going to happen to me again..."

Mrs. B. Fowler Heads Victory Workers

Mrs. R. Whalon presided for the election of officers at the regular and annual meeting of the Victory Workers, in their rooms on George street Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. B. Fowler was re-elected as president.

Members of her executive are as follows: Vice-President, Mrs. A. Nelson; secretary, Mrs. W. Rose; assistant secretary, Mrs. G. Benton; treasurer, Mrs. J. H. Quirt; quilt convener and buyer, Mrs. E. Crofts; tea and social, Mrs. A. Maynard and Mrs. W. Pinhey; telephone, Mrs. A. Beatty and Mrs. A. Gibbs; sick and visiting, Miss M. Irwin and Mrs. C. T. Watson.

In her annual report, Mrs. Crofts, quilt convener, said that the workers had made 32 large quilts and 10 cot covers, and had helped three burned-out families. The quilts were shipped to the Red Cross, I.O.D.E., the Red Shield and Russian Relief. The treasurer reported a balance on hand of $29.67 to begin the new year, and said that during the year, the group had handled over $300, which had been donated to various war charities, and been used to send cigarettes to men serving overseas. Mrs. W. Rose gave her annual secretary's report, and review of the year's activities.

Following a discussion, members decided to collect their salvage independently since the city salvage collection had been discontinued. The Workers' funds will be sadly depleted because they relied a great deal on their share of the salvage proceeds for money to carry on their work, and they felt that if they collected all they could during the winter, arrangements could be made in the spring to collect and dispose of it. Mrs. R. Whalon was asked to be the advisor in this project.

During the social period which followed the meeting, expressions of sympathy were extended to two bereaved members, Mrs. Crofts and Mrs. Russel Tucker. Members also expressed their thanks to all interested friends who had helped them with donations of materials, quilt tops and money during the year, making their work possible.

Chas. H. Vaughan Weds Elgin Girl

OMEMEE, Jan. 5 — (ENS)—A charming wedding of interest to many in Omemee took place in Elgin United Church Monday at 8 p.m., when Mabel Iola Stanton, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Stanton of Elgin, became the bride of Charles Richard Vaughan, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney D. Vaughan, Omemee.

The church was decorated with evergreens, bitter-sweet, and bouquets of white chrysanthemums.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor-length gown of white satin and net, the bodice of satin with a sweetheart neckline, long filled sleeves coming to a point over the hand, and having self-covered buttons in the back from neck to waist, and the very full skirt of net over satin. She wore an embroidered veil, caught with a halo of orange blossoms and falling to the floor in a graceful train, and white satin slippers, and carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and bouvardia.

The bride had two attendants, her sister, Mrs. Ewart J. Reynolds of Gananoque as matron-of-honor, and Miss Verla Derbyshire of Crosby as bridesmaid. They were gowned alike in floor-length white taffeta with fitted bodices trimmed with covered buttons and pleated ruffles and gathered skirts. They wore red velvet calots and carried red velvet muffs adorned with a single carnation.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Howard S. Vaughan of the R.C.A.F. Meteorological Bureau, Kingston. Miss Marie Leadbeater of Seely's Bay played the wedding music, and during the signing of the register Miss Betty Halladay of Elgin sang "Because." The ushers were Mr. Ernest J. Reynolds of Gananoque, and Mr. William D. Weir of Omemee. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. H. F. Veals of Hamilton an uncle of the groom, assisted by Rev. J. E. Beckel of Elgin.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother attired in black crepe with black accessories and the groom's mother wearing moss green crepe with black accessories, received. A buffet luncheon was served with Mrs. Leadbeater of Seely's Bay, the bride's grandmother, pouring tea.

For travelling the bride donned a dress of emerald gren gabardine, a muskrat coat, the gift of the groom, a brown pill box hat with a veil and matching accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan left for a trip to Toronto and points west. On their return they will reside in Toronto where the former is employed as accountant by the Bank of Toronto.

Christmas Boxes Appreciated By RCAF People

Several interesting letters of appreciation for parcels received at Christmas were read by the secretary, Mrs. C. H. McWilliams, at the regular meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the R. C. A. F., on Thursday afternoon in the Y.W.C.A.

The boys and girls were grateful for those tokens of remembrance from their home city, and expressed their pleasure at the large and varied selection the boxes contained. In addition, practically every letter read mentioned the City Council's Christmas card, with the familiar picture of the old town clock. Many wrote that it was wonderful to see the old landmark again, and that it brought back memories.

Annual reports were presented by the secretary and treasurer and by several committee conveners. The secretary reviewed the year's activities and the various plans used for raising funds for the Christmas boxes, and cigarettes sent each month. Mrs. R. B. Harle, the treasurer, reported a balance of $886.60 to begin the new year, as compared with a balance of $310.21 at the beginning of 1944. Mrs. W. Moorhead, presenting her annual report for the cigarette committee, said that 812 packages of 300 cigarettes each had been sent during 1944, and 125 pounds of candy, to boys who did not smoke. Money was given to families of prisoners of war, so that parcels could be sent to them. A total of $979.56 was spent in this work during the year.

A monthly report was presented by Mrs. S. Harris, wool convener, who said that she had a quantity of wool on hand for knitters. Mrs. W. Robinson reported six calls and one letter of sympathy written, and Mrs. H. C. Jay said that, during the year, $12.94 had been spent, sending 14 boxes, one book and a spray of flowers. A special collection is taken up at each meeting to meet the expenses of Mrs. Jay's work, sending boxes to boys wounded and in hospital.

Mrs. F. W. Gray was named as convener for a ways and means committee, to take charge of the plans for raising funds for 1945. Members of her committee are as follows: Mrs. E. S. Kingdon, Mrs. G. Lynch, Mrs. E. McKinstry, Mrs. W. Robinson, Mrs. J. E. Sullivan, Mrs. H. I. Gorrell, Mrs. P. Quirk, Mrs. R. J. Kearns, Mrs. F. E. Johnston and Mrs. G. H. Roper. Arrangements for the hand-crocheted cloth donated to the Auxiliary by Mrs. E. Reid, were left in the hands of the committee. Mrs. Gray was named also as corresponding secretary.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

After all the rich food we eat at the Christmas season, it is good to get back to the plainer foods and for desserts there is nothing nicer to serve than a cereal pudding.

Pineapple Rice Pudding

2 eggs, ¼ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1¾ cups milk, 1½ cups cooked rice, ½ cup pineapple juice. Mix together slightly beaten egg yolks, sugar, salt and milk. Cook over boiling water until mixture thickens slightly, stirring constantly. Remove from the heat and add the cooked rice. Stir in pineapple juice. Mix well and put in greased baking dish. Let stand. Beat the egg whites until stiff but not dry. Continue beating while gradually adding the sugar. Divide into six mounds, on top of mixture in baking dish, making a hollow in centre of each with the back of a spoon. Bake 15 minutes or until the tops of meringues are lightly browned. Remove from oven and fill centres with drained, canned pineapple.

Pineapple Tapioca

1 cup tapioca soaked over night in cold water. Cook in a double boiler until clear, with as little water as possible. Add to this when cooked, 1 cup grated pineapple, juice of one lemon, 1 cup sugar. When cold add the whites of three eggs, beaten very stiff. Serve with pouring cream.

Lemon Pudding

2 tablespoons corn starch, ½ cup sugar, juice of 1 lemon. Stir well, then add 2 cups boiling water and let boil until creamy. Remove from the fire and stir in the whites of 2 eggs, stiffly beaten. Serve in a glass dish or mould, with the following custard sauce.

Yolks of 2 eggs, well beaten, 1½ cups milk, ½ cup sugar, salt and vanilla. Serve pudding cold.

LUNCH AT SCHOOL—Children of working mothers must take their lunch to school and what goes into the lunch box they carry can make a real difference in their health and in the marks on their report card. Three essentials in every lunch box, according to the Nutrition Division, Ottawa, are milk, a protein food such as eggs, cheese or meat, which may be in sandwich form, and a fruit or vegetable. When possible one food should be hot. In this school where many of the children stay for lunch, each child brings, in a glass jar, food to be heated. At recess the jars are placed in a pan of water on the stove and when the twelve o'clock bell rings the food is piping hot. Cocoa, cream soup, scalloped potatoes and creamed vegetables are favorites with the children.

For Saturday, January 6

THE ASTRAL aspects are of an exceptional, unconventional and intriguing character, inciting to situations or predicaments of an unpredictable or unprecedented nature. These probably will produce much change, commotion, uprooting and spectacular adventure, of a sudden and unforeseen precipitancy. On the whole, the prospects are for pleasant, gratifying and progressive activities, with romance and dramatic moves sustaining the holiday spirit. Should attention be given to business, new projects are favored, with financial progress or unexpected denouements.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of the unusual, dramatic and unforeseen, in which to expect the unexpected may be wise counsel. Sudden and thrilling adventures or experiences may be of far reaching and radical effect on the future and its fortunes, with the strange, curious or mysterious evident. Exceptional skills, creative energies or intuitive urges may promote spectacular ventures, in business, finance, or in purely romantic and emotional deeds.

A child born on this day may have many original creative talents and skills, with inventive, dramatic or spectacular progress, perhaps of an intuitive nature, assuring a life of pleasant and prosperous adventure.

Understanding of Meat Cookery Terms Necessary if Roast is Done Just Right

By LAURA C. PEPPER
Chief, Consumer Section,
Dominion Dept. of Agriculture

The finest meat on the butcher's block can be a disappointment on the dinner table if it is mishandled in its preparation but, conversely, in the hands of an experienced cook a piece of stewing meat can be the starting point of a truly epicurean dish.

Whether the cook's efforts bring disappointment or delight depends to a large extent on her clear understanding of the terms commonly used in meat cookery and on the application of the rule of slow cooking in moist heat to all less tender cuts. Check your ideas of the meaning of these terms with the definitions given by the Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Broil or Grill—These terms are interchangeable and indicate cooking under or over direct heat. Meat is place on a lightly greased rack and when cooked in the oven, or broiling oven a pan is placed under the rack to catch fat which cooks out. Meat is turned during cooking. This method is used only for tender steaks and chops.

Pan Broil—Meat is placed in a hot, ungreased or very lightly greased, heavy pan and turned frequently during cooking. Fat is poured off as it accumulates. Used for tender chops and steaks.

Saute or Pan-Fry—These terms both mean to cook in a small amount of hot fat in a frying pan.

Fry or Deep Fry—To cook in a deep kettle in enough hot fat to float the food. Used chiefly when the meat is already cooked as in croquettes.

Braise—Meat is first browned by sauteing or searing then cooked slowly in a closely covered utensil either in the oven or on top of the stove with the addition of liquid. Meat is usually cut in individual portions before braising. The method is used with less tender cuts and is also excellent for pork or veal steaks and chops.

Pot Roast—Braising applied to a large piece of meat makes a pot roast. A pot roast may be cooked in the oven or on top of the stove. The amount of liquid added is always small, just enough to create steam and prevent burning. Used for less tender cuts.

Roast—To cook in the oven, uncovered and without the addition of liquid. Used for tender cuts of meat.

Stew—Long, slow cooking in liquid to cover. Meat is cut into small pieces and may be seared first to darken the gravy and improve flavor.

Sear—To brown the surface of meat quickly with high heat, either on top of the stove or in the oven. Searing is usually a first step in pot roasting and braising and gives rich color and flavor to both meat and gravy.

Baste—Fat or juices from the pans are "spooned" over meat occasionally during roasting or pot-roasting to keep meat moist.

Par Boil—To partially cook in boiling water, some other method being used to complete cooking.

Simmer—To cook in liquid just below the boiling point. Simmering temperature is 185 degrees F at sea level.

Upside Down Meat Pie

1 pound ground beef, lamb, veal or pork
2 tablespoons fat
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 can condensed tomato soup
OR 1 cup well seasoned tomato sauce
½ cup water
Biscuit dough

Brown meat lightly in fat, cook until crumbly but not hard. Add salt, pepper, tomato soup or sauce and water. Bring to boiling point, place in baking dish or casserole. Cover with biscuit dough and bake in a hot oven, 450 degrees F, for 20 minutes. Turn out on platter, meat side up; garnish with parsley. To serve, cut in wedges. Six servings.

Biscuit Dough

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
4 teaspons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon celery salt
2 tablespoons mild-flavored fat
1 cup milk

Mix dry ingredients, cut in fat, add milk. Mix quickly and spread over meat.

Short Ribs in Barbecue Sauce

3 lbs. short ribs of beef
1 tablespoon fat
1 medium onion, chopped
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 cup tomato ketchup
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup water
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons dry mustard.

Melt fat, add onion and brown. Add remaining ingredients to make sauce and simmer 3 minutes. Meanwhile, brown meat in a heavy pan or Dutch oven in a little fat, turning to brown on all sides. Add sauce, cover tightly and cook in a slow oven, 300 degrees F, about 2 hours or until tender. Baste every half hour. Six servings.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Transports and C.G.E. clash at the Y.W.C.A. tonight in a Ladies' Basketball League senior game that should be one of the most exciting cage battles of the season. The senior division of the loop is having a real race and the going is so close that every game is decidedly important. For instance a win by the C.G.E. in tonight's fixture would tie the race all up in a knot with all three senior clubs very much in the running. It is admitted that the Electricians have shown the greatest improvement since the opening of the campaign as their win over St. John's in their last start shows. If they can show the same kind of basketball against the powerful Transports tonight the league leaders are really in for a battle. The game is called for 8.45 o'clock. The first part of the twin bill will be taken up with a junior game between the unbeaten Y Grads and the Quakers and these two young teams should also stage an interesting argument. Grads have been a tough team to beat in their own division but Quakers have been improving and will give all they have tonight to stop the leaders. The game will get under way at 7.45 o'clock.

The Y.M.C.A. swim meet, originally scheduled for Saturday December 16 and postponed then because road conditions prevented the Toronto Central Y squad from making the trip to Peterborough will be staged in the local pool tomorrow, Saturday night and the entire program as first advertised will be presented then. Toronto Central Y are sending a strong squad of crack swimmers here to compete and the Peterborough athletes will have to go to town if they hope to win many points from the Queen City squad. However the local swimmers have been showing up well in practice and they will be out there trying. Features of the program will be a demonstration of the new method of resuscitating apparently drowned persons and an exhibition of the new crawl stroke that is expected to revolutionize swimming and make new records easy. The Y.W.C.A. Silver Finettes will give their precision swim routine as another interesting contribution to the interest of the occasion. Reserved seat tickets for the event have been practically sold out but some rush seats are left. There promises to be a real crowd for the first big swim tourney of the season.

The Great Richard

Sport writers are having quite a time deciding in what category to put Maurice Richard, one of the stars of the ace Canadien line. Richard is undoubtedly quite a hockey player; you have to have something besides luck to score five goals and assist in three others in one game as the Canadien comet did the other night. But when they rate him as the equal of Morenz and other stars this column suggests that the Richard boosters should wait a while before putting him up with the greatest stars in the history of hockey. After all it should not be forgotten that the quality of play all around in the N.H.L. right now is not very high. What a player like Morenz would have done in the way of scoring if he only had to face the kind of competition that Richard has had to beat can be imagined. We have an idea that in company like this year's league has to offer the stars of yesteryear would have set a lot of new marks. Their speed and stick-handling and scoring ability would have made it almost impossible to keep them under control if they had nothing more to beat than the puck-carrier of today finds himself facing.

* * * * * *

The Rocket was anything but that in Toronto last night when the Canadiens were knocked back on their heels to the tune of 4 to 2. Richard never did succeed in getting untracked. The Leaf forwards tied him into a knot and Babe Pratt almost ruined him with a bodycheck that must have been heard in Montreal. Leafs using only twelve men had the edge on the Flying Frenchmen throughout with Mel Hill pacing the Toronto attack. The winners got the only goal in the first period, outscored the Montrealers 3 to 1 in the second and held on strenuously in the third when Canadiens bagged their second marker. At that the leaders did not lose much ground for the best the Detroit Red Wings could do with the ragged Rangers was to play a 4-4 tie in New York. It might have been a Patrick victory if it had not been for the Bruneteau brothers. Mud fired two goals and set up another and brother Ed shot the other Detroit marker.

Athletes And War

"No clear thinking citizen in this country or United States will declare that there is anything that takes precedence over winning the war, but it would appear that War Mobilization Director James Byrnes of the neighboring republic was taking an ill-advised view when he stated that it was hard for him to understand how athletes playing tough games could not participate in the fighting program," says Bill Gaynon in the Niagara Falls Review. "Such a remark was a reflection on the honorable profession of medicine, which accounted for the boys Mr. Byrnes referred to being in athletics and not fighting branches. Doctors are qualified to determine who shall and who shall not, don the military regalia, and there's no reason for anybody to suspect that any of these examiners rate a spot behind Mr. Byrnes in the matter of patriotism. The athletes in question were rejected for deficiencies, which would not allow the hardships of warfare, flat feet, sinus, bronchial, heart and other defects that cannot keep an individual at his best under the handicaps that confront a soldier, but will permit a couple of hours activity in a game that the rejected man had indulged in for many years."

* * * * * *

"Likewise Mr. Byrnes was not stating facts when he claimed that the men fronting the land's sport picture were contesting against the finest athletes in the world, every reasonably thinking party knowing that the land's number one athletes are in there doing their bit and not taking second place to any other branch of citizens in the way of assisting the manpower problem as it effects the active batting departments," continues the Niagara Falls scribe. "Less than a week ago, reports from U.S. quarters revealed that over 400 athletes had died in the service of their country, while a similar statement from England showed 90 professional soccer players paying the supreme sacrifice. Canada has not made known its figures, but when such are released, it will show this country well up and every country participating in this world conflict, has a heavy quota of athletic luminaries in the thick of things. And of this number, headliners have been very conspicuous, while those rejected and carrying on the remaining athletic groups are for the most part, very ordinary, and it's difficult to see how it is any more harmful for a 4-F athlete to resume his athletic career than it is for a rejected ironworker or blacksmith to return to construction work."

Hamilton Rink Takes Laurels At Detroit Club

DETROIT, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Ross Tarlton's Hamilton, Ont., rink last night captured the championship in the Detroit Curling Club's 45th annual international bonspiel by edging out the defending champions, a Toronto four skippered by Justice Dan Kelly, 10-8 in the finals.

The second event was won by Roy Smith's Sarnia, Ont., rink, which defeated a Detroit quartette skippered by Harold Steele of Detroit, 10-7.

Homer Lockhart's Sarnia rink smothered a Detroit aggregation skippered by Peter Sweeney of Detroit 13-8 to take the third event.

Competing in the tournament were 22 Canadian rinks, eight Detroit teams and three rinks from Chicago.

Results of the semi-finals in the first event: Tarlton's team defeated a rink skippered by W. C. L. Hardie of Hamilton, 11-10, and Kelly's rink submerged a Detroit team skippered by Nate Cornwall, 12-5.

In the second event's semi-finals, Smith's rink eked out a 6-5 victory over the Guelph, Ont., team captained by Dave Kennedy. Steele's quartette also eliminated another Guelph rink skippered by J. A. Wells, 8-7.

In the semi-finals of the third event, Lockhart's team won from R. W. Ripley's Kitchener, Ont., four, 11-4, and Sweeney's team defeated a Chicago team skippered by Charles Watson, 9-5.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

Attended by gridiron celebrities, the annual dinner of the Wildcats, O.R.F.U. champions of 1944, was held last night at Hamilton when Jimmy Fumio, outside wing, was voted the outstanding player of the team and received the Frank E. Lennard Memorial Trophy. The guest speaker was Johnny Metras, coach of Western Mustangs who won the last Intercollegiate rugby title in 1939.

Trophies emblematic of the Ontario honors were accepted in behalf the Wildcats by Eddie Remegis, captain of the team, and the players received crests. Tommy Louden, representing Toronto Balmy Beach, received the Dr. Smirlie Lawson trophy for the runner-up club.

The Illinois Boxing Commission yesterday at Chicago refused to sanction exhibition bouts for Jack Johnson, 66, former heavyweight champion of the world who lost the title in 1915 and retired from the title in 1924. Johnson, who was refused a permit on account of his age, was to have sparred either Kingfish Levinsky or Lee Savold Jan. 12.

Secretary W. A. Hewitt of the O.H.A. yesterday announced at Toronto that under the Association's regulations, no member of the armed forces may play for any civilian club and that men on discharge leave are not eligible for civilian hockey. He said there had been some confusion regarding eligibility rules.

Golfing's big-timers and many others are teeing off to-day in the 19th annual 72-hole Los Angeles open for war bond prizes aggregating $13,333. Favorites include Sam Snead, Byron Nelson and Harold McSpaden who won the event one year ago.

Observers at Washington yesterday leaned to the belief that the request to Congress for legislation to divert the 4,000,000 4-F's to war plants or special service with the armed forces might prove a staggering blow to organized baseball. The request was made by James Byrnes, director of war mobilization, who included discharged or rejected athletes in the classification.

Promoter Mike Jacobs of the 20th Century Sporting Club yesterday announced the signing of Lee Oma of Detroit and Joe Baksi of Kulpmont, Pa., for a 10-round heavyweight battle Jan. 26 at Madison Square Garden, N.Y.

The 10-man committee of organized baseball is meeting at Chicago to-day for the purpose of reviewing the agreement under which the late Kenesaw M. Landis ruled the sport for 24 years. The unlimited authority of the commissionership may be toned down, it was suggested.

ACTRESS SHOT—Accidentally shot when she picked up a partly dismantled rifle while on a hunting trip, lovely Susan Peters (above), motion picture actress, is in a critical condition at Mercy Hospital, San Diego, Calif. The bullet entered Miss Peters' chest. The accident happened at Lake Cuyamaca, about 50 miles from San Diego.

Jimmy Fumio Awarded Memorial Cup

HAMILTON, Jan. 5 — Jimmy Fumio, selected as one of the best outside wings in the Ontario Rugby Union during the season of 1944, was named as the most valuable player to his team and last night at the annual dinner of the Wildcat football team he was presented with the Frank E. Lennard Memorial Trophy. The dinner, attended by football celebrities, brought tributes to the Ontario titleholders from Johnny Metras, coach of Western University, Tommy Louden, representing the Balmy Beach Club, Percy Robertson, former member of the Wildcat executive, Harold Bailey, secretary of the O.R.F.U. and Sam Manson.

Johnny Metras, guest speaker of the evening, opined that Wildcats were outlucked in their Dominion final against HMCS Donnaconna of Montreal, but at the same time pointed out that Balmy Beach was really outlucked in their final series against the local club. Metras said that spirit and spirit alone defended the crown the Tabbies annexed in 1943. If the champions waited until next fall to lay their plans they would be making a serious mistake, he added.

Advice to Players

"You players should be thinking, eating and sleeping football right now," said the speaker. "You must remember that Montreal had only a bunch of kids with determination and they won the Dominion crown. The best of luck to you in 1945," said Metras in conclusion.

The presentation of the Harry McGee Cup and the O.R.F.U. Trophy was made by Harold Bailey, secretary of the O.R.F.U., and received by Eddie Remegis, captain of the club. In addition crests were also presented. Mr. Bailey, in a short speech, stated that the O.R.F.U. had operated under adverse conditions and added that under normal conditions the oldest union in the Dominion would still continue to operate. He paid tribute to Coach Eddie McLean and closed by stating that the Hamilton Club had given the O.R.F.U. the best kind of cooperation.

Len Back, president of Hamilton Old Boys' Football Association, presented the Dr. Smirle Lawson Trophy to Tommy Louden, representing the Balmy Beach Club for being runners-up in the Ontario Union. Other speakers were Dr. Stanley Perkins, C. C. Lawson, S. R. Manson, Eddie McLean and Jack Dynes.

Youngster 18 Meets Zivic

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP).— A boxing guinea pig—that's the role cagy Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburg will play against Philadelphia's Billy Arnold in the eight round final bout at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Arnold, 18 year old High school student who skyrocketed to fistic fame during the past year with 28 kayos in 31 scraps, has been established a 1-5 favorite in this opening headliner as the 1945 sock season gets under way here.

The 31 year old former welterweight champion, veteran of 14 years in the ring, is expected to demonstrate whether the undefeated Arnold warrants all the nice things said about him. It is the first time the Philly youngster has met anyone of Zivic's skill and class.

Upsets Feature 5-Pin Loop; Scores Are High

Fashion Craft's 6-0 win over Ken Graham's Empress outfit and Fred Whatley's Old Timers 6-0 shutout of Westclox were the big upsets in the Men's City League at Duffus last night. The Westclox were not at full strength last night, having two dummys and that probably accounts for their poor showing. Fashion Craft's win was well earned as they turned in a 3471 total.

Although Chris Graham's team turned in high performance of the night with 3599 and a single game of 1294, they were only able to secure a 4-2 victory from C.P.C., due largely to Roy Suddard's 801 cross and 378 single.

Top individual honors went to "Tick" Caccavella with 871 including a 337 solo.

Bob Dyer topped six single games over the 300 mark with a crashing 382. Suddards had 278, Caccavella 337, Jack Patte 332, Walt Crary 304 and Mel Anthony 304.

Sports Spice

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.— (AP). — When Branch Rickey was testing the reactions of newspapermen the other day—they only thought they were getting some news—he came out strongly in favor of the appointment of a sports co-ordinator for the United States....As a confirmed "anti-Czar" guy, we can't see where he advanced any good arguments except that during these uncertain times a co-ordinator could deal better with other agencies in Washington....Personally, we can't think of any one man whose knowledge could encompass all the details of, say, the baseball farm systems and scoring a figure skating competition.

Is This Consistent.

Rickey says he has a candidate (not identified) for the sports coordinator's job and then, urging the immediate appointment of a baseball commissioner, he refuses to make any nominations....It seems from here that any guy who could supervise all sports could handle the baseball job with one hand—in fact, he'd have to.

To-day's Guest Star.

Ban On 'Chasing Removed In United Kingdom

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Steeplechasing, only major sport banned in Britain during the war, returned to turf at Christmas after an absence of nearly two and three-quarter years. Relaxation of the ban is regarded as still another example of the improved war situation.

The National Hunt program, approved by the government, called for 28 one-day meetings at four tracks, covering dates from Dec. 26 to March 31. Windsor and Cheltenham will be the southern England tracks, with Wetherby and Catterick catering to northern England.

Between 400 and 500 jumpers are in training for the season, although some, mainly the long-distance performers, won't be in condition until late this month. Most of the horses have been on grass since the ban, introduced because of the difficulty in obtaining special foodstuffs for 'chasers during winter and because of the greater winter strain on general transport, such as railways which normally would transport horses from one meet to another.

Announcing resumption of the sport, National Hunt stewards made it clear they were complying with government wishes in instructing

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Standings of the National Hockey League scoring leaders remained unchanged last night as the four top scorers were held scoreless and the three others in hockey's big seven picked up one to three points when Toronto defeated Montreal Canadiens 4-2 and Detroit tied with Rangers 4-4. Syd Howe, Detroit, narrowed the gap dividing him from Elmer Lach, Canadiens, to two points, while Mud Bruneteau, Detroit, gained three points and Gus Bodnar Toronto, one point.

The leaders:

Bisons, Capitals In Tie Game

By The Canadian Press

Buffalo Bisons and Indianapolis Capitals both strengthened their respective leadership of the eastern and western divisions of the American Hockey League last night as they tied 3-3 in the only scheduled A.H.L. game.

For the Bisons it was their fourth tie of the season. The Buffalo team avoided a defeat in the third-perid when Doug Webster netted the tieing goal for the Bisons after 13 minutes and 10 seconds of play.

Indianapolis took a first-period lead on Bill Thomson's goal but Art Lessard and Vernon Jones both tallied to give Buffalo a 2-1 lead at the end of the first frame.

After a scoreless second period, Tony Bukovich and Pete Leswick restored the lead to Indianapolis. Webster knotted the count 11 minutes later.

Lakehead Team Of Juniors Picked To Win

WINNIPEG, Jan. 5 (CP)—Junior hockey schedules at the Lakehead and in the Prairie Provinces are still in their initial stages but the league finalists, barring upsets which could only be classed as startling, are already apparent. The Western Canada Senior picture remains clouded.

At the present time, Port Arthur Flyers, league champions last Spring appear certain to repeat in the Thunder Bay Junior League, while Winnipeg Monarchs top the six teams in the Manitoba Junior loop by a wide margin. Moose Jaw Canucks have a secure grip on first place in the South Saskatchewan League and Canadians are undefeated in Edmonton Junior competition.

At the Lakehead, Port Arthur Shipbuilders are the only Senior team and are casting about for opposition to give them the form that carried them into the Allan Cup finals against Quebec Aces last Spring.

Flyers dominate the Junior League with 11 straight victories—nine in pre-season Rory McLeod Memorial series and two in regular league games. Navy, with one win and a loss, appear to lack the power to stay with the Flyers.

Air Force have too much power for the other teams in the Manitoba Inter-Services Senior League and lead by a wide margin. Army and Navy are battling one point apart for second place. A trial Senior series is being held in the province between the Esquire-Red Wings and MacDonald Airports with a view to entering the Allan Cup championships. Esquires won both games played to date.

In the North Saskatchewan Junior League Prince Albert and Saskatoon Varsity are tied for the league leadership, one point ahead of Navy. There is no senior league in the province.

Currie Army and Calgary R.C.A.F. Mustangs are neck-and-neck for leadership of the Alberta Senior Inter-Services League.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SYD THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Jan. 5 — (CP). — There is just no escaping the toils of the law, one Toronto bookmaker found out to his bitter resentment. With only one hour to go before the Byrnes fire curtain fell on the United States racing, the unfortunate, hard-working man found his place raided and the finger laid directly on him. He complained vociferously about the injustice and ingratitude of copper to man in putting the crimp on him on the very last day he had to make an honest living, but it did no good. If the bookmakers' union finds out about this, there may be repercussions.

Charity begins:

The brand of hockey played by former N.H.L. stars now stationed in the Halifax area has drawn much favorable comment in those parts. In fact, Gee Ahern of the Halifax Herald wrote that the Halifax loop was producing the best hockey in Canada, outside of the N.H.L. But then a disgruntled sport fan who took in a few games in Toronto and other N.H.L. cities, wrote him to say he wasn't overly impressed with the pro game. In fact, he said, the Halifax columnist was "charitable" in crediting the big top with a better brand of shinny than the down-easters...Such an unkind thought.

Wait awhile:

Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll isn't as brashly optimistic about the abilities of Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens as many of the bleacher boys, who have compared the rocket with Howie Morenz. While Dink cautiously says Richard may be as good as Morenz, or maybe better, after he gets a few years' experience, it is too early to go out on a limb yet. As he points out, Morenz won his claim to greatness by his consistent play over many years, performing in much faster company and with some really capable goalies facing him all the time—while Richard is situated much better on all counts. Opines the Gazette columnist: "On the side of sanity, let's lay off these comparisons with Howie Morenz until another decade has passed."

Incidentally:

Stork section: The proverbial bouncing boy now graces the home of Mrs. Kay Gordon Kerr, sprightly Winnipeg swimmer and wife of Sgt. Don Kerr, overseas......The seats in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens don't get rusty these days. Attendance statistics show that an average of only 77 seats have been empty in the Gardens in the first 11 games played there. Total attendance of 138,064 is well ahead of the fastest attendance pace on record....Frank Dotten, the playing coach last year with New Westminster Lodestars, Western Allan Cup finalists, is leading scorer this winter in the new California Hockey League.

Remember When—

(By The Canadian Press)

First bobsleigh race ever recorded took place 47 years ago today at St. Moritz, Switzerland, where the bobsleigh had been invented eight years earlier. Time for the mile-and-a-half course was 2.54, compared with the present running time of about 1.40. Bobsledding was first incorporated in the Olympic Games in 1928.

Toronto Defeats Canadiens; Rangers In Tie

By The Canadian Press

Lester Patrick's New York Rangers showed life again last night and forced Detroit to do some fighting to earn a draw. All of which kept Canadiens two points ahead of the second place Red Wings, for while Wings and Rangers battled to a 4-4 tie, the Montrealers suffered their fifth loss of the season, 4-2, at Toronto.

The loss incidentally, was the Canadiens fourth to Leafs this season, Canucks having beaten the Queen city squad only once in six games — the other being a tie.

The picture of the hockey front remained ostensibly the same. Dick Irvin's boys hold a full game margin over Wings as well as being one in hand. Down in third place, pulling away from the fourth spot Boston Bruins, are the Leafs, six full points behind Jack Adams' team.

It was the same old story in Toronto. Leafs had an easy time and the pace-setting Montrealers could do little about it. Mel Hill was the hero of the night, setting up the first Toronto tally for Bob Davidson and then scoring twice in the second frame to clinch the game. Lorne Carr scored the fourth goal.

Starry Ray Getliffe had to do Montreal's goal-getting while the all-star Blake-Lach-Richard line was held scoreless — not unusual on Toronto ice.

The Bruneteau boys — Mud and Ed — were off with a bang in New York and in less than seven minutes had given the Wings a 2-0 lead. Hank Goldup tallied one for Rangers and then rang up another in the second period after Walter Atanas had tied the count. Mud Bruneteau tallied his second in the last stanza, evening the score once again and Fred Hunt countered a minute later.

Wings pressed the play and managed to square it up near the 16-minute-mark, but could not score on Ken McAuley after that.

Fleet Phil Watson fulfilled an ambition last night and played in a defence spot, though his hand was in a cast. It looked bad for the Patrick aggregation at the start, but the fighting fifth place squad were out to get as many points as possible and keep the wolf away from the door — in the form of the bolstered Chicago Hawks.

Los Angeles Open Underway Friday

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5— (AP). —Golf's greatest par-crackers — most of the top flight professionals and the usual sprinkling of star amateurs—resume firing along the winter tournament trail to-day in the 19th annual 72-hole Los Angeles Open, a $13,333 War Bonds event.

Who will it be this time? Sam Snead, the Virginia giant killer, who walloped the field in the Portland and Richmond Opens?

Or Byron Nelson, Toledo, O., irons expert, who led the country in bond winnings last year with a new low scoring average of less than 70 per round?

Off their short and long term performances, respectively, Snead, by capturing two out of the last four tournaments, and Nelson, the kingpin of 1944, rate favorites.

Either's work is cut out for him over the long Riviera Course, close to a 6,900-yard trek, and a four-day links derby, the final round set for Monday.

Disabled Men To Be Placed In Proper Jobs

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Jan. 5.—(CP).—A tall youth swept his sightless eyes over a group of reporters here to-day and confidentally told them that Canada's disabled veterans would be placed in jobs where their efficiency would be 100 per cent.

He was Maj. Edward A. Dunlop, of Toronto, 25 year old infantry officer who lost the use of his eyes when he retrieved a loose grenade which exploded as he attempted to hurl it out of danger.

Maj. Dunlop, a son of a former Ontario Cabinet Minister, has recently taken over the new veterans' affairs casualty section which has the big job of arranging the placement of what he terms "so-called" disability cases.

He emphasized that his philosophy was that he was dealing with "ability and not disability."

He quoted instances of some of the Domnion's more than 1,300 amputation cases and 55 blind cases of this war who had already returned successfully to civil life.

"We believe hat every man who suffers a disability can be rehabilitated and live a normal, happy and useful life," he said.

His program had four pre-requisites: Training, intelligent placements, determination on the part of the man to be as good as the next, and an intelligent attitude on the part of the public toward "so-called" disabled men.

Among disability cases he cites as examples was Capt. Allan Piper, Cornwall, who lost both hands in a similar grenade incident which claimed Dunlop's eyes. Using special mechanical fingers, operated by shoulder movements, he is a plant supervisor at the Howard Smith paper mills in his hometown — a better job than he held at the same plant before the war.

Flt. Sgt. Harold Edwards lost both hands in a premature bomb explosion and now he's the best records clerk a St. Catharines electrical firm ever had and the other night he rolled 207 in a five pin powling game.

Macdonald Won't Run In Kingston

HALIFAX, Jan. 5—(CP)—Navy Minister Angus L. Macdonald Thursday said in a press interview Germany still has many submarines and "there is no reason to think they have all discontinued their activity." The minister is on a tour of naval establishments in this area, his first in 15 months.

Mr. Macdonald said two British aircraft carriers have been loaned to the Royal Canadian Navy. They are manned by Canadian crews, with the exception of the fliers who are attached to the fleet air arm.

When asked if he would return to the Nova Scotia political field, the former Nova Scotia premier said "I hope some day to come back to Nova Scotia." He confirmed reports that he will not run in the Kingston, Ont., constituency in the next Federal election.

Thursday, accompanied by Rear Admiral L. W. Murray, commander-in-chief, Canadian Northwest Atlantic, Mr. Macdonald will inspect naval establishments. He is expected to be here until Friday or Saturday.

Flt. Lt. Hart Massey Seriously Wounded

LONDON, Jan. 5 (CP-Reuters)—Flt.-Lt. Hart Massey, 26, son of the Canadian High Commissioner to the United Kingdom, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, "recently was seriously wounded while on duty at an advanced RCAF airfield in the Low Countries," the RCAF announced Thursday.

After he is flown to England, he will be placed in a military hospital, the statement said.

Flt.-Lt. Massey, who was born in Toronto, was commissioned a pilot officer in the RCAF in October, 1939.

Country Doctor Asists In Childbirth Over Telephone

WINDSOR, Jan. 5 — (CP) — A baby girl was born to-day at Hotel Dieu Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patterson, of Comber, eight minutes after Mrs. Patterson had arrived at the hospital by freight train and taxi because of blocked roads.

Dr. Harry G. Emerson of Comber, the attending physician, exclaimed: "Wonderful—but not quite so amazing as the baby I had to deliver by telephone at Stoney Point. Such is the life of a country physician."

Dr. Emerson had to catch a freight train back to Comber, so he could not be interviewed about the baby delivered by telephone, the 10 pound baby boy now the pride and joy of the Hiram Roy family on the Blue Water Highway, just outside Stoney Point.

Mr. Roy explained that roads into Stoney Point have all been blocked since New Year's Day—and will not likely be opened for several days yet.

"I can't possibly get there," Dr. Emerson, at Comber, told Mr. Roy, "but if you'll follow my directions carefully, I think that everything will be all right. That's the best we can do."

Dr. Emerson then gave complete instructions on the delivering of a baby—the while Mr. Roy, in Stoney Point, wrote everything down.

Mr. Roy with women of the neighborhood helping to carry out the doctor's instructions, thereupon embarked upon the strangest task of his 30 years. And before it was successfully completed, he found there were many further things he had to ask the doctor.

When Dr. Emerson decided early this morning that Mrs. Patterson, of Comber should come into Hotel Dieu maternity ward, he telephoned Michigan Central Railways authorities and made arrangements to have a freight train stop at Comber on the way to Windsor. Now both mother and daughter are doing well.

Keene United W.M.S. Exceeds Allocation

KEENE, Jan. 5 — (ENS) — The annual meeting of the United Church WMS was held on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. G. T. Gall and was in charge of Mrs. A. Rennie, the president. The secretary, Mrs. James McFarlane, read the list of officers for 1945, and the installation was conducted by the Rev. George Murray, who referred to the splendid work done by the seven groups of the society. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Gall, showing that the society had exceeded its allocation. The chapter, "Thailand under test," was given by Mrs. Murray from the study book, "West of the Date Line." It was decided to hold the February meeting at Mrs. J. McFarlane's home. A vote of thanks was extended to the hostess for hospitality and dainty lunch was served.

Aluminum Chief E. K. Davis Denies Charge

NEW YORK, Jan. 5—(CP)—E. K. Davis, president of Aluminum Limited, Montreal, Wednesday described as "entirely untrue—entirely a misstatement" a charge by Lawrence Apsey, special assistant to the United States Attorney-General, who said Tuesday that a Canadian subsidiary of the Aluminum Company of America had aided Germany's re-armament program.

Mr. Davis listened in his New York office while the statement was read to him over the phone and then made his brief comment. He declined to discuss the matter.

Mr. Apsey, chief of the anti-trust division's New York field office, who was seeking reversal of a district court decision clearing the Aluminum Company of America of anti-trust charges, said that Aluminum Limited, a Canadian "business enterprise owned by Alcoa's stockholders, played an important part in rearming the third Reich and hampering its opponents" by membership in the Swiss Incorporated "Alliance Aluminium Compagnie."

Challies Favors St. Lawrence Deep Waterway

TORONTO, Jan. 5—(CP)—Hon. George H. Challies, minister without portfolio in the Ontaio gobernout portfolio in the Ontario govern-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, said to-day Governor Thomas E. Dewey has asked Ontario Hydro authorities whether they are willing to proceed wtih completion of the St. Lawrence river waterway and power project.

Mr. Challies was commenting on Governor Dewey's message to the New York State Legislature to-day which said New York would proceed with the project in co-operation with the Dominion and Ontario if United States federal authorities were unwilling to participate.

"New York State has asked the Ontario Hydro if we are willing to co-operate," said Mr. Challies. "There have been, of course, no negotiations. All I can add is that the Ontario Hydro is willing to proceed but it is naturally a matter for the Premier and Government to decide."

Premier Drew was not available for comment.

KILCONQUHAR HOUSE, Fifeshire, Scotland — (CP). — Beatrice, dowager Countess of Lindsay, widow of the 12th Earl Lindsay, has died.

A personal note on Post-War Planning

"that gives us an idea of what we're fighting for...

Sig. T/O Howard McLean,
Telegraphist on
H.M.C.S. "Dundas"

* Those are the words of Howard McLean, young naval telegraphist, who used to be ledger-keeper at our branch at Port Alberni, B.C. Telegraphist McLean was telling us what he thought of the Bank of Montreal's recently announced rehabilitation plan for him and 1,115 other men of the Bank's staff who will soon be marching home in Victory.

What Howard McLean wrote to us has been said in different ways by hundreds of fellow bank men, and letters, which are being filed at our head office, are still coming in daily from our people on practically all the fighting fronts.

Post-war planning begins at home, and, as another of our people in the services said, "the old B of M looks out for us like a mother with a rather large family". (Counting service men, the Bank's family numbers more than 8,000.)

Service men coming back to the Bank will not simply return to their old jobs. While they have been away, their standing in the Bank has been reviewed each year and salary increases have been noted in their records, according to their past performance.

As the General Manager said in his annual address to shareholders,

> "It is our intention to place these officers on the salary and, within a reasonable time, in the position, which they would normally have expected to attain had they been in the continuous service of the Bank. Our object is to see that they have not lost ground through their service to their country."

Highlights

OF THE BANK'S 5-POINT REHABILITATION PLAN . . .

PENSION FUND SOCIETY . . .

All B of M men belong to the Bank's Pension Fund Society. This fund, which provides each man with a pension upon retirement at 64 years of age, is built up by contributions by the Bank and by each male member of the staff. During the war, each B of M man serving with the Forces has had both of these contributions paid by the Bank, and thus his standing is the same as if his service with the Bank had been continuous.

SALARIES . . .

Each B of M man in the Services has had his salary and position reviewed each year and the increases he could reasonably have expected to receive had he remained in the Bank have been entered in his record. Upon his return, these amounts will be added to the salary he was receiving at the time of his enlistment. Thus, his earnings will not be affected adversely by his absence in the service of his country.

GROUP LIFE INSURANCE PLAN . . .

Practically all B of M men avail themselves of this low-cost life insurance plan, and coverage has been continued by the Bank for its servicemen during their absence, with premiums charged to a loan account pending demobilization. Extra charges for war-risk have been defrayed by the Bank.

DEMOBILIZATION — REPORTING FOR DUTY...

Every B of M man, after reporting for duty, may, if he desires, have two weeks' leave — on full pay from the Bank — during which he can re-establish his personal and family affairs. When he commences work, he will be given a refresher course before taking over the post to which he is most suited, and, wherever possible, he will be stationed in a city or town of his own choosing.

GROUP ACCIDENT AND SICKNESS INSURANCE PLAN for B of M Men and Their Dependents . . .

Under our insurance programme, which gives maximum protection at minimum cost, B of M servicemen can have protection for their dependents at 40 to 60 cents a month. They, themselves, can have protection within four weeks of their return to the Bank's service. The Bank pays a substantial portion of the premium.

By following this five-point plan, we at the Bank of Montreal feel that all members of the staff on active service can be effectively placed in the Bank within a reasonable time. There will certainly be a place for everyone and, we believe, ample scope for advancement.

Main Street Topics

PROMOTION

Harold Knight, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Knight, of Wicklow, near Cobourg, has been promoted from the rank of Flying Officer to the rank of Flight Lieutenant, while serving in the United Kingdom with the R.C.A.F. His wife and daughter are living in Grafton.

NO WOOD SUBSIDY

Payment of a general subsidy of $1 a cord to wood dealers for commercial wood cut has been discontinued but subsidies may still be paid in special cases, it was disclosed today in Canadian war orders and regulations. The $1 a subsidy was introduced by order in council in April, 1943, to help meet a shortage of wood fuel.

A HIT-AND-RUN CASE

Adam Melrose, 472 Thompson avenue, complained to the police Thursday night that as he was driving his car south on Monaghan road near Charlotte street his machine was sideswiped by a northbound wood truck, which did not stop after the accident. The door handle of Melrose's car was broken off, the door warped and the body dented.

GOOD REPORT

Pte. John James Condon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herb. Condon, 305 McDonnel street, who was reported seriously wounded a few days ago, has now been taken off the dangerously ill list. He was suffering from bomb fragment wounds of the face, right arm, hand, thigh, leg and foot, left foot and abdomen, and later his right leg had been amputated below the knee.

A RENT QUESTION.

A property owner in the annexed area of North Monaghan has been wondering whether a substantial increase in assessment and prospective taxes should not warrant a revision of rent for several houses.

FIRE THREAT

Christmas trees are dangerous fire hazards at this time of year, with so many left to dry out in houses after the Yule festivities. Fire Chief George Gimblett advised today that all trees be placed out with the garbage immediately, so that they can be collected and taken away.

COLLIDE AT INTERSECTION

In a collision at George and Hunter streets cars belonging to K. O. Beatty, Water street and Ivan C. Payne, Mount Dennis, were both damaged. Beatty was making a left turn off George street into Hunter street when the accident occurred.

SERVICE APPRECIATED.

Residents of Western avenue appreciated the work of one of the city's graders in the removal of snow this week from its traffic lane, George Wallwork remarked to the Examiner to-day. With annexation, the city's western boundary has advanced from Monaghan Road beyond High street and its community of Wartime Housing tenants to Western avenue, both sides, where the wind blows in from the gardeners' fields of Monaghan. The roadways through the Wartime Housing area were also cleared, the city's attention to that southwest section was regarded as an indication of the service which may be expected by the new ratepayers.

Court Reserves Judgment In Gambling Case

After hearing the argument of T. J. Carley, K.C., defence counsel, and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning reserved judgment in the joint charges against Spiros Zakos, William Ward and Donald Conway of operating a common gaming house at Plaza Billiards, Charlotte street.

Evidence in the case was heard at two long sessions prior to this morning and to-day there was a long argument by counsel as to the authorities in such cases and to the facts brought out during the hearing.

At the conclusion of Mr. McElderry's argument His Worship announced he would reserve judgment in order to study the cases quoted by counsel and the evidence in the case.

Rev. W. Filer Speaker At Council Session

Rev. W. A. Filer president of the Ministerial Association, has been invited by Mayor Hamilton to lead the council in invoking God's blessing on the affairs of the municipality at the inaugural beginning Monday at 11 a.m. It is expected also that Rev. Mr. Filer will address the council at this meeting which will probably be featured by Mayor Hamilton's survey of the work facing the new administration.

The council will follow its procedure of setting up its standing committee of the whole. The public is especially invited to attend the morning meeting which will be followed in the evening by the first business session of the new year.

Upper, also of Toronto, Cecil, of this city, and two daughters, Mrs. O. E. Stewart, of Winnipeg, and Miss Lillian A. Upper, of Toronto.

The funeral will be held Monday afternoon at two o'clock, in the chapel of the Frank Foster Funeral Home, near Runnymede Road. Burial will be in Prospect Cemetery.

Three Pay Fines For Cafe Fracas

As an aftermath of a recent fight in the Louis Cafe three persons were fined in police court this morning.

William John Trainer, Elm street, who pleaded guilty to creating a disturbance was fined $10 and $1.75 costs.

"The man who started the thing and caused all the trouble got away before the police came," Trainer told the court this morning, adding that he had to fight to protect himself.

Mrs. Margaret Smith, Elm street, also pleaded guilty to creating a disturbance, although she said she did not know very much about the affair. The court was informed that Mrs. Smith had had a tooth knocked out during the fracas.

"She is a woman and was injured," said Magistrate Langley in making the fine in her case $5 and $1.75 costs.

William S. Hetchings, Simcoe street, entered a plea of guilty to a similar charge although he said that he had only been an attempted peace-maker. He told the court that he had been struck when he tried to stop the original fight.

Stating that he was accepting his story Magistrate Langley made the fine in Hetchings' case $5 and $1.75.

William Rose, Business street, who pleaded guilty to being drunk was fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

Kenneth Crocker, arrested on a charge of begging was remanded at the request of the police.

10 Resorts Booked For July Holidays

There are at least 10 summer resorts in the Peterborough district which have been booked up for the month of July, 1945, J. J. Dorris, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce in Peterborough, said today.

Mr. Dorris pointed out that all indications are that the summer months of 1945 are going to mean an even greater season of tourists to this district than last year, which incidentally was the best in 15 years for Peterborough. Americans who spent summer in the district in 1944, made a point of making reservations for this year in many cases, he said.

$200,000 Limit To Arena Suggested Plan

Receipt of $161,620 at the end of the year were reported to the general committee of the Peterborough Memorial Community Centre by John E. Keyes, treasurer, Thursday night.

Total cash and pledges in the funding campaign amounted to $206,950.35. Outstanding contributions amount to around $45,000, of which $20,000 is from the manufacturers section.

"The funds from the employees' canvass are coming in splendidly," Mr. Keyes told the meeting. "I think this part of the financing will be completed by February or March. There is one plant with a total objective of $3,600 in cash and pledges, and all that is outstanding is about $200.

"The largest undertaking was at C.G.E.-Genelco, and if there has been any falling off there for one reason or another it has been very slight. Signs at present point to us having finally more than $200,000 from our campaign."

Details of payments were read as follows:—

Manufacturers, promised $111,800; paid $92,580.

Industrial employees, promised $47,107.75; paid $32,381.45.

Retail section, promised $16,784.85; paid $13,689.25.

General canvass, promised $10,666.75; paid $9,118.30.

Special names, promised $18,120; paid $13,450.

Outside the city, promised $431; paid $421.

J. A. Jebson, presiding, said the report by Mr. Keyes should be most gratifying to all the members and to the large body of citizens who actively supported the project.

C. S. Cummer reported total expenditure of $3,169.16, including $1,866.67 for advertising and publicity; $719 for office salaries, in the maintenance of headquarters from which the project was conducted and to which pledges are continuing to be paid; office and other supplies $145.66; sundries $54.56, and so on down the list of expenses which were incurred from the inception of the Memorial Community Centre to the end of 1944. All the bills have been paid, Mr. Cummer said except several small items.

Named To Committee

Nominated to the building committee of the Community Centre were: George A. Macdonald, T. C. Ephgrave, Clarence Neal and Frank Buckland. They were proposed by a nominating committee and adopted Thursday night. It was commented that the city council would probably appoint its three representatives at the first business session Monday night.

The city council was requested Thursday night to consider the advisability of engaging a competent engineer in town planning to give expert direction in the work which the council itself has been advocating.

Appreciation of the work of the present Town Planning Committee was expressed in the discussion, but it was pointed out that this committee has no definite commission, that it is hampered by time and other factors. Its appointment reflected the desire of the council to provide some guidance in the future development of Peterborough, but the Centre members Thursday night were suggesting that the council should go farther.

Another resolution proposed the inter-planning of the various enterprises which are taking shape in Peterborough, with the prospect of others in the future, and also consultation of the Town Planning Committee in reference to these buildings.

"Three are definitely assured," said Ian McRae. "The new city hall, Civic Hospital and the Memorial Community Centre, and in the overall planning for the future our general committee should work closely with a committee like the Town Planning Committee."

Too Backward

The substance of this phase of the discussion was generally that the council had not gone quite far enough in its town planning initiative, that it should engage a qualified man to point the way, and finally that the town planning committee should be retained and given definite work to do, if possible.

Frank Buckland raised the question of the number of additional units to comprise the Memorial Centre project, and that idea elicited what appeared to be quite a strong sentiment within the committee that the arena building committee should be restricted to $200,000.

Walter Blackwell reminded the members that such additional units would involve the acquisition of property, and the buying of property for recreational and public health purposes would require the expenditure of considerable money.

The building committee has only one responsibility, the erection of the proposed arena, which was discussed in some detail Thursday night. On the other hand, the planning for the entire integrated Memorial Community project should not be too long put off.

"Three or four men might bring in some recommendations of what they think the whole project should be," Mr. Buckland said. "It would provide the committee with something to discuss in that direction."

The members present were: J. A. Jebson, Walter Blackwell, W. S. Johnson, Vern Selkirk, Ian McRae, Bill Garner, Ed Riley, Frank Buckland, George Macdonald, Ross Dobbin, C. S. Cummer, J. E. Keyes, Chief Gimblett, J. J. Dorris.

STINSON-BIDDLE NUPTIALS—Attired in glamorous checks, Joseph "Jo-Jo" Stinson, 66, and his bride, the former Miss Violet Biddle, 78, are shown after their wedding in Washington's municipal court. The bride is said to be a member of the Philadelphia main line Biddle family. President Roosevelt and Supreme Court Chief Justice Stone had been invited to attend the nuptials, but failed to appear.

Kinsmen Appoint 1945 Committees

CAMPBELLFORD Jan. 5 (ENS) The new executive of the Kinsmen's club headed by President-Elect Jack Fink held its first meeting for 1945 at Woodlawn and named the committees for the new year.

A pleasant feature of the meeting was the presentation of the Past Master's pin to Forrest R. Dennis, the club's first president, in appreciation of the fine work done during his term of office. One item was the raising of $800 for the "Milk for Britain Fund." The presentation was made by the retiring secretary, Kenneth Kingston. Mr. Kingston also announced the receipt of $5 for the Milk for Britain Fund from Cecil Stephens, of the Christian Island Mission School.

Mr. Dennis thanked the members for this cooperation and asked that this be continued to an even greater degree under President Fink.

William J. Callaghan reported on the New Year dance and stated that the receipts would cover the expenses of Christmas baskets to the underprivileged families. $75 was voted to the hockey committee.

Guests at the meeting were Trooper Morley Horseman and Sergeant Leonard Grew, both invalided home from overseas.

The following committees were named: Attendance—W. MacKenzie, McLean, Donald; Membership—Joe Smith, Charles Collins, A. Kennedy; Club History—Roy Barnum, Forrest Dennis, Kenneth Kingston; Expansion—W. Callaghan, Jeff Dobur, R. Hazell, F. Gorman; Fellowship—M. Tanner, W. Callaghan, R. Wilde, E. Stanbury, J. Bibby; Finance—Roy Barnum, Bob Poulton, Keith Bound; Kin Education—A. Bates, A. Kennedy, M. Tanner, R. Hazell, W. Callaghan; Publicity—K. Kingston, R. Barnum, R. Hazell; Community Service—W. Callaghan, R. Hazell, K. Bound; Milk for Britain—Roy Wilde, B. MacKenzie; Sick and Visiting—J. Bull, H. Dooher, B. Masterson; Sports—M. Tanner, J. Dooher, Graydon Bell.

Circulation Increase

TORONTO, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Net paid circulation of Canadian daily newspapers continued to advance during the six months ended last Sept. 30 and reached the highest point in history — more than 2,600,000 copies daily, the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association announced yesterday. The continued advance came in a period when a slight seasonal decline was expected.

Combined circulations during the 1944 period where 4.3 per cent higher than in the corresponding 1943 period.

Finds Jap Bomb

ALHAMBRA, Calif., Jan. 5 —(AP).—Mrs. D. J. Anstedt went to her front lawn to bring in the morning newspaper, and she found—wow! — a Japanese incendiary bomb. The bomb was turned over to army authorities and an explosives expert said it was made in Japan. It had a detonator and was loaded, but he said it had not been dropped from a plane.

Sheriff's officers say that mayhap a service man brought it home as a souvenir.

Bob Hope Signs 10-Year Contract

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 —(AP)— Bob Hope, one radio's top comedians has signed a new 10-year contract with his first and only sponsor, Charles Luckman, president of the Pepsodent division of Lever Brothers, announced today.

Luckman did not disclose the total sum agreed on but a spokesman said the new agreement represented a "considerable" increase in Hope's earnings and was "understood to be for nearly as many millions as years." He described the contract as involving what was believed to be the largest total sum ever negotiated in a single deal for radio talent.

The new contract will extend the partnership of Hope and his sponsor to 17 years. The radio-movie star's first radio program was in 1938.

Luckman lauded Hope for his "magnificent job of morale building for the men and women of our armed forces both and home and overseas."

Luckman said that since 1941 Hope and his troupe have travelled approximately 1,000,000 miles to entertain servicemen.

Go To Trenton

TORONTO, Jan. 5.—(CP).— Arrangements for transfer of No. 1 R.C.A.F. Training Command Headquarters from Toronto to Trenton where amalgamation will be made with No. 3 training command, Montreal, are almost complete, it was learned last night. The Trenton station will be known as No. 1 Air Command.

Men Want Girls To Sport Grable Curves Heavy Clothes Taboo Even In Zero Weather

TORONTO, Jan. 5 — The idea seemed sound, sure enough. Women should wear more clothes, said Dr. C. P. Yaglou of the Harvard School of Public Health. If they wore clothes they would keep warm —save fuel—help the war.

"Phone the wartime prices and trade board," said the boss. "This should be up their alley. They have a special program for saving coal."

For saving coal, yes. For women's clothes, no. The wartime prices and trade board said nix. Not on your life. Vive la status quo!

"Leave the girls as they are, God bless 'em," declared one official with feeling. "Who is this man to suggest they wear more clothes? He must be a landlord. Those landlords never miss a chance to cut down the heat."

Intensive research has convinced Dr. Yaglou the reason women shiver in a room that's comfortable for men is difference in attire. If women dressed like men in winter, he argues, and if men dressed like women in summer—

"Nonsense," interrupted the official. "My wife and I sit in the same room and both feel comfortable. She doesn't have to wear a shawl and I don't have to swelter."

Furthermore, asserts Dr. Yaglou, the average weight for women's winter garb is a scanty 2.6 pounds. No wonder, he crows, they hug the steam jet while pop and his 8.3 pounds crowd the window.

"This is a landlord conspiracy," repeated the official. "Every week we have complaints for underheating. We have temperatures down as low as 55. We have tenants in here, men and women, trembling in their fur coats. We never have tenants, men or women, complain of overheating."

So much for the wartime prices and trade board. How do the girls feel themselves? Do they shiver when they could be warm. Has their suffering been solved?
clothes until it's the fashion."
clothes until t's the fashion."

Lady No. 2: "Hahahahaha."

Lady No. 3 (a member of the bobby sox brigade): "I still go barelegged and I don't like slacks—does that answer your question?"

Lady No. 4: "I've often thought the same thing—about not wearing enough clothes, I mean. But aren't men responsible? After all, no girl could look like Betty Grable with eight pounds of clothes . . . "

Which brings us back full circle to where we started.

Box At Empress Brings $33 To Bomb Victims

In the many forms of appeal made on behalf of the bomb victims in Britain by the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, the penny boxes (some forty in number) rank among the foremost contributors in a collective way, the total yield from them standing in second place as producers from any one source to benefit the fund.

And like all else, among their own group there are some that take a lead in their own sphere of activity, among which the box at the Empress Hotel takes a leading position.

There is of course a reason for this, easily explained by the fact that one person has never missed making a daily deposit on a voluntary pledge basis, for the whole of the time that these boxes have been in circulation.

In this manner its contributions on the whole run into high figures because of this unflagging interest, an idea of which may be gained by stating that for this past year alone, the total from this one box has gone well over the $100 mark.

Two contributions are reported from this source today, the first in an amount of $21, which was collected a few days previous to the second, and came as a result of the box being passed around among the hotel patrons on two occasions at the New Year, and yielded a further $12.15 to make a total of $33.15 at this time.

Stamp Out Hitler Clubs

This is another activity that has been on the go for a considerable time to assist the fund, having also the assisting of the general war effort through the purchase of war savings certificates as an aim, in which it has been quite successful, due largely to the untiring learedship of Bob Everitt and the faithful work of the club members at the Canada Packers Ltd. plant and among Kiwanis Club members.

The former is responsible for $10 of the amount contributed from this source, with the Kiwanis Club adding $5, the balance being made up by Selkirk Men's Shop, and Bob Everitt hmself adding something as a New Year's gift for those whom the fund benefits.

The winners at the Canada Packers Ltd. were Mrs. Wagar, Nurse Yelland, who heads this effort in the plant itself, Elwood Trotter, Miss Phoebe Claridge, R. Butchart, Elmer Godfrey, and Miss Wilma Doherty and William Andrews, both of whom won on two occasions.

The Kiwanis Club winners were T. Pridham, W. Derry, Bob Everitt, Al Wilson and Jack Sinclair, while T. P. Anthony was the winner in the Selkirk Men's Shop Club.

New Auto Markers Blue And White Color

The new 1945 car markers will be attractively finished with white letters on a blue background, and will be ready for distribution to the public on January 15, J. J. Dorris, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce in Peterborough, said today.

The number of auto license plates distributed has remained almost stationary during the past few years, he said. This year, a total of 10,080 markers will be sold, including trucks and trailers. Out of the 10,000, passenger cars will probably account for 7,800.

Approximately 12,000 drivers' licenses will be issued for 1945 travel.

Main Streeter 33 Years G. A. Lee Dies

George Albert Lee, caretaker for thirty-three years of the store premises of Richard Hall Limited, died this morning at his home, 178 Edinburgh street.

For more than a year his health had been gradually declining, and for a time he had to suspend his work for six months. It was reported that he had been last at the store just prior to Christmas, and that death resulted from a heart condition.

Mr. Lee was born at Lindsay, son of John Lee and his wife Della Ellsworth, and was in his sixty-fifth year. He came to Peterborough thirty-eight years ago, and for the last thirty-three years had been engaged with R. Hall Limited. George Lee was a pleasant main street figure with many friends in the down-town district, and known to thousands of others through his long connection with Hall's drygood store. In the doing of his work he gave the impression of thoroughness and a busyness that everybody recognized.

Mr. Lee is survived by his wife, three sons, Kenneth and Allan at home and Private Gordon J. Lee, C.A.S.C., in Italy; one daughter, Mrs. Ernest Henwood of this city, and three sisters, Mrs. D. Heels, Mrs. A. Moore of Lindsay, Mrs. Sarah McCarthy, Toronto. He was a member of George Street United church.

The funeral will take place Monday from the Belleghem Funeral Home, 190 Hunter street, W., at 2 p.m. to Little Lake cemetery. Rev. Dr. Semple will conduct the service.

Prevent Cancer By Education

TORONTO, Jan. 5.—Enthusiasm in the fight against cancer was evident yesterday at the first meeting of the Women's Advisory Council of the Canadian Society for the Control of Cancer, held in Simpson's Arcadian Court, with Mrs. W. P. M. Kennedy presiding.

Dr. George S. Young outlined the history of the society which received its Dominion charter in 1938, and Prof. William Boyd of the University of Toronto spoke on the cancer problem, pointing out that "education is one of the biggest factors in combatting the menace."

"Education is necessary to show people that cancer can be eradicated if taken in time, and that delay is dangerous—and if this organization can do this it will have performed a great service to humanity," saiad Prof. Boyd.

Early diagnosis and treatment will prevent serious illness and death from cancer, said Prof. Boyd. The only effective treatments are two — surgery and radiation, he stressed. All ordinary forms of cancer start locally and may be removed locally if caught before the disease starts to spread, he said.

Prevention of the disease is possible, he pointed out. Cancer of the throat, for instance, more prevalent in women than in men because women are more prone to lack of iron, might be prevented by including a little more iron in the food intake. Constant vigilance is necessary, said the speaker.

Mrs. J. E. Pierce, referring to the activities of the Canadian Society for the Control of Cancer, said that within the last three months, 56,170 pieces of literature have been sent out.

A provisional committee was formed to discuss current cancer problems. Committee includes: Miss C. McCorquodale, Toronto General Hospital cancer clinic; Mrs. Ryland New, national president I.O.D.E.; Mrs. Norma Stephens, president Toronto Local Council of Women; Mrs. H. B. Spaulding, soldiers' auxiliaries; Miss Margaret Dulmage, Ontario Red Cross, and Mrs. J. Laing, Toronto.

Travel To Paris

LONDON, Jan. 5—(CP).—Passenger travel between London and Paris by sea and rail will be resumed January 15, the first time since the fall of France. Limited to priority passengers, the service will allow travel in the national interest and in "compassionate" cases—the latter possibly to permit relatives in Britain to visit badly casualties in France in cases of "immediate urgency."

PLEASE! SHOVEL YOUR DRIVEWAY WHEN EXPECTING A COAL DELIVERY

The drivers for the coal yards in Peterborough are up against one of the toughest delivery problems in years. The shovelling of your driveway will greatly assist in making prompt deliveries. This will be greatly appreciated not only by your fuel dealer but also by the workmen who are laboring long hours to keep you supplied with fuel.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

Whoever wins the group honors this season, will have to work for it and work hard all the time. This was clearly demonstrated Thursday night.

On the 7 o'clock draw E. Brown won from D. Davis by one shot, on an extra end. F. Green nosed out Dr. D. W. Clark by one shot 8-7. R. Hutchinson finished only two up on Jimmy Hall and Fred Batten won from R. Williamson by the score of 9-6.

On the 9 o'clock draw R. F. Downey scored his first schedule win of the season, but Dave Grant forced him into overtime. Tom McArthur was lucky to get a 9-6 verdict over Wallace Harvey. Jimmy Richmond and Jack Welsh fought it to a standstill for 10 ends and then had to play the extra end with Jimmy getting the nod.

Ray Best and President Westbrooke were tie going home, and Ray drew the shot with his last stone.

So you can easily see that if the boys keep this pace up, its going to be tough.

We congratulate our ladies who played up in Toronto the last couple of days, on their good showing. True they did not win anything, but, they made a wonderful impression, especially when you consider that our ladies have had practically no curling this season.

Saturday's program is as follows: 2 p.m., men's bonspiel; 7:30 p.m., mixed bonspiel. Fee 25c to each spiel.

NOTICE

Application to Legislative Assembly

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Corporation of the City of Peterborough intends to apply to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at the next Session thereof for special legislation:

1. To approve, validate and confirm By-law Number 4401 of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough which By-law authorizes the issue of debentures for Seventy-five Thousand Dollars ($75,000.00) to provide aid in the construction of a Memorial Building as the first unit of the Peterborough Memorial Community Centre.

2. To approve, validate and confirm By-law Number 4399 authorizing an agreement between the Corporation of the City of Peterborough and the Peterborough Memorial Community Centre providing for the construction, general management, regulation, control, and financing of the said Memorial Building.

3. To authorize and empower the Corporation of the City of Peterborough to vest the general management, regulation and control of such Memorial Building in a Board of Trustees.

4. To authorize and empower the Corporation of the City of Peterborough to acquire any lands by expropriation (if necessary) which may be required in order to provide proper facilities for recreation and sports for the children, youth, industrial workers and the citizens generally of the City of Peterborough and a forum for public gatherings.

The existing Debenture debt exclusive of local Improvements and other indebtedness which by the provisions of certain Ontario Statutes is not to be reckoned in ascertaining whether or not the limit of the borrowing power of the Corporation has been reached is $2,376,520.70, and no part of the principal or interest thereof is in arrears.

The amount of the rateable property of the Municipality, according to the last Revised Assessment Roll of the Corporation, is $25,501,689.00.

DATED at Peterborough, this 11th Day of December 1944.

Ban On 'Chasing

that no horses would be allowed to run that were located outside Britain on June 1, 1941, or that have been out of the country since that date.

The ruling strikes primarily at horses shipped to Eire for racing in that neutral country after the ban here and also at horses owned by Eire stables. It also hits, English owners who purchased Eire-bred animals in the belief they would be able to participate at the start of English racing. Now they must wait until regulations are relaxed — probably next season.

Transport Regulations

The government also introduced a transport regulation which rules that no horse boxes will be provided for the carriage of horses by rail and, in road transport, gasoline will be issued only for the conveyance of horses to meetings for a distance not exceeding 50 miles.

Therefore, horses in training outside that radius in relation to the track site will be unable to compete—unless they walk part of the way. And they might do just that — walk anywhere from five to 15 miles — because it has been done in connection with flat racing.

Epsom, one of the main training centres, can manage road transport to Windsor, but Cheltenham is about 125 miles distance.

The door-closing on Eire jumpers blasts hopes of some of the world's best-known owners including Hon. Dorothy Paget, James Rank, Lord Sefton and Lord Bicester who sent their best 'chasers to Eire when the ban hit Britain.

Banned performers include Lord Sefton's Medoc II, which won the Cheltenham Cup in 1942 then raced in Eire. Among outstanding Eire animals affected are Rank's Prince Regent, Irish Grand National winner, and Lord Bicester's promising Prince Blackthorn.

A couple of veteran 'chasers who will return to action are Tragedian and Myowne, collectively aged 26 years and winners of races. Both will train at Epsom.

To Organize 90,000 Cream Producers

TORONTO, Jan. 5—At an executive meeting of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture here yesterday, action was taken to organize 90,000 cream producers who produce about 47 per cent of the Province's milk. The action was taken at the request of county units of the Federation.

A four-man committee to make recommendations to the Ontario Agricultural Commission of Inquiry was appointed. It will be headed by W. J. Wood of Alliston, and consists of Roy Lick of Oshawa, Harry Hewitt of Cayuga and S. L. Joss of Belleville.

It was explained that the cream producers are the only branch of the dairying industry still unorganized, and this fact is looked upon as imperilling the whole milk price structure. The Agricultural Commission of Inquiry will be asked to include a recommendation on organization of cream producers in its forthcoming report to the Department of Agriculture.

A resolution requested that the Federal Government, in liquidating war projects, "as much of them as can be used expediently for the welfare of the people as a whole should be retained as public utilities or turned over to the farm cooperatives or other farm organizations which will use such assets in the interests of the majority of the people."

Another resolution passed by the directors asked all farm organizations to join the Canadian Federation of Agriculture in a program to "maintain adequate floor prices" as provided for under the Agricultural Prices Stabilization Act.

Kenneth Betzner of Waterloo presided.

Allies Not Using Jet-Propelled Planes

LONDON, Jan. 5 — (CP) — The British press speculated today that the Allies were waiting only for a suitable moment to send forces of jet-propeled planes against the Germans.

The air expert of London Evening News cited British and American claims of superiority in jet research and an announcement last May that such planes were in production.

"Not one Allied jet plane has appeared in the sky to challenge German jet planes," he continued. "Why? The jet planes silence and their non-appearance in action is puzzling not only the public but members of the forces, too—the army as well as the air force."

One explanation was that the jets are not considered—even by the Germans—to be of great value yet. Another was the outstanding performance of several conventional Allied planes—the American Mustangs and Thunderbolts and the British Tempest.

Court Reserves

The hearing of the evidence in the case was completed late Thursday afternoon.

At the session of the court held on December 19, the evidence of Provincial Constable Edgar Legate and Corp. Gordon Tomlinson who participated in the December 7 raid on Plaza Billiards was heard and the case was then adjourned until Thursday of this week.

When the session opened Thursday afternoon Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., called Chief Constable John W. Thompson to the witness box. The police chief told of the raid on Plaza Billiards, and said that from time to time he himself had seen men coming out of the place long after the hour of regular closing.

Constable Claire McGillen testified that when the basement of the place had been raided he had gone down there and had found a pair of dice on a beam. Several feet away was a deck of cards. The officer said that the dice and cards produced in the court were similar to those he had found on the beam in the basement. Constable McGillen said that he had seen men coming out of Plaza Billiards late at night on a number of occasions in the three months prior to the raid. Three of the men he had seen had been among those found in the basement when the place was raided.

Constable Gordon Trennum gave evidence as to having seen men come out of the place late at night and Detective John Stevenson was also called but was not allowed to state what he had seen on occasions before he was appointed Detective last April.

The Defence Evidence

Donald Conway, 16, one of the three charged jointly with keeping a common gaming house was the first defense witness called by T. J. Carley, K.C. The youth swore that he had just started to work at the Plaza Billiards that night, employed in the pool room. Asked as to paying any money to Provincial Constable Legate in connection with the pinball machine Conway testified that the constable had said that the machine owed him six nickels and that he had looked at the machine and saw that it indicated a tilt. He had paid the constable for six tilts, he said. If there had been any free games coming to the officer the machine would have shown it, witness stated. Conway denied having sold any soft drinks in the basement that night, saying that he had not been down there at all. He also swore that he did not know that there was a crap game going on in the basement and said that he had not noticed any men going down there.

William Ward, also charged jointly with operating a common gaming house, said that his home was in Hamilton but that for five years he had operated a pool room and later a dance hall in Belleville. He had come to Peterborough, he said, to try to secure a dance hall from Louis Yeotes.

Ward said that he had fixed some cue tips at the Plaza Billiards and had helped out there around meal times on occasions but that he had never been paid for his services.

On the night of the raid, he said, he went down stairs to the washroom. He saw some men shooting craps and two or three others playing cards in the basement and had got into the crap game himself, he said. Ward denied having anything to do with operating the game. He had taken some bets, he said, but was just a player like the others. There was no rakeoff and nothing in the game for anybody.

"A Wrong Player"

"I am a wrong player" Ward said. "That is I always bet that the player with the dice will not make his point; the right players always bet that he will."

Ward said that he did not notice the provincial constable in the game. "He was behind me and I never saw his face" the witness said. Ward testified that Legate had asked him to change $10 and witness had given the officer a five dollar bill, two 2's and a one.

The witness was shown the dice that had been introduced as an exhibit and said that those were not the dice that had been used in the game that night. The dice that had been in the game had been found the following day in the coal in the basement.

Ward said that he had a secret pocket in the sleeve of his coat. It was a practice that he had followed for years, and that he kept some of his money in that pocket for fear of a holdup.

John Yelland who had previously pleaded guilty to having been found in on the night of the raid testified that he had gone down to the basement around 11 o'clock and was in the game for a short time before the police came.

"It was an open game" said the witness. "Ward played just the same as the rest of us."

Leonard Kennedy who also had pleaded guilty as a found in but stated that he did not take part in the crap game himself, swore that from what he saw it was an open game and there was nothing distinctive about Ward's connection with it.

Proprietor Called

Spiros Zakos, proprietor of Plaza Billiards, and jointly charged with Conway and Ward, was the last defence witness. In connection with the pinball game he said that Conway would have no authority to pay out any money for free games. In the matter of tilts witness said that it was the custom to trust to the honor of the player. If a customer claimed there had been four or five tilts he would be paid five cents for each of them.

As to the crap game in the basement that night Zakos swore that he had no knowledge of it. He himself was on duty in the store at the front of the building and could not know who had gone down stairs.

Zakos said that he had some punchboards in the store and that they were used at Christmastime with merchandise as prizes. Customers asked for these boards, he explained and the provincial police that night had asked to be allowed to play the boards. Constable Legate had won a box of chocolates the witness said.

Zakos said that Ward used to drop in to the place at times and had helped out in busy hours but had never been paid for his services.

In reply, after the defence evidence had been completed, Crown Attorney McElderry, K.C., called Corp. Tomlinson of the Ontario Provincial Police, who swore that on the night of the raid Ward had told him that he was employed by Zakos as an extra man and that he was paid on a salary basis.

To Mr. Carley Tomlinson admitted that at the previous session he had sworn that the other men in the basement had not put their money out on the table at the time Ward was searched. The officer stated that he did not see them empty their pockets because he was chiefly concerned with Ward and admitted that that was different from saying that they had not done so.

At this stage the court adjourned until this morning for argument and judgment.

Suspend Service Associated Press

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Jan. 5—(AP).—The Department of Press and Propaganda last night suspended all communications facilities of The Associated Press in Paraguay, alleging that a summary of President Higinio Morinigo's Christmas Eve message transmitted by the news agency and published in Argentine newspapers "implied repudiation of ideas and concepts which compromises Paraguay's democratic position."

(The summary referred to was not distributed by The Associated Press to members in the United States nor to The Canadian Press.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

FIND SOME USE FOR 'EM

TWO OR THREE little trumps can sometimes be of great value to a defender if he finds proper use for them. Often the holder of such little fellows considers them worthless, and only something with which to follow suit when the declarer runs the trumps. Occasionally the best thing to do with them is ruff a trick which your partner otherwise can take. That is emphatically so if getting the lead is important, so you may shoot another suit through the opponents' hostile cards.

North: ♠ A 8 7 ♥ 6 4 ♦ A 7 6 5 ♣ K 9 7 4

West: ♠ 3 ♥ A 7 5 2 ♦ 10 9 ♣ A J 10 8 6 5

East: ♠ 6 5 2 ♥ Q J 10 9 3 ♦ 8 4 3 2 ♣ Q

South: ♠ K Q J 10 9 4 ♥ K 8 ♦ K Q J ♣ 3 2

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♠ | 2 ♣ | 2 NT | Pass |
| 3 ♠ | Pass | 4 ♠ | |

There were only slight variations from that bidding at the various tables of a big duplicate, practically everybody getting into 4-Spades. One shooting top score was made by a South who reached 3-No Trumps and then ran 11 tricks against a club lead. But the spade play was more interesting, in that it produced three variations.

In all cases West led his club A, felling his partner's Q, and repeated with the J. When this was covered by the dummy's K, East ruffed and switched to a heart, so that two tricks in that suit set the contract.

Wiser Souths did not cover the club J on the second trick, as they could foresee what that would cause East to do. They played low from dummy. Several of the East players, seeing that their partners had the trick won, discarded a heart—some a low one, some a high one. Where a high one, West scored his heart A and led the 2. This enabled South to make his contract exactly. Where a low heart was discarded, West switched to a diamond, his 10. That enabled the declarers to score an extra trick, discarding one heart on the club K and one on the diamond A.

Where both the declarer and East were wise, a low club was played on the J, but East ruffed anyway, in order to get the lead for a heart return. Those fellows set the contract by making proper use of a little trump.

What is the way for North and South to get into their best contract if West insists on obstructing them with a couple of diamond bids?

Canadians Speed Operations In North Italy

By WILLIAM BOSS
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS ON THE ADRIATIC, Jan. 5 — (CP) Cable)—Striking northeast from a point along the Ravenna-Ferrara highway halfway between Mezzano, six miles northwest of Ravenna, and Alfonsine, three miles up the road from Mezzano, Canadian troops have stepped up operations designed to clear the Germans from the salient between the highway and Lake Comacchio.

In the thrust toward the lake, a string of lagoons and sandbanks formed by silt from the Po river and its tributary, the Adige, the Canadians on Tuesday killed and wound many Germans, took 70 prisoners and captured the town of Conventella, two miles east of Alfonsine.

The Germans, however, still hold a slight pocket on the Senio opposite Alfonsine and a large bulge near Granarolo, 12 miles to the southwest.

The attack on Conventella started just before dawn when Ontario battalions advanced toward the town.

Toronto Units

Western Ontario companies under Maj. Bob Coles of Kingston, Ont., and Capt. Bob Chamberlain of St. Thomas, Ont., attacked at 5 a.m. and took groups of houses. Maj. Coles encountered resistance from fortified buildings and tanks under Maj. Tim Allis of Saint John, N.B. joined in the assault.

Other troops under Capt. Peter Fisher of London, Ont., followed through with tanks and by noon had flanking positions northwest of the town.

Meanwhile a direct attack on the town began when Toronto companies under Maj. Norm. Hickling of Toronto and Capt. Tony Falzetta of Sudbury, Ont., made for groups of houses. Hickling advanced behind a barrage and succeeded in reducing one strongpoint with Piat mortar guns, killing 10 Germans and captured their two anti-tank guns.

Capt. Falzetta, after initial difficulties, reorganized and advanced to seize his objectives. Then companies under Maj. George McCartney and Capt. Herb Henry, both of Toronto, advanced to take the town's outskirts and Maj. McCartney's men mopped up.

Working behind the forward infantry, sappers probed for mines and cleared them from the roads. Cpl. Joe McLaughlin of Edmonton, Alta., headed the Engineers checking the roads which formed the route of troops who reached positions northwest of the town while the direct Conventella road was gone over by troops under Sgt. John Watts of Vancouver and Port Hammond, B.C. and Cpl. Ray Friedly of Delia, Alta.

After the mines were lifted, tanks pushed along the roads.

Around noon desert air force planes dive-bombed enemy positions just ahead of the infantry.

Tanks under Majors Allis and P. M. Blanchette of Rothesay, N.B., had barely gone into action when they encountered two self-propelled guns, preceded by a Tiger tank. When the smoke of battle cleared each force had knocked out a tank.

Armor under Majors J. E. Cook of Armstrong, B.C. and Pat Mills, Toronto, advancing beyond Conventella dealt with more mines and then with enemy armor which raced down to meet them. They knocked out one Panther tank and one self-propelled gun before the enemy withdrew.

Fire Enquiry May Be Held

TORONTO, Jan. 5—(CP)—Coroner W. E. Brown said today he would confer with Chief Coroner Smirle Lawson regarding an inquest into the death of Norman Kajioka, 14-year-old messenger boy, in a fire last night in a drug store on Spadina avenue in central Toronto.

The coroner's statement came after he received complaints from Jack Bishop and Roy Hurd, garage employees, that firemen refused their offer to attempt to pull out a frozen grating into the cellar of the store, where the boy was trapped, with a tow truck. Hurd said also that an offer of acetylene equipment was refused.

Police said an inspector in making inquiries into a further charge by Hurd that a police sergeant told him to "mind his own business."

One district fire chief said in an interview that even if the grate had been pulled up it would have been impossible to rescue the boy and another said he didn't hear of the offer until after another window grating had been chopped out.

Paris, Jan 5 (AP)

ANY haziness the Germans may have had about the exact meaning of the words "nuts," Brig.-Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe's one-word rejection of their request for the American surrender at Bastogne, was dispelled by an officer of McAuliffe's staff who delivered the reply.

When the officer handed McAuliffe's answer to the German officer waiting outside the American perimeter of defence, the latter asked:

"Is your commander's reply favorable? If it is, I am empowered to continue negotiations of terms."

"My commander's reply is 'Nuts,'" the American responded.

"What does that mean?" asked the German.

"It means go to hell," replied the American.

The German saluted and marched off

Torture Tales Contained In New Report

By DENNIS MARTIN.

21ST ARMY GROUP HEADQUARTERS, Jan. 5 — (Reuter) — Thumbscrews, hand-presses, and shackles and handcuffs were on display here yesterday—stark evidence of the horrors of a Gestapo "inquisition"— when British Army authorities released a 12-page report on the prison camp the Germans maintained at Breedonk during the occupation of Belgium.

"The idea of torture and mutilation is so abhorrent to the British mind that it is not easy to believe that practices associated with the Spanish Inquisition could be carried out in the 20th century by Europeans," the report said.

Prisoners—mostly Jews, members of the underground movements, denounced persons—who refused to talk, the report relates, were handcuffed, stripped naked and subjected to beating and other forms of torture.

A volume of horrifying photographs accompanies the report, showing prisoners before arrest, under torture, and finally in the emaciated death-like condition which still characterizes them today.

Teeth Knocked Out.

Almost all are without teeth — result of the blows they received from German guards.

Here is an extract from the evidence of one Belgian witness: "I was arrested at 4 in the morning .....On reaching camp we were lined up in two ranks and the lashes of the whip fell like rain on any who dared move. People there already were in a pitiful state —some covered with sores and boils.

"Almost daily we heard the cries of men and even women undergoing torture designed to make them talk. We were badly fed, made to perform the most filthy tasks, and after a few days, covered with lice.

"Hardly a day passed without our having to watch some one being punished. A man would be called from the ranks, made to bend over double and given 25 or 30 strokes with a stick.

"We were hungry—some men ate grass, roots, potato peelings, even bones buried in manure."

With the report are detailed appendices setting out the statements of witnesses and the names of the German torturers.

President Says Criticism Doing Damage

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(CP).—Because the London Economist, Yorkshire Post and some other British publications have mildly protested the flood of American criticism and condemnation of British policies toward liberated countries, a storm of indignation blew up here this week.

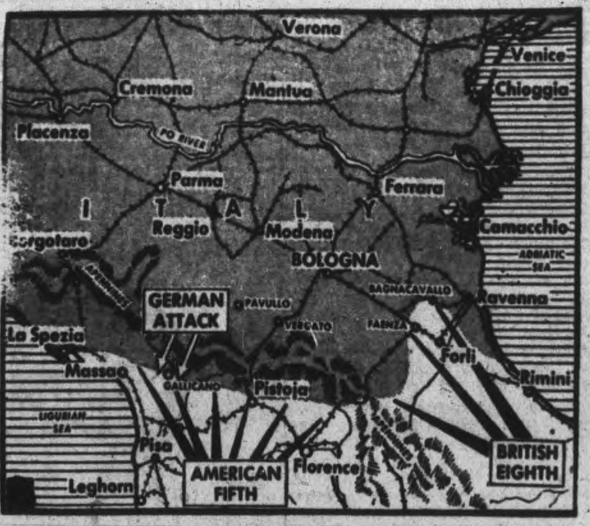
Editorialists, columnists and radio commentators have screamed like hurt children because, after silently enduring years of bludgeoning from these same sources, the British papers have politely but pointedly struck back.

Fortunately the bulk of responsible American thought accepts these incidents sanely and realistically, admitting that none is perfect and that mistakes and misunderstandings are inevitable.

President Roosevelt told his press conference Tuesday that relations with Russia and Britain could not be better and suggested that certain types of publications and utterances tended to hurt rather than help in keeping them that way.

But there is a growing desire and demand, frequently expressed publicly and privately by responsible citizens, for a straightforward statement from the President on these incidents.

To-morrow the President will send to Congress his annual "state-of-the-union" message. There is a possibility he will attempt to steer public thinking away from the dangerous paths being laid out by a small but articulate group which seeks to convince the people their sons and wealth are being poured out to enable Britain and Russia to preserve and extend their spheres of influence in Europe and Asia.



WHERE NAZIS ATTACKED IN ITALY—A second German offensive, this one aimed at the American Fifth Army in Italy, has been launched by Field Marshal Albert Kesselring. White arrows on the map show direction of the thrust, which is so vigorous that the Yank units had to effect withdrawals, meanwhile to the eastward. Canadian troops of the British Eighth Army have continued slow advances beyond the town of Rossetta. The Fifth Army has now regained most of the lost ground.

Allies Refuse To Supply Swiss

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—(AP)—Switzerland, which has been giving the Germans too much economic help for the liking of the United Nations, has been cut off from Allied supplies, it was learned yesterday.

Secretary of State Stettinius said that the whole economic relationship between the United States and Switzerland is receiving consideration.

All Switzerland, supplies from the Allies must move across France. The reasons given for shutting off what little the Swiss were receiving was the need of all French transportation facilities not destroyed by the Germans for Allied military use.

Nevertheless, some officials here who would not be quoted by name said they are inclined to be angry with the Swiss for what they called "heel-dragging" in complying with requests to tighten up on help to the Germans.

Germans State Allied Losses Total 140,000

PARIS, Jan. 5 — (AP) — Supreme Headquarters took the position to-day that Allied losses were a phase of the war which it could not cover—that the announcements must be left to the respective governments.

Admittedly this makes for an incomplete picture of the battle in which the Allies have lost heavily, as have the Germans, whose losses are being reported here.

To-day, for example, the United States 1st and 3rd Armies announced they had taken a total of 19,154 German prisoners since Field-Marshal Von Rundstedt's break-through started on December 16.

Besides these official figures, 1st Army reporters have been permitted to carry "unofficial estimates" that the break-through cost the Germans 60,000 casualties.

But there have been no Allied figures to balance the German claims of Allied losses. German propaganda is compounding these daily. Yesterday the German high command's broadcast communique claimed more than 50,000 American casualties since the winter counter-offensive began. To-day German broadcasts were proclaiming that 140,000 Americans had been lost on the Western Front in December.

Mouse Is Blamed

HALIFAX, Jan. 5 — (CP) — A fire believed caused by a mouse's gnawing at matches in a bureau drawer, almost cost the life of two and a half year-old Robert Mitchell, left alone here in the second storey of his home, last night.

The child was rescued by his grandmother, who rushed into the room when she detected smoke in the house. The fire was confined to the second floor.

2ND HUN ATTACK BLUNTED IN ALSACE

Nazis Throw 300 Tanks Against Reds

Battle See-Saws Along Danube Budapest Doomed

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Jan. 6—(AP)—Tank, artillery and air battles virtually as fierce as any fought since Germany attacked Russia raged northwest of Budapest today as the Germans made a supreme bid to break through to their isolated garrison in the battered Hungarian capital.

The fighting has reached such a pitch that neither side has given any clear indication of how far the German penetration has gone toward the city from the Komarom area.

At last report the Russians held a zone possibly 30 miles deep, but dispatches said the whole sector south of the Danube bend now is the most fluid and places are changing hands several times daily.

A Russian communique said the Germans threw 300 tanks into the battle yesterday.

Use New Tank

The Germans were said to have brought up numerous King Tigers from the Vienna area. These met a strong foe in the Red Army's new T-34 tanks. The Germans also poured great numbers of other mobile weapons into the area in the past two days.

Strong forces of German aircraft—in greater number than have been seen on the eastern front for months—are providing steady support for the enemy ground attack.

Although the Russians are tight-lipped about the way the fighting is going northwest of Budapest, dispatches said one thing is certain—no units of the Budapest garrison have been able to break through toward their would-be rescuers.

The Germans hold several important heights in northwestern Budapest and are firing with telling effect, but the Russians have kept them from two important escape highways—one to the west and another leading directly northwest to the new battle area.

The Budapest garrison itself is being whittled down every hour, front reports said, and especially so

Hun Chiefs Exporting Money

By KENNETH L. DIXON—Associated Press War Correspondent

ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Jan. 6—(AP).—German industrialists have begun exporting funds for safekeeping and arranging for development of new weapons for another war, according to information available here today. Both moves are said to have been taken surreptitiously at the instigation of the Nazi Party as part of its program to remain secretly in power after Germany's defeat. The export plans represent a definite change of Nazi policy. Previously the party has rigorously banned sending funds out of Germany; now the Nazis are said to be encouraging and assigning industrialists to get as much money as possible with the dual aim of saving themselves and advancing their post-war aims.

Simultaneously the Nazis are declared requiring large German factories to set up small "technical offices" or "research bureaux" having no obvious connection with their sponsors. Their existence is to be known only by a few key sponsors.

Both plans apparently underscore the fact that the Nazis hope to retain support of an essential segment of German enterprises during the post-war internal power scramble.

In the fund exporting program special emphasis is on neutral countries where a number of secret agencies are said to be handling the necessary transactions and charging five per cent commission "for changing German money into property.

F. D. R. Voices Confidence That War Will End Soon

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—(AP).—President Roosevelt called anew today for national service legislation during the war and universal military training afterward. In a message to Congress which bespoke a confident hope for enduring peace, the President declared that while great problems lie ahead, "this new year of 1945 can be the greatest year of achievement in human history."

Making the nearest thing to to a prediction on the end of the war which he has thus far essayed, the President said this year "can see the final ending of the Nazi-Fascist reign of terror in Europe," as well as the closing in of the "forces of retribution about the centre of the malignant power of imperialistic Japan."

Most important of all, he added, "1945 can and must see the substantial beginning of the organization of world peace."

It was a message on the state of the Union looking back over the course of the whole war and par-

5 Great Raids Batter Reich

LONDON, Jan. 6 — (CP). — War-torn Western Germany — battered during the night by more than 5,000 tons of British and Canadian bombs—reverberated again to-day under a weight of explosives borne by a great fleet of United States heavy bombers.

Flying with fighter escort, the U.S. bombers struck before noon. Targets were not immediately announced.

British bombers made five raids during the night—two each against Berlin and Hannover and one against German troop concentrations in and around Houffalize, in the Ardennes salient 10 miles north-east of Bastogne. R.C.A.F. planes joined in both Hannover operations.

The night sweeps came as a sequel to attacks on a score of road and rail junctions yesterday by more than 1,500 U.S. heavy bombers and fighters.

Allied planes yesterday hit virtually every major supply link in the 150-mile distribution zone supporting the German Western Front offensive. The fleet dropped 3,000

Canuck Unit Captures Sant' Alberto

Last Water Barrier Before Bologna Has Been Reached

ROME, Jan. —(AP)—Canadian forces, pushing northward through Italy's eastern Po valley, have captured Sant' Alberto, eight miles north of Ravenna, Allied Headquarters announced today.

Lt.-Gen. Foulkes' 1st Corps—attached to the British 8th Army—reached the Reno River, last water barrier of importance guarding the east flank of the approaches to the prize city of Bologna from the lower Po valley.

South of Cotignola and east of the Senio River to the south, other 8th Army units eliminated the German pocket which has stubbornly resisted in that area for the past several days, an Allied communique said.

Only "sharp and extensive" patrol clashes were reported from the Allied 5th Army front.

Climaxing a week-long drive through the canal and waterways of the Po Estuary, Canadian troops and armor pushed over the Bonifica canal in a move that caught the Germans flat-footed. The Canadians fanned out to the shores of Valli di Commacchio, forcing the Nazis to withdraw eastward and westward under the threat of being cut off.

The Canadians immediately took up the chase toward Mandriole, three miles east of Sant' Alberto.

(William Boss, Canadian Press War Correspondent, previously reported that the Canadians not only captured a bridge but established a bridgehead across the Bonifica canal Thursday and smashed a German counter-attack, capturing at least 400 prisoners. Boss said the Canadians also cleared the town of Granarolo, five miles northeast of captured Faenza.)

Farther south, troops of the 56th division (the London division) supported by British tanks, cut the remaining German bridgehead between the Naviglio canal and the Senio. The swiftness of the attack caused confusion among the Germans, whose casualties were heavy.

Planes of the Mediterranean Allied Air Force flew approximately 600 sorties yesterday, attacking targets in Yugoslavia, carrying out support missions for ground troops on the Italian front and attacking rail and road targets behind the German lines. One plane was lost.

Despite rough weather the French destroyers Trombe, Le Fortune and L'Alcyon have carried out successful bombardments of enemy targets.

29 Below Zero Is Low For Night In Peterborough

Lowest temperatures in several years struck Peterborough during the night, with a frigid weather spell shooting the mercury down to a 29 degrees below zero for the night low.

General predictions are that even colder weather might be on its way. There was a one degree drop in the temperature in Peterborough between nine and ten o'clock this morning, when a 27 below figure became 28 below.

The cold wave sweeping the city is general throughout the country and other parts of this district. In the Peterborough district, the lowest temperature reported this morning was 40 below zero at Bancroft, freezing plumbing fixtures in houses and putting most automobiles out of action for the day.

Apsley reported a reading of 36 below, while during the night, the mercury almost reached the 40 mark. Hastings residents said the 34 below mark reached at nine o'clock was the worst cold snap to visit the village since 1943, when a low of 45 was reached.

"Of course its colder out here than in Peterborough," a Warsaw resident said over the telephone. "At six o'clock this morning it was 35 below zero, and right now, it's about 26 below on all thermometers."

Millbrook reported a low of 30 degrees below during the night, but said the mercury was up to 28 below

Powerful New Offensive Gains 15 Miles Toward City Of Strasbourg

Drive On Saverne Gap By Strong Force Threatens To Pinch Out Allied Salient Between Saar And Rhine

By JAMES M. LONG—Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Jan. 6—(AP).—A second German winter offensive threatened Strasbourg from three directions today as British and American troops butted against stonewall German resistance in the hard wedge driven by Field Marshal von Rundstedt's first surprise attack across Luxembourg and into Belgium.

The second German drive had burst through U.S. 7th Army lines for 15 miles in five days southeast of Bitche in Northern Alsace.

The Americans still fought to wipe out an advance guard which had filtered into Wingen on the Moder River, 9½ miles southeast of Bitche and 28 miles northwest of Strasbourg, where the Germas were within 12 miles of Saverne, the Vosges backdoor to Strasbourg.

The enemy had landed in battalion strength at least along a seven-mile stretch on the west bank of the Rhine within seven miles north of Strasbourg, and had lashed out from the northern rim of his Colmar bridgehead and driven into Neunkirch, 19 miles south of Strasbourg.

Although front line dispatches said this new offensive had been blunted, it threatened to pinch out a 30-mile-deep Allied salient between the Saar and the Rhine which had been pointed into the Wissembourg gap toward the German Rhine city of Karlsruhe.

The Americans were drawing back from the Wissembourg area and Allied authorities were struggling to prevent the spread of the panic flight among civilians in Strasbourg and Hagenau.

The slight gains, and even some withdrawals of Allied forces around the rim of Von Rundstedt's Ardennes bulge indicated that the offensive to erase the damage of that break-through had ground to a virtual stop.

Weather Bad.

Blizzards, giving way to fog, ice-crusted roads and intense cold, combined with expert German defence, were handicaps which even a new secret artillery weapon developed by the United States Navy had not overcome.

Meantime, far to the north of the Maas (Meuse) River, Polish units of the 1st Canadian Army probed German north-bank defences. To raiding parties crossing in the Hausden region, about 15 miles north-north-east of Tilburg,

Will Maintain Call-up Rate 5,000 Monthly

By JACK WILLIAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Jan. 6—(CP)—National Selective Service is maintaining its call-up quota of 5,000 men a month, Director Arthur MacNamara said today, and from other well-informed sources came indications that unless army requirements are stepped up considerably no major change in present call-up regulations is expected.

It is known, however, to be no easy task to meet the 5,000-a-month quota and any step-up in this figure would have to be followed by the tapping of new manpower fields.

The United Kingdom recently announced its intention to call an additional 250,000 conscripts this year and in the United States it was announced this week that men between the ages of 18 and 25 on agricultural deferments would be made subject to call. In Canada, agricultural deferments are limited to men considered essential to the operation of a farm.

Present call-up regulations apply to single men from 18 to 37 years of age and married men 18 to 32. Single men who have reached their 38th birthday are not taken into

Officer Beats Theft Charge

NANAIMO, B.C., Jan. 6 — (CP). — Charges of retaining an army issue refrigerator for his own use against Maj. J. Forin Campbell, Royal Canadian Engineers unit commander at Camp Nanaimo, were dismissed yesterday while he was still testifying.

Magistrate C. H. Beevor-Potts, in dismissing the charges, said that it seemed to have become a common habit for officers to retain public and government goods for their own use, a practice he termed "a public scandal." He said he could find no evidence to support the Crown's charges that the refrigerator was stolen.

Maj. Campbell's trial was the second of three scheduled following Royal Canadian Mounted Police investigations at the camp. Capt. John Laird was convicted of stealing tires and a stove and sentenced to six months in jail.

Trial of WO. William Morrell, of the same engineers unit, on three charge of theft of government supplies was set for Jan. 17.

Killaloe Rated Coldest Spot

TORONTO, Jan. 6.—(CP).—Subzero temperatures prevailed in most of Ontario to-day, the lowest reported at 8.30 a.m. to-day by the Dominion Meteorological Bureau at Toronto being 38 below zero at Killaloe in the Ottawa district.

The Bureau reported other 8.30 a.m. temperatures as follows: London, two above; Kingston 16 below; Ottawa, 28 below; Kapuskasing 36 below.

In Toronto the low for the night was 10 below. The official low for the night in Peterborough was 29 below.

In the Kitchener area the low temperature was 17 below zero, coldest night of the present winter and the coldest for several years. Drifting in country roads near Kitchener was still bad and most roads were plugged, partly because one county snowplow was out of action. County authorities advised motorists not to attempt to travel on county roads.

It was 10 below zero at Woodstock and Welland reported six below.

Canadians Support Polish Scout Party

By ROBERT EUNSON
Associated Press War Correspondent

WITH THE 1ST CANADIAN ARMY IN THE NETHERLANDS, Jan. 6 — (AP). — Canadian tanks rolled up to the Meuse River's banks in the vicinity of Hausden — about 15 miles north-northeast of Tilburg — and laid down a crashing barrage in support of two small groups of Polish troops to the 1st Canadian Army, who rowed across the river in broad daylight this afternoon, probing enemy defences.

The Poles encountered enemy machine-gun fire but enemy artillery did not reply to the Canadian tanks.

No prisoners were captured. One officer was killed and two men wounded in one raiding party, and one wounded in the other.

R.A.F. planes attacked ahead of the troops, hitting an ammunition dump. Their pilots reported little enemy movement.

Although several patrols have been across the Meuse at night, this is the first daylight raid.

Jap Planes Spot Allied Convoys

LONDON, Jan. 6—The Tokyo radio said today Japanese planes had spotted an Allied convoy, including 120 landing barges, west of Luzon island in the Philippines.

The broadcast said the convoy also included transports.

Another strong convoy, Tokyo said was sighted west of Panay island, and a third was moving south of the neighboring island of Negros.

Luzon is the main island of the Philippines. Manila is located on it.

Yesterday Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced an unopposed landing on the island of Marinduque, 100 miles south of Manila, and just south of Luzon itself.

The wording of the Japanese broadcast suggested the possibility of a landing on Luzon. The position of the convoy also placed it south of the China coast and east of the coast of French Indo-China.

Burma Border Town Retaken By Japs

CHUNGKING, Jan. 6 — (AP) — Wanting, Burma Road border town which the Chinese claimed to have captured Jan. 3, was "subsequently recaptured" and still is in Japanese hands, a spokesman at Maj.-Gen. Wedemeyer's headquarters said today.

A Chinese communique last week said the town was clear and that "enemy remnants were fleeing southward with our troops in pursuit."

Before the Japanese invasion of Burma, Wanting was the site of a Chinese Customs Station clearing goods moving northward into China from Lashio, 116 miles to the south.

Rundstedt's Gamble May Be Disastrous

Eisenhower Believes Hun Action Will Re-act To Benefit Of Allies

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The vast and growing battle which is raging across the rugged, snow-covered terrain of the Belgian bulge is the test of Gen. Eisenhower's belief, as voiced in his historic order of the day to his armies after the German counter-offensive started, that "by rushing out from his fixed defences the enemy may give us the chance to turn his great gamble into his worst defeat."

The conflict still is young and its precise developments are unpredictable, but we can see the broad possibilities. Let's start briefly with the circumstances which precipitated Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's gamble.

Prior to Dec. 16 Von Rundstedt was unhappy in the defence of his Rhineland fortifications. The Allies were steadily crowding in and he was losing many men and much material in the war of attrition. Eisenhower was getting set to launch an all-out assault which would force Von Rundstedt to fight a decisive battle on the Cologne Plain. The Germans foresaw a disastrous defeat for his arms, and this would let the Allies into the industrial Rhineland—heart of Hitler's war industries.

3-Way Plan

So Von Rundstedt launched his surprise counter-blow. His purposes were:

1. To throw Eisenhower's projected offensive entirely out of gear and so gain much time;
2. To force the Allies back from the strategic Aachen sector and thus remove the threat to the Cologne Plain approach;
3. To try to capture the big Allied communications centre of Liege, and perhaps the vital supply port of Antwerp.

Von Rundstedt drove into the Allied line, created the Belgian bulge and forced the Allied line back from the industrial Saar region to the south. He has achieved his object of disrupting Eisenhower's offensive and so of gaining time. He has provided the Nazi propaganda machine with invaluable material to bolster home morale and impress foreign peoples.

However, the enemy commander thus far has been unable to break through to Liege, or any other supply centre. Had he done so it would have been an Allied catastrophe. Not only has he failed in this, but he has been stopped and thrown back at many points about the perimeter of the bulge.

This doesn't mean, though, that all danger of a German break-through of the perimeter is past. Von Rundstedt still may have another fling at this ambitious project, or he may develop the new offensive which he has started in the Bitche sector of the Allied southern flank.

The German leader has two other courses. One is to stand and fight within the bulge, which may become a ring of death. The other is to try to withdraw his men and armor back into his Rhineland defences.

Conductor Dies In Crash

10 Freight Cars Derailed When Trains Meet

SEVERN FALLS, Ont., Jan. 6—(CP)—One man was killed and an engine and 10 freight cars were derailed and overturned when two Canadian Pacific Railway freight trains crashed two miles north of here yesterday. Severn Falls is 108 miles north of Toronto.

William McMahon, 57, conductor of the leading freight train, was crushed and instantly killed in the caboose when the engine of the second train crashed into it. No other crew members of either train were injured, but the engineer, fireman and brakeman of the second train escaped by leaping from the cab into a snowbank.

The freights were running as first and second sections from Parry Sound to Toronto when the crash occurred, police reported. The first had stopped to put down a flagman and the second could not be halted in time.

Mr. McMahon, only occupant of the caboose of the first section, was trapped and crushed. The caboose broke into flames, but crew members were able to extricate the conductor's body.

Wrecking crews have started out from Toronto and McTier, divisional point north of here, and railway officials expect the line will be cleared for traffic some time today. Meanwhile C.P.R. trains running between Toronto and Sudbury and were were continuing on schedule by travelling over Canadian National Railways lines between Toronto and Parry Sound.

Chinese Lose Key Town

Must Retake Place To Control Road

CHUNGKING, Jan. 6 (AP) — Chinese armies forces have lost the China-Burma border town of Wanting after a brief occupation, but are expected to assume the offensive "within the almost immediate future," an American staff officer said today.

Brig.-Gen. Mervin E. Gross, assistant chief of staff for plans, United States forces in China, declared the Chinese now "are in position to offer much graver resistance than ever before" to the Japanese and predicted the new Ledo-Burma Road would be in operation soon.

The recapture of Wanting has direct bearing on opening the new supply line, Gross said. The Chinese high command announced capture of the town Jan. 3, but a spokesman at Maj.-Gen. Wedemeyer's headquarters said today it subsequently was recaptured and still is in Japanese hands.

Chinese jungle troops may momentarily retake the town, and also the village of Namhkam in Burma, Gross said. He predicted that within about 30 to 35 days after the Japanese are driven south of the two towns the Ledo-Burma road would be in operation.

"That's our objective," the American General said. "And we expect to attain it."

(AP Correspondent Frank L. Martin reported from Myitkyina that Chinese forces in Northern Burma under command of Lt.-Gen. Sultan and those driving west from China in the Salween region now were only 30 airline miles apart. Some advance Chinese columns already are within artillery range of Namhkam).

Japanese Losses Terrific In Philippines

PEARL HARBOR, Jan. 6 (CP)—United States carrier planes have reached past the sprawling island defences of Japan to the coast of embattled China, it was announced today, while in the Philippines the Americans carried out an unopposed landing on Marinduque, 100 miles from Manila, and giant China-based B29s hit industrial targets in the Japanese homeland.

Ship-hunting planes of the U.S. 3rd fleet swept 700 miles from north of Foochow to Hongkong on Tuesday and Wednesday while other carrier aircraft accounted for more than 200 enemy planes and 80 ships at Formosa and Okinawa, flagship dispatches said.

At least 27 enemy ships were sunk, including a 10,000-ton transport and 10 cargo ships and more than 50 ships, including four destroyer escorts and a destroyer, were damaged.

Invasion of Marinduque was announced by Gen. MacArthur who said this seventh Philippine Island liberated puts the Allies in "direct contact with the southern Luzon coast."

New Landing

With air and naval support, the Americans seized the little island Wednesday. Marinduque is about 20 miles east of Mindoro and is only 12 miles south of the Tayabas Peninsula on Southern Luzon, principal Philippine island.

Landing was at Buenavista, on the southwest coast. The interior of Marinduque is virtually impassable, but a highway runs along the west coast beach shelf. The Island is 20 by 25 miles in size.

On Mindoro, likewise invaded without opposition Dec. 15, the enemy persisted in night air attacks. MacArthur said four Japanese planes were shot down.

American heavy and medium bombers returned to Clark Field, 75 miles north of Manila, with a devastating new blow which destroyed 30 parked planes, damaged others, and set off explosions and fires in fuel areas.

Three hundred more Japanese were killed and several captured in continued mopping up of Leyte Island. This pushes the total close to 122,000.

B29s hit in daylight at industrial targets on the island of Kyushu, at the south of the Japanese mainland.

Details regarding the striking force, specific target and damage were not announced immediately. Five previous attacks, however, have all been directed at the huge Omura aircraft factory.

Must Live Creed Speaker Claims

A creed is worthless unless it is lived, but it is easier to learn a creed than it is to live by it, was the point pounded home by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Friday Night Supper Club, in the Y.M.C.A. building.

"A creed is not a statement of fact," he said, in an address based on the Supper Club creed, "but it is a statement of faith. A peaceful mind can be obtained by putting the creed into practice."

Mr. Sutcliffe was introduced by Harold Rogers, and thanked by Paul Lillico. Jack Sackville, president, passed on the warm vote of thanks to the speaker.

A new secretary and treasurer were elected at the meeting, to take the place of George Blais. They were: Marlow Banks, treasurer, and Harry Vass, secretary.

A large attendance marked the post-holidays meetings, and an enjoyable sing song was led by Jim Shields, with Dave Graham at the piano.

Appropriately, but as is customary, the meeting closed by reading the Supper Club creed.

Girl In Airforce Admits Baby Her Own

TORONTO, Jan. 6 — (CP). — Police announced last night they had solved the identity of the "mystery baby." Yesterday a woman who gave her name as Corp. Ann Cramer of the R.C.A.F. (W. D.) told them the baby was left in her arms on Friday morning by a woman getting off a train at the Union Station here. Police said that last night the 24-year-old woman told them the baby was her own and that her real name is Cpl. Ann Kukurski. The baby was born at sea.

MOTHER AT TWELVE—Youngest mother in the history of the city of Fort Wayne, Indiana, and possibly in that of the State of Indiana—is 12-year-old Marrella Chambers, shown here with the daughter born to her about a month prematurely at a Fort Wayne hospital. The baby weighed five pounds nine ounces. The young mother-to-be was admitted to the hospital for treatment of what was thought to be a stomach disorder, possibly a tumor, when her true condition was discovered.

Rev. R. W. Craw Dies In Fergus

FERGUS, Jan. 6 — Suffering a heart seizure early Friday evening. Rev. Robert Wilson Craw, retired United Church minister, died suddenly at his home. Minister of the Fergus Presbyterian church (now United), from 1908 to 1926, he returned to Fergus to reside in 1941, when he retired after 40 years in the active ministry.

The son of the late Rev. George Craw, a pioneer Presbyterian minister in the Barrie district, Mr. Craw was one of four brothers ordained ministers.

He was a graduate of the University of Toronto and served pastorates in Lucknow, Dorchester and McKillop, Ont., as well as Melville Presbyterian church, Fergus. As recently as last Sunday he preached in a rural charge.

Surviving are his widow, Ethel D. Plewes Craw, editor of the Canadian White Ribbon Tidings, the official organ of the W.C.T.U.; a son, Rev. Walter Craw, minister of Zion United church, Brantford; three daughters, Dr. Helen Craw Mitchell, a medical missionary of China, now on furlough in Toronto; Mrs. Matthews, wife of Rev. Arnold Matthews, North Bay, and Mrs. John Cunningham, Lower Nicol; and his twin sister, Mrs. Herbert Uren, London, Ont. Mr. Craw was predeceased by his three brothers, Rev. Dr. William Craw, Petrolia; Rev. George Craw, Peterborough, and Rev. Alec Craw, Toronto.

Mail Routes Blocked In Havelock Sector

HAVELOCK, Jan. 6.— (ENS).— The rural mail routes of Havelock district are still blocked. Mail has been delivered at Cordova Mines via No. 7 Highway through Marmora and there is no sign of early relief from these conditions.

The garbage collection for the village have been cancelled owing to the road to the village dump being impassable. A petition has been signed by the residents and will be presented to the town council at their meeting next week requesting that this road be cleared immediately.

Personals.

New Year's guests at the home of Mrs. W. J. Wrigth were: Mrs. J. Wright, Miss E. Wright, Mrs. B. Puffer, Miss Jacqulyn Puffer, Miss Isabella Mathison, Mr. Donald Mathison of Havelock, Mr. and Mrs. John Ruttan of Trent River, Mrs. D. L. Bennett of Toronto, and Sgt. Fay Wright of the intelligence office at Kingston. The latter two are spending a week with Mrs. Wright, their sister and mother respectively.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gibson have moved to the house on Oak street, recently occupied by Mr. and Mrs. W. Forsythe.

$2,000 Estate Free From Pensions Charge

Two thousand dollars of an estate is exempt from collection by the Old Age Pensions Commission, as stated in a letter received by G. N. Gordon, K.C., from B. W. Heise, Deputy Minister of the Ontario Department of Public Welfare.

"I believe there are many persons who will be interested in this information," Mr. Gordon remarked in handing the copy of Mr. Heise's letter to an Examiner reporter.

The substance of this pronouncement is as follows:— "On August 25, 1944, a memorandum was forwarded to the secretaries of all Old Age Pensions local boards and all municipal clerks advising them that, in future, there would be no collection from estates of Old Age Pensioners where the amount of the estate is $2,000 or less.

It is also advised that, where the estate is more than $2,000, the first $2,000 would be exempted from collection by the Old Age Pensions Commission.

This memorandum did not apply to any estates on which the Commission had made a commitment prior to the date of the memorandum. There was also an exception made where the pensioner had died intestate. In these circumstances, the Commission's discretion would govern whether a collection was to be made or not."

DownsHunPlane With Bren Gun

A FORWARD AIRFIELD IN HOLLAND, Jan. 6—(CP Cable).—Sgt. Richard Large of Pleasantdale, Sask., is just an RCAF ground crew member but he knocked down a German aircraft just the same.

When a Messerschmitt 109 tried to strafe the runways of this airfield on which the RCAF Typhoon wing is based, Large, a senior fitter with the City of Montreal Squadron, went into action with a Bren gun and, assisted by a British non-commissioned officer, sent the German plane spinning to the ground.

"I saw our strikes march right along the fuselage," said Large. "The Hun couldn't have been more than 125 yards away from us. The Bren sure is a wonderful weapon."

Alderville Soldier Back From Overseas

ALDERVILLE, Jan. 6—(ENS)—L.-Cpl. Hagar of Alderville was one of those invalided home on the hospital ship Letitia. He was met at Toronto Friday morning by his aunt, Mrs. Earnest Crowe of Alderville.

L.-Cpl. Hagar, with the RCOC, has been overseas about four years. He was wounded in September while serving in Italy. Gunshot and shrapnel wounds in the leg have kept him in hospital since then. L.-Cpl. Hagar is the second Alderville soldier to be invalided home inside of one week. Pte. Jim Smoke arrived home some days ago with foot injuries.

Marmora, Deloro and Madoc all experienced a cold spell of 28 below as did Lakefield.

Havelock seemed to have come off lighter than any other place in the district, when a low of 14 below zero was reported. At ten o'clock, the thermometers were reading ten below, and residents frankly suspect it will rise before the sun is up very long.

Coal and wood dealers in Cobourg were besieged with calls from a surprised Cobourg that woke to find the mercury hovering around 15 degrees below zero. Cars were rarities on the streets, it was reported.

At Port Hope, a low of 16 degrees was experienced, while at Welcome, 22 degrees below zero was the low for the night. Coldsprings, near Cobourg, bore the brunt of the cold weather in that district, living up to its name while thermometers merrily indicated 30 below.

Most places in the district admitted this surprise cold wave to be the frigid high spot of the year, and in the majority of cases, the low temperature readings to-day far surpass the low mercury readings of 1943-44. At all places, cars were at a standstill, and most residents simply awoke, found out about the weather capers, and calmly made their way to business by some other means.

Coal dealers and wood supply companies found themselves, as is usual, flooded with calls from residents with low fuel piles.

PRIMATE OF ENGLAND — Rt. Rev. Geoffrey Francis Fisher, 57, a former schoolmaster with only 12 years of active clerical service, has been named by the King as Archbishop of Canterbury and 98th Primate of all England. Dr. Fisher, Lord Bishop of London, will succeed Dr. William Temple, who died October 26.

New Archbishop Has Record Named At Age 57

LONDON, Jan. 6—(CP Cable)—Nomination of the 57-year-old Bishop of London, Rt. Rev. Geoffrey Francis Fisher, to be Archbishop of Canterbury will place in the Church of England's highest post the youngest incumbent in modern times and some church quarters suggested today the move was made because "these are times for a young man at the head of the church."

This was said to be the reason why Rt. Rev. Cyril Garbett, Archbishop of York, who will be 70 next month, was not "translated" to Canterbury like the two previous archbishops, Lord Lang, the former Rt. Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, who retired in 1942, was 64 on appointment and his successor, the late Dr. William Temple, was 61.

Joyous Event

TORONTO, Jan. 6—(CP)—Most Rev. Derwyn T. Owen, Archbishop of Toronto and Primate of the Church of England in Canada, said today nomination by the King of Rt. Rev. Geoffrey Francis Fisher, Bishop of London, as Archbishop of Canterbury should be a matter of rejoicing for church people.

Archbishop Owen said he had met Bishop Fisher and was quite impressed with his ability. "He is a man of sound scholarship, he is devoted and very tolerant and charitable. He struck me as a man who does not say much but works hard and accomplishes much."

the army under the call-up plan which leaves married men from 32 to 37 years the only age group to which the call-up could be extended.

There has been no suggestion that the regulations will be extended to take in this group in the immediate future, largely because the number of men who would be obtained would be relatively small. In the higher age groups medical rejections are more numerous and in addition a larger proportion of these men hold key war jobs than is the case in the younger age groups.

Recruits From R.C.A.F.

The release of 4,200 R.C.A.F. trainees, most of whom have become available for military service, when Air Force recruiting was suspended, has been an important factor in meeting present army needs, but once these have been absorbed by the army Selective Service's task will probably become more difficult. In the face of this a continued tightening up in the policy of granting deferments is expected.

While no decision has yet been reached, consideration is being given to the calling of a meeting of the University Advisory Board of Selective Service. Should such a meeting be held the regulations applying to University students would come under general review and it is possible the number of students who now are excused from military service would be reduced.

Preference in University exemptions goes to students in such essential courses as medicine, engineering, agriculture and education. This policy has been adopted to assure a supply of trained men in these fields for both military and civilian needs.

Students who make their year are allowed to continue their studies but if they fail they are subject to call.

Students in courses classed as non-essential face stiffer requirements. Only those in the upper half of their class standing are allowed to continue at University. Those in the lower half are liable to military service.

ticularly over the past year, which Mr. Roosevelt said had been marked on the whole by substantial progress toward victory. It looked toward the future, too, and rang with notes of confidence.

The message which Mr. Roosevelt plans to summarize on the radio to-night for the United States and the world, was read to Congress after the counting of the electoral votes that gave him a fourth term in the White House.

"In the field of foreign policy," the President told the legislators, "we propose to stand together with the United Nations not for the war alone but for the victory for which the war is fought.

"It is not only a common danger which unites us, but a common hope. Ours is an association not of governments, but of peoples — and the people's hope is peace."

He renewed a demand for "unconditional surrender," but applied it only to "the armies of our enemies."

Step Toward Peace.

That, he said, is the first, but only the first, step toward peace.

He accorded recognition to differences which have arisen to plague the Allies, and he pleaded for understanding.

The nearer we come to vanquishing the enemies, he said, the more we inevitably become conscious of differences among the victors.

Assailing any use of power politics in the future world, Mr. Roosevelt declared that it "must not be a controlling factor in international relations."

The President appeared to be answering to some extent recent British criticism of American foreign policy, or an asserted lack of one.

Differences among the Allies, he said, must not be allowed to "divide us and blind us to our more important common and continuing interests in winning the war and building the peace. International co-operation on which enduring peace must be based is not a one-way street.

"Nations like individuals do not always see alike or think alike and international co-operation and progress are not helped by any nation assuming that it has a monopoly of wisdom or of virtue."

Mr. Roosevelt spoke of strenuous days of war ahead and of needs for a wide assortment of weapons with which to fight on to victory.

He repeated a recommendation of a year ago that Congress adopt "a national service act as the most efficient and democratic way of insuring full production for our war requirements....at the earliest possible moment."

This time, however, he did not link his demand with other portions of a legislative program, as he did in 1944.

Congress all along has shown little inclination to accept national service. Likewise members have argued vehemently about universal military training when the war ends.

On the subject of universal service in peace time, Mr. Roosevelt said he would send the legislators a special message later. But he said he was clear in his own mind that it was "an essential factor in the maintenance of peace in the future."

Mr. Roosevelt said the Allies had been right in concentrating their military power against Germany first before turning their full might on Japan:

"It was right militarily as well as morally to reject the arguments of those short-sighted people who would have had us throw Britain and Russia to the Nazi wolves and concentrate against the Japanese."

Lauds Other Nations

He had high praise for the exploits of each of the other members of the Big Four Nations.

"We cannot forget," he said, "how Britain held the line, alone, in 1940 and 1941; and at the same time, despite ferocious bombardment from the air, built up a tremendous armament industry which enabled her to take the offensive at El Alamein in 1942.

"We cannot forget the heroic defence of Moscow and Leningrad and Stalingrad, or the tremendous Russian offensives of 1943 and 1944 which destroyed formidable German armies.

"Nor can we forget how, for more than seven long years, the Chinese people have been sustaining the barbarous attacks of the Japanese and containing large enemy forces on the vast areas of the Asiatic mainland.

Obituaries

WILLIAM HOWARD STEWART

KEENE, Jan. 6.—(ENS).—After an illness of only two weeks, William Howard Stewart, Lot 9, Concession 8, Otonabee, died Friday morning in his 52nd year. A lifelong resident of Otonabee, Mr Stewart was the son of the late Alexander Stewart and Mary Keitel, and during his lifetime he was a faithful member of the Official Board of the United Church at Keene.

Surviving are his widow, formerly Mary Mather; and two sons, Roy at home and Raymond, R.C.N.V.R. serving at sea. There is also one brother, Harry of Otonabee.

The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, from the family residence, Lot 9, Concession 8, Otonabee, with Rev. George Murray officiating. Interment will be in Keene cemetery.

MRS. C. J. MUNN

MARMORA, Jan. 6.—(ENS).— A former well known resident of Marmora passed away in Timmins on Thursday morning. Mary Caroline Shannon, wife of C. J. Munn.

Born in Marmora, she was the eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Shannon of Marmora township. Her youth was spent in Marmora after which she resided for some years in Rochester, N.Y., and later in Copper Cliff, Ont. Following her marriage she had resided in Timmins for the past twenty-three years.

For a number of years she was president of the Catholic Women's League in Timmins and an active member of the Sacred Heart League. Besides her husband she is survived by four sisters and one brother, namely: Mrs. D. McGrath, Marmora township; Mrs. R. H. Keast, Copper Cliff; Mrs. M. Skelley, Rochester, N.Y.; Mrs. L. P. Hughes, Marmora township, and Donald Shannon, Marmora township.

A devout member of the Church of the Nativity in Timmins, her funeral was held from the late residence on Friday morning and a High Requiem Mass was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Father O'Gorman.

The body will arrive on the C.P.R. train at Havelock at noon on Saturday and will rest at the home of her sister, Mrs. L. P. Hughes, Marmora township, until Sunday at 3 p.m., when the funeral will be held to Sacred Heart church, Marmora, for the Libera with Rev. H. J Farrell officiating. Interment will be made in Sacred Heart cemetery.

PATRICK MILLOY

DOWNEYVILLE, Jan. 6 — (ENS). — A farmer all his life in Downeyville, Patrick Milloy died Friday at the age of 78, following a long illness. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Milloy, pioneer residents of Downeyville.

Surviping are his widow, formerly Minnie Murphy of Lindsay; one broher, John A. Milloy of Downeyville; and three sisters, Miss Elizabeth Milloy of Peterborough; Mrs Bridget Murphy and Mrs. Teresa O'Connell of Downeyville.

The funeral will be held Monday morning with mass at 10 o'clock at St. Luke's Church. Interment will be in St. Luke's Cemetery.

WILLIAM THOMPSON.

William Thompson, 372½ Water street, who was a city employee for more than 25 years, died this morning after an illness which had lasted for three months. He was in his 80th year.

Born at Ratho, Edinburgh, Scotland, son of the late William Thompson and Catherine Mathers, Mr. Thompson came to Canada from Scotland in 1909. He spent some time in Asphodel township before settling in Peterborough in 1910 and before becoming a city employee, Mr. Thompson worked for the old Grand Trunk Railway Company.

During his 35 years in Peterborough, Mr. Thompson has attended St. Paul's church and he and his wife celebrated their golden wedding anniversary about two years ago.

Surviving are his widow; two sons, William of Toronto, and Pte. Bruce Thompson overseas four years; and five daughters, Mrs. F. Fontaine of Toronto; Mrs. P. McGroarty Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. R. Vance, London, Ont.; Mrs. G. Spick, Peterorough; and Mrs. E. Stevenson, of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held Monday at 2 p.m. from the Comstock Funeral Home, 305 Water street, with Rev. S. Johnston officiating. Interment will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Sgmn. W. Revoy Back In Canada

MARMORA, Jan. 6 — (ENS) — Sgmn. William Revoy of the Royal Canadian Corps Signals arrived in Marmora Friday evening to remark with emphasis: "The old place hasn't changed a bit." His wife whom he married in England and his chubby young daughter Marie, he expects will be arriving from Alton in Sussex in a short time.

"My it's hard to get coal in England", said this 23-year-old soldier. "They just allowed us enough to keep one room warm."

Signalman Revoy hoped as he reached England that he would be one of the invaders of enemy-held territory, but on the boat to France contracted an illness which caused his immediate return to England and the later lowering of his category to 'E'.

"I didn't know what happened to me until I arrived back in England", he said.

But if he could not be an invader, he tasted of invasion. "I was hurled twice into the air" he remarked, "but I prefer not to talk about it." London, he said is a great place to be in if there are no buzz bombs about. At such times it is best to keep out of there. He remarked that the food was good for the troops, but there was much repetition in the menu. The meals on the hospital ship on which he returned appealed to him. He observed his 23rd birthday on Christmas Day and was surprised to find no snow there, and so much when coming this way.

He is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Revoy, Marmora township and other relatives in this part of Ontario in course of a 30 days leave after which he will report at Kingston. He will be remembered as the 11-year-old boy, who 12 winters ago killed a wolf with an axe after following it to the shores of Crowe Lake.

Probably more than 1,500 British and Canadian Lancasters, Halifaxes and Mosquitos joined in the tremendous assault last night which left fires burning in Berlin and Hannover.

The just before dawn RAF heavyweights roared over the battle area behind low-flying Pathfinder aircraft which planted flares among German troop concentrations.

A moment later tons of bombs burst among enemy positions around Houffalize. No Canadian planes took part but there were many Canadian fliers among the RAF crews.

The bulk of the bomb weight was concentrated on Hannover, a mid-way point on the vital Berlin-to-the-West route for German troops and war material.

The fiery glow reflected in the clouds was visible for 200 miles, returning airmen said, and it guided a second force of bombers which raided the city 2½ hours after the first attack.

took no prisoners and suffered four casualties.

Under artillery support from Canadian tanks, they made the first daylight crossing of the Maas to date, running into enemy machine-gun fire but encountering no artillery fire replying to the armored guns.

The American new weapon whose nature was still a military secret, went into large-scale action near Beffe in the north-western angle of the Von Rundstedt wedge yesterday and left the ground covered with German dead, a field dispatch reported.

The continued bad weather and intensified enemy counter-attacks along the northern rim of the salient slowed pace of Field-Marshal Montgomery's offensive, involving the British 2nd and U.S. 1st and 9th Armies.

On the south side of the salient, U.S. 3rd Army crossed the Sure River and entered Goesdorf, 12 miles south-east of Bastogne.

Thirteen miles est of Bastogne other infantry drove up half a mile and cut the St. Hubert-Bastogne road within two miles of St. Hubert at the south-western top of the German wedge. Tilelt, eight miles est of Bastogne, was captured.

One gain of 2½ miles in the Lierneux area to the edge of that town 19 miles north of Bastogne ironed out a kink in the line yesterday, but advances were mostly limited to around 1,000 yards.

In one advance on its east flank, the U.S. 1st Army vanguards reached the Salm River southwest of Stavelot.

"It was a day of some progress against heavy German opposition," said a commentator at Field Marshal Montgomery's headquarters. "There was hard fighting throughout the day."

The Germans were supporting some of their counter-attacks with tanks and were flaying the Allied spearheads with mortar, rocket, artillery and anti-tank fire from their frozen dugouts behind snow-concealed minefields and tripwires.

111 Jap Planes Destroyed Across Formosa

PEARL HARBOR, Jan. 6 — (AP). — Pacific fleet carrier planes destroyed 111 Japanese planes and sank or damaged 95 enemy ships in a two-day assault on China-guarding Formosa and Okinawa, fleet Admiral Nimitz announced today.

The Formosa attacks were made Tuesday and Wednesday (North American time). Twenty-seven ships were sunk. Sixty-eight ships were damaged.

Nimitz' communique did not mention the first China probing flight by navy carrier planes, apparently because no material attack targets were sighted by pilots making their first reconnaissance of the China coast, goal of a three-year fighting advance across the Pacific.

But Associated Press war correspondent Rembert James significantly reported that pilots who flew over China's mainland declared they could have flown inland to interior Allied air bases to refuel.

This report discloses that American carrier planes possibly could make shuttling air raids on China mainland targets in major force afer refueling and rearming at Chinese-American land fields, they could fly back to their carriers.

In his terse report on the Formosa-Okinawa strikes, Nimitz said 220 Japanese planes were damaged in sweeps over virtually all operating enemy air fields on the two island bases linking Japan with the Philippines.

Local Holsteins In Top Company

Four locally-bred Holsteins are amongst those named on the 1944 list of All-Canadians. Otonabee Sir Supreme Colanthus, bred by J. T. Tully, Peterborough, was designated as All-Canadian Junior Yearling Bull. He was first and Junior Champion at Warkworth Regional Championship Show and was Grand Champion at Lindsay and Port Perry. His present owners are Ransom Stock Farms, Oshawa, and Wm. J. Murphy, Lindsay.

Supreme Paul, owned by John E. Manley, Peterborough, was named Reserve All-Canadian Senior Yearling Bull. He was first and Reserve Junior Champion at Warkworth and first and Reserve Grand Champion at Lakefield. Both these bulls are sons of Supreme Grand Slam who was widely used in this district.

Stewart Nelson, Keene, received honorable mention on Keendale Lodge Pietje Lass in the class for four-year-old heifers. She was Senior and Grand Champion at Warkworth and last year was Reserve All-Canadian three-year-old. The two-year-old, Donwood Betty Supreme, owned by Stanley Wood, Peterborough, was also given honorable mention. She, too, was a first prize winner at Warkworth.

The All-Canadian Contest provides the climax of the show season for Holstein breeders in Canada. Prize winners at the various fairs and exhibitions of Provincial Championship calibre compete for national honors through the medium of photographs, the actual selections in the various classes being made by a committee composed of the judges at these fairs. In each of the fifteen regular show classes, an All-Canadian and a Reserve All-Canadian are chosen. In special cases Honorable Mention is also given. This year forty-four breeders from six provinces shared the awards, although the majority came to Ontario. This contest is sponsored by the Holstein-Friesian Journal.

Be Not Afraid I Will Help God's Promise To Man

I, the Lord thy God, will hold thy right hand, saying unto thee: Be not afraid, I will help thee.—Isaiah 41, 13.

A thrilling commentary are the words of King George to the Empire in 1939: "I said to the man who stood at the gate of the year, Give me a light that I may tread safely into the unknown and he replied, Go out into the darkness and put your hand into the Hand of God; that shall be to you better than light and safer than the known way."

It is uplifting to remember that in the darkest days God is drawing near to help. These words were sent to the Jews during their exile in Babylon. Their land had been ravaged by the Assyrians, the mightiest military power of that age. The carpenters, craftsmen, and other skilled workers had been carried into captivity, leaving only the poorest to cultivate the soil. Surely history repeats itself in these terrible days when millions of subject people are slaves in Germany.

In the hour of need God raised up His prophet and gave him this message of encouragement for his people: "I, the Lord thy God, will hold thy right hand, saying unto thee: Be not afraid, I will help thee."

Let us keep in mind that this promise was a new revelation of the character of God to the people of Israel. They were carried away captive on the political ground that in a generation or two they would forget their origin and land and be lost in the vast multitudes. On the religious ground to prove to the devout Jews that Jehovah was not as strong as the gods of the Assyrians. It was the popular belief that Jehovah was the national God of the Jews and proved His weakness in permitting a foreigner to ravage H. land and people. In simple language, in Babylon Jehovah had no jurisdiction or power.

It was at this critical time God sent His prophet to arouse the people and deepen their faith and hope while in the land of captivity. Slowly, gradually during those seventy years of captivity new revelation of Jehovah was revealed to the Jews. They accepted the tremendous truth that Jehovah was the one living God. Only through pain and suffering and exile did this new truth grip the mind of the devout Jews. From that time idolatry lost its fascination; the people never again fell into this sin.

Perhaps after these terrible days through the sorrow and tears of multitudes a new truth of God's revelation may be born. Perhaps the idolatry of wealth will lose its fascination to multitudes, who have discovered through pain and sorrow that money does not mean everything.

The New Year has begun; its future is known only to God. But one thing is certain that God will fulfill His promise of ancient days: "I, the Lord thy God, will hold thy right hand, saying unto thee: Be not afraid, I will help thee."

To-day Christians believe that God has become man in the Person of Jesus Christ; He has become bone and flesh of our flesh. God has suffered and wept and understands the sorrows of to-day. What an uplifting thought for the coming days are these words: "When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the rivers they shall not overflow thee; when thou walkest through the fire thou shalt not be burned; neither shall the flame kindle upon thee." (Isaiah 43, 2.) How true are these more modern words: "O God, we have heard with our ears and our fathers have declared unto us, the noble works that Thou didst in their days and in the old time before them."

LIFT UP YOUR HEARTS. WE WILL LIFT THEM UP UNTO THE LORD.

Jesus' Parents Flee to Egypt To Protect Him From Herod

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Jan. 7 is Matthew 1-2, the memory verse being Gen. 28:15, "Behold, I am with thee, and will keep thee whithersoever thou goest.")

WE START the New Year with the beginning of Christ's life on earth, a very fitting beginning to a new year which we hope will bring us at least partial, and we trust a whole, peace.

The lesson begins by quoting the genealogy of Jesus, 41 generations according to our commentator. Then we are told of the birth of Jesus, Joseph being warned by the angel of God that a Son was soon to be born to Mary, and that His name shall be called Jesus, "for He shall save His people from their sins."

The next verses read: "Now all this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying,

"Behold, a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call His name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us."

Wise Men Seek Babe

Then Matthew tells us of the birth of Jesus and how the Wise Men came to Jerusalem, led by the star in the east, desiring to worship the Holy Child.

"Where is He that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen His star in the east, and are come to worship Him," they asked everyone.

Now Herod was a cruel and jealous king, and when he heard that someone was looking for another king of the Jews, he gathered the chief priests and the scribes together and asked them where this Christ was to be born. They told him that, according to ancient prophecy, He would be born in Bethlehem.

Privately Herod called the wise men, asked them what time the star appeared, and sent them to Bethlehem, asking them to search diligently for the Babe and to come and tell him, that he might go and worship, too.

They Find the Child

The wise men left Herod, followed the star and found the Child, whom they worshipped and presented with gifts, as we know from our recent Christmas lesson. They did not go back to Jerusalem, however, but went home another way, for God had warned them that Herod meant no good to the newly born Child. We do not know from whence these wise men came nor where they returned, although there are legends concerning them.

When the wise men had gone, an angel appeared to Joseph in a dream and told him that the Babe's life was in danger from Herod, and that he should take the Child and His mother and flee to Egypt. This country had sheltered many Jews, and about one-fifth of the population of Egypt were Jews, so Joseph and his family could safely rest with them until such time when it was safe to return to Palestine.

When the wise men did not return to Jerusalem, Herod was angry, so to be sure that this "King of the Jews" would not grow up to threaten his throne, this wicked man ordered that all children in Bethlehem, from two years of age and under, should be killed.

This terrible order was carried out, and you can imagine the terrible grief of all the parents, the cries of frightened children, and the horror of the time. "In Rama there was a voice heard, lamentation, and weeping and great mourning, Rachel weeping for her children, and would not be comforted, because they are not."

We do not know how long Joseph and his little family stayed in Egypt. Some think it was only a matter of a few months, and others that it was a few years. At any rate, as was promised when they went, an angel of the Loord appeared again to Joseph in a dream and told him Herod was dead and they should return to Palestine.

"And he arose, and took the young child and His mother, and came into the land of Israel.

"But when he heard that Archelaus did reign in Judaea in the room of his father Herod, he was afraid to go hither. . . . And he came and dwelt in a city called Nazareth: that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophets, He shall be called a Nazarene."

So, in this little town, off the main road, in Galilee, under another son of Herod's, Antipas, who was also cruel and unscrupulous, but more indifferent, they settled and Jesus grew to manhood.

S.A. Officer Serves On Italian Front

By SALVATIONIST IN KHAKI.

I found Padre (Major) Neil Warrander deep in the fastnesses of the now-famous Gothic Line, through which the Canadian and British troops have been heroically battling against a tenacious enemy and a terrifying terrain of mountains and gorges.

(Major Warrander was formerly in charge of the Salvation Army Corps in Peterborough.)

Our jeep—Force Director (Adjutant) Alf Simester and Supervisor Wilf. Snowden were with me—had just approached the edge of mountain village, when he descried a car of kindred ilk bearing the word "Chaplain" scrawled in broad white lettering across its face below the windshield. It had a tarpaulin affair stretched over its rear and extending behind for some distance giving a sort of 'covered wagon" effect. I found afterwards that Padre Warrander uses this contraption as an ambulance and that he has done a lot of fine front-line work with it.

Weird and Wonderful Situations.

We did not have far to look to find the padre. In fact, his voice betrayed his whereabouts, issuing from what once was a German army hut. We went behind and found the entrance. Inside were twenty or more Canadian soldiers, some seated on upturned boxes, others standing, all listening intently to what their padre had to say. The short, to the point sermon finished, the little crowd sang a hymn hich was followed by the benediction. Slowly the khaki audience sauntered out, back to their jobs, for Sunday or not the war must go on. Church parades are not limited to Sundays, so Padre Warrander informed me after our greetings were over. "You hold them whenever and wherever you can,' and in the course of his experiences with our men as they have fought their way up through Italy, he has held his services in some weird and wonderful situations—and found God no respecter of places.

Major Warrander took us up forward to his mess, forward over those towering Appenine peaks, the road winding and twisting like a gigantic cobra. In places the retreating enemy had blasted the road quite a way, and our Engineers—all praise to them—had built a new one in such places, laying it snugly against the side of the cliff. One wondered how it stayed there; whether it might not at any moment drop down into the chasm below. Clouds circled the heights, and once or twice we nearly ran into them, so high did we pass. Thus we pushed on through mud, mountains and mist. We passed pitiful little groups of peasants dislodged from their homes by war and driven hither and yon with the few precious possessions they had been able to salvage from the wreckage.. Finally we reached the

The Childhood of Jesus

Scripture—Matthew 1-2

By Alfred J. Buescher

The angel of the Lord appeared unto Joseph, and told him that Mary would bear a Son whose name should be called Jesus or Emmanuel.

After Jesus' birth the angel came again to Joseph and said the life of the Babe was in danger and told Joseph to take Mary and Jesus to Egypt.

Herod slew all the children in Bethlehem, from two years and under, and there was heard lamentation and weeping and great mourning in the land.

After Herod's death, Joseph took the Child and his mother and came back into Galilee and settled in Nazareth. MEMORY VERSE—Gen. 28:15.

Anglo-American Quarreling

It looks as though the transoceanic quarreling between the British and American press would reach an unprecedented pitch of excitement before it subsides; since the last war criticism has never been so naked or so sharp. Hard knocks are being given and taken; writers are getting things off their chests which have obviously weighed heavily upon their hearts for many months. It looks, in fact, like a first-class row.

This appears to have alarmed a section of the Canadian press, which fears that a breach between Britain and the U.S. will come of it, and that Canada will suffer. We do not think that there is much likelihood of such a dangerous outcome, and we think that the quarrel should be allowed to exhaust itself in the natural way, without any attempt at suppression. It is often said that the British and the Americans are members of the same family, but the people who say so do not seem to recognize the implications of the platitude. Members of the same family are apt to quarrel more rancorously than strangers, feel jealousy more keenly than strangers, impute motives to one another which they would not impute to strangers, and know each other's weak spots better than strangers. If this is a family quarrel, let us have it out, and it will probably end as family quarrels usually end, in a resumption of good-humoured tolerance. Talk of a break between Britain and the U.S. is surely exaggerated; the fact is that they cannot break if they expect to win the war, and both countries know that. They must stick together for mutual advantage, for the duration, at least.

The British feel that the Americans have been overdoing their criticism of British foreign policy; even Englishmen who disagree with that foreign policy are tired of hearing prim lectures about it from across the water. It is easy for the Americans to talk, they say, for the U.S. has no foreign policy, and is thus immune to criticism. Many Americans recognize the justice of this complaint, and both Walter Lippman and Dorothy Thompson have written level-headed articles about it. Naturally, jingoes and chauvinists on both sides have begun to throw mud, but some of the criticism in the best British and American papers is shrewd and to the point. What is more, it is actually helpful, for both countries are saying what they really think, and between friends that can be salutary.

Diplomacy between Great Britain and the U.S. cannot be carried on at the level of formal politeness which characterizes the diplomacy, let us say, between Britain and Portugal. They are both very great countries, united by many common interests, by a common language, and in some degree by a common culture. When they quarrel it is not a matter of stiff diplomatic notes, but a family affair, pounding the dinner-table and sometimes pulling noses. Britain is a European power, as well as a world power, and she cannot bear to be lectured by a country which is not a European power, and has only recently and tentatively decided that it is a world power. Britain is the juggler who is keeping twenty glass balls in the air at once, and resents the critic who points out that the balls occasionally clash together in a dangerous way.

Some of the American replies have been very much to the point; some are far from it. But the nub of the British case is well expressed by 'Lucio', who writes verse on political topics for the Manchester Guardian and who inscribes these lines to "the United States Senator who has been protesting that his innocent fellow-countrymen are always being outmanoeuvred by the self-seeking English":

I fear our popularity has not the former clarity
When, lone against barbarity, we battled with the Boche;
Our "finest hour's" agility brought tributes of civility;
Our valor and nobility were peerless then and posh.
We swam in high society, receiving with propriety
An interesting variety of compliments and praise;
Since then and inauspiciously our stock has slumped most viciously;
We enter, less deliciously, on quite a different phase.
Our methods Jesuitical, financial and political,
Are subject to a critical and disapproving test;
We drop our bricks inglorious our blunders are notorious
And noted with censorious and quite outspoken zest.
Rewarding past tenacity come allies of capacity
Who fight with full audacity; but one thing we may own;
This painful truth seems teachable—repute is far less reachable.
Our methods more impeachable, than when we stood alone.

The quarrel is serious, but it is not of the kind which is likely to split the Anglo-American war effort wide apart. But it is likely to increase the already great sympathy which Britain feels for the U.S.S.R., a country which does not mind the business of its allies because it is too busy minding its own. If, after the war, Britain felt more closely drawn toward Russia than the States, the world's political balance would be greatly changed, and Canada might find herself in the greatest quandary of her history. Therefore, if there is plain-speaking to be done it might as well be done now, for resentment can only be held in for a limited time, and it is healthier for us all to learn where we stand.

A Great Frenchman

One of the greatest Frenchmen of our time died at Vezelay a week ago today. Romain Rolland was a man of letters, a type which has always been rare, and seems to be growing rarer in the modern world; authors of all kinds we have in plenty, but men of letters are more than authors; they are men who have a strong sense of the dignity, the nobility and the honour of the printed word; they regard themselves, without egotism, as high-priests of thought and they fight valiantly against whatever profanes their faith. Thomas Mann, and Bernard Shaw among the living; Stefan Zweig and now Romain Rolland among the dead, have been gallant and tireless fighters for truth and freedom. The death of a man of letters may fittingly be mourned by the whole world.

Rolland was a novelist, biographer and dramatist, best-known for his great work Jean-Christophe, which appeared in several parts between 1904 and 1912. This was called "the noblest work of fiction of the twentieth century" by so great a critic as Sir Edmund Gosse; certainly it is the greatest novel about music and the artistic life of a musician in world literature. Another work of Rolland's, Beethoven The Creator, written in 1929, enjoyed wide popularity on this continent.

When the Great War broke out in 1914 Rolland was in Switzerland. At once he attempted to establish contacts with men of letters in Germany, in the hope of keeping alive the conscience of Europe during the desperate struggle which he foresaw. An admirable and sympathetic account of his attempts may be read in Zweig's autobiography The World of Yesterday. His motives were misunderstood, and he was called a traitor. His protests against the intellectual debasement inseparable from war (and which we have recently had fresh opportunities to observe) were published in the volume Au-dessus de la Melee ("Above The Battle") in which he attempted to preserve something of the "good Europeanism" which was giving way to narrow nationalism. It was for this work that he received the Nobel Prize (all of which he handed over to the Red Cross of Switzerland) but stupid people insisted that he was a traitor for many years. He was no traitor; his loyalty was to something greater even than his beloved France.

He lived to see the world convulsed a second time, and he lived to see most of his country freed. He was a great fighter for freedom and truth.

Diary Of The New Year

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: To church this morning, for the second consecutive week; I must take care not to form a habit. Was interested to watch the whispering, nodding, joking and grinning at relatives which went on in the choir. Mark Twain observed—in "Tom Sawyer," I believe—that there was once a well-behaved choir, but he could not learn where it existed; nor have I ever met anyone who had solved the mystery. Perhaps it was a legend, with no real foundation in fact....Mild, melting day, and the snow was soft, so I found a good bank of it and drew pictures with a stick. It is possible to achieve really dashing effects in this form of art....Tonight dined and saw the New Year in with some friends. I am never particularly gay on New Year's Eve, perhaps because I get more pleasure from looking backward than forward, which is wrong but I can't help it. It was Kirkegaard who said that life is understood backward, but must be lived forward. Hard luck!

MONDAY: New Year's Day: The usual amount of excitement proper to the occasion, but most of the people I met would have been happier if the news from Europe had been better; there seems to be a widespread feeling that some bungling is being concealed by carefully worded reports and discreet censorship....Reflected with mixed feelings that another year of preparing this Diary lies before me; in 1944 I received 3 letters of commendation, and 47 letters of complaint, ranging from gentle protest to abuse verging on the obscene; such correspondence is stimulating, but somewhat unbalanced; this year I hope for 3 letters of criticism and 47 paeans of lush praise, to establish an equipoise.

TUESDAY: Was talking to a man today who was bemoaning the dullness of his life; he wanted adventure, and it never came his way. He is not able to get into any of the services, and his civilian job gives him no outlet for the daring and resource which he is sure he possesses. I am never much impressed by such complaints; it seems to me that most of us get all the adventure that we are capable of digesting. Personally, I have never had any adventures; that is, to say, I have never had to fight a dozen pirates single-handed, and I have never jumped from a moving express-train onto the back of a horse, and I have never been discovered in the harem of the Grand Turk. I am glad of all these things. They are too rich for my digestion and I do not long for them. I have all the close shaves and narrow squeaks in my daily life that my constitution will stand, and my daily struggles with bureaucrats, tax-gatherers and uplifters are more exhausting than any encounters with mere buccaneers on the Spanish Main.

WEDNESDAY: Faced the fact with dull submission that the holiday season is now over and that a long, hard winter is before me. A man told me that he had always despised me because I confessed that I had trouble with my furnace; he never had any with his. But last week his 'iron fireman' broke down, and he had to stoke his own machine for a day or two, and he had a new appreciation of my sufferings.... I am glad to hear it. What can a sybarite, a plutocrat with an automatic stoker know of the wretched tribulations of the proletariat? While I sweat and slave in my cellar, bursting my truss every time I heave a shoveful of coal, he lolls at ease in his armchair, listening to the soothing hum of his mechanical stoker...I am glad that he has been humbled and brought low. Now he will have sympathy with the deserving poor.

THURSDAY: A long journey by motor today, through drifting snow and wind. It was genuinely alarming, for if the car had ever stuck in a drift it would have been several hours, in all likelihood, before it could have been shifted. But I was with an intrepid and skillful driver, and came through without a pause....There are people who seem to have a special sympathy with cars, just as there are people who have a special sympathy with horses, and they are really wonderful drivers; they know precisely what the machine can be made to do, and this knowledge is not wholly mechanical; it is a condition of the soul. I have never heard one of these gifted drivers whisper to his car, as the great rider whispers to his horse, but it would not surprise me in the least if he did so....Having never been able to drive a car myself, such ability impresses me as magical.

FRIDAY: Looked over some late Christmas cards today, including one with the words of 'I saw three ships' on it, and an elaborate background of music. But the music was not the music of the song; in fact, it was no music at all, but merely an artist's arrangement of notes, signifying nothing....I like Christmas cards to have plenty of holly, and stage-coaches, and roaring fires, and stars, and babes in a manger and other such Christmassy pictures on them. I don't care much for the ultra-modern ones which try to get as far as possible from the season....Was caught under the mistletoe today—at my age, too! I had forgotten that the stuff was there. I am now in the time of life when only children lie in wait for me near the magic plant. There is something dispiriting about this.

SATURDAY: Twelfth Night, and the official end of the Christmas celebrations, so I took down all the decorations and cards, and dutifully stuffed myself with mince pies and cheese-cakes. There is a belief that one will have a happy month for every mince pie one eats today, and every year I gag myself trying to round out an entire year of bliss. I usually stick at June and have never passed August. Someday I must bake a particularly small batch of mince pies for this special purpose, so that I shall not need to short-circuit my epigastrium in pursuit of a fine old custom....A letter today from a man who likes this Diary, which cheered me greatly; it was obviously inspired by the holiday season, and I must hasten to reply, before the chill of winter nips all the generosity out of us both.... I must also gird myself to search for some masculine shorts, which are becoming as scarce as their female equivalents.

CATCHING ON

Czech soldiers in London are studying Basic English and doing pretty well. Said one to a policeman: "Please, Bobby, which watch?"

By and by the policeman got it and held out his wrist watch for the other to see.

"Six watch? Such much?" said the soldier, and hastened on his way.

BUT IT'S STILL A ROTTEN EGG—

Letter Written At Twelfth Night

Twelfth Night, 1943.

Dear D.D.:

This is the last day of Christmas. This afternoon we dismantled our tree and set it out in the garden, sprinkled with grain and hung with pieces of suet for the birds. Tonight we burned our greens, the mistletoe from the hall, the "wesselbob" from the front door, and all the sprays and garlands that made the living-room so festive. Now the children are tucked into bed, the fire has settled to a quiet glow, and the house has its everyday look again.

It has been a beautiful Christmas. We began our festivities, as we always do, on St. Nicholas Eve, with the wrapping of gifts for our Canadian families. It seemed strange, not to be doing yours too; posting them in October seems rather unfestive, somehow. But we thought about you, and hoped that you would have a happier Christmas than the last three have been. We sang every day, all the carols and songs we knew, and learned many that we had never sung before, lovely ones from France and Holland, Czechoslovakia, Poland and the other countries where people wouldn't have the heart for singing. And every morning, as we worked at our gift-making, we listened to records. Even the little lad had his favourite music, and listened with great contentment, while he had his rest after lunch, to all the lovely tranquil things like 'The Shepherd's Christmas Music,' the Corelli 'Christmas Concerto,' and that beautiful little Sciassi 'Christmas Symphony' that we told you about when first we discovered it....

We always make a great occasion of Twelfth Night, for we are reluctant to let Christmas slip away, and this time we lingered over each little ritual, to make the end of this especially beautiful Christmas quite perfect. We brought the greens and laid them on the hearth after supper, and lit all the Christmas candles and the bayberry dip that D. made us three years ago, which we always keep just for Twelfth Night. Then we sang our carols for the last time before putting them away for another year....

Looking back over the year, we are reassured to find that all the things that have had the greatest importance to us and to the children are on the credit side of the ledger. We have been happy in ourselves and with each other, and we still believe in all the things that have always seemed to us most worth having. Economically, life is a bit hazardous, but I think we shall manage a necessary minimum of creature comforts, and we are not apprehensive for the future. For the greatest pleasures and satisfactions that we and our bairns have had this year have been what we call "the good old imponderables"; just being together, and laughing, and reading books and hearing and making music; enjoying the loveliness of out-of-doors, and the spaciousness of our days in Georgian Bay; loving our friends and sharing their view of life; thinking and speculating and exploring our own minds and each others. But mostly just being together!...

Yours aye,

A.D.

'Resolutions'—For the Other Chap

(I.N.S. in the OTTAWA JOURNAL)

TO make resolutions and then break them, or to make no resolutions and break none. That is the question. There is, however, an easy way out. Let's make resolutions for the other fellow. If he breaks them he's a cad, but at least we've given him our guidance.

Thus we can resolve that O.E.R. motormen stop their rude clanging of bells and leaving people on street corners, that Prime Minister King use his undoubted gifts at making speeches without notes and never again read from endless manuscript, that the laundries cease regarding all buttons as a challenge and resume the old style of ironing a collar at the edge and not half-way up, that an order of carrots be not just two slices;

That the CBC try out our pet theory that certain radio news analysts could change jobs with soap opera announcers and no one would know the difference; that ice should form on the New Year's drinks of all those who at 20 below zero ask inanely if it's cold enough for us; that the next person who says or writes the word "silk stocking" is a rotten egg; that Mr. Bracken get back from overseas soon enough to lend active leadership to the Grey North byelection;

That all the blind Liberals and all the blind Progressive and Unprogressive Conservatives be locked into one room for 24 hours so that their eyes may be opened on their follies; that all Liberals and Conservatives, blind, unblind, progressive and unprogressive, cease playing into the hands of the C.C.F. by their ostrichism;

That Stettinius and Eden settle their differences without the aid of microphones and press conferences; that the day soon comes when one can tell the arrogant sales clerk where to go; that that day be immediately followed with one of rest and ease for overworked clerks and waitresses and motormen and grocers who have somehow retained their reason and their gentleness;

That doctors and dentists and nurses do before long win some respite from their labours and some worthy recognition of their services; that an immediate stop be put to granting to Zombies virtually all of the veteran allowances and assistance granted to the men overseas;

That we may soon see a genuinely happy reunion of Joe, Winnie and F.D.R., with Joe using Franklin's long cigarette holder, Winnie using Joe's curled pipe and F.D.R. puffing cheerily on Winston's cheroot; that things like the Chicago air conference not happen again and that all 1945 appointments be of the calibre of L. B. Pearson;

That if a V2 does fall on Ottawa it land smack in the middle of the cross-town tracks; that a spell come over all our fellow citizens that will make them ready to queue up rather than fight for cars, liquor, trains, theatres: that concert managers let no one enter after 8.30 and that concert managers be lynched who sell seats on the stage under the violinist's chin;

That all these resolutions will be obeyed; that this time the men are really out of the trenches by Christmas; that 1945 bring us more of good sense, tolerance and good humour than is indicated by this spleenful piece of writing; and that 1945 bring all of you good news, good health and good luck.

Britain's Plan For Planning

The proposal put forward a few days ago by a Senate subcommittee for a Federal "job budget" bears a striking resemblance in some respects to the British Government's White Paper on Employment Policy. If the American proposal was not directly derived from the British plan, they are at least both children of the same ideology. Both of them involve Government planning. In both a group of Government experts are to predict the economic future and to establish predetermined goals for Government economic policy. Both assume that the basic cure for unemployment is to pour more money into the spending stream. While the British plan declares at one point that it involves "no deliberate planning for a deficit," it is clear that it rests on the basic assumption that unbalanced budgets and deficit financing can be a cure for economic distress. The Senate subcommittee plan also rests on this assumption.

The kind of governmental planning envisaged would meet with sufficiently formidable obstacles in this country, but the obstacles would be even greater in some respects in Great Britain. This is pointed out in an analysis of the British plan by Garet Garrett in The Economic Record, a quarterly publication of the National Industrial Conference Board. Can a planned economy, asks Mr. Garrett, be made to work, even theoretically, except in a state of isolation? Can it work in a country that is unable to insulate itself against the free markets, free prices and free enterprise of the outside world? For a country like Great Britain, he concludes, the dilemma of a planned economy is extremely difficult. "Her planned economy will not work unless it can be insulated, and it cannot be insulated because it is under a vital necessity to go on trading with the outside world." — New York Times.

A Bible Message

Look upon Zion, the city of our solemnities: thine eyes shall see Jerusalem a quiet habitation, a tabernacle that shall not be taken down; not one of the stakes thereof shall ever be removed, neither shall any of the cords thereof be broken. But there the glorious Lord will be unto us a place of broad rivers and streams; wherein shall go no galley with oars, neither shall gallant ship pass thereby. For the Lord is our judge, the Lord is our lawgiver, the Lord is our king; he will save us....

And the inhabitant shall not say, I am sick: the people that dwell therein shall be forgiven their iniquity. (Isa. 33: 20-22, 24.)

And it came to pass, when he was in a certain city, behold a man full of leprosy: who seeing Jesus fell on his face, and besought him, saying, Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean. And he put forth his hand and touched him, saying, I will: be thou clean. And immediately the leprosy departed from him.

And he charged him to tell no man: but go, and shew thyself to the priest, and offer for thy cleansing, according as Moses commanded, for a testimony unto them. But so much the more went there a fame abroad of him: and great multitudes came tgoether to hear, and to be healed by him of their infirmities.

And he withdrew himself into the wilderness, and prayed. And it came to pass on a certain day, as he was teaching, that there were Pharisees and doctors of the law sitting by, which were come out of every town of Galilee, and Judaea, and Jerusalem: and the power of the Lord was present to heal them. (Luke 5: 12-17.)

Great are thy tender mercies, O Lord: quicken me accordingly to thy judgments...Great peace have they which love thy law: and nothing shall offend them.... I have longed for thy salvation, O Lord; and thy law is my delight. (Ps. 119: 156, 165, 174.)

RIVER RUNS BOTH WAYS

Algoma is the home of not a few unusual things. So it need surprise no one that it has in the Little Albany river, which crosses the line of the Algoma Central Railway about three miles north of Oba, a stream which takes on something of the character of a "Mr. Facing Both-ways."

"Yes," says a man who explored it a few years ago, "you can put your canoe in the waters of the Little Albany at the railway and paddle upstream for a couple of miles till you come to a point where it widens out into a sort of marshy area and you lift your canoe over a couple of logs and find that instead of going upstream you are now going downstream."

Oh, no, it's not important. It's just one of those things that help to make Algoma interesting.—Sault Ste. Marie Star.

Unconsidered Trifles

A customer in a restaurant sat alone at a table muttering to himself. At times he would laugh heartily and at others cut the air with his hand in a gesture of disgust.

"Anything the matter, sir?" inquired the waiter.

"Can't I just sit here and tell myself stories?" replied the customer with some heat.

"By all means", soothed the waiter, "but what does that gesture mean?"

"Oh, that", beamed the customer, "that's when I tell myself one I've heard before!"

It was the weekly meeting of the coloured "Sons of I Will Arise Society". At the end of the usual business a loud voice yelled from the back of the hall: "Mistah Chayman, ah makes a motion date Sam Jackson am a low-down, sneaking mis'rable chicken thief".

Down in the front a little fellow leaped to his feet.

"Who makes dat motion dat ah'm a low-down, sneaking mis'rable chicken thief?" he cried, glaring round the room.

A huge, scar-faced Negro jumped up.

"Ah makes dat motion", he said, menacingly.

"Mistah Chayman", gulped Sam, "ah seconds dat motion".

CPL. EMILE ARMSTRONG

In an R.C.A.F. barracks in India, a copy of F. H. Dobbin's "Our Old Home Town", a story of the early history of Peterborough, fell into the hands of a Peterborough boy, Cpl. Emile Armstrong, and so vivid did he find the story that he felt as though he were home again on familiar streets.

"We recently found ourselves in possession of a library, a wonderful morale builder, and it was while looking over these books that one in particular caught my eye. It was "Our Old Home Town", and you can imagine the surprise I received, for here was the finishing touch to what my Dad had passed on to me. It was the history of Peterborough and its citizens.

"Never have I felt closer to home than when I read this book. And when I had finished, there was one thought that prompted me to write this letter — that more people, particularly the young, should read this book to give them a better knowledge of the best place in the world, the place we are fighting to preserve, Our Old Home Town. Then when they walk or ride around buildings, parks, bridges and streets, will mean more than just a name."

Cpl. Armstrong, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Armstrong, 214 Carlisle avenue, said that as a boy, his father used to describe some of the earlier history of this city which interested him. Since that time he has travelled and seen many different countries in his service with the R.C.A.F., and at present is in India.

"Sitting around a fire with me are a number of fellow Canadians, some listening to music supplied by the Japanese propaganda station, some reading, some reminiscing and others writing. If it were not for the chaps on guard and our rifles with their cold grey steel bayonets glistening in the moonlight, the whole atmosphere is identical to that of a campfire scene. To everyone of us there are two things that we look forward to more than anything, yes more than leave, meals or pay. That is the day we return to Our Old Home Town and — mail time. Mail means everything to us and until recently when we acquired a library, was the only reading matter on the squadron.

LAC. ROY BOOTH

Since his arrival in Holland about two months ago, mail has been received from LAC. Roy Booth, by his relatives more regularly than during the eighteen months he had previously spent in England.

The son of Mrs. James Booth, Marmora, this young airman celebrated his 21st birthday in Holland, in October. Although he knows little about flower growing, his letters have been filled with descriptions of the Dutch flower gardens which have aroused his enthusiasm. LAC. Booth mentioned that his unit was leaving huts to take up residence in barracks and they had been stationed for a short time in a building with wonderful shower baths.

In a parcel sent to his sister, Lucille, which included brass souvenirs, he had also enclosed a pair of wooden shoes for his niece Elaine Harris. This little girl's father, Cpl. Harry Harris, R.C.E., arrived in Holland a month before LAC. Booth, and the two plan to hold a reunion soon. LAC. Booth attended Marmora High School and had been employed in St. Catharines when he enlisted.

Adopt Highlanders

The hospitality of the people of Duffel in Belgium was so open handed that the men of the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders, who stumbled wearily out of the battle line in Holland, now consider it the next best thing to home, writes Supervisor Alf Pooley, who is in charge of the unit's entertainment.

"Belgium is a country that is like home to the Canadian. It is clean and the people are friendly. They will do everything they can to show you a good time. We stopped at a small town, named Duffel, for a three or four day rest, and before we could get out of the trucks, the people were there to take us to their homes to sleep. The luxury of those beds will never be forgotten and the hospitality of the people has made Duffel 'home' to most of the Camerons.

"What I have seen of Holland does not lend itself to tulips and windmills. Water, water everywhere and more falling every minute. It is cold, damp and miserable and rubber boots are a necessary part of the equipment. The people, although they are not as spontaneous as the Belgians, are friendly and once they know you are a friend, they are very good to us. They have suffered a lot from the Hun and are loathe to take anything at its face value."

Enjoys Parcel

Supervisor Pooley said that while his regiment was out on rest in Belgium, the Christmas parcel from the Active Army Auxiliary in Peterborough arrived and it was certainly appreciated. He explained that his job in the Army was looking after the entertainment of the particular regiment to which he happened to be attached. Since the Highlanders hail from Winnipeg, he declared he was far from home as far as seeing familiar faces is concerned, but he had a pleasant surprise recently when he met 'Cy' Whatley, whose father was prominent at one time in Welfare work and the Legion.

He explained that he does not live in the front lines, but just behind them, and at times has had some interesting experiences and narrow escapes. It is all part of the game and has its humorous aspects too, he relates. The Canadian soldier is unbeatable at seeing the humor in a situation that to others would be unbearable.

"Landing in France a short time after June 6 with a Reinforcement Battalion, I was able to see a lot of the destruction that was caused by both sides during the battles for Caen and Falaise. I left the Reinforcement Group and came to the front wth an RCA unit. With them I travelled across France and into Belgium. I travelled with the guns and sleep was out of the question until I got used to the constant noise. Fritzie also used to make life interesting for us when he returned our fire.

"Once again I changed units and joined the Winnipeg Highlanders and with them I travelled across Belgium and into Holland, back to Belgium for a week's rest and now we are back in the land of windmills again. What I was able to see of France did not impress me. It was unclean and the sanitary conditions, even in those parts untouched by war, left much to be desired."

Precious Cargo

Christmas parcels reaching the men serving in Holland are something to be cherished, according to a letter received by the Peterborough Women's Active Army Auxiliary from Sgt. John R. Tait, serving overseas.

"I just received your parcel and good wishes and to merely say thank you seems so inadequate, but what can one say? It is really very bracing to know that you people at home think of us even after years of absence, and your efforts are greatly appreciated.

"My outfit it out here in the mud, 'Somewhere in Belgium', with the German border very near. Perhaps we'll soon cross it, here's hoping. Rations are still rations, so I can assure you that your parcel is being guarded (under my paillaise where the other boys can't find it for a while) and we'll have a fine feed the first time there is an opportunity.

"My young brother is here also, though not with me. He is up in Holland with an infantry unit and they are doing very well for themselves on all account. I am looking forward to my return to Canada and hope to meet you all some day."

SAILORS LIKE BOXES

The men in the Navy have been enthusiastic in their praise of the Christmas remembrances which have come from the Navy Auxiliary in Peterborough. Ste. 1, John Baldwin, of HMCS Kenogami on behalf of himself and his pals says:

"I received your lovely card and parcel and believe me it would be hard to beat. The card that was enclosed is really the most beautiful that I have seen, I am mighty proud of it and passed it all around for the other boys to see, and they all agreed it was a masterpiece. (He is referring to the special Christmas cards provided by the City of Peterborough and donated to the Auxiliary boxes.) I will keep this card and intend to frame the picture of the 'old town clock.' That picture brought home closer than anything I have ever received.

"Two other boys from home on our ship have asked me to include their thanks for the parcels they received. They are Gerard Doran and Cecil McClennan. Peterborough is well represented in the Navy and our ship carries five of us. We have a swell city in more ways than one, not only is it beautiful and clean, but the folks look after us and remember us so well, is it any wonder that we all say its tops."

Likes Card Too

The Christmas card in the Naxy Auxiliary box which reached O-S Gerald Robbins at HMCS Cornwallis also proved a decided hit with this sailor. He wrote that many of the things in the Auxiliary box were hard to get and therefore were doubly appreciated. He said the picture of the Town Clock brought back old memories of Peterborough and was a thoughtful gesture.

"You are doing a wonderful work and if other fellows appreciate your parcels half as much as I do, you will have accomplished everything you set out to do."

Quebec Liberal Viewpoint On Conscription Question

By GRANT DEXTER

WHILE only one French-Canadian, Hon. L. S. St. Laurent, Minister of Justice, spoke for conscription in the recent debate, it should not be assumed that the rest of the Quebec members took common ground in opposition. The opposition in Quebec, in point of fact, fell into two distinct groups.

The larger of these groups, embracing many of the Liberals who broke with the government, was not opposed to conscription on principle and advanced no argument which would rule out compulsory overseas service at a matter of right or of constitutional law. In this regard, the Liberal opposition in Quebec in 1944 was wholly different from 1917.

The smaller group, comprising the Bloc Populaire and a handful of Independent members, including Mr. Cardin, revealed themselves as the inheritors of the Bourassa Nationalist movement. These members did not attempt to establish a case in principle. Their efforts were exceedingly interesting and will be discussed in a later article.

THE Liberal members—as distinct from the nationalists—were strongly for the war. They were deeply sensitive to the feeling against Quebec in the rest of the country. They pointed out that on two occasions French Canadians by their willingness to die in battle, had saved Canada from conquest by the United States. In the American revolution, French Canadians had fought and defeated the U.S. invader despite the appeals of Lafayette and other distinguished Frenchmen. Again in 1812, French Canadians had fought for the survival of this country.

They pointed out that Canada's army in time of war was based upon peacetime militia units. In the long period of peace from 1812 to the Boer war, Quebec has possessed practically no militia establishment. Even in 1914-18 the then government had refused to grant Quebec the number of battalions desired. French Canadian recruits, as a deliberate policy, had been spread among English-speaking battalions by the Borden government. In the present war, Quebec had four battalions in the line and these would be kept fully reinforced by volunteers.

French Canada felt no "call of the blood." Volunteering was a matter of cold reason, rather than of emotion. Moreover, Quebec had been long nurtured in the belief that there was no obligation to serve overseas, except voluntarily. And, anyhow, Quebec was unashamedly opposed to conscription. Speakers, here, quoted Mr. Asquith in 1916, Mr. Churchill in the present war with regard to Northern Ireland, and cited the examples of South Africa and Australia.

THERE was no disposition to argue that this was not Canada's war. It was argued, however, that the voluntary system had not broken down. It would have produced the required number of men if it had not been sabotaged by English-speaking Conservatives. The hatred of the "Conservative gang," the "blackmailers," the people who had evoked this "frenzy against Quebec," these "foul conspirators" who had carried on a "sly, dishonest campaign"—this hatred was intense.

The betrayal" of 1911, when the Conservatives and the Quebec Nationalists combined to beat Laurier, was referred to over and over again, and one new exhibit was added to this 1911 record. It was a quotation from the late Armand Lavergne, lieutenant of Bourassa, elected as a supporter of Mr. Bennett in 1930, and made deputy speaker in the House of Commons. Mr. Lavergne had written:

"In 1911, when the Conservatives of the other provinces began to feel that Laurier in Quebec was losing ground to the Nationalists, they redoubled their help to us and money flowed in abundance into the National electoral treasury."

These Liberals declared that Canada is doing too much in the war. They asserted that the Poles, the Belgians and the French who are clamoring for arms and a greater place in the battle line, should be helped to fight.

Overseas conscription, they said, was unnecessary and inadvisable. They used the word "unnecessary" in the sense of unnecessary to victory. By "inadvisable" they meant that national unity would be impaired. Conscription, it was pointed out, was not regarded in Quebec as a military policy but as a symbol of race domination. And there was the question of moral right: "In a democracy, if democracy is to survive, the majority have not the moral right, though they have the power, to force upon a minority an obligation which they know this minority is unwilling to assume."

BUT the argument upon which the Liberals from Quebec chiefly relied was this:

All parties either in 1939 or 1940, and most of them in both years, had pledged themselves against overseas conscription. That was the basis upon which this country entered the war. Quebec's position has been made clear by the late Mr. Lapointe and other leaders in the province.

The plebiscite had been taken to release the government from these pledges. Quebec had voted "No." These members had campaigned against conscription in 1940 and for a "No" vote in the plebiscite. They were not prepared to go back on their word. Rather, they considered themselves as still bound by every consideration of honor to oppose conscription.

Importance, in these speeches, was placed on the maintenance of trust and confidence between the people and their representatives in Parliament. Unless pledges were kept, the people would lose faith.

In all of this, however, the basic anti-conscription argument of 1917 does not appear. The right of Canada to adopt compulsory overseas service was not questioned and there was no suggestion that the constitutional rights of French Canadians was being invaded.

Peterborough Sent 220 Trained Men To Help Turn Back The Fenians In 1866

Seventy-nine years ago 220 men forming four infantry companies left the town of Peterborough to drive back the Fenians, who were then raiding Canada. Sixty years later only six survivors remained, and to-day all are believed to have passed on.

The Fenians were Irish—or supposed to be—who organized first as raiding parties in England in sympathy with the struggle then going on in Ireland for responsible government and home rule. This Fenian movement spread to the United States, but their numbers were altogether insufficient for extensive operations and the prevailing sentiment in the United States was against them.

In the spring of 1866, just when the leaders of Upper and Lower Canada were doing their best to bring about Confederation the Fenian movement in the United States split into two parties, one under James Stevenson who wanted to curtail their activities towards the proposed freedom of Ireland; the other led by Sweeney, who advocated advancing Irish interests by making raids on Canada.

In the first week of June, 1866, a body of 900 Fenians well armed—many of them veterans of the American Civil War—crossed the Niagara River and landed near Fort Erie. Under the command of Col. H. O'Neil they captured Fort Erie, destroyed stores and whisky shops, pulled up railway tracks, burnt the bridges, and levied forced requisition on the inhabitants for rations.

The call to arms followed this invasion and Peterborough sent to the front one of the best equipped and soldierly battalions of the day. The men all were ready, fully armed and in uniforms the morning after the call was received.

At Toronto 600 men mustered to the call, Hamilton sent the 13th Battalion, and all regulars were ordered to the front.

The Peterborough men were divided into four companies. Company No. 1 composed of men from the county was commanded by Captain Poole; No. 2 Company composed of men from the town of Peterborough was commanded by Captain Kennedy No. 3 Company composed of men from Ashburnham was commanded by Captain N. C. Rogers; and No. 4 Company from Lakefield was commanded by Captain Strickland.

These four companies were formed at Colborne with companies from elsewhere into a Provisional Battalion under the command of Lt.-Col. Williams of Port Hope.

Folowing the Fenian Raid these volunteers were mobilized in 1867 as the 57th Battalion (County), with three more companies added from Bobcaygeon, Keene and Norwood under the command of Lt.-Col. Poole.

The Volunteer Corps to meet the Fenians was under the command of Lt.-Col. Booker, and was sent to Port Colborne to protect the Welland Canal, and there Booker learned that the Fenians were much smaller than at first reported and their organiation was completely demoralized by drinking and plundering. They were thoroughly undisciplined, and offered tempting material for an easy victory.

Booker ignored the command of his superior officer, Col. George Peacock of the 15th Regiment of Regulars, whom history records lacked a knowledge of the country and had a disdain for the counsel of the colonials. Booker took his troops by train as far as Ridgeway Station and his advance guards soon contacted the outposts of O'Neil's Army, and immediately attacked thinking Peacock was near at hand.

In the attack the volunteers repulsed the enemy's outposts and first line. Peacock failed to arrive and the enemypoured a hot fire on the volunteers. Booker heard a rumor of Fenian cavalry approaching and formed his men into a square which made excellent target for the enemy. On noticing the mistake Major Gilmour attempted to form into line, but a small panic ensued, the rear companies fell back in disorder and the command was given to retreat. The Fenians failed to follow up this advantage or more disastrous results might have come to the volunteers. The Canadians lost one officer and eight men killed, six officers and 26 men wounded. This ended the raid of the Fenians, for O'Neil, awed by the pluck of the volunteers and the approach of regulars abandoned his attempt on the Welland Canal and withdrew to the States.

Town Of Peterboro On Incorporation Wholly Within Township Of Monaghan

By CHARLES IRESON

The annexation of a large portion of the suburban portion of North Monaghan by the city is now an accomplished fact.

Looking at the past it is indeed strange what changes the flight of time produces. Peterborough at the time of its incorporation as a town in 1850 was wholly situated in the township of North Monaghan. It had never been an incorporated village and at the time the question was raised whether it would be directly promoted to the rank of a town but high legal authority approved the incorporation, when this was under consideration. It was stated that owing to the great increase in the population of the town of Peterborough in the district of Colborne it was necessary to make provision for its internal regulation and it was desired that the people of the town of Peterborough should be constituted as a body political and corporate in facts and in laws.

The town was to consist of lands situated in the township of Monaghan with the following limits namely: All the lands comprised in the government survey north of Townsend Street and east of Park Street to the centre of the Otonabee river, with the latter as its eastern boundary, and up to the centre of the road allowance formerly the boundary line between the Township of Smith and Monaghan as its northern limit. It was to be divided into four wards East, North, Centre and South, and each ward elected three councillors. There was no separate election for Mayor, who was appointed by the elected councillors.

It is to be noted that town of Peterborough incorporated on Jan. 1, 1850, with some 2000 inhabitants had a larger council than the City Council of today, with fifteen times the population. Every by-law, rule or regulation to which a penalty is attached, before it should have effect, was to be published in one of the newspapers, and to be affixed to four public places in each ward. Also there was to be published in each ward, one month before the annual election, a statement of moneys received and expended by the council. We do not know if there stipulations have been definitely repeated or whether they have just been allowed to fall into disuse.

The members of Peterborough's first town council were: East ward, Thomas Benson (Mayor), John Hall and Thomas Harper; Centre ward, William Eastland, James Hall and Robert Ridley; South ward, Charles Hudson, E. Chamberlen and Patrick Ryan; North ward, James Harvey, W. G. Conger, and Duncan McDonald. The Monaghan Councillors were R. Stewart, J. Dobbin, T. Fortye and George Young and J. Tully.

The town grew rapidly and the year 1872 may well be considered a landmark in its history though the happenings of that year are never or seldom mentioned. On and after June 1, 1872, the limits of the town were very materially extended. Its area up to that date was 560 acres, and that figure was then increased to 1388 acres—approximately 2½ times the area at the time of incorporation 22 years previously. This large increase was made up by taking 548 acres from North Monaghan, 225 acres from Smith and 55 acres from Douro. So it is seen that the original acreage of North Monaghan land at incorporation was 560 acres and the site of the town was wholly in that township, and in 1872, 548 acres were taken over, making a total of 1108 acres.

OTTAWA, Jan. 6 (CP)—Bushman: packing his bags and preparing to leave the capital next Saturday is big, friendly Sir William Glasgow who typically puts the "Y" in words like his native Austrylia (sic) and likes to call himself a "Bushman."

Retiring after a term of five years as Australian High Commissioner in Canada, Sir William—six feet, 210 pounds, humorous blue eyes and a stair runner at 76—will take a short vacation in Arizona before continuing on his way to Canberra.

After reporting to his government, he and charming Lady Glasgow will re-open their substantial home at Indooroorilly, five miles from Brisbane, and not until then will Sir William decide on his future activities. It is doubtful whether this active man will live in retirement.

He has two immediate personal objects. He wants to visit his two daughters and his grandchildren who he hasn't seen in his five years of duty in Canada. Then he wants to tour his big cattle station at Sanders, 90 miles from Rockhampton in his native Queensland. Here he will look at 4,000 head of prize Herefords and talk to his manager and the horsemen who patrol his grazing areas.

Sir William has a working knowledge of Canadians before he was appointed to Ottawa by the former Prime Minister Menzies. As an Australian divisional commander in the First Great War, he fought beside troops from the Sister Dominion in France and then, in 1928, as a member of the Australian Senate, he toured this country with an Empire parliamentary delegation.

What is the strongest impression of Canada he'll take away with him? the big diplomat of Scottish-Irish origin rubbed his thatch of snow white hair and said he guessed it would be that of a "very capable people bending their backs in a tremendously impressive war effort on the home front in the battle lines" and he would also remember "some of the most beautiful scenery I've ever seen."

Like Spanish Talks

Tit for tat: Back from radio talks in Mexico City is Donald Manson, energetic assistant general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. He discussed mutual problems and renewed a personal friendship with Emilio Azcarraga, proprietor of Mexico's biggest network, and came away with a request that the two countries make early preparations for regular exchange of programs.

Mexico would send Canada some of their Spanish musical programs and the Dominion would reciprocate with typical Canadian programs in both English and French with the CBC's powerful new transmitter at Sackville, N.B., being used to make the exchange.

"We have previously tried their Spanish programs and found them very popular," Mr. Manson said. "They have expressed a keen interest in carrying our programs; so we are going to try and work out some sort of a more or less regular schedule."

Snow Gives Trouble

Snow Lady: The big fluffy coverlet of snow that has been spreading over this capital for the last four weeks is dealt with perhaps more seriously here than in any other city. Besides the conglomeration of rotary plows, sweepers and a fleet of old model disposal trucks Ottawans also tackle the snow in the eaves.

The city's heavily ornate Government buildings trap big globs of snow which have piled high in a period that has seen twice as much snow—42 inches—as the same period last winter. This results in dangerous slides of snow and icicles to the street and the clogging of drains so that water backs up and floods ceilings.

There is a five-dollar fine for overhanging snow and ice and big sections of Ottawa sidewalks are roped off while "sno-jacks"—they climb steeples in the off-season—dangle over gables suspended by rope, clearing the ice with hoses of live steam.

Most expert snow-jack is Stan Charron, 45, of nearby Wrightville, Que. Often with the mercury loitering below zero and swinging in an icy wind high above the sidewalks, Stan steams off big chunks

Birds Can Survive Winter If They Get Plenty To Eat

By G. H. RICHARDSON

Many birds can withstand the cold of winter quite readily if they can get plenty of food, particularly fats. Even such southern birds as the mockingbird have been known to survive through milder winters far north of their usual winter range while they could find food.

Because of this, many people keep feeding stations and combine the pleasure of feeding the birds with that of watching them at close range. For they become very tame at such stations, soon learning to recognize their benefactors and come right up to them.

Chickadees and nuthatches especially become so fearless as to perch upon your hand to take sunflower seeds, and this even extends to an outsider who stands motionless with outstretched hand (particularly if the keeper of the station is there).

Suet is a food eagerly sought by most of the birds which winter with us. Where the starlings and house sparrows are common, the suet disappears rapidly. To prevent their eating the whole supply so that the others have no chance, a good method is to susend the suet from a bag made of string knotted around the suet. This makes it accessible to chickadees, nuthatches and woodpeckers which are accustomed to clutching on to a swaying perch whereas the sparrows seems unable to hang on. Starlings often can, and once they get on to it, make away with great quantities.

Melt The Suet

Another way, perhaps even better, is to melt the suet and pour it on to a board, mixing chopped nuts and raisins in with it if desired; then when it cools, setting the board upside down in the air by some upright support. This idea of Dr. W. E. Saunders of London, Ont., is very efficient, for the woodpeckers, nuthatches and chickadees can get it easily, while the other birds cannot.

One point about the use of a string bag in preference to a wire container is that in very cold weather there is a chance of a bird reaching far in when the piece of suet has got smaller, its eye touching the metal and being injured just as our moist fingers stick to a door handle.

If you are living in the country or the outskirts of a city, juncos, tree sparrows and others will come to a feeding tray. When they are down, the pine grosbeaks, siskins and redpolls will come also, not to mention blue jays.

Juncos are small finches, slate-gray in color, wth white breasts and outer tail feathers and light creamy pink bills. They are birds of the open field, preferably with cover of trees near by, where they feed on weed seeds. They are fairly common in winter in southern Ontario, but most winter below our borders.

Water is a thing birds find difficult to get in the winter and you often see sparrows taking snow into their mouths and swallowing it.

Peacetime Ocean Liners Play Important War Role

By FRANK LOWE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 6—(CP)—Like a serial story, the part Britain's peacetime ocean liners have played in the war is coming out bit by bit. It makes impressive reading.

More than a year ago censorship allowed the story of the two Queens, the Elizabeth and Mary, to be told and now the deeds of a few of the others have been made public.

Unlike the Queens, which were converted into transports with the outbreak of war, these one-time cruise ships were made into armed merchant cruisers and gave a glorious account of themselves.

Their decks bristling with guns, these big ships with tissue-thin sides put to sea in the days when the big need of the Allies was escort ships. They took convoys through some of the hottest waters in the world, and, inevitably, most of them were sunk.

They were not built for war. Their broad promenade decks, so highly regarded in peacetime, became in war only a good spot for bombs to hit. Their sheer side became U-boat targets. About all they had was speed and the inbred realization that in peace or war they were queens of the sea.

One of the first to go was the Montrose. In peacetime she sailed the St. Lawrence regularly, carrying Canadians to and from Europe, and was known as one of the most pleasant travelling ships afloat.

Lost In Atlantic

Her last cruise was in 1940 when, as H.M.S. Forfar, she was herding a convoy far out in the Atlantic and a torpedo struck home.

About the same time the Rawalpindi went. Chill Icelandic waters covered her but not before her fight with the German battleship Deutschland became a sea classic.

Halifax lost a regular visitor when the Arandora Star failed to report—lost at sea with a load of German prisoners when a German torpedo blew out her vitals.

Two years later the Duchess of Atholl, one of the longest-surviving of the Duchess line, "bought it" while on her way back from the Middle East, crowded with women and children. Without warning torpedoes holed her, and the 862 aboard scrambled for the uncertain safety of lifeboats. Only four lives were lost.

There are others mentioned in the honor-roll just released, and which grows with every loosening of censorship. The Orama, which survived 42 direct hits from Germany's Admiral Hipper before she went down with guns firing; the Caledonia, torpedoed on convoy duty; the Carinthia, victim of a U-boat, but which covered herself with glory by keeping up her fight even after receiving the death blow—those are but a few of the many.

Albertans Vote Service Men Representatives On Jan. 8th

By FRANK LOWE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 6—(CP Cable)—Voting for the election of three service representatives in the Alberta Legislature begins January 8 in the United Kingdom, on the Western front and in Italy and will continue until January 20.

Then the ballot count for these areas will be cabled to Edmonton to be added to the votes cast in Canada and Newfoundland and decide the members chosen, among three navy, 22 army and seven air force candidates. Votes will be counted either January 30 or February 1 and the results will be announced in Edmonton.

Each service will elect its own member—one for the navy, one for the army and one for the air force. In this particular the election differs from the recent Saskatchewan service vote in which personnel could vote for candidates from any force. Ninety-six polls have been set up on the Western front, 46 in the United Kingdom and 246 in Italy.

This should guarantee, said Flt.-Lt. L. P. Danis, chief returning officer for France, Belgium and Holland, that "wherever it is humanly possible every Alberta serviceman and servicewoman will have an opportunity to exercise his or her franchise." He wouldn't estimate the possible number of voters.

The three service candidates will be elected to represent the viewpoint of services personnel in the Provincial Legislature, Danis said, and they are not permitted to campaign on political grounds. He added: "As far as we know not one candidate has taken a stand politically."

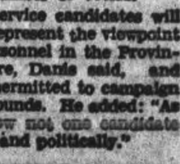
Help the Young People To Health - Happiness



What a common sight to see a young person whose bloodless face and feeble frame are evidences of poor circulation and weakness where bounding health and rosy cheeks should reign.

Young people in such a condition are generally of an anaemic nature and require a preparation containing iron to improve the blood content.

Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills meet this requirement, as they contain three concentrated forms of iron of an easily assimilated nature together with other valuable ingredients indicated for building up the system and helping to improve the blood content.

Price 50c a box, 65 pills, at all drug counters.

Look for our trade mark a "Red Heart" on the package.

No Ruddy Hero Says Reeve Back From War

By VERN McGEER.

Toronto Exhibition Park's Reception Depot was jammed yesterday afternoon. Folks waited for several hours for the arrival of the latest troop train bringing home Canada's fighting men from overseas, many of them casualties.

"Mommy," demanded an excited six-year-old youngster, "where's The Moaner?"

"Listen, Joe," answered Mommy, "the name is Daddy, and don't forget it."

"Gosh, Mommy," said the boy, "everybody else calls him The Moaner. Why can't I?"

It was a conversation between Mrs. Al (Ted) Reeve and son Joe, while waiting for the appearance of Gunner Ted (The Moaner) Reeve, returning to Canada after 2½ years overseas with Maj. Conn Smythe's 30th Battery.

Sports columnist, football coach, lacrosse and football star, Gunner Reeve looked on his Toronto homecoming with tongue in cheek.

"Jeeves," he said, "more pictures and more publicity than Gen. McNaughton. Let's forget it. I'm just another guy in this war, and no ruddy hero. If you fellows want interviews, look up some of the boys on my troop train, fellows with real souvenirs of the fighting. There's been altogether too much fuss over me already. I'd just as soon you eased off."

Climbing out of his first honest-to-goodness shower bath since he left Canada, and wrapping his lean frame in a long purple robe, The Gunner talked about the boys he had left behind.

"I'm no World War hero," he said, "and I'm lucky to be back home after doing so little. And I'll not feel comfortable until those fellows overseas are back enjoying the things they've missed for so long."

The reunion of Gunner Reeve and Company Sgt.-Maj. Jimmy Keith was something that belonged to the movies. They were teammates with Balmy Beach football teams, bosom pals on and off the gridiron.

They met in the Reeve living room like a pair of cooing pigeons. Short, stocky Jimmy, veteran of the Dunkerque days of the 48th and Italian action that brought a citation; lean and lanky Ted who had made England, D-Day, France, Belgium and Holland despite a medical history that included everything but falling dandruff.

"Hi, Moaner," greeted Keith, wrapping himself around Reeve and planting a resounding kiss on his cheek.

"It's old home week," said Reeve, draping gorilla-like arms around the doughty little soldier that was the scourge of Italy and lifting him a foot off the floor.

Escaping from Keith's clutches, the pair fought the battles of Sicily, Italy, France and intermediate stops a la Balmy Beach-Argo days.

Reeve didn't want Sgt. Alfie Jones of the 30th Battery to escape public attention. "Greatest middle wing prospect I ever saw," he said.

Alfie, a local product, was a member of Nipper Rowe's ground crew on Ontario race tracks before joining the Battery. He hails from the Coxwell Ave. area. A race track bug since a kid, Alfie once worked for A. A. Baroni, owner of the famous Top Row.

Tipping 206 pounds now, "Eagle Beak" Jones, as labelled by Reeve, is rated by that astute individual as one of the best soldiers Major Conn Smythe ever took to France.

"Just say," said The Moaner, "I'm glad to be back, but sorry I had to come alone. I left a lot of great fellows behind. I hope they'll be back soon. Now let's see what Keith has saved from the invasion of Italy."

Hastings Boys Whip Norwood

NORWOOD, Jan. 6 —(ENS)—A large crowd of hockey fans attended the first double-header hockey game of the season when Hastings Juveniles outshone the Norwood team by a score of 7 to 0.

It was a clean, fast-played game. The only player who suffered any kind of injuries was Leslie Scriver, who received a slight cut on the nose.

In a second rural hockey game, Norwood edged a one-goal victory over Trent River kids, with the final score remaining at 8 to 7. For Trent River, R. Hamilton was the star player, while Bud Webb and Lorne Johnson featured on the Norwood team.

Hastings — Goal, D. Kumph; wings, V. Herrington, L. Pettigrew; centre, W. Herrington; defence, L. Scriver and J. Scriver; alternates, B. Kumph, K. Oliver, W. Morency, P. Fife.

Norwood — Goal, H. Morrison; wings, Lloyd Starke, Howard Scott; centre, Gordon Fennel; defence, Don Andrews, Bob Edwards; alternates, Oliver Hogg, Trevor Brown, Angus McMillan, Don Wright, Johnny Rae.

Referee—John Hamblin.

The line-ups for the second game were:

Norwood — Goal, Hartley Morrison; wings, L. Johnson, Bud Webb; centre, Charlie Puffer; defence, Neil Rogers, Harry Baker; alternates, G. Stackhouse, Walter Webb, J. Wilson.

Trent River—Goal, Jack Brown; wings, R. Hamilton, S. Wright; centre, L. McConnell; defence, George Brown, G. Chaplin; alternates, B. McConnell, W. Pollock, Jim Brown, Trevor Colley.

Hollywood After Stories From Canadians

OTTAWA, Jan. 6—(CP)—Never has the motion picture industry offered Canadian writers the opportunities which now exist for themes dealing with the Dominion provided they have "box-office appeal," John Grierson, commissioner of the National Film Board, said in an interview today.

Mr. Grierson, back from a fortnight's visit to Hollywood, said Canada has assumed a new stature in the eyes of Americans, and for this four factors are responsible.

These are the Dominion's widely publicized and acclaimed war effort, an accumulation of the Canadian colony in Los Angeles and an increase in its representation in the producing, directional, writing and acting branches of Hollywood's film industry; a realization by American producers of the importance of the Canadian market and "extraordinary good-will" which has been manifested toward Canada.

Mr. Grierson said Canada now is one of the largest producers of film "shorts" nationally and internationally. In the past she has depended upon the initiative of London and Hollywood so far as "feature" films are concerned.

Hollywood has been interested in themes dealing with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Pictures concerned with the RCAF and the Royal Canadian Navy—"Captains of the Clouds" and "Corvette K-225"—already have been produced.

Because of the similar tastes of the two countries, Canada is regarded as the "safest" market for American films. "Hollywood is conscious of the new manner of trading," said Mr. Grierson. "You have not only got to go into a country, but you must be a good citizen of it as well."

The Film Beard has been able to widen the popularity its "short" subjects enjoy on the English screen, and any flow of ideas to the London studios will be sympathetically considered.

"The economics of the situation are the Magna Carta for writers," Mr. Grierson said. The Canadian market is worth $15,000,000 to American producers and Ontario alone represents as good a market as that afforded by Brazil.

REVIEW OF YEAR IN SPORTS

DECEMBER

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Dr. Kelly, the city's medical officer of health is so interested in the new method of resuscitation to be demonstrated at the Y.M.C.A. swim meet tonight that he has consented to act as the subject to be revived. This exhibition is only one of several special features that will make tonight's program decidedly interesting. Another of course is the exhibition to be given by Toronto swimmers of the revolutionary new crawl stroke, a change in swim technique that coaches predict will lead to a string of broken records as soon as the new stroke is generally mastered. Toronto Central Y swimmers who will have a strong team on hand for tonight's events have been using the improved method and it should be interesting to see them demonstrate its possibilities. All the best local swimmers have made their enries and they hope to put on a good show against the Queen City cracks. In addition the fine bunch of precision swimmers from the Y.W.C.A., the Silver Finettes, will give an exhibition of their work as an entertaining and colorful contribution to the program.

Until well into the second half of last night's senior Ladies' Basketball League game between Transports and C.G.E. it looked as if the Electricians were going to knock off the leaders and set up a three-cornered tie. C.G.E. had much the better of the early going and were in front at the half 18 to 12 but Transports were unbeatable in the second half and pulled the game out of the fire to finally win 34 to 29. As a result the Transports increased their lead in the race with the standing as follows: Transports three wins and one loss, St. John's two wins and two losses and C.G.E. one win and three losses. In the junior game the Y Grads were without a couple of their stars but were still much too good for the Quakers who went down to defeat 48 to 3. The losers failed to get a basket from the field, their only scores being three successful free throws by Helen White and so far as the league statistics go that would seem to be the first time on record that a team has gone through an entire game without at least one field score. Shirley Curtis with 20 points and Betty Lou Braund with 14 sparked a clever Y team in this one-sided victory.

This Will Be A Test

Oshawa Generals have a real battle on their hands tonight when they meet the St. Catharines Falcons in the Motor City. Here is what George Campbell has to say about the outlook: "It goes without saying—but we'll say it anyway—the visit of St. Cahtarines' Falcons to Oshawa on Saturday night looms as the big sports attraction of the season to-date. Scoring three goals in the first six minutes of the game on Tuesday night, the Generals showed a promise of greatness. True, Falcons swooped back in the 3rd period with a sensational rally of their own to tie the score and then managed to scrape out the winning goal in overtime while 'Al' Shewchuck was serving a penalty but that all goes to show that when Generals and Falcons meet up, the fans are really in for their money's worth. It should be a veritable sizzler here on Saturday night and cold weather or not—it'll be a sell-out. Tickets go on sale tomorrow morning and don't be caught napping, if you haven't got a subscriber's ticket. Even with six of their best players off, St. Mike's defeated Galt Red Wings in Toronto on Tuesday night, although Galt made it close for a little more than two periods. That defeat keeps Galt down in fourth place and Oshawa Generals are in third place, all alone. However, they have to win here at home over St. Kitts on Saturday night if they are to protect their position. Falcons are only one loss behind St. Mike's and they will be out to whip the Generals here if they possibly can. It should be a whizz-bang from start to finish."

* * * * * *

One of the strange features about N.H.L. hockey this season is that while the Toronto Maple Leafs haven't the slightest difficulty in knocking off the Montreal Canadiens, they can't get to first base with the Detroit Red Wings who on the contrary are just pushovers for the Flying Frenchmen. Canadiens played in Toronto Thursday night and the Leafs made them look very ordinary as they polished them off 4 to 2 and hog-tied Maurice Richard and Toe Blake. Tonight the Red Wings are in Toronto and if the usual trend prevails the Leafs will proceed to bog down as if they hadn't a chance against Jack Adams' hard-hitting Detroiters. The last time the Wings were in Toronto they found themselves down 3 to 0 in the early stages but pulled the game out of the fire. Perhaps on this occasion the Leafs will not only be able to start well but will also finish well. But the odds are against them. The Detroit team has only to skate out there and the game is over, judging by recent history.

A Tribute To The Moaner

Sporting writers all over the country will applaud the following tribute paid by W. J. Walshe of the Ottawa Journal to one of their number, the famous Ted Reeve who is just back from overseas. Says the Walshe article: "The Letitia docked yesterday at Halifax with a cargo of courage. Tucked into a bag-like khaki uniform, with no special military ribbons or citations to tell a story of heroics, was Gunner Ted Reeve. His many personal friends and thousands of readers across Canada knew that a real soldier had been reluctantly forced from a fight, through no fault of his own. Ted Reeve, known through his own Toronto Evening Telegram column as "The Moaner," though he never moaned, admired by friend and foe alike on the sports fields, was on his way home to Toronto after one of the most gallant efforts of the war. Ted did not have to go overseas. He had ailments that would put an average person in a home for incurables. Painful rheumatics from many athletic injuries, varicose veins, feet that were always a trouble, and being over the service age limit, did not stop Ted in his desire to do his bit in this man's war. About the only time Ted ever used his popularity, his political pull or intercollegiate associates, was when he tried to pass medical examiners to go overseas with the Toronto Sportsmen's Battery he helped to organize. In the Army he did not ask favors. He did not seek any soft jobs. He refused a fancy commission to do Public Relations work. He wanted to be with the boys despite a heavy financial sacrifice, physical punishment, and two special operations to patch old injuries. In the damp climate of England, which added agony to the tortures of rheumatics, he carried on and when his battery was sent to France he was on one of the first landing barges as an ordinary gunner doing a gunner's job."

* * * * * *

"In the fighting at Caen he suffered a fractured arm but somehow he hid the injury for weeks and accompanied his unit to Holland, when he finally was forced to report for a medical examination," continues Scribe Walshe. "That was the end of Ted's soldiering. Strange doctors looked him over, wondered how he ever got in the army, and ordered him home. His only regret was that he had to leave his pals in a job unfinished. Ted's service as a soldier was typical of his part in sports. He played and boosted Toronto Balmy Beach when he could have named his own price with much richer teams. He coached Queen's University and several of his best players depended on his pocket for their tuition fees and expenses. He helped many but never asked for help, except the time he tried to get in the army to help his country. Canada's war effort would be much easier for all if there were a few more Ted Reeves to take their share, physically and financially, and also politically."

Transports Beat C.G.E. Team Increase Lead

Transports increased their lead in the senior division of the Ladies' Basketball League by defeating the C.G.E. 34 to 29 in the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium last night but they had to come from behind to turn the trick.

The Electricians took command of the game early in the first half and had much the better of the going until half time, leading at the end of the half by 18 to 12. Mary McPherson tossed in five field baskets and the C.G.E. team looked good to spill the beans and leave the three senior clubs tied. However the Transports got rolling after the rest and in the second half they outplayed the losers by a large margin. Isobel Bullock and Fran Bestard started tossing them in in big league style and the Transports finally went into the lead in the closing stages and won going away. They handled the ball much better than the losers in the second half and their shooting was superior.

Mary McPherson was top scorer for the night with 12 points, and Marg. Carson contributed nine to the C.G.E. total.

For the winners Isobel Bullock and Fran Bestard each had 10 points and Beryl Dobbin racked up eight.

The teams:

Transports 34—Beryl Dobbin 8, Isobel Crary, Fran Bestard 10, R. Fleming 4, Jean Castle 2, Isobel Bullock 10, Irene Stewart.

C.G.E. 29—Shirley Mortimer 2, J. Hickey, Dot Allen 6, J. Metcalfe, Mary McPherson 12, Mary Carson 9, B. Martell, J. Rahmel, Nona Whetung.

Referee, Howie Macdonald. Umpire, J. Cooper. Timer, A. Neiman.

The Junior Game

In the junior game the undefeated "Y" Grads ran wild to smother the Quakers 48 to 3. The Porridge factory team could not get going against the smart ball-handling and passing of the "Y" outfit and they went through the entire game without getting a basket from the field which looks like a record for the loop.

The Grads ran in 24 points in the first half with three successful foul shots by Helen White as the only comeback from the Quakers and the second period saw the winners add two dozen more points to their total while the losers were blanked entirely.

Shirley Curtis set the pace for the winners with ten baskets from the field for a total of 20 points and Betty Lou Braund tossed in seven baskets for 14 points.

The teams:

"Y" Grads 48—Betty Lou Braund 14, B. Stewart 6, M. Barrett 6, M. Braund 2, P. Martyn, Shirley Curtis 20, A. Metheral, H. Duncan.

Quakers 3—H. White 3, V. Beggs, J. Sutton, M. Duncan, M. Beggs, Gertie Masters, T. Spencer, M. Willshaw, M. Masters.

Referee, J. Cooper. Umpire, H. Smith, Timer, A. Neiman.

Rugby Union Meet Slated For Feb. 24

TORONTO, Jan. 6 (CP)—Secretary-Treasurer R. W. # New Sensation To Meet The Whipper

This new French-Canadian grappler, Larry Moquin, who meets Whipper Billy Watson here in the main bout of the Tunney wrestling show at the Brock Street Arena [illegible] Tuesday night is hailed by Yvon Robert, Montreal star, as one of the best newcomers to show his wares and a logical contender for the British Empire title. Recently out of the Army, the big, clever and speedy Moquin has been making it hot for all and sundry. He apparently knows all the answers and has strength and speed to back up his science so that the Whipper is likely to have his hands full. There will be two other good bouts on the card which will get wrestling away with a bang in Peterborough in 1945.
